Lest one good custom should corrupt the world.
Comfort thyself: what comfort is in me?
I have lived my life, and that which I have done
May He within Himself make pure! but thou,
If thou shouldst never see my face again,
Pray for my soul. More things are wrought by prayer
Than this world dreams of. Wherefore, let thy voice
Rise like a fountain for me night and day.
For what are men better than sheep or goats
That nourish a blind life within the brain,
If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer
Both for themselves and those who call them friend?
For so the whole round earth is every way
Bound by gold chains about the feet of God.
But now farewell. I am going a long way
With these thou seest—if indeed I go—
For all my mind is clouded with a doubt—
To the island-valley of Avilion;
Where falls not hail, or rain, or any snow,
Nor ever wind blows loudly; but it lies
Deep-meadowed, happy, fair with orchard-lawns
And bowery hollows crowned with summer sea,
Where I will heal me of my grievous wound."
So said he, and the barge with oar and sail
Moved from the brink, like some full-breasted swan
That, fluting a wild carol ere her death,
Ruffles her pure cold plume, and takes the flood
With swarthy webs. Long stood Sir Bedivere
Revolving many memories, till the hull
Looked one black dot against the verge of dawn,
And on the mere the wailing died away.

Alfred Tennyson [1809–1892]

THE LADY OF SHALOTT

PART I

On either side the river lie
Long fields of barley and of rye,
That clothe the wold and meet the sky;
And through the field the road runs by
To many-towered Camelot;
And up and down the people go,
Gazing where the lilies blow
Round an island there below,
The island of Shalott.

Willows whiten, aspens quiver,
Little breezes dusk and shiver
Through the wave that runs for ever
By the island in the river
Flowing down to Camelot.
Four gray walls, and four gray towers,
Overlook a space of flowers,
And the silent isle embowers
The Lady of Shalott.

By the margin, willow-veiled,
Slide the heavy barges trailed
By slow horses; and unhailed
The shallop flitteth silken-sailed
Skimming down to Camelot:
But who hath seen her wave her hand?
Or at the casement seen her stand?
Or is she known in all the land,
The Lady of Shalott?

Only reapers, reaping early
In among the bearded barley,
Hear a song that echoes cheerly
From the river winding clearly,
Down to towered Camelot:

And by the moon the reaper weary,
Piling sheaves in uplands airy,
Listening, whispers "'Tis the fairy Lady of Shalott."

PART II

There she weaves by night and day
A magic web with colors gay.
She has heard a whisper say,
A curse is on her if she stay
To look down to Camelot.
She knows not what the curse may be,
And so she weaveth steadily,
And little other care hath she,
The Lady of Shalott.

And moving through a mirror clear
That hangs before her all the year,
Shadows of the world appear.
There she sees the highway near
Winding down to Camelot:
There the river eddy whirls,
And there the surly village-churls,
And the red cloaks of market girls,
Pass onward from Shalott.

Sometimes a troop of damsels glad,
An abbot on an ambling pad,
Sometimes a curly shepherd-lad,
Or long-haired page in crimson clad,
Goes by to towered Camelot;
And sometimes through the mirror blue
The knights come riding two and two:
She hath no loyal knight and true,
The Lady of Shalott.

But in her web she still delights
To weave the mirror's magic sights,
For often through the silent nights
A funeral, with plumes and lights
And music, went to Camelot:

Or when the moon was overhead,
Came two young lovers lately wed;
"I am half sick of shadows," said
The Lady of Shalott.

PART III

A bow-shot from her bower-eaves,
He rode between the barley-sheaves,
The sun came dazzling through the leaves,
And flamed upon the brazen greaves
Of bold Sir Lancelot.
A red-cross knight for ever kneeled
To a lady in his shield,
That sparkled on the yellow field,
Beside remote Shalott.

The gemmy bridle glittered free,
Like to some branch of stars we see
Hung in the golden Galaxy.
The bridle bells rang merrily
As he rode down to Camelot;
And from his blazoned baldric slung
A mighty silver bugle hung,
And as he rode his armor rung,
Beside remote Shalott.

All in the blue unclouded weather
Thick-jeweled shone the saddle-leather,
The helmet and the helmet-feather
Burned like one burning flame together,
As he rode down to Camelot;
As often through the purple night,
Below the starry clusters bright,
Some bearded meteor, trailing light,
Moves over still Shalott.

His broad clear brow in sunlight glowed;
On burnished hooves his war-horse trode;
From underneath his helmet flowed
His coal-black curls as on he rode,
As he rode down to Camelot.

From the bank and from the river
He flashed into the crystal mirror,
"Tirra lirra," by the river
Sang Sir Lancelot.

She left the web, she left the loom,
She made three paces through the room,
She saw the water-lily bloom,
She saw the helmet and the plume,
She looked down to Camelot.
Out flew the web and floated wide;
The mirror cracked from side to side;
"The curse is come upon me!" cried
The Lady of Shalott.

PART IV

In the stormy east-wind straining,
The pale yellow woods were waning,
The broad stream in his banks complaining,
Heavily the low sky raining
Over towered Camelot;
Down she came and found a boat
Beneath a willow left afloat,
And round about the prow she wrote
The Lady of Shalott.

And down the river's dim expanse—
Like some bold seër in a trance,
Seeing all his own mischance—
With a glassy countenance
Did she look to Camelot.
And at the closing of the day
She loosed the chain, and down she lay;
The broad stream bore her far away,
The Lady of Shalott.

Lying, robed in snowy white
That loosely flew to left and right—
The leaves upon her falling light—
Through the noises of the night
She floated down to Camelot:

And as the boat-head wound along
The willowy hills and fields among,
They heard her singing her last song,
The Lady of Shalott.

Heard a carol, mournful, holy,
Chanted loudly, chanted lowly,
Till her blood was frozen slowly,
And her eyes were darkened wholly,
Turned to towered Camelot;
For ere she reached upon the tide
The first house by the water-side,
Singing in her song she died,
The Lady of Shalott.

Under tower and balcony,
By garden-wall and gallery,
A gleaming shape she floated by,
Dead-pale between the houses high,
Silent into Camelot.
Out upon the wharfs they came,
Knight and burgher, lord and dame,
And round the prow they read her name,
The Lady of Shalott.

Who is this? and what is here?
And in the lighted palace near
Died the sound of royal cheer;
And they crossed themselves for fear,
All the knights at Camelot:
But Lancelot mused a little space;
He said, "She has a lovely face;
God in His mercy lend her grace,
The Lady of Shalott."

Alfred Tennyson [1809–1892]

SONG

From "Paracelsus."

Over the sea our galleys went,
With cleaving prows in order brave
To a speeding wind and a bounding wave—
A gallant armament:

Each bark built out of a forest-tree
  Left leafy and rough as first it grew,
And nailed all over the gaping sides,
Within and without, with black bull-hides,
Seethed in fat and suppled in flame,
To bear the playful billows' game;
So, each good ship was rude to see,
Rude and bare to the outward view,
  But each upbore a stately tent
Where cedar pales in scented row
Kept out the flakes of the dancing brine,
And an awning drooped the mast below,
In fold on fold of the purple fine,
That neither noontide nor star-shine
Nor moonlight cold which maketh mad,
  Might pierce the regal tenement.
When the sun dawned, oh, gay and glad
We set the sail and plied the oar;
But when the night-wind blew like breath,
For joy of one day's voyage more,
We sang together on the wide sea,
Like men at peace on a peaceful shore;
Each sail was loosed to the wind so free,
Each helm made sure by the twilight star,
And in a sleep as calm as death,
We, the voyagers from afar,
  Lay stretched along, each weary crew
In a circle round its wondrous tent
Whence gleamed soft light and curled rich scent,
  And with light and perfume, music too:
So the stars wheeled round, and the darkness passed,
And at morn we started beside the mast,
And still each ship was sailing fast!

Now, one morn, land appeared—a speck
Dim trembling betwixt sea and sky:
"Avoid it," cried our pilot, "check
  The shout, restrain the eager eye!"
But the heaving sea was black behind
For many a night and many a day,

And land, though but a rock, drew nigh;
So we broke the cedar pales away,
Let the purple awning flap in the wind,
And a statue bright was on every deck!
We shouted, every man of us,
And steered right into the harbor thus,
With pomp and pæan glorious.

A hundred shapes of lucid stone!
All day we built its shrine for each,
A shrine of rock for every one,
Nor paused till in the westering sun
We sat together on the beach
To sing because our task was done;
When lo! what shouts and merry songs!
What laughter all the distance stirs!
A loaded raft with happy throngs
Of gentle islanders!
"Our isles are just at hand," they cried,
"Like cloudlets faint in even sleeping;
Our temple-gates are opened wide,
Our olive-groves thick shade are keeping
For these majestic forms"—they cried.
Oh, then we awoke with sudden start
From our deep dream, and knew, too late,
How bare the rock, how desolate,
Which had received our precious freight:
Yet we called out—"Depart!
Our gifts, once given, must here abide:
Our work is done; we have no heart
To mar our work,"—we cried.

Robert Browning [1812–1889]

THE SWIMMERS

We were eight fishers of the western sea,
Who sailed our craft beside a barren land,
Where harsh with pines the herdless mountains stand
And lonely beaches be.

There no man dwells, and ships go seldom past;
Yet sometimes there we lift our keels ashore,
To rest in safety 'mid the broken roar
And mist of surges vast.

One strand we know, remote from all the rest,
For north and south the cliffs are high and steep,
Whose naked leagues of rock repel the deep,
Insurgent from the west.

Tawny it lies, untrodden o'er by man,
Save when from storm we sought its narrow rift
To beach our craft and light a fire of drift
And sleep till day began.

Along its sands no flower nor bird has home.
Abrupt its breast, girt by no splendor save
The whorled and poising emerald of the wave
And scarves of rustling foam—

A place of solemn beauty; yet we swore,
By all the ocean stars' unhasting flight,
To seek no refuge for another night
Upon that haunted shore.

That year a sombre autumn held the earth.
At dawn we sailed from out our village bay;
We sang; a taut wind leapt along the day;
The sea-birds mocked our mirth.

Southwest we drave, like arrows to a mark;
Ere set of sun the coast was far to lee,
Where thundered over by the white-hooved sea
The reefs lie gaunt and dark.

But when we would have cast our hooks, the main
Grew wroth a-sudden, and our captain said:
"Seek we a shelter." And the west was red
God gave his winds the rein.

And eastward lay the sands of which I told;
Thither we fled, and on the narrow beach
Drew up our keels beyond the lessening reach
Of waters green and cold.

Then set the wounded sun. The wind blew clean
The skies. A wincing star came forth at last.
We heard like mighty tollings in the blast
The shock of waves unseen.

The wide-winged Eagle hovered overhead;
The Scorpion crept slowly in the south
To pits below the horizon; in its mouth
Lay a young moon that bled,

And from our fire the ravished flame swept back,
Like yellow hair of one who flies apace,
Compelled in lands barbarian to race
With lions on her track.

Then from the maelstroms of the surf arose
Wild laughter, mystical, and up the sands
Came Two that walked with intertwining hands
Amid those ocean snows.

Ghostly they gleamed before the lofty spray—
Fairer than gods and naked as the moon,
The foamy fillets at their ankles strewn
Less marble-white than they.

Laughing they stood, then to our beacon's flare
Drew nearer, as we watched in mad surprise
The scarlet-flashing lips, the sea-green eyes,
The red and tangled hair.

Then spoke the god (goddess and god they seemed),
In harp-like accents of a tongue unknown—
About his brows the dripping locks were blown;
Like wannest gold he gleamed.

Staring we sat; again the Vision spoke.
Beyond his form we saw the billows rave,—
The leap of those white leopards in the wave,—
The spume of seas that broke.

Yet sat we mute, for then a human word
Seemed folly's worst. And scorn began to trace
Its presence on the wild, imperious face;
Again the red lips stirred,

But spoke not. In an instant we were free
From that enchantment: fleet as deer they turned
And sudden amber leapt the sands they spurned;
We saw them meet the sea.

We heard the seven-chorded surf, unquelled,
Call in one thunder to the granite walls;
But over all, like broken clarion-calls,
Disdainful laughter welled.

Then silence, save for cloven wave and wind,
Our fire had faltered on its little dune.
Far out a fog-wall reared, and hid the moon.
The night lay vast and blind.

Silent, we waited the assuring morn,
Which rose on angered waters. But we set
Our hooded prows to sea, and, tempest-wet,
Beat up the coast forlorn.

And no man scorned our tale, for well they knew
Had mystery befallen: in our eyes
Were alien terrors and unknown surmise.
Men saw the tale was true.

And no man seeks a refuge on that shore,
Though tempests gather in impelling skies;
Unseen, unsolved, unhazarded it lies,
Forsaken evermore.

For on those sands immaculate and lone
Perchance They list the sea's immeasured lyre,
When sunset casts an evanescent fire
Through billows thunder-sown.

George Sterling [1869–

THE BLESSED DAMOZEL

The blessed damozel leaned out
From the gold bar of Heaven;
Her eyes were deeper than the depth
Of waters stilled at even;
She had three lilies in her hand,
And the stars in her hair were seven.

Her robe, ungirt from clasp to hem,
No wrought flowers did adorn,
But a white rose of Mary's gift,
For service sweetly worn;
Her hair that lay along her back
Was yellow like ripe corn.

Herseemed she scarce had been a day
One of God's choristers;
The wonder was not yet quite gone
From that still look of hers;
Albeit, to them she left, her day
Had counted as ten years.

(To one, it is ten years of years.
. . . Yet now, and in this place,
Surely she leaned o'er me—her hair
Fell all about my face. . . .
Nothing: the autumn fall of leaves.
The whole year sets apace.)

It was the rampart of God's house
That she was standing on;
By God built over the sheer depth
The which is Space begun;
So high, that looking downward thence
She scarce could see the sun.

It lies in Heaven, across the flood
Of ether, as a bridge.
Beneath, the tides of day and night
With flame and darkness ridge
The void, as low as where this earth
Spins like a fretful midge.

Around her, lovers, newly met
'Mid deathless love's acclaims,
Spoke evermore among themselves
Their heart-remembered names;
And the souls mounting up to God
Went by her like thin flames.

And still she bowed herself and stooped
Out of the circling charm;
Until her bosom must have made
The bar she leaned on warm,
And the lilies lay as if asleep
Along her bended arm.

From the fixed place of Heaven she saw
Time like a pulse shake fierce
Through all the worlds. Her gaze still strove
Within the gulf to pierce
Its path; and now she spoke as when
The stars sang in their spheres.

The sun was gone now; the curled moon
Was like a little feather
Fluttering far down the gulf; and now
She spoke through the still weather.
Her voice was like the voice the stars
Had when they sang together.

(Ah sweet! Even now, in that bird's song,
Strove not her accents there,
Fain to be hearkened? When those bells
Possessed the mid-day air,
Strove not her steps to reach my side
Down all the echoing stair?)

"I wish that he were come to me,
For he will come," she said.
"Have not I prayed in Heaven?—on earth,
Lord, Lord, has he not prayed?
Are not two prayers a perfect strength?
And shall I feel afraid?

"When round his head the aureole clings,
And he is clothed in white,
I'll take his hand and go with him
To the deep wells of light;
As unto a stream we will step down,
And bathe there in God's sight.

"We two will stand beside that shrine,
Occult, withheld, untrod,
Whose lamps are stirred continually
With prayer sent up to God;
And see our old prayers, granted, melt
Each like a little cloud.

"We two will lie i' the shadow of
That living mystic tree
Within whose secret growth the Dove
Is sometimes felt to be,
While every leaf that His plumes touch
Saith His Name audibly.

"And I myself will teach to him,
I myself, lying so,
The songs I sing here; which his voice
Shall pause in, hushed and slow,
And find some knowledge at each pause,
Or some new thing to know."

(Alas! we two, we two, thou say'st!
Yea, one wast thou with me
That once of old. But shall God lift
To endless unity
The soul whose likeness with thy soul
Was but its love for thee?)

"We two," she said, "will seek the groves
  Where the lady Mary is,
With her five handmaidens, whose names
  Are five sweet symphonies,
Cecily, Gertrude, Magdalen,
  Margaret and Rosalys.

"Circlewise sit they, with bound locks
  And foreheads garlanded;
Into the fine cloth white like flame
  Weaving the golden thread,
To fashion the birth-robes for them
  Who are just born, being dead.

"He shall fear, haply, and be dumb:
  Then will I lay my cheek
To his, and tell about our love,
  Not once abashed or weak:
And the dear Mother will approve
  My pride, and let me speak.

"Herself shall bring us, hand in hand,
  To Him round whom all souls
Kneel, the clear-ranged unnumbered heads
  Bowed with their aureoles:
And angels meeting us shall sing
  To their citherns and citoles.

"There will I ask of Christ the Lord
  Thus much for him and me:—
Only to live as once on earth
  With Love, only to be,
As then awhile, for ever now
  Together, I and he."

She gazed and listened and then said,
  Less sad of speech than mild,—
"All this is when he comes." She ceased.
  The light thrilled towards her, filled
With angels in strong level flight.
  Her eyes prayed, and she smiled.

(I saw her smile.) But soon their path
Was vague in distant spheres:
And then she cast her arms along
The golden barriers,
And laid her face between her hands,
And wept. (I heard her tears.)

Dante Gabriel Rossetti [1828–1882]

A SONG OF ANGIOLA IN HEAVEN

Flowers,—that have died upon my Sweet,
Lulled by the rhythmic dancing beat
Of her young bosom under you,—
Now will I show you such a thing
As never, through thick buds of Spring,
Betwixt the daylight and the dew,
The Bird whose being no man knows—
The voice that waketh all night through,
Tells to the Rose.

For lo,—a garden-place I found,
Well filled of leaves, and stilled of sound,
Well flowered, with red fruit marvelous;
And 'twixt the shining trunks would flit
Tall knights and silken maids, or sit
With faces bent and amorous;—
There, in the heart thereof, and crowned
With woodbine and amaracus,
My Love I found.

Alone she walked,—ah, well I wis,
My heart leapt up for joy of this!—
Then when I called to her her name,—
The name, that like a pleasant thing
Men's lips remember, murmuring,—
At once across the sward she came,—
Full fain she seemed, my own dear maid,
And askèd ever as she came,
"Where hast thou stayed?"

"Where hast thou stayed?" she asked, as though
The long years were an hour ago;
  But I spake not, nor answered,
For, looking in her eyes, I saw
A light not lit of mortal law;
  And in her clear cheek's changeless red,
And sweet, unshaken speaking found
  That in this place the Hours were dead,
    And Time was bound.

"This is well done," she said, "in thee,
O Love, that thou art come to me,
  To this green garden glorious;
Now truly shall our life be sped
In joyance and all goodlihed,
  For here all things are fair to us,
And none with burden is oppressed,
  And none is poor or piteous,—
    For here is Rest.

"No formless Future blurs the sky;
Men mourn not here, with dull dead eye,
  By shrouded shapes of Yesterday;
Betwixt the Coming and the Past
The flawless life hangs fixen fast
  In one unwearying To-Day,
That darkens not; for Sin is shriven,
  Death from the doors is thrust away,
    And here is Heaven."

At "Heaven" she ceased;—and lifted up
Her fair head like a flower-cup,
  With rounded mouth, and eyes aglow;
Then set I lips to hers, and felt,—
Ah, God,—the hard pain fade and melt,
  And past things change to painted show;
The song of quiring birds outbroke;
  The lit leaves laughed—sky shook, and lo,
    I swooned,—and woke.

And now, O Flowers,
  —Ye that indeed are dead,—

Now for all waiting hours,
Well am I comforted;
For of a surety, now, I see,
That, without dim distress
Of tears, or weariness,
My Lady, verily, awaiteth me;
So that until with Her I be,
For my dear Lady's sake
I am right fain to make
Out from my pain a pillow, and to take
Grief for a golden garment unto me;
Knowing that I, at last, shall stand
In that green garden-land,
And, in the holding of my dear Love's hand,
Forget the grieving and the misery.

Austin Dobson [1840–

THE HOUND OF HEAVEN

I FLED Him, down the nights and down the days;
I fled Him, down the arches of the years;
I fled Him, down the labyrinthine ways
Of my own mind; and in the midst of tears
I hid from Him, and under running laughter.
Up vistaed hopes I sped;
And shot, precipitated
Adown Titanic glooms of chasmed fears,
From those strong Feet that followed, followed after.
But with unhurrying chase,
And unperturbèd pace,
Deliberate speed, majestic instancy,
They beat—and a Voice beat
More instant than the Feet—
"All things betray thee, who betrayest Me."

I pleaded, outlaw-wise,
By many a hearted casement, curtained red,
Trellised with intertwining charities;
(For, though I knew His love Who followèd,
Yet was I sore adread

Lest, having Him, I must have naught beside);
But, if one little casement parted wide,
The gust of His approach would clash it to.
Fear wist not to evade, as Love wist to pursue.
Across the margent of the world I fled,
And troubled the gold gateways of the stars,
Smiting for shelter on their clangèd bars;
Fretted to dulcet jars
And silvern chatter the pale ports o' the moon.
I said to dawn, Be sudden; to eve, Be soon;
With thy young skiey blossoms heap me over
From this tremendous Lover!
Float thy vague veil about me, lest He see!
I tempted all His servitors, but to find
My own betrayal in their constancy,
In faith to Him their fickleness to me,
Their traitorous trueness, and their loyal deceit.
To all swift things for swiftness did I sue;
Clung to the whistling mane of every wind.
But whether they swept, smoothly fleet,
The long savannahs of the blue;
Or whether, Thunder-driven,
They clanged his chariot 'thwart a heaven
Plashy with flying lightnings round the spurn o' their feet:—
Fear wist not to evade, as Love wist to pursue.
Still with unhurrying chase,
And unperturbèd pace,
Deliberate speed, majestic instancy,
Came on the following Feet,
And a Voice above their beat—
"Naught shelters thee, who wilt not shelter Me."

I sought no more that after which I strayed
In face of man or maid;
But still within the little children's eyes
Seems something, something that replies;
They at least are for me, surely for me!
I turned me to them very wistfully;
But, just as their young eyes grew sudden fair
With dawning answers there,

Their angel plucked them from me by the hair.
"Come then, ye other children, Nature's—share
With me" (said I) "your delicate fellowship;
Let me greet you lip to lip,
Let me twine you with caresses,
Wantoning
With our Lady-Mother's vagrant tresses,
Banqueting
With her in her wind-walled palace,
Underneath her azure daïs,
Quaffing, as your taintless way is,
From a chalice
Lucent-weeping out of the dayspring."
So it was done:
I in their delicate fellowship was one—
Drew the bolt of Nature's secrecies.
I knew all the swift importings
On the wilful face of skies,
I knew how the clouds arise
Spumèd of the wild sea-snortings;
All that's born or dies
Rose and drooped with—made them shapers
Of mine own moods, or wailful or divine—
With them joyed and was bereaven.
I was heavy with the even,
When she lit her glimmering tapers
Round the day's dead sanctities.
I laughed in the morning's eyes.
I triumphed and I saddened with all weather,
Heaven and I wept together,
And its sweet tears were salt with mortal mine;
Against the red throb of its sunset-heart
I laid my own to beat,
And share commingling heat;
But not by that, by that, was eased my human smart.
In vain my tears were wet on Heaven's gray cheek.
For ah! we know not what each other says,
These things and I; in sound I speak—
Their sound is but their stir, they speak by silences.
Nature, poor stepdame, cannot slake my drouth;

Let her, if she would owe me,
Drop yon blue bosom-veil of sky, and show me
The breasts o' her tenderness:
Never did any milk of hers once bless
My thirsting mouth.
Nigh and dry draws the chase,
With unperturbèd pace,
Deliberate speed, majestic instancy;
And past those noisèd Feet
A voice comes yet more fleet—
"Lo! naught contents thee, who content'st not Me."

Naked I wait Thy love's uplifted stroke!
My harness piece by piece Thou hast hewn from me,
And smitten me to my knee;
I am defenseless utterly.
I slept, methinks, and woke,
And, slowly gazing, find me stripped in sleep.
In the rash lustihood of my young powers,
I shook the pillaring hours
And pulled my life upon me; grimed with smears
I stand amid the dust o' the mounded years—
My mangled youth lies dead beneath the heap.
My days have crackled and gone up in smoke,
Have puffed and burst as sun-starts on a stream.
Yea, faileth now even dream
The dreamer, and the lute the lutanist;
Even the linked fantasies, in whose blossomy twist
I swung the earth a trinket at my wrist,
Are yielding; cords of all too weak account
For earth with heavy griefs so overplussed.
Ah! is Thy love indeed
A weed, albeit an amaranthine weed,
Suffering no flowers except its own to mount?
Ah! must—
Designer infinite!—
Ah! must Thou char the wood ere Thou canst limn with it?
My freshness spent its wavering shower i' the dust:
And now my heart is as a broken fount,

Wherein tear-drippings stagnate, spilt down ever
From the dank thoughts that shiver
Upon the sighful branches of my mind.
Such is; what is to be?
The pulp so bitter, how shall taste the rind?
I dimly guess what Time in mists confounds:
Yet ever and anon a trumpet sounds
From the hid battlements of Eternity;
Those shaken mists a space unsettle, then
Round the half-glimpsèd turrets slowly wash again.
But not ere him who summoneth
I first have seen, enwound
With glooming robes purpureal, cypress-crowned;
His name I know, and what his trumpet saith.
Whether man's heart or life it be which yields
Thee harvest, must Thy harvest fields
Be dunged with rotten death?

Now of that long pursuit
Comes on at hand the bruit;
That Voice is round me like a bursting sea:
"And is thy earth so marred,
Shattered in shard on shard?
Lo, all things fly thee, for thou flyest Me!
Strange, piteous, futile thing,
Wherefore should any set thee love apart?
Seeing none but I makes much of naught" (He said),
"And human love needs human meriting:
How hast thou merited—
Of all man's clotted clay the dingiest clot?
Alack, thou knowest not
How little worthy of any love thou art!
Whom wilt thou find to love ignoble thee
Save Me, save only Me?
All which I took from thee, I did but take,
Not for thy harms,
But just that thou might'st seek it in My arms.
All which thy child's mistake
Fancies as lost, I have stored for thee at home:
Rise, clasp My hand, and come!"

Halts by me that footfall:
Is my gloom, after all,
Shade of His hand, outstretched caressingly?
"Ah, fondest, blindest, weakest,
I am He Whom thou seekest!
Thou dravest love from thee, who dravest Me."

Francis Thompson [1859?–1907]

WILD EDEN

THERE is a garden enclosed
In the high places,
But never hath love reposed
In its bowery spaces;
And the cedars there like shadows
O'er the moonlit champaign stand
Till light like an angel's hand
Touches Wild Eden.

Who told me the name of the garden
That lieth remote, apart,
I know not, nor whence was the music
That sang it into my heart;
But just as the loud robin tosses
His notes from the elm tops high,
As the violets come in the mosses
When south winds wake and sigh,
So on my lips I found it,
This name that is made my cry.

There, under the stars and the dawns
Of the virginal valleys,
White lilies flood the low lawns
And the rose lights the alleys;
But never are heard there the voices
That sweeten on lovers' lips,
And the wild bee never sips
Sweets of Wild Eden.

But who hath shown me the vision
  Of the roses and lilies in ranks
I would that I knew, that forever
  To him I might render thanks;
For a maiden grows there in her blossom,
  In the place of her maidenhood,
Nor knows how her virgin bosom
  Is stored with the giving of good,
For the truth is hidden from her
  That of love is understood.

No bird with his mate there hovers,
  Nor beside her has trilled or sung;
No bird in the dewy covers
  Has built a nest for his young;
And over the dark-leaved mountains
  The voice in the laurel sleeps;
  And the moon broods on the deeps
    Shut in Wild Eden.

O Love, if thou in thy hiding
  Art he who above me stands,
If thou givest wings to my spirit,
  If thou art my heart and my hands,—
Through the morn, through the noon, through the even
  That burns with thy planet of light,
Through the moonlit space of heaven,
  Guide thou my flight
Till, star-like on the dark garden,
  I fall in the night!

Fly, song of my bosom, unto it
  Wherever the earth breathes spring;
Though a thousand years were to rue it,
  Such a heart beats under thy wing,
Thou shalt dive, thou shalt soar, thou shalt find it,
  And forever my life be blest,
  Such a heart beats in my breast,—
    Fly to Wild Eden!

George Edward Woodberry [1855–

THE AZTEC CITY

THERE is a clouded city, gone to rest
Beyond the crest
Where cordilleras mar the mystic west.

There suns unheeded rise and re-arise;
And in the skies
The harvest moon unnoticed lives and dies.

And yet this clouded city has no night—
Volcanic light
Compels eternal noontide, redly bright.

A thousand wells, whence cooling waters came,
No more the same,
Now send aloft a thousand jets of flame.

This clouded city is enchanting fair,
For rich and rare
From sculptured frieze the gilded griffins stare.

With level look—with loving, hopeful face,
Fixed upon space,
Stand caryatides of unknown race,

And colonnades of dark green serpentine,
Of strange design,
Carved on whose shafts queer alphabets combine.

And there are lofty temples, rich and great,
And at the gate,
Carved in obsidian, the lions wait.

And from triumphant arches, looking down
Upon the town,
In porphyry, sad, unknown statesmen frown.

And there are palace homes, and stately walls,
And open halls
Where fountains are, with voiceless waterfalls.

The ruddy fire incessantly illumes
Temples and tombs,
And in its blaze the stone-wrought cactus blooms.

From clouds congealed the mercury distils,
And, forming rills,
Adown the streets in double streamlet trills.

As rains from clouds, that summer skies eclipse,
From turret-tips
And spire and porch the mobile metal drips.

No one that visited this fiery hive
Ever alive
Came out but me—I, I alone, survive.

Eugene Fitch Ware [1841–1911]

BEFORE A STATUE OF ACHILLES

Behold Pelides with his yellow hair,
Proud child of Thetis, hero loved of Jove;
Above the frowning of his brows it wove
A crown of gold, well combed, with Spartan care.
Who might have seen him, sullen, great, and fair,
As with the wrongful world he proudly strove,
And by high deeds his wilder passion shrove,
Mastering love, resentment, and despair.
He knew his end, and Phoebus' arrow sure
He braved for fame immortal and a friend,
Despising life; and we, who know our end,
Know that in our decay he shall endure
And all our children's hearts to grief inure,
With whose first bitter battles his shall blend.

Who brought thee forth, immortal vision, who
In Pythia or in Tempe brought thee forth?
Out of the sunlight and the sapful earth
What god the simples of thy spirit drew?
A goddess rose from the green waves, and threw
Her arms about a king, to give thee birth;
A centaur, patron of thy boyish mirth,
Over the meadows in thy footsteps flew.
Now Thessaly forgets thee, and the deep
Thy keeled bark furrowed answers not thy prayer;
But far away new generations keep
Thy laurels fresh, where branching Isis hems

The lawns of Oxford round about, or where Enchanted Eton sits by pleasant Thames.
I gaze on thee as Phidias of old
Or Polyclitus gazed, when first he saw
These hard and shining limbs, without a flaw,
And cast his wonder in heroic mould.
Unhappy me who only may behold,
Nor make immutable and fix in awe
A fair immortal form no worm shall gnaw,
A tempered mind whose faith was never told!
The godlike mien, the lion's lock and eye,
The well-knit sinew, utter a brave heart
Better than many words that part by part
Spell in strange symbols what serene and whole
In nature lives, nor can in marble die.
The perfect body is itself the soul.

George Santayana [1863–

"I FLUNG ME ROUND HIM"

From "The Water-nymph and the Boy"

I FLUNG me round him,
I drew him under;
I clung, I drowned him,
My own white wonder!

Father and mother,
Weeping and wild,
Came to the forest,
Calling the child,
Came from the palace,
Down to the pool,
Calling my darling,
My beautiful!
Under the water,
Cold and so pale!
Could it be love made
Beauty to fail?

Ah me! for mortals:
In a few moons,

If I had left him,
After some Junes
He would have faded,
Faded away,
He, the young monarch, whom
All would obey,
Fairer than day;
Alien to springtime,
Joyless and gray,
He would have faded,
Faded away,
Moving a mockery,
Scorned of the day!
Now I have taken him
All in his prime,
Saved from slow poisoning
Pitiless Time,
Filled with his happiness,
One with the prime,
Saved from the cruel
Dishonor of Time.
Laid him, my beautiful,
Laid him to rest,
Loving, adorable,
Softly to rest,
Here in my crystalline,
Here in my breast! Roden Noel [1834–1894]

THE QUEEN'S SONG

Had I the power
To Midas given of old
To touch a flower
And leave the petals gold,
I then might touch thy face,
Delightful boy,
And leave a metal grace,
A graven joy.

Thus would I slay,—
Ah, desperate device!

The vital day
That trembles in thine eyes,
And let the red lips close
Which sang so well,
And drive away the rose
To leave a shell.

Then I myself,
Rising austere and dumb,
On the high shelf
Of my half-lighted room
Would place the shining bust
And wait alone,
Until I was but dust,
Buried unknown.

Thus in my love
For nations yet unborn,
I would remove
From our two lives the morn,
And muse on loveliness
In mine arm-chair,
Content should Time confess
How sweet you were.

James Elroy Flecker [1884–1915]

BALKIS

From "Emblems of Love"

Balkis was in her marble town,
And shadow over the world came down.
Whiteness of walls, towers and piers,
That all day dazzled eyes to tears,
Turned from being white-golden flame,
And like the deep-sea blue became.
Balkis into her garden went;
Her spirit was in discontent
Like a torch in restless air.
Joylessly she wandered there,
And saw her city's azure white
Lying under the great night,
Beautiful as the memory
Of a worshipping world would be

In the mind of a god, in the hour
When he must kill his outward power;
And, coming to a pool where trees
Grew in double greeneries,
Saw herself, as she went by
The water, walking beautifully,
And saw the stars shine in the glance
Of her eyes, and her own fair countenance
Passing, pale and wonderful,
Across the night that filled the pool.
And cruel was the grief that played
With the queen's spirit; and she said:
"What do I hear, reigning alone?
For to be unloved is to be alone.
There is no man in all my land
Dare my longing understand;
The whole folk like a peasant bows
Lest its look should meet my brows
And be harmed by this beauty of mine.
I burn their brains as I were sign
Of God's beautiful anger sent
To master them with punishment
Of beauty that must pour distress
On hearts grown dark with ugliness.
But it is I am the punished one.
Is there no man, is there none,
In whom my beauty will but move
The lust of a delighted love;
In whom some spirit of God so thrives
That we may wed our lonely lives?
Is there no man, is there none?"
She said, "I will go to Solomon."

Lascelles Abercrombie [1884–

THE GATES OF DREAMLAND

It's a lonely road through bogland to the lake at Carrowmore,
And a sleeper there lies dreaming where the water laps the shore;

Though the moth-wings of the twilight in their purples are unfurled,
Yet his sleep is filled with music by the masters of the world.

There's a hand is white as silver that is fondling with his hair:
There are glimmering feet of sunshine that are dancing by him there:
And half-open lips of faery that were dyed a faery red
In their revels where the Hazel Tree its holy clusters shed.

"Come away," the red lips whisper, "all the world is weary now;
'Tis the twilight of the ages and it's time to quit the plough.
Oh, the very sunlight's weary ere it lightens up the dew,
And its gold is changed and faded before it falls to you.

"Though your colleen's heart be tender, a tenderer heart is near.
What's the starlight in her glances when the stars are shining clear?
Who would kiss the fading shadow when the flower-face glows above?
'Tis the Beauty of all Beauty that is calling for your love."

Oh, the great gates of the mountain have opened once again,
And the sound of song and dancing falls upon the ears of men,
And the Land of Youth lies gleaming, flushed with rainbow light and mirth,
And the old enchantment lingers in the honey-heart of earth.

A. E. (George William Russell) [1867–

EDITH

Edith, the silent stars are coldly gleaming,
The night wind moans, the leafless trees are still.
Edith, there is a life beyond this seeming,
So sleeps the ice-clad lake beneath thy hill.

So silent beats the pulse of thy pure heart,
  So shines the thought of thy unquestioned eyes.
O life! why wert thou helpless in thy art?
  O loveliness! why seem'st thou but surprise?

Edith, the streamlets laugh to leap again;
  There is a spring to which life's pulses fly;
And hopes that are not all the sport of pain,
  Like lustres in the veil of that gray eye.

They say the thankless stars have answering vision,
  That courage sings from out the frost-bound ways;
Edith, I grant that olden time's decision—
  Thy beauty paints with gold the icy rays.

As in the summer's heat her promise lies,
  As in the autumn's seed his vintage hides,
Thus might I shape my moral from those eyes,
  Glass of thy soul, where innocence abides.

Edith, thy nature breathes of answered praying;
  If thou dost live, then not my grief is vain;
Beyond the nerves of woe, beyond delaying,
  Thy sweetness stills to rest the winter's pain.

William Ellery Channing [1780–1842]

TENANTS

Suddenly, out of dark and leafy ways,
We came upon the little house asleep
In cold blind stillness, shadowless and deep,
In the white magic of the full moon-blaze:
Strangers without the gate, we stood agaze,
Fearful to break that quiet, and to creep
Into the house that had been ours to keep
Through a long year of happy nights and days.
So unfamiliar in the white moon-gleam,
So old and ghostly like a house of dream
It seemed, that over us there stole the dread
That even as we watched it, side by side,
The ghosts of lovers, who had lived and died
Within its walls, were sleeping in our bed.

Wilfrid Wilson Gibson [1878–

THE LISTENERS

"Is there anybody there?" said the Traveller,
  Knocking on the moonlit door;
And his horse in the silence champed the grasses
  Of the forest's ferny floor:
And a bird flew up out of the turret,
  Above the Traveller's head:
And he smote upon the door again a second time;
  "Is there anybody there?" he said.
But no one descended to the Traveller;
  No head from the leaf-fringed sill
Leaned over and looked into his gray eyes,
  Where he stood perplexed and still.
But only a host of phantom listeners
  That dwelt in the lone house then
Stood listening in the quiet of the moonlight
  To that voice from the world of men:
Stood thronging the faint moonbeams on the dark stair,
  That goes down to the empty hall,
Hearkening in an air stirred and shaken
  By the lonely Traveller's call.
And he felt in his heart their strangeness,
  Their stillness answering his cry,
While his horse moved, cropping the dark turf,
  'Neath the starred and leafy sky;
For he suddenly smote on the door, even
  Louder, and lifted his head:—
"Tell them I came, and no one answered,
  That I kept my word," he said.
Never the least stir made the listeners,
  Though every word he spake
Fell echoing through the shadowiness of the still house
  From the one man left awake:
Ay, they heard his foot upon the stirrup,
  And the sound of iron on stone,
And how the silence surged softly backward,
  When the plunging hoofs were gone.

Walter de la Mare [1873–

"CARE-CHARMER SLEEP"

SLEEP

From "The Woman-Hater"

Come, Sleep, and with thy sweet deceiving
Lock me in delight awhile;
Let some pleasing dreams beguile
All my fancies; that from thence
I may feel an influence
All my powers of care bereaving!

Though but a shadow, but a sliding,
Let me know some little joy!
We that suffer long annoy
Are contented with a thought
Through an idle fancy wrought:
O let my joys have some abiding!

John Fletcher [1579–1625]

"SLEEP, SILENCE' CHILD"

Sleep, Silence' child, sweet father of soft rest,
Prince, whose approach peace to all mortals brings,
Indifferent host to shepherds and to kings,
Sole comforter of minds with grief oppressed;
Lo, by thy charming rod all breathing things
Lie slumbering, with forgetfulness possessed,
And yet o'er me to spread thy drowsy wings
Thou sparest, alas! who cannot be thy guest.
Since I am thine, O come, but with that face
To inward light which thou art wont to show;
With feignèd solace ease a true-felt woe;
Or if, deaf god, thou do deny that grace,

Come as thou wilt, and what thou wilt bequeath:
I long to kiss the image of my death.

William Drummond [1585–1649]

TO SLEEP

A FLOCK of sheep that leisurely pass by,
One after one; the sound of rain, and bees
Murmuring; the fall of rivers, winds and seas,
Smooth fields, white sheets of water, and pure sky;
I've thought of all by turns, and yet do lie
Sleepless; and soon the small birds' melodies
Must hear, first uttered from my orchard trees;
And the first cuckoo's melancholy cry.
Even thus last night, and two nights more, I lay,
And could not win thee, Sleep! by any stealth:
So do not let me wear to-night away:
Without Thee what is all the morning's wealth?
Come, blessed barrier between day and day,
Dear mother of fresh thoughts and joyous health!

William Wordsworth [1770–1850]

VIXI

I HAVE lived and I have loved;
I have waked and I have slept;
I have sung and I have danced;
I have smiled and I have wept;
I have won and wasted treasure;
I have had my fill of pleasure;
And all these things were weariness,
And some of them were dreariness.
And all these things—but two things
Were emptiness and pain:
And Love—it was the best of them;
And Sleep—worth all the rest of them.

Unknown

SLEEP

O HAPPY Sleep! thou bear'st upon thy breast
The blood-red poppy of enchanting rest,
Draw near me through the stillness of this place
And let thy low breath move across my face,
As faint wind moves above a poplar's crest.

The broad seas darken slowly in the west;
The wheeling sea-birds call from nest to nest;
Draw near and touch me, leaning out of space,
O happy Sleep!

There is no sorrow hidden or confessed,
There is no passion uttered or suppressed,
Thou canst not for a little while efface;
Enfold me in thy mystical embrace,
Thou sovereign gift of God most sweet, most blest,
O happy Sleep!

Ada Louise Martin [18 –

THE QUIET NIGHTS

UNMINDFUL of my low desert
Who turn e'en blessings to my hurt,
God sends me graces o'er and o'er,
More than the sands on the seashore.

Among the blessings He doth give
My starveling soul that she may live,
I praise Him for my nights He kept
And all the quiet sleep I slept.

Since I was young, who now grow old,
For all those nights of heat, of cold,
I slept the sweet hours through, nor heard
Even the call of the first bird.

Nights when the darkness covered me
In a great peace like a great sea,
With waves of sweetness, who should lie
Wakeful for mine iniquity.

Cool nights of fragrance dripping sweet
After the sultriness of heat,
Amid gray meadows drenched with dew;
Sweet was the sleep my eyelids knew.

Surely some angel kept my bed
After I had knelt down and prayed;
Like a young child I slept until
The day stood at the window-sill.

I thank Him for the nights of stars,
Bright Saturn, with his rings, and Mars.
And overhead the Milky Way;
Nights when the Summer lightnings play.

How many a Milky Way I trod,
And through the mercy of my God
Drank milk and honey, wrapped in ease
Of darkness and sweet heaviness!

I thank Him for the wakening bird
And the struck hours I have not heard,
And for the morns so cool, so kind,
That found me fresh in heart and mind.

Among the gifts of His mercy,
More than the leaves upon the tree,
The sands upon the shore, I keep
And name my lovely nights of sleep.

Katharine Tynan [1861–

THE NIGHT

Most Holy Night, that still dost keep
The keys of all the doors of sleep,
To me when my tired eyelids close
Give thou repose.

And let the far lament of them
That chaunt the dead day's requiem
Make in my ears, who wakeful lie,
Soft lullaby.

Let them that guard the hornèd Moon
By my bedside their memories croon.
So shall I have new dreams and blest
In my brief rest.

Fold thy great wings about my face,
Hide day-dawn from my resting-place,
And cheat me with thy false delight,
Most Holy Night.

Hilaire Belloc [1870–

O SLEEP

Take me upon thy breast,
O river of rest.
Draw me down to thy side,
Slow-moving tide.
Carry out beyond reach
Of song or of speech
This body and soul forespent.
To thy still continent,
Where silence hath his home,
Where I would come,
Bear me now in thy deep
Bosom, Sleep,
O Sleep.

Grace Fallow Norton [18

THE WHARF OF DREAMS

Strange wares are handled on the wharves of sleep:
Shadows of shadows pass, and many a light
Flashes a signal fire across the night;
Barges depart whose voiceless steersmen keep

Their way without a star upon the deep;
And from lost ships, homing with ghostly crews,
Come cries of incommunicable news,
While cargoes pile the piers, a moon-white heap—
Budgets of dream-dust, merchandise of song,
Wreckage of hope and packs of ancient wrong,
Nepenthes gathered from a secret strand,
Fardels of heartache, burdens of old sins,
Luggage sent down from dim ancestral inns,
And bales of fantasy from No-Man's Land.

Edwin Markham [1852–

HOME AND FATHERLAND

HAME, HAME, HAME

HAME, hame, hame, O hame fain wad I be—
O hame, hame, hame, to my ain countree!

When the flower is i' the bud and the leaf is on the tree,
The lark shall sing me hame in my ain countree;
Hame, hame, hame, O hame fain wad I be—
O hame, hame, hame, to my ain countree!

The green leaf o' loyaltie's beginning for to fa',
The bonnie White Rose it is withering an' a';
But I'll water 't wi' the blude of usurping tyrannie,
An' green it will graw in my ain countree.

O, there's nocht now frae ruin my country can save,
But the keys o' kind heaven, to open the grave;
That a' the noble martyrs wha died for loyaltie
May rise again an' fight for their ain countree.

The great now are gane, a' wha ventured to save,
The new grass is springing on the tap o' their grave;
But the sun through the mirk blinks blithe in my e'e,
"I'll shine on ye yet in your ain countree."

Hame, hame, hame, O hame fain wad I be—
O hame, hame, hame, to my ain countree!

Allan Cunningham [1784–1842]

HOME, SWEET HOME!

From "Clari, the Maid of Milan"

'MID pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home;
A charm from the sky seems to hallow us there,
Which, seek through the world, is ne'er met with elsewhere.
Home, Home, sweet, sweet Home!
There's no place like Home! there's no place like Home!

An exile from home, splendor dazzles in vain;
O, give me my lowly thatched cottage again!
The birds singing gayly, that came at my call,—
Give me them,—and the peace of mind, dearer than all!
Home, Home, sweet, sweet Home!
There's no place like Home! there's no place like Home!

How sweet 'tis to sit 'neath a fond father's smile,
And the cares of a mother to soothe and beguile!
Let others delight mid new pleasures to roam,
But give me, oh, give me, the pleasures of home!
Home! Home! sweet, sweet Home!
There's no place like Home! there's no place like Home!

To thee I'll return, overburdened with care;
The heart's dearest solace will smile on me there;
No more from that cottage again will I roam;
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home.
Home! Home! sweet, sweet Home!
There's no place like Home! there's no place like Home!

John Howard Payne [1792–1852]

MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME

The sun shines bright in the old Kentucky home;
'Tis summer, the darkeys are gay;
The corn-top's ripe, and the meadow's in the bloom,
While the birds make music all the day.
The young folks roll on the little cabin floor,
All merry, all happy and bright;
By-'n'-by hard times comes a-knocking at the door:—
Then my old Kentucky home, good-night!

Weep no more, my lady,
O, weep no more to-day!
We will sing one song for the old Kentucky home,
For the old Kentucky home, far away.

They hunt no more for the possum and the coon,
On the meadow, the hill, and the shore;
They sing no more by the glimmer of the moon,
On the bench by the old cabin door.

The day goes by like a shadow o'er the heart,
With sorrow, where all was delight;
The time has come when the darkeys have to part:—
Then my old Kentucky home, good-night!

The head must bow, and the back will have to bend,
Wherever the darkey may go;
A few more days and the troubles all will end,
In the field where the sugar-canes grow.
A few more days for to tote the weary load,—
No matter, 'twill never be light;
A few more days till we totter on the road:—
Then my old Kentucky home, good-night!

Weep no more, my lady,
O, weep no more to-day!
We will sing one song for the old Kentucky home,
For the old Kentucky home, far away.

Stephen Collins Foster [1826–1864]

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME

WAY down upon de Suwanee Ribber,
Far, far away,
Dere's wha my heart is turning ebber,
Dere's wha de old folks stay.
All up and down de whole creation
Sadly I roam,
Still longing for de old plantation,
And for de old folks at home.

All de world am sad and dreary,
Eb'rywhere I roam;
Oh, darkeys, how my heart grows weary,
Far from de old folks at home!

All round de little farm I wandered
When I was young,
Den many happy days I squandered
Many de songs I sung.

When I was playing wid my brudder
Happy was I;
Oh, take me to my kind old mudder!
Dere let me live and die.

One little hut among de bushes,
One dat I love,
Still sadly to my memory rushes,
No matter where I rove.
When will I see de bees a-humming
All around de comb?
When will I hear de banjo tumming,
Down in my good old home?

Stephen Collins Foster [1826–1864]

HOME

O, FALMOUTH is a fine town with ships in the bay,
And I wish from my heart it's there I was to-day;
I wish from my heart I was far away from here,
Sitting in my parlor and talking to my dear.
For it's home, dearie, home—it's home I want to be.
Our topsails are hoisted, and we'll away to sea.
O, the oak and the ash and the bonnie birken tree
They're all growing green in the old countrie.

In Baltimore a-walking a lady I did meet
With her babe on her arm as she came down the street;
And I thought how I sailed, and the cradle standing ready
For the pretty little babe that has never seen its daddie.
And it's home, dearie, home,—

O, if it be a lass, she shall wear a golden ring;
And if it be a lad, he shall fight for his king;
With his dirk and his hat and his little jacket blue
He shall walk the quarter-deck as his daddie used to do.
And it's home, dearie, home,—

O, there's a wind a-blowing, a-blowing from the west,
And that of all the winds is the one I like the best,

For it blows at our backs, and it shakes our pennon free,
And it soon will blow us home to the old countrie.
For it's home, dearie, home—it's home I want to be.
Our topsails are hoisted, and we'll away to sea.
O, the oak and the ash and the bonnie birken tree
They're all growing green in the old countrie.

William Ernest Henley [1849–1903]

HOT WEATHER IN THE PLAINS—INDIA

Far beyond the sky-line, where the steamers go,
There's a cool, green country, there's the land I know;
Where the gray mist rises from the hidden pool,
And the dew falls softly on the meadows cool.
When the exile's death has claimed me it is there my soul shall fly,
To the pleasant English country, when my time has come to die;
Where the west wind on the uplands echoes back the sea-bird's cry—
Oh! it's there my soul will hasten though it's here my bones must lie.

From the many temples, tinkling bells ring clear,
But a fairer music in my heart I hear—
Lilt of English skylark, plash of woodland streams,
Songs of thrush and blackbird fill my waking dreams.
In each pause from work and worry, it is there my thoughts will fly,
To the pleasant English country with the pearly, misty sky—
And the present's toil and trouble fade and cease and pass me by—
Oh! it's there I fain would wander, but it's here my bones must lie.

Hard and hot the sky spreads, one unchanging glare,
Far and wide the earth lies burnt and brown and bare,
Sunset brings no solace, night-time no redress,
Still the breathless silence mocks the land's distress.

So my thoughts recross the waters to the spring-times long gone by,
Passed 'mid English woods and pastures, 'neath a softer, sweeter sky;
For when death shall end my exile, thither will my spirit fly—
Oh! it's there my soul shall wander, though it's here my bones must lie.

E. H. Tipple [18 –

HEART'S CONTENT

"A SAIL! a sail! Oh, whence away,
And whither, o'er the foam?
Good brother mariners, we pray,
God speed you safely home!"
"Now wish us not so foul a wind,
Until the fair be spent;
For hearth and home we leave behind:
We sail for Heart's Content."

"For Heart's Content! And sail ye so,
With canvas flowing free?
But, pray you, tell us, if ye know,
Where may that harbor be?
For we that greet you, worn of time,
Wave-racked, and tempest-rent,
By sun and star, in every clime,
Have searched for Heart's Content.

"In every clime the world around,
The waste of waters o'er;
An El Dorado have we found,
That ne'er was found before.
The isles of spice, the lands of dawn,
Where East and West are blent—
All these our eyes have looked upon,
But where is Heart's Content?

"Oh, turn again, while yet ye may,
And ere the hearths are cold,
And all the embers ashen-gray,
By which ye sat of old,
And dumb in death the loving lips
That mourned as forth ye went
To join the fleet of missing ships,
In quest of Heart's Content;

"And seek again the harbor-lights,
Which faithful fingers trim,
Ere yet alike the days and nights
Unto your eyes are dim!
For woe, alas! to those that roam
Till time and tide are spent,
And win no more the port of home—
The only Heart's Content!"

Unknown

SONG

STAY, stay at home, my heart, and rest;
Home-keeping hearts are happiest,
For those that wander they know not where
Are full of trouble and full of care;
To stay at home is best.

Weary and homesick and distressed,
They wander east, they wander west,
And are baffled and beaten and blown about
By the winds of the wilderness of doubt;
To stay at home is best.

Then stay at home, my heart, and rest;
The bird is safest in its nest;
Over all that flutter their wings and fly
A hawk is hovering in the sky;
To stay at home is best.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

MY EARLY HOME

Here sparrows build upon the trees,
And stockdove hides her nest;
The leaves are winnowed by the breeze
Into a calmer rest:
The black-cap's song was very sweet,
That used the rose to kiss;
It made the Paradise complete:
My early home was this.

The red-breast from the sweetbrier bush
Dropped down to pick the worm;
On the horse-chestnut sang the thrush,
O'er the house where I was born;
The moonlight, like a shower of pearls,
Fell o'er this 'bower of bliss',
And on the bench sat boys and girls:
My early home was this.

The old house stooped just like a cave,
Thatched o'er with mosses green;
Winter around the walls would rave,
But all was calm within;
The trees are here all green again,
Here bees the flowers still kiss,
But flowers and trees seemed sweeter then:
My early home was this.

John Clare [1793–1864]

THE OLD HOME

An old lane, an old gate, an old house by a tree;
A wild wood, a wild brook—they will not let me be:
In boyhood I knew them, and still they call to me.

Down deep in my heart's core I hear them and my eyes
Through tear-mists behold them beneath the oldtime skies,
'Mid bee-boom and rose-bloom and orchard-lands arise.

I hear them; and heartsick with longing is my soul,
To walk there, to dream there, beneath the sky's blue bowl;
Around me, within me, the weary world made whole.

To talk with the wild brook of all the long ago;
To whisper the wood-wind of things we used to know
When we were old companions, before my heart knew woe.

To walk with the morning and watch its rose unfold;
To drowse with the noontide lulled in its heart of gold;
To lie with the night-time and dream the dreams of old.

To tell to the old trees, and to each listening leaf,
The longing, the yearning, as in my boyhood brief,
The old hope, the old love, would ease me of my grief.

The old lane, the old gate, the old house by the tree,
The wild wood, the wild brook—they will not let me be:
In boyhood I knew them, and still they call to me.

Madison Cawein [1865–1914]

THE AULD HOUSE

Oh, the auld house, the auld house,—
What though the rooms were wee?
Oh, kind hearts were dwelling there,
And bairnies fu' o' glee;
The wild rose and the jessamine
Still hang upon the wa':
How mony cherished memories
Do they sweet flowers reca'!

Oh, the auld laird, the auld laird,
Sae canty, kind, and crouse,—
How mony did he welcome to
His ain wee dear auld house;
And the leddy too, sae genty,
There sheltered Scotland's heir,
And clipped a lock wi' her ain hand,
Frae his lang yellow hair.

The mavis still doth sweetly sing,
The bluebells sweetly blaw,
The bonny Earn's clear winding still,
But the auld house is awa'.
The auld house, the auld house,—
Deserted though ye be,
There ne'er can be a new house
Will seem sae fair to me.

Still flourishing the auld pear-tree
The bairnies liked to see;
And oh, how often did they speir
When ripe they a' wad be!
The voices sweet, the wee bit feet
Aye rinnin' here and there,
The merry shout—oh! whiles we greet
To think we'll hear nae mair.

For they are a' wide scattered now;
Some to the Indies gane,
And ane, alas! to her lang hame;
Not here we'll meet again.
The kirkyard, the kirkyard!
Wi' flowers o' every hue,
Sheltered by the holly's shade
An' the dark sombre yew.

The setting sun, the setting sun!
How glorious it gaed doon;
The cloudy splendor raised our hearts
To cloudless skies aboon.
The auld dial, the auld dial!
It tauld how time did pass;
The wintry winds hae dung it doon,
Now hid 'mang weeds and grass.

Carolina Nairne [1766–1845]

THE ROWAN TREE

O ROWAN tree, O rowan tree! thou'lt aye be dear to me!
Intwined thou art wi' mony ties o' hame and infancy.
Thy leaves were aye the first o' spring, thy flowers the simmer's pride;
There wasna sic a bonnie tree in a' the country side.
O rowan tree!

How fair wert thou in simmer time, wi' a' thy clusters white,
How rich and gay thy autumn dress, wi' berries red and bright!
On thy fair stem were mony names which now nae mair I see,
But they're engraven on my heart—forgot they ne'er can be!
O rowan tree!

We sat aneath thy spreading shade, the bairnies round thee ran,
They pu'd thy bonnie berries red, and necklaces they strang.
My mother! O I see her still, she smiled our sports to see,
Wi' little Jeanie on her lap, and Jamie at her knee.
O rowan tree!

O there arose my father's prayer, in holy evening's calm;
How sweet was then my mother's voice in the Martyr's psalm!
Now a' are gane! we meet nae mair aneath the rowan tree!
But hallowed thoughts around thee twine o' hame and infancy,
O rowan tree!

Carolina Nairne [1766–1845]

THE FIRE OF DRIFT-WOOD

We sat within the farm-house old,
Whose windows, looking o'er the bay,
Gave to the sea-breeze damp and cold
An easy entrance, night and day.

Not far away we saw the port,
The strange, old-fashioned, silent town,
The lighthouse, the dismantled fort,
The wooden houses, quaint and brown.

We sat and talked until the night,
Descending, filled the little room;
Our faces faded from the sight,
Our voices only broke the gloom.

We spake of many a vanished scene,
Of what we once had thought and said,
Of what had been, and might have been,
And who was changed, and who was dead;

And all that fills the heart of friends,
When first they feel, with secret pain,
Their lives thenceforth have separate ends,
And never can be one again;

The first slight swerving of the heart,
That words are powerless to express,
And leave it still unsaid in part,
Or say it in too great excess.

The very tones in which we spake
Had something strange, I could but mark;
The leaves of memory seemed to make
A mournful rustling in the dark.

Oft died the words upon our lips,
As suddenly, from out the fire
Built of the wreck of stranded ships,
The flames would leap and then expire.

And, as their splendor flashed and failed,
We thought of wrecks upon the main,
Of ships dismasted, that were hailed,
And sent no answer back again.

The windows, rattling in their frames,
The ocean, roaring up the beach,
The gusty blast, the bickering flames,
All mingled vaguely in our speech;

Until they made themselves a part
Of fancies floating through the brain,
The long-lost ventures of the heart,
That send no answers back again.

O flames that glowed! O hearts that yearned!
They were indeed too much akin,
The drift-wood fire without that burned,
The thoughts that burned and glowed within.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

MY AIN FIRESIDE

I HAE seen great anes and sat in great ha's,
'Mang lords and fine ladies a' covered wi' braws,
At feasts made for princes wi' princes I've been,
When the grand shine o' splendor has dazzled my een;
But a sight sae delightfu' I trow I ne'er spied
As the bonny blithe blink o' my ain fireside.
My ain fireside, my ain fireside,
O, cheery's the blink o' my ain fireside;
My ain fireside, my ain fireside,
O, there's naught to compare wi' ane's ain fireside.

Ance mair, Gude be thankit, round my ain heartsome ingle
Wi' the friends o' my youth I cordially mingle;
Nae forms to compel me to seem wae or glad,
I may laugh when I'm merry, and sigh when I'm sad.
Nae falsehood to dread, and nae malice to fear,
But truth to delight me, and friendship to cheer;
Of a' roads to happiness ever were tried,
There's nane half so sure as ane's ain fireside.
My ain fireside, my ain fireside,
O, there's naught to compare wi' ane's ain fireside.

When I draw in my stool on my cozy hearthstane,
My heart loups sae light I scarce ken 't for my ain;
Care's down on the wind, it is clean out o' sight,
Past troubles they seem but as dreams o' the night.
I hear but kend voices, kend faces I see,
And mark saft affection glent fond frae ilk ee;
Nae fleechings o' flattery, nae boastings o' pride,
'Tis heart speaks to heart at ane's ain fireside.
My ain fireside, my ain fireside,
O, there's naught to compare wi' ane's ain fireside.

Elizabeth Hamilton [1758–1816]

THE INGLE-SIDE

It's rare to see the morning bleeze
Like a bonfire frae the sea,
It's fair to see the burnie kiss
The lip o' the flowery lea;
An' fine it is on green hillside,
Where hums the bonnie bee,
But rarer, fairer, finer far
Is the ingle-side for me.

Glens may be gilt wi' gowans rare,
The birds may fill the tree;
An' haughs hae a' the scented ware
The simmer-growth can gie:
But the canty hearth where cronies meet,
An' the darling o' our e'e,
That makes to us a warl' complete:
Oh, the ingle-side for me!

Hew Ainslee [1792–1878]

THE CANE-BOTTOMED CHAIR

In tattered old slippers that toast at the bars,
And a ragged old jacket perfumed with cigars,
Away from the world and its toils and its cares,
I've a snug little kingdom up four pair of stairs.

To mount to this realm is a toil, to be sure,
But the fire there is bright and the air rather pure;
And the view I behold on a sunshiny day
Is grand, through the chimney-pots over the way.

This snug little chamber is crammed in all nooks
With worthless old knicknacks and silly old books,
And foolish old odds and foolish old ends,
Cracked bargains from brokers, cheap keepsakes from friends.

Old armor, prints, pictures, pipes, china (all cracked),
Old rickety tables, and chairs broken-backed;
A twopenny treasury, wondrous to see;
What matter? 'tis pleasant to you, friend, and me.

No better divan need the Sultan require,
Than the creaking old sofa that basks by the fire,
And 'tis wonderful, surely, what music you get
From the rickety, ramshackle, wheezy spinet.

That praying-rug came from a Turcoman's camp;
By Tiber once twinkled that brazen old lamp;
A Mameluke fierce yonder dagger has drawn:
'Tis a murderous knife to toast muffins upon.

Long, long through the hours, and the night, and the chimes,
Here we talk of old books, and old friends, and old times:
As we sit in a fog made of rick Latakie,
This chamber is pleasant to you, friend, and me.

But of all the cheap treasures that garnish my nest,
There's one that I love and I cherish the best;
For the finest of couches that's padded with hair
I never would change thee, my cane-bottomed chair.

'Tis a bandy-legged, high-shouldered, worm-eaten seat,
With a creaking old back, and twisted old feet;
But since the fair morning when Fanny sat there,
I bless thee and love thee, old cane-bottomed chair.

If chairs have but feeling, in holding such charms,
A thrill must have passed through your withered old arms!

I looked, and I longed, and I wished in despair;
I wished myself turned to a cane-bottomed chair.

It was but a moment she sat in this place,
She'd a scarf on her neck, and a smile on her face!
A smile on her face, and a rose in her hair,
And she sat there, and bloomed in my cane-bottomed chair.

And so I have valued my chair ever since,
Like the shrine of a saint, or the throne of a prince;
Saint Fanny, my patroness sweet I declare,
The queen of my heart and my cane-bottomed chair.

When the candles burn low, and the company's gone,
In the silence of night as I sit here alone—
I sit here alone, but we yet are a pair—
My Fanny I see in my cane-bottomed chair.

She comes from the past, and revisits my room;
She looks as she then did, all beauty and bloom;
So smiling and tender, so fresh and so fair,
And yonder she sits in my cane-bottomed chair.

William Makepeace Thackeray [1811–1863]

DUNA

When I was a little lad
With folly on my lips,
Fain was I for journeying
All the seas in ships.
But now across the southern swell,
Every dawn I hear
The little streams of Duna
Running clear.

When I was a young man,
Before my beard was gray,
All to ships and sailormen
I gave my heart away.
But I'm weary of the sea-wind,
I'm weary of the foam,
And the little stars of Duna
Call me home.

Marjorie L. C. Pickthall [1883-

THE OLD CLOCK ON THE STAIRS

SOMEWHAT back from the village street
Stands the old-fashioned country-seat.
Across its antique portico
Tall poplar-trees their shadows throw;
And from its station in the hall
An ancient timepiece says to all,—
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

Half-way up the stairs it stands,
And points and beckons with its hands
From its case of massive oak,
Like a monk, who, under his cloak,
Crosses himself, and sighs, alas!
With sorrowful voice to all who pass,—
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

By day its voice is low and light;
But in the silent dead of night,
Distinct as a passing footstep's fall,
It echoes along the vacant hall,
Along the ceiling, along the floor,
And seems to say, at each chamber-door,—
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

Through days of sorrow and of mirth,
Through days of death and days of birth,
Through every swift vicissitude
Of changeful time, unchanged it has stood,
And as if, like God, it all things saw,
It calmly repeats those words of awe,—
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

In that mansion used to be
Free-hearted Hospitality;
His great fires up the chimney roared;
The stranger feasted at his board;

But, like the skeleton at the feast,
That warning timepiece never ceased,—
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

There groups of merry children played,
There youths and maidens dreaming strayed;
O precious hours! O golden prime,
And affluence of love and time!
Even as a miser counts his gold,
Those hours the ancient timepiece told,—
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

From that chamber, clothed in white,
The bride came forth on her wedding night;
There, in that silent room below,
The dead lay in his shroud of snow;
And in the hush that followed the prayer,
Was heard the old clock on the stair,—
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

All are scattered now and fled,
Some are married, some are dead;
And when I ask, with throbs of pain,
"Ah! when shall they all meet again?"
As in the days long since gone by,
The ancient timepiece makes reply,—
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

Never here, forever there,
Where all parting, pain, and care,
And death, and time shall disappear,—
Forever there, but never here!
The horologe of Eternity
Sayeth this incessantly,—
"Forever—never!
Never—forever!"

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

"MOTHER, HOME, HEAVEN"

THREE words fall sweetly on my soul,
As music from an angel's lyre,
That bid my spirit spurn control,
And upward to its source aspire;
The sweetest sounds to mortals given
Are heard in Mother, Home, and Heaven.

Dear Mother!—ne'er shall I forget
Thy brow, thine eye, thy pleasant smile;
Though in the sea of death hath set
Thy star of life, my guide awhile,
Oh, never shall thy form depart
From the bright pictures in my heart.

And like a bird that from the flowers,
Wing-weary seeks her wonted nest,
My spirit, e'en in manhood's hours,
Turns back in childhood's Home to rest;
The cottage, garden, hill, and stream,
Still linger like a pleasant dream.

And while to one engulfing grave
By Time's swift tide we're driven,
How sweet the thought that every wave
But bears us nearer Heaven!
There we shall meet, when life is o'er,
In that blest Home, to part no more.

William Goldsmith Brown [1812–1906]

THE HERO

MY hero is na decked wi' gowd,
He has nae glittering state;
Renown upon a field o' blood
In war he hasna met.
He has nae siller in his pouch,
Nae menials at his ca';
The proud o' earth frae him would turn,
And bid him stand awa'.

His coat is hame-spun hodden-gray,
  His shoon are clouted sair,
His garments, maist unhero-like,
  Are a' the waur o' wear:
His limbs are strong—his shoulders broad,
  His hands were made to plow;
He's rough without, but sound within;
  His heart is bauldly true.

He toils at e'en, he toils at morn,
  His wark is never through;
A coming life o' weary toil
  Is ever in his view.
But on he trudges, keeping aye
  A stout heart to the brae,
And proud to be an honest man
  Until his dying day.

His hame a hame o' happiness
  And kindly love may be;
And monie a nameless dwelling-place
  Like his we still may see.
His happy altar-hearth so bright
  Is ever bleezing there;
And cheerfu' faces round it set
  Are an unending prayer.

The poor man in his humble hame,
  Like God, who dwells aboon,
Makes happy hearts around him there,
  Sae joyfu' late and soon.
His toil is sair, his toil is lang;
  But weary nights and days,
Hame—happiness akin to his—
  A hunder-fauld repays.

Go, mock at conquerors and kings!
  What happiness give they?
Go, tell the painted butterflies
  To kneel them down and pray!

Go, stand erect in manhood's pride,
Be what a man should be,
Then come, and to my hero bend
Upon the grass your knee!

Robert Nicoll [1814–1837]

THE COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT

INSCRIBED TO ROBERT AIKEN, ESQ.

Let not Ambition mock their useful toil,
Their homely joys, and destiny obscure;
Nor Grandeur hear with a disdainful smile
The short and simple annals of the poor.—GRAY

My loved, my honored, much-respected friend!
No mercenary bard his homage pays;
With honest pride, I scorn each selfish end;
My dearest meed, a friend's esteem and praise.
To you I sing, in simple Scottish lays,
The lowly train in life's sequestered scene;
The native feelings strong, the guileless ways;
What Aiken in a cottage would have been;
Ah! though his worth unknown, far happier there, I ween.

November chill blaws loud wi' angry sugh;
The shortening winter-day is near a close;
The miry beasts retreating frae the pleugh,
The blackening trains o' craws to their repose:
The toilworn cotter frae his labor goes,—
This night his weekly moil is at an end,—
Collects his spades, his mattocks, and his hoes,
Hoping the morn in ease and rest to spend,
And weary, o'er the moor, his course does hameward bend.

At length his lonely cot appears in view,
Beneath the shelter of an agèd tree;
The expectant wee things, toddlin', stacher through
To meet their dad, wi' flichterin' noise an' glee.
His wee bit ingle, blinking bonnily,
His clean hearthstane, his thriftie wifie's smile,
The lisping infant prattling on his knee,
Does a' his weary kiaugh and care beguile,
And makes him quite forget his labor and his toil.

Belyve, the elder bairns come drapping in,
At service out, amang the farmers roun';
Some ca' the pleugh, some herd, some tentie rin
A cannie errand to a neibor town;
Their eldest hope, their Jenny, woman grown,
In youthfu' bloom, love sparkling in her e'e,
Comes hame, perhaps to shew a braw new gown,
Or deposit her sair-won penny-fee,
To help her parents dear, if they in hardship be.

With joy unfeigned, brothers and sisters meet,
And each for other's weelfare kindly spiers:
The social hours, swift-winged, unnoticed fleet;
Each tells the uncos that he sees or hears;
The parents, partial, eye their hopeful years;
Anticipation forward points the view.
The mother, wi' her needle and her shears,
Gars auld claes look amaist as weel's the new;
The father mixes a' wi' admonition due.

Their master's and their mistress's command,
The younkers a' are warnèd to obey;
And mind their labors wi' an eydent hand,
And ne'er, though out o' sight, to jauk or play:
"And oh! be sure to fear the Lord alway!
And mind your duty, duly, morn and night!
Lest in temptation's path ye gang astray,
Implore His counsel and assisting might:
They never sought in vain that sought the Lord aright!"

But, hark! a rap comes gently to the door;
Jenny, wha kens the meaning o' the same,
Tells how a neibor lad cam o'er the moor,
To do some errands, and convoy her hame.
The wily mother sees the conscious flame
Sparkle in Jenny's e'e, and flush her cheek;
With heart-struck anxious care inquires his name,
While Jenny hafflins is afraid to speak;
Weel pleased the mother hears it's nae wild, worthless rake.

Wi' kindly welcome, Jenny brings him ben;
A strappin' youth; he taks the mother's eye;
Blithe Jenny sees the visit's no ill-ta'en;
The father cracks of horses, pleughs, and kye.
The youngster's artless heart o'erflows wi' joy,
But blate and lathefu', scarce can weel behave;
The mother, wi' a woman's wiles, can spy
What makes the youth sae bashfu' an' sae grave;
Weel pleased to think her bairn's respected like the lave.

O happy love! where love like this is found!
O heartfelt raptures! bliss beyond compare!
I've pacèd much this weary, mortal round,
And sage experience bids me this declare:—
If Heaven a draught of heavenly pleasure spare,
One cordial in this melancholy vale,
'Tis when a youthful, loving, modest pair
In other's arms breathe out the tender tale,
Beneath the milk-white thorn that scents the evening gale.

Is there, in human form, that bears a heart,
A wretch, a villain, lost to love and truth,
That can, with studied, sly, ensnaring art,
Betray sweet Jenny's unsuspecting youth?
Curse on his perjured arts! dissembling smooth!
Are honor, virtue, conscience, all exiled?
Is there no pity, no relenting ruth,
Points to the parents fondling o'er their child?
Then paints the ruined maid, and their distraction wild?

But now the supper crowns their simple board,
The halesome parritch, chief o' Scotia's food,
The soupe their only hawkie does afford,
That 'yont the hallan snugly chows her cood:
The dame brings forth, in complimental mood,
To grace the lad, her weel-hained kebbuck, fell,
And aft he's pressed, and aft he ca's it guid;
The frugal wifie, garrulous, will tell
How 'twas a towmond auld, sin' lint was i' the bell.

The cheerfu' supper done, wi' serious face,
They, round the ingle, form a circle wide;
The sire turns o'er, wi' patriarchal grace,
The big ha' Bible, ance his father's pride;
His bonnet reverently is laid aside,
His lyart haffets wearing thin and bare;
Those strains that once did sweet in Zion glide,
He wales a portion with judicious care;
And "Let us worship God!" he says, with solemn air.

They chant their artless notes in simple guise;
They tune their hearts, by far the noblest aim:
Perhaps "Dundee's" wild-warbling measures rise,
Or plaintive "Martyrs," worthy of the name,
Or noble "Elgin" beets the heavenward flame,
The sweetest far of Scotia's holy lays:
Compared with these, Italian trills are tame;
The tickled ear no heartfelt raptures raise;
Nae unison hae they with our Creator's praise.

The priest-like father reads the sacred page,—
How Abram was the friend of God on high;
Or Moses bade eternal warfare wage
With Amalek's ungracious progeny;
Or how the royal bard did groaning lie
Beneath the stroke of Heaven's avenging ire;
Or Job's pathetic plaint, and wailing cry;
Or rapt Isaiah's wild, seraphic fire;
Or other holy seers that tune the sacred lyre.

Perhaps the Christian volume is the theme,—
How guiltless blood for guilty man was shed;
How He, who bore in heaven the second name,
Had not on earth whereon to lay his head:
How his first followers and servants sped
The precepts sage they wrote to many a land;
How he, who lone in Patmos banished,
Saw in the sun a mighty angel stand,
And heard great Babylon's doom pronounced by Heaven's command.

Then kneeling down to Heaven's Eternal King,
The saint, the father, and the husband prays:
Hope "springs exulting on triumphant wing,"
That thus they all shall meet in future days:
There ever bask in uncreated rays,
No more to sigh, or shed the bitter tear,
Together hymning their Creator's praise,
In such society, yet still more dear;
While circling Time moves round in an eternal sphere.

Compared with this, how poor Religion's pride,
In all the pomp of method and of art,
When men display to congregations wide,
Devotion's every grace, except the heart!
The Power, incensed, the pageant will desert,
The pompous strain, the sacerdotal stole;
But, haply, in some cottage far apart,
May hear, well pleased, the language of the soul;
And in His Book of Life the inmates poor enroll.

Then homeward all take off their several way;
The youngling cottagers retire to rest:
The parent-pair their secret homage pay,
And proffer up to Heaven the warm request,
That He, who stills the raven's clamorous nest,
And decks the lily fair in flowery pride,
Would, in the way His wisdom sees the best,
For them and for their little ones provide;
But, chiefly, in their hearts with grace divine preside.

From scenes like these old Scotia's grandeur springs,
That makes her loved at home, revered abroad;
Princes and lords are but the breath of kings,
"An honest man's the noblest work of God";
And certes, in fair Virtue's heavenly road,
The cottage leaves the palace far behind:
What is a lordling's pomp?—a cumbrous load,
Disguising oft the wretch of human kind,
Studied in arts of hell, in wickedness refined!

O Scotia! my dear, my native soil!
For whom my warmest wish to Heaven is sent,
Long may thy hardy sons of rustic toil
Be blest with health, and peace, and sweet content!
And, oh, may Heaven their simple lives prevent
From luxury's contagion, weak and vile!
Then, howe'er crowns and coronets be rent,
A virtuous populace may rise the while,
And stand a wall of fire around their much-loved isle.

O Thou! who poured the patriotic tide,
That streamed through Wallace's undaunted heart;
Who dared to nobly stem tyrannic pride,
Or nobly die, the second glorious part,
(The patriot's God peculiarly thou art,
His friend, inspirer, guardian, and reward!)
O, never, never Scotia's realm desert;
But still the patriot, and the patriot bard,
In bright succession raise, her ornament and guard!

Robert Burns [1759–1796]

ON THE RECEIPT OF MY MOTHER'S PICTURE OUT OF NORFOLK

THE GIFT OF MY COUSIN, ANN BODHAM

O THAT those lips had language! Life has passed
With me but roughly since I heard thee last.
Those lips are thine,—thy own sweet smile I see,
The same that oft in childhood solaced me;
Voice only fails, else how distinct they say,
"Grieve not, my child; chase all thy fears away!"
The meek intelligence of those dear eyes
(Blest be the art that can immortalize,
The art that baffles Time's tyrannic claim
To quench it!) here shines on me still the same.
Faithful remembrancer of one so dear!
O welcome guest, though unexpected here!
Who bid'st me honor with an artless song,
Affectionate, a mother lost so long,

I will obey, not willingly alone,
But gladly, as the precept were her own:
And, while that face renews my filial grief,
Fancy shall weave a charm for my relief,
Shall steep me in Elysian reverie,
A momentary dream that thou art she.

My mother! when I learned that thou wast dead,
Say, wast thou conscious of the tears I shed?
Hovered thy spirit o'er thy sorrowing son,
Wretch even then, life's journey just begun?
Perhaps thou gavest me, though unfelt, a kiss:
Perhaps a tear, if souls can weep in bliss—
Ah, that maternal smile! It answers—Yes.
I heard the bell tolled on thy burial day;
I saw the hearse that bore thee slow away;
And, turning from my nursery window, drew
A long, long sigh, and wept a last adieu!
But was it such?—It was.—Where thou art gone
Adieus and farewells are a sound unknown.
May I but meet thee on that peaceful shore,
The parting word shall pass my lips no more.
Thy maidens, grieved themselves at my concern,
Oft gave me promise of thy quick return.
What ardently I wished I long believed,
And, disappointed still, was still deceived.
By expectation every day beguiled,
Dupe of to-morrow even from a child.
Thus many a sad to-morrow came and went,
Till, all my stock of infant sorrow spent,
I learned at last submission to my lot;
But, though I less deplored thee, ne'er forgot.

Where once we dwelt our name is heard no more;
Children not thine have trod my nursery floor;
And where the gardener Robin, day by day,
Drew me to school along the public way,
Delighted with my bawble coach, and wrapped
In scarlet mantle warm, and velvet capped,
'Tis now become a history little known
That once we called the pastoral house our own.

Short-lived possession! but the record fair,
That memory keeps of all thy kindness there,
Still outlives many a storm that has effaced
A thousand other themes, less deeply traced.
Thy nightly visits to my chamber made,
That thou might'st know me safe and warmly laid;
Thy morning bounties ere I left my home,
The biscuit, or confectionery plum;
The fragrant waters on my cheek bestowed
By thy own hand, till fresh they shone and glowed;
All this, and, more endearing still than all,
Thy constant flow of love, that knew no fall,
Ne'er roughened by those cataracts and brakes
That humor interposed too often makes;
All this still legible in memory's page,
And still to be so to my latest age,
Adds joy to duty, makes me glad to pay
Such honors to thee as my numbers may;
Perhaps a frail memorial, but sincere,
Not scorned in heaven, though little noticed here.

Could Time, his flight reversed, restore the hours,
When, playing with thy vesture's tissued flowers,
The violet, the pink, the jessamine,
I pricked them into paper with a pin
(And thou wast happier than myself the while,
Wouldst softly speak, and stroke my head and smile),
Could those few pleasant days again appear,
Might one wish bring them, would I wish them here?
I would not trust my heart,—the dear delight
Seems so to be desired, perhaps I might,—
But no,—what here we call our life is such,
So little to be loved, and thou so much,
That I should ill requite thee to constrain
Thy unbound spirit into bonds again.

Thou, as a gallant bark, from Albion's coast
(The storms all weathered and the ocean crossed),
Shoots into port at some well-havened isle,
Where spices breathe, and brighter seasons smile;
There sits quiescent on the floods, that show
Her beauteous form reflected clear below,

While airs impregnated with incense play
Around her, fanning light her streamers gay;
So thou, with sails how swift! hast reached the shore,
"Where tempests never beat nor billows roar,"
And thy loved consort on the dangerous tide
Of life long since has anchored by thy side.
But me, scarce hoping to attain that rest,
Always from port withheld, always distressed,—
Me howling blasts drive devious, tempest-tossed,
Sails ripped, seams opening wide, and compass lost;
And day by day some current's thwarting force
Sets me more distant from a prosperous course.
Yet oh, the thought that thou art safe, and he!
That thought is joy, arrive what may to me.
My boast is not that I deduce my birth
From loins enthroned, and rulers of the earth;
But higher far my proud pretensions rise,—
The son of parents passed into the skies!
And now, farewell!—Time, unrevoked, has run
His wonted course; yet what I wished is done.
By contemplation's help, not sought in vain,
I seem to have lived my childhood o'er again:
To have renewed the joys that once were mine,
Without the sin of violating thine;
And, while the wings of Fancy still are free,
And I can view this mimic show of thee,
Time has but half succeeded in his theft,—
Thyself removed, thy power to soothe me left.

William Cowper [1731–1800]

THE CROWING OF THE RED COCK

Across the Eastern sky has glowed
The flicker of a blood-red dawn,
Once more the clarion cock has crowed,
Once more the sword of Christ is drawn.
A million burning rooftrees light
The world-wide path of Israel's flight.

Where is the Hebrew's Fatherland?
The folk of Christ is sore bestead;
The Son of Man is bruised and banned,
Nor finds whereon to lay his head.
His cup is gall, his meat is tears,
His passion lasts a thousand years.

Each crime that wakes in man the beast,
Is visited upon his kind.
The lust of mobs, the greed of priest,
The tyranny of kings, combined
To root his seed from earth again;
His record is one cry of pain.

When the long roll of Christian guilt
Against his sires and kin is known,
The flood of tears, the life-blood spilt,
The agony of ages shown,
What oceans can the stain remove
From Christian law and Christian love?

Nay, close the book; not now, not here,
The hideous tale of sin narrate,
Re-echoing in the martyr's ear
Even he might nurse revengeful hate,
Even he might turn in wrath sublime,
With blood for blood and crime for crime.

Coward? Not he, who faces death,
Who singly against worlds has fought,
For what? A name he may not breathe,
For liberty of prayer and thought.
The angry sword he will not whet,
His nobler task is—to forget.

Emma Lazarus, [1849–1887]

THE WORLD'S JUSTICE

If the sudden tidings came
That on some far, foreign coast,
Buried ages long from fame,
Had been found a remnant lost

Of that hoary race who dwelt
By the golden Nile divine,
Spake the Pharaoh's tongue and knelt
At the moon-crowned Isis' shrine—
How at reverend Egypt's feet,
Pilgrims from all lands would meet!

If the sudden news were known,
That anigh the desert-place
Where once blossomed Babylon,
Scions of a mighty race
Still survived, of giant build,
Huntsmen, warriors, priest and sage,
Whose ancestral fame had filled,
Trumpet-tongued, the earlier age,
How at old Assyria's feet
Pilgrims from all lands would meet!

Yet when Egypt's self was young,
And Assyria's bloom unworn,
Ere the mythic Homer sung,
Ere the gods of Greece were born,
Lived the nation of one God,
Priests of freedom, sons of Shem,
Never quelled by yoke or rod,
Founders of Jerusalem—
Is there one abides to-day,
Seeker of dead cities, say!

Answer, now as then, they are;
Scattered broadcast o'er the lands,
Knit in spirit nigh and far,
With indissoluble bands.
Half the world adores their God,
They the living law proclaim,
And their guerdon is—the rod,
Stripes and scourgings, death and shame.
Still on Israel's head forlorn,
Every nation heaps its scorn.

Emma Lazarus [1849–1887]

DOVER CLIFFS

On these white cliffs, that calm above the flood
Uplift their shadowing heads, and at their feet
Hear not the surge that has for ages beat,
How many a lonely wanderer has stood;
And, whilst the lifted murmur met his ear
And o'er the distant billows the still eve
Sailed slow, has thought of all his heart must leave
To-morrow; of the friends he loved most dear;
Of social scenes from which he wept to part.
Oh! if, like me, he knew how fruitless all
The thoughts that would full fain the past recall,
Soon would he quell the risings of his heart,
And brave the wild winds and unhearing tide,—
The World his country, and his God his guide.

William Lisle Bowles [1762–1850]

THE BRIDGE

Across the foaming river
  The old bridge bends its bow;
My father's fathers built it
  In ages long ago.

They never left the farmstead
  Past which the waters curled,
Why should one ever wander
  When here is all the world:

Family, friends and garden;
  Small fields of rice and tea;
The cattle in the meadow;
  The birds in stream and tree;

The pageant of the seasons
  As the slow years go by;
Between the peaks above us
  An azure bridge of sky.

The dead they live and linger
  In each familiar place
With kindly thoughts to hearten
  The children of their race.

Frederick Peterson [1859–

THE EXILE'S SONG

Oh, why left I my hame?
  Why did I cross the deep?
Oh, why left I the land
  Where my forefathers sleep?
I sigh for Scotia's shore,
  And I gaze across the sea,
But I canna get a blink
  O' my ain countrie!

The palm-tree waveth high,
  And fair the myrtle springs;
And to the Indian maid
  The bulbul sweetly sings;
But I dinna see the broom
  Wi' its tassels on the lea,
Nor hear the lintie's sang
  O' my ain countrie!

Oh, here no Sabbath bell
  Awakes the Sabbath morn,
Nor song of reapers heard
  Amang the yellow corn:
For the tyrant's voice is here,
  And the wail o' slaverie;
But the sun of freedom shines
  In my ain countrie!

There's a hope for every woe,
  And a balm for every pain,
But the first joys o' our heart
  Come never back again.
There's a track upon the deep,
  And a path across the sea;
But the weary ne'er return
  To their ain countrie!

Robert Gilfillan [1798–1850]

"THE SUN RISES BRIGHT IN FRANCE"

THE sun rises bright in France,
  And fair sets he;
But he has tint the blithe blink he had
  In my ain countrie.

O, it's nae my ain ruin
  That saddens aye my e'e,
But the dear Marie I left behin'
  Wi' sweet bairnies three.

My lanely hearth burned bonnie,
  An' smiled my ain Marie;
I've left a' my heart behin'
  In my ain countrie.

The bird comes back to summer,
  And the blossom to the bee;
But I'll win back, O never,
  To my ain countrie.

O, I am leal to high Heaven,
  Which aye was leal to me,
An' there I'll meet ye a' soon
  Frae my ain countrie!

Allan Cunningham [1784–1842]

FATHER LAND AND MOTHER TONGUE

OUR Father Land! and wouldst thou know
  Why we should call it Father Land?
It is that Adam here below
  Was made of earth by Nature's hand;
And he, our father made of earth,
  Hath peopled earth on every hand;
And we, in memory of his birth,
  Do call our country Father Land.

At first, in Eden's bowers, they say,
No sound of speech had Adam caught,
But whistled like a bird all day,—
And maybe 'twas for want of thought:
But Nature, with resistless laws,
Made Adam soon surpass the birds;
She gave him lovely Eve because
If he'd a wife they must have words.

And so the native land, I hold,
By male descent is proudly mine;
The language, as the tale hath told,
Was given in the female line.
And thus we see on either hand
We name our blessings whence they've sprung;
We call our country Father Land,
We call our language Mother Tongue.

Samuel Lover [1797–1868]

THE FATHERLAND

Where is the true man's fatherland?
Is it where he by chance is born?
Doth not the yearning spirit scorn
In such scant borders to be spanned?
Oh, yes! his fatherland must be
As the blue heaven wide and free!

Is it alone where freedom is,
Where God is God and man is man?
Doth he not claim a broader span
For the soul's love of home than this?
Oh, yes! his fatherland must be
As the blue heaven wide and free!

Where'er a human heart doth wear
Joy's myrtle-wreath or sorrow's gyves,
Where'er a human spirit strives

After a life more true and fair,
There is the true man's birthplace grand,
His is a world-wide fatherland!

Where'er a single slave doth pine,
Where'er one man may help another,—
Thank God for such a birthright, brother,—
That spot of earth is thine and mine!
There is the true man's birthplace grand,
His is a world-wide fatherland!

James Russell Lowell [1819–1891]

THE CALL TO A SCOT

There came an ancient man and slow
Who piped his way along our street—
How could the neighbors' children know
That to her ears 'twas passing sweet?

With smiles they spoke the ragged kilt,
And jeered the pipes, in mirthful file;
But, strangely moved, she heard the lilt
That rallied Carrick and Argyle.

A stroller, playing in the street,
Half-hearted, weary, out of place—
But his old measure stirred her feet,
My baby with the Gaelic face:

She squared her shoulders as she stood
To watch the piper 'round the turn—
Nor dreamed what beat within her blood
Was Robert Bruce and Bannockburn!

Ruth Guthrie Harding [1882–

NARRATIVE AND DESCRIPTIVE POEMS

THE DESERTED VILLAGE

SWEET Auburn! loveliest village of the plain,
Where health and plenty cheered the laboring swain,
Where smiling spring its earliest visit paid,
And parting summer's lingering blooms delayed:
Dear lovely bowers of innocence and ease,
Seats of my youth, when every sport could please:
How often have I loitered o'er thy green,
Where humble happiness endeared each scene!
How often have I paused on every charm,
The sheltered cot, the cultivated farm,
The never-failing brook, the busy mill,
The decent church that topped the neighboring hill,
The hawthorn-bush, with seats beneath the shade,
For talking age and whispering lovers made!
How often have I blessed the coming day,
When toil remitting lent its turn to play,
And all the village train, from labor free,
Led up their sports beneath the spreading tree:
While many a pastime circled in the shade,
The young contending as the old surveyed;
And many a gambol frolicked o'er the ground,
And sleights of art and feats of strength went round:
And still, as each repeated pleasure tired,
Succeeding sports the mirthful band inspired;
The dancing pair that simply sought renown,
By holding out, to tire each other down;
The swain mistrustless of his smutted face,
While secret laughter tittered round the place;
The bashful virgin's sidelong looks of love,
The matron's glance that would those looks reprove,—

These were thy charms, sweet village! sports like these,
With sweet succession, taught e'en toil to please;
These, round thy bowers their cheerful influence shed,
These were thy charms,—but all these charms are fled!

Sweet smiling village, loveliest of the lawn,
Thy sports are fled, and all thy charms withdrawn;
Amidst thy bowers the tyrant's hand is seen,
And desolation saddens all thy green;
One only master grasps the whole domain,
And half a tillage stints thy smiling plain;
No more thy glassy brook reflects the day,
But, choked with sedges, works its weedy way;
Along thy glades, a solitary guest,
The hollow-sounding bittern guards its nest;
Amidst thy desert-walks the lapwing flies,
And tires their echoes with unvaried cries.
Sunk are thy bowers in shapeless ruin all,
And the long grass o'ertops the moldering wall,
And, trembling, shrinking from the spoiler's hand,
Far, far away thy children leave the land.

Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates, and men decay:
Princes and lords may flourish, or may fade;
A breath can make them, as a breath has made;
But a bold peasantry, their country's pride,
When once destroyed, can never be supplied.

A time there was, ere England's griefs began,
When every rood of ground maintained its man;
For him light Labor spread her wholesome store,
Just gave what life required, but gave no more:
His best companions, innocence and health;
And his best riches, ignorance of wealth.

But times are altered: trade's unfeeling train
Usurp the land and dispossess the swain;
Along the lawn, where scattered hamlets rose,
Unwieldy wealth and cumbrous pomp repose,
And every want to luxury allied,
And every pang that folly pays to pride.

Those gentle hours that plenty bade to bloom,
Those calm desires that asked but little room,
Those healthful sports that graced the peaceful scene,
Lived in each look, and brightened all the green,—
These, far departing, seek a kinder shore,
And rural mirth and manners are no more.

Sweet Auburn! parent of the blissful hour,
Thy glades forlorn confess the tyrant's power.
Here, as I take my solitary rounds,
Amidst thy tangling walks and ruined grounds,
And, many a year elapsed, return to view
Where once the cottage stood, the hawthorn grew,
Remembrance wakes, with all her busy train,
Swells at my breast, and turns the past to pain.

In all my wanderings round this world of care,
In all my griefs—and God has given my share—
I still had hopes my latest hours to crown,
Amidst these humble bowers to lay me down;
To husband out life's taper at the close,
And keep the flame from wasting by repose;
I still had hopes—for pride attends us still—
Amidst the swains to show my book-learned skill,
Around my fire an evening group to draw,
And tell of all I felt and all I saw;
And, as a hare, whom hounds and horns pursue,
Pants to the place from whence at first she flew,
I still had hopes, my long vexations past,
Here to return,—and die at home at last.

O blest retirement! friend to life's decline,
Retreats from care, that never must be mine,
How blest is he who crowns in shades like these
A youth of labor with an age of ease;
Who quits a world where strong temptations try,
And, since 'tis hard to combat, learns to fly!
For him no wretches, born to work and weep,
Explore the mine, or tempt the dangerous deep;
No surly porter stands in guilty state,
To spurn imploring famine from the gate:

But on he moves to meet his latter end,
Angels around befriending virtue's friend;
Sinks to the grave with unperceived decay,
While Resignation gently slopes the way;
And, all his prospects brightening to the last,
His heaven commences ere the world be past.

Sweet was the sound, when oft, at evening's close,
Up yonder hill the village murmur rose;
There, as I passed with careless steps and slow,
The mingling notes came softened from below;
The swain responsive as the milkmaid sung,
The sober herd that lowed to meet their young;
The noisy geese that gabbled o'er the pool,
The playful children just let loose from school;
The watch-dog's voice that bayed the whispering wind,
And the loud laugh that spoke the vacant mind,—
These all in sweet confusion sought the shade,
And filled each pause the nightingale had made.
But now the sounds of population fail,
No cheerful murmurs fluctuate in the gale,
No busy steps the grass-grown foot-way tread,
But all the bloomy flush of life is fled.
All but yon widowed, solitary thing,
That feebly bends beside the plashy spring;
She, wretched matron, forced in age, for bread,
To strip the brook with mantling cresses spread,
To pick her wintry fagot from the thorn,
To seek her nightly shed, and weep till morn;
She only left of all the harmless train,
The sad historian of the pensive plain.

Near yonder copse, where once the garden smiled,
And still where many a garden-flower grows wild;
There, where a few torn shrubs the place disclose,
The village preacher's modest mansion rose.
A man he was to all the country dear,
And passing rich with forty pounds a year;
Remote from towns he ran his godly race,
Nor e'er had changed, nor wished to change, his place;

Unskillful he to fawn, or seek for power,
By doctrines fashioned to the varying hour;
Far other aims his heart had learned to prize,
More skilled to raise the wretched than to rise.
His house was known to all the vagrant train.
He chid their wanderings, but relieved their pain;
The long-remembered beggar was his guest,
Whose beard descending swept his aged breast;
The ruined spendthrift, now no longer proud,
Claimed kindred there, and had his claims allowed;
The broken soldier, kindly bade to stay,
Sate by his fire, and talked the night away;
Wept o'er his wounds, or, tales of sorrow done,
Shouldered his crutch, and showed how fields were won.
Pleased with his guests, the good man learned to glow,
And quite forgot their vices in their woe;
Careless their merits or their faults to scan,
His pity gave ere charity began.

Thus to relieve the wretched was his pride,
And e'en his failings leaned to Virtue's side;
But in his duty prompt at every call,
He watched and wept, he prayed and felt for all;
And, as a bird each fond endearment tries,
To tempt its new-fledged offspring to the skies,
He tried each art, reproved each dull delay,
Allured to brighter worlds, and led the way.

Beside the bed where parting life was laid,
And sorrow, guilt, and pain, by turns dismayed,
The reverend champion stood. At his control,
Despair and anguish fled the struggling soul;
Comfort came down the trembling wretch to raise,
And his last faltering accents whispered praise.

At church, with meek and unaffected grace,
His looks adorned the venerable place;
Truth from his lips prevailed with double sway,
And fools, who came to scoff, remained to pray.
The service past, around the pious man,
With steady zeal, each honest rustic ran;

E'en children followed, with endearing wile,
And plucked his gown, to share the good man's smile.
His ready smile a parent's warmth expressed,
Their welfare pleased him, and their cares distressed;
To them his heart, his love, his griefs were given,
But all his serious thoughts had rest in heaven.
As some tall cliff, that lifts its awful form,
Swells from the vale, and midway leaves the storm,
Though round its breast the rolling clouds are spread,
Eternal sunshine settles on its head.

Beside yon straggling fence that skirts the way,
With blossomed furze unprofitably gay,
There, in his noisy mansion, skilled to rule,
The village master taught his little school;
A man severe he was, and stern to view;
I knew him well, and every truant knew:
Well had the boding tremblers learned to trace
The day's disasters in his morning face;
Full well they laughed, with counterfeited glee,
At all his jokes, for many a joke had he;
Full well the busy whisper, circling round,
Conveyed the dismal tidings when he frowned;
Yet he was kind, or, if severe in aught,
The love he bore to learning was in fault.
The village all declared how much he knew;
'Twas certain he could write, and cipher too;
Lands he could measure, terms and tides presage,
And e'en the story ran that he could gauge;
In arguing, too, the parson owned his skill,
For, e'en though vanquished, he could argue still,
While words of learnèd length and thundering sound
Amazed the gazing rustics ranged around;
And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew
That one small head could carry all he knew.

But past is all his fame. The very spot
Where many a time he triumphed, is forgot.—
Near yonder thorn, that lifts its head on high,
Where once the sign-post caught the passing eye,

Low lies that house where nut-brown draughts inspired
Where graybeard mirth and smiling toil retired,
Where village statesmen talked with looks profound,
And news much older than their ale went round.
Imagination fondly stoops to trace
The parlor splendors of that festive place,—
The whitewashed wall; the nicely sanded floor;
The varnished clock that ticked behind the door;
The chest, contrived a double debt to pay,
A bed by night, a chest of drawers by day;
The pictures placed for ornament and use;
The twelve good rules; the royal game of goose;
The hearth, except when winter chilled the day,
With aspen boughs and flowers and fennel gay;
While broken teacups, wisely kept for show,
Ranged o'er the chimney, glistened in a row.

Vain, transitory splendors! could not all
Reprieve the tottering mansion from its fall?
Obscure it sinks, nor shall it more impart
An hour's importance to the poor man's heart;
Thither no more the peasant shall repair
To sweet oblivion of his daily care;
No more the farmer's news, the barber's tale,
No more the woodman's ballad shall prevail;
No more the smith his dusky brow shall clear,
Relax his ponderous strength, and lean to hear;
The host himself no longer shall be found
Careful to see the mantling bliss go round;
Nor the coy maid, half willing to be pressed,
Shall kiss the cup to pass it to the rest.

Yes! let the rich deride, the proud disdain,
These simple blessings of the lowly train;
To me more dear, congenial to my heart,
One native charm, than all the gloss of art.
Spontaneous joys, where nature has its play,
The soul adopts, and owns their first-born sway;
Lightly they frolic o'er the vacant mind,
Unenvied, unmolested, unconfined:

But the long pomp, the midnight masquerade,
With all the freaks of wanton wealth arrayed,—
In these, ere triflers half their wish obtain,
The toiling pleasure sickens into pain;
And, e'en while fashion's brightest arts decoy,
The heart, distrusting, asks if this be joy.

Ye friends to truth, ye statesmen, who survey
The rich man's joys increase, the poor's decay,
'Tis yours to judge, how wide the limits stand
Between a splendid and a happy land.
Proud swells the tide with loads of freighted ore,
And shouting Folly hails them from her shore;
Hoards e'en beyond the miser's wish abound,
And rich men flock from all the world around.
Yet count our gains. This wealth is but a name
That leaves our useful products still the same.
Not so the loss. The man of wealth and pride
Takes up a space that many poor supplied;
Space for his lake, his park's extended bounds,
Space for his horses, equipage, and hounds:
The robe that wraps his limbs in silken sloth
Has robbed the neighboring fields of half their growth;
His seat, where solitary sports are seen,
Indignant spurns the cottage from the green;
Around the world each needful product flies,
For all the luxuries the world supplies:
While thus the land, adorned for pleasure all,
In barren splendor feebly waits the fall.

As some fair female, unadorned and plain,
Secure to please while youth confirms her reign,
Slights every borrowed charm that dress supplies,
Nor shares with art the triumph of her eyes,
But when those charms are past,—for charms are frail,—
When time advances, and when lovers fail,
She then shines forth, solicitous to bless,
In all the gleaming impotence of dress;
Thus fares the land, by luxury betrayed,
In nature's simplest charms at first arrayed,

But verging to decline, its splendors rise,
Its vistas strike, its palaces surprise;
While, scourged by famine from the smiling land,
The mournful peasant leads his humble band;
And while he sinks, without one arm to save,
The country blooms,—a garden and a grave.

Where then, ah! where shall poverty reside,
To 'scape the pressure of contiguous pride?
If to some common's fenceless limits strayed,
He drives his flock to pick the scanty blade,
Those fenceless fields the sons of wealth divide,
And e'en the bare-worn common is denied.
If to the city sped,—what waits him there?
To see profusion that he must not share;
To see ten thousand baneful arts combined
To pamper luxury and thin mankind;
To see each joy the sons of pleasure know
Extorted from his fellow-creature's woe.
Here while the courtier glitters in brocade,
There the pale artist plies the sickly trade;
Here while the proud their long-drawn pomps display,
There the black gibbet glooms beside the way.
The dome where Pleasure holds her midnight reign,
Here, richly decked, admits the gorgeous train;
Tumultuous grandeur crowds the blazing square,
The rattling chariots clash, the torches glare.
Sure scenes like these no troubles e'er annoy!
Sure these denote one universal joy!
Are these thy serious thoughts?—Ah, turn thine eyes
Where the poor houseless shivering female lies.
She once, perhaps, in village plenty blest,
Has wept at tales of innocence distressed;
Her modest looks the cottage might adorn,
Sweet as the primrose peeps beneath the thorn;
Now lost to all, her friends, her virtue fled,
Near her betrayer's door she lays her head,
And, pinched with cold, and shrinking from the shower,
With heavy heart deplores that luckless hour,
When idly first, ambitious of the town,
She left her wheel and robes of country brown.

Do thine, sweet Auburn, thine, the loveliest train,
Do thy fair tribes participate her pain?
E'en now, perhaps, by cold and hunger led,
At proud men's doors they ask a little bread!

Ah, no! To distant climes, a dreary scene,
Where half the convex world intrudes between,
Through torrid tracts with fainting steps they go,
Where wild Altama murmurs to their woe.
Far different there from all that charmed before,
The various terrors of that horrid shore,—
Those blazing suns that dart a downward ray,
And fiercely shed intolerable day;
Those matted woods where birds forget to sing,
But silent bats in drowsy clusters cling;
Those poisonous fields with rank luxuriance crowned,
Where the dark scorpion gathers death around;
Where at each step the stranger fears to wake
The rattling terrors of the vengeful snake;
Where crouching tigers wait their hapless prey,
And savage men more murderous still than they;
While oft in whirls the mad tornado flies,
Mingling the ravaged landscape with the skies.
Far different these from every former scene,
The cooling brook, the grassy-vested green,
The breezy covert of the warbling grove,
That only sheltered thefts of harmless love.

Good Heaven! what sorrows gloomed that parting day
That called them from their native walks away;
When the poor exiles, every pleasure past,
Hung round the bowers, and fondly looked their last,
And took a long farewell, and wished in vain
For seats like these beyond the western main;
And, shuddering still to face the distant deep,
Returned and wept, and still returned to weep.
The good old sire the first prepared to go
To new-found worlds, and wept for others' woe;
But for himself, in conscious virtue brave,
He only wished for worlds beyond the grave.

His lovely daughter, lovelier in her tears,
The fond companion of his helpless years,
Silent went next, neglectful of her charms,
And left a lover's for a father's arms.
With louder plaints the mother spoke her woes,
And blessed the cot where every pleasure rose;
And kissed her thoughtless babes with many a tear,
And clasped them close, in sorrow doubly dear;
Whilst her fond husband strove to lend relief
In all the silent manliness of grief.

O Luxury! thou cursed by Heaven's decree,
How ill exchanged are things like these for thee!
How do thy potions, with insidious joy,
Diffuse their pleasures only to destroy!
Kingdoms by thee, to sickly greatness grown,
Boast of a florid vigor not their own.
At every draught more large and large they grow,
A bloated mass of rank, unwieldy woe;
Till, sapped their strength, and every part unsound,
Down, down they sink, and spread a ruin round.

E'en now the devastation is begun,
And half the business of destruction done;
Even now, methinks, as pondering here I stand,
I see the rural virtues leave the land.
Down where yon anchoring vessel spreads the sail
That idly waiting flaps with every gale,
Downward they move, a melancholy band,
Pass from the shore, and darken all the strand.
Contented toil, and hospitable care,
And kind connubial tenderness, are there;
And piety with wishes placed above,
And steady loyalty, and faithful love.
And thou, sweet Poetry, thou loveliest maid,
Still first to fly where sensual joys invade;
Unfit, in these degenerate times of shame,
To catch the heart, or strike for honest fame;
Dear charming nymph, neglected and decried,
My shame in crowds, my solitary pride;

Thou source of all my bliss and all my woe,
That found'st me poor at first, and keep'st me so;
Thou guide, by which the nobler arts excel,
Thou nurse of every virtue, fare thee well!
Farewell; and oh, where'er thy voice be tried,
On Torno's cliffs, on Pambamarca's side,
Whether where equinoctial fervors glow,
Or winter wraps the polar world in snow,
Still let thy voice, prevailing over time,
Redress the rigors of the inclement clime;
Aid slighted truth with thy persuasive strain;
Teach erring man to spurn the rage of gain;
Teach him, that states of native strength possessed,
Though very poor, may still be very blest;
That trade's proud empire hastes to swift decay,
As ocean sweeps the labored mole away;
While self-dependent power can time defy,
As rocks resist the billows and the sky.

Oliver Goldsmith [1728–1774]

THE PRISONER OF CHILLON: A FABLE

SONNET ON CHILLON

Eternal Spirit of the chainless Mind!
Brightest in dungeons, Liberty, thou art,
For there thy habitation is the heart—
The heart which love of thee alone can bind;
And when thy sons to fetters are consigned—
To fetters, and the damp vault's dayless gloom—
Their country conquers with their martyrdom,
And Freedom's fame finds wings on every wind.
Chillon! thy prison is a holy place,
And thy sad floor an altar; for 'twas trod,
Until his very steps have left a trace
Worn, as if thy cold pavement were a sod,
By Bonnivard!—May none those marks efface!
For they appeal from tyranny to God.

I

My hair is gray, but not with years,
Nor grew it white
In a single night,
As men's have grown from sudden fears.
My limbs are bowed, though not with toil,
But rusted with a vile repose,
For they have been a dungeon's spoil,
And mine has been the fate of those
To whom the goodly earth and air
Are banned and barred—forbidden fare.
But this was for my father's faith,
I suffered chains and courted death.
That father perished at the stake
For tenets he would not forsake;
And for the same his lineal race
In darkness found a dwelling-place.
We were seven,—who now are one—
Six in youth, and one in age,
Finished as they had begun,
Proud of Persecution's rage:
One in fire, and two in field,
Their belief with blood have sealed—
Dying as their father died,
For the God their foes denied;
Three were in a dungeon cast,
Of whom this wreck is left the last.

II

There are seven pillars, of Gothic mold,
In Chillon's dungeons deep and old;
There are seven columns, massy and gray,
Dim with a dull imprisoned ray—
A sunbeam which hath lost its way,
And through the crevice and the cleft
Of the thick wall is fallen and left,
Creeping o'er the floor so damp,
Like a marsh's meteor-lamp.

And in each pillar there is a ring,
And in each ring there is a chain:
That iron is a cankering thing,
For in these limbs its teeth remain,
With marks that will not wear away
Till I have done with this new day,
Which now is painful to these eyes,
Which have not seen the sun so rise
For years—I cannot count them o'er;
I lost their long and heavy score
When my last brother drooped and died,
And I lay living by his side.

III

They chained us each to a column stone,
And we were three—yet, each alone;
We could not move a single pace;
We could not see each other's face,
But with that pale and livid light
That made us strangers in our sight;
And thus together, yet apart,
Fettered in hand, but joined in heart,
'Twas still some solace, in the dearth
Of the pure elements of earth,
To hearken to each other's speech,
And each turn comforter to each
With some new hope or legend old,
Or song heroically bold;
But even these at length grew cold.
Our voices took a dreary tone,
An echo of the dungeon-stone,
A grating sound—not full and free,
As they of yore were wont to be;
It might be fancy—but to me
They never sounded like our own.

IV

I was the eldest of the three,
And to uphold and cheer the rest
I ought to do, and did, my best—
And each did well in his degree.

The youngest, whom my father loved,
Because our mother's brow was given
To him, with eyes as blue as heaven—
For him my soul was sorely moved;
And truly might it be distressed
To see such bird in such a nest;
For he was beautiful as day
(When day was beautiful to me
As to young eagles, being free),—
A polar day, which will not see
A sunset till its summer's gone—
Its sleepless summer of long light,
The snow-clad offspring of the sun:
And thus he was as pure and bright,
And in his natural spirit gay,
With tears for naught but others' ills;
And then they flowed like mountain rills,
Unless he could assuage the woe
Which he abhorred to view below.

V

The other was as pure of mind,
But formed to combat with his kind;
Strong in his frame, and of a mood
Which 'gainst the world in war had stood,
And perished in the foremost rank
With joy; but not in chains to pine.
His spirit withered with their clank;
I saw it silently decline—
And so, perchance, in sooth, did mine:
But yet I forced it on, to cheer
Those relics of a home so dear.
He was a hunter of the hills,
Had followed there the deer and wolf;
To him this dungeon was a gulf,
And fettered feet the worst of ills.

VI

Lake Leman lies by Chillon's walls,
A thousand feet in depth below,
Its massy waters meet and flow;

Thus much the fathom-line was sent
From Chillon's snow-white battlement,
  Which round about the wave enthralls;
A double dungeon wall and wave
Have made—and like a living grave,
Below the surface of the lake
The dark vault lies wherein we lay;
We heard it ripple night and day;
  Sounding o'er our heads it knocked.
And I have felt the winter's spray
Wash through the bars when winds were high,
And wanton in the happy sky;
    And then the very rock hath rocked,
    And I have felt it shake, unshocked;
Because I could have smiled to see
The death that would have set me free.

VII

I said my nearer brother pined;
I said his mighty heart declined.
He loathed and put away his food;
It was not that 'twas coarse and rude,
For we were used to hunters' fare,
And for the like had little care.
The milk drawn from the mountain goat
Was changed for water from the moat;
Our bread was such as captives' tears
Have moistened many a thousand years,
Since man first pent his fellow-men,
Like brutes, within an iron den.
But what were these to us or him?
These wasted not his heart or limb;
My brother's soul was of that mold
Which in a palace had grown cold,
Had his free breathing been denied
The range of the steep mountain's side.
But why delay the truth?—he died.
I saw, and could not hold his head,
Nor reach his dying hand—nor dead,—
Though hard I strove, but strove in vain,

To rend and gnash my bonds in twain.
He died—and they unlocked his chain,
And scooped for him a shallow grave
Even from the cold earth of our cave.
I begged them, as a boon, to lay
His corse in dust whereon the day
Might shine—it was a foolish thought;
But then within my brain it wrought,
That even in death his freeborn breast
In such a dungeon could not rest.
I might have spared my idle prayer—
They coldly laughed, and laid him there,
The flat and turfless earth above
The being we so much did love;
His empty chain above it leant—
Such murder's fitting monument!

VIII

But he, the favorite and the flower,
Most cherished since his natal hour,
His mother's image in fair face,
The infant love of all his race,
His martyred father's dearest thought,
My latest care, for whom I sought
To hoard my life, that his might be Less wretched now, and one day free—
He too, who yet had held untired
A spirit natural or inspired—
He, too, was struck, and day by day
Was withered on the stalk away.
Oh, God! it is a fearful thing
To see the human soul take wing
In any shape, in any mood:
I've seen it rushing forth in blood;
I've seen it on the breaking ocean
Strive with a swoln, convulsive motion;
I've seen the sick and ghastly bed
Of Sin, delirious with its dread;
But these were horrors,—this was woe
Unmixed with such,—but sure and slow.

He faded, and so calm and meek,
So softly worn, so sweetly weak,
So tearless, yet so tender,—kind,
And grieved for those he left behind;
With all the while a cheek whose bloom
Was as a mockery of the tomb,
Whose tints as gently sunk away
As a departing rainbow's ray;
An eye of most transparent light,
That almost made the dungeon bright;
And not a word of murmur, not
A groan o'er his untimely lot—
A little talk of better days,
A little hope my own to raise;
For I was sunk in silence, lost
In this last loss, of all the most.
And then the sighs he would suppress
Of fainting nature's feebleness,
More slowly drawn, grew less and less.
I listened, but I could not hear—
I called, for I was wild with fear;
I knew 'twas hopeless, but my dread
Would not be thus admonished;
I called, and thought I heard a sound—
I burst my chain with one strong bound,
And rushed to him:—I found him not.
I only stirred in this black spot;
I only lived—I only drew
The accursèd breath of dungeon-dew;
The last, the sole, the dearest link
Between me and the eternal brink,
Which bound me to my failing race,
Was broken in this fatal place.
One on the earth, and one beneath—
My brothers—both had ceased to breathe.
I took that hand which lay so still—
Alas! my own was full as chill;
I had not strength to stir, or strive,
But felt that I was still alive—
A frantic feeling, when we know

That what we love shall ne'er be so.
I know not why
I could not die,
I had no earthly hope,—but faith,
And that forbade a selfish death.

IX

What next befell me then and there
I know not well,—I never knew.
First came the loss of light and air,
And then of darkness too.
I had no thought, no feeling—none:
Among the stones I stood a stone;
And was, scarce conscious what I wist,
As shrubless crags within the mist;
For all was blank, and bleak, and gray;
It was not night—it was not day;
It was not even the dungeon-light,
So hateful to my heavy sight;
But vacancy absorbing space,
And fixedness,—without a place;
There were no stars, no earth, no time,
No check, no change, no good, no crime,—
But silence, and a stirless breath
Which neither was of life nor death—
A sea of stagnant idleness,
Blind, boundless, mute and motionless!

X

A light broke in upon my brain—
It was the carol of a bird;
It ceased, and then it came again—
The sweetest song ear ever heard;
And mine was thankful till my eyes
Ran over with the glad surprise,
And they that moment could not see
I was the mate of misery;
But then, by dull degrees, came back

My senses to their wonted track:
I saw the dungeon walls and floor
Close slowly round me as before;
I saw the glimmer of the sun
Creeping as it before had done;
But through the crevice where it came
That bird was perched, as fond and tame,
And tamer than upon the tree—
A lovely bird, with azure wings,
And song that said a thousand things,
And seemed to say them all for me!
I never saw its like before—
I ne'er shall see its likeness more.
It seemed, like me, to want a mate,
But was not half so desolate;
And it was come to love me when
None lived to love me so again,
And, cheering from my dungeon's brink,
Had brought me back to feel and think.
I know not if it late were free,
Or broke its cage to perch on mine;
But knowing well captivity,
Sweet bird! I could not wish for thine!
Or if it were, in wingèd guise,
A visitant from Paradise;
For—Heaven forgive that thought, the while
Which made me both to weep and smile!—
I sometimes deemed that it might be
My brother's soul come down to me;
But then at last away it flew,
And then 'twas mortal—well I knew;
For he would never thus have flown,
And left me twice so doubly lone—
Lone—as the corse within its shroud,
Lone—as a solitary cloud,
A single cloud on a sunny day,
While all the rest of heaven is clear,
A frown upon the atmosphere,
That hath no business to appear
When skies are blue, and earth is gay.

XI

A kind of change came in my fate—
My keepers grew compassionate.
I know not what had made them so—
They were inured to sights of woe;
But so it was—my broken chain
With links unfastened did remain;
And it was liberty to stride
Along my cell from side to side,
And up and down, and then athwart,
And tread it over every part;
And round the pillars one by one,
Returning where my walk begun—
Avoiding only, as I trod,
My brothers' graves without a sod;
For if I thought with heedless tread
My step profaned their lowly bed,
My breath came gaspingly and thick,
And my crushed heart fell blind and sick.

XII

I made a footing in the wall:
It was not therefrom to escape,
For I had buried one and all
Who loved me in a human shape;
And the whole earth would henceforth be
A wider prison unto me;
No child, no sire, no kin had I,
No partner in my misery.
I thought of this, and I was glad,
For thought of them had made me mad;
But I was curious to ascend
To my barred windows, and to bend
Once more, upon the mountains high,
The quiet of a loving eye.

XIII

I saw them—and they were the same;
They were not changed, like me, in frame;

I saw their thousand years of snow
On high—their wide, long lake below,
And the blue Rhone in fullest flow;
I heard the torrents leap and gush
O'er channeled rock and broken bush;
I saw the white-walled distant town,
And whiter sails go skimming down;
And then there was a little isle,
Which in my very face did smile—
The only one in view;
A small, green isle, it seemed no more,
Scarce broader than my dungeon floor;
But in it there were three tall trees,
And o'er it blew the mountain breeze,
And by it there were waters flowing,
And on it there were young flowers growing
Of gentle breath and hue.
The fish swam by the castle wall,
And they seemed joyous, each and all;
The eagle rode the rising blast—
Methought he never flew so fast
As then to me he seemed to fly;
And then new tears came in my eye,
And I felt troubled, and would fain
I had not left my recent chain;
And when I did descend again,
The darkness of my dim abode
Fell on me as a heavy load;
It was as is a new-dug grave,
Closing o'er one we sought to save;
And yet my glance, too much oppressed,
Had almost need of such a rest.

XIV

It might be months, or years, or days—
I kept no count, I took no note—
I had no hope my eyes to raise,
And clear them of their dreary mote;
At last men came to set me free,
I asked not why, and recked not where;

It was at length the same to me,
Fettered or fetterless to be;
I learned to love despair.
And thus, when they appeared at last,
And all my bonds aside were cast,
These heavy walls to me had grown
A hermitage—and all my own!
And half I felt as they were come
To tear me from a second home.
With spiders I had friendship made,
And watched them in their sullen trade;
Had seen the mice by moonlight play—
And why should I feel less than they?
We were all inmates of one place,
And I, the monarch of each race,
Had power to kill; yet, strange to tell!
In quiet we had learned to dwell.
My very chains and I grew friends,
So much a long communion tends
To make us what we are:—even I
Regained my freedom with a sigh.

George Gordon Byron [1788–1824]

THE EVE OF ST. AGNES

St. Agnes' Eve—Ah, bitter chill it was!
The owl, for all his feathers, was a-cold;
The hare limped trembling through the frozen grass,
And silent was the flock in woolly fold:
Numb were the Beadsman's fingers, while he told
His rosary, and while his frosted breath,
Like pious incense from a censer old,
Seemed taking flight for heaven, without a death,
Past the sweet Virgin's picture, while his prayer he saith.

His prayer he saith, this patient, holy man;
Then takes his lamp, and riseth from his knees,
And back returneth, meager, barefoot, wan,
Along the chapel aisle by slow degrees:
The sculptured dead, on each side, seem to freeze,

Emprisoned in black, purgatorial rails:
Knights, ladies, praying in dumb orat'ries,
He passeth by; and his weak spirit fails
To think how they may ache in icy hoods and mails.

Northward he turneth through a little door,
And scarce three steps, ere Music's golden tongue
Flattered to tears this agèd man and poor;
But no—already had his death-bell rung;
The joys of all his life were said and sung;
His was harsh penance on St. Agnes' Eve:
Another way he went, and soon among
Rough ashes sat he for his soul's reprieve,
And all night kept awake, for sinners' sake to grieve.

That ancient Beadsman heard the prelude soft;
And so it chanced, for many a door was wide,
From hurry to and fro. Soon, up aloft,
The silver, snarling trumpets 'gan to chide:
The level chambers, ready with their pride,
Were glowing to receive a thousand guests:
The carvèd angels, ever eager-eyed,
Stared, where upon their heads the cornice rests,
With hair blown back, and wings put cross-wise on their breasts.

At length burst in the argent revelry,
With plume, tiara, and all rich array,
Numerous as shadows haunting faerily
The brain, newstuffed in youth, with triumphs gay
Of old romance. These let us wish away,
And turn, sole-thoughted, to one Lady there,
Whose heart had brooded, all that wintry day,
On love, and winged St. Agnes' saintly care,
As she had heard old dames full many times declare.

They told her how, upon St. Agnes' eve,
Young virgins might have visions of delight,
And soft adorings from their loves receive
Upon the honeyed middle of the night,

If ceremonies due they did aright;
As, supperless to bed they must retire,
And couch supine their beauties, lily white;
Nor look behind, nor sideways, but require
Of Heaven with upward eyes for all that they desire.

Full of this whim was thoughtful Madeline:
The music, yearning like a God in pain,
She scarcely heard: her maiden eyes divine
Fixed on the floor, saw many a sweeping train
Pass by—she heeded not at all: in vain
Came many a tiptoe, amorous cavalier,
And back retired; not cooled by high disdain,
But she saw not: her heart was otherwhere:
She sighed for Agnes' dreams, the sweetest of the year.

She danced along with vague, regardless eyes,
Anxious her lips, her breathing quick and short:
The hallowed hour was near at hand: she sighs
Amid the timbrels, and the thronged resort
Of whisperers in anger, or in sport;
'Mid looks of love, defiance, hate, and scorn,
Hoodwinked with faery fancy; all amort,
Save to St. Agnes and her lambs unshorn,
And all the bliss to be before to-morrow morn.

So, purposing each moment to retire,
She lingered still. Meantime, across the moors,
Had come young Porphyro, with heart on fire
For Madeline. Beside the portal doors,
Buttressed from moonlight, stands he, and implores
All saints to give him sight of Madeline,
But for one moment in the tedious hours,
That he might gaze and worship all unseen;
Perchance speak, kneel, touch, kiss—in sooth such things have been.

He ventures in: let no buzzed whisper tell:
All eyes be muffled, or a hundred swords
Will storm his heart, Love's feverous citadel:
For him, those chambers held barbarian hordes,

Hyena foemen, and hot-blooded lords,
Whose very dogs would execrations howl
Against his lineage: not one breast affords
Him any mercy, in that mansion foul,
Save one old beldame, weak in body and in soul.

Ah, happy chance! the agèd creature came,
Shuffling along with ivory-headed wand,
To where he stood, hid from the torch's flame,
Behind a broad hall-pillar, far beyond
The sound of merriment and chorus bland:
He startled her; but soon she knew his face,
And grasped his fingers in her palsied hand,
Saying, "Mercy, Porphyro! hie thee from this place;
They are all here to-night, the whole blood-thirsty race!

"Get hence! get hence! there's dwarfish Hildebrand;
He had a fever late, and in the fit
He cursèd thee and thine, both house and land:
Then there's that old Lord Maurice, not a whit
More tame for his gray hairs—Alas me! flit!
Flit like a ghost away."—"Ah, Gossip, dear,
We're safe enough; here in this armchair sit,
And tell me how"—"Good Saints! not here, not here;
Follow me, child, or else these stones will be thy bier."

He followed through a lowly archèd way,
Brushing the cobwebs with his lofty plume,
And as she muttered "Well-a-well-a-day!"
He found him in a little moonlight room,
Pale, latticed, chill, and silent as a tomb.
"Now tell me where is Madeline," said he,
"O tell me, Angela, by the holy loom,
Which none but secret sisterhood may see,
When they St. Agnes' wool are weaving piously."

"St. Agnes! Ah! it is St. Agnes' Eve—
Yet men will murder upon holy days:
Thou must hold water in a witch's sieve,
And be liege-lord of all the Elves and Fays,

To venture so: it fills me with amaze
To see thee, Porphyro!—St. Agnes' Eve!
God's help! my lady fair the conjurer plays
This very night: good angels her deceive!
But let me laugh awhile,—I've mickle time to grieve."

Feebly she laugheth in the languid moon,
While Porphyro upon her face doth look,
Like puzzled urchin on an agèd crone
Who keepeth closed a wondrous riddle-book,
As spectacled she sits in chimney nook.
But soon his eyes grew brilliant, when she told
His lady's purpose; and he scarce could brook
Tears, at the thought of those enchantments cold,
And Madeline asleep in lap of legends old.

Sudden a thought came like a full-blown rose,
Flushing his brow, and in his painèd heart
Made purple riot: then doth he propose
A stratagem, that makes the beldame start:
"A cruel man and impious thou art:
Sweet lady! let her pray, and sleep, and dream
Alone with her good angels, far apart
From wicked men like thee. Go, go!—I deem Thou canst not surely be the same that thou didst seem."

"I will not harm her, by all saints I swear,"
Quoth Porphyro: "O may I ne'er find grace
When my weak voice shall whisper its last prayer,
If one of her soft ringlets I displace,
Or look with ruffian passion in her face.
Good Angela, believe me, by these tears;
Or I will, even in a moment's space,
Awake, with horrid shout, my foemen's ears,
And beard them, though they be more fanged than wolves and bears."

"Ah! why wilt thou affright a feeble soul?
A poor, weak, palsy-stricken, churchyard thing,
Whose passing-bell may ere the midnight toll;
Whose prayers for thee, each morn and evening,

Were never missed."—Thus plaining, doth she bring
A gentler speech from burning Porphyro;
So woeful, and of such deep sorrowing,
That Angela gives promise she will do
Whatever he shall wish, betide her weal or woe.

Which was, to lead him, in close secrecy,
Even to Madeline's chamber, and there hide
Him in a closet, of such privacy
That he might see her beauty unespied,
And win perhaps that night a peerless bride,
While legioned fairies paced the coverlet,
And pale enchantment held her sleepy-eyed.
Never on such a night have lovers met,
Since Merlin paid his Demon all the monstrous debt.

"It shall be as thou wishest," said the Dame:
"All cates and dainties shall be storèd there
Quickly on this feast-night: by the tambour frame
Her own lute thou wilt see: no time to spare,
For I am slow and feeble, and scarce dare
On such a catering trust my dizzy head.
Wait here, my child, with patience; kneel in prayer
The while: Ah! thou must needs the lady wed,
Or may I never leave my grave among the dead."

So saying, she hobbled off with busy fear.
The lover's endless minutes slowly passed;
The dame returned and whispered in his ear
To follow her; with agèd eyes aghast
From fright of dim espial. Safe at last,
Through many a dusky gallery, they gain
The maiden's chamber, silken, hushed, and chaste;
Where Porphyro took covert, pleased amain.
His poor guide hurried back with agues in her brain.

Her faltering hand upon the balustrade,
Old Angela was feeling for the stair,
When Madeline, St. Agnes' charmèd maid,
Rose, like a missioned spirit, unaware:
With silver taper's light, and pious care,

She turned, and down the agèd gossip led
To a safe level matting. Now prepare,
Young Porphyro, for gazing on that bed;
She comes, she comes again, like ring-dove frayed and fled.

Out went the taper as she hurried in;
Its little smoke, in pallid moonshine, died:
She closed the door, she panted, all akin
To spirits of the air, and visions wide:
No uttered syllable, or, woe betide!
But to her heart, her heart was voluble,
Paining with eloquence her balmy side;
As though a tongueless nightingale should swell
Her throat in vain, and die, heart-stifled, in her dell.

A casement high and triple-arched there was,
All garlanded with carven imageries
Of fruits, and flowers, and bunches of knot-grass,
And diamonded with panes of quaint device,
Innumerable of stains and splendid dyes,
As are the tiger-moth's deep-damasked wings;
And in the midst, 'mong thousand heraldries,
And twilight saints, and dim emblazonings,
A shielded scutcheon blushed with blood of queens and kings.

Full on this casement shone the wintry moon,
And threw warm gules on Madeline's fair breast,
As down she knelt for Heaven's grace and boon;
Rose-bloom fell on her hands, together pressed,
And on her silver cross soft amethyst,
And on her hair a glory, like a saint:
She seemed a splendid angel, newly dressed,
Save wings, for heaven:—Porphyro grew faint:
She knelt, so pure a thing, so free from mortal taint.

Anon his heart revives: her vespers done,
Of all its wreathèd pearls her hair she frees;
Unclasps her warmèd jewels one by one;
Loosens her fragrant bodice; by degrees
Her rich attire creeps rustling to her knees:

Half-hidden, like a mermaid in seaweed,
Pensive awhile she dreams awake, and sees,
In fancy, fair St. Agnes in her bed,
But dares not look behind, or all the charm is fled.

Soon, trembling in her soft and chilly nest,
In sort of wakeful swoon, perplexed she lay,
Until the poppied warmth of sleep oppressed
Her soothèd limbs, and soul fatigued away;
Flown, like a thought, until the morrow-day;
Blissfully havened both from joy and pain;
Clasped like a missal where swart Paynims pray;
Blinded alike from sunshine and from rain,
As though a rose should shut, and be a bud again.

Stolen to this paradise, and so entranced,
Porphyro gazed upon her empty dress,
And listened to her breathing, if it chanced
To wake into a slumberous tenderness;
Which when he heard, that minute did he bless
And breathed himself: then from the closet crept
Noiseless as fear in a wide wilderness,
And over the hushed carpet, silent, stept,
And 'tween the curtains peeped, where, lo—how fast she slept.

Then by the bed-side, where the faded moon
Made a dim, silver twilight, soft he set
A table, and, half anguished, threw thereon
A cloth of woven crimson, gold, and jet:—
O for some drowsy Morphean amulet!
The boisterous, midnight, festive clarion,
The kettle-drum, and far-heard clarionet,
Affray his ears, though but in dying tone:—
The hall-door shuts again, and all the noise is gone.

And still she slept an azure-lidded sleep,
In blanchèd linen, smooth and lavendered,
While he forth from the closet brought a heap
Of candied apple, quince, and plum, and gourd;
With jellies soother than the creamy curd,

And lucent syrops, tinct with cinnamon;
Manna and dates, in argosy transferred
From Fez; and spicèd dainties, every one,
From silken Samarcand to cedared Lebanon.

These delicates he heaped with glowing hand
On golden dishes and in baskets bright
Of wreathèd silver: sumptuous they stand
In the retirèd quiet of the night,
Filling the chilly room with perfume light—
"And now, my love, my seraph fair, awake!
Thou art my heaven, and I thine eremite:
Open thine eyes, for meek St. Agnes' sake,
Or I shall drowse beside thee, so my soul doth ache."

Thus whispering, his warm, unnervèd arm
Sank in her pillow. Shaded was her dream
By the dusk curtains:—'twas a midnight charm
Impossible to melt as icèd stream:
The lustrous salvers in the moonlight gleam;
Broad golden fringe upon the carpet lies:
It seemed he never, never could redeem
From such a steadfast spell his lady's eyes;
So mused awhile, entoiled in woofèd phantasies.

Awakening up, he took her hollow lute,—
Tumultuous,—and, in chords that tenderest be,
He played an ancient ditty, long since mute,
In Provence called, "La belle dame sans merci":
Close to her ear touching the melody;—
Wherewith disturbed, she uttered a soft moan:
He ceased—she panted quick—and suddenly
Her blue affrayèd eyes wide open shone:
Upon his knees he sank, pale as smooth-sculptured stone.

Her eyes were open, but she still beheld,
Now wide awake, the vision of her sleep:
There was a painful change, that nigh expelled
The blisses of her dream so pure and deep:
At which fair Madeline began to weep,

And moan forth witless words with many a sigh,
While still her gaze on Porphyro would keep;
Who knelt, with joinèd hands and piteous eye,
Fearing to move or speak, she looked so dreamingly.

"Ah, Porphyro!" said she, "but even now
Thy voice was at sweet tremble in mine ear,
Made tuneable with every sweetest vow;
And those sad eyes were spiritual and clear;
How changed thou art! how pallid, chill, and drear!
Give me that voice again, my Porphyro,
Those looks immortal, those complainings dear!
Oh leave me not in this eternal woe,
For if thou diest, my Love, I know not where to go."

Beyond a mortal man impassioned far
At these voluptuous accents, he arose,
Ethereal, flushed, and like a throbbing star
Seen 'mid the sapphire heaven's deep repose;
Into her dream he melted, as the rose
Blendeth its odor with the violet,—
Solution sweet: meantime the frost-wind blows
Like Love's alarum, pattering the sharp sleet
Against the window-panes; St. Agnes' moon hath set.

'Tis dark, quick pattereth the flaw-blown sleet:
"This is no dream, my bride, my Madeline!"
'Tis dark: the icèd gusts still rave and beat:
"No dream, alas! alas! and woe is mine!
Porphyro will leave me here to fade and pine.—
Cruel! what traitor could thee hither bring?
I curse not, for my heart is lost in thine,
Though thou forsakest a deceivèd thing;—
A dove forlorn and lost with sick unprunèd wing."

"My Madeline! sweet dreamer! lovely bride!
Say, may I be for aye thy vassal blest?
Thy beauty's shield, heart-shaped and vermeil-dyed?
Ah, silver shrine, here will I take my rest
After so many hours of toil and quest,

A famished pilgrim,—saved by miracle.
Though I have found, I will not rob thy nest
Saving of thy sweet self; if thou thinkest well
To trust, fair Madeline, to no rude infidel.

"Hark! 'tis an elfin-storm from faery land,
Of haggard seeming, but a boon indeed:
Arise—arise! the morning is at hand;—
The bloated wassailers will never heed:—
Let us away, my love, with happy speed;
There are no ears to hear, or eyes to see,—
Drowned all in Rhenish and the sleepy mead:
Awake! arise! my love, and fearless be,
For o'er the southern moors I have a home for thee."

She hurried at his words, beset with fears,
For there were sleeping dragons all around,
At glaring watch, perhaps, with ready spears,—
Down the wide stairs a darkling way they found.—
In all the house was heard no human sound.
A chain-drooped lamp was flickering by each door;
The arras, rich with horsemen, hawk, and hound,
Fluttered in the besieging wind's uproar;
And the long carpets rose along the gusty floor.

They glide, like phantoms, into the wide hall;
Like phantoms, to the iron porch, they glide;
Where lay the Porter, in uneasy sprawl,
With a huge empty flagon by his side:
The wakeful bloodhound rose, and shook his hide,
But his sagacious eye an inmate owns:
By one, and one, the bolts full easy slide:—
The chains lie silent on the footworn stones;—
The key turns, and the door upon its hinges groans.

And they are gone: ay, ages long ago
These lovers fled away into the storm
That night the Baron dreamt of many a woe,
And all his warrior-guests, with shade and form
Of witch, and demon, and large coffin-worm,

Were long be-nightmared. Angela the old
Died palsy-twitched, with meager face deform;
The Beadsman, after thousand aves told,
For aye unsought-for slept amongst his ashes cold.

John Keats [1795–1821]

LOCKSLEY HALL

COMRADES, leave me here a little, while as yet 'tis early morn;
Leave me here, and when you want me, sound upon the bugle horn.

'Tis the place, and all around it, as of old, the curlews call,
Dreary gleams about the moorland, flying over Locksley Hall:

Locksley Hall, that in the distance overlooks the sandy tracts,
And the hollow ocean-ridges roaring into cataracts.

Many a night from yonder ivied casement, ere I went to rest,
Did I look on great Orion sloping slowly to the west.

Many a night I saw the Pleiads, rising through the mellow shade,
Glitter like a swarm of fireflies tangled in a silver braid.

Here about the beach I wandered, nourishing a youth sublime
With the fairy tales of science, and the long result of time;

When the centuries behind me like a fruitful land reposed;
When I clung to all the present for the promise that it closed;

When I dipped into the future far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be.

In the spring a fuller crimson comes upon the robin's breast;
In the spring the wanton lapwing gets himself another crest;

In the spring a livelier iris changes on the burnished dove;
In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

Then her cheek was pale and thinner than should be for one so young,
And her eyes on all my motions with a mute observance hung.

And I said, "My cousin Amy, speak, and speak the truth to me;
Trust me, cousin, all the current of my being sets to thee."

On her pallid cheek and forehead came a color and a light,
As I have seen the rosy red flushing in the northern night.

And she turned,—her bosom shaken with a sudden storm of sighs;
All the spirit deeply dawning in the dark of hazel eyes,—

Saying, "I have hid my feelings, fearing they should do me wrong;"
Saying, "Dost thou love me, cousin?" weeping, "I have loved thee long."

Love took up the glass of Time, and turned it in his glowing hands;
Every moment, lightly shaken, ran itself in golden sands.

Love took up the harp of Life, and smote on all the chords with might;
Smote the chord of Self, that, trembling, passed in music out of sight.

Many a morning on the moorland did we hear the copses ring,
And her whisper thronged my pulses with the fulness of the spring.

Many an evening by the waters did we watch the stately ships,
And our spirits rushed together at the touching of the lips.

O my cousin, shallow-hearted! O my Amy, mine no more!
O the dreary, dreary moorland! O the barren, barren shore!

Falser than all fancy fathoms, falser than all songs have sung,
Puppet to a father's threat, and servile to a shrewish tongue!

Is it well to wish thee happy?—having known me; to decline
On a range of lower feelings and a narrower heart than mine!

Yet it shall be: thou shalt lower to his level day by day,
What is fine within thee growing coarse to sympathize with clay.

As the husband is, the wife is; thou art mated with a clown,
And the grossness of his nature will have weight to drag thee down.

He will hold thee, when his passion shall have spent its novel force,
Something better than his dog, a little dearer than his horse.

What is this? his eyes are heavy,—think not they are glazed with wine.
Go to him; it is thy duty,—kiss him, take his hand in thine.

It may be my lord is weary, that his brain is overwrought,—
Soothe him with thy finer fancies, touch him with thy lighter thought.

He will answer to the purpose, easy things to understand,—
Better thou wert dead before me, though I slew thee with my hand.

Better thou and I were lying, hidden from the heart's disgrace,
Rolled in one another's arms, and silent in a last embrace.

Cursed be the social wants that sin against the strength of youth!
Cursed be the social lies that warp us from the living truth!

Cursed be the sickly forms that err from honest Nature's rule!
Cursed be the gold that gilds the straitened forehead of the fool!

Well—'tis well that I should bluster!—Hadst thou less unworthy proved,
Would to God—for I have loved thee more than ever wife was loved.

Am I mad, that I should cherish that which bears but bitter fruit?
I will pluck it from my bosom, though my heart be at the root.

Never! though my mortal summers to such length of years should come
As the many-wintered crow that leads the clanging rookery home.

Where is comfort? in division of the records of the mind?
Can I part her from herself, and love her, as I knew her, kind?

I remember one that perished; sweetly did she speak and move;
Such a one do I remember, whom to look at was to love.

Can I think of her as dead, and love her for the love she bore?
No,—she never loved me truly; love is love for evermore.

Comfort? comfort scorned of devils! this is truth the poet sings,
That a sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things.

Drug thy memories, lest thou learn it, lest thy heart be put to proof,
In the dead, unhappy night, and when the rain is on the roof.

Like a dog, he hunts in dreams; and thou art staring at the wall,
Where the dying night-lamp flickers, and the shadows rise and fall.

Then a hand shall pass before thee, pointing to his drunken sleep,
To thy widowed marriage-pillows, to the tears that thou wilt weep.

Thou shalt hear the "Never, never," whispered by the phantom years,
And a song from out the distance in the ringing of thine ears;

And an eye shall vex thee, looking ancient kindness on thy pain.
Turn thee, turn thee on thy pillow; get thee to thy rest again.

Nay, but Nature brings thee solace; for a tender voice will cry;
'Tis a purer life than thine, a lip to drain thy trouble dry.

Baby lips will laugh me down; my latest rival brings thee rest,—
Baby fingers, waxen touches, press me from the mother's breast.

O, the child too clothes the father with a dearness not his due.
Half is thine and half is his: it will be worthy of the two.

O, I see thee old and formal, fitted to thy petty part,
With a little hoard of maxims preaching down a daughter's heart.

"They were dangerous guides, the feelings—she herself was not exempt—
Truly, she herself had suffered"—Perish in thy self-contempt!

Overlive it—lower yet—be happy! wherefore should I care?
I myself must mix with action, lest I wither by despair.

What is that which I should turn to, lighting upon days like these?
Every door is barred with gold, and opens but to golden keys.

Every gate is thronged with suitors, all the markets overflow.
I have but an angry fancy: what is that which I should do?

I had been content to perish, falling on the foeman's ground,
When the ranks are rolled in vapor, and the winds are laid with sound.

But the jingling of the guinea helps the hurt that Honor feels,
And the nations do but murmur, snarling at each other's heels.

Can I but relive in sadness? I will turn that earlier page.
Hide me from my deep emotion, O thou wondrous Mother-Age!

Make me feel the wild pulsation that I felt before the strife,
When I heard my days before me, and the tumult of my life;

Yearning for the large excitement that the coming years would yield,
Eager-hearted as a boy when first he leaves his father's field,

And at night along the dusky highway near and nearer drawn,
Sees in heaven the light of London flaring like a dreary dawn;

And his spirit leaps within him to be gone before him then,
Underneath the light he looks at, in among the throngs of men;

Men, my brothers, men the workers, ever reaping something new:
That which they have done but earnest of the things that they shall do.

For I dipped into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the Vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;

Saw the heavens fill with commerce, argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with costly bales;

Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rained a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue;

Far along the world-wide whisper of the south-wind rushing warm,
With the standards of the peoples plunging through the thunder-storm;

Till the war-drum throbbed no longer, and the battle-flags were furled
In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world.

There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe,
And the kindly earth shall slumber, lapped in universal law.

So I triumphed ere my passion sweeping through me left me dry,
Left me with the palsied heart, and left me with the jaundiced eye;

Eye, to which all order festers, all things here are out of joint.
Science moves, but slowly, slowly, creeping on from point to point:

Slowly comes a hungry people, as a lion, creeping nigher,
Glares at one that nods and winks behind a slowly-dying fire.

Yet I doubt not through the ages one increasing purpose runs,
And the thoughts of men are widened with the process of the suns.

What is that to him that reaps not harvest of his youthful joys,
Though the deep heart of existence beat forever like a boy's?

Knowledge comes, but wisdom lingers; and I linger on the shore,
And the individual withers, and the world is more and more.

Knowledge comes, but wisdom lingers, and he bears a laden breast,
Full of sad experience, moving toward the stillness of his rest.

Hark! my merry comrades call me, sounding on the bugle-horn,—
They to whom my foolish passion were a target for their scorn.

Shall it not be scorn to me to harp on such a moldered string?
I am shamed through all my nature to have loved so slight a thing.

Weakness to be wroth with weakness! woman's pleasure, woman's pain—
Nature made them blinder motions bounded in a shallower brain.

Woman is the lesser man, and all thy passions, matched with mine,
Are as moonlight unto sunlight, and as water unto wine—

Here at least, where nature sickens, nothing. Ah, for some retreat
Deep in yonder shining Orient, where my life began to beat!

Where in wild Mahratta-battle fell my father, evil-starred;
I was left a trampled orphan, and a selfish uncle's ward.

Or to burst all links of habit,—there to wander far away,
On from island unto island at the gateways of the day,—

Larger constellations burning, mellow moons and happy skies,
Breadths of tropic shade and palms in cluster, knots of Paradise.

Never comes the trader, never floats an European flag,— Slides the bird o'er lustrous woodland, swings the trailer from the crag,—

Droops the heavy-blossomed bower, hangs the heavyfruited tree,—
Summer isles of Eden lying in dark-purple spheres of sea.

There, methinks, would be enjoyment more than in this march of mind—
In the steamship, in the railway, in the thoughts that shake mankind.

There the passions, cramped no longer, shall have scope and breathing-space;
I will take some savage woman, she shall rear my dusky race.

Iron-jointed, supple-sinewed, they shall dive, and they shall run,
Catch the wild goat by the hair, and hurl their lances in the sun,

Whistle back the parrot's call, and leap the rainbows of the brooks,
Not with blinded eyesight poring over miserable books—

Fool, again the dream, the fancy! but I know my words are wild,
But I count the gray barbarian lower than the Christian child.

I, to herd with narrow foreheads, vacant of our glorious gains,
Like a beast with lower pleasures, like a beast with lower pains!

Mated with a squalid savage,—what to me were sun or clime?
I, the heir of all the ages, in the foremost files of time,—

I, that rather held it better men should perish one by one,
Than that earth should stand at gaze like Joshua's moon in Ajalon!

Not in vain the distance beacons. Forward, forward let us range;
Let the great world spin for ever down the ringing grooves of change.

Through the shadow of the globe we sweep into the younger day;
Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay.

Mother-Age,—for mine I knew not,—help me as when life begun,—
Rift the hills, and roll the waters, flash the lightnings, weigh the sun.

O, I see the crescent promise of my spirit hath not set;
Ancient founts of inspiration well through all my fancy yet.

Howsoever these things be, a long farewell to Locksley Hall!
Now for me the woods may wither, now for me the roof-tree fall.

Comes a vapor from the margin, blackening over heath and holt,
Cramming all the blast before it, in its breast a thunderbolt.

Let it fall on Locksley Hall, with rain or hail, or fire or snow;
For the mighty wind arises, roaring seaward, and I go.

Alfred Tennyson [1809–1892]

THE SCHOLAR-GIPSY

Go, for they call you, Shepherd, from the hill;
Go, Shepherd, and untie the wattled cotes:
No longer leave thy wistful flock unfed,
Nor let thy bawling fellows rack their throats,
Nor the cropped grasses shoot another head.
But when the fields are still,
And the tired men and dogs all gone to rest,
And only the white sheep are sometimes seen
Cross and recross the strips of moon-blanched green;
Come, Shepherd, and again begin the quest.

Here, where the reaper was at work of late,
In this high field's dark corner, where he leaves
His coat, his basket, and his earthen cruise,
And in the sun all morning binds the sheaves,
Then here, at noon, comes back his stores to use;
Here will I sit and wait,
While to my ear from uplands far away
The bleating of the folded flocks is borne,
With distant cries of reapers in the corn—
All the live murmur of a summer's day.

Screened is this nook o'er the high, half-reaped field,
And here till sundown, Shepherd, will I be.
Through the thick corn the scarlet poppies peep,
And round green roots and yellowing stalks I see
Pale blue convolvulus in tendrils creep:
And air-swept lindens yield
Their scent, and rustle down their perfumed showers
Of bloom on the bent grass where I am laid,
And bower me from the August sun with shade;
And the eye travels down to Oxford's towers:

And near me on the grass lies Glanvil's book—
Come, let me read the oft-read tale again:
The story of that Oxford scholar poor,
Of pregnant parts and quick inventive brain,

Who, tired of knocking at Preferment's door,
One summer morn forsook
His friends, and went to learn the Gipsy lore,
And roamed the world with that wild brotherhood,
And came, as most men deemed, to little good,
But came to Oxford and his friends no more.

But once, years after, in the country lanes,
Two scholars, whom at college erst he knew,
Met him, and of his way of life inquired.
Whereat he answered that the Gipsy crew,
His mates, had arts to rule as they desired
The workings of men's brains;
And they can bind them to what thoughts they will:
"And I," he said, "the secret of their art,
When fully learned, will to the world impart:
But it needs Heaven-sent moments for this skill!"

This said, he left them, and returned no more,
But rumors hung about the country-side,
That the lost Scholar long was seen to stray,
Seen by rare glimpses, pensive and tongue-tied,
In hat of antique shape, and cloak of gray,
The same the Gipsies wore.
Shepherds had met him on the Hurst in spring;
At some lone alehouse in the Berkshire moors,
On the warm ingle-bench, the smock-frocked boors
Had found him seated at their entering,

But, 'mid their drink and clatter, he would fly:
And I myself seem half to know thy looks,
And put the shepherds, Wanderer, on thy trace;
And boys who in lone wheatfields scare the rooks
I ask if thou hast passed their quiet place;
Or in my boat I lie
Moored to the cool bank in the summer heats,
'Mid wide grass meadows which the sunshine fills,
And watch the warm green-muffled Cumnor hills,
And wonder if thou haunt'st their shy retreats.

For most, I know, thou lov'st retirèd ground.
Thee, at the ferry, Oxford riders blithe,
Returning home on summer nights, have met
Crossing the stripling Thames at Bablock-hithe,
Trailing in the cool stream thy fingers wet,
As the slow punt swings round:
And leaning backwards in a pensive dream,
And fostering in thy lap a heap of flowers
Plucked in shy fields and distant Wychwood bowers,
And thine eyes resting on the moonlit stream:

And then they land, and thou art seen no more.
Maidens who from the distant hamlets come
To dance around the Fyfield elm in May,
Oft through the darkening fields have seen thee roam,
Or cross a stile into the public way.
Oft thou hast given them store
Of flowers—the frail-leafed, white anemone—
Dark bluebells drenched with dews of summer eves,
And purple orchises with spotted leaves—
But none has words she can report of thee.

And, above Godstow Bridge, when hay-time's here
In June, and many a scythe in sunshine flames,
Men who through those wide fields of breezy grass
Where black-winged swallows haunt the glittering
Thames,
To bathe in the abandoned lasher pass,
Have often passed thee near
Sitting upon the river bank o'ergrown:
Marked thine outlandish garb, thy figure spare,
Thy dark vague eyes, and soft abstracted air;
But, when they came from bathing, thou wert gone.

At some lone homestead in the Cumnor hills,
Where at her open door the housewife darns,
Thou hast been seen, or hanging on a gate
To watch the threshers in the mossy barns.
Children, who early range these slopes and late
For cresses from the rills,

Have known thee watching, all an April day,
The springing pastures and the feeding kine;
And marked thee, when the stars come out and shine,
Through the long dewy grass move slow away.

In autumn, on the skirts of Bagley Wood,
Where most the Gipsies by the turf-edged way
Pitch their smoked tents, and every bush you see
With scarlet patches tagged and shreds of gray,
Above the forest-ground called Thessaly—
The blackbird picking food
Sees thee, nor stops his meal, nor fears at all;
So often has he known thee past him stray
Rapt, twirling in thy hand a withered spray,
And waiting for the spark from Heaven to fall.

And once, in winter, on the causeway chill
Where home through flooded fields foot-travelers go,
Have I not passed thee on the wooden bridge
Wrapped in thy cloak and battling with the snow,
Thy face towards Hinksey and its wintry ridge?
And thou hast climbed the hill
And gained the white brow of the Cumnor range;
Turned once to watch, while thick the snowflakes fall,
The line of festal light in Christ Church hall—
Then sought thy straw in some sequestered grange.

But what—I dream! Two hundred years are flown
Since first thy story ran through Oxford halls,
And the grave Glanvil did the tale inscribe
That thou wert wandered from the studious walls
To learn strange arts, and join a Gipsy tribe:
And thou from earth art gone
Long since, and in some quiet churchyard laid;
Some country nook, where o'er thy unknown grave
Tall grasses and white flowering nettles wave—
Under a dark red-fruited yew-tree's shade.

—No, no, thou hast not felt the lapse of hours.
For what wears out the life of mortal men?
'Tis that from change to change their being rolls
'Tis that repeated shocks, again, again,
Exhaust the energy of strongest souls,
And numb the elastic powers.
Till having used our nerves with bliss and teen,
And tired upon a thousand schemes our wit,
To the just-pausing Genius we remit
Our worn-out life, and are—what we have been.

Thou hast not lived, why shouldst thou perish, so?
Thou hadst one aim, one business, one desire:
Else wert thou long since numbered with the dead—
Else hadst thou spent, like other men, thy fire.
The generations of thy peers are fled,
And we ourselves shall go;
But thou possessest an immortal lot,
And we imagine thee exempt from age
And living as thou liv'st on Glanvil's page,
Because thou hadst—what we, alas, have not!

For early didst thou leave the world, with powers
Fresh, undiverted to the world without,
Firm to their mark, not spent on other things;
Free from the sick fatigue, the languid doubt,
Which much to have tried, in much been baffled, brings
O Life unlike to ours!
Who fluctuate idly without term or scope,
Of whom each strives, nor knows for what he strives,
And each half lives a hundred different lives;
Who wait like thee, but not, like thee, in hope.

Thou waitest for the spark from Heaven: and we,
Vague half-believers of our casual creeds,
Who never deeply felt, nor clearly willed,
Whose insight never has borne fruit in deeds,
Whose weak resolves never have been fulfilled;
For whom each year we see

Breeds new beginnings, disappointments new;
Who hesitate and falter life away,
And lose to-morrow the ground won to-day—
Ah, do not we, Wanderer, await it too?

Yes, we await it, but it still delays,
And then we suffer; and amongst us One,
Who most has suffered, takes dejectedly
His seat upon the intellectual throne;
And all his store of sad experience he
Lays bare of wretched days;
Tells us his misery's birth and growth and signs,
And how the dying spark of hope was fed,
And how the breast was soothed, and how the head,
And all his hourly varied anodynes.

This for our wisest: and we others pine,
And wish the long unhappy dream would end,
And waive all claim to bliss, and try to bear,
With close-lipped Patience for our only friend,
Sad Patience, too near neighbor to Despair:
But none has hope like thine.
Thou through the fields and through the woods dost stray,
Roaming the country-side, a truant boy,
Nursing thy project in unclouded joy,
And every doubt long blown by time away.

O born in days when wits were fresh and clear,
And life ran gaily as the sparkling Thames;
Before this strange disease of modern life,
With its sick hurry, its divided aims,
Its heads o'ertaxed, its palsied hearts, was rife—
Fly hence, our contact fear!
Still fly, plunge deeper in the bowering wood!
Averse, as Dido did with gesture stern
From her false friend's approach in Hades turn,
Wave us away, and keep thy solitude.

Still nursing the unconquerable hope,
Still clutching the inviolable shade,
With a free onward impulse brushing through,
By night, the silvered branches of the glade—
Far on the forest-skirts, where none pursue,
On some mild pastoral slope
Emerge, and resting on the moonlit pales,
Freshen thy flowers, as in former years,
With dew, or listen with enchanted ears,
From the dark dingles, to the nightingales.

But fly our paths, our feverish contact fly!
For strong the infection of our mental strife,
Which, though it gives no bliss, yet spoils for rest;
And we should win thee from thy own fair life,
Like us distracted, and like us unblest.
Soon, soon thy cheer would die,
Thy hopes grow timorous, and unfixed thy powers,
And thy clear aims be cross and shifting made:
And then thy glad perennial youth would fade,
Fade, and grow old at last, and die like ours.

Then fly our greetings, fly our speech and smiles!
—As some grave Tyrian trader, from the sea,
Descried at sunrise an emerging prow
Lifting the cool-haired creepers stealthily,
The fringes of a southward-facing brow
Among the Ægean isles;
And saw the merry Grecian coaster come,
Freighted with amber grapes, and Chian wine,
Green bursting figs, and tunnies steeped in brine;
And knew the intruders on his ancient home,

The young light-hearted Masters of the waves;
And snatched his rudder, and shook out more sail,
And day and night held on indignantly
O'er the blue Midland waters with the gale,
Betwixt the Syrtes and soft Sicily,
To where the Atlantic raves

Outside the Western Straits, and unbent sails
There, where down cloudy cliffs, through sheets of foam,
Shy traffickers, the dark Iberians come;
And on the beach undid his corded bales.

Matthew Arnold [1822–1888]

JUGGLING JERRY

Pitch here the tent, while the old horse grazes:
By the old hedge-side we'll halt a stage.
It's nigh my last above the daisies:
My next leaf'll be man's blank page.
Yes, my old girl! and it's no use crying:
Juggler, constable, king, must bow.
One that outjuggles all's been spying
Long to have me, and he has me now.

We've traveled times to this old common
Often we've hung our pots in the gorse.
We've had a stirring life, old woman!
You, and I, and the old gray horse.
Races, and fairs, and royal occasions,
Found us coming to their call:
Now they'll miss us at our stations:
There's a Juggler outjuggles all!

Up goes the lark, as if all were jolly!
Over the duck-pond the willow shakes.
Easy to think that grieving's folly,
When the hand's firm as driven stakes!
Ay, when we're strong, and braced, and manful,
Life's a sweet fiddle: but we're a batch
Born to become the Great Juggler's han'ful:
Balls he shies up, and is safe to catch.

Here's where the lads of the village cricket:
I was a lad not wide from here:
Couldn't I whip off the bale from the wicket?
Like an old world those days appear!

Donkey, sheep, geese, and thatched ale-house—I know them!
They are old friends of my halts, and seem,
Somehow, as if kind thanks I owe them:
Juggling don't hinder the heart's esteem.

Juggling's no sin, for we must have victual:
Nature allows us to bait for the fool.
Holding one's own makes us juggle no little;
But, to increase it, hard juggling's the rule.
You that are sneering at my profession,
Haven't you juggled a vast amount?
There's the Prime Minister, in one Session,
Juggles more games than my sins'll count.

I've murdered insects with mock thunder:
Conscience, for that, in men don't quail.
I've made bread from the bump of wonder:
That's my business, and there's my tale.
Fashion and rank all praised the professor:
Ay! and I've had my smile from the Queen:
Bravo, Jerry! she meant: God bless her!
Ain't this a sermon on that scene?

I've studied men from my topsy-turvy
Close, and, I reckon, rather true.
Some are fine fellows: some, right scurvy:
Most, a dash between the two.
But it's a woman, old girl, that makes me
Think more kindly of the race:
And it's a woman, old girl, that shakes me
When the Great Juggler I must face.

We two were married, due and legal:
Honest we've lived since we've been one.
Lord! I could then jump like an eagle:
You danced bright as a bit o' the sun.
Birds in a May-bush we were! right merry!
All night we kissed, we juggled all day.
Joy was the heart of Juggling Jerry!
Now from his old girl he's juggled away.

It's past parsons to console us:
No, nor no doctor fetch for me:
I can die without my bolus;
Two of a trade, lass, never agree!
Parson and Doctor!—don't they love rarely,
Fighting the devil in other men's fields!
Stand up yourself and match him fairly:
Then see how the rascal yields!

I, lass, have lived no gipsy, flaunting
Finery while his poor helpmate grubs:
Coin I've stored, and you won't be wanting:
You shan't beg from the troughs and tubs.
Nobly you've stuck to me, though in his kitchen
Many a Marquis would hail you Cook!
Palaces you could have ruled and grown rich in,
But your old Jerry you never forsook.

Hand up the chirper! ripe ale winks in it;
Let's have comfort and be at peace.
Once a stout draught made me light as a linnet.
Cheer up! the Lord must have his lease.
May be—for none see in that black hollow—
It's just a place where we're held in pawn,
And, when the Great Juggler makes as to swallow,
It's just the sword-trick—I ain't quite gone!

Yonder came smells of the gorse, so nutty,
Gold-like and warm: it's the prime of May.
Better than mortar, brick and putty,
Is God's house on a blowing day.
Lean me more up the mound; now I feel it:
All the old heath-smells! Ain't it strange?
There's the world laughing, as if to conceal it,
But He's by us, juggling the change.

I mind it well, by the sea-beach lying,
Once—it's long gone—when two gulls we beheld,
Which, as the moon got up, were flying
Down a big wave that sparked and swelled.

Crack, went a gun: one fell; the second
Wheeled round him twice, and was off for new luck:
There in the dark her white wing beckoned:—
Drop me a kiss—I'm the bird dead-struck!

George Meredith [1828–1909]

A COURT LADY

Her hair was tawny with gold, her eyes with purple were dark,
Her cheeks' pale opal burnt with a red and restless spark.

Never was lady of Milan nobler in name and in race;
Never was lady of Italy fairer to see in the face.

Never was lady on earth more true as woman and wife,
Larger in judgment and instinct, prouder in manners and life.

She stood in the early morning, and said to her maidens, "Bring
That silken robe made ready to wear at the Court of the King.

"Bring me the clasps of diamond, lucid, clear of the mote,
Clasp me the large at the waist, and clasp me the small at the throat.

"Diamonds to fasten the hair, and diamonds to fasten the sleeves,
Laces to drop from their rays, like a powder of snow from the eaves."

Gorgeous she entered the sunlight which gathered her up in a flame,
While, straight in her open carriage, she to the hospital came.

In she went at the door, and gazing from end to end,
"Many and low are the pallets, but each is the place of a friend."

Up she passed through the wards, and stood at a young man's bed:
Bloody the band on his brow, and livid the droop of his head.

"Art thou a Lombard, my brother? Happy art thou," she cried,
And smiled like Italy on him: he dreamed in her face and died.

Pale with his passing soul, she went on still to a second:
He was a grave hard man, whose years by dungeons were reckoned.

Wounds in his body were sore, wounds in his life were sorer.
"Art thou a Romagnole?" Her eyes drove lightnings before her.

"Austrian and priest had joined to double and tighten the cord
Able to bind thee, O strong one,—free by the stroke of a sword.

"Now be grave for the rest of us, using the life overcast
To ripen our wine of the present, (too new) in glooms of the past."

Down she stepped to a pallet where lay a face like a girl's,
Young, and pathetic with dying,—a deep black hole in the curls.

"Art thou from Tuscany, brother? and seest thou, dreaming in pain,
Thy mother stand in the piazza, searching the list of the slain?"

Kind as a mother herself, she touched his cheeks with her hands:
"Blessed is she who has borne thee, although she should weep as she stands."

On she passed to a Frenchman, his arm carried off by a ball:
Kneeling,—"O more than my brother! how shall I thank thee for all?

"Each of the heroes around us has fought for his land and line,
But thou hast fought for a stranger, in hate of a wrong not thine.

"Happy are all free peoples, too strong to be dispossessed:
But blessed are those among nations, who dare to be strong for the rest!"

Ever she passed on her way, and came to a couch where pined
One with a face from Venetia, white with a hope out of mind.

Long she stood and gazed, and twice she tried at the name,
But two great crystal tears were all that faltered and came.

Only a tear for Venice?—she turned as in passion and loss,
And stooped to his forehead and kissed it, as if she were kissing the cross.

Faint with that strain of heart she moved on then to another,
Stern and strong in his death. "And dost thou suffer, my brother?"

Holding his hands in hers:—"Out of the Piedmont lion
Cometh the sweetness of freedom! sweetest to live or to die on."

Holding his cold rough hands,—"Well, oh, well have ye
done
In noble, noble Piedmont, who would not be noble alone."

Back he fell while she spoke. She rose to her feet with a spring,—
"That was a Piedmontese! and this is the Court of the King."

Elizabeth Barrett Browning [1806–1861]

THE HIGH TIDE ON THE COAST OF LINCOLNSHIRE

(1571)

THE old mayor climbed the belfry tower,
The ringers ran by two, by three;
"Pull, if ye never pulled before;
Good ringers, pull your best," quoth he.
"Play uppe, play uppe, O Boston bells!
Play all your changes, all your swells,
Play uppe, 'The Brides of Enderby'."

Men say it was a stolen tyde—
The Lord that sent it, He knows all;
But in myne ears doth still abide
The message that the bells let fall:
And there was naught of strange, beside
The flight of mews and peewits pied
By millions crouched on the old sea wall.

I sat and spun within the doore,
My thread brake off, I raised myne eyes;
The level sun, like ruddy ore,
Lay sinking in the barren skies;
And dark against day's golden death
She moved where Lindis wandereth,
My sonne's faire wife, Elizabeth.

"Cusha! Cusha! Cusha!" calling,
Ere the early dews were falling,
Farre away I heard her song,
"Cusha! Cusha!" all along;
Where the reedy Lindis floweth,
Floweth, floweth,
From the meads where melick groweth
Faintly came her milking song—

"Cusha! Cusha! Cusha!" calling,
"For the dews will soone be falling;
Leave your meadow grasses mellow,
Mellow, mellow;

Quit your cowslips, cowslips yellow;
Come uppe, Whitefoot, come uppe, Lightfoot;
Quit the stalks of parsley hollow,
Hollow, hollow;
Come uppe, Jetty, rise and follow,
From the clovers lift your head;
Come uppe, Whitefoot, come uppe, Lightfoot,
Come uppe, Jetty, rise and follow,
Jetty, to the milking shed."

If it be long, ay, long ago,
When I beginne to think howe long,
Againe I hear the Lindis flow,
Swift as an arrowe, sharpe and strong;
And all the aire, it seemeth mee,
Bin full of floating bells (sayth shee),
That ring the tune of Enderby.

Alle fresh the level pasture lay,
And not a shadowe mote be seene,
Save where full fyve good miles away
The steeple towered from out the greene;
And lo! the great bell farre and wide
Was heard in all the country side
That Saturday at eventide.

The swanherds where their sedges are
Moved on in sunset's golden breath,
The shepherde lads I heard afarre,
And my sonne's wife, Elizabeth;
Till floating o'er the grassy sea
Came downe that kyndly message free,
The "Brides of Mavis Enderby."

Then some looked uppe into the sky,
And all along where Lindis flows
To where the goodly vessels lie,
And where the lordly steeple shows.
They sayde, "And why should this thing be?
What danger lowers by land or sea?
They ring the tune of Enderby!

"For evil news from Mablethorpe,
Of pyrate galleys warping down;
For shippes ashore beyond the scorpe,
They have not spared to wake the towne:
But while the west bin red to see,
And storms be none, and pyrates flee,
Why ring 'The Brides of Enderby'?"

I looked without, and lo! my sonne
Came riding downe with might and main:
He raised a shout as he drew on,
Till all the welkin rang again,
"Elizabeth! Elizabeth!"
(A sweeter woman ne'er drew breath
Than my sonne's wife, Elizabeth.)

"The olde sea wall (he cried) is downe,
The rising tide comes on apace,
And boats adrift in yonder towne
Go sailing uppe the market-place."
He shook as one that looks on death:
"God save you, mother!" straight he saith;
"Where is my wife, Elizabeth?"

"Good sonne, where Lindis winds her way,
With her two bairns I marked her long;
And ere yon bells beganne to play,
Afar I heard her milking song."
He looked across the grassy lea,
To right, to left, "Ho, Enderby!"
They rang "The Brides of Enderby!"

With that he cried and beat his breast;
For, lo! along the river's bed
A mighty eygre reared his crest,
And uppe the Lindis raging sped.
It swept with thunderous noises loud;
Shaped like a curling snow-white cloud,
Or like a demon in a shroud.

And rearing Lindis backward pressed,
  Shook all her trembling bankes amaine;
Then madly at the eygre's breast
  Flung uppe her weltering walls again.
Then bankes came downe with ruin and rout—
Then beaten foam flew round about—
Then all the mighty floods were out.

So farre, so fast the eygre drave,
  The heart had hardly time to beat
Before a shallow seething wave
  Sobbed in the grasses at oure feet:
The feet had hardly time to flee
Before it brake against the knee,
And all the world was in the sea.

Upon the roofe we sate that night,
  The noise of bells went sweeping by;
I marked the lofty beacon light
  Stream from the church tower, red and high—
A lurid mark and dread to see;
And awsome bells they were to mee,
That in the dark rang "Enderby."

They rang the sailor lads to guide
  From roofe to roofe who fearless rowed;
And I—my sonne was at my side,
  And yet the ruddy beacon glowed:
And yet he moaned beneath his breath,
"O come in life, or come in death!
O lost! my love, Elizabeth!"

And didst thou visit him no more?
  Thou didst, thou didst, my daughter deare;
The waters laid thee at his doore,
  Ere yet the early dawn was clear.
Thy pretty bairns in fast embrace,
The lifted sun shone on thy face,
Downe drifted to thy dwelling-place.

That flow strewed wrecks about the grass,
  That ebbe swept out the flocks to sea;
A fatal ebbe and flow, alas!
  To manye more than myne and mee;
But each will mourn his own (she saith);
And sweeter woman ne'er drew breath
Than my sonne's wife, Elizabeth.

I shall never hear her more
By the reedy Lindis shore,
"Cusha! Cusha! Cusha!" calling,
Ere the early dews be falling;
I shall never hear her song,
"Cusha! Cusha!" all along
Where the sunny Lindis floweth,
    Goeth, floweth;
From the meads where melick groweth,
  When the water winding down,
  Onward floweth to the town.

I shall never see her more
Where the reeds and rushes quiver,
    Shiver, quiver;
Stand beside the sobbing river,
Sobbing, throbbing, in its falling
To the sandy lonesome shore;
I shall never hear her calling,
"Leave your meadow grasses mellow,
    Mellow, mellow;
Quit your cowslips, cowslips yellow;
Come uppe, Whitefoot, come uppe, Lightfoot;
Quit your pipes of parsley hollow,
    Hollow, hollow;
Come uppe, Lightfoot, rise and follow;
    Lightfoot, Whitefoot,
From your clovers lift the head;
Come uppe, Jetty, follow, follow,
Jetty, to the milking shed."

Jean Ingelow [1820–1897]

THE SKELETON IN ARMOR

"Speak! speak! thou fearful guest!
Who, with thy hollow breast
Still in rude armor dressed,
Comest to daunt me!
Wrapped not in Eastern balms,
But with thy fleshless palms
Stretched, as if asking alms,
Why dost thou haunt me?"

Then, from those cavernous eyes
Pale flashes seemed to rise,
As when the Northern skies
Gleam in December;
And, like the water's flow
Under December's snow,
Came a dull voice of woe
From the heart's chamber.

"I was a Viking old!
My deeds, though manifold,
No Skald in song has told,
No Saga taught thee!
Take heed, that in thy verse
Thou dost the tale rehearse,
Else dread a dead man's curse;
For this I sought thee.

"Far in the Northern Land,
By the wild Baltic's strand,
I, with my childish hand,
Tamed the gerfalcon;
And, with my skates fast-bound,
Skimmed the half-frozen Sound,
That the poor whimpering hound
Trembled to walk on.

"Oft to his frozen lair
Tracked I the grisly bear,
While from my path the hare
Fled like a shadow;

Oft through the forest dark
Followed the were-wolf's bark,
Until the soaring lark
Sang from the meadow.

"But when I older grew,
Joining a corsair's crew,
O'er the dark sea I flew
With the marauders.
Wild was the life we led;
Many the souls that sped,
Many the hearts that bled,
By our stern orders.

"Many a wassail-bout
Wore the long Winter out;
Often our midnight shout
Set the cocks crowing,
As we the Berserk's tale
Measured in cups of ale,
Draining the oaken pail,
Filled to o'erflowing.

"Once as I told in glee
Tales of the stormy sea,
Soft eyes did gaze on me,
Burning yet tender;
And as the white stars shine
On the dark Norway pine,
On that dark heart of mine
Fell their soft splendor.

"I wooed the blue-eyed maid,
Yielding, yet half afraid,
And in the forest's shade
Our vows were plighted.
Under its loosened vest
Fluttered her little breast,
Like birds within their nest
By the hawk frighted.

"Bright in her father's hall
Shields gleamed upon the wall,
Loud sang the minstrels all,
Chanting his glory;
When of old Hildebrand
I asked his daughter's hand,
Mute did the minstrels stand
To hear my story.

"While the brown ale he quaffed,
Loud then the champion laughed,
And as the wind-gusts waft
The sea-foam brightly,
So the loud laugh of scorn,
Out of those lips unshorn,
From the deep drinking-horn
Blew the foam lightly.

"She was a Prince's child,
I but a Viking wild,
And though she blushed and smiled,
I was discarded!
Should not the dove so white
Follow the sea-mew's flight,
Why did they leave that night
Her nest unguarded?

"Scarce had I put to sea,
Bearing the maid with me,
Fairest of all was she
Among the Norsemen!
When on the white sea-strand,
Waving his armèd hand,
Saw we old Hildebrand,
With twenty horsemen.

"Then launched they to the blast,
Bent like a reed each mast,
Yet we were gaining fast,
When the wind failed us;

And with a sudden flaw
Came round the gusty Skaw,
So that our foe we saw
Laugh as he hailed us.

"And as to catch the gale
Round veered the flapping sail,
'Death!' was the helmsman's hail,
'Death without quarter!'
Mid-ships with iron keel
Struck we her ribs of steel;
Down her black hulk did reel
Through the black water!

"As with his wings aslant,
Sails the fierce cormorant,
Seeking some rocky haunt,
With his prey laden,—
So toward the open main,
Beating to sea again,
Through the wild hurricane,
Bore I the maiden.

"Three weeks we westward bore,
And when the storm was o'er,
Cloud-like we saw the shore
Stretching to leeward;
There for my lady's bower
Built I the lofty tower,
Which, to this very hour,
Stands looking seaward.

'There lived we many years;
Time dried the maiden's tears;
She had forgot her fears,
She was a mother;
Death closed her mild blue eyes,
Under that tower she lies;
Ne'er shall the sun arise
On such another!

"Still grew my bosom then,
Still as a stagnant fen!
Hateful to me were men,
The sunlight hateful!
In the vast forest here,
Clad in my warlike gear,
Fell I upon my spear,
Oh, death was grateful!

"Thus, seamed with many scars,
Bursting these prison bars,
Up to its native stars
My soul ascended!
There from the flowing bowl
Deep drinks the warrior's soul,
Skoal! to the Northland! skoal!"
Thus the tale ended.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

DANIEL GRAY

If I shall ever win the home in heaven
For whose sweet rest I humbly hope and pray,
In the great company of the forgiven
I shall be sure to find old Daniel Gray.

I knew him well; in truth, few knew him better;
For my young eyes oft read for him the Word,
And saw how meekly from the crystal letter
He drank the life of his beloved Lord.

Old Daniel Gray was not a man who lifted
On ready words his freight of gratitude,
Nor was he called upon among the gifted,
In the prayer-meetings of his neighborhood.

He had a few old-fashioned words and phrases,
Linked in with sacred texts and Sunday rhymes;
And I suppose that in his prayers and graces
I've heard them all at least a thousand times.

I see him now—his form, his face, his motions,
His homespun habit, and his silver hair,—
And hear the language of his trite devotions,
Rising behind the straight-backed kitchen chair.

I can remember how the sentence sounded—
"Help us, O Lord, to pray and not to faint!"
And how the "conquering-and-to-conquer" rounded
The loftier aspirations of the saint.

He had some notions that did not improve him,
He never kissed his children—so they say;
And finest scenes and fairest flowers would move him
Less than a horseshoe picked up in the way.

He had a hearty hatred of oppression,
And righteous words for sin of every kind;
Alas, that the transgressor and transgression
Were linked so closely in his honest mind!

He could see naught but vanity in beauty,
And naught but weakness in a fond caress,
And pitied men whose views of Christian duty
Allowed indulgence in such foolishness.

Yet there was love and tenderness within him;
And I am told that when his Charley died,
Nor nature's need nor gentle words could win him
From his fond vigils at the sleeper's side.

And when they came to bury little Charley,
They found fresh dewdrops sprinkled in his hair,
And on his breast a rose-bud gathered early,
And guessed, but did not know who placed it there.

Honest and faithful, constant in his calling,
Strictly attendant on the means of grace,
Instant in prayer, and fearful most of falling,
Old Daniel Gray was always in his place.

A practical old man, and yet a dreamer,
He thought that in some strange, unlooked-for way
His mighty Friend in Heaven, the great Redeemer,
Would honor him with wealth some golden day.

This dream he carried in a hopeful spirit
Until in death his patient eye grew dim,
And his Redeemer called him to inherit
The heaven of wealth long garnered up for him.

So, if I ever win the home in Heaven
For whose sweet rest I humbly hope and pray,
In the great company of the forgiven
I shall be sure to find old Daniel Gray.

Josiah Gilbert Holland [1819–1881]

"CURFEW MUST NOT RING TO-NIGHT"

Slowly England's sun was setting o'er the hilltops far away,
Filling all the land with beauty at the close of one sad day,
And the last rays kissed the forehead of a man and maiden fair,—
He with footsteps slow and weary, she with sunny floating hair;
He with bowed head, sad and thoughtful, she with lips all cold and white,
Struggling to keep back the murmur,—
"Curfew must not ring to-night."

"Sexton," Bessie's white lips faltered, pointing to the prison old,
With its turrets tall and gloomy, with its walls dark, damp, and cold,
"I've a lover in that prison, doomed this very night to die,
At the ringing of the Curfew, and no earthly help is nigh;
Cromwell will not come till sunset," and her lips grew strangely white
As she breathed the husky whisper:—
"Curfew must not ring to-night."

"Bessie," calmly spoke the sexton,—every word pierced her young heart
Like the piercing of an arrow, like a deadly poisoned dart,—
"Long, long years I've rung the Curfew from that gloomy, shadowed tower;
Every evening, just at sunset, it has told the twilight hour;
I have done my duty ever, tried to do it just and right,
Now I'm old I will not falter,—
Curfew, it must ring to-night."

Wild her eyes and pale her features, stern and white her thoughtful brow,
As within her secret bosom Bessie made a solemn vow.
She had listened while the judges read, without a tear or sigh:
"At the ringing of the Curfew, Basil Underwood must die."
And her breath came fast and faster, and her eyes grew large and bright;
In an undertone she murmured:—
"Curfew must not ring to-night."

With quick step she bounded forward, sprang within the old church door,
Left the old man threading slowly paths he'd trod so oft before;
Not one moment paused the maiden, but with eye and cheek aglow
Mounted up the gloomy tower, where the bell swung to and fro:
As she climbed the dusty ladder, on which fell no ray of light,
Up and up,—her white lips saying:—
"Curfew must not ring to-night!"

She has reached the topmost ladder; o'er her hangs the great, dark bell;
Awful is the gloom beneath her, like the pathway down to hell.
Lo, the ponderous tongue is swinging,—'tis the hour of Curfew now,
And the sight has chilled her bosom, stopped her breath, and paled her brow.

Shall she let it ring? No, never! flash her eyes with sudden light,
As she springs, and grasps it firmly,—
"Curfew shall not ring to-night!"

Out she swung—far out; the city seemed a speck of light below,
There 'twixt heaven and earth suspended as the bell swung to and fro,
And the half-deaf sexton ringing (years he had not heard the bell),
Sadly thought the twilight Curfew rang young Basil's funeral knell.
Still the maiden clung more firmly, and with trembling lips so white,
Said to hush her heart's wild throbbing:—
"Curfew shall not ring to-night!"

It was o'er, the bell ceased swaying, and the maiden stepped once more
Firmly on the dark old ladder where for hundred years before
Human foot had not been planted. The brave deed that she had done
Should be told long ages after: as the rays of setting sun
Crimson all the sky with beauty, aged sires, with heads of white,
Tell the eager, listening children,
"Curfew did not ring that night."

O'er the distant hills came Cromwell; Bessie sees him, and her brow,
Lately white with fear and anguish, has no anxious traces now.
At his feet she tells her story, shows her hands all bruised and torn;
And her face so sweet and pleading, yet with sorrow pale and worn,
Touched his heart with sudden pity, lit his eyes with misty light:
"Go! your lover lives," said Cromwell,
"Curfew shall not ring to-night."

Wide they flung the massive portal; led the prisoner forth to die,—
All his bright young life before him. 'Neath the darkening English sky
Bessie comes with flying footsteps, eyes aglow with love-light sweet;
Kneeling on the turf beside him, lays his pardon at his feet.
In his brave, strong arms he clasped her, kissed the face upturned and white,
Whispered, "Darling, you have saved me,— Curfew will not ring to-night!"

Rose Hartwick Thorpe [1850–

THE OLD SERGEANT

[JANUARY 1, 1863]

The Carrier cannot sing to-day the ballads
With which he used to go,
Rhyming the glad rounds of the happy New Years
That are now beneath the snow:

For the same awful and portentous Shadow
That overcast the earth,
And smote the land last year with desolation,
Still darkens every hearth.

And the Carrier hears Beethoven's mighty death-march
Come up from every mart;
And he hears and feels it breathing in his bosom,
And beating in his heart.

And to-day, a scarred and weather-beaten veteran,
Again he comes along,
To tell the story of the Old Year's struggles
In another New Year's song.

And the song is his, but not so with the story;
For the story, you must know,
Was told in prose to Assistant-Surgeon Austin,
By a soldier of Shiloh:

By Robert Burton, who was brought up on the Adams,
With his death-wound in his side;
And who told the story to the Assistant-Surgeon,
On the same night that he died.

But the singer feels it will better suit the ballad,
If all should deem it right,
To tell the story as if what it speaks of
Had happened but last night.

"Come a little nearer, Doctor,—thank you; let me take the cup:
Draw your chair up,—draw it closer; just another little sup!
May be you think I'm better; but I'm pretty well used up,—
Doctor, you've done all you could do, but I'm just a-going up!

"Feel my pulse, sir, if you want to, but it ain't much use to try"—
"Never say that," said the Surgeon, as he smothered down a sigh;
"It will never do, old comrade, for a soldier to say die!"
"What you say will make no difference, Doctor, when you come to die.

"Doctor, what has been the matter?" "You were very faint, they say;
You must try to get to sleep now." "Doctor, have I been away?"
"Not that anybody knows of!" "Doctor—Doctor, please to stay!
There is something I must tell you, and you won't have long to stay!

"I have got my marching orders, and I'm ready now to go;
Doctor, did you say I fainted?—but it couldn't ha' been so,
For as sure as I'm a Sergeant, and was wounded at Shiloh,
I've this very night been back there, on the old field of Shiloh!

"This is all that I remember: the last time the Lighter came,
And the lights had all been lowered, and the noises much the same,
He had not been gone five minutes before something called my name:
'ORDERLY SERGEANT—ROBERT BURTON!'—just that way it called my name.

"And I wondered who could call me so distinctly and so slow,
Knew it couldn't be the Lighter; he could not have spoken so;
And I tried to answer, 'Here, sir!' but I couldn't make it go;
For I couldn't move a muscle, and I couldn't make it go.

"Then I thought: It's all a nightmare, all a humbug and a bore;
Just another foolish grape-vine—and it won't come any more;
But it came, sir, notwithstanding, just the same way as before:
'ORDERLY SERGEANT—ROBERT BURTON!'—even plainer than before.

"That is all that I remember, till a sudden burst of light,
And I stood beside the river, where we stood that Sunday night,
Waiting to be ferried over to the dark bluffs opposite,
When the river was perdition and all hell was opposite!—

"And the same old palpitation came again in all its power,
And I heard a Bugle sounding, as from some celestial Tower;
And the same mysterious voice said: 'IT IS THE ELEVENTH HOUR!
ORDERLY SERGEANT!—ROBERT BURTON—IT IS THE ELEVENTH HOUR!'

"Dr. Austin!—what day is this?" "It is Wednesday night, you know."
"Yes,—to-morrow will be New Year's and a right good time below!
What time is it, Dr. Austin?" "Nearly Twelve." "Then don't you go!
Can it be that all this happened—all this—not an hour ago!

"There was where the gunboats opened on the dark rebellious host;
And where Webster semicircled his last guns upon the coast;
There were still the two log-houses, just the same, or else their ghost!
And the same old transport came and took me over—or its ghost!

"And the old field lay before me, all deserted, far and wide;
There was where they fell on Prentiss—there McClernand met the tide;
There was where stern Sherman rallied, and where Hurlbut's heroes died,—
Lower down, where Wallace charged them, and kept charging till he died.

"There was where Lew Wallace showed them he was of the canny kin,
There was where old Nelson thundered, and where Rousseau waded in;
There McCook sent 'em to breakfast, and we all began to win—
There was where the grape-shot took me, just as we began to win.

"Now, a shroud of snow and silence over everything was spread;
And but for this old blue mantle and the old hat on my head,
I should not have even doubted, to this moment, I was dead,—
For my footsteps were as silent as the snow upon the dead!

"Death and silence!—Death and silence! all around me as I sped!
And behold, a mighty Tower, as if builded to the dead,
To the Heaven of the heavens lifted up its mighty head,
Till the Stars and Stripes of Heaven all seemed waving from its head!

"Round and mighty-based it towered up into the infinite—
And I knew no mortal mason could have built a shaft so bright;
For it shone like solid sunshine; and a winding stair of light
Wound around it and around it till it wound clear out of sight!

"And, behold, as I approached it—with a rapt and dazzled stare,—
Thinking that I saw old comrades just ascending the great Stair,—
Suddenly the solemn challenge broke of, 'Halt! and who goes there?'
'I'm a friend,' I said, 'if you are.' 'Then advance, sir, to the Stair!'

"I advanced! That sentry, Doctor, was Elijah Ballantyne!
First of all to fall on Monday, after we had formed the line!
'Welcome, my old Sergeant, welcome! Welcome by that countersign!'
And he pointed to the scar there, under this old cloak of mine.

"As he grasped my hand, I shuddered, thinking only of the grave;
But he smiled and pointed upward with a bright and bloodless glaive:
'That's the way, sir, to Headquarters.' 'What Headquarters?' 'Of the Brave.'
'But the great Tower?' 'That was builded of the great deeds of the Brave!'

"Then a sudden shame came o'er me at his uniform of light;
At my own so old and tattered, and at his so new and bright;
'Ah!' said he, 'you have forgotten the New Uniform to-night!
Hurry back, for you must be here at just twelve o'clock to-night!'

"And the next thing I remember, you were sitting there, and I . . . .
Doctor—did you hear a footstep? Hark!—God bless you all! Good-by!
Doctor, please to give my musket and my knapsack, when I die,
To my son—my son that's coming,—he won't get here till I die!

"Tell him his old father blessed him—as he never did before,—
And to carry that old musket . . . Hark! a knock is at the door! . . .
Till the Union . . . See! it opens!" . . . "Father! Father! speak once more!" . . .
"Bless you!"—gasped the old gray Sergeant. And he lay and said no more!

Byron Forceythe Willson [1837–1867].

JIM BLUDSO OF THE PRAIRIE BELLE

Wall, no! I can't tell whar he lives,
Because he don't live, you see;
Leastways, he's got out of the habit
Of livin' like you and me.
Whar have you been for the last three year
That you haven't heard folks tell
How Jimmy Bludso passed in his checks
The night of the Prairie Belle?

He weren't no saint,—them engineers
Is all pretty much alike,—
One wife in Natchez-under-the-Hill
And another one here, in Pike;

A keerless man in his talk, was Jim,
And an awkward hand in a row,
But he never flunked, and he never lied,—
I reckon he never knowed how.

And this was all the religion he had,—
To treat his engine well;
Never be passed on the river;
To mind the pilot's bell;
And if ever the Prairie Belle took fire,—
A thousand times he swore
He'd hold her nozzle agin the bank
Till the last soul got ashore.

All boats has their day on the Mississip,
And her day come at last,—
The Movastar was a better boat,
But the Belle she wouldn't be passed.
And so she come tearin' along that night—
The oldest craft on the line—
With a nigger squat on her safety-valve,
And her furnace crammed, rosin and pine.

The fire bust out as she clared the bar,
And burnt a hole in the night,
And quick as a flash she turned, and made
For that willer-bank on the right.
There was runnin' and cursin', but Jim yelled out,
Over all the infernal roar,
"I'll hold her nozzle agin the bank
Till the last galoot's ashore."

Through the hot, black breath of the burnin' boat
Jim Bludso's voice was heard,
And they all had trust in his cussedness,
And knowed he would keep his word.
And, sure's you're born, they all got off
Afore the smoke-stacks fell,—
And Bludso's ghost went up alone
In the smoke of the Prairie Belle.

He weren't no saint,—but at jedgment
I'd run my chance with Jim,

'Longside of some pious gentlemen
That wouldn't shook hands with him.
He seen his duty, a dead-sure thing,—
And went for it thar and then;
And Christ ain't a going to be too hard
On a man that died for men.

John Hay [1838–1905]

LITTLE BREECHES

I DON'T go much on religion,
I never ain't had no show;
But I've got a middlin' tight grip, sir,
On the handful o' things I know.
I don't pan out on the prophets
And free-will, and that sort of thing,—
But I b'lieve in God and the angels,
Ever sence one night last spring.

I come into town with some turnips,
And my little Gabe come along,—
No four-year-old in the county
Could beat him for pretty and strong,
Peart and chipper and sassy,
Always ready to swear and fight,—
And I'd larnt him to chaw terbacker,
Jest to keep his milk-teeth white.

The snow come down like a blanket
As I passed by Taggart's store;
I went in for a jug of molasses
And left the team at the door.
They scared at something and started,—
I heard one little squall,
And hell-to-split over the prairie
Went team, Little Breeches and all.

Hell-to-split over the prairie!
I was almost froze with skeer;
But we rousted up some torches,
And sarched for 'em far and near.

At last we struck hosses and wagon,
Snowed under a soft white mound,
Upsot, dead beat,—but of little Gabe
No hide nor hair was found.

And here all hope soured on me
Of my fellow-critter's aid,—
I jest flopped down on my marrow-bones,
Crotch-deep in the snow, and prayed.

. . . . . .

By this, the torches was played out,
And me and Isrul Parr
Went off for some wood to a sheepfold
That he said was somewhar thar.

We found it at last, and a little shed
Where they shut up the lambs at night.
We looked in, and seen them huddled thar,
So warm and sleepy and white;
And thar sot Little Breeches and chirped,
As peart as ever you see,
"I want a chaw of terbacker,
And that's what's the matter of me."

How did he get thar? Angels.
He could never have walked in that storm.
They jest scooped down and toted him
To whar it was safe and warm.
And I think that saving a little child,
And fotching him to his own,
Is a derned sight better business
Than loafing around the Throne.

John Hay [1838–1905]

THE VAGABONDS

We are two travelers, Roger and I.
Roger's my dog.—Come here, you scamp!
Jump for the gentlemen,—mind your eye!
Over the table,—look out for the lamp!—

The rogue is growing a little old;
Five years we've tramped through wind and weather,
And slept out-doors when nights were cold,
And ate and drank—and starved—together.

We've learned what comfort is, I tell you!
A bed on the floor, a bit of rosin,
A fire to thaw our thumbs (poor fellow!
The paw he holds up there's been frozen),
Plenty of catgut for my fiddle
(This out-door business is bad for strings),
Then a few nice buckwheats hot from the griddle,
And Roger and I set up for kings!

No, thank ye, Sir,—I never drink;
Roger and I are exceedingly moral,—
Aren't we, Roger?—See him wink!—
Well, something hot, then—we won't quarrel.
He's thirsty, too,—see him nod his head?
What a pity, Sir, that dogs can't talk!
He understands every word that's said,—
And he knows good milk from water-and-chalk.

The truth is, Sir, now I reflect,
I've been so sadly given to grog,
I wonder I've not lost the respect
(Here's to you, Sir!) even of my dog.
But he sticks by, through thick and thin;
And this old coat, with its empty pockets
And rags that smell of tobacco and gin,
He'll follow while he has eyes in his sockets.

There isn't another creature living
Would do it, and prove, through every disaster,
So fond, so faithful, and so forgiving,
To such a miserable, thankless master!
No, Sir!—see him wag his tail and grin!
By George! it makes my old eyes water!—
That is, there's something in this gin
That chokes a fellow. But no matter!

We'll have some music, if you're willing,
And Roger (hem! what a plague a cough is, Sir!)
Shall march a little. Start, you villain!
Paws up! Eyes front! Salute your officer!
'Bout face! Attention! Take your rifle!
(Some dogs have arms, you see!) Now hold your
Cap while the gentlemen give a trifle,
To aid a poor old patriot soldier!

March! Halt! Now show how the rebel shakes
When he stands up to hear his sentence.
Now tell us how many drams it takes
To honor a jolly new acquaintance.
Five yelps,—that's five; he's mighty knowing!
The night's before us, fill the glasses!—
Quick, Sir! I'm ill,—my brain is going!—
Some brandy,—thank you,—there!—it passes!

Why not reform? That's easily said;
But I've gone through such wretched treatment,
Sometimes forgetting the taste of bread,
And scarce remembering what meat meant,
That my poor stomach's past reform;
And there are times when, mad with thinking,
I'd sell out heaven for something warm
To prop a horrible inward sinking.

Is there a way to forget to think?
At your age, Sir, home, fortune, friends,
A dear girl's love,—but I took to drink;—
The same old story; you know how it ends.
If you could have seen these classic features,—
You needn't laugh, Sir; they were not then
Such a burning libel on God's creatures;
I was one of your handsome men!

If you had seen HER, so fair and young,
Whose head was happy on this breast!
If you could have heard the songs I sung
When the wine went round, you wouldn't have guessed

That ever I, Sir, should be straying
From door to door, with fiddle and dog,
Ragged and penniless, and playing
To you to-night for a glass of grog!

She's married since,—a parson's wife:
'Twas better for her that we should part,—
Better the soberest, prosiest life
Than a blasted home and a broken heart.
I have seen her? Once: I was weak and spent
On the dusty road: a carriage stopped:
But little she dreamed, as on she went,
Who kissed the coin that her fingers dropped!

You've set me talking, Sir; I'm sorry,
It makes me wild to think of the change!
What do you care for a beggar's story?
Is it amusing? you find it strange?
I had a mother so proud of me!
'Twas well she died before—Do you know
If the happy spirits in heaven can see
The ruin and wretchedness here below?

Another glass, and strong, to deaden
This pain; then Roger and I will start.
I wonder, has he such a lumpish, leaden,
Aching thing in place of a heart?
He is sad sometimes, and would weep, if he could,
No doubt, remembering things that were,—
A virtuous kennel, with plenty of food,
And himself, a sober, respectable cur.

I'm better now; that glass was warming.—
You rascal! limber your lazy feet!
We must be fiddling and performing
For supper and bed, or starve in the street.—
Not a very gay life to lead, you think?
But soon we shall go where lodgings are free,
And the sleepers need neither victuals nor drink;—
The sooner the better for Roger and me!

John Townsend Trowbridge [1827–1916]

HOW WE BEAT THE FAVORITE

A LAY OF THE LOAMSHIRE HUNT CUP

"Aye, squire," said Stevens, "they back him at evens;
The race is all over, bar shouting, they say;
The Clown ought to beat her; Dick Neville is sweeter
Than ever—he swears he can win all the way.

"A gentleman rider—well, I'm an outsider,
But if he's a gent, who the mischief's a jock?
You swells mostly blunder, Dick rides for the plunder,
He rides, too, like thunder—he sits like a rock.

"He calls 'hunted fairly' a horse that has barely
Been stripped for a trot within sight of the hounds,
A horse that at Warwick beat Birdlime and Yorick,
And gave Abdelkader at Aintree nine pounds.

"They say we have no test to warrant a protest;
Dick rides for a lord and stands in with a steward;
The light of their faces they show him—his case is Prejudged and his verdict already secured.

"But none can outlast her, and few travel faster,
She strides in her work clean away from The Drag;
You hold her and sit her, she couldn't be fitter,
Whenever you hit her she'll spring like a stag.

"And p'raps the green jacket, at odds though they back it,
May fall, or there's no knowing what may turn up.
The mare is quite ready, sit still and ride steady,
Keep cool; and I think you may just win the Cup."

Dark-brown with tan muzzle, just stripped for the tussle,
Stood Iseult, arching her neck to the curb,
A lean head and fiery, strong quarters and wiry,
A loin rather light, but a shoulder superb.

Some parting injunction, bestowed with great unction,
I tried to recall, but forgot like a dunce,
When Reginald Murray, full tilt on White Surrey,
Came down in a hurry to start us at once.

"Keep back in the yellow! Come up on Othello!
Hold hard on the Chestnut! Turn round on The Drag!
Keep back there on Spartan! Back you, sir, in tartan!
So, steady there, easy," and down went the flag.

We started, and Kerr made strong running on Mermaid,
Through furrows that led to the first stake-and-bound,
The crack, half extended, looked bloodlike and splendid,
Held wide on the right where the headland was sound.

I pulled hard to baffle her rush with the snaffle,
Before her two-thirds of the field got away,
All through the wet pasture where floods of the last year
Still loitered, they clotted my crimson with clay.

The fourth fence, a wattle, floored Monk and Blue-bottle;
The Drag came to grief at the blackthorn and ditch,
The rails toppled over Redoubt and Red Rover,
The lane stopped Lycurgus and Leicestershire Witch.

She passed like an arrow Kildare and Cock Sparrow,
And Mantrap and Mermaid refused the stone wall;
And Giles on The Greyling came down at the paling,
And I was left sailing in front of them all.

I took them a burster, nor eased her nor nursed her
Until the Black Bullfinch led into the plow,
And through the strong bramble we bored with a scramble—
My cap was knocked off by the hazel-tree bough.

Where furrows looked lighter I drew the rein tighter;
Her dark chest all dappled with flakes of white foam,
Her flanks mud-bespattered, a weak rail she shattered;
We landed on turf with our heads turned for home.

Then crashed a low binder, and then close behind her
The sward to the strokes of the favorite shook;
His rush roused her mettle, yet ever so little
She shortened her stride as we raced at the brook.

She rose when I hit her. I saw the stream glitter,
A wide scarlet nostril flashed close to my knee,
Between sky and water The Clown came and caught her —
The space that he cleared was a caution to see.

And forcing the running, discarding all cunning,
A length to the front went the rider in green;
A long strip of stubble, and then the big double,
Two stiff flights of rails with a quickset between.

She raced at the rasper, I felt my knees grasp her,
I found my hands give to her strain on the bit,
She rose when The Clown did—our silks as we bounded
Brushed lightly, our stirrups clashed loud as we lit.

A rise steeply sloping, a fence with stone coping—
The last—we diverged round the base of the hill;
His path was the nearer, his leap was the clearer,
I flogged up the straight, and he led sitting still.

She came to his quarter, and on still I brought her,
And up to his girth, to his breast-plate she drew;
A short prayer from Neville just reached me,—"The devil!"
He muttered,—locked level the hurdles we flew.

A hum of hoarse cheering, a dense crowd careering,
All sights seen obscurely, all shouts vaguely heard;
"The green wins!" "The crimson!" The multitude swims on,
And figures are blended and features are blurred.

"The horse is her master!" "The green forges past her!"
"The Clown will outlast her!" "The Clown wins!"
"The Clown!"
The white railing races with all the white faces,
The chestnut outpaces, outstretches the brown.

On still past the gateway she strains in the straightway,
Still struggles, "The Clown by a short neck at most,"
He swerves, the green scourges, the stand rocks and surges,
And flashes, and verges, and flits the white post.

Ay! so ends the tussle,—I knew the tan muzzle
Was first, though the ring-men were yelling "Dead heat!"
A nose I could swear by, but Clarke said "The mare by
A short head." And that's how the favorite was beat.

Adam Lindsay Gordon [1833–1870]

PART VII

POEMS OF SORROW, DEATH AND IMMORTALITY

"DEATH, BE NOT PROUD"

From "Holy Sonnets"

DEATH, be not proud, though some have callèd thee
Mighty and dreadful, for thou art not so:
For those whom thou think'st thou dost overthrow
Die not, poor Death; nor yet canst thou kill me.
From Rest and Sleep, which but thy picture be,
Much pleasure, then from thee much more must flow;
And soonest our best men with thee do go—
Rest of their bones and souls' delivery!
Thou'rt slave to fate, chance, kings, and desperate men,
And dost with poison, war, and sickness dwell;
And poppy or charms can make us sleep as well
And better than thy stroke. Why swell'st thou then?
One short sleep past, we wake eternally,
And Death shall be no more: Death, thou shalt die!

John Donne [1573–1631]

IN THE SHADOW

MELANCHOLY

From "The Nice Valor"

HENCE, all you vain delights,
As short as are the nights,
Wherein you spend your folly:
There's naught in this life sweet
If man were wise to see't,
But only melancholy,
O sweetest Melancholy!
Welcome, folded arms, and fixèd eyes,
A sigh that piercing mortifies,
A look that's fastened to the ground,
A tongue chained up without a sound!
Fountain-heads and pathless groves,
Places which pale passion loves!
Moonlight walks, when all the fowls
Are warmly housed save bats and owls!
A midnight bell, a parting groan!
These are the sounds we feed upon;
Then stretch our bones in a still gloomy valley;
Nothing's so dainty sweet as lovely melancholy.

John Fletcher [1579–1625]

ON MELANCHOLY

No, no! go not to Lethe, neither twist
Wolf's-bane, tight-rooted, for its poisonous wine;
Nor suffer thy pale forehead to be kissed
By nightshade, ruby grape of Proserpine;
Make not your rosary of yew-berries,

Nor let the beetle, nor the death-moth be
Your mournful Psyche, nor the downy owl
A partner in your sorrow's mysteries;
For shade to shade will come too drowsily,
And drown the wakeful anguish of the soul.

But when the melancholy fit shall fall
Sudden from heaven like a weeping cloud,
That fosters the droop-headed flowers all,
And hides the green hill in an April shroud;
Then glut thy sorrow on a morning rose,
Or on the rainbow of the salt sand-wave,
Or on the wealth of globèd peonies;
Or if thy mistress some rich anger shows,
Emprison her soft hand, and let her rave,
And feed deep, deep upon her peerless eyes.

She dwells with Beauty—Beauty that must die;
And Joy, whose hand is ever at his lips
Bidding adieu; and aching Pleasure nigh,
Turning to poison while the bee-mouth sips:
Ay, in the very temple of Delight
Veiled Melancholy has her sovereign shrine,
Though seen of none save him whose strenuous tongue
Can burst Joy's grape against his palate fine:
His soul shall taste the sadness of her might,
And be among her cloudy trophies hung.

John Keats [1795–1821]

THE RAINY DAY

The day is cold, and dark, and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
The vine still clings to the moldering wall,
But at every gust the dead leaves fall,
And the day is dark and dreary.

My life is cold, and dark, and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;

My thoughts still cling to the moldering Past,
But the hopes of youth fall thick in the blast
And the days are dark and dreary.

Be still, sad heart! and cease repining;
Behind the clouds is the sun still shining;
Thy fate is the common fate of all,
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

THE PRECEPT OF SILENCE

I KNOW you: solitary griefs,
Desolate passions, aching hours!
I know you: tremulous beliefs,
Agonized hopes, and ashen flowers!

The winds are sometimes sad to me;
The starry spaces full of fear:
Mine is the sorrow on the sea,
And mine the sigh of places drear.

Some players upon plaintive strings
Publish their wistfulness abroad:
I have not spoken of these things,
Save to one man, and unto God.

Lionel Johnson [1867–1902]

"MOAN, MOAN, YE DYING GALES"

MOAN, moan, ye dying gales!
The saddest of your tales
Is not so sad as life;
Nor have you e'er began
A theme so wild as man,
Or with such sorrow rife.

Fall, fall, thou withered leaf!
Autumn sears not like grief,
Nor kills such lovely flowers;
More terrible the storm,
More mournful the deform,
When dark misfortune lowers.

Hush! hush! thou trembling lyre,
Silence, ye vocal choir,
And thou, mellifluous lute,
For man soon breathes his last,
And all his hope is past,
And all his music mute.

Then, when the gale is sighing,
And when the leaves are dying,
And when the song is o'er,
O, let us think of those
Whose lives are lost in woes,
Whose cup of grief runs o'er.

Henry Neele [1798–1828]

SORROW

COUNT each affliction, whether light or grave,
God's messenger sent down to thee; do thou
With courtesy receive him; rise and bow;
And, ere his shadow pass thy threshold, crave
Permission first his heavenly feet to lave;
Then lay before him all thou hast; allow
No cloud of passion to usurp thy brow,
Or mar thy hospitality; no wave
Of mortal tumult to obliterate
The soul's marmoreal calmness. Grief should be,
Like joy, majestic, equable, sedate;
Confirming, cleansing, raising, making free;
Strong to consume small troubles; to commend
Great thoughts, grave thoughts, thoughts lasting to the end.

Aubrey Thomas De Vere [1814–1902]

TIME AND GRIEF

O TIME! who know'st a lenient hand to lay
Softest on Sorrow's wound, and slowly thence (Lulling to sad repose the weary sense)
The faint pang stealest unperceived away;

On thee I rest my only hope at last,
And think, when thou hast dried the bitter tear
That flows in vain o'er all my soul held dear,
I may look back on every sorrow past,
And meet life's peaceful evening with a smile:
As some lone bird, at day's departing hour,
Sings in the sunbeam, of the transient shower
Forgetful, though its wings are wet the while:—
Yet ah! how much must that poor heart endure,
Which hopes from thee, and thee alone, a cure!

William Lisle Bowles [1762–1850]

GRIEF

I TELL you, hopeless grief is passionless;
That only men incredulous of despair,
Half-taught in anguish, through the midnight air
Beat upward to God's throne in loud access
Of shrieking and reproach. Full desertness,
In souls as countries, lieth silent-bare
Under the blanching, vertical eye-glare
Of the absolute Heavens. Deep-hearted man, express
Grief for thy Dead in silence like to death—
Most like a monumental statue set
In everlasting watch and moveless woe
Till itself crumble to the dust beneath.
Touch it; the marble eyelids are not wet:
If it could weep, it could arise and go.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning [1806–1861]

PAIN

DISMAL and purposeless and gray
The world and all its woe, we say,
Poor slaves! who in hot hours of pain
Yearn for the night to come again.

Like tortured men at length set free,
We stagger from our misery,
And watch with foolish, pain-dimmed eyes
Vague lands and unremembered skies.

When lo! what sudden splendor spreads
Its heaven of rose above our heads!
What soft winds visit our despair;
What lights, what voices everywhere!

Ere sorrow taught us, knew we these
Stupendous hills, amazing seas?
Shone there such moonlight on the lawn;
So deep a secret in the dawn?

What wandering hue from Paradise
Has found a home in children's eyes?
What women these, whose faces bless
Life with such tranquil tenderness?

When earth and sky and man seem fair,
Be this my watchword, this my prayer:
Grant me, O Gods, to prize aright
Sorrow, since sorrow gives me sight.

St. John Lucas [18 –

A FAREWELL

Flow down, cold rivulet, to the sea,
Thy tribute wave deliver
No more by thee my steps shall be,
For ever and for ever.

Flow, softly flow, by lawn and lea,
A rivulet, then a river:
No where by thee my steps shall be,
For ever and for ever.

But here will sigh thine alder-tree,
And here thine aspen shiver;
And here by thee will hum the bee,
For ever and for ever.

A thousand suns will stream on thee,
A thousand moons will quiver;
But not by thee my steps shall be,
For ever and for ever.

Alfred Tennyson [1809–1892]

"THE DAY IS DONE"

THE day is done, and the darkness
Falls from the wings of Night,
As a feather is wafted downward
From an eagle in his flight.

I see the lights of the village
Gleam through the rain and the mist,
And a feeling of sadness comes o'er me
That my soul cannot resist:

A feeling of sadness and longing,
That is not akin to pain,
And resembles sorrow only
As the mist resembles the rain.

Come, read to me some poem,
Some simple and heartfelt lay,
That shall soothe this restless feeling,
And banish the thoughts of day.

Not from the grand old masters,
Not from the bards sublime,
Whose distant footsteps echo
Through the corridors of Time.

For, like strains of martial music,
Their mighty thoughts suggest
Life's endless toil and endeavor;
And to-night I long for rest.

Read from some humbler poet,
Whose songs gushed from his heart,
As showers from the clouds of summer,
Or tears from the eyelids start;

Who, through long days of labor,
And nights devoid of ease,
Still heard in his soul the music
Of wonderful melodies

Such songs have power to quiet
The restless pulse of care,
And come like the benediction
That follows after prayer.

Then read from the treasured volume
The poem of thy choice,
And lend to the rhyme of the poet
The beauty of thy voice.

And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares, that infest the day,
Shall fold their tents, like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

THE BRIDGE

I STOOD on the bridge at midnight,
As the clocks were striking the hour,
And the moon rose o'er the city,
Behind the dark church-tower.

I saw her bright reflection
In the waters under me,
Like a golden goblet falling
And sinking into the sea.

And far in the hazy distance
Of that lovely night in June,
The blaze of the flaming furnace
Gleamed redder than the moon.

Among the long, black rafters
The wavering shadows lay,
And the current that came from the ocean
Seemed to lift and bear them away,

As, sweeping and eddying through them,
Rose the belated tide,
And, streaming into the moonlight,
The seaweed floated wide.

And like those waters rushing
Among the wooden piers,
A flood of thoughts came o'er me
That filled my eyes with tears.

How often, oh, how often,
In the days that had gone by,
I had stood on that bridge at midnight
And gazed on that wave and sky!

How often, oh, how often,
I had wished that the ebbing tide
Would bear me away on its bosom
O'er the ocean wild and wide!

For my heart was hot and restless,
And my life was full of care,
And the burden laid upon me
Seemed greater than I could bear.

But now it has fallen from me,
It is buried in the sea;
And only the sorrow of others
Throws its shadow over me.

Yet whenever I cross the river
On its bridge with wooden piers,
Like the odor of brine from the ocean
Comes the thought of other years.

And I think how many thousands
Of care-encumbered men,
Each bearing his burden of sorrow,
Have crossed the bridge since then.

I see the long procession
Still passing to and fro,
The young heart hot and restless,
And the old subdued and slow!

And forever and forever,
As long as the river flows,
As long as the heart has passions,
As long as life has woes;

The moon and its broken reflection
And its shadow shall appear,
As the symbol of love in heaven,
And its wavering image here.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

"MY LIFE IS LIKE THE SUMMER ROSE"

My life is like the summer rose
That opens to the morning sky,
But, ere the shades of evening close,
Is scattered on the ground—to die!
Yet on the rose's humble bed
The sweetest dews of night are shed,
As if she wept the waste to see,—
But none shall weep a tear for me!

My life is like the autumn leaf
That trembles in the moon's pale ray;
Its hold is frail,—its date is brief,
Restless,—and soon to pass away!
Yet, ere that leaf shall fall and fade,
The parent tree will mourn its shade,
The winds bewail the leafless tree,—
But none shall breathe a sigh for me!

My life is like the prints, which feet
Have left on Tampa's desert strand;
Soon as the rising tide shall beat,
All trace will vanish from the sand;
Yet, as if grieving to efface
All vestige of the human race,
On that lone shore loud moans the sea,—
But none, alas! shall mourn for me!

Richard Henry Wilde [1789–1847]

"AS I LAYE A-THYNKYNGE"

As I laye a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge,
Merrie sang the Birde as she sat upon the spraye;
There came a noble Knyghte,
With his hauberke shynynge brighte,
And his gallant heart was lyghte,
Free and gaye;
As I laye a-thynkynge, he rode upon his waye.

As I laye a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge,
Sadly sang the Birde as she sat upon the tree!
There seemed a crimson plain,
Where a gallant Knyghte lay slayne,
And a steed with broken rein
Ran free,
As I laye a-thynkynge, most pitiful to see!

As I laye a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge,
Merrie sang the Birde as she sat upon the boughe;
A lovely maide came by,
And a gentil youthe was nyghe,
And he breathed many a syghe
And a vowe;
As I laye a-thynkynge, her hearte was gladsome now.

As I laye a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge,
Sadly sang the Birde as she sat upon the thorne;
No more a youth was there,
But a Maiden rent her haire,
And cried in sad despaire
"That I was borne!"
As I laye a-thynkynge, she perishèd forlorne.

As I laye a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge,
Sweetly sang the Birde as she sat upon the briar;
There came a lovely Childe,
And his face was meek and mild,
Yet joyously he smiled
On his sire;
As I laye a-thynkynge, a Cherub mote admire.

But I laye a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge,
And sadly sang the Birde as it perched upon a bier;
That joyous smile was gone,
And the face was white and wan,
As the downe upon the Swan
Doth appear,
As I laye a-thynkynge—oh! bitter flowed the tear!

As I laye a-thynkynge, the golden sun was sinking,
O merrie sang that Birde as it glittered on her breast
With a thousand glorious dyes,
While, soaring to the skies,
'Mid the stars she seemed to rise,
As to her nest;

As I laye a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge,
As I laye a-thynkynge, her meaning was expressed:—
"Follow, follow me away,
It boots not to delay,"—
'Twas so she seemed to saye,
"HERE IS REST!"

Richard Harris Barham [1788–1845]

THE HARP OF SORROW

SORROW has a harp of seven strings
And plays on it unceasing all the day;
The first string sings of love that is long dead,
The second sings of lost hopes burièd;
The third of happiness forgot and fled.
Of vigil kept in vain the fourth cord sings,
And the fifth string of roses dropped away.
The sixth string calls and is unanswerèd,
The seventh with your name for ever rings—
I listen for its singing all the day!

Ethel Clifford [18 –

THE JOURNEY ONWARDS

As slow our ship her foamy track
Against the wind was cleaving,
Her trembling pennant still looked back

To that dear Isle 'twas leaving.
So loth we part from all we love,
From all the links that bind us;
So turn our hearts, as on we rove,
To those we've left behind us!

When, round the bowl, of vanished years
We talk with joyous seeming,
With smiles, that might as well be tears,
So faint, so sad their beaming;
While memory brings us back again
Each early tie that twined us,
Oh, sweet's the cup that circles then
To those we've left behind us!

And when, in other climes, we meet
Some isle, or vale enchanting,
Where all looks flowery, wild, and sweet,
And naught but love is wanting;
We think how great had been our bliss
If Heaven had but assigned us
To live and die in scenes like this,
With some we've left behind us!

As travelers oft look back at eve
When eastward darkly going,
To gaze upon that light they leave
Still faint behind them glowing,—
So, when the close of pleasure's day
To gloom hath near consigned us,
We turn to catch one fading ray
Of joy that's left behind us.

Thomas Moore [1779–1852]

SONG

IN LEINSTER

I TRY to knead and spin, but my life is low the while.
Oh, I long to be alone, and walk abroad a mile;
Yet if I walk alone, and think of naught at all,
Why from me that's young should the wild tears fall?

The shower-sodden earth, the earth-colored streams,
They breathe on me awake, and moan to me in dreams,
And yonder ivy fondling the broke castle-wall,
It pulls upon my heart till the wild tears fall.

The cabin-door looks down a furze-lighted hill,
And far as Leighlin Cross the fields are green and still;
But once I hear the blackbird in Leighlin hedges call,
The foolishness is on me, and the wild tears fall!

Louise Imogen Guiney [1861–

MY SORROW

My sorrow that I am not by the little dun,
By the lake of the starlings at Rosses under the hill—
And the larks there, singing over the fields of dew,
Or evening there, and the sedges still!
For plain I see now the length of the yellow sand,
And Lissadell far off and its leafy ways,
And the holy mountain whose mighty heart
Gathers into it all the colored days.
My sorrow that I am not by the little dun,
By the lake of the starlings at evening when all is still—
And still in whispering sedges the herons stand.
'Tis there I would nestle at rest till the quivering moon
Uprose in the golden quiet over the hill.

Seumas O'Sullivan [1879–

SPIRIT OF SADNESS

She loved the Autumn, I the Spring,
Sad all the songs she loved to sing;
And in her face was strangely set
Some great inherited regret.

Some look in all things made her sigh,
Yea! sad to her the morning sky:
"So sad! so sad its beauty seems"—
I hear her say it still in dreams.

But when the day grew gray and old,
And rising stars shone strange and cold,
Then only in her face I saw
A mystic glee, a joyous awe.

Spirit of Sadness, in the spheres
Is there an end of mortal tears?
Or is there still in those great eyes
That look of lonely hills and skies?

Richard Le Gallienne [1866–

"'TIS BUT A LITTLE FADED FLOWER"

'Tis but a little faded flower,
But oh, how fondly dear!
'Twill bring me back one golden hour,
Through many a weary year.
I may not to the world impart
The secret of its power,
But treasured in my inmost heart,
I keep my faded flower.

Where is the heart that doth not keep,
Within its inmost core,
Some fond remembrance, hidden deep,
Of days that are no more?
Who hath not saved some trifling thing
More prized than jewels rare—
A faded flower, a broken ring,
A tress of golden hair?

Ellen Clementine Howarth [1827–1899]

TO EACH HIS OWN

Each hath his drug for Sorrow
(Or else the pain would slay!)
For one, it is "To-morrow";
For one, 'tis "Yesterday."

"And hast thou lost, my Brother?"
"Yea, but in dreams I find."
"And I" (so saith another)
"Leave buried dead behind!"

For each, when gyves are fretting,
A different balm must be.
Some find it in forgetting,
And some in memory.

Margaret Root Garvin [18 -

SONG

RARELY, rarely comest thou,
Spirit of Delight!
Wherefore hast thou left me now
Many a day and night?
Many a weary night and day
'Tis since thou art fled away.

How shall ever one like me
Win thee back again?
With the joyous and the free
Thou wilt scoff at pain.
Spirit false! thou hast forgot
All but those who need thee not.

As a lizard with the shade
Of a trembling leaf,
Thou with sorrow art dismayed;
Even the sighs of grief
Reproach thee, that thou art not near,
And reproach thou wilt not hear.

Let me set my mournful ditty
To a merry measure:
Thou wilt never come for pity,
Thou wilt come for pleasure;
Pity then will cut away
Those cruel wings, and thou wilt stay.

I love all that thou lovest,
Spirit of Delight!
The fresh Earth in new leaves dressed,
And the starry night,
Autumn evening, and the morn
When the golden mists are born.

I love snow, and all the forms
Of the radiant frost;
I love waves, and winds, and storms—
Everything almost
Which is Nature's, and may be
Untainted by man's misery.

I love tranquil solitude,
And such society
As is quiet, wise, and good;
Between thee and me
What difference? But thou dost possess
The things I seek, not love them less.

I love Love—though he has wings,
And like light can flee;
But above all other things,
Spirit, I love thee!—
Thou art love and life! Oh, come,
Make once more my heart thy home!

Percy Bysshe Shelley [1792–1822]

THE NAMELESS ONE

Roll forth, my song, like the rushing river,
That sweeps along to the mighty sea;
God will inspire me while I deliver
My soul of thee!

Tell thou the world, when my bones lie whitening
Amid the last homes of youth and eld,
That once there was one whose veins ran lightning
No eye beheld.

Tell how his boyhood was one drear night-hour,
How shone for him, through his griefs and gloom,
No star of all heaven sends to light our
Path to the tomb.

Roll on, my song, and to after ages
Tell how, disdaining all earth can give,
He would have taught men, from wisdom's pages,
The way to live.

And tell how trampled, derided, hated,
And worn by weakness, disease, and wrong,
He fled for shelter to God, who mated
His soul with song.

—With song which alway, sublime or vapid,
Flowed like a rill in the morning beam,
Perchance not deep, but intense and rapid:
A mountain stream.

Tell how this Nameless, condemned for years long
To herd with demons from hell beneath,
Saw things that made him, with groans and tears, long
For even death.

Go on to tell how, with genius wasted,
Betrayed in friendship, befooled in love,
With spirit shipwrecked, and young hopes blasted,
He still, still strove;

Till, spent with toil, dreeing death for others
(And some whose hands should have wrought for him,
If children live not for sires and mothers),
His mind grew dim;

And he fell far through that pit abysmal,
The gulf and grave of Maginn and Burns,
And pawned his soul for the devil's dismal
Stock of returns.

But yet redeemed it in days of darkness,
And shapes and signs of the final wrath,

When death, in hideous and ghastly starkness,
Stood on his path.

And tell how now, amid wreck and sorrow,
And want, and sickness, and houseless nights,
He bides in calmness the silent morrow,
That no ray lights.

And lives he still, then? Yes! Old and hoary
At thirty-nine, from despair and woe,
He lives, enduring what future story
Will never know.

Him grant a grave to, ye pitying noble,
Deep in your bosoms: there let him dwell!
He, too, had tears for all souls in trouble,
Here and in hell.

James Clarence Mangan [1803–1849]

"DE MORTUIS NIL NISI BONUM"

(WRITTEN ON THE NIGHT OF HIS SUICIDE)

"De mortuis nil nisi bonum." When
For me this end has come and I am dead,
And the little voluble, chattering daws of men
Peck at me curiously, let it then be said
By some one brave enough to speak the truth:
Here lies a great soul killed by cruel wrong.
Down all the balmy days of his fresh youth
To his bleak, desolate noon, with sword and song,
And speech that rushed up hotly from the heart,
He wrought for liberty, till his own wound
(He had been stabbed), concealed with painful art
Through wasting years, mastered him, and he swooned,
And sank there where you see him lying now
With the word "Failure" written on his brow.

But say that he succeeded. If he missed
World's honors, and world's plaudits, and the wage
Of the world's deft lacqueys, still his lips were kissed
Daily by those high angels who assuage

The thirstings of the poets—for he was
Born unto singing—and a burthen lay
Mightily on him, and he moaned because
He could not rightly utter to the day
What God taught in the night. Sometimes, nathless,
Power fell upon him, and bright tongues of flame,
And blessings reached him from poor souls in stress;
And benedictions from black pits of shame,
And little children's love, and old men's prayers,
And a Great Hand that led him unawares.

So he died rich. And if his eyes were blurred
With big films—silence! he is in his grave.
Greatly he suffered; greatly, too, he erred;
Yet broke his heart in trying to be brave.
Nor did he wait till Freedom had become
The popular shibboleth of courtier's lips;
He smote for her when God Himself seemed dumb
And all His arching skies were in eclipse.
He was a-weary, but he fought his fight,
And stood for simple manhood; and was joyed
To see the august broadening of the light
And new earths heaving heavenward from the void.
He loved his fellows, and their love was sweet—
Plant daisies at his head and at his feet.

Richard Realf [1834–1878]

HOPE AND DESPAIR

Said God, "You sisters, ere ye go
Down among men, my work to do,
I will on each a badge bestow:
Hope I love best, and gold for her,
Yet a silver glory for Despair;
For she is my angel too."

Then like a queen, Despair
Put on the stars to wear.
But Hope took ears of corn, and round
Her temples in a wreath them bound.—
Which think ye looked the more fair?

Lascelles Abercrombie [1884–

DEJECTION: AN ODE

Late, late yestreen I saw the new Moon,
With the old Moon in her arms;
And I fear, I fear, my Master dear!
We shall have a deadly storm.
Ballad of Sir Patrick Spence.

I

Well! If the Bard was weather-wise, who made
The grand old ballad of Sir Patrick Spence,
This night, so tranquil now, will not go hence
Unroused by winds, that ply a busier trade
Than those which mould yon cloud in lazy flakes,
Or the dull sobbing draft, that moans and rakes
Upon the strings of this Æolian lute,
Which better far were mute.
For lo! the New-moon winter-bright!
And overspread with phantom light,
(With swimming phantom light o'erspread
But rimmed and circled by a silver thread)
I see the old Moon in her lap, foretelling
The coming-on of rain and squally blast.
And oh! that even now the gust were swelling,
And the slant night-shower driving loud and fast!
Those sounds which oft have raised me, whilst they awed,
And sent my soul abroad,
Might now perhaps their wonted impulse give,
Might startle this dull pain, and make it move and live!

II

A grief without a pang, void, dark, and drear,
A stifled, drowsy, unimpassioned grief,
Which finds no natural outlet, no relief,
In word, or sigh, or tear—
O Lady! in this wan and heartless mood,
To other thoughts by yonder throstle wooed,
All this long eve, so balmy and serene,
Have I been gazing on the western sky,
And its peculiar tint of yellow green:
And still I gaze—and with how blank an eye!

And those thin clouds above, in flakes and bars,
That give away their motion to the stars;
Those stars, that glide behind them or between,
Now sparkling, now bedimmed, but always seen:
Yon crescent Moon, as fixed as if it grew
In its own cloudless, starless lake of blue;
I see them all so excellently fair,
I see, not feel, how beautiful they are!

III

My genial spirits fail;
And what can these avail
To lift the smothering weight from off my breast?
It were a vain endeavor,
Though I should gaze for ever
On that green light that lingers in the west:
I may not hope from outward forms to win
The passion and the life, whose fountains are within.

IV

O Lady! we receive but what we give,
And in our life alone does Nature live:
Ours is her wedding garment, ours her shroud!
And would we aught behold, of higher worth,
Than that inanimate cold world allowed
To the poor loveless ever-anxious crowd,
Ah! from the soul itself must issue forth
A light, a glory, a fair luminous cloud
Enveloping the Earth—
And from the soul itself must there be sent
A sweet and potent voice, of its own birth,
Of all sweet sounds the life and element!

V

O pure of heart! thou need'st not ask of me
What this strong music in the soul may be!
What, and wherein it doth exist,
This light, this glory, this fair luminous mist,
This beautiful and beauty-making power.

Joy, virtuous Lady! Joy that ne'er was given,
Save to the pure, and in their purest hour,
Life, and Life's effluence, cloud at once and shower,
Joy, Lady! is the spirit and the power,
Which wedding Nature to us gives in dower
A new Earth and new Heaven,
Undreamt of by the sensual and the proud—
Joy is the sweet voice, Joy the luminous cloud—
We in ourselves rejoice!
And thence flows all that charms or ear or sight,
All melodies the echoes of that voice,
All colors a suffusion from that light.

VI

There was a time when, though my path was rough,
This joy within me dallied with distress,
And all misfortunes were but as the stuff
Whence Fancy made me dreams of happiness:
For hope grew round me, like the twining vine,
And fruits, and foliage, not my own, seemed mine.
But now afflictions bow me down to earth:
Nor care I that they rob me of my mirth;
But oh! each visitation
Suspends what nature gave me at my birth,
My shaping spirit of Imagination.
For not to think of what I needs must feel,
But to be still and patient, all I can;
And haply by abstruse research to steal
From my own nature all the natural man—
This was my sole resource, my only plan:
Till that which suits a part infects the whole,
And now is almost grown the habit of my soul.

VII

Hence, viper thoughts, that coil around my mind,
Reality's dark dream!
I turn from you, and listen to the wind,
Which long has raved unnoticed. What a scream
Of agony by torture lengthened out
That lute sent forth! Thou Wind, that rav'st without,
Bare crag, or mountain-tairn, or blasted tree,

Or pine-grove whither woodman never clomb,
Or lonely house, long held the witches' home,
Methinks were fitter instruments for thee,
Mad Lutanist! who in this month of showers,
Of dark-brown gardens, and of peeping flowers,
Mak'st Devils' yule, with worse than wintry song,
The blossoms, buds, and timorous leaves among.
Thou Actor, perfect in all tragic sounds!
Thou mighty Poet, e'en to frenzy bold!
What tell'st thou now about?
'Tis of the rushing of an host in rout,
With groans, of trampled men, with smarting wounds—
At once they groan with pain, and shudder with the cold!
But hush! there is a pause of deepest silence!
And all that noise, as of a rushing crowd,
With groans, and tremulous shudderings—all is over—
It tells another tale, with sounds less deep and loud!
A tale of less affright,
And tempered with delight,
As Otway's self had framed the tender lay,—
'Tis of a little child
Upon a lonesome wild,
Not far from home, but she hath lost her way:
And now moans low in bitter grief and fear,
And now screams loud, and hopes to make her mother hear.

VIII

'Tis midnight, but small thoughts have I of sleep:
Full seldom may my friend such vigils keep!
Visit her, gentle Sleep! with wings of healing,
And may this storm be but a mountain-birth,
May all the stars hang bright above her dwelling,
Silent as though they watched the sleeping Earth!
With light heart may she rise,
Gay fancy, cheerful eyes,
Joy lift her spirit, joy attune her voice;
To her may all things live, from pole to pole,
Their life the eddying of her living soul!
O simple spirit, guided from above,
Dear Lady! friend devoutest of my choice,
Thus mayest thou ever, evermore rejoice.

Samuel Taylor Coleridge [1772–1834]

WORK WITHOUT HOPE

All Nature seems at work. Slugs leave their lair—
The bees are stirring—birds are on the wing—
And Winter slumbering in the open air,
Wears on his smiling face a dream of Spring!
And I the while, the sole unbusy thing,
Nor honey make, nor pair, nor build, nor sing.

Yet well I ken the banks where amaranths blow,
Have traced the fount whence streams of nectar flow.
Bloom, O ye amaranths! bloom for whom ye may,
For me ye bloom not! Glide, rich streams, away!
With lips unbrightened, wreathless brow, I stroll:
And would you learn the spells that drowse my soul?
Work without Hope draws nectar in a sieve,
And Hope without an object cannot live.

Samuel Taylor Coleridge [1772–1834]

CARE

All in the leafy darkness, when sleep had passed me by,
I knew the surging of the sea—
Though never wave were nigh.
All in the leafy darkness, unbroken by a star,
There came the clamorous call of day,
While yet the day was far.
All in the leafy darkness, woven with hushes deep,
I heard the vulture wings of Fear
Above me tireless sweep;
The sea of Doubt, the dread of day, upon me surged and swept
All in the leafy darkness,
And while the whole world slept.

Virginia Woodward Cloud [18

AT THE SALON

Brave as the firstborn flame upsprings the statue,
A worshiper of the Sun:
With arms and lips and vital hair he praises
The Dawn begun.

Buoyancy, adoration of beginnings,
He soars tiptoe,

Nor heeds he that his plinth was wreathed with cypress
An hour ago,

Memorial of the maker of the statue
Who in his ultimate pain
Set free the spirit in the block of marble,
—Child of his brain.

The men and women pacing through the Salon
By that grave challenge are stopped,
Pondering on him from whose arrested fingers
The tool has dropped.

For him black weeds are draped and just one moment
Chatter is mute,
While, like a skylark, sings his last glad sculpture
Its flame salute.

Florence Wilkinson [18

THE WIND'S WAY

A WHITE way is the wind's way,
The silver side o' the leaf:
Follow the wind, heart of mine,
Heart of grief!

Wind of the dawn, wind of the dusk,
Wingèd wind of the day,
Who would follow the wind must go
The wind's way.

Grace Hazard Conkling [1878–

TROPICAL TOWN

BLUE, pink and yellow houses, and, afar,
The cemetery, where the green trees are.

Sometimes you see a hungry dog pass by,
And there are always buzzards in the sky,
Sometimes you hear the big cathedral bell;
A blind man rings it; and sometimes you hear
A rumbling ox-cart that brings wood to sell.
Else nothing ever breaks the ancient spell

That holds the town asleep, save, once a year,
The Easter Festival. . .

I come from there,
And when I tire of hoping, and despair
Is heavy over me, my thoughts go far,
Beyond that length of lazy street, to where
The lonely green trees and the white graves are.

Salomón de la Selva [1893–

SUNSET WINGS

To-night this sunset spreads two golden wings
Cleaving the western sky;
Winged too with wind it is, and winnowings
Of birds; as if the day's last hour in rings
Of strenuous flight must die.

Sun-steeped in fire, the homeward pinions sway
Above the dovecote-tops;
And clouds of starlings, ere they rest with day,
Sink, clamorous like mill-waters, at wild play,
By turns in every copse:

Each tree heart-deep the wrangling rout receives,—
Save for the whirr within,
You could not tell the starlings from the leaves;
Then one great puff of wings, and the swarm heaves
Away with all its din.

Even thus Hope's hours, in ever-eddying flight,
To many a refuge tend;
With the first light she laughed, and the last light
Glows round her still; who natheless in the night
At length must make an end.

And now the mustering rooks innumerable
Together sail and soar,
While for the day's death, like a tolling knell,
Unto the heart they seem to cry, Farewell,
No more, farewell, no more!

Is Hope not plumed, as 'twere a fiery dart?
And oh! thou dying day,
Even as thou goest must she too depart,
And Sorrow fold such pinions on the heart
As will not fly away?

Dante Gabriel Rossetti [1828–1882]

MORALITY

We cannot kindle when we will
The fire which in the heart resides:
The spirit bloweth and is still,
In mystery our soul abides.
But tasks in hours of insight willed
Can be through hours of gloom fulfilled.

With aching hands and bleeding feet
We dig and heap, lay stone on stone;
We bear the burden and the heat
Of the long day, and wish 'twere done.
Not till the hours of light return
All we have built do we discern.

Then, when the clouds are off the soul,
When thou dost bask in Nature's eye,
Ask, how she viewed thy self-control,
Thy struggling, tasked morality—
Nature, whose free, light, cheerful air,
Oft made thee, in thy gloom, despair.

And she, whose answer thou dost dread
Whose eye thou wast afraid to seek,
See, on her face a glow is spread,
A strong emotion on her cheek!
"Ah, child," she cries, "that strife divine,
Whence was it, for it is not mine?

"There is no effort on my brow—
I do not strive, I do not weep;
I rush with the swift spheres and glow
In joy, and when I will, I sleep.
Yet that severe, that earnest air,
I saw, I felt it once—but where?

"I knew not yet the gauge of time,
Nor wore the manacles of space;
I felt it in some other clime,
I saw it in some other place.
'Twas when the heavenly house I trod,
And lay upon the breast of God.

Matthew Arnold [1822–1888]

CUI BONO

What is Hope? A smiling rainbow
Children follow through the wet;
'Tis not here, still yonder, yonder:
Never urchin found it yet.

What is Life? A thawing iceboard
On a sea with sunny shore;
Gay we sail; it melts beneath us;
We are sunk, and seen no more.

What is Man? A foolish baby,
Vainly strives, and fights, and frets;
Demanding all, deserving nothing;
One small grave is what he gets.

Thomas Carlyle [1795–1881]

MUTABILITY

The flower that smiles to-day
To-morrow dies;
All that we wish to stay
Tempts, and then flies.
What is this world's delight?
Lightning that mocks the night,
Brief even as bright.

Virtue, how frail it is!
Friendship how rare!
Love, how it sells poor bliss
For proud despair!
But we, though soon they fall,
Survive their joy, and all
Which ours we call.

Whilst skies are blue and bright,
Whilst flowers are gay,
Whilst eyes that change ere night
Make glad the day,
Whilst yet the calm hours creep,
Dream thou—and from thy sleep
Then wake to weep.

Percy Bysshe Shelley [1792–1822]

A FANCY FROM FONTENELLE

De mémoires de Roses on n'a point vu mourir le Jardinier

THE Rose in the garden slipped her bud,
And she laughed in the pride of her youthful blood,
As she thought of the Gardener standing by—
"He is old—so old! And he soon must die!"

The full Rose waxed in the warm June air,
And she spread and spread till her heart lay bare;
And she laughed once more as she heard his tread—
"He is older now! He will soon be dead!"

But the breeze of the morning blew, and found
That the leaves of the blown Rose strewed the ground;
And he came at noon, that Gardener old,
And he raked them gently under the mold.

And I wove the thing to a random rhyme:
For the Rose is Beauty; the Gardener, Time.

Austin Dobson [1840–

"OH, EARLIER SHALL THE ROSEBUDS BLOW"

OH, earlier shall the rosebuds blow,
In after years, those happier years,
And children weep, when we lie low,
Far fewer tears, far softer tears.

Oh, true shall boyish laughter ring,
Like tinkling chimes, in kinder times!
And merrier shall the maiden sing:
And I not there, and I not there.

Like lightning in the summer night
Their mirth shall be, so quick and free;
And oh! the flash of their delight
I shall not see, I may not see.

In deeper dream, with wider range,
Those eyes shall shine, but not on mine:
Unmoved, unblest, by worldly change,
The dead must rest, the dead shall rest.

William Johnson Cory [1823–1892]

THE DOVE

I HAD a dove, and the sweet dove died;
And I have thought it died of grieving:
O, what could it grieve for? Its feet were tied
With a silken thread of my own hand's weaving;
Sweet little red feet! why should you die—
Why would you leave me, sweet bird! why?
You lived alone in the forest tree,
Why, pretty thing! would you not live with me?
I kissed you oft and gave you white peas;
Why not live sweetly, as in the green trees?

John Keats [1795–1821]

THE WHISPERERS

As beneath the moon I walked,
Dog-at-heel my shadow stalked,
Keeping ghostly company:
And as we went gallantly
Down the fell-road, dusty-white,
Round us in the windy night
Bracken, rushes, bent and heather
Whispered ceaselessly together:
"Would he ever journey more,
Ever stride so carelessly,
If he knew what lies before,
And could see what we can see?"

As I listened, cold with dread,
Every hair upon my head

Strained to hear them talk of me,
Whispering, whispering ceaselessly:
"Folly's fool the man must be,
Surely, since, though where he goes
He knows not, his shadow knows:
And his secret shadow never
Utters warning words, or ever
Seeks to save him from his fate,
Reckless, blindfold, and unknown,
Till death tells him all, too late,
And his shadow walks alone."

Wilfrid Wilson Gibson [1878–

ON A TEAR

O THAT the chemist's magic art
Could crystallize this sacred treasure!
Long should it glitter near my heart,
A secret source of pensive pleasure.

The little brilliant, ere it fell,
Its luster caught from Chloe's eye;
Then, trembling, left its coral cell,—
The spring of Sensibility!

Sweet drop of pure and pearly light!
In thee the rays of Virtue shine,
More calmly clear, more mildly bright,
Than any gem that gilds the mine.

Benign restorer of the soul!
Who ever fliest to bring relief,
When first we feel the rude control
Of Love or Pity, Joy or Grief.

The sage's and the poet's theme,
In every clime, in every age,
Thou charm'st in Fancy's idle dream,
In Reason's philosophic page.

That very law which molds a tear,
And bids it trickle from its source,—
That law preserves the earth a sphere,
And guides the planets in their course.

Samuel Rogers [1763–1855]

THE ROSARY OF MY TEARS

Some reckon their age by years,
Some measure their life by art;
But some tell their days by the flow of their tears,
And their lives by the moans of their heart.

The dials of earth may show
The length, not the depth, of years—
Few or many they come, few or many they go,
But time is best measured by tears.

Ah! not by the silver gray
That creeps through the sunny hair,
And not by the scenes that we pass on our way,
And not by the furrows the fingers of care

On forehead and face have made,—
Not so do we count our years;
Not by the sun of the earth, but the shade
Of our souls, and the fall of our tears.

For the young are oft-times old,
Though their brows be bright and fair;
While their blood beats warm, their hearts are cold—
O'er them the spring—but winter is there;

And the old are oft-times young
When their hair is thin and white;
And they sing in age, as in youth they sung,
And they laugh, for their cross was light.

But, bead by bead, I tell
The rosary of my years;
From a cross to a cross they lead; 'tis well,
And they're blest with a blessing of tears.

Better a day of strife
Than a century of sleep;
Give me instead of a long stream of life
The tempests and tears of the deep.

A thousand joys may foam
On the billows of all the years;
But never the foam brings the lone back home,—
He reaches the haven through tears.

Abram J. Ryan [1839–1888]

ENDURANCE

How much the heart may bear, and yet not break!
How much the flesh may suffer, and not die!
I question much if any pain or ache
Of soul or body brings our end more nigh:
Death chooses his own time; till that is sworn,
All evils may be borne.

We shrink and shudder at the surgeon's knife,
Each nerve recoiling from the cruel steel
Whose edge seems searching for the quivering life;
Yet to our sense the bitter pangs reveal,
That still, although the trembling flesh be torn,
This also can be borne.

We see a sorrow rising in our way,
And try to flee from the approaching ill;
We seek some small escape: we weep and pray;
But when the blow falls, then our hearts are still;
Not that the pain is of its sharpness shorn,
But that it can be borne.

We wind our life about another life;
We hold it closer, dearer than our own:
Anon it faints and fails in deathly strife,
Leaving us stunned and stricken and alone;
But ah! we do not die with those we mourn,—
This also can be borne.

Behold, we live through all things,—famine, thirst,
Bereavement, pain; all grief and misery,
All woe and sorrow; life inflicts its worst
On soul and body,—but we can not die.
Though we be sick, and tired, and faint, and worn,—
Lo, all things can be borne!

Elizabeth Akers [1832–1911]

LANGLEY LANE

In all the land, range up, range down,
Is there ever a place so pleasant and sweet,
As Langley Lane in London town,
Just out of the bustle of square and street?
Little white cottages all in a row,
Gardens where bachelors'-buttons grow,
Swallows' nests in roof and wall,
And up above the still blue sky,
Where the woolly white clouds go sailing by—
I seem to be able to see it all!

For now, in summer, I take my chair,
And sit outside in the sun, and hear
The distant murmur of street and square,
And the swallows and sparrows chirping near;
And Fanny, who lives just over the way,
Comes running many a time each day,
With her little hand's-touch so warm and kind,
And I smile and talk, with the sun on my cheek,
And the little live hand seems to stir and speak—
For Fanny is dumb and I am blind.

Fanny is sweet thirteen, and she
Has fine black ringlets and dark eyes clear,
And I am older by summers three,—
Why should we hold one another so dear?
Because she cannot utter a word,
Nor hear the music of bee or bird,
The water-cart's splash or the milkman's call.
Because I have never seen the sky,
Nor the little singers that hum and fly,—
Yet know she is gazing upon them all!

For the sun is shining, the swallows fly,
The bees and the blueflies murmur low,
And I hear the water-cart go by,
With its cool splash-splash down the dusty row;
And the little one, close at my side, perceives
Mine eyes upraised to the cottage eaves,

Where birds are chirping in summer shine,
And I hear, though I cannot look, and she,
Though she cannot hear, can the singers see,—
And the little soft fingers flutter in mine.

Hath not the dear little hand a tongue,
When it stirs on my palm for the love of me?
Do I not know she is pretty and young?
Hath not my soul an eye to see?
'Tis pleasure to make one's bosom stir,
To wonder how things appear to her,
That I only hear as they pass around;
And as long as we sit in the music and light,
She is happy to keep God's sight,
And I am happy to keep God's sound.

Why, I know her face, though I am blind—
I made it of music long ago:
Strange large eyes and dark hair twined
Round the pensive light of a brow of snow;
And when I sit by my little one,
And hold her hand and talk in the sun,
And hear the music that haunts the place,
I know she is raising her eyes to me,
And guessing how gentle my voice must be,
And seeing the music upon my face.

Though, if ever the Lord should grant me a prayer
(I know the fancy is only vain),
I should pray: Just once, when the weather is fair,
To see little Fanny and Langley Lane;
Though Fanny, perhaps, would pray to hear
The voice of the friend she holds so dear,
The song of the birds, the hum of the street,—
It is better to be as we have been,—
Each keeping up something, unheard, unseen,
To make God's heaven more strange and sweet!

Ah, life is pleasant in Langley Lane!
There is always something sweet to hear!
Chirping of birds or patter of rain;
And Fanny, my little one, always near;

And though I am weakly and can't live long,
And Fanny my darling is far from strong,
And though we can never married be,—
What then?—since we hold one another so dear,
For the sake of the pleasure one cannot hear,
And the pleasure that only one can see?

Robert Buchanan [1841–1901]

THE WEAKEST THING

Which is the weakest thing of all
Mine heart can ponder?
The sun, a little cloud can pall
With darkness yonder?
The cloud, a little wind can move
Where'er it listeth?
The wind, a little leaf above,
Though sere, resisteth?

What time that yellow leaf was green,
My days were gladder;
But now, whatever Spring may mean,
I must grow sadder.
Ah me! a leaf with sighs can wring
My lips asunder?
Then is mine heart the weakest thing
Itself can ponder.

Yet, Heart, when sun and cloud are pined
And drop together,
And at a blast which is not wind
The forests wither,
Thou, from the darkening deathly curse
To glory breakest,—
The Strongest of the universe
Guarding the weakest!

Elizabeth Barrett Browning [1806–1861]

SONG

We only ask for sunshine,
We did not want the rain;
But see the flowers that spring from showers
All up and down the plain.

We beg the gods for laughter,
We shrink, we dread the tears;
But grief's redress is happiness,
Alternate through the years.

Helen Hay Whitney [18 –

THE HOUSE OF PAIN

Unto the Prison House of Pain none willingly repair—
The bravest who an entrance gain
Reluctant linger there—
For Pleasure, passing by that door, stays not to cheer the sight,
And Sympathy but muffles sound and banishes the light.

Yet in the Prison House of Pain things full of beauty blow—
Like Christmas roses, which attain
Perfection 'mid the snow—
Love entering, in his mild warmth the darkest shadows melt,
And often, where the hush is deep, the waft of wings is felt.

Ah, me! the Prison House of Pain!—what lessons there are bought!
Lessons of a sublimer strain
Than any elsewhere taught;
Amid its loneliness and gloom, grave meanings grow more clear,
For to no earthly dwelling-place seems God so strangely near!

Florence Earle Coates [1850–

WISE

An apple orchard smells like wine;
A succory flower is blue;
Until Grief touched these eyes of mine,
Such things I never knew.

And now indeed I know so plain
Why one would like to cry
When spouts are full of April rain—
Such lonely folk go by!

So wise, so wise—that my tears fall
Each breaking of the dawn;
That I do long to tell you all—
But you are dead and gone.

Lizette Woodworth Reese [1856–

"MULTUM DILEXIT"

She sat and wept beside His feet; the weight
Of sin oppressed her heart; for all the blame,
And the poor malice of the worldly shame,
To her was past, extinct, and out of date:
Only the sin remained,—the leprous state;
She would be melted by the heat of love,
By fires far fiercer than are blown to prove
And purge the silver ore adulterate.

She sat and wept, and with her untressed hair
Still wiped the feet she was so blessed to touch;
And He wiped off the soiling of despair
From her sweet soul, because she loved so much.
I am a sinner, full of doubts and fears:
Make me a humble thing of love and tears.

Hartley Coleridge [1796–1849]

PIERRETTE IN MEMORY

PIERRETTE has gone, but it was not
  Exactly that she died,
So much as vanished and forgot
  To say where she would hide.

To keep a sudden rendezvous,
  It came into her mind
That she was late. What could she do
  But leave distress behind?

Afraid of being in disgrace,
  And hurrying to dress,
She heard there was another place
  In need of loveliness.

She went so softly and so soon—
  Sh!—hardly made a stir;
But going took the stars and moon
  And sun away with her.

William Griffith [1876–

"WIND ME A SUMMER CROWN"

"WIND me a summer crown," she said,
  "And set it on my brows;
For I must go, while I am young,
  Home to my Father's house.

"And make me ready for the day,
  And let me not be stayed;
I would not linger on the way
  As if I was afraid.

"O, will the golden courts of heaven.
  When I have paced them o'er,
Be lovely as the lily walks
  Which I must see no more?

"And will the seraph hymns and harps,
When they have filled my ear,
Be tender as my mother's voice,
Which I must never hear?

"And shall I lie where sunsets drift,
Or where the stars are born,
Or where the living tints are mixed
To paint the clouds of morn?"

Your mother's tones shall reach you still,
Even sweeter than they were;
And the false love that broke your heart
Shall be forgotten there:

And not a star or flower is born
The beauty of that shore;
There is a face which you shall see
And wish for nothing more.

Menella Bute Smedley [1820–1877]

TO THE HARPIES

You who with birch or laurel
Are swift to scourge or bless—
Silence your foolish quarrel
Before her loveliness.

What though she went a-travel
Down paths you do not know?
Your words shall not unravel
Webs that allured her so.

Hush now your foolish babble
Around her golden head.
Shut out the prying rabble.
Be happy. She is dead.

Now give one final kindness
That late you dreamed not of—
Silence, to cloak your blindness—
Peace, since you know not love.

Arthur Davison Ficke [1883–

THE BRIDGE OF SIGHS

One more Unfortunate,
Weary of breath,
Rashly importunate,
Gone to her death!

Take her up tenderly,
Lift her with care;
Fashioned so slenderly,
Young, and so fair!

Look at her garments
Clinging like cerements:
Whilst the wave constantly
Drips from her clothing;
Take her up instantly,
Loving, not loathing.

Touch her not scornfully;
Think of her mournfully,
Gently and humanly;
Not of the stains of her;
All that remains of her
Now is pure womanly.

Make no deep scrutiny
Into her mutiny
Rash and undutiful;
Past all dishonor,
Death has left on her
Only the beautiful.

Still, for all slips of hers,
One of Eve's family—
Wipe those poor lips of hers
Oozing so clammily.

Loop up her tresses
Escaped from the comb,
Her fair auburn tresses;
Whilst wonderment guesses
Where was her home?

Who was her father?
  Who was her mother?
Had she a sister?
  Had she a brother?
Or was there a dearer one
Still, and a nearer one
  Yet, than all other?

Alas! for the rarity
Of Christian charity
  Under the sun!
O, it was pitiful!
Near a whole city full,
  Home she had none.

Sisterly, brotherly,
Fatherly, motherly
  Feelings had changed:
Love, by harsh evidence,
Thrown from its eminence;
Even God's providence
  Seeming estranged.

Where the lamps quiver
So far in the river,
  With many a light
From window and casement,
From garret to basement,
She stood, with amazement,
  Houseless by night.

The bleak wind of March
  Made her tremble and shiver;
But not the dark arch
Or the black flowing river:
Mad from life's history,
Glad to death's mystery,
  Swift to be hurled—
Anywhere, anywhere
  Out of the world!

In she plunged boldly—
No matter how coldly
  The rough river ran—
Over the brink of it,
Picture it,—think of it,
  Dissolute Man!
Lave in it,—drink of it,
  Then, if you can!

Take her up tenderly,
  Lift her with care;
Fashioned so slenderly,
  Young, and so fair!

Ere her limbs frigidly
Stiffen too rigidly,
  Decently, kindly,
Smooth and compose them;
And her eyes, close them,
  Staring so blindly!

Dreadfully staring
  Through muddy impurity,
As when with the daring
Last look of despairing,
  Fixed on futurity.

Perishing gloomily,
Spurred by contumely,
Cold inhumanity,
Burning insanity,
  Into her rest.—
Cross her hands humbly
As if praying dumbly,
  Over her breast!

Owning her weakness,
  Her evil behavior,
And leaving, with meekness,
  Her sins to her Saviour!

Thomas Hood [1799–1845]

THE SONG OF THE SHIRT

With fingers weary and worn,
With eyelids heavy and red,
A woman sat, in unwomanly rags,
Plying her needle and thread,—
Stitch—stitch—stitch!
In poverty, hunger, and dirt;
And still with a voice of dolorous pitch
She sang the "Song of the Shirt!"

"Work—work—work
While the cock is crowing aloof!
And work—work—work
Till the stars shine through the roof!
It's oh! to be a slave
Along with the barbarous Turk,
Where woman has never a soul to save,
If this is Christian work!

"Work—work—work
Till the brain begins to swim!
Work—work—work
Till the eyes are heavy and dim!
Seam, and gusset, and band,
Band, and gusset, and seam,—
Till over the buttons I fall asleep,
And sew them on in a dream!

"O men with sisters dear!
O men with mothers and wives!
It is not linen you're wearing out,
But human creatures' lives!
Stitch—stitch—stitch,
In poverty, hunger and dirt,—
Sewing at once, with a double thread,
A shroud as well as a shirt!

"But why do I talk of death,—
That phantom of grisly bone?
I hardly fear his terrible shape,
It seems so like my own,—

It seems so like my own
  Because of the fasts I keep;
O God! that bread should be so dear,
  And flesh and blood so cheap!

"Work—work—work!
  My labor never flags;
And what are its wages? A bed of straw,
  A crust of bread—and rags.
That shattered roof—and this naked floor—
  A table—a broken chair—
And a wall so blank my shadow I thank
  For sometimes falling there!

"Work—work—work
  From weary chime to chime!
Work—work—work
  As prisoners work for crime!
Band, and gusset, and seam,
  Seam, and gusset, and band,—
Till the heart is sick and the brain benumbed,
  As well as the weary hand.

"Work—work—work
  In the dull December light!
And work—work—work
  When the weather is warm and bright!
While underneath the eaves
  The brooding swallows cling,
As if to show me their sunny backs,
  And twit me with the Spring.

"Oh but to breathe the breath
  Of the cowslip and primrose sweet,—
With the sky above my head,
  And the grass beneath my feet!
For only one short hour
  To feel as I used to feel,
Before I knew the woes of want
  And the walk that costs a meal!

"Oh but for one short hour,—
A respite, however brief!
No blessèd leisure for love or hope,
But only time for grief!
A little weeping would ease my heart;
But in their briny bed
My tears must stop, for every drop
Hinders needle and thread!"

With fingers weary and worn,
With eyelids heavy and red,
A woman sat, in unwomanly rags,
Plying her needle and thread,—
Stitch—stitch—stitch!
In poverty, hunger, and dirt;
And still with a voice of dolorous pitch—
Would that its tone could reach the rich!—
She sang this "Song of the Shirt!"

Thomas Hood [1799–1845]

STANZAS

In a drear-nighted December,
Too happy, happy tree,
Thy branches ne'er remember
Their green felicity:
The north cannot undo them,
With a sleety whistle through them;
Nor frozen thawings glue them
From budding at the prime.

In a drear-nighted December,
Too happy, happy brook,
Thy bubblings ne'er remember
Apollo's summer look;
But with a sweet forgetting,
They stay their crystal fretting,
Never, never petting
About the frozen time.

Ah! would 'twere so with many
A gentle girl and boy!
But were there ever any
Writhed not at passèd joy?
To know the change and feel it,
When there is none to heal it,
Nor numbèd sense to steal it,
Was never said in rhyme.

John Keats [1795–1821]

THE DEAD FAITH

She made a little shadow-hidden grave
The day Faith died;
Therein she laid it, heard the clod's sick fall,
And smiled aside—
"If less I ask," tear-blind, she mocked, "I may Be less denied."

She set a rose to blossom in her hair,
The day Faith died—
"Now glad," she said, "and free at last, I go,
And life is wide."
But through long nights she stared into the dark,
And knew she lied.

Fannie Heaslip Lea [1884–

THE BALLAD OF THE BOAT

The stream was smooth as glass, we said, "Arise and let's away":
The Siren sang beside the boat that in the rushes lay;
And spread the sail, and strong the oar, we gaily took our way.
When shall the sandy bar be crossed? When shall we find the bay?

The broadening flood swells slowly out o'er cattle-dotted plains,
The stream is strong and turbulent, and dark with heavy rains;

The laborer looks up to see our shallop speed away.
When shall the sandy bar be crossed? When shall we find the bay?

Now are the clouds like fiery shrouds; the sun, superbly large,
Slow as an oak to woodman's stroke sinks flaming at their marge.
The waves are bright with mirrored light as jacinths on our way.
When shall the sandy bar be crossed? When shall we find
the bay?

The moon is high up in the sky, and now no more we see
The spreading river's either bank, and surging distantly
There booms a sullen thunder as of breakers far away.
Now shall the sandy bar be crossed, now shall we find the bay!

The sea-gull shrieks high overhead, and dimly to our sight
The moonlit crests of foaming waves gleam towering through
the night.
We'll steal upon the mermaid soon, and start her from her lay,
When once the sandy bar is crossed, and we are in the bay.

What rises white and awful as a shroud-enfolded ghost?
What roar of rampant tumult bursts in clangor on the coast?
Pull back! pull back! The raging flood sweeps every oar away.
O stream, is this thy bar of sand? O boat, is this the bay?

Richard Garnett [1835–1906]

ELDORADO

Gaily bedight,
A gallant knight
In sunshine and in shadow
Had journeyed long,
Singing a song,
In search of Eldorado.

But he grew old—
This knight so bold—
And o'er his heart a shadow
Fell, as he found
No spot of ground
That looked like Eldorado.

And, as his strength
Failed him at length,
He met a pilgrim shadow:
"Shadow," said he,
"Where can it be—
This land of Eldorado?"

"Over the mountains
Of the moon,
Down the valley of the Shadow
Ride, boldly ride,"
The shade replied,
"If you seek for Eldorado!"

Edgar Allan Poe [1809–1849]

A LOST CHORD

SEATED one day at the Organ,
I was weary and ill at ease,
And my fingers wandered idly
Over the noisy keys.

I do not know what I was playing,
Or what I was dreaming then;
But I struck one chord of music,
Like the sound of a great Amen.

It flooded the crimson twilight,
Like the close of an Angel's Psalm,
And it lay on my fevered spirit
With a touch of infinite calm.

It quieted pain and sorrow,
Like love overcoming strife;
It seemed the harmonious echo
From our discordant life.

It linked all perplexèd meanings
  Into one perfect peace,
And trembled away into silence
  As if it were loth to cease.

I have sought, but I seek it vainly,
  That one lost chord divine,
Which came from the soul of the Organ,
  And entered into mine.

It may be that Death's bright angel
  Will speak in that chord again,—
It may be that only in Heaven
  I shall hear that grand Amen.

Adelaide Anne Procter [1825–1864]

LITTLE GRAY SONGS FROM ST. JOSEPH'S

XXX

With cassock black, baret and book,
  Father Saran goes by;
I think he goes to say a prayer
  For one who has to die.

Even so, some day, Father Saran
  May say a prayer for me;
Myself meanwhile, the Sister tells,
  Should pray unceasingly.

They kneel who pray: how may I kneel
  Who face to ceiling lie,
Shut out by all that man has made
  From God who made the sky?

They lift who pray—the low earth-born—
  A humble heart to God:
But O, my heart of clay is proud—
  True sister to the sod.

I look into the face of God,
  They say bends over me;
I search the dark, dark face of God—
  O what is it I see?

I see—who lie fast bound, who may
Not kneel, who can but seek—
I see mine own face over me,
With tears upon its cheek.

XLVII

My little soul I never saw,
Nor can I count its days;
I do not know its wondrous law
And yet I know its ways.

Oh, it is young as morning-hours,
And old as is the night;
Oh, it has growth of budding flowers,
Yet tastes my body's blight.

And it is silent and apart,
And far and fair and still,
Yet ever beats within my heart,
And cries within my will.

And it is light and bright and strange,
And sees life far away,
Yet far with near can interchange
And dwell within the day.

My soul has died a thousand deaths,
And yet it does not die;
My soul has broke a thousand faiths,
And yet it cannot lie;

My soul—there's naught can make it less;
My soul—there's naught can mar;
Yet here it weeps with loneliness
Within its lonely star.

My soul—not any dark can bind,
Nor hinder any hand,
Yet here it weeps—long blind, long blind—
And cannot understand.

Grace Fallow Norton [18

BIRTHRIGHT

Lord Rameses of Egypt sighed
Because a summer evening passed;
And little Ariadne cried
That summer fancy fell at last
To dust; and young Verona died
When beauty's hour was overcast.

Theirs was the bitterness we know
Because the clouds of hawthorn keep
So short a state, and kisses go
To tombs unfathomably deep,
While Rameses and Romeo
And little Ariadne sleep.

John Drinkwater [1882–

IMMORTALIS

All loved and lovely women dear to rhyme:
Thais, Cassandra, Helen and their fames,
Burn like tall candles through forgotten time,
Lighting the Past's dim arras with their names.
Around their faces wars the eager dark
Wherein all other lights are sunken now,
Yet, casting back, the seeker still may mark
A flame of hair, a bright immortal brow.

Surely, where they have passed, one after one,
Wearing their radiance to the darkened room,
Surely, newcomers to Oblivion
May still descry in that all-quenching gloom,
Rare faces lovely, lifted and alight,
Like tapers burning through the windy night.

David Morton [18

SONNETS

Long, long ago, when all the glittering earth
Was heaven itself, when drunkards in the street
Were like mazed kings shaking at giving birth
To acts of war that sickle men like wheat,
When the white clover opened Paradise
And God lived in a cottage up the brook,
Beauty, you lifted up my sleeping eyes

And filled my heart with longing with a look;
And all the day I searched but could not find
The beautiful dark-eyed who touched me there,
Delight in her made trouble in my mind,
She was within all Nature, everywhere,
The breath I breathed, the brook, the flower, the grass,
Were her, her word, her beauty, all she was.

If I could come again to that dear place
Where once I came, where Beauty lived and moved,
Where, by the sea, I saw her face to face,
That soul alive by which the world has loved;
If, as I stood at gaze among the leaves,
She would appear again, as once before,
While the red herdsman gathered up his sheaves
And brimming waters trembled up the shore;
If, as I gazed, her Beauty that was dumb,
In that old time, before I learned to speak,
Would lean to me and revelation come,
Words to the lips and color to the cheek,
Joy with its searing-iron would burn me wise,
I should know all; all powers, all mysteries.

Roses are beauty, but I never see
Those blood drops from the burning heart of June
Glowing like thought upon the living tree,
Without a pity that they die so soon,
Die into petals, like those roses old,
Those women, who were summer in men's hearts
Before the smile upon the Sphinx was cold,
Or sand had hid the Syrian and his arts.
O myriad dust of beauty that lies thick
Under our feet that not a single grain
But stirred and moved in beauty and was quick
For one brief moon and died nor lived again;
But when the moon rose lay upon the grass
Pasture to living beauty, life that was.

O little self, within whose smallness lies
All that man was, and is, and will become,
Atom unseen that comprehends the skies
And tells the tracks by which the planets roam.

That, without moving, knows the joys of wings,
The tiger's strength, the eagle's secrecy,
And in the hovel can consort with kings,
Or clothe a god with his own mystery.
O with what darkness do we cloak thy light,
What dusty folly gather thee for food,
Thou who alone art knowledge and delight,
The heavenly bread, the beautiful, the good.
O living self, O god, O morning star,
Give us thy light, forgive us what we are.

There is no God, as I was taught in youth,
Though each, according to his stature, builds
Some covered shrine for what he thinks the truth,
Which day by day his reddest heart-blood gilds.
There is no God; but death, the clasping sea,
In which we move like fish, deep over deep
Made of men's souls that bodies have set free,
Floods to a Justice though it seems asleep.
There is no God, but still, behind the veil,
The hurt thing works, out of its agony.
Still, like a touching of a brimming Grail,
Return the pennies given to passers by.
There is no God, but we, who breathe the air,
Are God ourselves and touch God everywhere.

Let that which is to come be as it may,
Darkness, extinction, justice, life intense,
The flies are happy in the summer day,
Flies will be happy many summers hence.
Time with his antique breeds that built the Sphinx
Time with her men to come whose wings will tower,
Poured and will pour, not as the wise man thinks,
But with blind force, to each his little hour.
And when the hour has struck, comes death or change,
Which, whether good or ill, we cannot tell,
But the blind planet will wander through her range
Bearing men like us who will serve as well.
The sun will rise, the winds that ever move
Will blow our dust that once were men in love.

John Masefield [1874–

"THE DESPOT'S DESPOT"

VITÆ SUMMA BREVIS SPEM NOS VETAT INCOHARE LONGAM

THEY are not long, the weeping and the laughter,
Love and desire and hate;
I think they have no portion in us after
We pass the gate.

They are not long, the days of wine and roses:
Out of a misty dream
Our path emerges for a while, then closes
Within a dream.

Ernest Dowson [1867–1900]

DEATH'S FINAL CONQUEST

From "The Contention of Ajax and Ulysses"

THE glories of our blood and state
Are shadows, not substantial things;
There is no armor against fate;
Death lays his icy hand on kings:
Scepter and Crown
Must tumble down,
And in the dust be equal made
With the poor crooked scythe and spade.

Some men with swords may reap the field,
And plant fresh laurels where they kill:
But their strong nerves at last must yield;
They tame but one another still:
Early or late
They stoop to fate,
And must give up their murmuring breath
When they, pale captives, creep to death.

The garlands wither on your brow;
Then boast no more your mighty deeds;
Upon Death's purple altar now
See where the victor-victim bleeds:
Your heads must come
To the cold tomb;
Only the actions of the just
Smell sweet, and blossom in their dust.

James Shirley [1596–1666]

DEATH'S SUBTLE WAYS

From "Cupid and Death"

Victorious men of earth, no more
Proclaim how wide your empires are:
Though you bind in every shore,
And your triumphs reach as far
As night or day,
Yet you, proud monarchs, must obey,
And mingle with forgotten ashes when
Death calls ye to the crowd of common men.

Devouring famine, plague, and war,
Each able to undo mankind,
Death's servile emissaries are;
Nor to these alone confined,
He hath at will
More quaint and subtle ways to kill:
A smile or kiss, as he will use the art,
Shall have the cunning skill to break a heart.

James Shirley [1596–1666]

MAN'S MORTALITY

From "Microbiblion"

Like as the damask rose you see,
Or like the blossom on the tree,
Or like the dainty flower of May,
Or like the morning of the day,

Or like the sun, or like the shade,
Or like the gourd which Jonas had;
Even such is man, whose thread is spun,
Drawn out, and cut, and so is done.
The rose withers, the blossom blasteth,
The flower fades, the morning hasteth,
The sun sets, the shadow flies,
The gourd consumes, and man—he dies!

Like to the grass that's newly sprung,
Or like a tale that's new begun,
Or like a bird that's here to-day,
Or like the pearlèd dew of May,
Or like an hour, or like a span,
Or like the singing of a swan;
Even such is man, who lives by breath,
Is here, now there, in life and death.
The grass withers, the tale is ended,
The bird is flown, the dew's ascended,
The hour is short, the span not long,
The swan near death,—man's life is done!

Like to a bubble in the brook,
Or in a glass much like a look,
Or like a shuttle in a weaver's hand,
Or like the writing on the sand,
Or like a thought, or like a dream,
Or like the gliding of a stream;
Even such is man, who lives by breath,
Is here, now there, in life and death.
The bubble's out, the look's forgot,
The shuttle's flung, the writing's blot,
The thought is past, the dream is gone,
The water glides,—man's life is done!

Like to a blaze of fond delight,
Or like a morning clear and bright,
Or like a frost, or like a shower,
Or like the pride of Babel's tower,
Or like the hour that guides the time,
Or like to Beauty in her prime;

Even such is man, whose glory lends
That life a blaze or two, and ends.
The morn's o'ercast, joy turned to pain,
The frost is thawed, dried up the rain,
The tower falls, the hour is run,
The beauty lost,—man's life is done!

Like to an arrow from the bow,
Or like swift course of water-flow,
Or like that time 'twixt flood and ebb.
Or like the spider's tender web,
Or like a race, or like a goal,
Or like the dealing of a dole;
Even such is man, whose brittle state
Is always subject unto Fate.
The arrow's shot, the flood soon spent,
The time's no time, the web soon rent,
The race soon run, the goal soon won,
The dole soon dealt,—man's life is done!

Like to the lightning from the sky,
Or like a post that quick doth hie,
Or like a quaver in a short song,
Or like a journey three days long,
Or like the snow when summer's come,
Or like the pear, or like the plum;
Even such is man, who heaps up sorrow,
Lives but this day, and dies to-morrow.
The lightning's past, the post must go,
The song is short, the journey's so,
The pear doth rot, the plum doth fall,
The snow dissolves,—and so must all!

Simon Wastell [? –1632]

TO DEATH

O KING of Terrors! whose unbounded sway
All that have life must certainly obey;
The king, the priest, the prophet, all are thine,
Nor would even God (in flesh) thy stroke decline.

My name is on thy roll, and sure I must
Increase thy gloomy kingdom in the dust.
My soul at this no apprehension feels,
But trembles at thy swords, thy racks, thy wheels,
Thy scorching fevers, which distract the sense,
And snatch us raving, unprepared, from hence;
At thy contagious darts, that wound the heads
Of weeping friends who wait at dying beds.—
Spare these, and let thy time be when it will;
My office is to die, and thine to kill.
Gently thy fatal scepter on me lay,
And take to thy cold arms, insensibly, thy prey.

Anne Finch [? –1720]

THE GENIUS OF DEATH

What is death? 'Tis to be free,
No more to love or hope or fear,
To join the great equality;
All, all alike are humbled there.
The mighty grave
Wraps lord and slave;
Nor pride nor poverty dares come
Within that refuge-house,—the tomb.

Spirit with the drooping wing
And the ever-weeping eye,
Thou of all earth's kings art king;
Empires at thy footstool lie;
Beneath thee strewed,
Their multitude
Sink like waves upon the shore;
Storms shall never raise them more.

What's the grandeur of the earth
To the grandeur round thy throne?
Riches, glory, beauty, birth,
To thy kingdom all have gone.
Before thee stand
The wondrous band,—

Bards, heroes, sages, side by side,
Who darkened nations when they died.

Earth has hosts, but thou canst show
Many a million for her one;
Through thy gates the mortal flow
Hath for countless years rolled on.
Back from the tomb
No step has come,
There fixed till the last thunder's sound
Shall bid thy prisoners be unbound.

George Croly [1780–1860]

"OH, WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD?"

Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift-flitting meteor, a fast-flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
He passeth from life to his rest in the grave.

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade,
Be scattered around, and together be laid;
As the young and the old, the low and the high,
Shall crumble to dust and together shall lie.

The child that a mother attended and loved,
The mother that infant's affection who proved,
The husband that mother and infant who blessed,—
Each, all, are away to their dwellings of rest.

The maid on whose brow, on whose cheek, in whose eye,
Shone beauty and pleasure,—her triumphs are by;
And alike from the minds of the living erased
Are the memories of mortals who loved her and praised.

The hand of the king, that the scepter hath borne;
The brow of the priest, that the mitre hath worn;
The eyes of the sage, and the heart of the brave,—
Are hidden and lost in the depths of the grave.

The peasant, whose lot was to sow and to reap;
The herdsman, who climbed with his goats up the steep;
The beggar, who wandered in search of his bread,—
Have faded away like the grass that we tread.

The saint who enjoyed the communion of heaven,
The sinner who dared to remain unforgiven,
The wise and the foolish, the guilty and just,
Have quietly mingled their bones in the dust.

So the multitude goes, like the flower or weed,
That withers away to let others succeed;
So the multitude comes, even those we behold,
To repeat every tale that has often been told.

For we are the same things our fathers have been;
We see the same sights our fathers have seen;
We drink the same stream, we feel the same sun,
And run the same course our fathers have run.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers did think;
From the death we are shrinking our fathers did shrink;
To the life we are clinging our fathers did cling,
But it speeds from us all like the bird on the wing.

They loved,—but the story we cannot unfold;
They scorned,—but the heart of the haughty is cold;
They grieved,—but no wail from their slumbers will come;
They joyed,—but the tongue of their gladness is dumb.

They died,—ah! they died;—we, things that are now,
That walk on the turf that lies over their brow,
And make in their dwellings a transient abode,
Meet the changes they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yea, hope and despondency, pleasure and pain,
Are mingled together in sunshine and rain:
And the smile and the tear, the song and the dirge,
Still follow each other like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of an eye; 'tis the draught of a breath
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death,
From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud;
Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

William Knox [1789–1825]

THE HOUR OF DEATH

Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north-wind's breath,
And stars to set,—but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!

Day is for mortal care:
Eve for glad meetings round the joyous hearth;
Night, for the dreams of sleep, the voice of prayer,
But all for thee, thou Mightiest of the earth.

The banquet hath its hour—
Its feverish hour—of mirth and song and wine;
There comes a day for grief's o'erwhelming power,
A time for softer tears,—but all are thine.

Youth and the opening rose
May look like things too glorious for decay,
And smile at thee,—but thou art not of those
That wait the ripened bloom to seize their prey.

Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north-wind's breath,
And stars to set,—but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!

We know when moons shall wane,
When summer birds from far shall cross the sea,
When autumn's hue shall tinge the golden grain,—
But who shall teach us when to look for thee?

Is it when Spring's first gale
Comes forth to whisper where the violets lie?
Is it when roses in our paths grow pale?
They have one season—all are ours to die!

Thou art where billows foam;
Thou art where music melts upon the air;
Thou art around us in our peaceful home;
And the world calls us forth—and thou art there.

Thou art where friend meets friend,
Beneath the shadow of the elm to rest;
Thou art where foe meets foe, and trumpets rend
The skies, and swords beat down the princely crest.

Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north-wind's breath,
And stars to set,—but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O Death!

Felicia Dorothea Hemans [1793–1835]

THE SLEEP

"He giveth his belovèd sleep."—Psalm cxxvii. 2

Of all the thoughts of God that are
Borne inward into souls afar,
Along the Psalmist's music deep,
Now tell me if that any is,
For gift or grace, surpassing this:
"He giveth his belovèd—sleep"?

What would we give to our beloved?
The hero's heart to be unmoved,
The poet's star-tuned harp to sweep,
The patriot's voice to teach and rouse,
The monarch's crown, to light the brows?
He giveth his belovèd—sleep.

What do we give to our beloved?
A little faith all undisproved,
A little dust to overweep,
And bitter memories to make
The whole earth blasted for our sake:
He giveth his belovèd—sleep.

"Sleep soft," beloved! we sometimes say,
Who have no tune to charm away
Sad dreams that through the eyelids creep:
But never doleful dream again
Shall break the happy slumber when
He giveth his belovèd—sleep.

O earth, so full of dreary noises!
O men, with wailing in your voices!
O delvèd gold, the wailers heap!
O strife, O curse, that o'er it fall!
God strikes a silence through you all,
And giveth his belovèd—sleep.

His dews drop mutely on the hill,
His cloud above it saileth still,
Though on its slope men sow and reap:
More softly than the dew is shed,
Or cloud is floated overhead,
He giveth his belovèd—sleep.

Ay, men may wonder while they scan
A living, thinking, feeling man
Confirmed in such a rest to keep;
But Angels say, and through the word
I think their happy smile is heard—
"He giveth his belovèd—sleep."

For me, my heart, that erst did go
Most like a tired child at a show,
That sees through tears the mummers leap,
Would now its wearied vision close,
Would childlike on his love repose
Who giveth his belovèd—sleep.

And friends, dear friends, when it shall be
That this low breath is gone from me,
And round my bier ye come to weep,
Let One, most loving of you all,
Say "Not a tear must o'er her fall!
He giveth his belovèd sleep."

Elizabeth Barrett Browning [1806–1861]

AZRAEL

THE angels in high places
Who minister to us,
Reflect God's smile,—their faces
Are luminous;
Save one, whose face is hidden,
(The Prophet saith),
The unwelcome, the unbidden,
Azrael, Angel of Death.
And yet that veilèd face, I know
Is lit with pitying eyes,
Like those faint stars, the first to glow
Through cloudy winter skies.

That they may never tire,
Angels, by God's decree,
Bear wings of snow and fire,—
Passion and purity;
Save one, all unavailing,
(The Prophet saith),
His wings are gray and trailing,
Azrael, Angel of Death.
And yet the souls that Azrael brings
Across the dark and cold,
Look up beneath those folded wings,
And find them lined with gold.

Robert Gilbert Welsh [18

"WHERE LIES THE LAND"

From "Songs in Absence"

WHERE lies the land to which the ship would go?
Far, far ahead, is all her seamen know.
And where the land she travels from? Away,
Far, far behind, is all that they can say.

On sunny noons upon the deck's smooth face,
Linked arm in arm, how pleasant here to pace;
Or, o'er the stern reclining, watch below
The foaming wake far widening as we go.

On stormy nights, when wild north-westers rave,
How proud a thing to fight with wind and wave!
The dripping sailor on the reeling mast
Exults to bear, and scorns to wish it past.

Where lies the land to which the ship would go?
Far, far ahead, is all her seamen know.
And where the land she travels from? Away,
Far, far behind, is all that they can say.

Arthur Hugh Clough [1819–1861]

UP-HILL

Does the road wind up-hill all the way?
Yes, to the very end.
Will the day's journey take the whole long day?
From morn to night, my friend.

But is there for the night a resting-place?
A roof for when the slow, dark hours begin.
May not the darkness hide it from my face?
You cannot miss that inn.

Shall I meet other wayfarers at night?
Those who have gone before.
Then must I knock, or call when just in sight?
They will not keep you waiting at that door.

Shall I find comfort, travel-sore and weak?
Of labor you shall find the sum.
Will there be beds for me and all who seek?
Yea, beds for all who come.

Christina Georgina Rossetti [1830–1894]

THE BOURNE

Underneath the growing grass,
Underneath the living flowers,
Deeper than the sound of showers:
There we shall not count the hours
By the shadows as they pass.

Youth and health will be but vain,
Beauty reckoned of no worth:
There a very little girth
Can hold round what once the earth
Seemed too narrow to contain.

Christina Georgina Rossetti [1830–1894]

THE CONQUEROR WORM

Lo! 'tis a gala night
Within the lonesome latter years.
An angel throng, bewinged, bedight
In veils, and drowned in tears,
Sit in a theater to see
A play of hopes and fears,
While the orchestra breathes fitfully
The music of the spheres.

Mimes, in the form of God on high,
Mutter and mumble low,
And hither and thither fly;
Mere puppets they, who come and go
At bidding of vast formless things
That shift the scenery to and fro,
Flapping from out their condor wings
Invisible Woe.

That motley drama—oh, be sure
It shall not be forgot!
With its Phantom chased for evermore
By a crowd that seize it not,
Through a circle that ever returneth in
To the self-same spot;
And much of Madness, and more of Sin,
And Horror the soul of the plot.

But see amid the mimic rout
A crawling shape intrude:
A blood-red thing that writhes from out
The scenic solitude!

It writhes!—it writhes!—with mortal pangs!
The mimes become its food,
And seraphs sob at vermin fangs
In human gore imbued.

Out—out are the lights—out all!
And, over each quivering form,
The curtain, a funeral pall,
Comes down with the rush of a storm,
While the angels, all pallid and wan,
Uprising, unveiling, affirm
That the play is the tragedy, "Man,"
And its hero, the Conqueror Worm.

Edgar Allan Poe [1809–1849]

THE CITY IN THE SEA

Lo! Death has reared himself a throne
In a strange city lying alone
Far down within the dim West,
Where the good and the bad and the worst and the best
Have gone to their eternal rest.
There shrines and palaces and towers
(Time-eaten towers that tremble not)
Resemble nothing that is ours.
Around, by lifting winds forgot,
Resignedly beneath the sky
The melancholy waters lie.

No rays from the holy heaven come down
On the long night-time of that town;
But light from out the lurid sea
Streams up the turrets silently,
Gleams up the pinnacles far and free:
Up domes, up spires, up kingly halls,
Up fanes, up Babylon-like walls,
Up shadowy, long-forgotten bowers
Of sculptured ivy and stone flowers,
Up many and many a marvelous shrine,
Whose wreathèd friezes intertwine
The viol, the violet, and the vine.

Resignedly beneath the sky
The melancholy waters lie.
So blend the turrets and shadows there
That all seem pendulous in air,
While from a proud tower in the town
Death looks gigantically down.

There open fanes and gaping graves
Yawn level with the luminous waves;
But not the riches there that lie
In each idol's diamond eye,—
Not the gaily-jeweled dead
Tempt the waters from their bed;
For no ripples curl, alas,
Along that wilderness of glass;
No swellings tell that winds may be
Upon some far-off happier sea;
No heavings hint that winds have been
On seas less hideously serene!

But lo, a stir is in the air!
The wave—there is a movement there!
As if the towers had thrust aside,
In slightly sinking, the dull tide;
As if their tops had feebly given
A void within the filmy Heaven!
The waves have now a redder glow,
The hours are breathing faint and low;
And when, amid no earthly moans,
Down, down that town shall settle hence,
Hell, rising from a thousand thrones,
Shall do it reverence.

Edgar Allan Poe [1809–1849]

THE REAPER AND THE FLOWERS

THERE is a Reaper, whose name is Death,
And, with his sickle keen,
He reaps the bearded grain at a breath,
And the flowers that grow between.

"Shall I have naught that is fair?" saith he;
"Have naught but the bearded grain?
Though the breath of these flowers is sweet to me,
I will give them all back again."

He gazed at the flowers with tearful eyes,
He kissed their drooping leaves;
It was for the Lord of Paradise
He bound them in his sheaves.

"My Lord has need of these flowerets gay,"
The Reaper said, and smiled;
"Dear tokens of the earth are they,
Where He was once a child.

"They shall all bloom in fields of light,
Transplanted by my care,
And saints, upon their garments white,
These sacred blossoms wear."

And the mother gave, in tears and pain,
The flowers she most did love;
She knew she should find them all again
In the fields of light above.

Oh, not in cruelty, not in wrath,
The Reaper came that day;
'Twas an angel visited the green earth,
And took the flowers away.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

THE CLOSING SCENE

Within his sober realm of leafless trees,
The russet year inhaled the dreamy air;
Like some tanned reaper in his hour of ease,
When all the fields are lying brown and bare.

The gray barns looking from their hazy hills
O'er the dim waters widening in the vales,
Sent down the air a greeting to the mills,
On the dull thunder of alternate flails.

All sights were mellowed and all sounds subdued,
The hills seemed farther and the streams sang low;
As in a dream the distant woodman hewed
His winter log with many a muffled blow.

The embattled forests, erewhile armed in gold,
Their banners bright with every martial hue,
Now stood, like some sad, beaten host of old,
Withdrawn afar in Time's remotest blue.

On slumbrous wings the vulture held his flight;
The dove scarce heard his sighing mate's complaint,
And like a star slow drowning in the light,
The village church-vane seemed to pale and faint.

The sentinel-cock upon the hillside crew,—
Crew thrice, and all was stiller than before,—
Silent till some replying warder blew
His alien horn, and then was heard no more.

Where erst the jay, within the elm's tall crest,
Made garrulous trouble round her unfledged young,
And where the oriole hung her swaying nest,
By every light wind like a censer swung—

Where sang the noisy masons of the eaves,
The busy swallows, circling ever near,
Foreboding, as the rustic mind believes,
An early harvest and a plenteous year;—

Where every bird which charmed the vernal feast,
Shook the sweet slumber from its wings at morn,
To warn the reaper of the rosy east,—
All now was songless, empty, and forlorn.

Alone from out the stubble piped the quail,
And croaked the crow through all the dreamy gloom;
Alone the pheasant, drumming in the vale,
Made echo to the distant cottage loom.

There was no bud, no bloom upon the bowers;
The spiders wove their thin shrouds night by night;
The thistle-down, the only ghost of flowers,
Sailed slowly by, passed noiseless out of sight.

Amid all this, in this most cheerless air,
And where the woodbine shed upon the porch
Its crimson leaves, as if the Year stood there
Firing the floor with his inverted torch;—

Amid all this, the center of the scene,
The white-haired matron, with monotonous tread,
Plied the swift wheel, and with her joyless mien,
Sat, like a Fate, and watched the flying thread.

She had known Sorrow,—he had walked with her,
Oft supped, and broke the bitter ashen crust;
And in the dead leaves still she heard the stir
Of his black mantle trailing in the dust.

While yet her cheek was bright with summer bloom,
Her country summoned and she gave her all;
And twice War bowed to her his sable plume,—
Re-gave the swords to rust upon the wall.

Re-gave the swords,—but not the hand that drew
And struck for Liberty its dying blow,
Nor him who, to his sire and country true,
Fell 'mid the ranks of the invading foe.

Long, but not loud, the droning wheel went on,
Like the low murmur of a hive at noon;
Long, but not loud, the memory of the gone
Breathed through her lips a sad and tremulous tune.

At last the thread was snapped,—her head was bowed;
Life dropped the distaff through his hands serene;—
And loving neighbors smoothed her careful shroud,
While Death and Winter closed the autumn scene.

Thomas Buchanan Read [1822–1872]

MORS ET VITA

We know not yet what life shall be,
What shore beyond earth's shore be set;
What grief awaits us, or what glee,
We know not yet.

Still, somewhere in sweet converse met,
Old friends, we say, beyond death's sea
Shall meet and greet us, nor forget

Those days of yore, those years when we
Were loved and true,—but will death let
Our eyes the longed-for vision see?
We know not yet.

Samuel Waddington [1844–

"WHAT IS TO COME"

What is to come we know not. But we know
That what has been was good—was good to show,
Better to hide, and best of all to bear.
We are the masters of the days that were:
We have lived, we have loved, we have suffered . . .
even so.

Shall we not take the ebb who had the flow?
Life was our friend. Now, if it be our foe—
Dear, though it spoil and break us!—need we care
What is to come?

Let the great winds their worst and wildest blow,
Or the gold weather round us mellow slow:
We have fulfilled ourselves, and we can dare,
And we can conquer, though we may not share
In the rich quiet of the after-glow
What is to come.

William Ernest Henley [1849–1903]

A ROUNDEL OF REST

If rest is sweet at shut of day
For tired hands and tired feet,
How sweet at last to rest for aye,
If rest is sweet!

We work or work not through the heat:
Death bids us soon our labors lay
In lands where night and twilight meet.

When the last dawns are fallen gray
And all life's toil and ease complete,
They know who work, not they who play,
If rest is sweet.

Arthur Symons [1865–

"WHEN THE MOST IS SAID"

What's love, when the most is said? The flash of the lightning fleet,
Then, darkness that shrouds the soul,—but the earth is firm to my feet;
The rocks and the tides endure, the grasses and herbs return,
The path to my foot is sure, and the sods to my bosom yearn.

What's fame, when the truth is told? A shout to a distant hill,
The crags may echo a while, but fainter, and fainter still;
Yet forever the wind blows wide the sweetness of all the skies,
The rain cries and the snow flies, and the storm in its bosom lies.

What's life, what's life, little heart? A dream when the nights are long,
Toil in the waking days,—tears, and a kiss, a song.

What's life, what's life, little heart? To beat and be glad of breath
While death waits on either side,—before and behind us, Death!

Mary Ainge De Vere [1844–

THE GARDEN OF PROSERPINE

Here, where the world is quiet,
Here, where all trouble seems
Dead winds' and spent waves' riot
In doubtful dreams of dreams,
I watch the green field growing
For reaping folk and sowing,
For harvest-time and mowing,
A sleepy world of streams.

I am tired of tears and laughter,
And men that laugh and weep;
Of what may come hereafter
For men that sow to reap:
I am weary of days and hours,
Blown buds of barren flowers,
Desires and dreams and powers,
And everything but sleep.

Here life has death for neighbor,
And far from eye or ear
Wan waves and wet winds labor,
Weak ships and spirits steer;
They drive adrift, and whither
They wot not who make thither;
But no such winds blow hither,
And no such things grow here.

No growth of moor or coppice,
No heather-flower or vine,
But bloomless buds of poppies,
Green grapes of Proserpine,

Pale beds of blowing rushes,
Where no leaf blooms or blushes
Save this whereout she crushes
For dead men deadly wine.

Pale, without name or number,
In fruitless fields of corn,
They bow themselves and slumber
All night till light is born;
And like a soul belated,
In hell and heaven unmated,
By cloud and mist abated
Comes out of darkness morn.

Though one were strong as seven,
He too with death shall dwell,
Nor wake with wings in heaven,
Nor weep for pains in hell;
Though one were fair as roses,
His beauty clouds and closes;
And well though love reposes,
In the end it is not well.

Pale, beyond porch and portal,
Crowned with calm leaves, she stands
Who gathers all things mortal
With cold immortal hands;
Her languid lips are sweeter
Than Love's, who fears to greet her,
To men that mix and meet her
From many times and lands.

She waits for each and other,
She waits for all men born;
Forgets the earth her mother,
The life of fruits and corn;
And spring and seed and swallow
Take wing for her and follow
Where summer song rings hollow
And flowers are put to scorn.

There go the loves that wither,
The old loves with wearier wings;
And all dead years draw thither,
And all disastrous things;
Dead dreams of days forsaken,
Blind buds that snows have shaken,
Wild leaves that winds have taken,
Red strays of ruined springs.

We are not sure of sorrow,
And joy was never sure;
To-day will die to-morrow;
Time stoops to no man's lure;
And Love, grown faint and fretful,
With lips but half regretful
Sighs, and with eyes forgetful
Weeps that no loves endure.

From too much love of living,
From hope and fear set free,
We thank with brief thanksgiving
Whatever gods may be,
That no life lives forever;
That dead men rise up never;
That even the weariest river
Winds somewhere safe to sea.

Then star nor sun shall waken,
Nor any change of light:
Nor sound of waters shaken,
Nor any sound or sight:
Nor wintry leaves nor vernal,
Nor days nor things diurnal;
Only the sleep eternal
In an eternal night.

Algernon Charles Swinburne [1837–1909]

THE CHANGING ROAD

Beneath the softly falling snow,
The wood whose shy anemones
We plucked such little while ago
Becomes a wood of Christmas trees.

Our paths of rustling silken grass
Will soon be ermine bands of white
Spotted with tiny steps that pass
On silent errands in the night.

The river will be locked in hush,
But frosted like a fairy lawn
With knots of crystal flowers that flush
By moonlight, blanching in the dawn.

Flown are our minstrels, golden-wing
And rosy-breast and ruby-throat,
But all the pines are murmuring
A sweet, orchestral under-note.

So trustfully our hands we lay
Within the old, kind hands of Time,
Who holds on his mysterious way
From rime to bloom, from bloom to rime,

And lets us run beside his knee
O'er rough and smooth, and touch his load,
And play we bear the burden, we,
And revel in the changing road,

Till ivory dawn and purple noon
And dove-gray eve have one by one
Traced on the skies their ancient rune,
And all our little strength is done.

Then Time shall lift a starry torch
In signal to his gentle Twin,
Who, stooping from a shining porch,
Gathers the drowsy children in.

I wonder if, through that strange sleep,
Unstirred by clock or silver chime,
Our dreams will not the cadence keep
Of those unresting feet of Time,

And follow on his beauteous path
From snow to flowers, from flowers to snow,
And marvel what high charge he hath,
Whither the fearless footsteps go.

Katharine Lee Bates [1859–

THE GREAT MISGIVING

"Not ours," say some, "the thought of death to dread;
Asking no heaven, we fear no fabled hell:
Life is a feast, and we have banqueted—
Shall not the worms as well?

"The after-silence, when the feast is o'er,
And void the places where the minstrels stood,
Differs in naught from what hath been before,
And is nor ill nor good."

Ah, but the Apparition—the dumb sign—
The beckoning finger bidding me forgo
The fellowship, the converse, and the wine,
The songs, the festal glow!

And ah, to know not, while with friends I sit,
And while the purple joy is passed about,
Whether 'tis ampler day divinelier lit
Or homeless night without;

And whether, stepping forth, my soul shall see
New prospects, or fall sheer—a blinded thing!
There is, O grave, thy hourly victory,
And there, O death, thy sting.

William Watson [1858–

THE DEAD COACH

At night when sick folk wakeful lie,
I heard the dead coach passing by,
And heard it passing wild and fleet,
And knew my time was come not yet.

Click-clack, click-clack, the hoofs went past,
Who takes the dead coach travels fast,
On and away through the wild night,
The dead must rest ere morning light.

If one might follow on its track
The coach and horses, midnight black,
Within should sit a shape of doom
That beckons one and all to come.

God pity them to-night who wait
To hear the dead coach at their gate,
And him who hears, though sense be dim,
The mournful dead coach stop for him.

He shall go down with a still face,
And mount the steps and take his place,
The door be shut, the order said!
How fast the pace is with the dead!

Click-clack, click-clack, the hour is chill,
The dead coach climbs the distant hill.
Now, God, the Father of all us,
Wipe Thou the widow's tears that fall!

Katharine Tynan [1861–

L'ENVOI

Where are the loves that we loved before,
When once we are alone, and shut the door?
No matter whose the arms that held me fast,
The arms of Darkness hold me at the last.

No matter down what primrose path I tend,
I kiss the lips of Silence in the end.
No matter on what heart I found delight,
I come again unto the breast of Night.
No matter when or how Love did befall,
'Tis loneliness that loves me best of all.
And in the end she claims me, and I know
That she will stay, though all the rest may go.
No matter whose the eyes that I would keep
Near in the dark, 'tis in the eyes of Sleep
That I must look and look forevermore,
When once I am alone and shut the door.

Willa Sibert Cather [1875–

DEATH

I AM the key that parts the gates of Fame;
I am the cloak that covers cowering Shame;
I am the final goal of every race;
I am the storm-tossed spirit's resting-place:

The messenger of sure and swift relief,
Welcomed with wailings and reproachful grief;
The friend of those that have no friend but me,
I break all chains, and set all captives free.

I am the cloud that, when Earth's day is done,
An instant veils an unextinguished sun;
I am the brooding hush that follows strife,
The waking from a dream that Man calls—Life!

Florence Earle Coates [1850–

A DIRGE

From "The White Devil"

CALL for the robin-redbreast and the wren,
Since o'er shady groves they hover,
And with leaves and flowers do cover
The friendless bodies of unburied men.

Call unto his funeral dole
The ant, the field-mouse, and the mole,
To rear him hillocks that shall keep him warm,
And (when gay tombs are robbed) sustain no harm;
But keep the wolf far thence, that's foe to men,
For with his nails he'll dig them up again.

John Webster [1580?–1625?]

DIRGE

From "Cymbeline"

Fear no more the heat o' the sun
  Nor the furious winter's rages;
Thou thy worldly task hast done,
  Home art gone and ta'en thy wages:
Golden lads and girls all must,
As chimney-sweepers, come to dust.

Fear no more the frown o' the great,
  Thou art past the tyrant's stroke;
Care no more to clothe and eat;
  To thee the reed is as the oak:
The scepter, learning, physic, must
All follow this, and come to dust.

Fear no more the lightning-flash
  Nor the all-dreaded thunder-stone;
Fear not slander, censure rash;
  Thou hast finished joy and moan:
All lovers young, all lovers must
Consign to thee, and come to dust.

William Shakespeare [1564–1616]

DIRGE IN CYMBELINE

Sung by Guiderus and Arviragus over Fidele, supposed to be dead

To fair Fidele's grassy tomb
  Soft maids and village hinds shall bring
Each opening sweet, of earliest bloom,
  And rifle all the breathing spring.

No wailing ghost shall dare appear,
To vex with shrieks this quiet grove;
But shepherd lads assemble here,
And melting virgins own their love.

No withered witch shall here be seen,
No goblins lead their nightly crew;
The female fays shall haunt the green,
And dress thy grave with pearly dew.

The redbreast oft at evening hours
Shall kindly lend his little aid,
With hoary moss, and gathered flowers,
To deck the ground where thou art laid.

When howling winds, and beating rain,
In tempests shake the sylvan cell,
Or midst the chase on every plain,
The tender thought on thee shall dwell,

Each lonely scene shall thee restore,
For thee the tear be duly shed:
Beloved, till life could charm no more;
And mourned, till Pity's self be dead.

William Collins [1721–1759]

HALLOWED GROUND

What's hallowed ground? Has earth a clod
Its Maker meant not should be trod
By man, the image of his God,
Erect and free,
Unscourged by Superstition's rod
To bow the knee?

That's hallowed ground where, mourned and missed,
The lips repose our love has kissed;
But where's their memory's mansion? Is't
Yon churchyard's bowers?
No! in ourselves their souls exist,
A part of ours.

A kiss can consecrate the ground
Where mated hearts are mutual bound:
The spot where love's first links were wound,
That ne'er are riven,
Is hallowed down to earth's profound,
And up to Heaven!

For time makes all but true love old;
The burning thoughts that then were told
Run molten still in memory's mold;
And will not cool
Until the heart itself be cold
In Lethe's pool.

What hallows ground where heroes sleep?
'Tis not the sculptured piles you heap!
In dews that heavens far distant weep
Their turf may bloom;
Or Genii twine beneath the deep
Their coral tomb.

But strew his ashes to the wind
Whose sword or voice has served mankind,—
And is he dead, whose glorious mind
Lifts thine on high?—
To live in hearts we leave behind
Is not to die.

Is't death to fall for Freedom's right?
He's dead alone that lacks her light!
And murder sullies in Heaven's sight
The sword he draws:—
What can alone ennoble fight?
A noble cause!

Give that!—and welcome War to brace
Her drums! and rend Heaven's reeking space!
The colors planted face to face,
The charging cheer,
Though Death's pale horse lead on the chase
Shall still be dear.

And place our trophies where men kneel
To Heaven!—but Heaven rebukes my zeal
The cause of Truth and human weal,
O God above!
Transfer it from the sword's appeal
To Peace and Love.

Peace, Love! the cherubim, that join
Their spread wings o'er Devotion's shrine,
Prayers sound in vain, and temples shine,
Where they are not,—
The heart alone can make divine
Religion's spot.

To incantations dost thou trust,
And pompous rites in domes august?
See moldering stones and metal's rust
Belie the vaunt,
That man can bless one pile of dust
With chime or chaunt.

The ticking wood-worm mocks thee, man!
Thy temples,—creeds themselves grow wan!
But there's a dome of nobler span,
A temple given
Thy faith, that bigots dare not ban,—
Its space is Heaven!

Its roof, star-pictured Nature's ceiling,
Where, trancing the rapt spirit's feeling,
And God himself to man revealing,
The harmonious spheres
Make music, though unheard their pealing
By mortal ears.

Fair stars! are not your beings pure?
Can sin, can death, your worlds obscure?
Else why so swell the thoughts at your Aspect above?
Ye must be Heavens that make us sure
Of heavenly love!

And in your harmony sublime
I read the doom of distant time:
That man's regenerate soul from crime
  Shall yet be drawn,
And reason on his mortal clime
  Immortal dawn.

What's hallowed ground? 'Tis what gives birth
To sacred thoughts in souls of worth!—
Peace! Independence! Truth! go forth
  Earth's compass round;
And your high-priesthood shall make earth
  All hallowed ground.

Thomas Campbell [1777–1844]

THE CHURCHYARD

How slowly creeps the hand of Time
  On the old clock's green-mantled face!
Yea, slowly as those ivies climb,
  The hours roll round with patient pace;
The drowsy rooks caw on the tower,
  The tame doves hover round and round;
Below, the slow grass hour by hour
  Makes green God's sleeping-ground.

All moves, but nothing here is swift;
  The grass grows deep, the green boughs shoot;
From east to west the shadows drift;
  The earth feels heavenward underfoot;
The slow stream through the bridge doth stray
  With water-lilies on its marge,
And slowly, piled with scented hay,
  Creeps by the silent barge.

All stirs, but nothing here is loud:
  The cushat broods, the cuckoo cries;
Faint, far up, under a white cloud,
  The lark trills soft to earth and skies;

And underneath the green graves rest;
And through the place, with slow footfalls,
With snowy cambric on his breast,
The old gray Vicar crawls.

And close at hand, to see him come,
Clustering at the playground gate,
The urchins of the school-house, dumb
And bashful, hang the head and wait;
The little maidens curtsey deep,
The boys their forelocks touch meanwhile,
The Vicar sees them, half asleep,
And smiles a sleepy smile.

Slow as the hand on the clock's face,
Slow as the white cloud in the sky,
He cometh now with tottering pace
To the old vicarage hard by;
Smothered it stands in ivy leaves,
Laurels and yews make dark the ground;
The swifts that build beneath the eaves
Wheel in still circles round.

And from the portal, green and dark,
He glances at the church-clock old—
Gray soul! why seek his eyes to mark
The creeping of that finger cold?
He cannot see, but still as stone
He pauses, listening for the chime,
And hears from that green tower intone
The eternal voice of Time.

Robert Buchanan [1841–1901]

THE OLD CHURCHYARD OF BONCHURCH

The churchyard leans to the sea with its dead,—
It leans to the sea with its dead so long.
Do they hear, I wonder, the first bird's song,
When the winter's anger is all but fled;

The high, sweet voice of the west wind,
The fall of the warm, soft rain,
When the second month of the year
Puts heart in the earth again?

Do they hear, through the glad April weather,
The green grasses waving above them?
Do they think there are none left to love them,
They have lain for so long there together?
Do they hear the note of the cuckoo,
The cry of gulls on the wing,
The laughter of winds and waters,
The feet of the dancing Spring?

Do they feel the old land slipping seaward,—
The old land, with its hills and its graves,—
As they gradually slide to the waves,
With the wind blowing on them from leaward?
Do they know of the change that awaits them,—
The sepulcher vast and strange?
Do they long for the days to go over,
And bring that miraculous change?

Or love they their night with no moonlight,
With no starlight, no dawn to its gloom?
Do they sigh: "'Neath the snow, or the bloom
Of the wild things that wave from our night,
We are warm, through winter and summer;
We hear the winds rave, and we say:
'The storm-wind blows over our heads,
But we, here, are out of its way'"?

Do they mumble low, one to another
With a sense that the waters that thunder
Shall ingather them all, draw them under:
"Ah, how long to our moving, my brother?
How long shall we quietly rest here,
In graves of darkness and ease?
The waves even now, may be on us
To draw us down under the seas!"

Do they think 'twill be cold when the waters
That they love not, that neither can love them,
Shall eternally thunder above them?
Have they dread of the sea's shining daughters,
That people the bright sea-regions
And play with the young sea-kings?
Have they dread of their cold embraces,
And dread of all strange sea-things?

But their dread or their joy,—it is bootless:
They shall pass from the breast of their mother;
They shall lie low, dead brother by brother,
In a place that is radiant and fruitless;
And the folk that sail over their heads
In violent weather
Shall come down to them, haply, and all
They shall lie there, together.

Philip Bourke Marston [1850–1887]

THE INDIAN BURYING-GROUND

In spite of all the learned have said,
I still my old opinion keep;
The posture that we give the dead
Points out the soul's eternal sleep.

Not so the ancients of these lands;—
The Indian, when from life released,
Again is seated with his friends,
And shares again the joyous feast.

His imaged birds, and painted bowl,
And venison, for a journey dressed,
Bespeak the nature of the soul,
Activity, that wants no rest.

His bow for action ready bent,
And arrows with a head of stone,
Can only mean that life is spent,
And not the old ideas gone.

Thou, stranger, that shalt come this way,
No fraud upon the dead commit,—
Observe the swelling turf, and say,
They do not lie, but here they sit.

Here still a lofty rock remains,
On which the curious eye may trace
(Now wasted half by wearing rains)
The fancies of a ruder race.

Here still an aged elm aspires,
Beneath whose far projecting shade
(And which the shepherd still admires)
The children of the forest played.

There oft a restless Indian queen
(Pale Shebah with her braided hair),
And many a barbarous form is seen
To chide the man that lingers there.

By midnight moons, o'er moistening dews,
In habit for the chase arrayed,
The hunter still the deer pursues,
The hunter and the deer—a shade!

And long shall timorous Fancy see
The painted chief, and pointed spear,
And Reason's self shall bow the knee
To shadows and delusions here.

Philip Freneau [1752–1832]

GOD'S-ACRE

I LIKE that ancient Saxon phrase, which calls
The burial-ground God's-Acre! It is just;
It consecrates each grave within its walls,
And breathes a benison o'er the sleeping dust.

God's-Acre! Yes, that blessed name imparts
Comfort to those who in the grave have sown
The seed that they had garnered in their hearts,
Their bread of life, alas! no more their own.

Into its furrows shall we all be cast,
In the sure faith, that we shall rise again
At the great harvest, when the archangel's blast
Shall winnow, like a fan, the chaff and grain.

Then shall the good stand in immortal bloom,
In the fair garden of that second birth;
And each bright blossom mingle its perfume
With that of flowers, which never bloomed on earth.

With thy rude plowshare, Death, turn up the sod,
And spread the furrow for the seed we sow;
This is the field and Acre of our God,
This is the place where human harvests grow.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

THE CITY OF THE DEAD

They do neither plight nor wed
In the city of the dead,
In the city where they sleep away the hours;
But they lie, while o'er them range
Winter blight and Summer change,
And a hundred happy whisperings of flowers.
No, they neither wed nor plight,
And the day is like the night,
For their vision is of other kind than ours.

They do neither sing nor sigh
In that burg of by and by,
Where the streets have grasses growing cool and long;
But they rest within their bed,
Leaving all their thoughts unsaid,
Deeming silence better far than sob or song.
No, they neither sigh nor sing,
Though the robin be a-wing,
Though the leaves of Autumn march a million strong.

There is only rest and peace
In the City of Surcease
From the failings and the wailings 'neath the sun,
And the wings of the swift years
Beat but gently o'er the biers,

Making music to the sleepers every one.
There is only peace and rest;
But to them it seemeth best,
For they lie at ease and know that life is done.

Richard Burton [1859–

THE GARDEN THAT I LOVE

The Garden that I love is full of Light;
It lies upon the sloping of a hill,
Where Dawn first stirs the curtains of the Night,
And the breeze whispers when the Noon is still.

The garden that I love is full of Peace;
The voices of the vale are faint and far,
The busy murmurs of the highway cease,
And silently, at evening, comes the Star.

The garden that I love is full of Dreams;
Visions of joy gone by, and bliss that waits,
Beyond the furthest verge of sunset gleams,
With the wide opening of the Golden Gates.

The garden that I love is full of Rest;
God's own fair Acre, where His dear ones lie,
In the safe shelter of the kind earth's breast,
Waiting His Easter dawning up the sky.

There may I rest, asleep with them awhile,
There may I wake, with them, that glorious Day,
When, in the sunshine of the Master's smile,
Sorrow and sighing shall be swept away!

Florence L. Henderson [18 –

THE OLD SEXTON

Nigh to a grave that was newly made,
Leaned a sexton old on his earth-worn spade;
His work was done, and he paused to wait
The funeral-train at the open gate.

A relic of by-gone days was he,
And his locks were gray as the foamy sea;
And these words came from his lips so thin:
"I gather them in—I gather them in—
Gather—gather—gather them in.

"I gather them in; for man and boy,
Year after year of grief and joy,
I've builded the houses that lie around
In every nook of this burial-ground,
Mother and daughter, father and son,
Come to my solitude, one by one;
But come they stranger, or come they kin,
I gather them in—I gather them in.

"Many are with me, yet I'm alone;
I'm King of the Dead, and I make my throne
On a monument slab of marble cold—
My scepter of rule is the spade I hold.
Come they from cottage, or come they from hall,
Mankind are my subjects, all, all, all!
May they loiter in pleasure, or toilfully spin,
I gather them in—I gather them in.

"I gather them in, and their final rest
Is here, down here, in the earth's dark breast!"
And the sexton ceased as the funeral-train
Wound mutely over that solemn plain;
And I said to myself: When time is told,
A mightier voice than that sexton's old,
Will sound o'er the last trump's dreadful din:
"I gather them in—I gather them in—
Gather—gather—gather them in."

Park Benjamin [1809–1864]

THE TWO VILLAGES

Over the river, on the hill,
Lieth a village white and still;
All around it the forest-trees
Shiver and whisper in the breeze;
Over it sailing shadows go
Of soaring hawk and screaming crow,

And mountain grasses, low and sweet,
Grow in the middle of every street.

Over the river, under the hill,
Another village lieth still;
There I see in the cloudy night
Twinkling stars of household light,
Fires that gleam from the smithy's door,
Mists that curl on the river-shore;
And in the roads no grasses grow,
For the wheels that hasten to and fro.

In that village on the hill
Never is sound of smithy or mill;
The houses are thatched with grass and flowers;
Never a clock to toll the hours;
The marble doors are always shut,
You cannot enter in hall or hut;
All the villagers lie asleep;
Never a grain to sow or reap;
Never in dreams to moan or sigh;
Silent and idle and low they lie.

In that village under the hill,
When the night is starry and still,
Many a weary soul in prayer
Looks to the other village there,
And weeping and sighing, longs to go
Up to that home from this below;
Longs to sleep in the forest wild,
Whither have vanished wife and child,
And heareth, praying, this answer fall:
"Patience! that village shall hold ye all!"

Rose Terry Cooke [1827–1892]

DAYBREAK

A WIND came up out of the sea,
And said, "O mists, make room for me!"

It hailed the ships, and cried, "Sail on,
Ye mariners, the night is gone!"

And hurried landward far away,
Crying, "Awake! it is the day!"

It said unto the forest, "Shout!
Hang all your leafy banners out!"

It touched the wood-bird's folded wing,
And said, "O bird, awake and sing!"

And o'er the farms, "O chanticleer,
Your clarion blow, the day is near!"

It whispered to the fields of corn,
"Bow down, and hail the coming morn!"

It shouted through the belfry-tower,
"Awake, O bell! proclaim the hour."

It crossed the churchyard with a sigh,
And said, "Not yet! in quiet lie."

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

THANATOPSIS

To him who in the love of Nature holds
Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language; for his gayer hours
She has a voice of gladness, and a smile
And eloquence of beauty, and she glides
Into his darker musings, with a mild
And healing sympathy, that steals away
Their sharpness, ere he is aware. When thoughts
Of the last bitter hour come like a blight
Over thy spirit, and sad images
Of the stern agony, and shroud, and pall,
And breathless darkness, and the narrow house,
Make thee to shudder and grow sick at heart;—
Go forth, under the open sky, and list
To Nature's teachings, while from all around—
Earth and her waters, and the depths of air—
Comes a still voice:—

Yet a few days, and thee
The all-beholding sun shall see no more
In all his course; nor yet in the cold ground,
Where thy pale form was laid, with many tears,
Nor in the embrace of ocean, shall exist
Thy image. Earth, that nourished thee, shall claim
Thy growth, to be resolved to earth again,
And, lost each human trace, surrendering up
Thine individual being, shalt thou go
To mix forever with the elements,
To be a brother to the insensible rock
And to the sluggish clod, which the rude swain
Turns with his share, and treads upon. The oak
Shall send his roots abroad, and pierce thy mold.

Yet not to thine eternal resting-place
Shalt thou retire alone, nor couldst thou wish
Couch more magnificent. Thou shalt lie down
With patriarchs of the infant world—with kings,
The powerful of the earth—the wise, the good,
Fair forms, and hoary seers of ages past,
All in one mighty sepulcher. The hills
Rock-ribbed and ancient as the sun,—the vales
Stretching in pensive quietness between;
The venerable woods—rivers that move
In majesty, and the complaining brooks
That make the meadows green; and, poured round all,
Old Ocean's gray and melancholy waste,—
Are but the solemn decorations all
Of the great tomb of man. The golden sun,
The planets, all the infinite host of heaven,
Are shining on the sad abodes of death
Through the still lapse of ages. All that tread
The globe are but a handful to the tribes
That slumber in its bosom.—Take the wings
Of morning, pierce the Barcan wilderness,
Or lose thyself in the continuous woods
Where rolls the Oregon, and hears no sound,
Save his own dashings—yet the dead are there:
And millions in those solitudes, since first

The flight of years began, have laid them down
In their last sleep—the dead reign there alone.
So shalt thou rest, and what if thou withdraw
In silence from the living, and no friend
Take note of thy departure? All that breathe
Will share thy destiny. The gay will laugh
When thou art gone, the solemn brood of care
Plod on, and each one as before will chase
His favorite phantom; yet all these shall leave
Their mirth and their employments, and shall come
And make their bed with thee. As the long train
Of ages glides away, the sons of men—
The youth in life's fresh spring, and he who goes
In the full strength of years, matron and maid,
The speechless babe, and the gray-headed man—
Shall one by one be gathered to thy side,
By those, who in their turn shall follow them.

So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan, which moves
To that mysterious realm, where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

William Cullen Bryant [1794–1878]

THE DANCE OF DEATH

(AFTER HOLBEIN)

"Contra vim Mortis
Non est medicamen in hortis."

He is the despots' Despot. All must bide,
Later or soon, the message of his might;
Princes and potentates their heads must hide,
Touched by the awful sigil of his right;
Beside the Kaiser he at eve doth wait

And pours a potion in his cup of state;
The stately Queen his bidding must obey;
No keen-eyed Cardinal shall him affray;
And to the Dame that wantoneth he saith—
"Let be, Sweet-heart, to junket and to play."
There is no King more terrible than Death.

The lusty Lord, rejoicing in his pride,
He draweth down; before the armèd Knight
With jingling bridle-rein he still doth ride;
He crosseth the strong Captain in the fight;
The Burgher grave he beckons from debate;
He hales the Abbot by his shaven pate,
Nor for the Abbess' wailing will delay;
No bawling Mendicant shall say him nay;
E'en to the pyx the Priest he followeth,
Nor can the Leech his chilling finger stay . . .
There is no King more terrible than Death.

All things must bow to him. And woe betide
The Wine-bibber,—the Roisterer by night;
Him the feast-master, many bouts defied,
Him 'twixt the pledging and the cup shall smite;
Woe to the Lender at usurious rate,
The hard Rich Man, the hireling Advocate;
Woe to the Judge that selleth Law for pay;
Woe to the Thief that like a beast of prey
With creeping tread the traveller harryeth:—
These, in their sin, the sudden sword shall slay . . .
There is no King more terrible than Death.

He hath no pity,—nor will be denied.
When the low hearth is garnishèd and bright,
Grimly he flingeth the dim portal wide,
And steals the Infant in the Mother's sight;
He hath no pity for the scorned of fate:—
He spares not Lazarus lying at the gate,
Nay, nor the Blind that stumbleth as he may;
Nay, the tired Ploughman,—at the sinking ray,—
In the last furrow,—feels an icy breath,
And knows a hand hath turned the team astray . . .
There is no King more terrible than Death.

He hath no pity. For the new-made Bride,
Blithe with the promise of her life's delight,
That wanders gladly by her Husband's side,
He with the clatter of his drum doth fright;
He scares the Virgin at the convent grate;
The Maid half-won, the Lover passionate;
He hath no grace for weakness and decay:
The tender Wife, the Widow bent and gray,
The feeble Sire whose footstep faltereth,—
All these he leadeth by the lonely way . . .
There is no King more terrible than Death.

ENVOY

YOUTH, for whose ear and monishing of late,
I sang of Prodigals and lost estate,
Have thou thy joy of living and be gay;
But know not less that there must come a day,—
Aye, and perchance e'en now it hasteneth,—
When thine own heart shall speak to thee and say,—
There is no King more terrible than Death.

Austin Dobson [1840–

FACING THE SUNSET

THE LIE

Go, Soul, the Body's guest,
  Upon a thankless arrant;
Fear not to touch the best;
  The truth shall be thy warrant:
Go, since I needs must die,
And give the World the lie.

Say to the Court, it glows
  And shines like rotten wood:
Say to the Church, it shows
  What's good, and doth no good:
If Court and Church reply
Then give them both the lie.

Tell Potentates, they live
  Acting by others' action,
Not loved unless they give,
  Not strong but by a faction:
If Potentates reply,
Give Potentates the lie.

Tell men of high condition
  That manage the Estate,
Their purpose is ambition,
  Their practice, only hate:
And if they once reply,
Then give them all the lie.

Tell them that brave it most,
  They beg for more by spending,
Who, in their greatest cost,
  Seek nothing but commending:
And if they make reply,
Then give them all the lie.

Tell Zeal it wants devotion;
  Tell Love it is but lust;
Tell Time it is but motion;
  Tell Flesh it is but dust:
And wish them not reply,
For thou must give the lie.

Tell Age it daily wasteth;
  Tell Honor how it alters;
Tell Beauty how she blasteth;
  Tell Favor how it falters:
And as they shall reply,
Give every one the lie.

Tell Wit how much it wrangles
  In tickle points of niceness;
Tell Wisdom she entangles
  Herself in over-wiseness:
And when they do reply,
Straight give them both the lie.

Tell Physic of her boldness;
  Tell Skill it is pretension;
Tell Charity of coldness;
  Tell Law it is contention:
And as they do reply,
So give them still the lie.

Tell Fortune of her blindness;
  Tell Nature of decay;
Tell Friendship of unkindness;
  Tell Justice of delay:
And if they will reply,
Then give them all the lie.

Tell Arts they have no soundness,
  But vary by esteeming;
Tell Schools they want profoundness,
  And stand too much on seeming:
If Arts and Schools reply,
Give Arts and Schools the lie.

Tell Faith it's fled the City;
  Tell how the Country erreth,
Tell Manhood shakes off pity;
  Tell Virtue least preferreth:
And if they do reply,
Spare not to give the lie.

So when thou hast, as I
  Commanded thee, done blabbing,—
Although to give the lie
  Deserves no less than stabbing,—
Yet, stab at thee that will,
No stab the soul can kill!

Walter Raleigh [1552?–1618]

HIS PILGRIMAGE

Give me my scallop-shell of quiet,
  My staff of faith to walk upon,
My scrip of joy, immortal diet,
  My bottle of salvation,
My gown of glory, hope's true gage;
And thus I'll take my pilgrimage.

Blood must be my body's balmer,
No other balm will there be given;
Whilst my soul, like quiet palmer,
Traveleth towards the land of Heaven;
Over the silver mountains
Where spring the nectar fountains:
    There will I kiss
    The bowl of bliss,
And drink mine everlasting fill
Upon every milken hill.
My soul will be a-dry before;
But after, it will thirst no more.

Then by that happy, blissful day,
More peaceful pilgrims I shall see,
That have cast off their rags of clay,
And walk appareled fresh like me.
    I'll take them first
    To quench their thirst,

And taste of nectar's suckets
At those clear wells
Where sweetness dwells
Drawn up by saints in crystal buckets.

And when our bottles and all we
Are filled with immortality,
Then the blessèd paths we'll travel,
Strowed with rubies thick as gravel;—
Ceilings of diamonds, sapphire floors,
High walls of coral, and pearly bowers.
From thence to Heaven's bribeless hall,
Where no corrupted voices brawl;
No conscience molten into gold,
No forged accuser bought or sold,
No cause deferred, no vain-spent journey,
For there Christ is the King's Attorney,
Who pleads for all without degrees,
And He hath angels, but no fees.
And when the grand twelve-million jury
Of our sins, with direful fury,
Against our souls black verdicts give,
Christ pleads His death, and then we live.

Be Thou my speaker, taintless pleader,
Unblotted lawyer, true proceeder!
Thou giv'st salvation even for alms;
Not with a bribèd lawyer's palms.
And this is mine eternal plea
To Him that made heaven, earth, and sea,
That, since my flesh must die so soon,
And want a head to dine next noon,
Just at the stroke, when my veins start and spread,
Set on my soul an everlasting head!
Then am I ready, like a palmer, fit
To tread those blest paths which before I writ.

O death and judgment, heaven and hell,
Who oft doth think, must needs die well.

Walter Raleigh [1552?–1618]

THE CONCLUSION

Even such is Time, that takes in trust
Our youth, our joys, our all we have,
And pays us but with earth and dust;
Who in the dark and silent grave,
When we have wandered all our ways,
Shuts up the story of our days;
But from this earth, this grave, this dust,
My God will raise me up, I trust.

Walter Raleigh [1552?–1618]

DEATH'S SUMMONS

Adieu, farewell, earth's bliss!
This world uncertain is:
Fond are life's lustful joys,
Death proves them all but toys.
None from his darts can fly:
I am sick, I must die.
Lord, have mercy on us!

Rich men, trust not in wealth,
Gold cannot buy you health;
Physic himself must fade;
All things to end are made;
The plague full swift goes by:
I am sick, I must die.
Lord, have mercy on us!

Beauty is but a flower,
Which wrinkles will devour:
Brightness falls from the air;
Queens have died young and fair;
Dust hath closed Helen's eye:
I am sick, I must die.
Lord, have mercy on us!

Strength stoops unto the grave;
Worms feed on Hector brave;

Swords may not fight with fate;
Earth still holds ope her gate;
Come, come, the bells do cry.
I am sick, I must die.
Lord, have mercy on us!

Wit with his wantonness,
Tasteth death's bitterness;
Hell's executioner
Hath no ears for to hear
What vain art can reply;
I am sick, I must die.
Lord, have mercy on us!

Haste therefore each degree
To welcome destiny!
Heaven is our heritage,
Earth but a player's stage;
Mount we unto the sky:
I am sick, I must die.
Lord, have mercy on us!

Thomas Nashe [1567–1601]

HIS WINDING-SHEET

Come thou, who art the wine and wit
Of all I've writ:
The grace, the glory, and the best
Piece of the rest.
Thou art of what I did intend
The all and end;
And what was made, was made to meet
Thee, thee, my sheet.
Come then, and be to my chaste side
Both bed and bride:
We two, as reliques left, will have
One rest, one grave:
And, hugging close, we will not fear
Lust entering here:
Where all desires are dead and cold
As is the mold;

And all affections are forgot,
  Or trouble not.
Here, here, the slaves and prisoners be
  From shackles free:
And weeping widows, long oppressed,
  Do here find rest.
The wrongèd client ends his laws
  Here, and his cause.
Here those long suits of Chancery lie
  Quiet, or die:
And all Star-Chamber bills do cease
  Or hold their peace.
Here needs no Court for our Request
  Where all are best,
All wise, all equal, and all just
  Alike i' th' dust.
Nor need we here to fear the frown
  Of court or crown:
Where Fortune bears no sway o'er things,
  There all are kings.
In this securer place we'll keep
  As lulled asleep;
Or for a little time we'll lie
  As robes laid by;
To be another day re-worn,
  Turned, but not torn:
Or like old testaments engrossed,
  Locked up, not lost.
And for a while lie here concealed,
  To be revealed
Next at that great Platonic Year,
  And then meet here.

Robert Herrick [1591–1674]

A PRAYER IN THE PROSPECT OF DEATH

O Thou unknown, Almighty Cause
  Of all my hope and fear!
In whose dread presence, ere an hour,
  Perhaps I must appear!

If I have wandered in those paths
Of life I ought to shun,
As something, loudly, in my breast,
Remonstrates I have done;

Thou know'st that Thou hast formèd me
With passions wild and strong;
And listening to their witching voice
Has often led me wrong.

Where human weakness has come short,
Or frailty stepped aside,
Do Thou, All-Good!—for such Thou art,—
In shades of darkness hide.

Where with intention I have erred,
No other plea I have,
But, Thou art good; and Goodness still
Delighteth to forgive.

Robert Burns [1759–1796]

SONG OF THE SILENT LAND *

Into the Silent Land!
Ah! who shall lead us thither?
Clouds in the evening sky more darkly gather,
And shattered wrecks lie thicker on the strand.
Who leads us with a gentle hand
Thither, oh, thither,
Into the Silent Land?

Into the Silent Land!
To you, ye boundless regions
Of all perfection! Tender morning-visions
Of beauteous souls! The Future's pledge and band!
Who in Life's battle firm doth stand,
Shall bear Hope's tender blossoms
Into the Silent Land!

* For the original of this poem see page 3832.

O Land! O Land!
For all the broken-hearted
The mildest herald by our fate allotted,
Beckons, and with inverted torch doth stand
To lead us with a gentle hand
To the land of the great Departed,
Into the Silent Land!

After von Salis-Seewis, by
Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

JUNE

I GAZED upon the glorious sky
And the green mountains round,
And thought that when I came to lie
At rest within the ground,
'Twere pleasant that, in flowery June,
When brooks send up a cheerful tune,
And groves a joyous sound,
The sexton's hand, my grave to make,
The rich, green mountain-turf should break.

A cell within the frozen mould,
A coffin borne through sleet,
And icy clods above it rolled,
While fierce the tempests beat—
Away!—I will not think of these—
Blue be the sky and soft the breeze,
Earth green beneath the feet,
And be the damp mould gently pressed
Into my narrow place of rest.

There through the long, long summer hours,
The golden light should lie,
And thick young herbs and groups of flowers
Stand in their beauty by.
The oriole should build and tell
His love-tale close beside my cell;
The idle butterfly
Should rest him there, and there be heard
The housewife bee and humming-bird.

And what if cheerful shouts at noon
Come, from the village sent,
Or songs of maids, beneath the moon
With fairy laughter blent?
And what if, in the evening light,
Betrothèd lovers walk in sight
Of my low monument?
I would the lovely scene around
Might know no sadder sight nor sound.

I know that I no more should see
The season's glorious show,
Nor would its brightness shine for me,
Nor its wild music flow;
But if, around my place of sleep,
The friends I love should come to weep,
They might not haste to go.
Soft airs, and song, and light, and bloom
Should keep them lingering by my tomb.

These to their softened hearts should bear
The thought of what has been,
And speak of one who cannot share
The gladness of the scene;
Whose part, in all the pomp that fills
The circuit of the summer hills,
Is that his grave is green;
And deeply would their hearts rejoice
To hear again his living voice.

William Cullen Bryant [1794–1878]

LOVE, TIME AND DEATH

Ah me, dread friends of mine,—Love, Time, and Death:
Sweet Love, who came to me on shining wing,
And gave her to my arms,—her lips, her breath,
And all her golden ringlets clustering:
And Time, who gathers in the flying years,
He gave me all, but where is all he gave?
He took my love and left me barren tears;
Weary and lone I follow to the grave.

There Death will end this vision half-divine.
Wan Death, who waits in shadow evermore,
And silent, ere he give the sudden sign;
Oh, gently lead me through thy narrow door,
Thou gentle Death, thou trustieth friend of mine—
Ah me, for Love—will Death my Love restore?

Frederick Locker-Lampson [1821–1895]

A WISH

I ASK not that my bed of death
From bands of greedy heirs be free;
For these besiege the latest breath
Of fortune's favored sons, not me.

I ask not each kind soul to keep
Tearless, when of my death he hears.
Let those who will, if any, weep!
There are worse plagues on earth than tears.

I ask but that my death may find
The freedom to my life denied;
Ask but the folly of mankind
Then, then at last, to quit my side.

Spare me the whispering, crowded room,
The friends who come, and gape, and go;
The ceremonious air of gloom—
All, which makes death a hideous show!

Nor bring, to see me cease to live,
Some doctor full of phrase and fame,
To shake his sapient head, and give
The ill he cannot cure a name.

Nor fetch, to take the accustomed toll,
Of the poor sinner bound for death,
His brother-doctor of the soul,
To canvass with official breath

The future and its viewless things—
That undiscovered mystery
Which one who feels death's winnowing wings
Must needs read clearer, sure, than he!

Bring none of these; but let me be,
While all around in silence lies,
Moved to the window near, and see
Once more, before my dying eyes,

Bathed in the sacred dews of morn
The wide aërial landscape spread—
The world which was ere I was born,
The world which lasts when I am dead;

Which never was the friend of one,
Nor promised love it could not give,
But lit for all its generous sun,
And lived itself, and made us live.

There let me gaze, till I become
In soul, with what I gaze on, wed!
To feel the universe my home;
To have before my mind—instead

Of the sick room, the mortal strife,
The turmoil for a little breath—
The pure eternal course of life,
Not human combatings with death!

Thus feeling, gazing, might I grow
Composed, refreshed, ennobled, clear;
Then willing let my spirit go
To work or wait elsewhere or here!

Matthew Arnold [1822–1888]

NEXT OF KIN

The shadows gather round me, while you are in the sun:
My day is almost ended, but yours is just begun:
The winds are singing to us both and the streams are singing still,
And they fill your heart with music, but mine they cannot fill.

Your home is built in sunlight, mine in another day:
Your home is close at hand, sweet friend, but mine is far away:
Your bark is in the haven where you fain would be:
I must launch out into the deep, across the unknown sea.

You, white as dove or lily or spirit of the light:
I, stained and cold and glad to hide in the cold dark night:
You, joy to many a loving heart and light to many eyes:
I, lonely in the knowledge earth is full of vanities.

Yet when your day is over, as mine is nearly done,
And when your race is finished, as mine is almost run,
You, like me, shall cross your hands and bow your graceful head:
Yea, we twain shall sleep together in an equal bed.

Christina Georgina Rossetti [1830–1894]

A BETTER RESURRECTION

I HAVE no wit, no words, no tears;
My heart within me like a stone
Is numbed too much for hopes or fears.
Look right, look left, I dwell alone;
I lift mine eyes, but dimmed with grief
No everlasting hills I see;
My life is in the falling leaf:
O Jesu, quicken me!

My life is like a faded leaf,
My harvest dwindled to a husk;
Truly my life is void and brief
And tedious in the barren dusk;
My life is like a frozen thing,
No bud nor greenness can I see:
Yet rise it shall,—the sap of Spring;
O Jesu, rise in me!

My life is like a broken bowl,
A broken bowl that cannot hold
One drop of water for my soul
Or cordial in the searching cold;

Cast in the fire the perished thing,
Melt and remold it, till it be
A royal cup for Him my King:
O Jesu, drink of me!

Christina Georgina Rossetti [1830–1894]

THE SUMMER IS ENDED

WREATHE no more lilies in my hair,
For I am dying, Sister sweet:
Or, if you will for the last time
Indeed, why make me fair
Once for my winding-sheet.

Pluck no more roses for my breast,
For I like them fade in my prime:
Or, if you will, why pluck them still,
That they may share my rest
Once more for the last time.

Weep not for me when I am gone,
Dear tender one, but hope and smile:
Or, if you cannot choose but weep,
A little while weep on,
Only a little while.

Christina Georgina Rossetti [1830–1894]

A LITTLE PARABLE

I MADE the cross myself whose weight
Was later laid on me.
This thought is torture as I toil
Up life's steep Calvary.

To think mine own hands drove the nails!
I sang a merry song,
And chose the heaviest wood I had
To build it firm and strong.

If I had guessed—if I had dreamed
Its weight was meant for me,
I should have made a lighter cross
To bear up Calvary!

Anne Reeve Aldrich [1866–1892]

MY CROSS

My Lord would make a cross for me
But I would none of His,—
I thought I better knew than He
To bear my pain or bliss.

My Lord would make a cross for me
But I would make my own,—
In fashion light as cross could be
But now it weighs like stone.

If I had only bowed me low
To take the cross He laid,
It never would have galled me so
As this, the one I made.

For aye, His cross is true and sure
In all its breadth and length,
Just what His children can endure
And measured to their strength.

But I had fainted 'neath the load
I on myself did lay,
Had He not met me on the road
And helped me on the way!

Zitella Cocke [1847–

IN THE HOSPITAL

I LAY me down to sleep,
With little thought or care
Whether my waking find
Me here, or there.

A bowing, burdened head,
That only asks to rest,
Unquestioning, upon
A loving breast.

My good right hand forgets
Its cunning now;
To march the weary march
I know not how.

I am not eager, bold,
Nor strong—all that is past;
I am ready not to do
At last, at last.

My half day's work is done,
And this is all my part—
I give a patient God
My patient heart,

And grasp His banner still,
Though all the blue be dim;
These stripes as well as stars
Lead after Him.

Mary Woolsey Howland [1832–1864]

WHEN

If I were told that I must die to-morrow,
That the next sun
Which sinks would bear me past all fear and sorrow
For any one,
All the fight fought, all the short journey through,
What should I do?

I do not think that I should shrink or falter,
But just go on,
Doing my work, nor change nor seek to alter
Aught that is gone;
But rise and move and love and smile and pray
For one more day.

And, lying down at night for a last sleeping,
Say in that ear
Which hearkens ever: "Lord, within Thy keeping
How should I fear?
And when to-morrow brings Thee nearer still,
Do thou Thy will."

I might not sleep for awe; but peaceful, tender,
My soul would lie
All the night long; and when the morning splendor
Flushed o'er the sky,
I think that I could smile—could calmly say,
"It is His day."

But if a wondrous hand from the blue yonder
Held out a scroll
On which my life was writ, and I with wonder
Beheld unroll
To a long century's end its mystic clue,
What should I do?

What could I do, O blessed Guide and Master,
Other than this:
Still to go on as now, not slower, faster,
Nor fear to miss
The road, although so very long it be,
While led by Thee?

Step after step, feeling Thee close beside me,
Although unseen,
Through thorns, through flowers, whether the tempest hide
Thee,
Or heavens serene,
Assured Thy faithfulness cannot betray,
Thy love decay.

I may not know; my God, no hand revealeth
Thy counsels wise;
Along the path a deepening shadow stealeth,
No voice replies
To all my questioning thought, the time to tell;
And it is well.

Let me keep on, abiding and unfearing
Thy will always,
Through a long century's ripening fruition
Or a short day's;
Thou canst not come too soon; and I can wait
If Thou come late.

Sarah Chauncey Woolsey [1845–1905]

"EX LIBRIS"

In an old book at even as I read
Fast fading words adown my shadowy page,
I crossed a tale of how, in other age,
At Arqua, with his books around him, sped
The word to Petrarch; and with noble head
Bowed gently o'er his volume that sweet sage
To Silence paid his willing seigniorage.
And they who found him whispered, "He is dead!"
Thus timely from old comradeships would I
To Silence also rise. Let there be night,
Stillness, and only these staid watchers by,
And no light shine save my low study light—
Lest of his kind intent some human cry
Interpret not the Messenger aright.

Arthur Upson [1877–1908]

IN EXTREMIS

Till dawn the Winds' insuperable throng
Passed over like archangels in their might,
With roar of chariots from their stormy height,
And broken thunder of mysterious song—
By mariner or sentry heard along
The star-usurping battlements of night—
And wafture of immeasurable flight,
And high-blown trumpets mutinous and strong.
Till louder on the dreadful dark I heard
The shrieking of the tempest-tortured tree,
And deeper on immensity the call
And tumult of the empire-forging sea;

But near the eternal Peace I lay, nor stirred,
Knowing the happy dead hear not at all.

George Sterling [1869–

SPINNING

Like a blind spinner in the sun,
I tread my days;
I know that all the threads will run
Appointed ways;
I know each day will bring its task,
And, being blind, no more I ask.

I do not know the use or name
Of that I spin:
I only know that some one came,
And laid within
My hand the thread, and said, "Since you
Are blind, but one thing you can do."

Sometimes the threads so rough and fast
And tangled fly,
I know wild storms are sweeping past,
And fear that I
Shall fall; but dare not try to find
A safer place, since I am blind.

I know not why, but I am sure
That tint and place,
In some great fabric to endure
Past time and race,
My threads will have; so from the first,
Though blind, I never felt accurst.

I think, perhaps, this trust has sprung
From one short word
Said over me when I was young,—
So young, I heard
It, knowing not that God's name signed
My brow, and sealed me His, though blind.

But whether this be seal or sign
Within, without,
It matters not. The bond divine
I never doubt.
I know He set me here, and still,
And glad, and blind, I wait His will;

But listen, listen, day by day,
To hear their tread
Who bear the finished web away,
And cut the thread,
And bring God's message in the sun,
"Thou poor blind spinner, work is done."

Helen Huni Jackson [1831–1885]

"SOME TIME AT EVE"

Some time at eve when the tide is low,
I shall slip my mooring and sail away,
With no response to the friendly hail
Of kindred craft in the busy bay.
In the silent hush of the twilight pale,
When the night stoops down to embrace the day,
And the voices call in the waters' flow—
Some time at eve when the tide is low,
I shall slip my mooring and sail away.

Through the purpling shadows that darkly trail
O'er the ebbing tide of the Unknown Sea,
I shall fare me away, with a dip of sail
And a ripple of waters to tell the tale
Of a lonely voyager, sailing away
To the Mystic Isles where at anchor lay
The crafts of those who have sailed before
O'er the Unknown Sea to the Unseen Shore.

A few who have watched me sail away
Will miss my craft from the busy bay;
Some friendly barks that were anchored near,
Some loving souls that my heart held dear,
In silent sorrow will drop a tear—

But I shall have peacefully furled my sail
In moorings sheltered from storm or gale,
And greeted the friends who have sailed before
O'er the Unknown Sea to the Unseen Shore.

Lizzie Clark Hardy [18—]

NIGHT

When the time comes for me to die,
To-morrow, or some other day,
If God should bid me make reply,
"What would'st thou?" I shall say,

O God, Thy world was great and fair;
Yet give me to forget it clean!
Vex me no more with things that were,
And things that might have been.

I loved, I toiled, throve ill or well,
—Lived certain years and murmured not.
Now grant me in that land to dwell
Where all things are forgot.

For others, Lord, Thy purging fires,
The loves reknit, the crown, the palm.
For me, the death of all desires
In deep, eternal calm.

Thomas William Rolleston [1857–

AFTERWARDS

I know that these poor rags of womanhood,—
This oaten pipe, whereon the wild winds played
Making sad music,—tattered and outfrayed,
Cast off, played out,—can hold no more of good,
Of love, or song, or sense of sun and shade.

What homely neighbors elbow me (hard by 'Neath the black yews) I know I shall not know,
Nor take account of changing winds that blow,
Shifting the golden arrow, set on high
On the gray spire, nor mark who come and go.

Yet would I lie in some familiar place,
Nor share my rest with uncongenial dead,—
Somewhere, may be, where friendly feet will tread,—
As if from out some little chink of space
Mine eyes might see them tripping overhead.

And though too sweet to deck a sepulcher
Seem twinkling daisy-buds and meadow-grass;
And so would more than serve me, lest they pass
Who fain would know what woman rested there,
What her demeanor, or her story was,—

For these I would that on a sculptured stone
(Fenced round with ironwork to keep secure)
Should sleep a form with folded palms demure,
In aspect like the dreamer that was gone,
With these words carved, "I hoped, but was not sure."

Violet Fane [18] –

A HUNDRED YEARS TO COME

Oh, where will be the birds that sing,
A hundred years to come?
The flowers that now in beauty spring,
A hundred years to come?
The rosy lip, the lofty brow,
The heart that beats so gaily now,—
Oh, where will be love's beaming eye,
Joy's pleasant smile, and sorrow's sigh,
A hundred years to come?

Who'll press for gold this crowded street,
A hundred years to come?
Who'll tread yon church with willing feet,
A hundred years to come?
Pale, trembling age, and fiery youth,
And childhood with its brow of truth,
The rich and poor, on land and sea,—
Where will the mighty millions be,
A hundred years to come?

We all within our graves shall sleep,
A hundred years to come;
No living soul for us will weep
A hundred years to come;
But other men our lands shall till,
And others then our streets shall fill,
While other birds shall sing as gay,
As bright the sunshine as to-day,
A hundred years to come!

William Goldsmith Brown [1812–1906]

THE LAST CAMP-FIRE

Scar not earth's breast that I may have
Somewhere above her heart a grave;
Mine was a life whose swift desire
Bent ever less to dust than fire;
Then through the swift white path of flame
Send back my soul to whence it came;
From some great peak, storm challenging,
My death-fire to the heavens fling;
The rocks my altar, and above
The still eyes of the stars I love;
No hymn, save as the midnight wind
Comes whispering to seek his kind.

Heap high the logs of spruce and pine,
Balsam for spices and for wine;
Brown cones, and knots a golden blur
Of hoarded pitch, more sweet than myrrh;
Cedar, to stream across the dark
Its scented embers spark on spark;
Long, shaggy boughs of juniper,
And silvery, odorous sheaves of fir;
Spice-wood, to die in incense smoke
Against the stubborn roots of oak,
Red to the last for hate or love
As that red stubborn heart above.

Watch till the last pale ember dies,
Till wan and low the dead pyre lies,
Then let the thin white ashes blow
To all earth's winds a finer snow;
There is no wind of hers but I
Have loved it as it whistled by;
No leaf whose life I would not share,
No weed that is not some way fair;
Hedge not my dust in one close urn,
It is to these I would return,—
The wild, free winds, the things that know
No master's rule, no ordered row,—

To be, if Nature will, at length
Part of some great tree's noble strength;
Growth of the grass; to live anew
In many a wild-flower's richer hue;
Find immortality, indeed,
In ripened heart of fruit and seed.
Time grants not any man redress
Of his broad law, forgetfulness;
I parley not with shaft and stone,
Content that in the perfume blown
From next year's hillsides something sweet
And mine, shall make earth more complete.

Sharlot M. Hall [1870–

INTERLUDE

The days grow shorter, the nights grow longer,
The headstones thicken along the way;
And life grows sadder, but love grows stronger
For those who walk with us, day by day.

The tear comes quicker, the laugh comes slower,
The courage is lesser to do and dare;
And the tide of joy in the heart runs lower
And seldom covers the reefs of care.

But all true things in the world seem truer,
And the better things of the earth seem best;

And friends are dearer as friends are fewer,
And love is all as our sun dips west.

Then let us clasp hands as we walk together,
And let us speak softly, in love's sweet tone,
For no man knows, on the morrow, whether
We two pass by, or but one alone.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox [1855–

THE ONE HOPE

When vain desire at last and vain regret
Go hand in hand to death, and all is vain,
What shall assuage the unforgotten pain
And teach the unforgetful to forget?
Shall Peace be still a sunk stream long unmet,—
Or may the soul at once in a green plain
Stoop through the spray of some sweet life-fountain
And cull the dew-drenched flowering amulet?
Ah! when the wan soul in that golden air
Between the scriptured petals softly blown
Peers breathless for the gift of grace unknown,—
Ah! let none other alien spell soe'er
But only the one Hope's one name be there,—
Not less nor more, but even that word alone.

Dante Gabriel Rossetti [1828–1882[

THE LAMP IN THE WEST

Venus has lit her silver lamp
Low in the purple West,
Casting a soft and mellow light
Upon the sea's full breast;
In one clear path—as if to guide
Some pale, wayfaring guest.

Far out, far out the restless bar
Starts from a troubled sleep,
Where, roaring through the narrow straits,
The meeting waters leap;
But still that shining pathway leads
Across the lonely deep.

When I sail out the narrow straits
Where unknown dangers be,
And cross the troubled, moaning bar
To the mysterious sea,
Dear God, wilt thou not set a lamp
Low in the West for me?

Ella Higginson [1862–

THE DYING RESERVIST

I SHALL not see the faces of my friends,
Nor hear the songs the rested reapers sing
After the labors of the harvesting,
In those dark nights before the summer ends;
Nor see the floods of spring, the melting snow,
Nor in the autumn twilight hear the stir
Of reedy marshes, when the wild ducks whir
And circle black against the afterglow.
My mother died; she shall not have to weep;
My wife will find another home; my child,
Too young, will never grieve or know; but I
Have found my brother, and contentedly
I'll lay my head upon his knees and sleep.
O brother Death,—I knew you when you smiled.

Maurice Baring [1874–1916]

"IF LOVE WERE JESTER AT THE COURT OF DEATH"

IF Love were jester at the court of Death,
And Death the king of all, still would I pray,
"For me the motley and the bauble, yea,
Though all be vanity, as the Preacher saith,
The mirth of love be mine for one brief breath!"
Then would I kneel the monarch to obey,
And kiss that pale hand, should it spare or slay;
Since I have tasted love, what mattereth!
But if, dear God, this heart be dry as sand,
And cold as Charon's palm holding Hell's toll,

How worse! how worse! Scorch it with sorrow's brand!
Haply, though dead to joy, 'twould feel that coal;
Better a cross, and nails through either hand,
Than Pilate's palace and a frozen soul!

Frederic Lawrence Knowles [1869–1905]

CONSTANCY

"Dear as remembered kisses after death"—
We read and pause, toying the pliant page
With absent fingers while we question slow,
By whom remembered? Not by those that live,
And love again, and wed, and know fresh joys,
Forgetting the pale past. Ah, no! for them,
The sudden stirring of such long-whelmed thought
Means shock and pain, and swift reburial.
But it may be, that with the dreaming dead,
Who sank away quick piercèd by despair,
It may be that their stillness is aglow
Through soft recalling of each loved caress;
Perchance it is of them the poet saith
"Dear as remembered kisses after death."

Minor Watson [18 –

THE WILD RIDE

I hear in my heart, I hear in its ominous pulses
All day, on the road, the hoofs of invisible horses,
All night, from their stalls, the importunate pawing and neighing.

Let cowards and laggards fall back! but alert to the saddle
Weatherworn and abreast, go men of our galloping legion,
With a stirrup-cup each to the lily of women that loves him.

The trail is through dolor and dread, over crags and morasses;
There are shapes by the way, there are things that appal or entice us:
What odds? We are Knights of the Grail, we are vowed to the riding.

Thought's self is a vanishing wing, and joy is a cobweb,
And friendship a flower in the dust, and glory a sunbeam:
Not here is our prize, nor, alas! after these our pursuing.

A dipping of plumes, a tear, a shake of the bridle,
A passing salute to this world and her pitiful beauty:
We hurry with never a word in the track of our fathers.

I hear in my heart, I hear in its ominous pulses
All day, on the road, the hoofs of invisible horses,
All night, from their stalls, the importunate pawing and neighing.

We spur to a land of no name, outracing the storm-wind;
We leap to the infinite dark like sparks from the anvil.
Thou leadest, O God! All's well with Thy troopers that follow.

Louise Imogen Guiney [1861–

"I WOULD NOT LIVE ALWAY"

I WOULD not live alway—live alway below!
Oh no, I'll not linger when bidden to go:
The days of our pilgrimage granted us here
Are enough for life's woes, full enough for its cheer:
Would I shrink from the path which the prophets of God,
Apostles, and martyrs, so joyfully trod?
Like a spirit unblest, o'er the earth would I roam,
While brethren and friends are all hastening home?

I would not live alway: I ask not to stay
Where storm after storm rises dark o'er the way;
Where seeking for rest we but hover around,
Like the patriarch's bird, and no resting is found;
Where Hope, when she paints her gay bow in the air,
Leaves its brilliance to fade in the night of despair,
And joy's fleeting angel ne'er sheds a glad ray,
Save the gleam of the plumage that bears him away.

I would not live alway—thus fettered by sin,
Temptation without and corruption within;
In a moment of strength if I sever the chain,
Scarce the victory's mine, ere I'm captive again;
E'en the rapture of pardon is mingled with fears,
And the cup of thanksgiving with penitent tears:
The festival trump calls for jubilant songs,
But my spirit her own miserere prolongs.

I would not live alway—no, welcome the tomb,
Since Jesus hath lain there I dread not its gloom;
Where He deigned to sleep, I'll too bow my head,
All peaceful to slumber on that hallowed bed.
Then the glorious daybreak, to follow that night,
The orient gleam of the angels of light,
With their clarion call for the sleepers to rise
And chant forth their matins, away to the skies.

Who, who would live alway? away from his God,
Away from yon heaven, that blissful abode,
Where the rivers of pleasure flow o'er the bright plains,
And the noontide of glory eternally reigns;
Where the saints of all ages in harmony meet,
Their Saviour and brethren transported to greet,
While the songs of salvation exultingly roll
And the smile of the Lord is the feast of the soul.

That heavenly music! what is it I hear?
The notes of the harpers ring sweet in mine ear!
And see, soft unfolding those portals of gold,
The King all arrayed in His beauty behold!
Oh give me, oh give me, the wings of a dove,
To adore Him—be near Him—enwrapped with his love;
I but wait for the summons, I list for the word—
Alleluia—Amen—evermore with the Lord!

William Augustus Muhlenberg [1796–1877]

TRAVELLER'S HOPE

Lay me to rest in some fair spot
  Where sound of waters near,
And songs of sailors in their ships
  Shall reach my waiting ear:

Where I shall catch the Captain's call:
  "All hands again to sea!"
When swift embarking, I may fare
  To founts of life to be;

Fare to the dreamed-of lands that lie
  Beyond the Port of Death;
Fare to the Dawn of whose glad realms
  God sometimes whispereth;

With hope of flowers that lift their heads
  After the night is past,
And joy of sailors in their ships
  When home's in sight at last.

Charles Granville [18

SEALED ORDERS

We bear sealed orders o'er Life's weltered sea,
  Our haven dim and far;
We can but man the helm right cheerily,
  Steer by the brightest star,

And hope that when at last the Great Command
  Is read, we then may hear
Our anchor song, and see the longed-for land
  Lie, known and very near.

Richard Burton [1859–

SONG

I make my shroud but no one knows,
So shimmering fine it is and fair,
With stitches set in even rows.
I make my shroud but no one knows.

In door-way where the lilac blows,
Humming a little wandering air,
I make my shroud and no one knows,
So shimmering fine it is and fair.

Adelaide Crapsey [1878–1914]

A SONG OF LIVING

Because I have loved life, I shall have no sorrow to die.
I have sent up my gladness on wings, to be lost in the blue of the sky.
I have run and leaped with the rain, I have taken the wind to my breast.
My cheek like a drowsy child to the face of the earth I have pressed.
Because I have loved life, I shall have no sorrow to die.
I have kissed young Love on the lips, I have heard his song to the end.
I have struck my hand like a seal in the loyal hand of a friend.
I have known the peace of heaven, the comfort of work done well.
I have longed for death in the darkness and risen alive out of hell.
Because I have loved life, I shall have no sorrow to die.
I give a share of my soul to the world where my course is run.
I know that another shall finish the task I must leave undone.
I know that no flower, no flint was in vain on the path I trod.
As one looks on a face through a window, through life I have looked on God.
Because I have loved life, I shall have no sorrow to die.

Amelia Josephine Burr [1878–

COMPENSATION

Because I had loved so deeply,
Because I had loved so long,
God in His great compassion
Gave me the gift of song.

Because I have loved so vainly,
And sung with such faltering breath,
The Master, in infinite mercy,
Offers the boon of Death.

Paul Laurence Dunbar [1872–1906]

THE RECESSIONAL

Now along the solemn heights
Fade the Autumn's altar-lights;
Down the great earth's glimmering chancel
Glide the days and nights.

Little kindred of the grass,
Like a shadow in a glass
Falls the dark and falls the stillness;
We must rise and pass.

We must rise and follow, wending
Where the nights and days have ending,—
Pass in order pale and slow
Unto sleep extending.

Little brothers of the clod,
Soul of fire and seed of sod,
We must fare into the silence
At the knees of God.

Little comrades of the sky,
Wing to wing we wander by,
Going, going, going, going,
Softly as a sigh.

Hark, the moving shapes confer,
Globe of dew and gossamer,
Fading and ephemeral spirits
In the dusk astir.

Moth and blossom, blade and bee,
Worlds must go as well as we,
In the long procession joining
Mount and star and sea.

Toward the shadowy brink we climb
Where the round year rolls sublime,
  Rolls, and drops, and falls forever
In the vast of time.

Like a plummet plunging deep
Past the utmost reach of sleep,
  Till remembrance has no longer
Care to laugh or weep.

Charles G. D. Roberts [1860–

MOUNTAIN SONG

I HAVE not where to lay my head:
  Upon my breast no child shall lie;
For me no marriage feast is spread:
  I walk alone under the sky.

My staff and scrip I cast away—
  Light-burdened to the mountain height!
Climbing the rocky steep by day,
  Kindling my fire against the night.

The bitter hail shall flower the peak,
  The icy wind shall dry my tears.
Strong shall I be, who am but weak,
  When bright Orion spears my fears.

Under the horned moon I shall rise
  Up-swinging on the scarf of dawn.
The sun, searching with level eyes,
  Shall take my hand and lead me on.

Wide flaming pinions veil the West—
  Ah, shall I find? and shall I know?
My feet are bound upon the Quest—
  Over the Great Divide I go.

Harriet Monroe [1860–

TO M. E. W.

WORDS, for alas my trade is words, a barren burst of rhyme,
Rubbed by a hundred rhymesters, battered a thousand times,
Take them, you, that smile on strings, those nobler sounds than mine,
The words that never lie, or brag, or flatter, or malign.

I give a hand to my lady, another to my friend,
To whom you too have given a hand; and so before the end
We four may pray, for all the years, whatever suns be set,
The sole two prayers worth praying—to live and not forget.

The pale leaf falls in pallor, but the green leaf turns to gold;
We that have found it good to be young shall find it good to be old;
Life that bringeth the marriage bell, the cradle and the grave,
Life that is mean to the mean of heart, and only brave to the brave.

In the calm of the last white winter, when all the past is ours,
Old tears are frozen as jewels, old storms frosted as flowers,
Dear Lady, may we meet again, stand up again, we four,
Beneath the burden of the years, and praise the earth once more.

Gilbert Keith Chesterton [1874–

RETURNING

NEVER sings a city-robin on the gray-stone window-ledges
But I dream the long, cool meadows where the yellow cowslips be;
To his call I guess an answer from the grass and tangled hedges—
There's a thrill of other springtimes in the country soul of me!

Never falls light rain above me but I hear its gentle patter
On a lonely roof at even, as I heard it years ago;
Through the music, warmth, and fragrance, past the sound of careless chatter,
Throbs the silence of far places where the pines and birches grow.

I shall see a few more springtimes, then shall heed no answer lilted
To that first full-throated robin, hear no rain above my head . . .
Give me, God, the meadow-blossoms when my formal wreaths have wilted—
Let me lie till Thine Own Springtime with the pines beside my bed!

Ruth Guthrie Harding [1882–

"O WORLD, BE NOT SO FAIR"

O MOON, O hide thy golden light,
O night, be not so fair;
O ye dear stars, shine not so bright:
I would for sleep prepare.
Mine eyes are closing wearily
That watched the slow day's flight,
And yet there is no rest for me
In this enchanted night.

O fellow-men, be not too good!
O world, be not too fair!
Wake no new life-glow in my blood—
I would for sleep prepare.
My day is dim; there beckons clear
A star of other air;
And yet, and yet, my heart is here!
O world, be not so fair.

From the German of Maria Jäger by Grace Fallow Norton [18 –

"ONE FIGHT MORE"

PROSPICE

FEAR death?—to feel the fog in my throat,
The mist in my face,
When the snows begin, and the blasts denote
I am nearing the place,
The power of the night, the press of the storm,
The post of the foe;
Where he stands, the Arch Fear in a visible form,
Yet the strong man must go:
For the journey is done and the summit attained,
And the barriers fall,
Though a battle's to fight ere the guerdon be gained,
The reward of it all.
I was ever a fighter, so—one fight more,
The best and the last!
I would hate that death bandaged my eyes, and forbore,
And bade me creep past.
No! let me taste the whole of it, fare like my peers
The heroes of old,
Bear the brunt, in a minute pay glad life's arrears
Of pain, darkness and cold.
For sudden the worst turns the best to the brave,
The black minute's at end,
And the elements' rage, the fiend-voices that rave,
Shall dwindle, shall blend,
Shall change, shall become first a peace out of pain,
Then a light, then thy breast,
O thou soul of my soul! I shall clasp thee again,
And with God be the rest!

Robert Browning [1812–1889]

REQUIEM

Under the wide and starry sky
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will.

This be the verse you grave for me:
Here he lies where he longed to be;
Home is the sailor, home from sea,
And the hunter home from the hill.

Robert Louis Stevenson [1850–1894]

"OH MAY I JOIN THE CHOIR INVISIBLE"

Longum illud tempus, quum non ero, magis me movet, quam hoc exiguum.—Cicero, ad Att., xii. 18.

Oh may I join the choir invisible
Of those immortal dead who live again
In minds made better by their presence: live
In pulses stirred to generosity,
In deeds of daring rectitude, in scorn
For miserable aims that end with self,
In thoughts sublime that pierce the night like stars,
And with their mild persistence urge man's search
To vaster issues.

So to live is heaven:
To make undying music in the world,
Breathing as beauteous order that controls
With growing sway the growing life of man.
So we inherit that sweet purity
For which we struggled, failed, and agonized,
With widening retrospect that bred despair.
Rebellious flesh that would not be subdued,
A vicious parent shaming still its child,
Poor anxious penitence, is quick dissolved;
Its discords, quenched by meeting harmonies,
Die in the large and charitable air.
And all our rarer, better, truer self,

That sobbed religiously in yearning song,
That watched to ease the burden of the world,
Laboriously tracing what must be,
And what may yet be better,—saw within
A worthier image for the sanctuary,
And shaped it forth before the multitude,
Divinely human, raising worship so
To higher reverence more mixed with love,—
That better self shall live till human Time
Shall fold its eyelids, and the human sky
Be gathered like a scroll within the tomb
Unread forever.

This is life to come,
Which martyred men have made more glorious
For us who strive to follow. May I reach
That purest heaven, be to other souls
The cup of strength in some great agony,
Enkindle generous ardor, feed pure love,
Beget the smiles that have no cruelty,
Be the sweet presence of a good diffused,
And in diffusion ever more intense.
So shall I join the choir invisible
Whose music is the gladness of the world.

George Eliot [1819–1880]

LAST LINES

No coward soul is mine,
No trembler in the world's storm-troubled sphere:
I see Heaven's glories shine,
And faith shines equal, arming me from fear.

O God within my breast,
Almighty, ever-present Deity!
Life—that in me has rest,
As I—undying Life—have power in Thee!

Vain are the thousand creeds
That move men's hearts: unutterably vain;
Worthless as withered weeds,
Or idlest froth amid the boundless main,

To waken doubt in one
Holding so fast by Thine infinity;
So surely anchored on
The steadfast rock of immortality.

With wide-embracing love
Thy Spirit animates eternal years,
Pervades and broods above,
Changes, sustains, dissolves, creates, and rears.

Though earth and man were gone,
And suns and universes cease to be,
And Thou were left alone,
Every existence would exist in Thee.

There is not room for Death,
Nor atom that his might could render void:
Thou—Thou art Being and Breath,
And what Thou art may never be destroyed.

Emily Brontë [1818–1848]

LAUS MORTIS

Nay, why should I fear Death,
Who gives us life, and in exchange takes breath?

He is like cordial Spring
That lifts above the soil each buried thing;—

Like Autumn, kind and brief—
The frost that chills the branches frees the leaf;—

Like Winter's stormy hours
That spread their fleece of snow to save the flowers.

The lordliest of all things,—
Life lends us only feet, Death gives us wings!

Fearing no covert thrust,
Let me walk onward, armed with valiant trust,

Dreading no unseen knife,
Across Death's threshold step from life to life!

O all ye frightened folk,
Whether ye wear a crown or bear a yoke,

Laid in one equal bed,
When once your coverlet of grass is spread,

What daybreak need you fear?
The Love will rule you there which guides you here!

Where Life, the Sower, stands,
Scattering the ages from his swinging hand

Thou waitest, Reaper lone,
Until the multitudinous grain hath grown

Scythe-bearer, when thy blade
Harvests my flesh, let me be unafraid!

God's husbandman thou art!—
In His unwithering sheaves, O bind my heart!

Frederic Lawrence Knowles [1869–1905]

"WHEN I HAVE FEARS"

When I have fears that I may cease to be
Before my pen has gleaned my teeming brain,
Before high-pilèd books, in charact'ry
Hold like rich garners the full-ripened grain;
When I behold, upon the night's starred face,
Huge cloudy symbols of a high romance,
And think that I may never live to trace
Their shadows, with the magic hand of chance;
And when I feel, fair creature of an hour!
That I shall never look upon thee more,
Never have relish in the fairy power
Of unreflecting love!—then on the shore
Of the wide world I stand alone, and think
Till Love and Fame to nothingness do sink.

John Keats [1795–1821]

LAST SONNET

Bright Star! would I were steadfast as thou art—
Not in lone splendor hung aloft the night,
And watching, with eternal lids apart,
Like Nature's patient, sleepless Eremite,
The moving waters at their priest-like task
Of pure ablution round earth's human shores,
Or gazing on the new soft-fallen mask
Of snow upon the mountains and the moors—
No—yet still steadfast, still unchangeable,
Pillowed upon my fair love's ripening breast,
To feel for ever its soft fall and swell,
Awake for ever in a sweet unrest,
Still, still to hear her tender-taken breath,
And so live ever—or else swoon to death.

John Keats [1795–1821]

THE DYING CHRISTIAN TO HIS SOUL

Animula, vagula, blandula,
Hospes Comesque Corporis,
Quæ nunc abibis in loca,
Pallidula, rigida, nudula?
Nec, ut soles, dabis joca.

ADRIANI MORIENTIS, AD ANIMAM SUAM

Vital spark of heavenly flame,
Quit, O quit this mortal frame!
Trembling, hoping, lingering, flying,
O the pain, the bliss of dying!
Cease, fond Nature, cease thy strife,
And let me languish into life.

Hark! they whisper; angels say,
Sister Spirit, come away!
What is this absorbs me quite,
Steals my senses, shuts my sight,
Drowns my spirits, draws my breath?
Tell me, my soul, can this be death?

The world recedes; it disappears!
Heaven opens on my eyes; my ears

With sounds seraphic ring!
Lend, lend your wings! I mount! I fly!
O Grave! where is thy victory?
O Death! where is thy sting?

Alexander Pope [1688–1744]

"BEYOND THE SMILING AND THE WEEPING"

Beyond the smiling and the weeping
I shall be soon;
Beyond the waking and the sleeping,
Beyond the sowing and the reaping,
I shall be soon.
Love, rest, and home!
Sweet hope!
Lord, tarry not, but come.

Beyond the blooming and the fading
I shall be soon;
Beyond the shining and the shading,
Beyond the hoping and the dreading,
I shall be soon.

Beyond the rising and the setting
I shall be soon;
Beyond the calming and the fretting,
Beyond remembering and forgetting,
I shall be soon.

Beyond the gathering and the strowing
I shall be soon;
Beyond the ebbing and the flowing,
Beyond the coming and the going,
I shall be soon.

Beyond the parting and the meeting
I shall be soon;
Beyond the farewell and the greeting,
Beyond this pulse's fever beating,
I shall be soon.

Beyond the frost chain and the fever
I shall be soon;
Beyond the rock waste and the river,
Beyond the ever and the never,
I shall be soon.
Love, rest, and home!
Sweet hope!
Lord, tarry not, but come.

Horatius Bonar [1808–1889]

"I STROVE WITH NONE"

I STROVE with none; for none was worth my strife.
Nature I loved and, next to Nature, Art;
I warmed both hands before the fire of life;
It sinks, and I am ready to depart.

Walter Savage Landor [1775–1864]

DEATH

DEATH stands above me, whispering low
I know not what into my ear;
Of his strange language all I know
Is, there is not a word of fear.

Walter Savage Landor [1775–1864]

LIFE

LIFE! I know not what thou art,
But know that thou and I must part;
And when, or how, or where we met,
I own to me's a secret yet.
But this I know, when thou art fled,
Where'er they lay these limbs, this head,
No clod so valueless shall be
As all that then remains of me.

O whither, whither dost thou fly?
Where bend unseen thy trackless course?
And in this strange divorce,
Ah, tell where I must seek this compound I?
To the vast ocean of empyreal flame
From whence thy essence came
Dost thou thy flight pursue, when freed
From matter's base encumbering weed?
Or dost thou, hid from sight,
Wait, like some spell-bound knight,
Through blank oblivious years the appointed hour
To break thy trance and reassume thy power?
Yet canst thou without thought or feeling be?
O say, what art thou, when no more thou'rt thee?

Life! we have been long together,
Through pleasant and through cloudy weather;
'Tis hard to part when friends are dear;
Perhaps 'twill cost a sigh, a tear;—
Then steal away, give little warning,
Choose thine own time;
Say not Good-night, but in some brighter clime
Bid me Good-morning!

Anna Letitia Barbauld [1743–1825]

DYING HYMN

Earth, with its dark and dreadful ills,
Recedes, and fades away;
Lift up your heads, ye heavenly hills;
Ye gates of death, give way!

My soul is full of whispered song,
My blindness is my sight;
The shadows that I feared so long
Are all alive with light.

The while my pulses faintly beat,
My faith doth so abound,
I feel grow firm beneath my feet
The green immortal ground.

That faith to me a courage gives
  Low as the grave, to go:
I know that my Redeemer lives:
  That I shall live, I know.

The palace walls I almost see,
  Where dwells my Lord and King;
O grave, where is thy victory!
  O death, where is thy sting!

Alice Cary [1820–1871]

IN HARBOR

I THINK it is over, over,
  I think it is over at last;
Voices of foeman and lover,
  The sweet and the bitter, have passed:
Life, like a tempest of ocean,
Hath outblown its ultimate blast:
There's but a faint sobbing seaward
While the calm of the tide deepens leeward,
And behold! like the welcoming quiver
Of heart-pulses throbbed through the river,
  Those lights in the harbor at last,
  The heavenly harbor at last!

I feel it is over! over!
  For the winds and the waters surcease;
Ah, few were the days of the rover
  That smiled in the beauty of peace!
And distant and dim was the omen
That hinted redress or release:—
From the ravage of life, and its riot,
What marvel I yearn for the quiet
  Which bides in the harbor at last,—
For the lights, with their welcoming quiver,
That throb through the sanctified river,
  Which girdle the harbor at last,
  This heavenly harbor at last?

I know it is over, over,
I know it is over at last!
Down sail! the sheathed anchor uncover,
For the stress of the voyage has passed:
Life, like a tempest of ocean,
Hath outbreathed its ultimate blast:
There's but a faint sobbing to seaward,
While the calm of the tide deepens leeward;
And behold! like the welcoming quiver
Of heart-pulses throbbed through the river,
Those lights in the harbor at last,
The heavenly harbor at last!

Paul Hamilton Hayne [1830–1886]

THE LAST INVOCATION

At the last, tenderly,
From the walls of the powerful, fortressed house,
From the clasp of the knitted locks, from the keep of the well-closed doors,
Let me be wafted.

Let me glide noiselessly forth;
With the key of softness unlock the locks—with a whisper
Set ope the doors, O soul!

Tenderly—be not impatient!
(Strong is your hold, O mortal flesh!
Strong is your hold, O love!)

Walt Whitman [1819–1892]

"DAREST THOU NOW, O SOUL"

Darest thou now, O soul,
Walk out with me toward the unknown region,
Where neither ground is for the feet nor any path to follow?

No map there, nor guide,
Nor voice sounding, nor touch of human hand,
Nor face with blooming flesh, nor lips, nor eyes, are in that land.

I know it not, O soul,
Nor dost thou, all is a blank before us,—
All waits undreamed of in that region, that inaccessible land.

Till when the ties loosen,
All but the ties eternal, Time and Space,
Nor darkness, gravitation, sense, nor any bounds bounding us.

Then we burst forth, we float,
In Time and Space, O soul! prepared for them,
Equal, equipped at last (O joy! O fruit of all!), them to fulfill, O soul!

Walt Whitman [1819–1892]

WAITING

SERENE, I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, nor tide, nor sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For, lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays,
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No wind can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it hath sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own and draw
The brook that springs in yonder heights;
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the soul of pure delights.

The stars come nightly to the sky;
The tidal wave comes to the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.

John Burroughs [1837–

IN THE DARK

All moveless stand the ancient cedar-trees
Along the drifted sand-hills where they grow;
And from the dark west comes a wandering breeze,
And waves them to and fro.

A murky darkness lies along the sand,
Where bright the sunbeams of the morning shone,
And the eye vainly seeks, by sea and land,
Some light to rest upon.

No large, pale star its glimmering vigil keeps;
An inky sea reflects an inky sky;
And the dark river, like a serpent, creeps
To where its black piers lie.

Strange salty odors through the darkness steal,
And through the dark, the ocean-thunders roll;
Thick darkness gathers, stifling, till I feel
Its weight upon my soul.

I stretch my hands out in the empty air;
I strain my eyes into the heavy night;
Blackness of darkness!—Father, hear my prayer!
Grant me to see the light!

George Arnold [1834–1865]

LAST VERSES

When I beneath the cold red earth am sleeping,
Life's fever o'er,
Will there for me be any bright eye weeping
That I'm no more?
Will there be any heart still memory keeping
Of heretofore?

When the great winds through leafless forests rushing
Sad music make;
When the swollen streams, o'er crag and gully gushing,
Like full hearts break,—
Will there then one, whose heart despair is crushing,
Mourn for my sake?

When the bright sun upon that spot is shining,
With purest ray,
And the small flowers, their buds and blossoms twining,
Burst through that clay,—
Will there be one still on that spot repining
Lost hopes all day?

When no star twinkles with its eye of glory
On that low mound,
And wintry storms have, with their ruins hoary,
Its loneness crowned,—
Will there be then one, versed in misery's story,
Pacing it round?

It may be so,—but this is selfish sorrow
To ask such meed,—
A weakness and a wickedness to borrow,
From hearts that bleed,
The wailings of to-day for what to-morrow
Shall never need.

Lay me then gently in my narrow dwelling,
Thou gentle heart;
And though thy bosom should with grief be swelling,
Let no tear start:
It were in vain,—for Time hath long been knelling,—
"Sad one, depart!"

William Motherwell [1797–1835]

THE RUBICON

One other bitter drop to drink,
And then—no more!
One little pause upon the brink,
And then—go o'er!

One sigh—and then the lib'rant morn
Of perfect day,
When my free spirit, newly born,
Will soar away!

One pang—and I shall rend the thrall
Where grief abides,
And generous Death will show me all
That now he hides;
And, lucid in that second birth,
I shall discern
What all the sages of the earth
Have died to learn.

One motion—and the stream is crossed,
So dark, so deep!
And I shall triumph, or be lost
In endless sleep.
Then, onward! Whatsoe'er my fate,
I shall not care!
Nor Sin nor Sorrow, Love nor Hate
Can touch me there.

William Winter [1836-

WHEN I HAVE GONE WEIRD WAYS

When I have finished with this episode,
Left the hard, uphill road,
And gone weird ways to seek another load,
O Friend, regret me not, nor weep for me—
Child of Infinity!

Nor dig a grave, nor rear for me a tomb
To say with lying writ: "Here in the gloom
He who loved bigness takes a narrow room,
Content to pillow here his weary head—
For he is dead."

But give my body to the funeral pyre,
And bid the laughing fire,
Eager and strong and swift as my desire,
Scatter my subtle essence into Space—
Free me of Time and Place.

Sweep up the bitter ashes from the hearth!
Fling back the dust I borrowed from the Earth
Unto the chemic broil of Death and Birth—
  The vast Alembic of the cryptic Scheme,
  Warm with the Master-Dream.

And thus, O little House that sheltered me,
Dissolve again in wind and rain, to be
Part of the cosmic weird Economy:
  And Oh, how oft with new life shalt thou lift
  Out of the atom-drift!

John G. Neihardt [1881–

A RHYME OF LIFE

If life be as a flame that death doth kill,
  Burn, little candle, lit for me,
  With a pure flame, that I may rightly see
  To word my song, and utterly
    God's plan fulfil.

If life be as a flower that blooms and dies,
  Forbid the cunning frost that slays
  With Judas kiss, and trusting love betrays;
  Forever may my song of praise
    Untainted rise.

If life be as a voyage, foul or fair,
  Oh, bid me not my banners furl
  For adverse gale, or wave in angry whirl,
  Till I have found the gates of pearl,
    And anchored there.

Charles Warren Stoddard [1843–1909]

"THALATTA! THALATTA!"

CRY OF THE TEN THOUSAND

I STAND upon the summit of my years;
Behind, the toil, the camp, the march, the strife,
The wandering and the desert; vast, afar,
Beyond this weary way, behold! the Sea!

The sea o'erswept by clouds and winds and wings,
By thoughts and wishes manifold, whose breath
Is freshness and whose mighty pulse is peace.
Palter no question of the dim Beyond;
Cut loose the bark; such voyage itself is rest,
Majestic motion, unimpeded scope,
A widening heaven, a current without care.
Eternity!—Deliverance, Promise, Course!
Time-tired souls salute thee from the shore.

Joseph Brownlee Brown [1824–1888]

REQUIEM

Hush your prayers, 'tis no saintly soul
Comes fainting back from the foughten field;
Carry me forth on my broken shield;
Trumpet and drum shall my requiem yield—
Silence the bells that toll.

Dig no hole in the ground for me:
Though my body be made of mold and must,
Ne'er in the earth shall my dead bones rust;
Give my corse to the flame's white lust,
And sink my ashes at sea.

Reeking still with the sweat of the strife,
Never a prayer have I to say
(My lips long since have forgotten the way)
Save this: "I have sorrowed sore in my day—
But I thank Thee, God, for my life!"

F. Norreys Connell [18

INVICTUS

Out of the night that covers me,
Black as the pit from pole to pole,
I thank whatever gods may be
For my unconquerable soul.

In the fell clutch of circumstance
I have not winced nor cried aloud.
Under the bludgeonings of chance
My head is bloody, but unbowed.

Beyond this place of wrath and tears
Looms but the Horror of the shade,
And yet the menace of the years
Finds and shall find me unafraid.

It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll,
I am the master of my fate:
I am the captain of my soul.

William Ernest Henley [1849–1903]

"A LATE LARK TWITTERS FROM THE QUIET SKIES"

A LATE lark twitters from the quiet skies;
And from the west,
Where the sun, his day's work ended,
Lingers as in content,
There falls on the old, gray city
An influence luminous and serene,
A shining peace.

The smoke ascends
In a rosy-and-golden haze. The spires
Shine, and are changed. In the valley
Shadows rise. The lark sings on. The sun,
Closing his benediction,
Sinks, and the darkening air
Thrills with a sense of the triumphing night—
Night with her train of stars
And her great gift of sleep.

So be my passing!
My task accomplished and the long day done,

My wages taken, and in my heart
Some late lark singing,
Let me be gathered to the quiet west,
The sundown splendid and serene,
Death.

William Ernest Henley [1849–1903]

"IN AFTER DAYS"

In after days when grasses high
O'er-top the stone where I shall lie,
Though ill or well the world adjust
My slender claim to honored dust,
I shall not question or reply.

I shall not see the morning sky;
I shall not hear the night-wind sigh;
I shall be mute, as all men must
In after days!

But yet, now living, fain were I
That some one then should testify,
Saying—"He held his pen in trust
To Art, not serving shame or lust."
Will none?—Then let my memory die
In after days!

Austin Dobson [1840–

"CALL ME NOT DEAD"

Call me not dead when I, indeed, have gone
Into the company of the everliving
High and most glorious poets! Let thanksgiving
Rather be made. Say: "He at last hath won
Rest and release, converse supreme and wise,
Music and song and light of immortal faces;
To-day, perhaps, wandering in starry places,
He hath met Keats, and known him by his eyes.

To-morrow (who can say?) Shakespeare may pass,
And our lost friend just catch one syllable
Of that three-centuried wit that kept so well;
Or Milton; or Dante, looking on the grass
Thinking of Beatrice, and listening still
To chanted hymns that sound from the heavenly hill."

Richard Watson Gilder [1844–1909]

EPILOGUE

From "Asolando"

At the midnight in the silence of the sleep-time,
When you set your fancies free,
Will they pass to where—by death, fools think, imprisoned—
Low he lies who once so loved you, whom you loved so,
—Pity me?

Oh to love so, be so loved, yet so mistaken!
What had I on earth to do
With the slothful, with the mawkish, the unmanly?
Like the aimless, helpless, hopeless, did I drivel
—Being—who?

One who never turned his back but marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph,
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better,
Sleep to wake.

No, at noonday in the bustle of man's work-time
Greet the unseen with a cheer!
Bid him forward, breast and back as either should be,
"Strive and thrive!" cry "Speed,—fight on, fare ever
There as here!"

Robert Browning [1812–1889]

CROSSING THE BAR

SUNSET and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea,

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;

For though from out our bourne of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.

Alfred Tennyson [1809–1892]

L'ENVOI

WHEN Earth's last picture is painted, and the tubes are twisted and dried,
When the oldest colors have faded, and the youngest critic has died,
We shall rest, and, faith, we shall need it—lie down for an eon or two,
Till the Master of All Good Workmen shall set us to work anew!

And those that were good shall be happy: they shall sit in a golden chair;
They shall splash at a ten-league canvas with brushes of comets' hair;

They shall find real saints to draw from—Magdalene, Peter, and Paul;
They shall work for an age at a sitting and never be tired at all!

And only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame;
And no one shall work for money, and no one shall work for fame;
But each for the joy of the working, and each, in his separate star
Shall draw the Thing as he sees It for the God of Things as They Are!

Rudyard Kipling [1865–

ENVOI

Oh seek me not within a tomb;
Thou shalt not find me in the clay!
I pierce a little wall of gloom
To mingle with the Day!

I brothered with the things that pass,
Poor giddy Joy and puckered Grief;
I go to brother with the Grass
And with the sunning Leaf.

Not Death can sheathe me in a shroud;
A joy-sword whetted keen with pain,
I join the armies of the Cloud,
The Lightning and the Rain.

Oh subtle in the sap athrill,
Athletic in the glad uplift,
A portion of the Cosmic Will,
I pierce the planet-drift.

My God and I shall interknit
As rain and Ocean, breath and Air;
And Oh, the luring thought of it
Is prayer!

John G. Neihardt [1881–

GREEK FOLK SONG

Under dusky laurel leaf,
Scarlet leaf of rose,
I lie prone, who have known
All a woman knows.

Love and grief and motherhood,
Fame and mirth and scorn—
These are all shall befall
Any woman born.

Jewel-laden are my hands,
Tall my stone above—
Do not weep that I sleep,
Who was wise in love.

Where I walk, a shadow gray
Through gray asphodel,
I am glad, who have had
All that life can tell.

Margaret Widdemer [18

"WHEN I AM DEAD AND SISTER TO THE DUST"

When I am dead and sister to the dust;
When no more avidly I drink the wine
Of human love; when the pale Proserpine
Has covered me with poppies, and cold rust
Has cut my lyre-strings, and the sun has thrust
Me underground to nourish the world-vine,
Men shall discover these old songs of mine,
And say: This woman lived—as poets must!
This woman lived and wore life as a sword
To conquer wisdom; this dead woman read
In the sealed Book of Love and underscored
The meanings. Then the sails of faith she spread,
And faring out for regions unexplored,
Went singing down the River of the Dead.

Elsa Barker [18

A PARTING GUEST

WHAT delightful hosts are they—
Life and Love!
Lingeringly I turn away,
This late hour, yet glad enough
They have not withheld from me
Their high hospitality.
So, with face lit with delight
And all gratitude, I stay
Yet to press their hands and say,
"Thanks.—So fine a time! Good night."

James Whitcomb Riley [1857–1916]

THE STIRRUP CUP

MY short and happy day is done,
The long and dreary night comes on;
And at my door the Pale Horse stands,
To carry me to unknown lands.

His whinny shrill, his pawing hoof,
Sound dreadful as a gathering storm;
And I must leave this sheltering roof,
And joys of life so soft and warm.

Tender and warm the joys of life,—
Good friends, the faithful and the true;
My rosy children and my wife,
So sweet to kiss, so fair to view.

So sweet to kiss, so fair to view,—
The night comes down, the lights burn blue;
And at my door the Pale Horse stands,
To bear me forth to unknown lands.

John Hay [1838–1905]

"THEY ARE ALL GONE"

FRIENDS DEPARTED

THEY are all gone into the world of light!
And I alone sit lingering here;
Their very memory is fair and bright,
And my sad thoughts doth clear.

It glows and glitters in my cloudy breast,
Like stars upon some gloomy grove,
Or those faint beams in which this hill is dressed
After the sun's remove.

I see them walking in an air of glory,
Whose light doth trample on my days:
My days, which are at best but dull and hoary,
Mere glimmering and decays.

O holy Hope! and high Humility,
High as the heavens above!
These are your walks, and you have showed them me,
To kindle my cold love.

Dear, beauteous Death! the jewel of the Just!
Shining nowhere, but in the dark;
What mysteries do lie beyond thy dust,
Could man outlook that mark!

He that hath found some fledged bird's nest may know,
At first sight, if the bird be flown;
But what fair dell or grove he sings in now,
That is to him unknown.

And yet, as Angels in some brighter dreams
Call to the soul, when man doth sleep,
So some strange thoughts transcend our wonted themes,
And into glory peep.

If a star were confined into a tomb,
Her captive flames must needs burn there;
But when the hand that locked her up gives room,
She'll shine through all the sphere.

O Father of eternal life, and all
Created glories under Thee!
Resume Thy spirit from this world of thrall
Into true liberty.

Either disperse these mists, which blot and fill
My perspective still as they pass:
Or else remove me hence unto that hill,
Where I shall need no glass.

Henry Vaughan [1622–1695]

"OVER THE RIVER"

Over the river they beckon to me,—
Loved ones who've crossed to the farther side;
The gleam of their snowy robes I see,
But their voices are drowned in the rushing tide.
There's one with ringlets of sunny gold,
And eyes the reflection of heaven's own blue;
He crossed in the twilight gray and cold,
And the pale mist hid him from mortal view.
We saw not the angels who met him there,
The gates of the city we could not see:
Over the river, over the river,
My brother stands waiting to welcome me.

Over the river the boatman pale
Carried another, the household pet;
Her brown curls waved in the gentle gale,—
Darling Minnie! I see her yet.
She crossed on her bosom her dimpled hands,
And fearlessly entered the phantom bark;
We watched it glide from the silver sands,
And all our sunshine grew strangely dark.

We know she is safe on the farther side,
Where all the ransomed and angels be;
Over the river, the mystic river,
My childhood's idol is waiting for me.

For none return from those quiet shores,
Who cross with the boatman cold and pale;
We hear the dip of the golden oars,
And catch a gleam of the snowy sail;
And lo! they have passed from our yearning hearts,
They cross the stream and are gone for aye.
We may not sunder the veil apart
That hides from our vision the gates of day;
We only know that their barks no more
May sail with us o'er life's stormy sea;
Yet somewhere, I know, on the unseen shore,
They watch, and beckon, and wait for me.

And I sit and think, when the sunset's gold
Is flushing river and hill and shore,
I shall one day stand by the water cold,
And list for the sound of the boatman's oar;
I shall watch for a gleam of the flapping sail,
I shall hear the boat as it gains the strand,
I shall pass from sight with the boatman pale,
To the better shore of the spirit land.
I shall know the loved who have gone before,
And joyfully sweet will the meeting be,
When over the river, the peaceful river,
The angel of death shall carry me.

Nancy Woodbury Priest [1836–1870]

RESIGNATION

THERE is no flock, however watched and tended,
But one dead lamb is there!
There is no fireside, howsoe'er defended,
But has one vacant chair!

The air is full of farewells to the dying,
And mournings for the dead;
The heart of Rachel, for her children crying,
Will not be comforted!

Let us be patient! These severe afflictions
Not from the ground arise,
But oftentimes celestial benedictions
Assume this dark disguise.

We see but dimly through the mists and vapors;
Amid these earthly damps
What seem to us but sad, funereal tapers
May be heaven's distant lamps.

There is no Death! What seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian
Whose portal we call Death.

She is not dead,—the child of our affection,—
But gone unto that school
Where she no longer needs our poor protection,
And Christ himself doth rule.

In that great cloister's stillness and seclusion,
By guardian angels led,
Safe from temptation, safe from sin's pollution,
She lives, whom we call dead.

Day after day we think what she is doing
In those bright realms of air;
Year after year, her tender steps pursuing,
Behold her grown more fair.

Thus do we walk with her and keep unbroken
The bond which nature gives,
Thinking that our remembrance, though unspoken,
May reach her where she lives.

Not as a child shall we again behold her;
For when with raptures wild
In our embraces we again enfold her,
She will not be a child;

But a fair maiden, in her Father's mansion,
Clothed with celestial grace;
And beautiful with all the soul's expansion
Shall we behold her face.

And though at times impetuous with emotion
And anguish long suppressed,
The swelling heart heaves moaning like the ocean,
That cannot be at rest,—

We will be patient, and assuage the feeling
We may not wholly stay;
By silence sanctifying, not concealing,
The grief that must have way.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

AFTERWARD

THERE is no vacant chair. The loving meet,
A group unbroken—smitten, who knows how?
One sitteth silent only, in his usual seat;
We gave him once that freedom. Why not now?

Perhaps he is too weary, and needs rest;
He needed it so often, nor could we
Bestow. God gave it, knowing how to do so best.
Which of us would disturb him? Let him be.

There is no vacant chair. If he will take
The mood to listen mutely, be it done.
By his least mood we crossed, for which the heart must ache,
Plead not nor question! Let him have this one.

Death is a mood of life. It is no whim
By which life's Giver mocks a broken heart.
Death is life's reticence. Still audible to Him,
The hushed voice, happy, speaketh on, apart.

There is no vacant chair. To love is still
To have. Nearer to memory than to eye.
And dearer yet to anguish than to comfort, will
We hold by our love, that shall not die.

For while it doth not, thus he cannot. Try!
Who can put out the motion or the smile?
The old ways of being noble all with him laid by?
Because we love, he is. Then trust awhile.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward [1844–1911]

SOMETIME

SOMETIME, when all life's lessons have been learned,
And sun and stars forevermore have set,
The things which our weak judgments here have spurned,
The things o'er which we grieved with lashes wet,
Will flash before us out of life's dark night,
As stars shine most in deeper tints of blue;
And we shall see how all God's plans are right,
And how what seemed reproof was love most true.

And we shall see how, while we frown and sigh,
God's plans go on as best for you and me;
How, when we called, He heeded not our cry,
Because His wisdom to the end could see.
And e'en as prudent parents disallow
Too much of sweet to craving babyhood,
So God, perhaps, is keeping from us now
Life's sweetest things, because it seemeth good.

And if, sometimes, commingled with life's wine,
We find the wormwood, and rebel and shrink,
Be sure a wiser hand than yours or mine
Pours out the potion for our lips to drink;

And if some friend you love is lying low,
Where human kisses cannot reach his face,
Oh, do not blame the loving Father so,
But wear your sorrow with obedient grace!

And you shall shortly know that lengthened breath
Is not the sweetest gift God sends His friend,
And that, sometimes, the sable pall of death
Conceals the fairest boon His love can send.
If we could push ajar the gates of life,
And stand within and all God's workings see,
We could interpret all this doubt and strife
And for each mystery could find a key.

But not to-day. Then be content, poor heart;
God's plans, like lilies pure and white, unfold;
We must not tear the close-shut leaves apart,—
Time will reveal the chalices of gold.
And if, through patient toil, we reach the land
Where tired feet, with sandals loosed, may rest,
When we shall clearly see and understand,
I think that we will say, "God knew the best!"

May Riley Smith [1842–

"THE MOURNERS CAME AT BREAK OF DAY"

The mourners came at break of day
Unto the garden-sepulcher;
With darkened hearts to weep and pray,
For Him, the loved one buried there.
What radiant light dispels the gloom?
An angel sits beside the tomb.

The earth doth mourn her treasures lost,
All sepulchered beneath the snow;
When wintry winds, and chilling frost
Have laid her summer glories low;
The spring returns, the flowerets bloom—
An angel sits beside the tomb.

Then mourn we not belovèd dead,
E'en while we come to weep and pray;
The happy spirit far hath fled
To brighter realms of endless day:
Immortal Hope dispels the gloom!
An angel sits beside the tomb.

Sarah Flower Adams [1805–1848]

WHAT OF THE DARKNESS?

TO THE HAPPY DEAD PEOPLE

WHAT of the darkness? Is it very fair?
Are there great calms? and find we silence there?
Like soft-shut lilies, all your faces glow
With some strange peace our faces never know,
With some strange faith our faces never dare,—
Dwells it in Darkness? Do you find it there?

Is it a Bosom where tired heads may lie?
Is it a Mouth to kiss our weeping dry?
Is it a Hand to still the pulse's leap?
Is it a Voice that holds the runes of sleep?
Day shows us not such comfort anywhere—
Dwells it in Darkness? Do you find it there?

Out of the Day's deceiving light we call—
Day that shows man so great, and God so small,
That hides the stars, and magnifies the grass—
O is the Darkness too a lying glass!
Or undistracted, do you find truth there?
What of the Darkness? Is it very fair?

Richard Le Gallienne [1866–

A SEA DIRGE

From "The Tempest"

FULL fathom five thy father lies:
Of his bones are coral made;
Those are pearls that were his eyes:
Nothing of him that doth fade,

Here's an acre sown indeed
With the richest royal'st seed
That the earth did e'er suck in,
Since the first man died for sin;
Here the bones of birth have cried,
"Though gods they were, as men they died."
Here are sands, ignoble things,
Dropped from the ruined sides of kings.
Here's a world of pomp and state,
Buried in dust, once dead by fate.

Francis Beaumont [1584–1616]

EPITAPH ON THE COUNTESS DOWAGER OF PEMBROKE

UNDERNEATH this sable hearse
Lies the subject of all verse:
Sidney's sister, Pembroke's mother:
Death, ere thou hast slain another,
Fair, and learned, and good as she,
Time shall throw a dart at thee.

Marble piles let no man raise
To her name: in after days,
Some kind woman born as she,
Reading this, like Niobe
Shall turn marble, and become
Both her mourner and her tomb.

William Browne [1591–1643?]

AN EPITAPH INTENDED FOR HIMSELF

LIKE thee I once have stemmed the sea of life,
Like thee have languished after empty joys,
Like thee have labored in the stormy strife,
Been grieved for trifles, and amused with toys.

Forget my frailties; thou art also frail:
Forgive my lapses; for thyself may'st fall:
Nor read unmoved my artless tender tale—
I was a friend, O man, to thee, to all.

James Beattie [1735–1803]

LYCIDAS

A LAMENT FOR A FRIEND DROWNED IN HIS PASSAGE FROM CHESTER ON THE IRISH SEAS, 1637

YET once more, O ye Laurels, and once more
Ye Myrtles brown, with Ivy never sere,
I come to pluck your Berries harsh and crude,
And with forced fingers rude,
Shatter your leaves before the mellowing year.
Bitter constraint, and sad occasion dear,
Compels me to disturb your season due:
For Lycidas is dead, dead ere his prime,
Young Lycidas, and hath not left his peer:
Who would not sing for Lycidas? he knew
Himself to sing, and build the lofty rhyme.
He must not float upon his watery bier
Unwept, and welter to the parching wind,
Without the meed of some melodious tear.
Begin, then, Sisters of the sacred well,
That from beneath the seat of Jove doth spring;
Begin, and somewhat loudly sweep the string.
Hence with denial vain, and coy excuse,
So may some gentle Muse
With lucky words favor my destined Urn,
And as he passes turn,
And bid fair peace be to my sable shroud.
For we were nursed upon the self-same hill,
Fed the same flock, by fountain, shade, and rill;
Together both, ere the high Lawns appeared
Under the opening eye-lids of the Morn,
We drove a-field, and both together heard
What time the Gray-fly winds her sultry horn,
Battening our flocks with the fresh dews of night,
Oft till the Star that rose, at Evening, bright
Toward Heaven's descent had sloped his westering wheel.
Meanwhile the Rural ditties were not mute,
Tempered to the Oaten Flute;
Rough Satyrs danced, and Fauns with cloven heel,

Here's an acre sown indeed
With the richest royal'st seed
That the earth did e'er suck in,
Since the first man died for sin;
Here the bones of birth have cried,
"Though gods they were, as men they died."
Here are sands, ignoble things,
Dropped from the ruined sides of kings.
Here's a world of pomp and state,
Buried in dust, once dead by fate.

Francis Beaumont [1584–1616]

EPITAPH ON THE COUNTESS DOWAGER OF PEMBROKE

Underneath this sable hearse
Lies the subject of all verse:
Sidney's sister, Pembroke's mother:
Death, ere thou hast slain another,
Fair, and learned, and good as she,
Time shall throw a dart at thee.

Marble piles let no man raise
To her name: in after days,
Some kind woman born as she,
Reading this, like Niobe
Shall turn marble, and become
Both her mourner and her tomb.

William Browne [1591–1643?]

AN EPITAPH INTENDED FOR HIMSELF

Like thee I once have stemmed the sea of life,
Like thee have languished after empty joys,
Like thee have labored in the stormy strife,
Been grieved for trifles, and amused with toys.

Forget my frailties; thou art also frail:
Forgive my lapses; for thyself may'st fall:
Nor read unmoved my artless tender tale—
I was a friend, O man, to thee, to all.

James Beattie [1735–1803]

LYCIDAS

A LAMENT FOR A FRIEND DROWNED IN HIS PASSAGE FROM CHESTER ON THE IRISH SEAS, 1637

YET once more, O ye Laurels, and once more
Ye Myrtles brown, with Ivy never sere,
I come to pluck your Berries harsh and crude,
And with forced fingers rude,
Shatter your leaves before the mellowing year.
Bitter constraint, and sad occasion dear,
Compels me to disturb your season due:
For Lycidas is dead, dead ere his prime,
Young Lycidas, and hath not left his peer:
Who would not sing for Lycidas? he knew
Himself to sing, and build the lofty rhyme.
He must not float upon his watery bier
Unwept, and welter to the parching wind,
Without the meed of some melodious tear.
Begin, then, Sisters of the sacred well,
That from beneath the seat of Jove doth spring;
Begin, and somewhat loudly sweep the string.
Hence with denial vain, and coy excuse,
So may some gentle Muse
With lucky words favor my destined Urn,
And as he passes turn,
And bid fair peace be to my sable shroud.
For we were nursed upon the self-same hill,
Fed the same flock, by fountain, shade, and rill;
Together both, ere the high Lawns appeared
Under the opening eye-lids of the Morn,
We drove a-field, and both together heard
What time the Gray-fly winds her sultry horn,
Battening our flocks with the fresh dews of night,
Oft till the Star that rose, at Evening, bright
Toward Heaven's descent had sloped his westering wheel.
Meanwhile the Rural ditties were not mute,
Tempered to the Oaten Flute;
Rough Satyrs danced, and Fauns with cloven heel,

From the glad sound would not be absent long,
And old Damætas loved to hear our song.
But O the heavy change, now thou art gone,
Now thou art gone, and never must return!
Thee, Shepherd, thee the Woods, and desert Caves,
With wild Thyme and the gadding Vine o'ergrown,
And all their echoes mourn.
The Willows, and the Hazel Copses green,
Shall now no more be seen,
Fanning their joyous Leaves to thy soft lays.
As killing as the Canker to the Rose,
Or Taint-worm to the weanling Herds that graze,
Or Frost to Flowers, that their gay wardrobe wear,
When first the White-thorn blows;
Such, Lycidas, thy loss to Shepherd's ear.
Where were ye, Nymphs, when the remorseless deep
Closed o'er the head of your loved Lycidas?
For neither were ye playing on the steep,
Where your old Bards, the famous Druids, lie,
Nor on the shaggy top of Mona high,
Nor yet where Deva spreads her wizard stream:
Aye me, I fondly dream!
Had ye been there—for what could that have done?
What could the Muse herself that Orpheus bore,
The Muse herself, for her enchanting son
Whom Universal nature did lament,
When, by the rout that made the hideous roar,
His gory visage down the stream was sent,
Down the swift Hebrus to the Lesbian shore?
Alas! What boots it with uncessant care
To tend the homely slighted Shepherd's trade,
And strictly meditate the thankless Muse,
Were it not better done, as others use,
To sport with Amaryllis in the shade,
Or with the tangles of Neæra's hair?
Fame is the spur that the clear spirit doth raise
(That last infirmity of Noble mind)
To scorn delights, and live laborious days;
But the fair Guerdon when we hope to find,
And think to burst out into sudden blaze,

Comes the blind Fury with the abhorrèd shears,
And slits the thin-spun life. "But not the praise,"
Phœbus replied, and touched my trembling ears;
"Fame is no plant that grows on mortal soil,
Nor in the glistering foil
Set off to the world, nor in broad rumor lies,
But lives and spreads aloft by those pure eyes,
And perfect witness of all-judging Jove;
As he pronounces lastly on each deed,
Of so much fame in Heaven expect thy meed."
O fountain Arethuse, and thou honored flood,
Smooth-sliding Mincius, crowned with vocal reeds,
That strain I heard was of a higher mood:
But now my Oat proceeds,
And listens to the Herald of the Sea
That came in Neptune's plea.
He asked the Waves, and asked the Felon winds,
What hard mishap hath doomed this gentle swain?
And questioned every gust of rugged wings
That blows from off each beakèd Promontory.
They knew not of his story,
And sage Hippotades their answer brings,
That not a blast was from his dungeon strayed,
The Air was calm, and on the level brine,
Sleek Panope with all her sisters played.
It was that fatal and perfidious Bark
Built in the eclipse, and rigged with curses dark,
That sunk so low that sacred head of thine.
Next Camus, reverend Sire, went footing slow,
His Mantle hairy, and his Bonnet sedge,
Inwrought with figures dim, and on the edge
Like to that sanguine flower inscribed with woe.
"Ah, who hath reft," (quoth he) "my dearest pledge?"
Last come, and last did go,
The Pilot of the Galilean Lake.
Two massy Keys he bore of metals twain,
(The Golden opes, the Iron shuts amain).
He shook his Mitered locks, and stern bespake,
"How well could I have spared for thee, young swain,
Enow of such as, for their bellies' sake,

Creep and intrude, and climb into the fold!
Of other care they little reckoning make,
Than how to scramble at the shearers' feast,
And shove away the worthy bidden guest.
Blind mouths! that scarce themselves know how to hold
A Sheep-hook, or have learned aught else the least
That to the faithful Herdman's art belongs!
What recks it them? What need they? They are sped;
And when they list, their lean and flashy songs
Grate on their scrannel Pipes of wretched straw,
The hungry Sheep look up, and are not fed,
But swoln with wind, and the rank mist they draw,
Rot inwardly, and foul contagion spread:
Besides what the grim Wolf with privy paw
Daily devours apace, and nothing said.
But that two-handed engine at the door,
Stands ready to smite once, and smite no more."
Return Alpheus, the dread voice is past,
That shrunk thy streams; return Sicilian Muse,
And call the Vales, and bid them hither cast
Their Bells, and Flowerets of a thousand hues.
Ye valleys low, where the mild whispers use,
Of shades and wanton winds, and gushing brooks,
On whose fresh lap the swart Star sparely looks,
Throw hither all your quaint enameled eyes,
That on the green turf suck the honied showers,
And purple all the ground with vernal flowers.
Bring the rathe Primrose that forsaken dies,
The tufted Crow-toe, and pale Jessamine,
The white Pink, and the Pansy freaked with jet,
The glowing Violet,
The Musk-rose, and the well-attired Woodbine,
With Cowslips wan that hang the pensive head,
And every flower that sad embroidery wears:
Bid Amaranthus all his beauty shed,
And Daffadillies fill their cups with tears,
To strew the Laureate Hearse where Lycid lies.
For so to interpose a little ease,
Let our frail thoughts dally with false surmise.
Ay me! Whilst thee the shores, and sounding Seas

Wash far away, where e'er thy bones are hurled,
Whether beyond the stormy Hebrides,
Where thou perhaps under the whelming tide
Visit'st the bottom of the monstrous world;
Or whether thou, to our moist vows denied,
Sleep'st by the fable of Bellerus old,
Where the great vision of the guarded Mount
Looks toward Namancos and Bayona's hold;
Look homeward, Angel, now, and melt with ruth:
And, O ye Dolphins, waft the hapless youth.

Weep no more, woful Shepherds, weep no more,
For Lycidas your sorrow is not dead,
Sunk though he be beneath the watery floor.
So sinks the day-star in the Ocean bed,
And yet anon repairs his drooping head,
And tricks his beams, and with new-spangled Ore,
Flames in the forehead of the morning sky:
So Lycidas sunk low, but mounted high,
Through the dear might of Him that walked the waves
Where, other groves and other streams along,
With Nectar pure his oozy Locks he laves,
And hears the unexpressive nuptial Song,
In the blest Kingdoms meek of joy and love.
There entertain him all the Saints above,
In solemn troops, and sweet Societies,
That sing, and singing in their glory move,
And wipe the tears for ever from his eyes.
Now, Lycidas, the Shepherds weep no more;
Henceforth thou art the Genius of the shore,
In thy large recompense, and shalt be good
To all that wander in that perilous flood.

Thus sang the uncouth Swain to the Oaks and rills,
While the still morn went out with Sandals gray,
He touched the tender stops of various Quills,
With eager thought warbling his Doric lay:
And now the Sun had stretched out all the hills,
And now was dropt into the Western bay;
At last he rose, and twitched his Mantle blue:
To-morrow to fresh Woods, and Pastures new.

John Milton [1608–1674]

TO THE PIOUS MEMORY OF THE ACCOMPLISHED YOUNG LADY, MRS. ANNE KILLIGREW, EXCELLENT IN THE TWO SISTER-ARTS OF POESIE AND PAINTING

I

Thou youngest Virgin-Daughter of the skies,
Made in the last promotion of the blest;
Whose palms, new plucked from Paradise,
In spreading branches more sublimely rise,
Rich with immortal green above the rest:
Whether, adopted to some neighboring star,
Thou roll'st above us in thy wandering race,
Or, in procession fixed and regular,
Moved with the heavens' majestic pace;
Or, called to more superior bliss,
Thou tread'st, with seraphims, the vast abyss:
Whatever happy region is thy place,
Cease thy celestial song a little space;
(Thou wilt have time enough for hymns divine,
Since Heaven's eternal year is thine.)
Hear then a mortal muse thy praise rehearse,
In no ignoble verse;
But such as thy own voice did practice here,
When thy first fruits of poesie were given,
To make thyself a welcome inmate there;
While yet a young probationer,
And candidate of Heaven.

II

If by traduction came thy mind,
Our wonder is the less to find
A soul so charming from a stock so good;
Thy father was transfused into thy blood:
So wert thou born into the tuneful strain,
(An early, rich, and inexhausted vein.)
But if thy pre-existing soul
Was formed, at first, with myriads more,
It did through all the mighty poets roll

Who Greek or Latin laurels wore,
And was that Sappho last, which once it was before.
If so, then cease thy flight, O Heaven-born mind!
Thou hast no dross to purge from thy rich ore:
Nor can thy soul a fairer mansion find
Than was the beauteous frame she left behind:
Return, to fill or mend the choir of thy celestial kind.

May we presume to say, that at thy birth
New joy was sprung in Heaven as well as here on earth?
For sure the milder planets did combine
On thy auspicious horoscope to shine,
And even the most malicious were in trine.
Thy brother-angels at thy birth
Strung each his lyre, and tuned it high,
That all the people of the sky
Might know a poetess was born on earth.
And then if ever, mortal ears
Had heard the music of the spheres!
And if no clustering swarm of bees
On thy sweet mouth distilled their golden dew,
'Twas that, such vulgar miracles
Heaven had not leisure to renew:
For all the blest fraternity of love
Solemnized there thy birth, and kept thy holyday above.

IV

O gracious God! How far have we
Profaned thy Heavenly gift of poesy!
Made prostitute and profligate the muse,
Debased to each obscene and impious use,
Whose harmony was first ordained above,
For tongues of angels and for hymns of love!
Oh wretched we! why were we hurried down
This lubrique and adulterate age,
(Nay, added fat pollutions of our own)
To increase the steaming ordures of the stage?
What can we say to excuse our second fall?
Let this thy vestal, Heaven, atone for all:

Her Arethusian stream remains unsoiled,
Unmixed with foreign filth and undefiled,
Her wit was more than man, her innocence a child.

V

Art she had none, yet wanted none,
For nature did that want supply:
So rich in treasures of her own,
She might our boasted stores defy:
Such noble vigor did her verse adorn,
That it seemed borrowed, where 'twas only born.
Her morals too were in her bosom bred
By great examples daily fed,
What in the best of books, her father's life, she read.
And to be read her self she need not fear;
Each test, and every light, her muse will bear,
Though Epictetus with his lamp were there.
Even love (for love sometimes her muse expressed),
Was but a lambent-flame which played about her breast:
Light as the vapors of a morning dream,
So cold herself, whilst she such warmth expressed,
'Twas Cupid bathing in Diana's stream.

VI

Born to the spacious empire of the Nine,
One would have thought, she should have been content
To manage well that mighty government;
But what can young ambitious souls confine?
To the next realm she stretched her sway,
For painting near adjoining lay,
A plenteous province, and alluring prey.
A chamber of dependences was framed,
(As conquerors will never want pretence,
When armed, to justify the offence),
And the whole fief, in right of poetry she claimed.
The country open lay without defence;
For poets frequent inroads there had made,
And perfectly could represent
The shape, the face, with every lineament;

And all the large domains which the dumb-sister swayed;
All bowed beneath her government,
Received in triumph wheresoe'er she went.
Her pencil drew whate'er her soul designed
And oft the happy draught surpassed the image in her mind.
The sylvan scenes of herds and flocks
And fruitful plains and barren rocks,
Of shallow brooks that flowed so clear,
The bottom did the top appear;
Of deeper too and ampler floods
Which as in mirrors, showed the woods;
Of lofty trees, with sacred shades
And perspectives of pleasant glades,
Where nymphs of brightest form appear,
And shaggy satyrs standing near,
Which them at once admire and fear.
The ruins too of some majestic piece,
Boasting the power of ancient Rome or Greece,
Whose statues, friezes, columns, broken lie,
And, though defaced, the wonder of the eye;
What nature, art, bold fiction, e'er durst frame,
Her forming hand gave feature to the name.
So strange a concourse ne'er was seen before,
But when the peopled ark the whole creation bore.

VII

The scene then changed; with bold erected look
Our martial King the sight with reverence strook:
For, not content to express his outward part,
Her hand called out the image of his heart,
His warlike mind, his soul devoid of fear,
His high-designing thoughts were figured there,
As when, by magic, ghosts are made appear.
Our phœnix Queen was portrayed too so bright,
Beauty alone could beauty take so right:
Her dress, her shape, her matchless grace,
Were all observed, as well as heavenly face.
With such a peerless majesty she stands,
As in that day she took the crown from sacred hands:

Before a train of heroines was seen,
In beauty foremost, as in rank, the Queen!
Thus nothing to her genius was denied,
But like a ball of fire, the farther thrown,
Still with a greater blaze she shone,
And her bright soul broke out on every side.
What next she had designed, Heaven only knows:
To such immoderate growth her conquest rose
That Fate alone its progress could oppose.

VIII

Now all those charms, that blooming grace,
The well-proportioned shape and beauteous face,
Shall never more be seen by mortal eyes;
In earth the much-lamented virgin lies!
Not wit nor piety could Fate prevent;
Nor was the cruel destiny content
To finish all the murder at a blow,
To sweep at once her life and beauty too;
But, like a hardened felon, took a pride
To work more mischievously slow,
And plundered first, and then destroyed.
O double sacrilege on things divine,
To rob the relique, and deface the shrine!
But thus Orinda died:
Heaven, by the same disease, did both translate,
As equal were their souls, so equal was their fate.

IX

Mean time, her warlike brother on the seas
His waving streamers to the winds displays,
And vows for his return, with vain devotion, pays.
Ah, generous youth! that wish forbear,
The winds too soon will waft thee here!
Slack all thy sails, and fear to come,
Alas, thou know'st not, thou art wrecked at home!
No more shalt thou behold thy sister's face,
Thou hast already had her last embrace.
But look aloft, and if thou ken'st from far,

Among the Pleiades, a new-kindled star,
If any sparkles, than the rest, more bright,
'Tis she that shines in that propitious light.

X

When in mid-air the golden trump shall sound,
To raise the nations under ground;
When in the valley of Jehosaphat
The judging God shall close the book of Fate;
And there the last assizes keep
For those who wake and those who sleep;
When rattling bones together fly
From the four corners of the sky,
When sinews o'er the skeletons are spread,
Those clothed with flesh, and life inspires the dead;
The sacred poets first shall hear the sound,
And foremost from the tomb shall bound:
For they are covered with the lightest ground;
And straight, with in-born vigor, on the wing,
Like mounting larks to the New Morning sing.
There thou, sweet Saint, before the choir shalt go,
As harbinger of Heaven, the way to show,
The way which thou so well hast learned below.

John Dryden [1631–1700]

HERACLITUS

They told me, Heraclitus, they told me you were dead,
They brought me bitter news to hear and bitter tears to shed.
I wept as I remembered how often you and I
Had tired the sun with talking and sent him down the sky.

And now that thou art lying, my dear old Carian guest,
A handful of gray ashes, long, long ago at rest,
Still are thy pleasant voices, thy nightingales, awake;
For Death, he taketh all away, but them he cannot take.

William Johnson-Cory [1823–1892]

ELEGY

TO THE MEMORY OF AN UNFORTUNATE LADY

WHAT beckoning ghost along the moonlight shade
Invites my steps, and points to yonder glade?
'Tis she!—but why that bleeding bosom gored?
Why dimly gleams the visionary sword?
O ever beauteous, ever friendly! tell,
Is it in heaven a crime to love too well,
To bear too tender or too firm a heart,
To act a lover's or a Roman's part?
Is there no bright reversion in the sky,
For those who greatly think or bravely die?
Why bade ye else, ye Powers! her soul aspire
Above the vulgar flight of low desire?
Ambition first sprung from your blest abodes,
The glorious fault of angels and of gods;
Thence to their images on earth it flows,
And in the breasts of kings and heroes glows.
Most souls, 'tis true, but peep out once an age,
Dull sullen prisoners in the body's cage:
Dim lights of life, that burn a length of years,
Useless, unseen, as lamps in sepulchres;
Like Eastern kings a lazy state they keep,
And, close confined to their own palace, sleep.
From these perhaps (ere Nature bade her die),
Fate snatched her early to the pitying sky.
As into air the purer spirits flow,
And separate from their kindred dregs below,
So flew the soul to its congenial place,
Nor left one virtue to redeem her race.
But thou, false guardian of a charge too good!
Thou, mean deserter of thy brother's blood!
See on these ruby lips the trembling breath,
These cheeks now fading at the blast of Death.
Cold is that breast which warmed the world before,
And those love-darting eyes must roll no more.
Thus, if eternal Justice rules the ball,
Thus shall your wives, and thus your children fall;

On all the line a sudden vengeance waits,
And frequent hearses shall besiege your gates.
There passengers shall stand, and pointing say
(While the long funerals blacken all the way),
"Lo! these were they whose souls the Furies steeled,
And cursed with hearts unknowing how to yield."
Thus unlamented pass the proud away,
The gaze of fools, and pageant of a day!
So perish all whose breast ne'er learned to glow
For others' good, or melt at others' woe!

What can atone (O ever-injured shade!)
Thy fate unpitied, and thy rites unpaid?
No friend's complaint, no kind domestic tear
Pleased thy pale ghost, or graced thy mournful bier.
By foreign hands thy dying eyes were closed,
By foreign hands thy decent limbs composed,
By foreign hands thy humble grave adorned,
By strangers honored, and by strangers mourned!
What though no friends in sable weeds appear,
Grieve for an hour, perhaps, then mourn a year,
And bear about the mockery of woe
To midnight dances, and the public show?
What though no weeping Loves thy ashes grace,
Nor polished marble emulate thy face?
What though no sacred earth allow thee room,
Nor hallowed dirge be muttered o'er thy tomb?
Yet shall thy grave with rising flowers be dressed,
And the green turf lie lightly on thy breast:
There shall the morn her earliest tears bestow,
There the first roses of the year shall blow;
While angels with their silver wings o'ershade
The ground now sacred by thy reliques made.

So peaceful rests, without a stone, a name,
What once had beauty, titles, wealth, and fame.
How loved, how honored once, avails thee not,
To whom related, or by whom begot;
A heap of dust alone remains of thee,
'Tis all thou art, and all the proud shall be!

Poets themselves must fall, like those they sung,
Deaf the praised ear, and mute the tuneful tongue.

Even he whose soul now melts in mournful lays
Shall shortly want the generous tear he pays;
Then from his closing eyes thy form shall part,
And the last pang shall tear thee from his heart:
Life's idle business at one gasp be o'er,
The Muse forgot, and thou beloved no more!

Alexander Pope [1688–1744]

ELEGY WRITTEN IN A COUNTRY CHURCHYARD

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day,
The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea,
The plowman homeward plods his weary way,
And leaves the world to darkness and to me.

Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight,
And all the air a solemn stillness holds,
Save where the beetle wheels his droning flight,
And drowsy tinklings lull the distant folds:

Save that from yonder ivy-mantled tower
The moping owl does to the moon complain
Of such as, wandering near her secret bower,
Molest her ancient solitary reign.

Beneath those rugged elms, that yew-tree's shade,
Where heaves the turf in many a moldering heap,
Each in his narrow cell for ever laid,
The rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep.

The breezy call of incense-breathing morn,
The swallow twittering from the straw-built shed,
The cock's shrill clarion, or the echoing horn,
No more shall rouse them from their lowly bed.

For them no more the blazing hearth shall burn,
Or busy housewife ply her evening care:
No children run to lisp their sire's return,
Or climb his knees the envied kiss to share.

Oft did the harvest to their sickle yield,
Their furrow oft the stubborn glebe has broke:
How jocund did they drive their team afield!
How bowed the woods beneath their sturdy stroke!

Let not Ambition mock their useful toil,
Their homely joys, and destiny obscure;
Nor Grandeur hear with a disdainful smile
The short and simple annals of the poor.

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour:
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.

Nor you, ye proud, impute to these the fault
If Memory o'er their tomb no trophies raise,
Where through the long-drawn aisle and fretted vault
The pealing anthem swells the note of praise.

Can storied urn or animated bust
Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
Can Honor's voice provoke the silent dust,
Or Flattery soothe the dull cold ear of death?

Perhaps in this neglected spot is laid
Some heart once pregnant with celestial fire;
Hands, that the rod of empire might have swayed,
Or waked to ecstasy the living lyre.

But Knowledge to their eyes her ample page
Rich with the spoils of time did ne'er unroll;
Chill Penury repressed their noble rage,
And froze the genial current of the soul.

Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear:
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,
And waste its sweetness on the desert air.

Some village Hampden that, with dauntless breast,
The little tyrant of his fields withstood,
Some mute inglorious Milton here may rest,
Some Cromwell guiltless of his country's blood.

The applause of listening senates to command,
The threats of pain and ruin to despise,
To scatter plenty o'er a smiling land,
And read their history in a nation's eyes,

Their lot forbade: nor circumscribed alone
Their growing virtues, but their crimes confined;
Forbade to wade through slaughter to a throne,
And shut the gates of mercy on mankind;

The struggling pangs of conscious truth to hide,
To quench the blushes of ingenuous shame,
Or heap the shrine of Luxury and Pride
With incense kindled at the Muse's flame.

Far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife,
Their sober wishes never learned to stray;
Along the cool, sequestered vale of life
They kept the noiseless tenor of their way.

Yet even these bones from insult to protect
Some frail memorial still erected nigh,
With uncouth rhymes and shapeless sculpture decked,
Implores the passing tribute of a sigh.

Their name, their years, spelt by the unlettered Muse,
The place of fame and elegy supply:
And many a holy text around she strews,
That teach the rustic moralist to die.

For who, to dumb Forgetfulness a prey,
This pleasing anxious being e'er resigned,
Left the warm precincts of the cheerful day,
Nor cast one longing lingering look behind?

On some fond breast the parting soul relies,
Some pious drops the closing eye requires;
E'en from the tomb the voice of Nature cries,
E'en in our ashes live their wonted fires.

For thee, who, mindful of the unhonored dead,
Dost in these lines their artless tale relate;
If chance, by lonely contemplation led,
Some kindred spirit shall inquire thy fate,—

Haply some hoary-headed swain may say,
"Oft have we seen him at the peep of dawn
Brushing with hasty steps the dews away
To meet the sun upon the upland lawn.

"There at the foot of yonder nodding beech
That wreathes its old fantastic roots so high,
His listless length at noontide would he stretch,
And pore upon the brook that babbles by.

"Hard by yon wood, now smiling as in scorn,
Muttering his wayward fancies he would rove,
Now drooping, woeful-wan, like one forlorn,
Or crazed with care, or crossed in hopeless love.

"One morn I missed him on the 'customed hill,
Along the heath, and near his favorite tree;
Another came; nor yet beside the rill,
Nor up the lawn, nor at the wood was he:

"The next, with dirges due in sad array,
Slow through the church-way path we saw him borne.
Approach and read (for thou canst read) the lay
Graved on the stone beneath yon aged thorn:"

THE EPITAPH

Here rests his head upon the lap of Earth
A Youth, to Fortune and to Fame unknown.
Fair Science frowned not on his humble birth,
And Melancholy marked him for her own.

Large was his bounty, and his soul sincere,
Heaven did a recompense as largely send:
He gave to Misery (all he had) a tear,
He gained from Heaven ('twas all he wished) a friend.

No farther seek his merits to disclose,
Or draw his frailties from their dread abode,
(There they alike in trembling hope repose,)
The bosom of his Father and his God.

Thomas Gray [1716–1771]

THE SETTLERS

How green the earth, how blue the sky,
How pleasant all the days that pass,
Here where the British settlers lie
Beneath their cloaks of grass!

Here ancient peace resumes her round,
And rich from toil stand hill and plain;
Men reap and store; but they sleep sound,
The men who sowed the grain.

Hard to the plough their hands they put,
And wheresoe'er the soil had need
The furrow drave, and underfoot
They sowed themselves for seed.

Ah! not like him whose hand made yield
The brazen kine with fiery breath,
And over all the Colchian field
Strewed far the seeds of death;

Till, as day sank, awoke to war
The seedlings of the dragon's teeth,
And death ran multiplied once more
Across the hideous heath.

But rich in flocks be all these farms,
And fruitful be the fields which hide
Brave eyes that loved the light, and arms
That never clasped a bride!

O willing hearts turned quick to clay,
Glad lovers holding death in scorn,
Out of the lives ye cast away
The coming race is born.

Laurence Housman [1867–

"HE BRINGETH THEM UNTO THEIR DESIRED HAVEN"

I KNEW a much-loved mariner,
Who lies a fathom underground;
Above him now the grasses stir,
Two rose-trees set a bound.

From a high hill his grave looks out
Through sighing larches to the sea;
Now for the ocean's raucous rout
All June the humblebee

Drones round him on the lonely steeps,
And shy wood-creatures come and go
Above the green mound where he keeps
His silent watch below.

An elemental man was he—
Loved God, his wife, his children dear,
And fared through dangers of the sea
Without a sense of fear.

And, loving nature, he was wise
In all the moods of wave and cloud;
Before the pageant of the skies
Nightly his spirit bowed;

Yet reckoned shrewdly with the gale,
And felt the viking's fierce delight
To face the north wind's icy hail,
Unmoved to thought of flight.

But wheresoe'er his prow was turned,
His thoughts, like homing pigeons, came
Back where his casement candle burned
Through many a league its flame.

Exiled from all he loved, at last
The summer gale has brought him home,
Where on the hillsides thickly massed
The elders break in foam.

The lonely highways that he knew
No longer hold him, nor the gale,
Sweeping the desolated blue,
Roars in his slanting sail.

For he has grown a part of all
The winter silence of the hills;
For him the stately twilights fall,
The hemlock softly shrills

In mimicry of gales that woke
His vigilance off many a shore
Whereon the vibrant billows broke.
Now he awakes no more.

He wakes no more! Ah, me! his grief
Was ever that the sea had power
To hold from him the budding leaf,
The opening of the flower.

And so he hungered for the spring—
The hissing, furrow-turning plow,
The first thin notes the bluebirds sing,
The reddening of the bough.

Wave-deafened, many a night he stood
Upon his watery deck, and dreamed
Of thrushes singing in the wood,
And murmurous brooks that streamed

Through silver shallows, and of bees
Lulling the summer afternoon
With mellow trumpetings of ease,
Of drowsiness the boon.

And dreamed of growing old at home,
The wise Ulysses of his crew

Of children's children, who would roam
With him the lands he knew;

And, wide-eyed, face with him the gale,
And hear the slanting billows roar
Their diapason round his rail—
All safe beside his door.

Now he has come into his own,—
Sunshine and bird-song round the spot,
And scents from spicy woodlands blown,—
Yet haply knows it not.

But round the grave where he doth keep,
Unsolaced by regret or woe,
His narrowed heritage in sleep,
The little children go.

They shyly go without a sound,
And read in reverent awe his name,
Until for them the very ground
Doth blossom with his fame.

L. Frank Tooker [1855–

IN THE LILAC-RAIN

All in the lilac-rain,
Tender and sweet,
Brushing the window-pane
Sudden—and fleet!
Came the dear wraith of her
Out of lost Mays—
(Ah, but the faith of her,
True to old ways!)

Scarcely her face I knew
Dim in the wet;
Only her eyes of blue
Who could forget!
Hands full of lilacs too—
Lilac crowned, yet!

These were the flowers she loved
In the far years;
These were the showers she loved—
Light as her tears!
These were the hours she loved—
Hope chasing fears!

Veiled in the lilac-rain
Comes she—and goes. . . .
Sun through the clouds again,
Fresh the wind blows.
Mine, a swift pleasure-pain
None other knows.

Edith M. Thomas [1854–

A DEAD MARCH

Play me a march, low-toned and slow—a march for a silent tread,
Fit for the wandering feet of one who dreams of the silent dead,
Lonely, between the bones below and the souls that are overhead.

Here for a while they smiled and sang, alive in the interspace,
Here with the grass beneath the foot, and the stars above the face,
Now are their feet beneath the grass, and whither has flown their grace?

Who shall assure us whence they come, or tell us the way they go?
Verily, life with them was joy, and, now they have left us, woe.
Once they were not, and now they are not, and this is the sum we know.

Orderly range the seasons due, and orderly roll the stars.
How shall we deem the soldier brave who frets of his wounds and scars?
Are we as senseless brutes that we should dash at the well-seen bars?

No, we are here, with feet unfixed, but ever as if with lead,
Drawn from the orbs which shine above to the orb on which we tread,
Down to the dust from which we came and with which we shall mingle dead.

No, we are here to wait, and work, and strain our banished eyes,
Weary and sick of soil and toil, and hungry and fain for skies,
Far from the reach of wingless men, and not to be scaled with cries.

No, we are here to bend our necks to the yoke of tyrant Time,
Welcoming all the gifts he gives us—glories of youth and prime,
Patiently watching them all depart as our heads grow white as rime.

Why do we mourn the days that go—for the same sun shines each day,
Ever a spring her primrose hath, and ever a May her may;
Sweet as the rose that died last year is the rose that is born to-day.

Do we not too return, we men, as ever the round earth whirls?
Never a head is dimmed with gray but another is sunned with curls;
She was a girl and he was a boy, but yet there are boys and girls.

Ah, but alas for the smile of smiles that never but one face wore;
Ah, for the voice that has flown away like a bird to an unseen shore;
Ah, for the face—the flower of flowers—that blossoms on earth no more.

Cosmo Monkhouse [1840–1901]

TOMMY'S DEAD

You may give over plow, boys,
You may take the gear to the stead,
All the sweat o' your brow, boys,
Will never get beer and bread.
The seed's waste, I know, boys,
There's not a blade will grow, boys,
'Tis cropped out, I trow, boys,
And Tommy's dead.

Send the colt to fair, boys,
He's going blind, as I said,
My old eyes can't bear, boys,
To see him in the shed;
The cow's dry and spare, boys,
She's neither here nor there, boys,
I doubt she's badly bred;
Stop the mill to-morn, boys,
There'll be no more corn, boys,
Neither white nor red;
There's no sign of grass, boys,
You may sell the goat and the ass, boys,
The land's not what it was, boys,
And the beasts must be fed:
You may turn Peg away, boys,
You may pay off old Ned,
We've had a dull day, boys,
And Tommy's dead.

Move my chair on the floor, boys,
Let me turn my head:
She's standing there in the door, boys,
Your sister Winifred!
Take her away from me, boys,
Your sister Winifred!
Move me round in my place, boys,
Let me turn my head,

Take her away from me, boys,
As she lay on her death-bed,
The bones of her thin face, boys,
As she lay on her death-bed!
I don't know how it be, boys,
When all's done and said,
But I see her looking at me, boys,
Wherever I turn my head;
Out of the big oak-tree, boys,
Out of the garden-bed,
And the lily as pale as she, boys,
And the rose that used to be red.

There's something not right, boys,
But I think it's not in my head,
I've kept my precious sight, boys—
The Lord be hallowèd!
Outside and in
The ground is cold to my tread,
The hills are wizen and thin,
The sky is shriveled and shred,
The hedges down by the loan
I can count them bone by bone,
The leaves are open and spread,
But I see the teeth of the land,
And hands like a dead man's hand,
And the eyes of a dead man's head.
There's nothing but cinders and sand,
The rat and the mouse have fed,
And the summer's empty and cold;
Over valley and wold
Wherever I turn my head
There's a mildew and a mold,
The sun's going out overhead,
And I'm very old,
And Tommy's dead.

What am I staying for, boys?
You're all born and bred,
'Tis fifty years and more, boys,
Since wife and I were wed,

And she's gone before, boys,
And Tommy's dead.

She was always sweet, boys,
Upon his curly head,
She knew she'd never see't, boys,
And she stole off to bed;
I've been sitting up alone, boys,
For he'd come home, he said,
But it's time I was gone, boys,
For Tommy's dead.

Put the shutters up, boys,
Bring out the beer and bread,
Make haste and sup, boys,
For my eyes are heavy as lead;
There's something wrong i' the cup, boys,
There's something ill wi' the bread,
I don't care to sup, boys,
And Tommy's dead.

I'm not right, I doubt, boys,
I've such a sleepy head,
I shall never more be stout, boys,
You may carry me to bed.
What are you about, boys?
The prayers are all said,
The fire's raked out, boys,
And Tommy's dead.

The stairs are too steep, boys,
You may carry me to the head,
The night's dark and deep, boys,
Your mother's long in bed,
'Tis time to go to sleep, boys,
And Tommy's dead.

I'm not used to kiss, boys,
You may shake my hand instead.
All things go amiss, boys,
You may lay me where she is, boys,

And I'll rest my old head:
'Tis a poor world, this, boys,
And Tommy's dead.

Sydney Dobell [1824–1874]

IN MEMORIAM

'Tis right for her to sleep between
Some of those old Cathedral walls,
And right too that her grave is green
With all the dew and rain that falls.

'Tis well the organ's solemn sighs
Should soar and sink around her rest,
And almost in her ear should rise
The prayers of those she loved the best.

'Tis also well this air is stirred
By Nature's voices loud and low,
By thunder and the chirping bird,
And grasses whispering as they grow.

For all her spirit's earthly course
Was as a lesson and a sign
How to o'errule the hard divorce
That parts things natural and divine.

Undaunted by the clouds of fear,
Undazzled by a happy day,
She made a Heaven about her here,
And took how much! with her away.

Richard Monckton Milnes [1809–1885]

HER EPITAPH

The handful here, that once was Mary's earth,
Held, while it breathed, so beautiful a soul,
That, when she died, all recognized her birth,
And had their sorrow in serene control.

"Not here! not here!" to every mourner's heart
The wintry wind seemed whispering round her bier;
And when the tomb-door opened, with a start
We heard it echoed from within,—"Not here!"

Shouldst thou, sad pilgrim, who mayst hither pass,
Note in these flowers a delicater hue,
Should spring come earlier to this hallowed grass,
Or the bee later linger on the dew,—

Know that her spirit to her body lent
Such sweetness, grace, as only goodness can;
That even her dust, and this her monument,
Have yet a spell to stay one lonely man,—

Lonely through life, but looking for the day
When what is mortal of himself shall sleep,
When human passion shall have passed away,
And Love no longer be a thing to weep.

Thomas William Parsons [1819–1892]

THE DEATH-BED

We watched her breathing through the night,
Her breathing soft and low,
As in her breast the wave of life
Kept heaving to and fro.

So silently we seemed to speak,
So slowly moved about,
As we had lent her half our powers
To eke her living out.

Our very hopes belied our fears,
Our fears our hopes belied—
We thought her dying when she slept,
And sleeping when she died.

For when the morn came dim and sad,
And chill with early showers,
Her quiet eyelids closed—she had
Another morn than ours.

Thomas Hood [1799–1845]

HESTER

When maidens such as Hester die,
Their place ye may not well supply,
Though ye among a thousand try,
With vain endeavor.
A month or more hath she been dead,
Yet cannot I by force be led
To think upon the wormy bed,
And her together.

A springy motion in her gait,
A rising step, did indicate
Of pride and joy no common rate,
That flushed her spirit:
I know not by what name beside
I shall it call;—if 'twas not pride,
It was a joy to that allied,
She did inherit.

Her parents held the Quaker rule,
Which doth the human feeling cool;
But she was trained in Nature's school,
Nature had blessed her.
A waking eye, a prying mind,
A heart that stirs, is hard to bind;
A hawk's keen sight ye cannot blind,—
Ye could not Hester.

My sprightly neighbor, gone before
To that unknown and silent shore,
Shall we not meet, as heretofore,
Some summer morning,
When from thy cheerful eyes a ray
Hath struck a bliss upon the day,—
A bliss that would not go away,—
A sweet forewarning?

Charles Lamb [1775–1834]

"SOFTLY WOO AWAY HER BREATH"

Softly woo away her breath,
Gentle Death!
Let her leave thee with no strife,
Tender, mournful, murmuring Life!
She hath seen her happy day:—
She hath had her bud and blossom:
Now she pales and shrinks away,
Earth, into thy gentle bosom!

She hath done her bidding here,
Angels dear!
Bear her perfect soul above,
Seraph of the skies,—sweet Love!
Good she was, and fair in youth,
And her mind was seen to soar,
And her heart was wed to truth:
Take her, then, for evermore,—
For ever—evermore.

Bryan Waller Procter [1787–1874]

A DEATH-BED

Her suffering ended with the day,
Yet lived she at its close,
And breathed the long, long night away
In statue-like repose.

But when the sun in all his state
Illumed the eastern skies,
She passed through Glory's morning gate
And walked in Paradise.

James Aldrich [1810–1856]

"SHE DIED IN BEAUTY"

She died in beauty,—like a rose
Blown from its parent stem;
She died in beauty,—like a pearl
Dropped from some diadem.

She died in beauty,—like a lay
  Along a moonlit lake;
She died in beauty,—like the song
  Of birds amid the brake.

She died in beauty,—like the snow
  On flowers dissolved away;
She died in beauty,—like a star
  Lost on the brow of day.

She lives in glory,—like night's gems
  Set round the silver moon;
She lives in glory,—like the sun
  Amid the blue of June.

Charles Doyne Sillery [1807–1837]

THE WHITE JESSAMINE

I KNEW she lay above me,
  Where the casement all the night
Shone, softened with a phosphor glow
  Of sympathetic light,
And that her fledgling spirit pure
  Was pluming fast for flight.

Each tendril throbbed and quickened
  As I nightly climbed apace,
And could scarce restrain the blossoms
  When, anear the destined place,
Her gentle whisper thrilled me
  Ere I gazed upon her face.

I waited, darkling, till the dawn
  Should touch me into bloom,
While all my being panted
  To outpour its first perfume,
When, lo! a paler flower than mine
  Had blossomed in the gloom!

John Banister Tabb [1845–1909]

EARLY DEATH

SHE passed away like morning dew
Before the sun was high;
So brief her time, she scarcely knew
The meaning of a sigh.

As round the rose its soft perfume,
Sweet love around her floated;
Admired she grew—while mortal doom
Crept on, unfeared, unnoted.

Love was her guardian Angel here,
But Love to Death resigned her;
Though Love was kind, why should we fear
But holy Death is kinder?

Hartley Coleridge [1796–1849]

THE MOSS-ROSE

WALKING to-day in your garden, O gracious lady,
Little you thought, as you turned in that alley remote and shady
And gave me a rose, and asked if I knew its savor—
The old-world scent of the moss-rose, flower of a bygone favor—

Little you thought, as you waited the word of appraisement,
Laughing at first, and then amazed at my amazement,
That the rose you gave was a gift already cherished,
And the garden whence you plucked it a garden long perished.

But I—I saw that garden, with its one treasure
The tiny moss-rose, tiny even by childhood's measure.
And the long morning shadow of the rusty laurel,
And a boy and a girl beneath it, flushed with a childish quarrel.

She wept for her one little bud; but he, outreaching
The hand of brotherly right, would take it for all her beseeching;

And she flung her arms about him, and gave like a sister,
And laughed at her own tears, and wept again when he kissed her.

So the rose is mine since, and whenever I find it
And drink again the sharp sweet scent of the moss behind it,
I remember the tears of a child, and her love and her laughter,
And the morning shadows of youth, and the night that fell thereafter.

Henry Newbolt [1862–

A REQUIEM

Thou hast lived in pain and woe,
Thou hast lived in grief and fear;
Now thine heart can dread no blow,
Now thine eyes can shed no tear:
Storms round us shall beat and rave;
Thou art sheltered in the grave.

Thou for long, long years hast borne,
Bleeding through Life's wilderness,
Heavy loss and wounding scorn;
Now thine heart is burdenless:
Vainly rest for ours we crave;
Thine is quiet in the grave.

We must toil with pain and care,
We must front tremendous Fate,
We must fight with dark Despair:
Thou dost dwell in solemn state,
Couched triumphant, calm and brave,
In the ever-holy grave.

James Thomson [1834–1882]

DIRGE

Calm on the bosom of thy God,
Fair spirit, rest thee now!
E'en while with ours thy footsteps trod,
His seal was on thy brow.

Dust, to its narrow house beneath!
Soul, to its place on high!
They that have seen thy look in death
No more may fear to die.

Lone are the paths, and sad the bowers,
Whence thy meek smile is gone;
But oh! a brighter home than ours
In heaven, is now thine own.

Felicia Dorothea Hemans [1793–1835]

THE LAMP OF POOR SOULS

Above my head the shields are stained with rust,
The wind has taken his spoil, the moth his part;
Dust of dead men beneath my knees, and dust,
Lord, in my heart.

Lay Thou the hand of faith upon my fears;
The priest has prayed, the silver bell has rung,
But not for him. O unforgotten tears,
He was so young!

Shine, little lamp, nor let thy light grow dim.
Into what vast, dread dreams, what lonely lands,
Into what griefs hath death delivered him,
Far from my hands?

Cradled is he, with half his prayers forgot.
I cannot learn the level way he goes.
He whom the harvest hath remembered not
Sleeps with the rose.

Shine, little lamp, fed with sweet oil of prayers.
Shine, little lamp, as God's own eyes may shine,
When He treads softly down His starry stairs
And whispers, "Thou art Mine."

Shine, little lamp, for love hath fed thy gleam.
Sleep, little soul, by God's own hands set free.
Cling to His arms and sleep, and sleeping, dream,
And dreaming, look for me.

Marjorie L. C. Pickthall [1883–

SENTENCE

Shall I say that what heaven gave
  Earth has taken?—
Or that sleepers in the grave
  Reawaken?

One sole sentence can I know,
  Can I say:
You, my comrade, had to go,
  I to stay.

Witter Bynner [1881–

RESURRECTION

I hope there is a resurrection day
For bodies, as the ancient prophets say,
When Helen's naked limbs again will gleam
Regathered from the dust of death's long dream,—
When those who thrilled the ages, being fair,
Will take the singing angels unaware
And make God's perfect meadows doubly sweet
With rosy vagrancy of little feet.

Harry Kemp [1883–

THE SLEEPER

Above the cloistral valley,
  Above the druid rill,
There lies a quiet sleeper
  Upon a lonely hill.

All the long days of summer
  The low winds whisper by,
And the soft voices of the leaves
  Make murmurous reply.

All the long eves of autumn
  The loving shadows mass
Round this sequestered slumbering-place
  Beneath the cool hill grass.

All the long nights of winter
  The white drifts heap and heap
To form a fleecy coverlet
  Above the dreamer's sleep.

All the long morns of springtime
  The tear-drops of the dew
Gleam in the violets' tender eyes
  As if the blossoms knew.

Ah, who would break the rapture
  Brooding and sweet and still,
The great peace of the sleeper
  Upon the lonely hill!

Clinton Scollard [1860–

THE WIDOW'S MITE

A WIDOW—she had only one!
A puny and decrepit son;
  But, day and night,
Though fretful oft, and weak and small,
A loving child, he was her all—
  The Widow's Mite.

The Widow's Mite! ay, so sustained,
She battled onward, nor complained,
  Though friends were fewer:
And while she toiled for daily fare,
A little crutch upon the stair
  Was music to her.

I saw her then,—and now I see
That, though resigned and cheerful, she
  Has sorrowed much:
She has, He gave it tenderly,
Much faith; and, carefully laid by,
  A little crutch.

Frederick Locker-Lampson [1821–1895]

MOTHER AND POET

TURIN, AFTER NEWS FROM GAETA, 1861

Dead! One of them shot by the sea in the east,
And one of them shot in the west by the sea.
Dead! both my boys! When you sit at the feast
And are wanting a great song for Italy free,
Let none look at me!

Yet I was a poetess only last year,
And good at my art, for a woman, men said;
But this woman, this, who is agonized here,
—The east sea and west sea rhyme on in her head
For ever instead.

What art can a woman be good at? Oh, vain!
What art is she good at, but hurting her breast
With the milk-teeth of babes, and a smile at the pain?
Ah boys, how you hurt! you were strong as you pressed,
And I proud, by that test.

What art's for a woman! To hold on her knees
Both darlings! to feel all their arms round her throat
Cling, strangle a little! to sew by degrees
And 'broider the long-clothes and neat little coat;
To dream and to dote.

To teach them. . . It stings there! I made them indeed
Speak plain the word "country." I taught them, no doubt,
That a country's a thing men should die for at need.
I prated of liberty, rights, and about
The tyrant cast out.

And when their eyes flashed . . . O my beautiful eyes! . . .
I exulted; nay, let them go forth at the wheels
Of the guns, and denied not. But then the surprise
When one sits quite alone! Then one weeps, then one kneels!
God! how the house feels!

At first, happy news came, in gay letters moiled
With my kisses,—of camp-life and glory, and how
They both loved me; and, soon coming home to be spoiled,
In return would fan off every fly from my brow
With their green laurel-bough.

Then was triumph at Turin: "Ancona was free!"
And some one came out of the cheers in the street,
With a face pale as stone, to say something to me.
My Guido was dead! I fell down at his feet,
While they cheered in the street.

I bore it; friends soothed me; my grief looked sublime
As the ransom of Italy. One boy remained
To be leant on and walked with, recalling the time
When the first grew immortal, while both of us strained
To the height he had gained.

And letters still came, shorter, sadder, more strong,
Writ now but in one hand, "I was not to faint,—
One loved me for two . . . would be with me erelong:
And Viva l'Italia!—he died for, our saint,
Who forbids our complaint."

My Nanni would add, "he was safe, and aware
Of a presence that turned off the balls . . . was impressed
It was Guido himself, who knew what I could bear,
And how 'twas impossible, quite dispossessed,
To live on for the rest."

On which, without pause, up the telegraph-line
Swept smoothly the next news from Gaeta:—Shot.
Tell his mother. Ah, ah, "his," "their" mother;—not "mine,"
No voice says "My mother" again to me. What!
You think Guido forgot?

Are souls straight so happy that, dizzy with Heaven,
They drop earth's affections, conceive not of woe?
I think not. Themselves were too lately forgiven
Through THAT Love and Sorrow which reconciled so
The Above and Below.

O Christ of the five wounds, who look'dst through the dark
  To the face of thy mother! consider, I pray,
How we common mothers stand desolate, mark,
  Whose sons, not being Christs, die with eyes turned away,
    And no last word to say!

Both boys dead? but that's out of nature. We all
  Have been patriots, yet each house must always keep one.
'Twere imbecile, hewing out roads to a wall;
  And when Italy's made, for what end is it done
    If we have not a son?

Ah, ah, ah! when Gaeta's taken, what then?
  When the fair wicked queen sits no more at her sport
Of the fire-balls of death crashing souls out of men?
  When the guns of Cavalli with final retort
    Have cut the game short?

When Venice and Rome keep their new jubilee,
  When your flag takes all heaven for its white, green and red,
When you have your country from mountain to sea,
  When King Victor has Italy's crown on his head,
    (And I have my Dead)—

What then? Do not mock me. Ah, ring your bells low,
  And burn your lights faintly! My country is there,
Above the star pricked by the last peak of snow:
  My Italy's THERE, with my brave civic Pair,
    To disfranchise despair!

Forgive me. Some women bear children in strength,
  And bite back the cry of their pain in self-scorn;
But the birth-pangs of nations will wring us at length
  Into wail such as this—and we sit on forlorn
    When the man-child is born.

Dead! One of them shot by the sea in the east,
  And one of them shot in the west by the sea.
Both! both my boys! If in keeping the feast
  You want a great song for your Italy free,
    Let none look at me!

Elizabeth Barrett Browning [1806–1861]

A MOTHER IN EGYPT

"About midnight will I go out into the midst of Egypt: and all the first-born in the land of Egypt shall die, from the first-born of Pharaoh that sitteth upon his throne, even unto the first-born of the maid-servant that is behind the mill."

Is the noise of grief in the palace over the river
For this silent one at my side?
There came a hush in the night, and he rose with his hands a-quiver
Like lotus petals adrift on the swing of the tide.
O small cold hands, the day groweth old for sleeping!
O small still feet, rise up, for the hour is late!
Rise up, my son, for I hear them mourning and weeping
In the temple down by the gate!

Hushed is the face that was wont to brighten with laughter
When I sang at the mill;
And silence unbroken shall greet the sorrowful dawns hereafter,—
The house shall be still.
Voice after voice takes up the burden of wailing—
Do you heed, do you hear?—in the high priest's house by the wall.
But mine is the grief, and their sorrow is all unavailing.
Will he wake at their call?

Something I saw of the broad dim wings half folding
The passionless brow.
Something I saw of the sword that the shadowy hands were holding,—
What matters it now?
I held you close, dear face, as I knelt and harkened
To the wind that cried last night like a soul in sin,
When the broad bright stars dropped down and the soft sky darkened
And the Presence moved therein.

I have heard men speak in the market-place of the city,
Low-voiced, in a breath,
Of a God who is stronger than ours, and who knows not changing nor pity,
Whose anger is death.

Nothing I know of the lords of the outland races,
But Amun is gentle and Hathor the mother is mild,
And who would descend from the light of the Peaceful Places
To war on a child?

Yet here he lies, with a scarlet pomegranate petal
Blown down on his cheek.
The slow sun sinks to the sand like a shield of some burnished metal,
But he does not speak.
I have called, I have sung, but he neither will hear nor waken;
So lightly, so whitely, he lies in the curve of my arm,
Like a feather let fall from the bird that the arrow hath taken,—
Who could see him, and harm?

"The swallow flies home to her sleep in the eaves of the altar,
And the crane to her nest."—
So do we sing o'er the mill, and why, ah, why should I falter,
Since he goes to his rest?
Does he play in their flowers as he played among these with his mother?
Do the gods smile downward and love him and give him their care?
Guard him well, O ye gods, till I come; lest the wrath of that Other
Should reach to him there.

Marjorie L. C. Pickthall [1883–

THE DARK ROAD

THERE is no light in any path of Heaven,
Every star is folded in dark sleep;
The clouds hang heavily, the moon is hidden,
How will she know the road her soul must keep?

She did not ask for heavenly palaces,
A little human home was her desire;
The intimate, close touch of human hands—
To love and watch beside a human fire.

As tears will be remembrance in her heart
If she recall her lamp's familiar light,
And as a sword vain pity in her heart
If she should hear her children's cry to-night.

Ah Mary, Mother, stand by Heaven's gate
And watch the road for one who comes to find
In loneliness and fear what Heaven holds
To comfort her who leaves the earth behind.

Ethel Clifford [18 –

OUT OF HEARING

No need to hush the children for her sake,
Or fear their play:
She will not wake, mavrone, she will not wake.
'Tis the long sleep, the deep long sleep she'll take,
Betide what may.
No need to hush the children for her sake;
Even if their glee could yet again outbreak
So loud and gay,
She will not wake, mavrone, she will not wake.
But sorrow a thought have they of merry-make
This many a day:
No need to hush the children. For her sake
So still they bide and sad, her heart would ache
At their dismay.
She will not wake, mavrone, she will not wake
To bid them laugh, and if some angel spake
Small heed they'd pay.
No need to hush the children for her sake:
She will not wake, mavrone, she will not wake.

Jane Barlow [18 –1917]

"JOHN ANDERSON, MY JO"

"John Anderson, my jo, John,"
How cold you are, and still;
You hear me not, nor see me,
Ah, no, and never will

Your hands are resting now, John;
The heart that loved me so
Against my breast shall beat no more,
"John Anderson, my jo."

"John Anderson, my jo, John,"
I'll tarry but a while;
I've still some work to do, John,
To go a weary mile;
And then I'll take your path, John,
And win you soon, I know,
For you will wait for your old wife,
"John Anderson, my jo."

Charles G. Blanden [1857–

THE SPRING OF THE YEAR

Gone were but the winter cold,
And gone were but the snow,
I could sleep in the wild woods
Where primroses blow.

Cold's the snow at my head,
And cold at my feet;
And the finger of death's at my e'en,
Closing them to sleep.

Let none tell my father
Or my mother so dear,—
I'll meet them both in heaven
At the spring of the year.

Allan Cunningham [1784–1842]

THE GRAVES OF A HOUSEHOLD

They grew in beauty, side by side,
They filled one home with glee;
Their graves are severed far and wide
By mount, and stream, and sea.

The same fond mother bent at night
O'er each fair sleeping brow;
She had each folded flower in sight—
Where are those dreamers now?

One 'mid the forests of the West,
By a dark stream is laid;
The Indian knows his place of rest,
Far in the cedar shade.
The sea, the blue lone sea, hath one—
He lies where pearls lie deep;
He was the loved of all, yet none
O'er his low bed may weep.

One sleeps where southern vines are dressed
Above the noble slain;
He wrapped his colors round his breast
On a blood-red field of Spain.
And one—o'er her the myrtle showers
Its leaves, by soft winds fanned;
She faded 'mid Italian flowers,
The last of that bright band.

And, parted thus, they rest who played
Beneath the same green tree,
Whose voices mingled as they prayed
Around one parent-knee!
They that with smiles lit up the hall,
And cheered with song the hearth;
Alas for love, if thou wert all,
And naught beyond, O Earth!

Felicia Dorothea Hemans [1793–1835]

THE FAMILY MEETING

We are all here,
Father, mother,
Sister, brother,
All who hold each other dear.
Each chair is filled, we are all at home!
To-night let no cold stranger come;

It is not often thus around
Our old familiar hearth we're found.
Bless, then, the meeting and the spot,
For once be every care forgot;
Let gentle peace assert her power,
And kind affection rule the hour.
We're all—all here.

We're not all here!
Some are away,—the dead ones dear,
Who thronged with us this ancient hearth,
And gave the hour to guileless mirth.
Fate, with a stern, relentless hand,
Looked in and thinned our little band;
Some like a night-flash passed away,
And some sank lingering day by day;
The quiet grave-yard—some lie there,—
And cruel ocean has his share.
We're not all here!

We are all here.
Even they—the dead—though dead, so dear,
Fond memory, to her duty true,
Brings back their faded forms to view.
How life-like, through the mist of years,
Each well-remembered face appears!
We see them, as in times long past;
From each to each kind looks are cast;
We hear their words, their smiles behold,
They're 'round us as they were of old.
We are all here!

We are all here:
Father, mother,
Sister, brother,
You that I love with love so dear.
This may not long of us be said;
Soon must we join the gathered dead,
And by the hearth we now sit 'round
Some other circle will be found.

Oh, then, that wisdom may we know
Which yields a life of peace below;
So, in the world to follow this,
May each repeat, in words of bliss,
We're all—all here.

Charles Sprague [1791–1875]

THE TWO APRIL MORNINGS

We walked along, while bright and red
Uprose the morning sun;
And Matthew stopped, he looked, and said,
"The will of God be done!"

A village schoolmaster was he,
With hair of glittering gray;
As blithe a man as you could see
On a spring holiday.

And on that morning, through the grass,
And by the steaming rills,
We traveled merrily, to pass
A day among the hills.

"Our work," said I, "was well begun;
Then, from thy breast what thought,
Beneath so beautiful a sun,
So sad a sigh has brought?"

A second time did Matthew stop;
And fixing still his eye
Upon the eastern mountain-top,
To me he made reply:

"Yon cloud with that long purple cleft
Brings fresh into my mind
A day like this which I have left
Full thirty years behind.

"And just above yon slope of corn
Such colors, and no other,
Were in the sky, that April morn,
Of this the very brother.

"With rod and line I sued the sport
Which that sweet season gave,
And, to the church-yard come, stopped short
Beside my daughter's grave.

"Nine summers had she scarcely seen,
The pride of all the vale;
And then she sang;—she would have been
A very nightingale.

"Six feet in earth my Emma lay;
And yet I loved her more,
For so it seemed, than till that day
I e'er had loved before.

"And, turning from her grave, I met,
Beside the church-yard yew,
A blooming girl, whose hair was wet
With points of morning dew.

"A basket on her head she bare;
Her brow was smooth and white:
To see a child so very fair
It was a pure delight!

"No fountain from its rocky cave
E'er tripped with foot so free;
She seemed as happy as a wave
That dances on the sea.

"There came from me a sigh of pain
Which I could ill confine;
I looked at her, and looked again,
And did not wish her mine!"

Matthew is in his grave, yet now,
Methinks, I see him stand,
As at that moment, with a bough
Of wilding in his hand.

William Wordsworth [1770–1850]

"SURPRISED BY JOY"

Surprised by joy—impatient as the Wind—
I turned to share the transport—O! with whom
But Thee, deep buried in the silent tomb,
That spot which no vicissitude can find?
Love, faithful love, recalled thee to my mind—
But how could I forget thee? Through what power,
Even for the least division of an hour,
Have I been so beguiled as to be blind
To my most grievous loss?—That thought's return
Was the worst pang that sorrow ever bore,
Save one, one only, when I stood forlorn,
Knowing my heart's best treasure was no more;
That neither present time, nor years unborn
Could to my sight that heavenly face restore.

William Wordsworth [1770–1850]

THE REVEL

EAST INDIA

We meet 'neath the sounding rafter,
And the walls around are bare;
As they shout back our peals of laughter
It seems that the dead are there.
Then stand to your glasses, steady!
We drink in our comrades' eyes:
One cup to the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

Not here are the goblets glowing,
Not here is the vintage sweet;
'Tis cold, as our hearts are growing,
And dark as the doom we meet.

But stand to your glasses, steady!
And soon shall our pulses rise:
A cup to the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

There's many a hand that's shaking,
And many a cheek that's sunk;
But soon, though our hearts are breaking,
They'll burn with the wine we've drunk.
Then stand to your glasses, steady!
'Tis here the revival lies:
Quaff a cup to the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

Time was when we laughed at others;
We thought we were wiser then;
Ha! ha! let them think of their mothers,
Who hope to see them again.
No! stand to your glasses, steady!
The thoughtless is here the wise:
One cup to the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

Not a sigh for the lot that darkles,
Not a tear for the friends that sink;
We'll fall, 'midst the wine-cup's sparkles,
As mute as the wine we drink.
Come, stand to your glasses, steady!
'Tis this that the respite buys:
A cup to the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

There's a mist on the glass congealing,
'Tis the hurricane's sultry breath;
And thus does the warmth of feeling
Turn ice in the grasp of Death.
But stand to your glasses, steady!
For a moment the vapor flies:
Quaff a cup to the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

Who dreads to the dust returning?
Who shrinks from the sable shore,
Where the high and haughty yearning
Of the soul can sting no more?
No, stand to your glasses, steady!
The world is a world of lies:
A cup to the dead already—
And hurrah for the next that dies!

Cut off from the land that bore us,
Betrayed by the land we find,
When the brightest have gone before us,
And the dullest are most behind—
Stand, stand to your glasses, steady!
'Tis all we have left to prize:
One cup to the dead already—
Hurrah for the next that dies!

Bartholomew Dowling [1823–1863]

THE CHOICE

From "The House of Life"

I

Eat thou and drink; to-morrow thou shalt die.
Surely the earth, that's wise being very old,
Needs not our help. Then loose me, love, and hold
Thy sultry hair up from my face; that I
May pour for thee this golden wine, brim-high,
Till round the glass thy fingers glow like gold.
We'll drown all hours: thy song, while hours are tolled,
Shall leap, as fountains veil the changing sky.
Now kiss, and think that there are really those,
My own high-bosomed beauty, who increase
Vain gold, vain lore, and yet might choose our way!
Through many years they toil; then on a day
They die not,—for their life was death,—but cease;
And round their narrow lips the mold falls close.

II

Watch thou and fear; to-morrow thou shalt die.
Or art thou sure thou shalt have time for death?
Is not the day which God's word promiseth
To come man knows not when? In yonder sky,
Now while we speak, the sun speeds forth: can I
Or thou assure him of his goal? God's breath
Even at this moment haply quickeneth
The air to a flame; till spirits, always nigh
Though screened and hid, shall walk the daylight here.
And dost thou prate of all that man shall do?
Canst thou, who hast but plagues, presume to be Glad in his gladness that comes after thee?
Will his strength slay thy worm in Hell? Go to:
Cover thy countenance, and watch, and fear.

III

Think thou and act; to-morrow thou shalt die.
Outstretched in the sun's warmth upon the shore,
Thou say'st: "Man's measured path is all gone o'er;
Up all his years, steeply, with strain and sigh,
Man clomb until he touched the truth; and I,
Even I, am he whom it was destined for."
How should this be? Art thou then so much more
Than they who sowed, that thou shouldst reap thereby?
Nay, come up hither. From this wave-washed mound
Unto the furthest flood-brim look with me;
Then reach on with thy thought till it be drowned.
Miles and miles distant though the last line be,
And though thy soul sail leagues and leagues beyond,—
Still, leagues beyond those leagues, there is more sea.

Dante Gabriel Rossetti [1828–1882]

READÈN OV A HEAD-STWONE

As I wer readèn ov a stwonè
In Grenley church-yard all alwone,
A little maïd ran up, wi' pride
To zee me there, an' pushed a-zide

A bunch o' bennets that did hide
A verse her father, as she zaïd,
Put up above her mother's head,
To tell how much he loved her.

The verse wer short, but very good,
I stood an' larned en where I stood:—
"Mid God, dear Meäry, gi'e me greäce,
To vind, lik' thee, a better pleäce,
Where I woonce mwore mid zee thy feäce;
An' bring thy children up to know
His word, that they mid come an' show
Thy soul how much I loved thee."

"Where's father, then," I zaid, "my chile?"
"Dead too," she answered wi' a smile;
"An' I an' brother Jim do bide
At Betty White's, o' t'other side
O' road." "Mid He, my chile," I cried,
"That's father to the fatherless,
Become thy father now, an' bless,
An' keep, an' leäd, an' love thee."

Though she've a-lost, I thought, so much,
Still He don't let the thoughts o't touch
Her litsome heart by day or night;
An' zoo, if we could teäke it right,
Do show He'll meäke His burdens light
To weaker souls, an' that His smile
Is sweet upon a harmless chile,
When they be dead that loved it.

William Barnes [1801–1886]

THE TWO MYSTERIES

We know not what it is, dear, this sleep so deep and still;
The folded hands, the awful calm, the cheek so pale and chill;
The lids that will not lift again, though we may call and call;
The strange, white solitude of peace that settles over all.

We know not what it means, dear, this desolate heart-pain;
This dread to take our daily way, and walk in it again;
We know not to what other sphere the loved who leave us go,
Nor why we're left to wonder still, nor why we do not know.

But this we know: Our loved and dead, if they should come this day—
Should come and ask us, "What is life?" not one of us could say.
Life is a mystery as deep as ever death can be;
Yet, oh, how dear it is to us, this life we live and see!

Then might they say—these vanished ones—and blessed is the thought,
"So death is sweet to us, beloved! though we may show you naught;
We may not to the quick reveal the mystery of death—
Ye cannot tell us, if ye would, the mystery of breath."

The child who enters life comes not with knowledge or intent,
So those who enter death must go as little children sent.
Nothing is known. But I believe that God is overhead;
And as life is to the living, so death is to the dead.

Mary Mapes Dodge [1838–1905]

FOREVER

Those we love truly never die,
Though year by year the sad memorial wreath,
A ring and flowers, types of life and death,
Are laid upon their graves.

For death the pure life saves,
And life all pure is love; and love can reach
From heaven to earth, and nobler lessons teach
Than those by mortals read.

Well blest is he who has a dear one dead:
A friend he has whose face will never change—
A dear communion that will not grow strange;
The anchor of a love is death.

The blessed sweetness of a loving breath
Will reach our cheek all fresh through weary years.
For her who died long since, ah! waste not tears,
She's thine unto the end.

Thank God for one dear friend,
With face still radiant with the light of truth,
Whose love comes laden with the scent of youth,
Through twenty years of death.

John Boyle O'Reilly [1844–1890]

NOW AND AFTERWARDS

"Two hands upon the breast, and labor is past"—Russian Proverb

Two hands upon the breast,
And labor's done;
Two pale feet crossed in rest,—
The race is won;
Two eyes with coin-weights shut,
And all tears cease,
Two lips where grief is mute,
Anger at peace;—
So pray we oftentimes, mourning our lot;
God in His kindness answereth not.

Two hands to work addressed
Aye for His praise;
Two feet that never rest
Walking His ways;
Two eyes that look above
Through all their tears;
Two lips still breathing love,
Not wrath, nor fears;—
So pray we afterwards, low on our knees;
Pardon those erring prayers! Father, hear these!

Dinah Maria Mulock Craik [1826–1887]

"NOW THE LABORER'S TASK IS O'ER"

Now the laborer's task is o'er;
Now the battle day is past;
Now upon the farther shore
Lands the voyager at last.
Father, in Thy gracious keeping
Leave we now Thy servant sleeping.

There the tears of earth are dried;
There its hidden things are clear;
There the work of life is tried
By a juster Judge than here.
Father, in Thy gracious keeping
Leave we now Thy servant sleeping.

There the penitents, that turn
To the cross their dying eyes,
All the love of Jesus learn
At His feet in Paradise.
Father, in Thy gracious keeping
Leave we now Thy servant sleeping.

There no more the powers of hell
Can prevail to mar their peace;
Christ the Lord shall guard them well,
He who died for their release.
Father, in Thy gracious keeping
Leave we now Thy servant sleeping.

"Earth to earth, and dust to dust,"
Calmly now the words we say,
Left behind, we wait in trust
For the resurrection day.
Father, in Thy gracious keeping
Leave we now Thy servant sleeping.

John Lodge Ellerton [1801–1873]

LOVE AND DEATH

Alas! that men must see
Love, before Death!
Else they content might be
With their short breath;
Aye, glad, when the pale sun
Showed restless day was done,
And endless Rest begun.

Glad, when with strong, cool hand
Death clasped their own,
And with a strange command
Hushed every moan;
Glad to have finished pain,
And labor wrought in vain,
Blurred by Sin's deepening stain.

But Love's insistent voice
Bids self to flee—
"Live that I may rejoice,
Live on, for me!"
So, for Love's cruel mind,
Men fear this Rest to find,
Nor know great Death is kind!

Margaret Deland [1857–

VAN ELSEN

God spake three times and saved Van Elsen's soul;
He spake by sickness first and made him whole;
Van Elsen heard him not,
Or soon forgot.

God spake to him by wealth, the world outpoured
Its treasures at his feet, and called him Lord;
Van Elsen's heart grew fat
And proud thereat.

God spake the third time when the great World smiled,
And in the sunshine slew his little child;
Van Elsen like a tree
Fell hopelessly.

Then in the darkness came a voice which said,
"As thy heart bleedeth, so my heart hath bled,
As I have need of thee,
Thou needest me."

That night Van Elsen kissed the baby feet,
And, kneeling by the narrow winding-sheet,
Praised Him with fervent breath
Who conquered death.

Frederick George Scott [1861–

THE FLIGHT

Upon a cloud among the stars we stood:
The angel raised his hand, and looked, and said,
"Which world, of all yon starry myriad Shall we make wing to?" The still solitude
Became a harp whereon his voice and mood
Made spheral music round his haloed head.
I spake—for then I had not long been dead—
"Let me look round upon the vasts, and brood
A moment on these orbs ere I decide. . . .
What is yon lower star that beauteous shines
And with soft splendor now incarnadines
Our wings?—There would I go and there abide."
Then he, as one who some child's thought divines:
"That is the world where yesternight you died."

Lloyd Mifflin [1846–

RIPE GRAIN

O still, white face of perfect peace,
Untouched by passion, freed from pain,—
He who ordained that work should cease
Took to Himself the ripened grain.

O noble face! your beauty bears
The glory that is wrung from pain,—
The high, celestial beauty wears
Of finished work, of ripened grain.

Of human care you left no trace,
No lightest trace of grief or pain,—
On earth an empty form and face—
In Heaven stands the ripened grain.

Dora Reed Goodale [1866–

"THE LAND WHICH NO ONE KNOWS"

DARK, deep, and cold the current flows
Unto the sea where no wind blows,
Seeking the land which no one knows.

O'er its sad gloom still comes and goes
The mingled wail of friends and foes,
Borne to the land which no one knows.

Why shrieks for help yon wretch, who goes
With millions, from a world of woes,
Unto the land which no one knows?

Though myriads go with him who goes,
Alone he goes where no wind blows,
Unto the land which no one knows.

For all must go where no wind blows,
And none can go for him who goes;
None, none return whence no one knows.

Yet why should he who shrieking goes
With millions, from a world of woes,
Reunion seek with it or those?

Alone with God, where no wind blows,
And Death, his shadow—doomed, he goes:
That God is there the shadow shows.

O shoreless Deep, where no wind blows!
And thou, O Land, which no one knows!
That God is all, His shadow shows.

Ebenezer Elliott [1781–1849]

THE HILLS OF REST

Beyond the last horizon's rim,
Beyond adventure's farthest quest,
Somewhere they rise, serene and dim,
The happy, happy Hills of Rest.

Upon their sunlit slopes uplift
The castles we have built in Spain—
While fair amid the summer drift
Our faded gardens flower again.

Sweet hours we did not live go by
To soothing note, on scented wing;
In golden-lettered volumes lie
The songs we tried in vain to sing.

They all are there: the days of dream
That build the inner lives of men;
The silent, sacred years we deem
The might be, and the might have been.

Some evening when the sky is gold
I'll follow day into the west;
Nor pause, nor heed, till I behold
The happy, happy Hills of Rest.

Albert Bigelow Paine [1861–

AT THE TOP OF THE ROAD

"But, Lord," she said, "my shoulders still are strong—
I have been used to bear the load so long;

"And see, the hill is passed, and smooth the road . . ."
"Yet," said the Stranger, "yield me now thy load."

Gently he took it from her, and she stood
Straight-limbed and lithe, in new-found maidenhood,

Amid long, sunlit fields; around them sprang
A tender breeze, and birds and rivers sang.

"My Lord," she said, "the land is very fair!"
Smiling, he answered: "Was it not so there?"

"There?" In her voice a wondering question lay:
"Was I not always here, then, as to-day?"

He turned to her with strange, deep eyes aflame:
"Knowest thou not this kingdom, nor my name?"

"Nay," she replied: "but this I understand—
That thou art Lord of Life in this dear land!"

"Yea, child," he murmured, scarce above his breath:
"Lord of the Land! but men have named me Death."

Charles Buxton Going [1863–

SHEMUEL

Shemuel, the Bethlehemite,
Watched a fevered guest at night;
All his fellows fared afield
Saw the angel host revealed;
He nor caught the mystic story,
Heard the song, nor saw the glory.

Through the night they gazing stood,
Heard the holy multitude;
Back they came in wonder home,
Knew the Christmas kingdom come,
Eyes aflame and hearts elated;
Shemuel sat alone, and waited.

Works of mercy now, as then,
Hide the angel host from men;
Hearts attuned to earthly love
Miss the angel notes above;
Deeds at which the world rejoices,
Quench the sound of angel voices.

So they thought, nor deemed from whence
His celestial recompense.
Shemuel, by the fever bed,
Touched by beckoning hands that led,
Died, and saw the Uncreated;
All his fellows lived, and waited.

Edward Ernest Bowen [1836–1901]

SHE AND HE

"She is dead!" they said to him. "Come away;
Kiss her and leave her!—thy love is clay!"

They smoothed her tresses of dark brown hair;
On her forehead of marble they laid it fair;

Over her eyes, that gazed too much,
They drew the lids with a gentle touch;

With a tender touch they closed up well
The sweet thin lips that had secrets to tell:

About her brows, and her dear, pale face,
They tied her veil and her marriage-lace:

And drew on her white feet her white silk shoes;—
Which were the whiter no eye could choose!

And over her bosom they crossed her hands;
"Come away," they said,—"God understands!"

And then there was Silence;—and nothing there
But the Silence—and scents of eglantere,

And jasmine, and roses, and rosemary;
And they said, "As a lady should lie, lies she!"

And they held their breath till they left the room,
With a shudder to glance at its stillness and gloom.

But he—who loved her too well to dread
The sweet, the stately, the beautiful dead,—

He lit his lamp, and took the key,
And turned it!—Alone again—he and she!

He and she; but she would not speak,
Though he kissed, in the old place, the quiet cheek;

He and she; yet she would not smile,
Though he called her the name that was fondest erewhile.

He and she; and she did not move
To any one passionate whisper of love!

Then he said, "Cold lips! and breast without breath!
Is there no voice?—no language of death

"Dumb to the ear and still to the sense,
But to heart and to soul distinct,—intense?

"See, now,—I listen with soul, not ear,—
What was the secret of dying, Dear?

"Was it the infinite wonder of all
That you ever could let life's flower fall?

"Or was it a greater marvel to feel
The perfect calm o'er the agony steal?

"Was the miracle greatest to find how deep,
Beyond all dreams, sank downward that sleep?

"Did life roll backward its record, Dear,
And show, as they say it does, past things clear?

"And was it the innermost heart of the bliss
To find out so what a wisdom love is?

"Oh, perfect Dead! Oh, Dead most dear,
I hold the breath of my soul to hear;

"I listen—as deep as to horrible hell,
As high as to heaven!—and you do not tell!

"There must be pleasures in dying, Sweet,
To make you so placid from head to feet!

"I would tell you, Darling, if I were dead,
And 'twere your hot tears upon my brow shed.

"I would say, though the angel of death had laid
His sword on my lips to keep it unsaid.

"You should not ask, vainly, with streaming eyes,
Which in Death's touch was the chiefest surprise;

"The very strangest and suddenest thing
Of all the surprises that dying must bring."

. . . . . .

Ah! foolish world! Oh! most kind Dead!
Though he told me, who will believe it was said?

Who will believe that he heard her say,
With the soft rich voice, in the dear old way:—

"The utmost wonder is this,—I hear,
And see you, and love you, and kiss you, Dear;

"I can speak, now you listen with soul alone;
If your soul could see, it would all be shown

"What a strange delicious amazement is Death,
To be without body and breathe without breath.

"I should laugh for joy if you did not cry;
Oh, listen! Love lasts!—Love never will die.

"I am only your Angel, who was your Bride;
And I know, that though dead, I have never died."

Edwin Arnold [1832–1904]

AFTER DEATH IN ARABIA

He who died at Azan sends
This to comfort all his friends:

Faithful friends! It lies, I know,
Pale and white and cold as snow:
And ye say, "Abdallah's dead!"
Weeping at the feet and head.
I can see your falling tears,
I can hear your sighs and prayers;
Yet I smile and whisper this:
"I am not the thing you kiss;
Cease your tears, and let it lie;
It was mine—it is not I."

Sweet friends! what the women lave
For its last bed of the grave,
Is a tent which I am quitting,
Is a garment no more fitting,
Is a cage from which, at last,
Like a hawk my soul hath passed.
Love the inmate, not the room,—
The wearer, not the garb;—the plume
Of the falcon, not the bars
That kept him from these splendid stars!

Loving friends! be wise, and dry
Straightway every weeping eye.
What ye lift upon the bier
Is not worth a wistful tear.
'Tis an empty sea-shell,—one
Out of which the pearl is gone.
The shell is broken, it lies there;
The pearl, the all, the soul, is here.
'Tis an earthen jar, whose lid
Allah sealed, the while it hid
That treasure of his treasury,
A mind that loved him: let it lie!
Let the shard be earth's once more,
Since the gold shines in his store!

Allah glorious! Allah good!
Now Thy world is understood;
Now the long, long wonder ends!
Yet ye weep, my erring friends,
While the man whom ye call dead,
In unspoken bliss, instead,
Lives and loves you; lost, 'tis true,
By such light as shines for you;
But in light ye cannot see
Of unfulfilled felicity,—
In enlarging paradise,
Lives a life that never dies.

Farewell, friends! yet not farewell;—
Where I am, ye, too, shall dwell.
I am gone before your face,
A moment's time, a little space.
When ye come where I have stepped,
Ye will wonder why ye wept;
Ye will know, by wise love taught,
That here is all, and there is naught.
Weep awhile, if ye are fain,—
Sunshine still must follow rain;
Only not at death,—for death,
Now I know, is that first breath
Which our souls draw when we enter
Life, which is of all life center.

Be ye certain all seems love,
Viewed from Allah's throne above;
Be ye stout of heart, and come
Bravely onward to your home!
La Allah illa Allah! yea!
Thou love divine! Thou Love alway!

He that died at Azan gave
This to those who made his grave.

Edwin Arnold [1832–1904]

TO THE EARL OF WARWICK, ON THE DEATH OF MR. ADDISON

[1672–1719]

If, dumb too long, the drooping Muse hath stayed,
And left her debt to Addison unpaid,
Blame not her silence, Warwick, but bemoan,
And judge, O, judge my bosom by your own.
What mourner ever felt poetic fires?
Slow comes the verse that real woe inspires:
Grief unaffected suits but ill with art,
Or flowing numbers with a bleeding heart.

Can I forget the dismal night that gave
My soul's best part forever to the grave?
How silent did his old companions tread,
By midnight lamps, the mansions of the dead,
Through breathing statues, then unheeded things,
Through rows of warriors and through walks of kings!
What awe did the slow, solemn knell inspire;
The pealing organ, and the pausing choir;
The duties by the lawn-robed prelate paid;
And the last words, that dust to dust conveyed!
While speechless o'er thy closing grave we bend,
Accept these tears, thou dear, departed friend.
O, gone forever! take this long adieu;
And sleep in peace next thy loved Montague.
To strew fresh laurels let the task be mine,
A frequent pilgrim at thy sacred shrine;
Mine with true sighs thy absence to bemoan,
And grave with faithful epitaphs thy stone.
If e'er from me thy loved memorial part,
May shame afflict this alienated heart;
Of thee forgetful, if I form a song,
My lyre be broken, and untuned my tongue,
My grief be doubled, from thy image free,
And mirth a torment, unchastised by thee!

Oft let me range the gloomy aisles alone

Sad luxury! to vulgar minds unknown;
Along the walls where speaking marbles show
What worthies form the hallowed mold below;
Proud names, who once the reins of empire held;
In arms who triumphed, or in arts excelled;
Chiefs, graced with scars, and prodigal of blood;
Stern patriots, who for sacred freedom stood;
Just men, by whom impartial laws were given;
And saints, who taught and led the way to heaven;
Ne'er to these chambers, where the mighty rest,
Since their foundation came a nobler guest;
Nor e'er was to the bowers of bliss conveyed
A fairer spirit or more welcome shade.

In what new region, to the just assigned,
What new employments please the unbodied mind?
A wingèd Virtue, through the ethereal sky,
From world to world unwearied does he fly?
Or curious trace the long laborious maze
Of Heaven's decrees, where wondering angels gaze?
Does he delight to hear bold seraphs tell
How Michael battled and the dragon fell;
Or, mixed with milder cherubim, to glow
In hymns of love, not ill-essayed below?
Or dost thou warn poor mortals left behind,—
A task well suited to thy gentle mind?
O, if sometimes thy spotless form descend,
To me thy aid, thou guardian genius, lend!
When rage misguides me, or when fear alarms,
When pain distresses, or when pleasure charms,
In silent whisperings purer thoughts impart,
And turn from ill a frail and feeble heart;
Lead through the paths thy virtue trod before,
Till bliss shall join, nor death can part us more.

That awful form which, so the heavens decree,
Must still be loved and still deplored by me,
In nightly visions seldom fails to rise,
Or, roused by fancy, meets my waking eyes.
If business calls, or crowded courts invite,
The unblemished statesman seems to strike my sight;
If in the stage I seek to soothe my care,
I meet his soul which breathes in Cato there;

If pensive to the rural shades I rove,
His shape o'ertakes me in the lonely grove;
'Twas there of just and good he reasoned strong,
Cleared some great truth, or raised some serious song:
There patient showed us the wise course to steer,
A candid censor and a friend severe;
There taught us how to live, and (O, too high
The price for knowledge!) taught us how to die.

Thou Hill, whose brow the antique structures grace,
Reared by bold chiefs of Warwick's noble race,
Why, once so loved, whene'er thy bower appears,
O'er my dim eyeballs glance the sudden tears?
How sweet were once thy prospects fresh and fair,
Thy sloping walks, and unpolluted air!
How sweet the glooms beneath thy aged trees,
Thy noontide shadow, and thy evening breeze!
His image thy forsaken bowers restore;
Thy walks and airy prospects charm no more;
No more the summer in thy glooms allayed,
Thy evening breezes, and thy noonday shade.

From other hills, however fortune frowned,
Some refuge in the Muse's art I found;
Reluctant now I touch the trembling string,
Bereft of him who taught me how to sing;
And these sad accents, murmured o'er his urn,
Betray that absence they attempt to mourn.
O, must I then (now fresh my bosom bleeds,
And Craggs in death to Addison succeeds)
The verse, begun to one lost friend, prolong,
And weep a second in the unfinished song!

These works divine, which, on his death-bed laid,
To thee, O Craggs! the expiring sage conveyed,
Great, but ill-omened, monument of fame,
Nor he survived to give, nor thou to claim.
Swift after him thy social spirit flies,
And close to his, how soon! thy coffin lies.
Blest pair! whose union future bards shall tell
In future tongues: each other's boast! farewell!
Farewell! whom, joined in fame, in friendship tried,
No chance could sever, nor the grave divide.

Thomas Tickell [1686–1740]

THE EAGLE THAT IS FORGOTTEN

[JOHN P. ALTGELD, 1847–1902]

SLEEP softly . . . eagle forgotten . . . under the stone.
Time has its way with you there, and the clay has its own.
"We have buried him now," thought your foes, and in secret rejoiced.
They made a brave show of their mourning, their hatred unvoiced.
They had snarled at you, barked at you, foamed at you, day after day,
Now you were ended. They praised you . . . and laid you away.
The others, that mourned you in silence and terror and truth,
The widow bereft of her crust, and the boy without youth,
The mocked and the scorned and the wounded, the lame and the poor,
That should have remembered forever, . . . remember no more.
Where are those lovers of yours, on what name do they call,
The lost, that in armies wept over your funeral pall?
They call on the names of a hundred high-valiant ones,
A hundred white eagles have risen, the sons of your sons.
The zeal in their wings is a zeal that your dreaming began,
The valor that wore out your soul in the service of man.
Sleep softly . . . eagle forgotten . . . under the stone.
Time has its way with you there, and the clay has its own.
Sleep on, O brave-hearted, O wise man that kindled the flame—
To live in mankind is far more than to live in a name,
To live in mankind, far, far more than to live in a name!—

Vachel Lindsay [1879–

ELEGIAC STANZAS

SUGGESTED BY A PICTURE OF PEELE CASTLE IN A STORM, PAINTED BY SIR GEORGE BEAUMONT

[1753–1827]

I WAS thy neighbor once, thou rugged Pile!
Four summer weeks I dwelt in sight of thee:
I saw thee every day; and all the while
Thy Form was sleeping on a glassy sea.

So pure the sky, so quiet was the air!
So like, so very like, was day to day!
Whene'er I looked, thy image still was there;
It trembled, but it never passed away.

How perfect was the calm! It seemed no sleep,
No mood, which season takes away, or brings:
I could have fancied that the mighty Deep
Was even the gentlest of all gentle things.

Ah! THEN—if mine had been the Painter's hand
To express what then I saw; and add the gleam,
The light that never was, on sea or land,
The consecration, and the Poet's dream,—

I would have planted thee, thou hoary Pile,
Amid a world how different from this!
Beside a sea that could not cease to smile;
On tranquil land, beneath a sky of bliss.

Thou shouldst have seemed a treasure-house divine
Of peaceful years; a chronicle of heaven;—
Of all the sunbeams that did ever shine
The very sweetest had to thee been given.

A Picture had it been of lasting ease,
Elysian quiet, without toil or strife;
No motion but the moving tide, a breeze,
Or merely silent Nature's breathing life.

Such, in the fond illusion of my heart,
Such Picture would I at that time have made;
And seen the soul of truth in every part,
A steadfast peace that might not be betrayed.

So once it would have been,—'tis so no more;
I have submitted to a new control:
A power is gone, which nothing can restore;
A deep distress hath humanized my soul.

Not for a moment could I now behold
A smiling sea, and be what I have been:
The feeling of my loss will ne'er be old;
This, which I know, I speak with mind serene.

Then, Beaumont, Friend! who would have been the friend
If he had lived, of Him whom I deplore,
This work of thine I blame not, but commend;
This sea in anger, and that dismal shore.

O 'tis a passionate Work!—yet wise and well,
Well chosen is the spirit that is here;
That Hulk which labors in the deadly swell,
This rueful sky, this pageantry of fear!

And this huge Castle, standing here sublime,
I love to see the look with which it braves,
—Cased in the unfeeling armor of old time—
The lightning, the fierce wind, and trampling waves.

—Farewell, farewell the heart that lives alone,
Housed in a dream, at distance from the Kind!
Such happiness, wherever it be known,
Is to be pitied; for 'tis surely blind.

But welcome fortitude, and patient cheer,
And frequent sights of what is to be borne!
Such sights, or worse, as are before me here:—
Not without hope we suffer and we mourn.

William Wordsworth [1770–1850]

WILLIAM BLAKE

[1757–1827]

He came to the desert of London town,
Gray miles long;
He wandered up and he wandered down,
Singing a quiet song.

He came to the desert of London town,
Mirk miles broad;
He wandered up and he wandered down,
Ever alone with God.

There were thousands and thousands of human kind
In that desert of brick and stone:
But some were deaf and some were blind,
And he was there alone.

At length the good hour came; he died
As he had lived, alone:
He was not missed from the desert wide,
Perhaps he was found at the Throne.

James Thomson [1834–1882]

EDWIN BOOTH

[1833–1893]

"Ay, every inch a king"

Now is the night, foreshadowed of our fears;
The curtain falls, the lights fade, one by one.
Darkness and silence from the widowed stage
Proclaim the great and final act is done.
Vain are the thundered plaudits of the house,
The laurel wreath, the players' loud acclaim;
Thou art grown dumb to clamoring for response,
Deaf to the ringing of thy jewelled name.
Thy crystal soul hath traversed back the pathway whence it came.

They who the virtues of the mighty dead
Enwrap in majesty of broidered verse,
Call upon Nature, in her solitude,
His beauties and her sorrow to rehearse.
The forest and the field, the fitful wind
They challenge, and the ever-sounding wave,
To seek his spirit in the vast afar,
And drop their dews on his enrichèd grave,
Crowning the poet's lyric woe with some forlorner stave.

Greater than all the universe of space
The mimic world thou didst thyself create:
The subtile sphere, compact of passion's breath,
Where Nature bade thee hold imperial state.
There shall the mourning garments be outworn;
There shall the desolate their dirges sing;
No princeling may ascend the vacant throne,
Laying new triumph's gall to sorrow's sting.
"The King is dead!" we cry, but nevermore, "Long live the King!"

Of all the stops of mortal harmony
Master thou art forever, though in death.
The melancholy of the Dane is thine,
The poisonous blighting of Iago's breath.
Thou didst take on foul Richard's humpbacked soul,
And clasp it close, yet do thine own no wrong:
As 'twere the mantle of Sir Caradoc,
Unerring witness sung in ancient song,
Destined to prove the pure of heart more pure, the strong more strong.

Slave of self-conjured evil, Cawdor's thane!
The jester, bitter-hearted, striking home!
The fox-robed cardinal, creating France,
And launching forth the curse of sovereign Rome!
Gallant Don César, lord of ragged lace!
These wert thou in their turn, and sorrow-blind,
Alas! thou wert the doited father, too,
Pelted by heaven, and stabbed by human kind:
Heartbreakingly confessed, "I am not in my perfect mind!"

Such was thy Protean form, but what wert thou?
A changing cloud, content to borrow hue
From lordly sun-rays that o'errule it quite,
And thus with color and with form endue?
Nay, rather let the time's remembrancing,
When it doth con anew thy mortal span,
Ignore thine art, if such despite may be,
But bow in awe before thy nature's plan,
Crying with trumpet tone, to alien ears, "This was a man!"

Thine was the guilt of filching heavenly fire;
Wherefore Jove's eagle fed upon thy heart.
Yet never word nor strangled cry betrayed
Responsive agony beneath the smart,
A thousand hovering spectres menaced thee
Bound, by eternal fiat, on the rock
Of mortal languishment: yet unappalled
As gallant bird beneath the tempest shock;
For still thy soul soared free, thy silence met each hideous mock.

And can such glory pass? Nay, thus thou art,
Where'er in world diviner thou dost walk,
Mated with love celestial, that doth spring,
Fragrant and fair, from life's divided stalk.
But we who knew thee may not cease to mourn
The moment's grief, the time's perpetual loss.
Not ours to pluck from thine engravèd name
Oblivion's cold and memory-choking moss:
Blest are we for so noble sake to bear affliction's cross.

Henceforward nevermore may Denmark's Prince
Pace through his tragic hour in sabled pride,
But thou, the sceptre's rightful heir, wilt walk,
Eclipsing all his grandeur, by his side.
And dally as we may with pageantry
Wherein some newer actor plays a part,
The scene will fade, while thine enshadowed form
Doth from the slumbrous aisles of memory start,—
Again the lost but ever-reigning monarch of the heart.

Farewell! farewell indeed! But take with thee
Our true allegiance to that orient land,—
The laurels and the rosemary of life
Lying unnoted in thy nerveless hand.
Take with thee, too, our bond of gratitude,
That in a cynic and a tattling age
Thou didst consent to write, in missal script,
Thy name on the poor players' slandered page,
And teach the lords of empty birth a king may walk the stage.

Alice Brown [1857–

GENERAL WILLIAM BOOTH ENTERS INTO HEAVEN

[1829–1912]

To be sung to the tune of "The Blood of the Lamb" with indicated instruments

Booth led boldly with his big bass drum.
Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb?
The saints smiled gravely, and they said, "He's come."
Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb? Bass drums
Walking lepers followed, rank on rank,
Lurching bravos from the ditches dank,
Drabs from the alleyways and drug-fiends pale—
Minds still passion-ridden, soul-powers frail!
Vermin-eaten saints with mouldy breath
Unwashed legions with the ways of death—
Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb?

Every slum had sent its half-a-score
The round world over—Booth had groaned for more.
Every banner that the wide world flies
Bloomed with glory and transcendent dyes.
Big-voiced lasses made their banjos bang! Banjos
Tranced, fanatical, they shrieked and sang,
Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb?
Hallelujah! It was queer to see
Bull-necked convicts with that land make free!
Loons with bazoos blowing blare, blare, blare—
On, on, upward through the golden air.
Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb?

Booth died blind, and still by faith he trod,
Eyes still dazzled by the ways of God. Bass drums
Booth led boldly and he looked the chief: slower and
Eagle countenance in sharp relief, softer
Beard a-flying, air of high command
Unabated in that holy land.
Jesus came from out the Court-House door,
Stretched his hands above the passing poor.

Booth saw not, but led his queer ones there Flutes
Round and round the mighty Court-House square.
Yet in an instant all that blear review
Marched on spotless, clad in raiment new.
The lame were straightened, withered limbs uncurled
And blind eyes opened on a new sweet world.

Drabs and vixens in a flash made whole! Bass drums
Gone was the weasel-head, the snout, the jowl; louder and Sages and sibyls now, and athletes clean, faster
Rulers of empires, and of forests green!
The hosts were sandalled and their wings were fire—
Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb?
But their noise played havoc with the angel-choir.
Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb? Grand
Oh, shout Salvation! it was good to see chorus tam-
Kings and princes by the Lamb set free. bourines–all
The banjos rattled and the tambourines instruments
Jing-jing-jingled in the hands of queens! in full blast

And when Booth halted by the curb for prayer
He saw his Master through the flag-filled air.
Christ came gently with a robe and crown Reverently
For Booth the soldier while the throng knelt sung–no down; instruments
He saw King Jesus—they were face to face,
And he knelt a-weeping in that holy place.
Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb?

Vachel Lindsay [1879–

E. B. B.

[1806–1861]

THE white-rose garland at her feet,
The crown of laurel at her head,
Her noble life on earth complete,
Lay her in the last low bed
For the slumber calm and deep:
"He giveth His belovèd sleep."

Soldiers find their fittest grave
In the field whereon they died;
So her spirit pure and brave
Leaves the clay it glorified
To the land for which she fought
With such grand impassioned thought.

Keats and Shelley sleep at Rome,
She in well-loved Tuscan earth;
Finding all their death's long home
Far from their old home of birth.
Italy, you hold in trust
Very sacred English dust.

Therefore this one prayer I breathe,—
That you yet may worthy prove
Of the heirlooms they bequeath
Who have loved you with such love:
Fairest land while land of slaves
Yields their free souls no fit graves.

James Thomson [1834–1882]

ROBERT BURNS

[1759–1796]

All Scottish legends did his fancy fashion,
All airs that richly flow,
Laughing with frolic, tremulous with passion,
Broken with love-lorn woe;

Ballads whose beauties years have long been stealing
And left few links of gold,
Under his quaint and subtle touch of healing
Grew fairer, not less old.

Gray Cluden, and the vestal's choral cadence,
His spell awoke therewith;
Till boatmen hung their oars to hear the maidens
Upon the banks of Nith.

His, too, the strains of battle nobly coming
From Bruce, or Wallace wight,
Such as the Highlander shall oft be humming
Before some famous fight.

Nor only these—for him the hawthorn hoary
Was with new wreaths enwrought,
The "crimson-tippèd daisy" wore fresh glory,
Born of poetic thought.

From the "wee cowering beastie" he could borrow
A moral strain sublime,
A noble tenderness of human sorrow,
In wondrous wealth of rhyme.

Oh, but the mountain breeze must have been pleasant
Upon the sunburnt brow
Of that poetic and triumphant peasant
Driving his laureled plow!

William Alexander [1824–1911]

ON A FLY-LEAF OF BURNS'S SONGS

These are the best of him,
Pathos and jest of him;
Earth holds the rest of him.

Passions were strong in him,—
Pardon the wrong in him;
Hark to the song in him!—

Each little lyrical
Grave or satirical
Musical miracle!

Frederic Lawrence Knowles [1869–1905]

ON THE DEATHS OF THOMAS CARLYLE AND GEORGE ELIOT

Two souls diverse out of our human sight
Pass, followed one with love and each with wonder:
The stormy sophist with his mouth of thunder,
Clothed with loud words and mantled in the might

Of darkness and magnificence of night;
And one whose eye could smite the night in sunder,
Searching if light or no light were thereunder,
And found in love of loving-kindness light.
Duty divine and Thought with eyes of fire
Still following Righteousness with deep desire
Shone sole and stern before her and above,
Sure stars and sole to steer by; but more sweet
Shone lower the loveliest lamp for earthly feet,
The light of little children, and their love.

Algernon Charles Swinburne [1837–1909]

AT THE GRAVE OF CHAMPERNOWNE

[1614–1687]

HERE poise, like flowers on flowers, the butterflies;
The grasshopper on crookèd crutch leaps up,
The wild bees hum above the clover cup,
The fox-grape wreathes the fence in green disguise
Of ruin; and antique plants set out in tears,
Pink, guelder-rose, and myrtle's purple bells
Struggle 'mid grass and their own wasting years
To show the grave that no inscription tells.
Here rest the bones of Francis Champernowne;
The blazonry of Norman kings he bore;
His fathers builded many a tower and town,
And after Senlac England's lords. Now o'er
His island cairn the lonesome forests frown,
And sailless seas beat the untrodden shore.

John Albee [1833–1915]

THE OPENING OF THE TOMB OF CHARLEMAGNE

[742–814]

AMID the cloistered gloom of Aachen's aisle
Stood Otho, Germany's imperial lord,
Regarding, with a melancholy smile,
A simple stone, where, fitly to record

A world of action by a single word,
Was graven "Carlo-Magno." Regal style
Was needed none; that name such thoughts restored
As sadden, yet make nobler, men the while.
They rolled the marble back. With sudden gasp,
A moment o'er the vault the Kaiser bent,
Where still a mortal monarch seemed to reign.
Crowned on his throne, a scepter in his grasp,
Perfect in each gigantic lineament,
Otho looked face to face on Charlemagne.

Aubrey De Vere [1788–1846]

BY THE STATUE OF KING CHARLES AT CHARING CROSS

[1600–1649]

Sombre and rich, the skies;
Great glooms, and starry plains.
Gently the night wind sighs;
Else a vast silence reigns.

The splendid silence clings
Around me: and around
The saddest of all kings
Crowned, and again discrowned.

Comely and calm, he rides
Hard by his own Whitehall:
Only the night wind glides:
No crowds, nor rebels, brawl.

Gone, too, his Court: and yet,
The stars his courtiers are:
Stars in their stations set;
And every wandering star.

Alone he rides, alone,
The fair and fatal king:
Dark night is all his own,
That strange and solemn thing.

Which are more full of fate:
The stars; or those sad eyes?
Which are more still and great:
Those brows; or the dark skies?

Although his whole heart yearn
In passionate tragedy:
Never was face so stern
With sweet austerity.

Vanquished in life, his death
By beauty made amends:
The passing of his breath
Won his defeated ends.

Brief life, and hapless? Nay:
Through death, life grew sublime.
Speak after sentence? Yea:
And to the end of time.

Armored he rides, his head
Bare to the stars of doom:
He triumphs now, the dead,
Beholding London's gloom.

Our wearier spirit faints,
Vexed in the world's employ:
His soul was of the saints;
And art to him was joy.

King, tried in fires of woe!
Men hunger for thy grace:
And through the night I go,
Loving thy mournful face.

Yet, when the city sleeps;
When all the cries are still:
The stars and heavenly deeps
Work out a perfect will.

Lionel Johnson [1867–1902]

CHAVEZ

(Georges Chavez, after crossing the Alps in his aëroplane, fell and was killed Sept. 23, 1910.)

So hath he fallen, the Endymion of the air,
And so lies down in slumber lapped for aye.
Diana, passing, found his youth too fair,
His soul too fleet and willing to obey.
She swung her golden moon before his eyes—
Dreaming, he rose to follow—and ran—and was away.

His foot was winged as the mounting sun.
Earth he disdained—the dusty ways of men
Not yet had learned. His spirit longed to run
With the bright clouds, his brothers, to answer when
The airs were fleetest and could give him hand
Into the starry fields beyond our plodding ken.

All wittingly that glorious way he chose,
And loved the peril when it was most bright.
He tried anew the long-forbidden snows
And like an eagle topped the dropping height
Of Nagenhorn, and still toward Italy
Past peak and cliff pressed on, in glad, unerring flight.

Oh when the bird lies low with golden wing
Bruised past healing by some bitter chance,
Still must its tireless spirit mount and sing
Of meadows green with morning, of the dance
On windy trees, the darting flight away,
And of that last, most blue, triumphant downward glance.

So murmuring of the snow: "The snow, and more,
O God, more snow!" on that last field he lay.
Despair and wonder spent their passionate store
In his great heart, through heaven gone astray,
And early lost. Too far the golden moon
Had swung upon that bright, that long, untraversed way.

Now to lie ended on the murmuring plain—
Ah, this for his bold heart was not the loss,
But that those windy fields he ne'er again
Might try, nor fleet and shimmering mountains cross,
Unfollowed, by a path none other knew:
His bitter woe had here its deep and piteous cause.

Dear toils of youth unfinished! And songs unwritten left
By young and passionate hearts! O melodies
Unheard, whereof we ever stand bereft!
Clear-singing Schubert, boyish Keats—with these
He roams henceforth, one with the starry band,
Still paying to fairy call and far command
His spirit heed, still winged with golden prophecies.

Mildred McNeal Sweeney [1871–

COLERIDGE

[1772–1834]

I SEE thee pine like her in golden story
Who, in her prison, woke and saw, one day,
The gates thrown open—saw the sunbeams play,
With only a web 'tween her and summer's glory;
Who, when that web—so frail, so transitory
It broke before her breath—had fallen away,
Saw other webs and others rise for aye
Which kept her prisoned till her hair was hoary.
Those songs half-sung that yet were all divine—
That woke Romance, the queen, to reign afresh—
Had been but preludes from that lyre of thine,
Could thy rare spirit's wings have pierced the mesh
Spun by the wizard who compels the flesh,
But lets the poet see how heaven can shine.

Theodore Watts-Dunton [1836–1914]

COWPER'S GRAVE

[1731–1800]

IT is a place where poets crowned may feel the heart's decaying;
It is a place where happy saints may weep amid their praying;

Yet let the grief and humbleness as low as silence languish:
Earth surely now may give her calm to whom she gave her anguish.

O poets, from a maniac's tongue was poured the deathless singing!
O Christians, at your cross of hope a hopeless hand was clinging!
O men, this man in brotherhood your weary paths beguiling,
Groaned inly while he taught you peace, and died while ye were smiling!

And now, what time ye all may read through dimming tears his story,
How discord on the music fell and darkness on the glory,
And how when, one by one, sweet sounds and wandering lights departed,
He wore no less a loving face, because so broken-hearted.

He shall be strong to sanctify the poet's high vocation,
And bow the meekest Christian down in meeker adoration;
Nor ever shall he be, in praise, by wise or good forsaken,
Named softly as the household name of one whom God hath taken.

With quiet sadness and no gloom, I learn to think upon him,
With meekness that is gratefulness to God whose heaven hath won him,
Who suffered once the madness-cloud to his own love to blind him,
But gently led the blind along where breath and bird could find him;

And wrought within his shattered brain such quick poetic senses
As hills have language for, and stars, harmonious influences;
The pulse of dew upon the grass kept his within its number,
And silent shadows from the trees refreshed him like a slumber.

Wild timid hares were drawn from woods to share his home-
caresses,
Uplooking to his human eyes with sylvan tendernesses:
The very world, by God's constraint, from falsehood's ways
removing,
Its women and its men became, beside him, true and loving.

And though, in blindness, he remained unconscious of that guiding,
And things provided came without the sweet sense of providing,
He testified this solemn truth, while frenzy desolated,
—Nor man nor nature satisfies, whom only God created.

Like a sick child that knoweth not his mother while she blesses
And drops upon his burning brow the coolness of her kisses,—
That turns his fevered eyes around,—"My mother! where's my mother?"—
As if such tender words and deeds could come from any other!—

The fever gone, with leaps of heart, he sees her bending o'er
him,
Her face all pale from watchful love, the unweary love she bore him!
Thus woke the poet from the dream his life's long fever gave him,
Beneath those deep, pathetic Eyes which closed in death to save him!

Thus? oh, not thus! no type of earth can image that awak-
ing,
Wherein he scarcely heard the chant of seraphs, round him breaking,
Or felt the new immortal throb of soul from body parted,
But felt those eyes alone, and knew—"My Saviour! not deserted!"

Deserted! Who hath dreamt that when the cross in darkness rested,
Upon the Victim's hidden face no love was manifested?
What frantic hands outstretched have e'er the atoning drops averted?
What tears have washed them from the soul, that one should be deserted?

Deserted! God could separate from His own essence rather;
And Adam's sins have swept between the righteous Son and Father:
Yea, once, Immanuel's orphaned cry his universe hath shaken—
It went up single, echoless, "My God, I am forsaken!"

It went up from the Holy's lips amid His lost creation,
That, of the lost, no son should use those words of desolation!
That Earth's worst frenzies, marring hope, should mar not hope's fruition,
And I, on Cowper's grave, should see his rapture in a vision.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning [1806–1861]

ON A BUST OF DANTE

[1265–1321]

See, from this counterfeit of him
Whom Arno shall remember long,
How stern of lineament, how grim,
The father was of Tuscan song:
There but the burning sense of wrong,
Perpetual care, and scorn, abide—
Small friendship for the lordly throng;
Distrust of all the world beside.

Faithful if this wan image be,
No dream his life was—but a fight;
Could any Beatrice see
A lover in that anchorite?

To that cold Ghibelline's gloomy sight
Who could have guessed the visions came
Of Beauty, veiled with heavenly light,
In circles of eternal flame?

The lips as Cumæ's cavern close,
The cheeks with fast and sorrow thin,
The rigid front, almost morose,
But for the patient hope within,
Declare a life whose course hath been
Unsullied still, though still severe,
Which, through the wavering days of sin,
Kept itself icy-chaste and clear.

Not wholly such his haggard look
When wandering once, forlorn, he strayed,
With no companion save his book,
To Corvo's hushed monastic shade;
Where, as the Benedictine laid
His palm upon the convent's guest,
The single boon for which he prayed
Was peace, that pilgrim's one request.

Peace dwells not here—this rugged face
Betrays no spirit of repose;
The sullen warrior sole we trace,
The marble man of many woes.
Such was his mien when first arose
The thought of that strange tale divine—
When hell he peopled with his foes,
Dread scourge of many a guilty line.

War to the last he waged with all
The tyrant canker-worms of earth;
Baron and duke, in hold and hall,
Cursed the dark hour that gave him birth;
He used Rome's harlot for his mirth;
Plucked bare hypocrisy and crime;
But valiant souls of knightly worth
Transmitted to the rolls of Time.

O Time! whose verdicts mock our own,
The only righteous judge art thou;
That poor, old exile, sad and lone,
Is Latium's other Virgil now.
Before his name the nations bow;
His words are parcel of mankind,
Deep in whose hearts, as on his brow,
The marks have sunk of Dante's mind.

Thomas William Parsons [1819–1892]

DICKENS IN CAMP

[1812–1870]

Above the pines the moon was slowly drifting,
The river sang below;
The dim Sierras, far beyond, uplifting
Their minarets of snow.

The roaring camp-fire, with rude humor, painted
The ruddy tints of health
On haggard face and form that drooped and fainted
In the fierce race for wealth;

Till one arose, and from his pack's scant treasure
A hoarded volume drew,
And cards were dropped from hands of listless leisure,
To hear the tale anew.

And then, while round them shadows gathered faster,
And as the firelight fell,
He read aloud the book wherein the Master
Had writ of "Little Nell."

Perhaps 'twas boyish fancy,—for the reader
Was youngest of them all,—
But, as he read, from clustering pine and cedar
A silence seemed to fall;

The fir-trees, gathering closer in the shadows,
Listened in every spray,

While the whole camp, with "Nell," on English meadows
Wandered and lost their way.

And so in mountain solitudes—o'ertaken
As by some spell divine—
Their cares dropped from them like the needles shaken
From out the gusty pine.

Lost is that camp, and wasted all its fire:
And he who wrought that spell?—
Ah, towering pine and stately Kentish spire,
Ye have one tale to tell!

Lost is that camp, but let its fragrant story
Blend with the breath that thrills
With hop-vine's incense all the pensive glory
That fills the Kentish hills.

And on that grave where English oak and holly
And laurel wreaths entwine,
Deem it not all a too presumptuous folly—
This spray of Western pine!

Bret Harte [1839–1902]

DRAKE'S DRUM

[SIR FRANCIS DRAKE, 1540?–1596]

DRAKE he's in his hammock an' a thousand mile away,
(Capten, art tha sleepin' there below?),
Slung atween the round shot in Nombre Dios Bay,
An' dreamin' arl the time o' Plymouth Hoe.
Yarnder lumes the Island, yarnder lie the ships,
Wi' sailor lads a-dancin' heel-an'-toe,
An' the shore-lights flashin', an' the night-tide dashin',
He sees et arl so plainly as he saw et long ago.

Drake he was a Devon man, an' ruled the Devon seas,
(Capten, art tha sleepin' there below?),
Rovin' though his death fell, he went wi' heart at ease,
An' dreamin' arl the time o' Plymouth Hoe.

"Take my drum to England, hang et by the shore,
Strike et when your powder's runnin' low;
If the Dons sight Devon, I'll quit the port o' Heaven,
An' drum them up the Channel as we drummed them long ago."

Drake he's in his hammock till the great Armadas come,
(Capten, art tha sleepin' there below?),
Slung atween the round shot, listenin' for the drum,
An' dreamin' arl the time o' Plymouth Hoe.
Call him on the deep sea, call him up the Sound,
Call him when ye sail to meet the foe;
Where the old trade's plyin' an' the old flag flyin',
They shall find him ware an' wakin', as they found him long ago!

Henry Newbolt [1862–

ON THE DEATH OF JOSEPH RODMAN DRAKE

[1795–1820]

GREEN be the turf above thee,
Friend of my better days!
None knew thee but to love thee,
Nor named thee but to praise.

Tears fell, when thou wert dying,
From eyes unused to weep,
And long where thou art lying,
Will tears the cold turf steep.

When hearts, whose truth was proven,
Like thine, are laid in earth,
There should a wreath be woven
To tell the world their worth;

And I, who woke each morrow
To clasp thy hand in mine,
Who shared thy joy and sorrow,
Whose weal and woe were thine:

It should be mine to braid it
Around thy faded brow,
But I've in vain essayed it,
And feel I cannot now.

While memory bids me weep thee,
Nor thoughts nor words are free,
The grief is fixed too deeply
That mourns a man like thee.

Fitz-Greene Halleck [1790–1867]

"OH, BREATHE NOT HIS NAME!"

[ROBERT EMMET, 1778–1803]

Oh, breathe not his name! let it sleep in the shade,
Where cold and unhonored his relics are laid;
Sad, silent, and dark be the tears that we shed,
As the night-dew that falls on the grave o'er his head.

But the night-dew that falls, though in silence it weeps,
Shall brighten with verdure the grave where he sleeps;
And the tear that we shed, though in secret it rolls,
Shall long keep his memory green in our souls.

Thomas Moore [1779–1852]

VANQUISHED

[ULYSSES S. GRANT, 1822–1885]

Not by the ball or brand
Sped by a mortal hand,
Not by the lightning stroke
When fiery tempests broke,—
Not mid the ranks of war
Fell the great Conqueror.

Unmoved, undismayed,
In the crash and carnage of the cannonade,—
Eye that dimmed not, hand that failed not,

Brain that swerved not, heart that quailed not,
Steel nerve, iron form,—
The dauntless spirit that o'erruled the storm.

While the Hero peaceful slept
A foeman to his chamber crept,
Lightly to the slumberer came,
Touched his brow and breathed his name:
O'er the stricken form there passed
Suddenly an icy blast.

The Hero woke: rose undismayed:
Saluted Death, and sheathed his blade.

The Conqueror of a hundred fields
To a mightier Conqueror yields;
No mortal foeman's blow
Laid the great Soldier low;
Victor in his latest breath—
Vanquished but by Death.

Francis Fisher Browne [1843–1913]

O. HENRY

[WILLIAM SIDNEY PORTER, 1862–1910]

"He could not forget that he was a Sidney."

Is this Sir Philip Sidney, this loud clown,
The darling of the glad and gaping town?

This is that dubious hero of the press
Whose slangy tongue and insolent address
Were spiced to rouse on Sunday afternoon
The man with yellow journals round him strewn.
We laughed and dozed, then roused and read again
And vowed O. Henry funniest of men.
He always worked a triple-hinged surprise
To end the scene and make one rub his eyes

He comes with vaudeville, with stare and leer.
He comes with megaphone and specious cheer.
His troupe, too fat or short or long or lean,
Step from the pages of the magazine
With slapstick or sombrero or with cane,
The rube, the cowboy or the masher vain.
They overact each part. But at the height
Of revel and absurdity's delight
The masks fall off for one queer instant there
And show real faces: faces full of care
And desperate longing; love that's hot or cold;
And subtle thoughts, and countenances bold.
The masks go back. 'Tis one joke more.
Laugh on!
The goodly grown-up company is gone.

No doubt, had he occasion to address
The brilliant court of purple-clad Queen Bess,
He would have wrought for them the best he knew
And led more loftily his actor-crew.
How coolly he misquoted. 'Twas his art:
Slave-scholar, who misquoted—from the heart!
So when he slapped his back with friendly roar
Æsop awaited him, without the door,—
Æsop the Greek, who made dull masters laugh
With little tales of fox and dog and calf.

And, be it said, 'mid these his pranks so odd,
With something nigh to chivalry he trod,
And oft the drear and driven would defend—
The little shop-girl's knight, unto the end.
Yea, he had passed, ere we could understand
The blade of Sidney glimmered in his hand.
Yea, ere we knew, Sir Philip's sword was drawn
With valiant cut and thrust, and he was gone.

Vachel Lindsay [1879–

ADONAIS

[JOHN KEATS, 1795–1821]

I WEEP for Adonais—he is dead!
Oh, weep for Adonais! though our tears
Thaw not the frost which binds so dear a head!
And thou, sad Hour, selected from all years
To mourn our loss, rouse thy obscure compeers,
And teach them thine own sorrow. Say: "With me
Died Adonais; till the Future dares
Forget the Past, his fate and fame shall be
An echo and a light unto eternity!"

Where wert thou, mighty Mother, when he lay,
When thy Son lay, pierced by the shaft which flies
In darkness? where was lorn Urania
When Adonais died? With veilèd eyes,
'Mid listening Echoes, in her Paradise
She sate, while one, with soft enamored breath,
Rekindled all the fading melodies,
With which, like flowers that mock the corse beneath,
He had adorned and hid the coming bulk of death.

Oh, weep for Adonais—he is dead!
Wake, melancholy Mother, wake and weep!
Yet wherefore? Quench within their burning bed
Thy fiery tears, and let thy loud heart keep
Like his, a mute and uncomplaining sleep;
For he is gone where all things wise and fair
Descend. Oh, dream not that the amorous Deep
Will yet restore him to the vital air;
Death feeds on his mute voice, and laughs at our despair.

Most musical of mourners, weep again!
Lament anew, Urania!—He died,
Who was the Sire of an immortal strain,
Blind, old, and lonely, when his country's pride

The priest, the slave, and the liberticide
Trampled and mocked with many a loathèd rite
Of lust and blood; he went, unterrified,
Into the gulf of death; but his clear Sprite
Yet reigns o'er earth, the third among the sons of light.

Most musical of mourners, weep anew!
Not all to that bright station dared to climb;
And happier they their happiness who knew,
Whose tapers yet burn through that night of time
In which suns perished; others more sublime,
Struck by the envious wrath of man or God,
Have sunk, extinct in their refulgent prime;
And some yet live, treading the thorny road,
Which leads, through toil and hate, to Fame's serene abode.

But now, thy youngest, dearest one has perished,
The nursling of thy widowhood, who grew,
Like a pale flower by some sad maiden cherished,
And fed with true-love tears, instead of dew;
Most musical of mourners, weep anew!
Thy extreme hope, the loveliest and the last,
The bloom, whose petals, nipped before they blew,
Died on the promise of the fruit, is waste;
The broken lily lies—the storm is overpast.

To that high Capital, where kingly Death
Keeps his pale court in beauty and decay,
He came; and bought, with price of purest breath,
A grave among the eternal.—Come away!
Haste, while the vault of blue Italian day
Is yet his fitting charnel-roof! while still
He lies, as if in dewy sleep he lay;
Awake him not! surely he takes his fill
Of deep and liquid rest, forgetful of all ill.

He will awake no more, oh, never more!
Within the twilight chamber spreads apace
The shadow of white Death, and at the door
Invisible Corruption waits to trace

His extreme way to her dim dwelling-place;
The eternal Hunger sits, but pity and awe
Soothe her pale rage, nor dares she to deface
So fair a prey, till darkness and the law
Of change, shall o'er his sleep the mortal curtain draw.

Oh, weep for Adonais!—The quick Dreams,
The passion-wingèd ministers of thought,
Who were his flocks, whom near the living streams
Of his young spirit he fed, and whom he taught
The love which was its music, wander not,—
Wander no more, from kindling brain to brain,
But droop there, whence they sprung; and mourn their lot
Round the cold heart, where, after their sweet pain,
They ne'er will gather strength, or find a home again.

And one with trembling hands clasps his cold head,
And fans him with her moonlight wings, and cries,
"Our love, our hope, our sorrow, is not dead;
See, on the silken fringe of his faint eyes,
Like dew upon a sleeping flower, there lies
A tear some Dream has loosened from his brain."
Lost Angel of a ruined Paradise!
She knew not 'twas her own; as with no stain
She faded, like a cloud which had outwept its rain.

One from a lucid urn of starry dew
Washed his light limbs as if embalming them;
Another clipped her profuse locks, and threw
The wreath upon him, like an anadem,
Which frozen tears instead of pearls begem;
Another in her wilful grief would break
Her bow and wingèd reeds, as if to stem
A greater loss with one which was more weak;
And dull the barbèd fire against his frozen cheek.

Another Splendor on his mouth alit,
That mouth, whence it was wont to draw the breath
Which gave it strength to pierce the guarded wit,
And pass into the panting heart beneath

With lightning and with music: the damp death
Quenched its caress upon his icy lips;
And, as a dying meteor stains a wreath
Of moonlight vapor, which the cold night clips,
It flushed through his pale limbs, and passed to its eclipse.

And others came . . . Desires and Adorations,
Winged Persuasions and veiled Destinies,
Splendors, and Glooms, and glimmering Incarnations
Of hopes and fears, and twilight Fantasies;
And Sorrow, with her family of Sighs,
And Pleasure, blind with tears, led by the gleam
Of her own dying smile instead of eyes,
Came in slow pomp;—the moving pomp might seem
Like pageantry of mist on an autumnal stream.

All he had loved, and molded into thought,
From shape, and hue, and odor, and sweet sound,
Lamented Adonais. Morning sought
Her eastern watch-tower, and her hair unbound,
Wet with the tears which should adorn the ground,
Dimmed the aërial eyes that kindle day;
Afar the melancholy thunder moaned,
Pale Ocean in unquiet slumber lay,
And the wild winds flew round, sobbing in their dismay.

Lost Echo sits amid the voiceless mountains,
And feeds her grief with his remembered lay,
And will no more reply to winds or fountains,
Or amorous birds perched on the young green spray,
Or herdsman's horn, or bell at closing day;
Since she can mimic not his lips, more dear
Than those for whose disdain she pined away
Into a shadow of all sounds:—a drear
Murmur, between their songs, is all the woodmen hear.

Grief made the young Spring wild, and she threw down
Her kindling buds, as if she Autumn were,
Or they dead leaves; since her delight is flown,
For whom should she have waked the sullen year?

To Phœbus was not Hyacinth so dear,
Nor to himself Narcissus, as to both
Thou, Adonais; wan they stand and sere
Amid the faint companions of their youth,
With dew all turned to tears; odor, to sighing ruth.

Thy spirit's sister, the lorn nightingale,
Mourns not her mate with such melodious pain;
Not so the eagle, who like thee could scale
Heaven, and could nourish in the sun's domain
Her mighty youth with morning, doth complain,
Soaring and screaming round her empty nest,
As Albion wails for thee: the curse of Cain
Light on his head who pierced thy innocent breast,
And scared the angel soul that was its earthly guest!

Ah woe is me! Winter is come and gone,
But grief returns with the revolving year;
The airs and streams renew their joyous tone;
The ants, the bees, the swallows reappear;
Fresh leaves and flowers deck the dead Seasons' bier;
The amorous birds now pair in every brake,
And build their mossy homes in field and brere;
And the green lizard and the golden snake,
Like unimprisoned flames, out of their trance awake.

Through wood and stream and field and hill and Ocean,
A quickening life from the Earth's heart has burst;
As it has ever done, with change and motion,
From the great morning of the world when first
God dawned on Chaos; in its stream immersed
The lamps of Heaven flash with a softer light;
All baser things pant with life's sacred thirst,
Diffuse themselves, and spend in love's delight,
The beauty and the joy of their renewèd might.

The leprous corpse, touched by this spirit tender,
Exhales itself in flowers of gentle breath;
Like incarnations of the stars, when splendor
Is changed to fragrance, they illumine death

And mock the merry worm that wakes beneath.
Naught we know, dies. Shall that alone which knows
Be as a sword consumed before the sheath
By sightless lightning?—the intense atom glows
A moment, then is quenched in a most cold repose.

Alas! that all we loved of him should be,
But for our grief, as if it had not been,
And grief itself be mortal! Woe is me!
Whence are we, and why are we? of what scene
The actors or spectators? Great and mean
Meet massed in death, who lends what life must borrow.
As long as skies are blue, and fields are green,
Evening must usher night, night urge the morrow,
Month follow month with woe, and year wake year to sorrow.

He will awake no more, oh, never more!
"Wake thou," cried Misery, "childless Mother, rise
Out of thy sleep, and slake, in thy heart's core,
A wound more fierce than his with tears and sighs."
And all the Dreams that watched Urania's eyes,
And all the Echoes whom their sister's song
Had held in holy silence, cried, "Arise!"
Swift as a Thought by the snake Memory stung,
From her ambrosial rest the fading Splendor sprung.

She rose like an autumnal Night, that springs
Out of the East, and follows wild and drear
The golden Day, which, on eternal wings,
Even as a ghost abandoning a bier,
Had left the Earth a corpse.—Sorrow and fear
So struck, so roused, so rapt Urania;
So saddened round her like an atmosphere
Of stormy mist; so swept her on her way
Even to the mournful place where Adonais lay.

Out of her secret Paradise she sped,
Through camps and cities rough with stone, and steel,
And human hearts which, to her airy tread

Yielding not, wounded the invisible
Palms of her tender feet where'er they fell;
And barbèd tongues, and thoughts more sharp than they,
Rent the soft Form they never could repel,
Whose sacred blood, like the young tears of May,
Paved with eternal flowers that undeserving way.

In the death-chamber for a moment Death,
Shamed by the presence of that living Might,
Blushed to annihilation, and the breath
Revisited those lips, and life's pale light
Flashed through those limbs, so late her dear delight.
"Leave me not wild and drear and comfortless,
As silent lightning leaves the starless night!
Leave me not!" cried Urania; her distress
Roused Death; Death rose and smiled, and met her vain caress.

"Stay yet awhile! speak to me once again;
Kiss me, so long but as a kiss may live;
And in my heartless breast and burning brain
That word, that kiss, shall all thoughts else survive,
With food of saddest memory kept alive,
Now thou art dead, as if it were a part
Of thee, my Adonais! I would give
All that I am to be as thou now art!
But I am chained to Time, and cannot thence depart!

"O gentle child, beautiful as thou wert,
Why didst thou leave the trodden paths of men
Too soon, and with weak hands though mighty heart
Dare the unpastured dragon in his den?
Defenseless as thou wert, oh, where was then
Wisdom the mirrored shield, or scorn the spear?
Or hadst thou waited the full cycle, when
Thy spirit should have filled its crescent sphere,
The monsters of life's waste had fled from thee like deer.

"The herded wolves, bold only to pursue;
The obscene ravens, clamorous o'er the dead;
The vultures, to the conqueror's banner true,

Who feed where Desolation first has fed,
And whose wings rain contagion;—how they fled,
When, like Apollo, from his golden bow
The Pythian of the age one arrow sped
And smiled!—The spoilers tempt no second blow,
They fawn on the proud feet that spurn them lying low.

"The sun comes forth, and many reptiles spawn;
He sets, and each ephemeral insect then
Is gathered into death without a dawn,
And the immortal stars awake again;
So is it in the world of living men:
A godlike mind soars forth, in its delight
Making earth bare and veiling heaven, and when
It sinks, the swarms that dimmed or shared its light
Leave to its kindred lamps the spirit's awful night."

Thus ceased she: and the mountain shepherds came,
Their garlands sere, their magic mantles rent;
The Pilgrim of Eternity, whose fame
Over his living head like Heaven is bent,
An early but enduring monument,
Came, veiling all the lightnings of his song
In sorrow; from her wilds Ierne sent
The sweetest lyrist of her saddest wrong,
And love taught grief to fall like music from his tongue.

Midst others of less note, came one frail Form,
A phantom among men; companionless
As the last cloud of an expiring storm
Whose thunder is its knell; he, as I guess,
Had gazed on Nature's naked loveliness,
Actæon-like, and now he fled astray
With feeble steps o'er the world's wilderness,
And his own thoughts, along that rugged way,
Pursued, like raging hounds, their father and their prey.

A pardlike Spirit beautiful and swift—
A Love in desolation masked;—a Power
Girt round with weakness;—it can scarce uplift

The weight of the superincumbent hour;
It is a dying lamp, a falling shower,
A breaking billow;—even whilst we speak
Is it not broken? On the withering flower
The killing sun smiles brightly: on a cheek
The life can burn in blood, even while the heart may break.

His head was bound with pansies overblown,
And faded violets, white, and pied, and blue;
And a light spear topped with a cypress cone,
Round whose rude shaft dark ivy tresses grew
Yet dripping with the forest's noonday dew,
Vibrated, as the ever-beating heart
Shook the weak hand that grasped it; of that crew
He came the last, neglected and apart;
A herd-abandoned deer struck by the hunter's dart.

All stood aloof, and at his partial moan
Smiled through their tears; well knew that gentle band
Who in another's fate now wept his own,
As in the accents of an unknown land
He sung new sorrow; sad Urania scanned
The Stranger's mien, and murmured: "Who art thou?"
He answered not, but with a sudden hand
Made bare his branded and ensanguined brow,
Which was like Cain's or Christ's—oh! that it should be so!

What softer voice is hushed over the dead?
Athwart what brow is that dark mantle thrown?
What form leans sadly o'er the white death-bed,
In mockery of monumental stone,
The heavy heart heaving without a moan?
If it be He, who, gentlest of the wise,
Taught, soothed, loved, honored the departed one;
Let me not vex with inharmonious sighs
The silence of that heart's accepted sacrifice.

Our Adonais has drunk poison—oh,
What deaf and viperous murderer could crown
Life's early cup with such a draught of woe?

The nameless worm would now itself disown;
It felt, yet could escape the magic tone
Whose prelude held all envy, hate and wrong,
But what was howling in one breast alone,
Silent with expectation of the song,
Whose master's hand is cold, whose silver lyre unstrung.

Live thou, whose infamy is not thy fame!
Live! fear no heavier chastisement from me,
Thou noteless blot on a remembered name!
But be thyself, and know thyself to be!
And ever at thy season be thou free
To spill the venom when thy fangs o'erflow;
Remorse and Self-contempt shall cling to thee;
Hot Shame shall burn upon thy secret brow,
And like a beaten hound tremble thou shalt—as now.

Nor let us weep that our delight is fled
Far from these carrion kites that scream below;
He wakes or sleeps with the enduring dead;
Thou canst not soar where he is sitting now.
Dust to the dust! but the pure spirit shall flow
Back to the burning fountain whence it came,
A portion of the Eternal, which must glow
Through time and change, unquenchably the same,
Whilst thy cold embers choke the sordid hearth of shame.

Peace, peace! he is not dead, he doth not sleep—
He hath awakened from the dream of life—
'Tis we, who, lost in stormy visions, keep
With phantoms an unprofitable strife,
And in mad trance, strike with our spirit's knife
Invulnerable nothings. We decay
Like corpses in a charnel; fear and grief
Convulse us and consume us day by day,
And cold hopes swarm like worms within our living clay.

He has outsoared the shadow of our night;
Envy and calumny and hate and pain,
And that unrest which men miscall delight,

Can touch him not and torture not again;
From the contagion of the world's slow stain
He is secure, and now can never mourn
A heart grown cold, a head grown gray in vain;
Nor, when the spirit's self has ceased to burn,
With sparkless ashes load an unlamented urn.

He lives, he wakes—'tis Death is dead, not he;
Mourn not for Adonais.—Thou young Dawn,
Turn all thy dew to splendor, for from thee
The spirit thou lamentest is not gone;
Ye caverns and ye forests, cease to moan!
Cease, ye faint flowers and fountains, and thou Air,
Which like a mourning veil thy scarf hadst thrown
O'er the abandoned Earth, now leave it bare
Even to the joyous stars which smile on its despair!

He is made one with Nature: there is heard
His voice in all her music, from the moan
Of thunder, to the song of night's sweet bird;
He is a presence to be felt and known
In darkness and in light, from herb and stone,
Spreading itself where'er that Power may move
Which has withdrawn his being to its own;
Which wields the world with never-wearied love,
Sustains it from beneath, and kindles it above.

He is a portion of the loveliness
Which once he made more lovely: he doth bear
His part, while the one Spirit's plastic stress
Sweeps through the dull dense world, compelling there,
All new successions to the forms they wear;
Torturing the unwilling dross that checks its flight
To its own likeness, as each mass may bear,
And bursting in its beauty and its might
From trees and beasts and men into the Heaven's light.

The splendors of the firmament of time
May be eclipsed, but are extinguished not;
Like stars to their appointed height they climb,

And death is a low mist which cannot blot
The brightness it may veil. When lofty thought
Lifts a young heart above its mortal lair,
And love and life contend in it, for what
Shall be its earthly doom, the dead live there
And move like winds of light on dark and stormy air.

The inheritors of unfulfilled renown
Rose from their thrones, built beyond mortal thought,
Far in the Unapparent. Chatterton
Rose pale,—his solemn agony had not
Yet faded from him; Sidney, as he fought
And as he fell and as he lived and loved,
Sublimely mild, a Spirit without spot,
Arose; and Lucan, by his death approved;
Oblivion as they rose shrank like a thing reproved.

And many more, whose names on Earth are dark,
But whose transmitted effluence cannot die
So long as fire outlives the parent spark,
Rose, robed in dazzling immortality.
"Thou art become as one of us," they cry;
"It was for thee yon kingless sphere has long
Swung blind in unascended majesty,
Silent alone amid an Heaven of song.
Assume thy wingèd throne, thou Vesper of our throng!"

Who mourns for Adonais? oh, come forth,
Fond wretch! and know thyself and him aright.
Clasp with thy panting soul the pendulous Earth;
As from a center, dart thy spirit's light
Beyond all worlds, until its spacious might
Satiate the void circumference; then shrink
Even to a point within our day and night;
And keep thy heart light lest it make thee sink
When hope has kindled hope, and lured thee to the brink.

Or go to Rome, which is the sepulchre
Oh, not of him, but of our joy: 'tis naught
That ages, empires, and religions there
Lie buried in the ravage they have wrought;
For such as he can lend,—they borrow not

Glory from those who made the world their prey;
And he is gathered to the kings of thought
Who waged contention with their time's decay,
And of the past are all that cannot pass away.

Go thou to Rome,—at once the Paradise,
The grave, the city, and the wilderness;
And where its wrecks like shattered mountains rise,
And flowering weeds, and fragrant copses dress
The bones of Desolation's nakedness,
Pass, till the Spirit of the spot shall lead
Thy footsteps to a slope of green access,
Where, like an infant's smile, over the dead
A light of laughing flowers along the grass is spread.

And gray walls molder round, on which dull Time
Feeds, like slow fire upon a hoary brand;
And one keen pyramid with wedge sublime,
Pavilioning the dust of him who planned
This refuge for his memory, doth stand
Like flame transformed to marble; and beneath
A field is spread, on which a newer band
Have pitched in Heaven's smile their camp of death,
Welcoming him we lose with scarce extinguished breath.

Here pause: these graves are all too young as yet
To have outgrown the sorrow which consigned
Its charge to each; and if the seal is set,
Here, on one fountain of a mourning mind,
Break it not thou! too surely shalt thou find
Thine own well full, if thou returnest home,
Of tears and gall. From the world's bitter wind
Seek shelter in the shadow of the tomb.
What Adonais is, why fear we to become?

The One remains, the many change and pass;
Heaven's light forever shines, Earth's shadows fly;
Life, like a dome of many-colored glass,
Stains the white radiance of Eternity,
Until Death tramples it to fragments.—Die,
If thou wouldst be with that which thou dost seek!
Follow where all is fled!—Rome's azure sky,

Flowers, ruins, statues, music, words, are weak
The glory they transfuse with fitting truth to speak.

Why linger, why turn back, why shrink, my Heart?
Thy hopes are gone before; from all things here
They have departed; thou shouldst now depart!
A light is passed from the revolving year,
And man, and woman; and what still is dear
Attracts to crush, repels to make thee wither.
The soft sky smiles,—the low wind whispers near;
'Tis Adonais calls! oh, hasten thither,
No more let Life divide what Death can join together.

That Light whose smile kindles the Universe,
That Beauty in which all things work and move,
That Benediction which the eclipsing Curse
Of birth can quench not, that sustaining Love
Which through the web of being blindly wove
By man and beast and earth and air and sea,
Burns bright or dim, as each are mirrors of
The fire for which all thirst, now beams on me,
Consuming the last clouds of cold mortality.

The breath whose might I have invoked in song
Descends on me; my spirit's bark is driven
Far from the shore, far from the trembling throng
Whose sails were never to the tempest given;
The massy earth and spherèd skies are riven!
I am borne darkly, fearfully, afar;
Whilst, burning through the inmost veil of Heaven,
The soul of Adonais, like a star,
Beacons from the abode where the Eternal are.

Percy Bysshe Shelley [1792–1822]

TO THE SISTER OF ELIA

[CHARLES LAMB, 1775–1834]

COMFORT thee, O thou mourner, yet awhile!
Again shall Elia's smile
Refresh thy heart, where heart can ache no more.
What is it we deplore?

He leaves behind him, freed from griefs and years,
Far worthier things than tears.
The love of friends without a single foe:
Unequaled lot below!

His gentle soul, his genius, these are thine;
For these dost thou repine?
He may have left the lowly walks of men;
Left them he has; what then?

Are not his footsteps followed by the eyes
Of all the good and wise?
Though the warm day is over, yet they seek
Upon the lofty peak

Of his pure mind the roseate light that glows
O'er death's perennial snows.
Behold him! from the region of the blest
He speaks: he bids thee rest.

Walter Savage Landor [1775–1864]

IN MEMORY OF WALTER SAVAGE LANDOR

[1775–1864]

Back to the flower-town, side by side,
The bright months bring,
New-born, the bridegroom and the bride,
Freedom and spring.

The sweet land laughs from sea to sea,
Filled full of sun;
All things come back to her, being free;
All things but one.

In many a tender wheaten plot
Flowers that were dead
Live, and old suns revive; but not
That holier head.

By this white wandering waste of sea,
Far north, I hear
One face shall never turn to me
As once this year:

Shall never smile and turn and rest
On mine as there,
Nor one most sacred hand be pressed
Upon my hair.

I came as one whose thoughts half linger,
Half run before;
The youngest to the eldest singer
That England bore.

I found him whom I shall not find
Till all grief end,
In holiest age our mightiest mind,
Father and friend.

But thou, if anything endure,
If hope there be,
O spirit that man's life left pure,
Man's death set free,

Not with disdain of days that were
Look earthward now;
Let dreams revive the reverend hair,
The imperial brow;

Come back in sleep, for in the life
Where thou art not
We find none like thee. Time and strife
And the world's lot

Move thee no more; but love at least
And reverent heart
May move thee, royal and released
Soul, as thou art.

And thou, his Florence, to thy trust
Receive and keep,
Keep safe his dedicated dust,
His sacred sleep.

So shall thy lovers, come from far
Mix with thy name
As morning-star with evening-star
His faultless fame.

Algernon Charles Swinburne [1837–1909]

ON THE DEATH OF MR. ROBERT LEVET, A PRACTISER IN PHYSIC

[1701–1782]

Condemned to Hope's delusive mine,
As on we toil from day to day,
By sudden blasts or slow decline
Our social comforts drop away.

Well tried through many a varying year,
See Levet to the grave descend,
Officious, innocent, sincere,
Of every friendless name the friend.

Yet still he fills affection's eye,
Obscurely wise and coarsely kind;
Nor, lettered Arrogance, deny
Thy praise to merit unrefined.

When fainting nature called for aid,
And hovering death prepared the blow,
His vigorous remedy displayed
The power of art without the show.

In Misery's darkest cavern known,
His useful care was ever nigh,
Where hopeless Anguish poured his groan,
And lonely Want retired to die.

No summons mocked by chill delay,
No petty gain disdained by pride;
The modest wants of every day
The toil of every day supplied.

His virtues walked their narrow round,
Nor made a pause, nor left a void;
And sure the Eternal Master found
The single talent well employed.

The busy day, the peaceful night,
Unfelt, uncounted, glided by;
His frame was firm—his powers were bright,
Though now his eightieth year was nigh.

Then with no fiery throbbing pain,
No cold gradations of decay
Death broke at once the vital chain,
And freed his soul the nearest way.

Samuel Johnson [1709–1784]

"O CAPTAIN! MY CAPTAIN!"

[ABRAHAM LINCOLN, 1809–1865]

O CAPTAIN! my Captain! our fearful trip is done,
The ship has weathered every rack, the prize we sought is won,
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting,
While follow eyes the steady keel, the vessel grim and daring;
But O heart! heart! heart!
O the bleeding drops of red,
Where on the deck my Captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

O Captain! my Captain! rise up and hear the bells;
Rise up—for you the flag is flung—for you the bugle trills,
For you bouquets and ribboned wreaths—for you the shores
a-crowding,
For you they call, the swaying mass, their eager faces turning;
Here Captain! dear father!
This arm beneath your head!
It is some dream that on the deck
You've fallen cold and dead.

My Captain does not answer, his lips are pale and still,
My father does not feel my arm, he has no pulse nor will,
The ship is anchored safe and sound, its voyage closed and
done,
From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won;
Exult O shores, and ring O bells!
But I with mournful tread,
Walk the deck my Captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

Walt Whitman [1819–1892]

"WHEN LILACS LAST IN THE DOORYARD BLOOMED"

I

When lilacs last in the dooryard bloomed,
And the great star early drooped in the western sky in the
night,
I mourned, and yet shall mourn with ever-returning spring.

Ever-returning spring, trinity sure to me you bring,
Lilac blooming perennial and drooping star in the west,
And thought of him I love.

II

O powerful western fallen star!
O shades of night—O moody, tearful night!
O great star disappeared—O the black murk that hides the star!

O cruel hands that hold me powerless—O helpless soul of me!
O harsh surrounding cloud that will not free my soul!

III

In the dooryard fronting an old farmhouse, near the white-washed palings,
Stands the lilac-bush tall-growing with heart-shaped leaves of rich green,
With many a pointed blossom rising delicate, with the perfume strong I love,
With every leaf a miracle—and from this bush in the dooryard,
With delicate-colored blossoms and heart-shaped leaves of rich green,
A sprig with its flower I break.

IV

In the swamp in secluded recesses,
A shy and hidden bird is warbling a song.

Solitary the thrush,
The hermit withdrawn to himself, avoiding the settlements,
Sings by himself a song.

Song of the bleeding throat,
Death's outlet song of life—(for well, dear brother, I know
If thou wast not gifted to sing thou wouldst surely die).

V

Over the breast of the spring, the land, amid cities,
Amid lanes and through old woods, where lately the violets peeped from the ground, spotting the gray debris,
Amid the grass in the fields each side of the lanes, passing the endless grass,
Passing the yellow-speared wheat, every grain from its shroud in the dark-brown fields uprisen,
Passing the apple-tree blows of white and pink in the orchards,

Carrying a corpse to where it shall rest in the grave,
Night and day journeys a coffin.

VI

Coffin that passes through lanes and streets,
Through day and night, with the great cloud darkening the land,
With the pomp of the inlooped flags, with the cities draped in black,
With the show of the States themselves as of crape-veiled women standing,
With processions long and winding and the flambeaus of the night,
With the countless torches lit, with the silent sea of faces and the unbared heads,
With the waiting depot, the arriving coffin, and the somber faces,
With dirges through the night, with the thousand voices rising strong and solemn,
With all the mournful voices of the dirges poured around the coffin,
The dim-lit churches and the shuddering organs—where amid these you journey,
With the tolling tolling bells' perpetual clang,
Here, coffin that slowly passes,
I give you my sprig of lilac.

VII

(Nor for you, for one alone,
Blossoms and branches green to coffins all I bring,
For fresh as the morning, thus would I chant a song for you,
O sane and sacred death.

All over bouquets of roses,
O death, I cover you over with roses and early lilies,
But mostly and now the lilac that blooms the first,
Copious I break, I break the sprigs from the bushes,
With loaded arms I come, pouring for you,
For you and the coffins all of you, O death.)

VIII

O western orb sailing the heaven,
Now I know what you must have meant as a month since I walked,
As I walked in silence the transparent shadowy night,
As I saw you had something to tell as you bent to me night after night,
As you drooped from the sky low down as if to my side, (while the other stars all looked on,)
As we wandered together the solemn night, (for something, I know not what, kept me from sleep,)
As the night advanced, and I saw on the rim of the west how full you were of woe,
As I stood on the rising ground in the breeze in the cool transparent night,
As I watched where you passed, and was lost in the netherward black of the night,
As my soul in its trouble dissatisfied sank, as where yon sad orb,
Concluded, dropped in the night, and was gone.

IX

Sing on there in the swamp,
O singer bashful and tender, I hear your notes, I hear your call,
I hear, I come presently, I understand you,
But a moment I linger, for the lustrous star has detained me,
The star my departing comrade holds and detains me.

X

O how shall I warble myself for the dead one there I loved?
And how shall I deck my song for the large sweet soul that has gone?
And what shall my perfume be for the grave of him I love?

Sea-winds blown from east and west,
Blown from the Eastern sea and blown from the Western sea, till there on the prairies meeting,
These and with these and the breath of my chant,
I'll perfume the grave of him I love.

XI

O what shall I hang on the chamber walls?
And what shall the pictures be that I hang on the walls,
To adorn the burial-house of him I love?

Pictures of growing spring and farms and homes,
With the Fourth-month eve at sundown, and the gray smoke lucid and bright,
With floods of the yellow gold of the gorgeous, indolent, sinking sun, burning, expanding the air,
With the fresh spring herbage under foot, and the pale green leaves of the trees prolific,
In the distance the flowing glaze, the breast of the river, with a wind-dapple here and there,
With ranging hills on the banks, with many a line against the sky, and shadows,
And the city at hand with dwellings so dense, and stacks of chimneys,
And all the scenes of life and the workshops, and the workmen homeward returning.

XII

Lo, body and soul—this land,
My own Manhattan with spires, and the sparkling and hurrying tides, and the ships,
The varied and ample land, the South and the North in the light, Ohio's shores and flashing Missouri,
And ever the far-spreading prairies covered with grass and corn.

Lo, the most excellent sun so calm and haughty,
The violet and purple morn with just-felt breezes,
The gentle soft-born measureless light,
The miracle spreading bathing all, the fulfilled noon,
The coming eve delicious, the welcome night and the stars,
Over my cities shining all, enveloping man and land.

XIII

Sing on, sing on, you gray-brown bird,
Sing from the swamps, the recesses, pour your chant from the bushes,
Limitless out of the dusk, out of the cedars and pines.

Sing on, dearest brother, warble your reedy song,
Loud human song, with voice of uttermost woe.

O liquid and free and tender!
O wild and loose to my soul—O wondrous singer!
You only I hear—yet the star holds me, (but will soon depart,)
Yet the lilac with mastering odor holds me.

XIV

Now while I sat in the day and looked forth,
In the close of the day with its light and the fields of spring, and the farmers preparing their crops,
In the large unconscious scenery of my land with its lakes and forests,
In the heavenly aerial beauty, (after the perturbed winds and the storms,)
Under the arching heavens of the afternoon swift passing, and the voices of children and women,
The many-moving sea-tides, and I saw the ships how they sailed,
And the summer approaching with richness, and the fields all busy with labor,
And the infinite separate houses, how they all went on, each with its meals and minutia of daily usages,
And the streets how their throbbings throbbed, and the cities pent—lo, then and there,
Falling upon them all and among them all, enveloping me with the rest,
Appeared the cloud, appeared the long black trail,
And I knew death, its thought, and the sacred knowledge of death.

Then with the knowledge of death as walking one side of me,
And the thought of death close-walking the other side of me,
And I in the middle as with companions, and as holding the hands of companions,
I fled forth to the hiding receiving night that talks not,
Down to the shores of the water, the path by the swamp in the dimness,
To the solemn shadowy cedars and ghostly pines so still.

And the singer so shy to the rest received me,
The gray-brown bird I know received us comrades three,
And he sang the carol of death, and a verse for him I love.

From deep secluded recesses,
From the fragrant cedars and the ghostly pines so still,
Came the carol of the bird.

And the charm of the carol rapt me,
As I held as if by their hands my comrades in the night,
And the voice of my spirit tallied the song of the bird.

Come, lovely and soothing death,
Undulate round the world, serenely arriving, arriving,
In the day, in the night, to all, to each,
Sooner or later delicate death.

Praised be the fathomless universe,
For life and joy, and for objects and knowledge curious,
And for love, sweet love—but praise! praise! praise!
For the sure-enwinding arms of cool-enfolding death.

Dark mother always gliding near with soft feet,
Have none chanted for thee a chant of fullest welcome?
Then I chant it for thee, I glorify thee above all,
bring thee a song that when thou must indeed come, come unfalteringly.

Approach, strong deliveress,
When it is so, when thou hast taken them I joyously sing the dead,
Lost in the loving floating ocean of thee,
Laved in the flood of thy bliss, O death.

From me to thee glad serenades,
Dances for thee I propose, saluting thee, adornments and feastings for thee,
And the sights of the open landscape and the high-spread sky are fitting,
And life and the fields, and the huge and thoughtful night.

The night in silence under many a star,
The ocean shore and the husky whispering wave whose voice I know,
And the soul turning to thee, O vast and well-veiled death,
And the body gratefully nestling close to thee.

Over the tree-tops I float thee a song,
Over the rising and sinking waves, over the myriad fields and the prairies wide,
Over the dense-packed cities all and the teeming wharves and ways,
I float this carol with joy, with joy to thee, O death.

XV

To the tally of my soul,
Loud and strong kept up the gray-brown bird,
With pure deliberate notes spreading filling the night.

Loud in the pines and cedars dim,
Clear in the freshness moist and the swamp-perfume,
And I with my comrades there in the night.

While my sight that was bound in my eyes unclosed,
As to long panoramas of visions.

And I saw askant the armies,
I saw as in noiseless dreams hundreds of battle-flags,
Borne through the smoke of the battles and pierced with missiles I saw them,
And carried hither and yon through the smoke, and torn and bloody,
And at last but a few shreds left on the staffs, (and all in silence,)
And the staffs all splintered and broken.

I saw battle-corpses, myriads of them,
And the white skeletons of young men, I saw them,
I saw the debris and debris of all the slain soldiers of the war.

But I saw they were not as was thought,
They themselves were fully at rest, they suffered not,
The living remained and suffered, the mother suffered,
And the wife and the child and the musing comrade suffered,
And the armies that remained suffered.

XVI

Passing the visions, passing the night,
Passing, unloosing the hold of my comrades' hands,
Passing the song of the hermit bird, and the tallying song of my soul,
Victorious song, death's outlet song, yet varying ever-altering song,
As low and wailing, yet clear the notes, rising and falling, flooding the night,
Sadly sinking and fainting, as warning and warning, and yet again bursting with joy,
Covering the earth and filling the spread of the heaven,
As that powerful psalm in the night I heard from recesses,
Passing, I leave thee lilac with heart-shaped leaves,
I leave thee there in the dooryard, blooming, returning with spring.

I cease from my song for thee,
From my gaze on thee in the west, fronting the west, communing with thee,
O comrade lustrous with silver face in the night.

Yet each to keep and all, retrievements out of the night,
The song, the wondrous chant of the gray-brown bird,
And the tallying chant, the echo aroused in my soul,
With the lustrous and drooping star with the countenance full of woe,
With the holders holding my hand nearing the call of the bird,
Comrades mine and I in the midst, and their memory ever to keep, for the dead I loved so well,
For the sweetest, wisest soul of all my days and lands—and this for his dear sake,
Lilac and star and bird twined with the chant of my soul,
There in the fragrant pines and the cedars dusk and dim.

Walt Whitman [1819–1892]

LINCOLN, THE MAN OF THE PEOPLE

When the Norn Mother saw the Whirlwind Hour
Greatening and darkening as it hurried on,
She left the Heaven of Heroes and came down
To make a man to meet the mortal need.
She took the tried clay of the common road—
Clay warm yet with the genial heat of Earth,
Dashed through it all a strain of prophecy;
Tempered the heap with thrill of human tears;
Then mixed a laughter with the serious stuff.
Into the shape she breathed a flame to light
That tender, tragic, ever-changing face.
Here was a man to hold against the world,
A man to match the mountains and the sea.

The color of the ground was in him, the red earth;
The smack and tang of elemental things:
The rectitude and patience of the cliff;
The good-will of the rain that loves all leaves;
The friendly welcome of the wayside well;
The courage of the bird that dares the sea;
The gladness of the wind that shakes the corn;
The pity of the snow that hides all scars;
The secrecy of streams that make their way
Beneath the mountain to the rifted rock;
The tolerance and equity of light
That gives as freely to the shrinking flower
As to the great oak flaring to the wind—
To the grave's low hill as to the Matterhorn
That shoulders out the sky.

Sprung from the West,
The strength of virgin forests braced his mind,
The hush of spacious prairies stilled his soul.
Up from log cabin to the Capitol,
One fire was on his spirit, one resolve—
To send the keen ax to the root of wrong,
Clearing a free way for the feet of God.
And evermore he burned to do his deed

With the fine stroke and gesture of a king:
He built the rail-pile as he built the State,
Pouring his splendid strength through every blow,
The conscience of him testing every stroke,
To make his deed the measure of a man.

So came the Captain with the mighty heart;
And when the judgment thunders split the house,
Wrenching the rafters from their ancient rest,
He held the ridgepole up, and spiked again
The rafters of the Home. He held his place—
Held the long purpose like a growing tree—
Held on through blame and faltered not at praise.
And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down
As when a lordly cedar, green with boughs,
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky.

Edwin Markham [1852–

THE MASTER

Supposed to have been written not long after the Civil War

A FLYING word from here and there
Had sown the name at which we sneered,
But soon the name was everywhere,
To be reviled and then revered:
A presence to be loved and feared,
We cannot hide it, or deny
That we, the gentlemen who jeered,
May be forgotten by and by.

He came when days were perilous
And hearts of men were sore beguiled;
And having made his note of us,
He pondered and was reconciled.
Was ever master yet so mild
As he, and so untamable?
We doubted, even when he smiled,
Not knowing what he knew so well.

He knew that undeceiving fate
Would shame us whom he served unsought;
He knew that he must wince and wait—
The jest of those for whom he fought;
He knew devoutly what he thought
Of us and of our ridicule;
He knew that we must all be taught
Like little children in a school.

We gave a glamor to the task
That he encountered and saw through,
But little of us did he ask,
And little did we ever do.
And what appears if we review
The season when we railed and chaffed?
It is the face of one who knew
That we were learning while we laughed.

The face that in our vision feels
Again the venom that we flung,
Transfigured to the world reveals
The vigilance to which we clung.
Shrewd, hallowed, harassed, and among
The mysteries that are untold,
The face we see was never young
Nor could it ever have been old.

For he, to whom we had applied
Our shopman's test of age and worth,
Was elemental when he died,
As he was ancient at his birth:
The saddest among kings of earth,
Bowed with a galling crown, this man
Met rancor with a cryptic mirth,
Laconic—and Olympian.

The love, the grandeur, and the fame,
Are bounded by the world alone;
The calm, the smoldering, and the flame
Of awful patience was his own:

With him they are forever flown
Past all our fond self-shadowings,
Wherewith we cumber the Unknown
As with inept, Icarian wings.

For we were not as other men:
'Twas ours to soar and his to see:
But we are coming down again,
And we shall come down pleasantly;
Nor shall we longer disagree
On what it is to be sublime,
But flourish in our perigee
And have one Titan at a time.

Edwin Arlington Robinson [1869–

ON THE LIFE-MASK OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

This bronze doth keep the very form and mold
Of our great martyr's face. Yes, this is he:
That brow all wisdom, all benignity;
That human, humorous mouth; those cheeks that hold
Like some harsh landscape all the summer's gold;
That spirit fit for sorrow, as the sea
For storms to beat on; the lone agony
Those silent, patient lips too well foretold.
Yes, this is he who ruled a world of men
As might some prophet of the elder day,—
Brooding above the tempest and the fray
With deep-eyed thought and more than mortal ken.
A power was his beyond the touch of art
Or armèd strength—his pure and mighty heart.

Richard Watson Gilder [1844–1909]

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

[Written by the editor of London Punch, as that journal's apology and atonement]

You lay a wreath on murdered Lincoln's bier,
You, who, with mocking pencil, wont to trace,
Broad for the self-complaisant British sneer,
His length of shambling limb, his furrowed face,

His gaunt, gnarled hands, his unkempt, bristling hair,
  His garb uncouth, his bearing ill at ease,
His lack of all we prize as debonair,
  Of power or will to shine, of art to please;

You, whose smart pen backed up the pencil's laugh,
  Judging each step as though the way were plain;
Reckless, so it could point its paragraph
  Of chief's perplexity, or people's pain,—

Beside this corpse, that bears for winding-sheet
  The Stars and Stripes he lived to rear anew,
Between the mourners at his head and feet,
  Say, scurrile jester, is there room for you?

Yes, he had lived to shame me from my sneer,
  To lame my pencil, and confute my pen;
To make me own this hind of Princes peer,
  This rail-splitter a true-born king of men.

My shallow judgment I had learned to rue,
  Noting how to occasion's height he rose,
How his quaint wit made home-truth seem more true,
  How, iron-like, his temper grew by blows;

How humble, yet how hopeful, he could be;
  How, in good fortune and in ill, the same;
Nor bitter in success, nor boastful he,
  Thirsty for gold, nor feverish for fame.

He went about his work—such work as few
  Ever had laid on head and heart and hand—
As one who knows, where there's a task to do,
  Man's honest will must Heaven's good grace command;

Who trusts the strength will with the burden grow,
  That God makes instruments to work His will,
If but that will we can arrive to know,
  Nor tamper with the weights of good and ill.

So he went forth to battle, on the side
That he felt clear was Liberty's and Right's,
As in his peasant boyhood he had plied
His warfare with rude Nature's thwarting mights,—

The uncleared forest, the unbroken soil,
The iron bark that turns the lumberer's ax,
The rapid, that o'erbears the boatman's toil,
The prairie, hiding the mazed wanderer's tracks,

The ambushed Indian, and the prowling bear,—
Such were the needs that helped his youth to train:
Rough culture—but such trees large fruit may bear,
If but their stocks be of right girth and grain.

So he grew up, a destined work to do,
And lived to do it: four long-suffering years'
Ill-fate, ill-feeling, ill-report, lived through,
And then he heard the hisses change to cheers,

The taunts to tribute, the abuse to praise,
And took both with the same unwavering mood;
Till, as he came on light, from darkling days,
And seemed to touch the goal from where he stood,

A felon hand, between the goal and him,
Reached from behind his back, a trigger pressed—
And those perplexed and patient eyes were dim,
Those gaunt, long-laboring limbs were laid to rest.

The words of mercy were upon his lips,
Forgiveness in his heart and on his pen,
When this vile murderer brought swift eclipse
To thoughts of peace on earth, good will to men.

The Old World and the New, from sea to sea,
Utter one voice of sympathy and shame.
Sore heart, so stopped when it at last beat high!
Sad life, cut short just as its triumph came!

A deed accursed! Strokes have been struck before
  By the assassin's hand, whereof men doubt
If more of horror or disgrace they bore;
  But thy foul crime, like Cain's, stands darkly out,

Vile hand, that brandest murder on a strife,
  Whate'er its grounds, stoutly and nobly striven,
And with the martyr's crown, crownest a life
  With much to praise, little to be forgiven.

Tom Taylor [1817–1880]
or Shirley Brooks (?) [1816–1874]

HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW

[1807–1882]

Nec turpem senectam
Degere, nec cithara carentem.—Hor. i. 31

"Not to be tuneless in old age!"
Ah! surely blest his pilgrimage,
  Who, in his Winter's snow,
Still sings with note as sweet and clear
As in the morning of the year
  When the first violets blow.

Blest!—but more blest, whom Summer's heat,
Whom Spring's impulsive stir and beat,
  Have taught no feverish lure;
Whose Muse, benignant and serene,
Still keeps his Autumn chaplet green
  Because his verse is pure!

Lie calm, O white and laureate head!
Lie calm, O Dead, that art not dead,
  Since from the voiceless grave,
Thy voice shall speak to old and young
While song yet speaks an English tongue
  By Charles' or Thamis' wave!

Austin Dobson [1840–

MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS

[1542–1587]

When the young hand of Darnley locked in hers
Had knit her to her northern doom—amid
The spousal pomp of flags and trumpeters,
Her fate looked forth and was no longer hid;
A jealous brain beneath a southern crown
Wrought spells upon her; from afar she felt
The waxen image of her fortunes melt
Beneath the Tudor's eye, while the grim frown
Of her own lords o'ermastered her sweet smiles,
And nipped her growing gladness, till she mourned,
And sank, at last, beneath their cruel wiles;
But, ever since, all generous hearts have burned
To clear her fame, yea, very babes have yearned
Over this saddest story of the isles.

Charles Tennyson Turner [1808–1879]

THE ANGELUS

[Jean François Millet, 1814–1875]

Not far from Paris, in fair Fontainebleau,
A lovely memory-haunted hamlet lies,
Whose tender spell makes captive, and defies
Forgetfulness. The peasants come and go—
Their backs too used to stoop, and patient sow
The harvest which a narrow want supplies—
Even as when, Earth's pathos in his eyes,
Millet dwelt here, companion of their woe.

Ah, Barbizon! With thorns, not laurels, crowned,
He looked thy sorrows in the face, and found—
Vital as seed warm-nestled in the sod—
The hidden sweetness at the heart of pain;
Trusting thy sun and dew, thy wind and rain—
At home with Nature, and at one with God!

Florence Earle Coates [1850–

UNDER THE PORTRAIT OF MILTON

IN TONSON'S FOLIO EDITION OF PARADISE LOST, 1688

[1608–1674]

THREE Poets, in three distant ages born,
Greece, Italy, and England did adorn.
The first in loftiness of thought surpassed;
The next in majesty; in both the last.
The force of Nature could no further go:
To make a third she joined the former two.

John Dryden [1631–1700]

IN MEMORY OF "BARRY CORNWALL"

[BRYAN WALLER PROCTER, 1787–1874]

IN the garden of death, where the singers whose names are deathless,
One with another make music unheard of men,
Where the dead sweet roses fade not of lips long breathless,
And the fair eyes shine that shall weep not or change again,
Who comes now crowned with the blossom of snow-white years?
What music is this that the world of the dead men hears?

Beloved of men, whose words on our lips were honey,
Whose name in our ears and our fathers' ears was sweet,
Like summer gone forth of the land his songs made sunny,
To the beautiful veiled bright world where the glad ghosts meet,
Child, father, bridegroom and bride, and anguish and rest,
No soul shall pass of a singer than this more blest.

Blest for the years' sweet sake that were filled and brightened,
As a forest with birds, with the fruit and the flower of his song;
For the souls' sake blest that heard, and their cares were lightened,
For the hearts' sake blest that have fostered his name so long;

By the living and dead lips blest that have loved his name,
And clothed with their praise and crowned with their love for fame.

Ah, fair and fragrant his fame as flowers that close not,
That shrink not by day for heat or for cold by night,
As a thought in the heart shall increase when the heart's self knows not,
Shall endure in our ears as a sound, in our eyes as a light;
Shall wax with the years that wane and the seasons' chime,
As a white rose thornless that grows in the garden of time.

The same year calls, and one goes hence with another,
And men sit sad that were glad for their sweet songs' sake;
The same year beckons, and elder with younger brother
Takes mutely the cup from his hand that we all shall take.
They pass ere the leaves be past or the snows be come;
And the birds are loud, but the lips that outsang them dumb.

Time takes them home that we loved, fair names and famous,
To the soft long sleep, to the broad sweet bosom of death;
But the flower of their souls he shall take not away to shame
us,
Nor the lips lack song forever that now lack breath.
For with us shall the music and perfume that die not dwell,
Though the dead to our dead bid welcome, and we farewell.

Algernon Charles Swinburne [1837–1909]

IN MEMORIAM

[LORD RAGLAN, 1788–1855]

AH, not because our Soldier died before his field was won;
Ah, not because life would not last till life's long task were
done,
Wreathe one less leaf, grieve with less grief,—of all our hosts that led
Not last in work and worth approved, Lord Raglan lieth dead.

His nobleness he had of none, War's Master taught him war,
And prouder praise that Master gave than meaner lips can mar;
Gone to his grave, his duty done; if farther any seek,
He left his life to answer them,—a soldier's,—let it speak!

'Twas his to sway a blunted sword,—to fight a fated field,
While idle tongues talked victory, to struggle not to yield;
Light task for placeman's ready pen to plan a field for fight,
Hard work and hot with steel and shot to win that field aright.

Tears have been shed for the brave dead; mourn him who mourned for all!
Praise hath been given for strife well striven, praise him who strove o'er all,
Nor count that conquest little, though no banner flaunt it far,
That under him our English hearts beat Pain and Plague and War.

And if he held those English hearts too good to pave the path
To idle victories, shall we grudge what noble palm he hath?
Like ancient Chief he fought a-front, and 'mid his soldiers seen,
His work was aye as stern as theirs; oh! make his grave as green.

They know him well,—the Dead who died that Russian wrong should cease,
Where Fortune doth not measure men,—their souls and his have peace;
Aye! as well spent in sad sick tent as they in bloody strife,
For English Homes our English Chief gave what he had—his life.

Edwin Arnold [1832–1904]

TO THE MEMORY OF MY BELOVED MASTER WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE, AND WHAT HE HATH LEFT US

[1564–1616]

To draw no envy, Shakespeare, on thy name,
Am I thus ample to thy book and fame;
While I confess thy writings to be such
As neither Man, nor Muse, can praise too much.
'Tis true, and all men's suffrage. But these ways
Were not the paths I meant unto thy praise;
For silliest ignorance on these may light,
Which, when it sounds at best, but echoes right;
Or blind affection, which doth ne'er advance
The truth, but gropes, and urgeth all by chance;
Or crafty malice might pretend this praise,
And think to ruin, where it seemed to raise.
These are, as some infamous bawd or whore
Should praise a matron. What could hurt her more?
But thou art proof against them, and, indeed,
Above the ill fortune of them, or the need.
I therefore will begin: Soul of the age!
The applause, delight, the wonder of our stage!
My Shakespeare, rise! I will not lodge thee by Chaucer, or Spenser, or bid Beaumont lie
A little further, to make thee a room:
Thou art a monument without a tomb,
And art alive still while thy book doth live
And we have wits to read and praise to give.
That I not mix thee so, my brain excuses,
I mean with great, but disproportioned Muses;
For if I thought my judgment were of years,
I should commit thee surely with thy peers,
And tell how far thou didst our Lyly outshine,
Or sporting Kyd, or Marlowe's mighty line.
And though thou hadst small Latin and less Greek,
From thence to honor thee, I would not seek
For names; but call forth thundering Æschylus,
Euripides, and Sophocles to us;

Pacuvius, Accius, him of Cordova dead,
To life again, to hear thy buskin tread,
And shake a stage; or, when thy socks were on,
Leave thee alone for the comparison
Of all that insolent Greece or haughty Rome
Sent forth, or since did from their ashes come.
Triumph, my Britain, thou hast one to show
To whom all scenes of Europe homage owe.
He was not of an age, but for all time!
And all the Muses still were in their prime,
When, like Apollo, he came forth to warm
Our ears, or like a Mercury to charm!
Nature herself was proud of his designs
And joyed to wear the dressing of his lines!
Which were so richly spun, and woven so fit,
As, since, she will vouchsafe no other wit.
The merry Greek, tart Aristophanes,
Neat Terence, witty Plautus, now not please;
But antiquated and deserted lie,
As they were not of Nature's family.
Yet must I not give Nature all; thy Art
My gentle Shakespeare, must enjoy a part.
For though the poet's matter nature be,
His art doth give the fashion; and, that he
Who casts to write a living line, must sweat,
(Such as thine are) and strike the second heat
Upon the Muses' anvil; turn the same
(And himself with it) that he thinks to frame,
Or, for the laurel, he may gain a scorn;
For a good poet's made, as well as born.
And such wert thou! Look how the father's face
Lives in his issue, even so the race
Of Shakespeare's mind and manners brightly shines
In his well-turnèd, and true-filèd lines;
In each of which he seems to shake a lance,
As brandished at the eyes of ignorance.
Sweet Swan of Avon! what a sight it were
To see thee in our waters yet appear,
And make those flights upon the banks of Thames,
That so did take Eliza, and our James!

But stay, I see thee in the hemisphere
Advanced, and made a constellation there!
Shine forth, thou Star of Poets, and with rage
Or influence, chide or cheer the drooping stage,
Which, since thy flight from hence, hath mourned like night,
And despairs day, but for thy volume's light.

Ben Jonson [1573?–1637]

ON THE PORTRAIT OF SHAKESPEARE PREFIXED TO THE FIRST FOLIO EDITION, 1623

This figure, that thou here seest put,
It was for gentle Shakespeare cut;
Wherein the Graver had a strife
With Nature to outdo the life:
O, could he but have drawn his wit
As well in brass, as he hath hit
His face; the Print would then surpass
All that was ever writ in brass.
But since he cannot, Reader, look
Not at his picture, but his book.

Ben Jonson [1573?–1637]

TO SHAKESPEARE

The soul of man is larger than the sky,
Deeper than ocean, or the abysmal dark
Of the unfathomed center. Like that ark,
Which in its sacred hold uplifted high,
O'er the drowned hills, the human family,
And stock reserved of every living kind,
So, in the compass of the single mind,
The seeds and pregnant forms in essence lie,
That make all worlds. Great poet, 'twas thy art
To know thyself, and in thyself to be
Whate'er love, hate, ambition, destiny,
Or the firm, fatal purpose of the heart
Can make of Man. Yet thou wert still the same,
Serene of thought, unhurt by thy own flame.

Hartley Coleridge [1796–1849]

SHAKESPEARE

Others abide our question. Thou art free.
We ask and ask—Thou smilest and art still,
Out-topping knowledge. For the loftiest hill,
Who to the stars uncrowns his majesty,
Planting his steadfast footsteps in the sea,
Making the heaven of heavens his dwelling-place,
Spares but the cloudy border of his base
To the foiled searching of mortality;
And thou, who didst the stars and sunbeams know,
Self-schooled, self-scanned, self-honored, self-secure,
Didst tread on earth unguessed at.—Better so!
All pains the immortal spirit must endure,
All weakness which impairs, all griefs which bow,
Find their sole speech in that victorious brow.

Matthew Arnold [1822–1888]

AN EPITAPH ON THE ADMIRABLE DRAMATIC POET, W. SHAKESPEARE

What needs my Shakespeare for his honored bones
The labor of an age in pilèd stones?
Or that his hallowed relics should be hid
Under a star-ypointing pyramid?
Dear son of memory, great heir of fame,
What need'st thou such weak witness of thy name?
Thou in our wonder and astonishment
Hast built thyself a livelong monument.
For whilst, to the shame of slow-endeavoring art,
Thy easy numbers flow, and that each heart
Hath from the leaves of thy unvalued book
Those Delphic lines with deep impression took,
Then thou, our fancy of itself bereaving,
Dost make us marble with too much conceiving;
And so sepùlchered in such pomp dost lie,
That kings for such a tomb would wish to die.

John Milton [1608–1674]

TO WILLIAM SHARP

FIONA MACLEOD

[1856–1905]

THE waves about Iona dirge,
The wild winds trumpet over Skye;
Shrill around Arran's cliff-bound verge
The gray gulls cry.

Spring wraps its transient scarf of green,
Its heathery robe, round slope and scar;
And night, the scudding wrack between,
Lights its lone star.

But you who loved these outland isles,
Their gleams, their glooms, their mysteries,
Their eldritch lures, their druid wiles,
Their tragic seas,

Will heed no more, in mortal guise,
The potent witchery of their call,
If dawn be regnant in the skies,
Or evenfall.

Yet, though where suns Sicilian beam
The loving earth enfolds your form,
I can but deem these coasts of dream
And hovering storm

Still thrall your spirit—that it bides
By far Iona's kelp-strewn shore,
There lingering till time and tides
Shall surge no more.

Clinton Scollard [1860–]

AN ODE

ON THE UNVEILING OF THE SHAW MEMORIAL ON BOSTON COMMON, MAY THIRTY-FIRST, 1897

[ROBERT GOULD SHAW, 1837-1863]

I

Not with slow, funereal sound
Come we to this sacred ground;
Not with wailing fife and solemn muffled drum,
Bringing a cypress wreath
To lay, with bended knee,
On the cold brows of Death—
Not so, dear God, we come,
But with the trumpets' blare
And shot-torn battle-banners flung to air,
As for a victory!

Hark to the measured tread of martial feet,
The music and the murmurs of the street!
No bugle breathes this day
Disaster and retreat!—
Hark, how the iron lips
Of the great battle-ships
Salute the City from her azure Bay!

II

Time was—time was, ah, unforgotten years!—
We paid our hero tribute of our tears.
But now let go
All sounds and signs and formulas of woe:
'Tis Life, not Death, we celebrate;
To Life, not Death, we dedicate
This storied bronze, whereon is wrought
The lithe immortal figure of our thought,
To show forever to men's eyes,
Our children's children's children's eyes,
How once he stood
In that heroic mood,

He and his dusky braves
So fain of glorious graves!—
One instant stood, and then
Drave through that cloud of purple steel and flame,
Which wrapped him, held him, gave him not again,
But in its trampled ashes left to Fame
An everlasting name!

III

That was indeed to live—
At one bold swoop to wrest
From darkling death the best
That death to life can give.
He fell as Roland fell
That day at Roncevaux,
With foot upon the ramparts of the foe!
A pæan, not a knell,
For heroes dying so!
No need for sorrow here,
No room for sigh or tear,
Save such rich tears as happy eyelids know.
See where he rides, our Knight!
Within his eyes the light
Of battle, and youth's gold about his brow;
Our Paladin, our Soldier of the Cross,
Not weighing gain with loss—
World-loser, that won all
Obeying duty's call!
Not his, at peril's frown,
A pulse of quicker beat;
Not his to hesitate
And parley hold with Fate,
But proudly to fling down
His gauntlet at her feet.
O soul of loyal valor and white truth,
Here, by this iron gate,
Thy serried ranks about thee as of yore,
Stand thou for evermore
In thy undying youth!

The tender heart, the eagle eye!
Oh, unto him belong
The homages of Song;
Our praises and the praise
Of coming days
To him belong—
To him, to him, the dead that shall not die!

Thomas Bailey Aldrich [1837–1907]

MEMORABILIA

[1792–1822]

Ah, did you once see Shelley plain,
And did he stop and speak to you,
And did you speak to him again?
How strange it seems and new!

But you were living before that,
And also you were living after;
And the memory I started at—
My starting moves your laughter!

I crossed a moor, with a name of its own
And a certain use in the world no doubt,
Yet a hand's-breadth of it shines alone
'Mid the blank miles round about:

For there I picked up on the heather
And there I put inside my breast
A molted feather, an eagle-feather!
Well, I forget the rest.

Robert Browning [1816–1889]

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON

[1850–1894]

In his old gusty garden of the North,
He heard lark-time the uplifting Voices call;
Smitten through with Voices was the evenfall—
At last they drove him forth.

Now there were two rang silverly and long;
And of Romance, that spirit of the sun,
And of Romance, Spirit of Youth, was one;
And one was that of Song.

Gold-belted sailors, bristling buccaneers,
The flashing soldier, and the high, slim dame,
These were the Shapes that all around him came,—
That we let go with tears.

His was the unstinted English of the Scot,
Clear, nimble, with the scriptural tang of Knox
Thrust through it like the far, sweet scent of box,
To keep it unforgot.

No frugal Realist, but quick to laugh,
To see appealing things in all he knew,
He plucked the sun-sweet corn his fathers grew,
And would have naught of chaff.

David and Keats, and all good singing men,
Take to your heart this Covenanter's son,
Gone in mid-years, leaving our years undone,
Where you do sing again!

Lizette Woodworth Reese [1856–

BAYARD TAYLOR

[1825–1878]

"And where now, Bayard, will thy footsteps tend?"
My sister asked our guest one winter's day.
Smiling he answered in the Friends' sweet way
Common to both: "Wherever thou shalt send!
What wouldst thou have me see for thee?" She laughed,
Her dark eyes dancing in the wood-fire's glow:
"Loffoden isles, the Kilpis, and the low
Unsetting sun on Finmark's fishing-craft."
"All these and more I soon shall see for thee!"
He answered cheerily: and he kept his pledge
On Lapland snows, the North Cape's windy wedge,
And Tromsö freezing in its winter sea.
He went and came. But no man knows the track
Of his last journey, and he comes not back!

He brought us wonders of the new and old;
We shared all climes with him. The Arab's tent
To him its story-telling secret lent,
And, pleased, we listened to the tales he told.
His task, beguiled with songs that shall endure,
In manly, honest thoroughness he wrought;
From humble home-lays to the heights of thought
Slowly he climbed, but every step was sure.
How, with the generous pride that friendship hath,
We, who so loved him, saw at last the crown
Of civic honor on his brows pressed down,
Rejoiced, and knew not that the gift was death.
And now for him, whose praise in deafened ears
Two nations speak, we answer but with tears!

O Vale of Chester! trod by him so oft,
Green as thy June turf keep his memory. Let
Nor wood, nor dell, nor storied stream forget,
Nor winds that blow round lonely Cedarcroft;
Let the home voices greet him in the far,
Strange lands that hold him; let the messages
Of love pursue him o'er the chartless seas
And unmapped vastness of his unknown star!
Love's language, heard beyond the loud discourse
Of perishable fame, in every sphere
Itself interprets; and its utterance here
Somewhere in God's unfolding universe
Shall reach our traveler, softening the surprise
Of his rapt gaze on unfamiliar skies!

John Greenleaf Whittier [1807–1892]

LACRIMÆ MUSARUM

[ALFRED TENNYSON, 1809–1892]

Low, like another's, lies the laureled head:
The life that seemed a perfect song is o'er:
Carry the last great bard to his last bed.
Land that he loved, thy noblest voice is mute.
Land that he loved, that loved him! nevermore
Meadow of thine, smooth lawn or wild sea-shore,
Gardens of odorous bloom and tremulous fruit,

Or woodlands old, like Druid couches spread,
The master's feet shall tread.
Death's little rift hath rent the faultless lute:
The singer of undying songs is dead.

Lo, in this season pensive-hued and grave,
While fades and falls the doomed, reluctant leaf
From withered Earth's fantastic coronal,
With wandering sighs of forest and of wave
Mingles the murmur of a people's grief
For him whose leaf shall fade not, neither fall.
He hath fared forth, beyond these suns and showers
For us, the autumn glow, the autumn flame,
And soon the winter silence shall be ours:
Him the eternal spring of fadeless fame
Crowns with no mortal flowers.

What needs his laurel our ephemeral tears,
To save from visitation of decay?
Not in this temporal light alone, that bay
Blooms, nor to perishable mundane ears
Sings he with lips of transitory clay.
Rapt though he be from us,
Virgil salutes him, and Theocritus;
Catullus, mightiest-brained Lucretius, each
Greets him, their brother, on the Stygian beach;
Proudly a gaunt right hand doth Dante reach;
Milton and Wordsworth bid him welcome home;
Keats, on his lips the eternal rose of youth,
Doth in the name of Beauty that is Truth
A kinsman's love beseech;
Coleridge, his locks aspersed with fairy foam,
Calm Spenser, Chaucer suave,
His equal friendship crave:
And godlike spirits hail him guest, in speech
Of Athens, Florence, Weimar, Stratford, Rome.

Nay, he returns to regions whence he came.
Him doth the spirit divine

Of universal loveliness reclaim.
All nature is his shrine.
Seek him henceforward in the wind and sea,
In earth's and air's emotion or repose,
In every star's august serenity,
And in the rapture of the flaming rose.
There seek him if ye would not seek in vain,
There, in the rhythm and music of the Whole;
Yea, and for ever in the human soul
Made stronger and more beauteous by his strain.

For lo! creation's self is one great choir,
And what is nature's order but the rhyme
Whereto in holiest unanimity
All things with all things move unfalteringly,
Infolded and communal from their prime?
Who shall expound the mystery of the lyre?
In far retreats of elemental mind
Obscurely comes and goes
The imperative breath of song, that as the wind
Is trackless, and oblivious whence it blows.
Demand of lilies wherefore they are white,
Extort her crimson secret from the rose,
But ask not of the Muse that she disclose
The meaning of the riddle of her might:
Somewhat of all things sealed and recondite,
Save the enigma of herself, she knows.
The master could not tell, with all his lore,
Wherefore he sang, or whence the mandate sped:
Even as the linnet sings, so I, he said:
Ah, rather as the imperial nightingale,
That held in trance the ancient Attic shore,
And charms the ages with the notes that o'er
All woodland chants immortally prevail!
And now, from our vain plaudits greatly fled,
He with diviner silence dwells instead,
And on no earthly sea with transient roar,
Unto no earthly airs, he sets his sail,
But far beyond our vision and our hail
Is heard for ever and is seen no more.

No more, O never now,
Lord of the lofty and the tranquil brow,
Shall men behold those wizard locks where Time
Let fall no wintry rime.
Once, in his youth obscure,
The weaver of this verse, that shall endure
By splendor of its theme which cannot die,
Beheld thee eye to eye,
And touched through thee the hand
Of every hero of thy race divine,
Even to the sire of all the laureled line,
The sightless wanderer on the Ionian strand.
Yea, I beheld thee, and behold thee yet:
Thou hast forgotten, but can I forget?
Are not thy words all goldenly impressed
On memory's palimpsest?
I hear the utterance of thy sovereign tongue,
I tread the floor thy hallowing feet have trod;
I see the hands a nation's lyre that strung,
The eyes that looked through life and gazed on God.

The seasons change, the winds they shift and veer;
The grass of yesteryear
Is dead; the birds depart, the groves decay:
Empires dissolve and peoples disappear:
Song passes not away.
Captains and conquerors leave a little dust,
And kings a dubious legend of their reign;
The swords of Cæsars, they are less than rust:
The poet doth remain.
Dead is Augustus, Maro is alive;
And thou, the Mantuan of this age and soil,
With Virgil shalt survive.
Enriching Time with no less honeyed spoil,
The yielded sweet of every Muse's hive;
Heeding no more the sound of idle praise
In that great calm our tumults cannot reach,—
Master who crown'st our immelodious days
With flower of perfect speech.

William Watson [1858–

TENNYSON

[WESTMINSTER ABBEY: OCTOBER TWELFTH, 1892]

GIB DIESEN TODTEN MIR HERAUS!

(The Minster speaks)

BRING me my dead!
To me that have grown,
Stone laid upon stone,
As the stormy brood
Of English blood
Has waxed and spread
And filled the world,
With sails unfurled;
With men that may not lie;
With thoughts that cannot die.

Bring me my dead!
Into the storied hall,
Where I have garnered all
My harvest without weed;
My chosen fruits of goodly seed,
And lay him gently down among
The men of state, the men of song:
The men that would not suffer wrong:
The thought-worn chieftains of the mind:
Head-servants of the human kind.

Bring me my dead!
The autumn sun shall shed
Its beams athwart the bier's
Heaped blooms: a many tears
Shall flow; his words, in cadence sweet and strong,
Shall voice the full hearts of the silent throng.
Bring me my dead!
And oh! sad wedded mourner, seeking still
For vanished hand-clasp: drinking in thy fill
Of holy grief; forgive, that pious theft
Robs thee of all, save memories, left:

Not thine to kneel beside the grassy mound
While dies the western glow; and all around
Is silence; and the shadows closer creep
And whisper softly: All must fall asleep.

Thomas Henry Huxley [1825–1895]

FOR A COPY OF THEOCRITUS

[c. 270 B. c.]

O SINGER of the field and fold,
Theocritus! Pan's pipe was thine,—
Thine was the happier Age of Gold.

For thee the scent of new-turned mold,
The bee-hives, and the murmuring pine,
O Singer of the field and fold!

Thou sang'st the simple feasts of old,—
The beechen bowl made glad with wine . . .
Thine was the happier Age of Gold.

Thou bad'st the rustic loves be told,—
Thou bad'st the tuneful reeds combine,
O Singer of the field and fold!

And round thee, ever-laughing, rolled
The blithe and blue Sicilian brine . . .
Thine was the happier Age of Gold.

Alas for us! Our songs are cold;
Our Northern suns too sadly shine:—
O Singer of the field and fold,
Thine was the happier Age of Gold!

Austin Dobson [1840–

THEOCRITUS

O SINGER of Persephone!
In the dim meadows desolate,
Dost thou remember Sicily?

Still through the ivy flits the bee
  Where Amaryllis lies in state;
O Singer of Persephone!

Simætha calls on Hecate
  And hears the wild dogs at the gate:
Dost thou remember Sicily?

Still by the light and laughing sea
  Poor Polypheme bemoans his fate:
O Singer of Persephone!

And still in boyish rivalry
  Young Daphnis challenges his mate:
Dost thou remember Sicily?

Slim Lacon keeps a goat for thee,
  For thee the jocund shepherds wait,
O singer of Persephone!
Dost thou remember Sicily?

Oscar Wilde [1856–1900]

THE QUIET SINGER

[AVE! FRANCIS THOMPSON,—1859–1907]

He had been singing—but I had not heard his voice;
He had been weaving lovely dreams of song,
O many a morning long.
But I, remote and far,
Under an alien star,
Listened to other singers, other birds,
And other silver words.
But does the skylark, singing sweet and clear,
Beg the cold world to hear?
Rather he sings for very rapture of singing,
At dawn, or in the blue, mild Summer noon,
Knowing that, late or soon,
His wealth of beauty, and his high notes, ringing
Above the earth, will make some heart rejoice.

He sings, albeit alone,
Spendthrift of each pure tone,
Hoarding no single song,
No cadence wild and strong.
But one day, from a friend far overseas,
As if upon the breeze,
There came the teeming wonder of his words—
A golden troop of birds,
Caged in a little volume made to love;
Singing, singing,
Flinging, flinging
Their breaking hearts on mine, and swiftly bringing
Tears, and the peace thereof.

How the world woke anew!
How the days broke anew!
Before my tear-blind eyes a tapestry
I seemed to see,
Woven of all the dreams dead or to be.
Hills, hills of song, Springs of eternal bloom,
Autumns of golden pomp and purple gloom
Were hung upon his loom.
Winters of pain, roses with awful thorns,
Yet wondrous faith in God's dew-drenchèd morns—
These, all these I saw,
With that ecstatic awe
Wherewith one looks into Eternity.

And then I knew that, though I had not heard
His voice before,
His quiet singing, like some quiet bird
At some one's distant door,
Had made my own more sweet; and made it more
Lovely, in one of God's miraculous ways.
I knew then why the days
Had seemed more perfect to me when the Spring
Came with old burgeoning;
For somewhere in the world his voice was raised,
And somewhere in the world his heart was breaking;
And never a flower but knew it, sweetly taking

Beauty more high and novel for his sake,
As a whole wood grows lovelier for the wail
Of one sad nightingale.

Yet, if the Springs long past
Seemed wonderful before I heard his voice,
I tremble at the beauty I shall see
In seasons still to be,
Now that his songs are mine while Life shall last.
O now for me
New floods of visions open suddenly. . . .
Rejoice, my heart! Rejoice
That you have heard the Quiet Singer's voice!

Charles Hanson Towne [1877–

THOREAU'S FLUTE

[HENRY DAVID THOREAU, 1817–1862]

We, sighing, said, "Our Pan is dead;
His pipe hangs mute beside the river;
Around it wistful sunbeams quiver,
But Music's airy voice is fled.
Spring mourns as for untimely frost;
The bluebird chants a requiem;
The willow-blossom waits for him:—
The Genius of the wood is lost."

Then from the flute, untouched by hands,
There came a low, harmonious breath:
"For such as he there is no death;
His life the eternal life commands;
Above man's aims his nature rose:
The wisdom of a just content
Made one small spot a continent,
And turned to poetry Life's prose.

"Haunting the hills, the stream, the wild,
Swallow and aster, lake and pine,
To him grew human or divine,—
Fit mates for this large-hearted child.

Such homage Nature ne'er forgets,
And yearly on the coverlid
'Neath which her darling lieth hid
Will write his name in violets.

"To him no vain regrets belong,
Whose soul, that finer instrument,
Gave to the world no poor lament,
But wood-notes ever sweet and strong.
O lonely friend! he still will be
A potent presence, though unseen,
Steadfast, sagacious, and serene:
Seek not for him,—he is with thee."

Louisa May Alcott [1832–1888]

AVE ATQUE VALE

IN MEMORIAM ARTHUR UPSON

[1877–1908]

I

You found the green before the Spring was sweet
And in the boughs the color of a rose,
The haunting fragrance that the south-wind knows
When May has wandered far on questing feet;
And in your heart—a wild note, full and fleet,
The first cry of a gladdened bird that goes
North to the fields of winter-laden snows,
Joyous against the blast and stinging sleet.

And now the Spring is here, the snows are gone,
The apple-blossoms fall from every tree
And all the branches throb with love and Spring;
But never comes one note to greet the dawn,
Never again a wild-glad melody—
God speed, great soul, your valiant wandering!

II

Your hand that traced these lines, and now is dust!
How strange, to-night, this thing of life and death
Where my low candle-flame o'ershadoweth
What once knew youth in its first joyous trust;
So simple and so near, as if you must
Still linger somewhere—yet no answer saith
Its golden word, no magic-freighted breath,
Only a heart-beat stilled in rainbow-rust,

Stilled in the music of a yester-year
That ever echoes its sweet instrument,
And richly sings across an unknown sea;
But these dim lines—so vital they appear,
So full of youth and joy and life's intent.
Ah, this it is that seems so strange to me!

III

How quiet are their voices on the wind
As they toss sadly in a darkened sky,
And yet, mayhap, to you old words imply
That all my questing days I shall not find;
For never more may earthly vestures bind,
But stripped away from things that needs must die,
Deep in that youth where death's strange secrets lie
And whose faint whispers fall on us behind.

Therefore to you the voices harbor peace,
Their ancient patience do you know at last,—
Yet more, the inmost murmuring of these;
And in that mystic lore beyond release,
In one full instant from a treasured past,
Mayhap, you heard the Message of the Trees!

IV

I stood to-day upon time's border-land
And looked far off across each rolling year,
Yet scarcely their great thunder did I hear
Nor marked the wreckage of the changing sand;

For one soft note persuasive did command
All other tones that reached my quickened ear,
And in that note a message low and clear
That I so plainly seemed to understand.

As in the saddened passing of fair things,
The sorrow of the sunset and the dawn,
For death that comes when life's hour least should fail—
Ever the moment's hush of lifted wings,
A gleam of wonder ere the flood is gone. . . .
The host uncovered from its mortal veil!

V

October almost holds her golden sway
Across these hills and through the slopes between,
As if for you some sacrament unseen
Were now unfolded in a silent way,—
As if for you pale memory astray
Had touched each spot of misted summer green,
And in the coolness where the shadows lean
Had whispered of a cherished yesterday.

For one to whom you gave your youth's full praise
Now takes you back into her hallowed rest
With all the loveliness that is your due,
Yielding the precious beauty of her days
To your deep sleep upon her tranquil breast,—
Giving you back her deathless love of you!

Thomas S. Jones, Jr. [1882–

THE WARDEN OF THE CINQUE PORTS

[THE DUKE OF WELLINGTON, 1769–1852]

A MIST was driving down the British Channel,
The day was just begun,
And through the window-panes, on floor and panel,
Streamed the red autumn sun.

It glanced on flowing flag and rippling pennon,
And the white sails of ships;
And, from the frowning rampart, the black cannon
Hailed it with feverish lips.

Sandwich and Romney, Hastings, Hithe, and Dover,
Were all alert that day,
To see the French war-steamers speeding over
When the fog cleared away.

Sullen and silent, and like couchant lions,
Their cannon, through the night,
Holding their breath, had watched, in grim defiance
The seacoast opposite.

And now they roared at drum-beat from their stations
On every citadel;
Each answering each, with morning salutations,
That all was well.

And down the coast, all taking up the burden,
Replied the distant forts,
As if to summon from his sleep the Warden
And Lord of the Cinque Ports.

Him shall no sunshine from the fields of azure,
No drum-beat from the wall,
No morning gun from the black fort's embrasure,
Awaken with its call!

No more, surveying with an eye impartial
The long line of the coast,
Shall the gaunt figure of the old Field Marshal
Be seen upon his post!

For in the night, unseen, a single warrior,
In somber harness mailed,
Dreaded of man, and surnamed the Destroyer,
The rampart wall had scaled.

He passed into the chamber of the sleeper,
The dark and silent room;
And, as he entered, darker grew, and deeper,
The silence and the gloom.

He did not pause to parley or dissemble,
But smote the Warden hoar;
Ah! what a blow! that made all England tremble
And groan from shore to shore.

Meanwhile, without, the surly cannon waited,
The sun rose bright o'erhead;
Nothing in Nature's aspect intimated
That a great man was dead.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow [1807–1882]

ODE ON THE DEATH OF THE DUKE OF WELLINGTON

I

Bury the Great Duke
With an empire's lamentation;
Let us bury the Great Duke
To the noise of the mourning of a mighty nation;
Mourning when their leaders fall,
Warriors carry the warrior's pall,
And sorrow darkens hamlet and hall.

II

Where shall we lay the man whom we deplore?
Here, in streaming London's central roar.
Let the sound of those he wrought for,
And the feet of those he fought for,
Echo round his bones for evermore.

III

Lead out the pageant: sad and slow,
As fits an universal woe,

Let the long, long procession go,
And let the sorrowing crowd about it grow,
And let the mournful martial music blow;
The last great Englishman is low.

IV

Mourn, for to us he seems the last,
Remembering all his greatness in the past.
No more in soldier fashion will he greet
With lifted hand the gazer in the street.
O friends, our chief state-oracle is mute!
Mourn for the man of long-enduring blood,
The statesman-warrior, moderate, resolute,
Whole in himself, a common good.
Mourn for the man of amplest influence,
Yet clearest of ambitious crime,
Our greatest yet with least pretence,
Great in council and great in war,
Foremost captain of his time,
Rich in saving common-sense,
And, as the greatest only are,
In his simplicity sublime.
O good gray head which all men knew,
O voice from which their omens all men drew,
O iron nerve to true occasion true,
O fallen at length that tower of strength
Which stood four-square to all the winds that blew!
Such was he whom we deplore.
The long self-sacrifice of life is o'er.
The great World-victor's victor will be seen no more.

V

All is over and done.
Render thanks to the Giver,
England, for thy son.
Let the bell be tolled.
Render thanks to the Giver,
And render him to the mould.
Under the cross of gold

That shines over city and river,
There he shall rest for ever
Among the wise and the bold.
Let the bell be tolled,
And a reverent people behold
The towering car, the sable steeds.
Bright let it be with its blazoned deeds,
Dark in its funeral fold.
Let the bell be tolled,
And a deeper knell in the heart be knolled;
And the sound of the sorrowing anthem rolled
Through the dome of the golden cross;
And the volleying cannon thunder his loss;
He knew their voices of old.
For many a time in many a clime
His captain's ear has heard them boom
Bellowing victory, bellowing doom.
When he with those deep voices wrought,
Guarding realms and kings from shame,
With those deep voices our dead captain taught
The tyrant, and asserts his claim
In that dread sound to the great name
Which he has worn so pure of blame,
In praise and in dispraise the same,
A man of well-attempered frame.
O civic muse, to such a name,
To such a name for ages long,
To such a name,
Preserve a broad approach of fame,
And ever-echoing avenues of song!

VI

"Who is he that cometh, like an honored guest,
With banner and with music, with soldier and with priest,
With a nation weeping, and breaking on my rest?"—
Mighty Seaman, this is he
Was great by land as thou by sea.
Thine island loves thee well, thou famous man,
The greatest sailor since our world began.

Now, to the roll of muffled drums,
To thee the greatest soldier comes;
For this is he
Was great by land as thou by sea.
His foes were thine; he kept us free;
Oh, give him welcome, this is he
Worthy of our gorgeous rites,
And worthy to be laid by thee;
For this is England's greatest son,
He that gained a hundred fights,
Nor ever lost an English gun;
This is he that far away
Against the myriads of Assaye
Clashed with his fiery few and won;
And underneath another sun,
Warring on a later day,
Round affrighted Lisbon drew
The treble works, the vast designs
Of his labored rampart-lines,
Where he greatly stood at bay,
Whence he issued forth anew,
And ever great and greater grew,
Beating from the wasted vines
Back to France her banded swarms,
Back to France with countless blows,
Till o'er the hills her eagles flew
Beyond the Pyrenean pines,
Followed up in valley and glen
With blare of bugle, clamor of men,
Roll of cannon and clash of arms,
And England pouring on her foes.
Such a war had such a close.
Again their ravening eagle rose
In anger, wheeled on Europe-shadowing wings,
And barking for the thrones of kings;
Till one that sought but Duty's iron crown
On that loud Sabbath shook the spoiler down;
A day of onsets of despair!
Dashed on every rocky square,

Their surging charges foamed themselves away;
Last, the Prussian trumpet blew;
Through the long-tormented air
Heaven flashed a sudden jubilant ray,
And down we swept and charged and overthrew.
So great a soldier taught us there
What long-enduring hearts could do
In that world-earthquake, Waterloo!
Mighty Seaman, tender and true,
And pure as he from taint of craven guile,
O saviour of the silver-coasted isle,
O shaker of the Baltic and the Nile,
If aught of things that here befall
Touch a spirit among things divine,
If love of country move thee there at all,
Be glad, because his bones are laid by thine!
And through the centuries let a people's voice
In full acclaim,
A people's voice,
The proof and echo of all human fame,
A people's voice, when they rejoice
At civic revel and pomp and game,
Attest their great commander's claim
With honor, honor, honor, honor to him,
Eternal honor to his name.

VII

A people's voice! we are a people yet.
Though all men else their nobler dreams forget,
Confused by brainless mobs and lawless Powers,
Thank Him who isled us here, and roughly set
His Briton in blown seas and storming showers,
We have a voice with which to pay the debt
Of boundless love and reverence and regret
To those great men who fought, and kept it ours.
And keep it ours, O God, from brute control!
O Statesmen, guard us, guard the eye, the soul
Of Europe, keep our noble England whole,

And save the one true seed of freedom sown
Betwixt a people and their ancient throne,
That sober freedom out of which there springs
Our loyal passion for our temperate kings!
For, saving that, ye help to save mankind
Till public wrong be crumbled into dust,
And drill the raw world for the march of mind,
Till crowds at length be sane and crowns be just.
But wink no more in slothful overtrust.
Remember him who led your hosts;
He bade you guard the sacred coasts.
Your cannons moulder on the seaward wall;
His voice is silent in your council-hall
For ever; and whatever tempests lour
For ever silent; even if they broke
In thunder, silent; yet remember all
He spoke among you, and the Man who spoke;
Who never sold the truth to serve the hour,
Nor paltered with Eternal God for power;
Who let the turbid streams of rumor flow
Through either babbling world of high and low;
Whose life was work, whose language rife
With rugged maxims hewn from life;
Who never spoke against a foe;
Whose eighty winters freeze with one rebuke
All great self-seekers trampling on the right.
Truth-teller was our England's Alfred named;
Truth-lover was our English Duke;
Whatever record leap to light
He never shall be shamed.

VIII

Lo! the leader in these glorious wars
Now to glorious burial slowly borne
Followed by the brave of other lands,
He, on whom from both her open hands
Lavish Honor showered all her stars,
And affluent Fortune emptied all her horn.

Yea, let all good things await
Him who cares not to be great
But as he saves or serves the state.
Not once or twice in our rough island-story
The path of duty was the way to glory.
He that walks it, only thirsting
For the right, and learns to deaden
Love of self, before his journey closes,
He shall find the stubborn thistle bursting
Into glossy purples, which outredden
All voluptuous garden-roses.
Not once or twice in our fair island-story
The path of duty was the way to glory.
He, that ever following her commands,
On with toil of heart and knees and hands,
Through the long gorge to the far light has won
His path upward, and prevailed,
Shall find the toppling crags of Duty scaled
Are close upon the shining table-lands
To which our God Himself is moon and sun.
Such was he: his work is done.
But while the races of mankind endure
Let his great example stand
Colossal, seen of every land,
And keep the soldier firm, the statesman pure;
Till in all lands and through all human story
The path of duty be the way to glory.
And let the land whose hearths he saved from shame
For many and many an age proclaim
At civic revel and pomp and game,
And when the long-illumined cities flame,
Their ever-loyal iron leader's fame,
With honor, honor, honor, honor to him,
Eternal honor to his name.

IX

Peace, his triumph will be sung
By some yet unmoulded tongue

Far on in summers that we shall not see.
Peace, it is a day of pain
For one about whose patriarchal knee
Late the little children clung.
O peace, it is a day of pain
For one upon whose hand and heart and brain
Once the weight and fate of Europe hung.
Ours the pain, be his the gain!
More than is of man's degree
Must be with us, watching here
At this, our great solemnity.
Whom we see not we revere;
We revere, and we refrain
From talk of battles loud and vain,
And brawling memories all too free
For such a wise humility
As befits a solemn fane:
We revere, and while we hear
The tide of Music's golden sea
Setting toward eternity,
Uplifted high in heart and hope are we,
Until we doubt not that for one so true
There must be other nobler work to do
Than when he fought at Waterloo,
And Victor he must ever be.
For though the Giant Ages heave the hill
And break the shore, and evermore
Make and break, and work their will,
Though world on world in myriad myriads roll
Round us, each with different powers,
And other forms of life than ours,
What know we greater than the soul?
On God and Godlike men we build our trust.
Hush, the Dead March wails in the people's ears;
The dark crowd moves, and there are sobs and tears;
The black earth yawns; the mortal disappears;
Ashes to ashes, dust to dust;
He is gone who seemed so great.—
Gone, but nothing can bereave him
Of the force he made his own

Being here, and we believe him
Something far advanced in State,
And that he wears a truer crown
Than any wreath that man can weave him.
Speak no more of his renown,
Lay your earthly fancies down,
And in the vast cathedral leave him,
God accept him, Christ receive him!

Alfred Tennyson [1809–1892]

MEMORIAL VERSES

[WILLIAM WORDSWORTH, 1770–1850]

GOETHE in Weimar sleeps, and Greece,
Long since, saw Byron's struggle cease.
But one such death remained to come;
The last poetic voice is dumb—
We stand to-day by Wordsworth's tomb.

When Byron's eyes were shut in death,
We bowed our head and held our breath.
He taught us little; but our soul
Had felt him like the thunder's roll.
With shivering heart the strife we saw
Of passion with eternal law;
And yet with reverential awe
We watched the fount of fiery life
Which served for that Titanic strife.

When Goethe's death was told, we said:
Sunk, then, is Europe's sagest head.
Physician of the iron age,
Goethe has done his pilgrimage.

He took the suffering human race,
He read each wound, each weakness clear:
And struck his finger on the place,
And said: Thou ailest here, and here!
He looked on Europe's dying hour
Of fitful dream and feverish power;
His eye plunged down the weltering strife,
The turmoil of expiring life—
He said: The end is everywhere,
Art still has truth, take refuge there!
And he was happy, if to know
Causes of things, and far below
His feet to see the lurid flow
Of terror, and insane distress,
And headlong fate, be happiness.

And Wordsworth!—Ah, pale ghosts, rejoice!
For never has such soothing voice
Been to your shadowy world conveyed,
Since erst, at morn, some wandering shade
Heard the clear song of Orpheus come
Through Hades, and the mournful gloom.
Wordsworth has gone from us—and ye,
Ah, may ye feel his voice as we!
He too upon a wintery clime
Had fallen—on this iron time
Of doubts, disputes, distractions, fears.
He found us when the age had bound
Our souls in its benumbing round;
He spoke, and loosed our hearts in tears.
He laid us as we lay at birth
On the cool flowery lap of earth,
Smiles broke from us, and we had ease;
The hills were round us, and the breeze
Went o'er the sun-lit fields again;
Our foreheads felt the wind and rain.
Our youth returned; for there was shed
On spirits that had long been dead,
Spirits dried up and closely furled,
The freshness of the early world.

Ah! since dark days still bring to light
Man's prudence and man's fiery might,
Time may restore us in his course
Goethe's sage mind and Byron's force;
But where will Europe's latter hour
Again find Wordsworth's healing power?
Others will teach us how to dare,
And against fear our breast to steel;
Others will strengthen us to bear—
But who, ah! who, will make us feel?
The cloud of mortal destiny,
Others will front it fearlessly—
But who, like him, will put it by?

Keep fresh the grass upon his grave,
O Rotha, with thy living wave!
Sing him thy best! for few or none
Hears thy voice right, now he is gone.

Matthew Arnold [1822–1888]

WORDSWORTH'S GRAVE

I

The old rude church, with bare, bald tower, is here;
Beneath its shadow high-born Rotha flows;
Rotha, remembering well who slumbers near,
And with cool murmur lulling his repose.

Rotha, remembering well who slumbers near,
His hills, his lakes, his streams are with him yet.
Surely the heart that reads her own heart clear
Nature forgets not soon: 'tis we forget.

We that with vagrant soul his fixity
Have slighted; faithless, done his deep faith wrong;
Left him for poorer loves, and bowed the knee
To misbegotten strange new gods of song.

Yet, led by hollow ghost or beckoning elf
Far from her homestead to the desert bourn,
The vagrant soul returning to herself
Wearily wise, must needs to him return.

To him and to the powers that with him dwell:—
  Inflowings that divulged not whence they came;
And that secluded Spirit unknowable,
  The mystery we make darker with a name;

The Somewhat which we name but cannot know,
  Even as we name a star and only see
His quenchless flashings forth, which ever show
  And ever hide him, and which are not he.

II

Poet who sleepest by this wandering wave!
  When thou wast born, what birth-gift hadst thou then?
To thee what wealth was that the Immortals gave,
  The wealth thou gavest in thy turn to men?

Not Milton's keen, translunar music thine;
  Not Shakespeare's cloudless, boundless human view;
Not Shelley's flush of rose on peaks divine;
  Nor yet the wizard twilight Coleridge knew.

What hadst thou that could make so large amends
  For all thou hadst not and thy peers possessed,
Motion and fire, swift means to radiant ends?—
  Thou hadst, for weary feet, the gift of rest.

From Shelley's dazzling glow or thunderous haze,
  From Byron's tempest-anger, tempest-mirth,
Men turned to thee and found—not blast and blaze,
  Tumult of tottering heavens, but peace on earth.

Nor peace that grows by Lethe, scentless flower,
  There in white languors to decline and cease;
But peace whose names are also rapture, power,
  Clear sight, and love: for these are parts of peace.

III

I hear it vowed the Muse is with us still;—
  If less divinely frenzied than of yore,
In lieu of feelings she has wondrous skill
  To simulate emotion felt no more.

Not such the authentic Presence pure, that made
This valley vocal in the great days gone!—
In his great days, while yet the spring-time played
About him, and the mighty morning shone.

No word-mosaic artificer, he sang
A lofty song of lowly weal and dole.
Right from the heart, right to the heart it sprang,
Or from the soul leapt instant to the soul.

He felt the charm of childhood, grace of youth,
Grandeur of age, insisting to be sung.
The impassioned argument was simple truth
Half-wondering at its own melodious tongue.

Impassioned? ay, to the song's ecstatic core!
But far removed were clangor, storm, and feud;
For plenteous health was his, exceeding store
Of joy, and an impassioned quietude.

IV

A hundred years ere he to manhood came,
Song from celestial heights had wandered down,
Put off her robe of sunlight, dew, and flame,
And donned a modish dress to charm the Town.

Thenceforth she but festooned the porch of things;
Apt at life's lore, incurious what life meant.
Dextrous of hand, she struck her lute's few strings;
Ignobly perfect, barrenly content.

Unflushed with ardor and unblanched with awe,
Her lips in profitless derision curled,
She saw with dull emotion—if she saw—
The vision of the glory of the world.

The human masque she watched, with dreamless eyes
In whose clear shallows lurked no trembling shade:
The stars, unkenned by her, might set and rise;
Unmarked by her, the daisies bloom and fade.

The age grew sated with her sterile wit.
Herself waxed weary on her loveless throne.
Men felt life's tide, the sweep and surge of it,
And craved a living voice, a natural tone.

For none the less, though song was but half true,
The world lay common, one abounding theme.
Man joyed and wept, and fate was ever new,
And love was sweet, life real, death no dream.

In sad, stern verse the rugged scholar-sage
Bemoaned his toil unvalued, youth uncheered.
His numbers wore the vesture of the age,
But, 'neath it beating, the great heart was heard.

From dewy pastures, uplands sweet with thyme,
A virgin breeze freshened the jaded day.
It wafted Collins' lonely vesper-chime,
It breathed abroad the frugal note of Gray.

It fluttered here and there, nor swept in vain
The dusty haunts where futile echoes dwell,—
Then, in a cadence soft as summer rain,
And sad from Auburn voiceless, drooped and fell.

It drooped and fell, and one 'neath northern skies,
With southern heart, who tilled his father's field,
Found Poesy a-dying, bade her rise
And touch quick Nature's hem and go forth healed.

On life's broad plain the plowman's conquering share
Upturned the fallow lands of truth anew,
And o'er the formal garden's trim parterre
The peasant's team a ruthless furrow drew.

Bright was his going forth, but clouds ere long
Whelmed him; in gloom his radiance set, and those
Twin morning stars of the new century's song,
Those morning stars that sang together, rose.

In elvish speech the Dreamer told his tale
Of marvelous oceans swept by fateful wings.—
The Seër strayed not from earth's human pale
But the mysterious face of common things

He mirrored as the moon in Rydal Mere
Is mirrored, when the breathless night hangs blue:
Strangely remote she seems and wondrous near,
And by some nameless difference born anew.

V

Peace—peace—and rest! Ah, how the lyre is loth,
Or powerless now, to give what all men seek!
Either it deadens with ignoble sloth
Or deafens with shrill tumult, loudly weak.

Where is the singer whose large notes and clear
Can heal, and arm, and plenish, and sustain?
Lo, one with empty music floods the ear,
And one, the heart refreshing, tires the brain.

And idly tuneful, the loquacious throng
Flutter and twitter, prodigal of time,
And little masters make a toy of song,
Till grave men weary of the sound of rhyme.

And some go pranked in faded antique dress,
Abhorring to be hale and glad and free;
And some parade a conscious naturalness,
The scholar's not the child's simplicity.

Enough;—the wisest who from words forbear
The gentle river rails not as it glides;
And suave and charitable, the winsome air
Chides not at all, or only him who chides.

VI

Nature! we storm thine ear with choric notes.
Thou answerest through the calm great nights and days,
"Laud me who will: not tuneless are your throats;
Yet if ye paused I should not miss the praise."

We falter, half-rebuked, and sing again.
  We chant thy desertness and haggard gloom,
Or with thy splendid wrath inflate the strain,
  Or touch it with thy color and perfume.

One, his melodious blood aflame for thee,
  Wooed with fierce lust, his hot heart world-defiled.
One, with the upward eye of infancy,
  Looked in thy face, and felt himself thy child.

Thee he approached without distrust or dread—
  Beheld thee throned, an awful queen, above—
Climbed to thy lap and merely laid his head
  Against thy warm wild heart of mother-love.

He heard that vast heart beating—thou didst press
  Thy child so close, and lov'dst him unaware.
Thy beauty gladdened him; yet he scarce less
  Had loved thee, had he never found thee fair!

For thou wast not as legendary lands
  To which with curious eyes and ears we roam.
Nor wast thou as a fane 'mid solemn sands,
  Where palmers halt at evening. Thou wast home.

And here, at home, still bides he; but he sleeps;
  Not to be wakened even at thy word;
Though we, vague dreamers, dream he somewhere keeps
  An ear still open to thy voice still heard,—

Thy voice, as heretofore, about him blown,
  For ever blown about his silence now;
Thy voice, though deeper, yet so like his own
  That almost, when he sang, we deemed 'twas thou!

VII

Behind Helm Crag and Silver Howe the sheen
  Of the retreating day is less and less.
Soon will the lordlier summits, here unseen,
  Gather the night about their nakedness.

The half-heard bleat of sheep comes from the hill.
Faint sounds of childish play are in the air.
The river murmurs past. All else is still.
The very graves seem stiller than they were.

Afar though nation be on nation hurled,
And life with toil and ancient pain depressed,
Here one may scarce believe the whole wide world
Is not at peace, and all man's heart at rest.

Rest! 'twas the gift he gave, and peace! the shade
He spread, for spirits fevered with the sun.
To him his bounties are come back—here laid
In rest, in peace, his labor nobly done.

William Watson [1858–

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN

JERUSALEM *

For thee, O dear dear Country!
Mine eyes their vigils keep;
For very love, beholding
Thy happy name, they weep:
The mention of thy glory
Is unction to the breast,
And medicine in sickness,
And love, and life, and rest.

O come, O onely Mansion!
O Paradise of Joy!
Where tears are ever banished,
And smiles have no alloy;
Beside thy living waters
All plants are, great and small,
The cedar of the forest,
The hyssop of the wall:
With jaspers glow thy bulwarks;
Thy streets with emeralds blaze;
The sardius and the topaz
Unite in thee their rays:
Thine ageless walls are bonded
With amethyst unpriced:
Thy Saints build up its fabric,
And the corner-stone is Christ.

The Cross is all thy splendor,
The Crucified thy praise:
His laud and benediction
Thy ransomed people raise:

* For the original of this poem see page 3824.

Jesus, the Gem of Beauty,
  True God and Man, they sing:
The never-failing Garden,
  The ever-golden Ring:
The Door, the Pledge, the Husband,
  The Guardian of his Court:
The Day-star of Salvation,
  The Porter and the Port.
Thou hast no shore, fair ocean!
  Thou hast no time, bright day!
Dear fountain of refreshment
  To pilgrims far away!

Upon the Rock of Ages
  They raise thy holy tower:
Thine is the victor's laurel,
  And thine the golden dower:
Thou feel'st in mystic rapture,
  O Bride that know'st no guile,
The Prince's sweetest kisses,
  The Prince's loveliest smile:

Unfading lilies, bracelets
  Of living pearl thine own:
The Lamb is ever near thee,
  The Bridegroom thine alone:
The Crown is He to guerdon,
  The Buckler to protect,
And He Himself the Mansion,
  And He the Architect.
The only art thou needest,
  Thanksgiving for thy lot:
The only joy thou seekest,
  The Life where Death is not.
And all thine endless leisure
  In sweetest accents sings,
The ill that was thy merit,—
  The wealth that is thy King's!

Jerusalem the golden,
With milk and honey blest,
Beneath thy contemplation
Sink heart and voice oppressed;
I know not, O I know not,
What social joys are there!
What radiancy of glory,
What light beyond compare!

And when I fain would sing them
My spirit fails and faints,
And vainly would it image
The assembly of the Saints.

They stand, those halls of Syon,
Conjubilant with song,
And bright with many an angel,
And all the martyr throng:
The Prince is ever in them;
The daylight is serene:
The pastures of the Blessèd
Are decked in glorious sheen.

There is the Throne of David,—
And there, from care released,
The song of them that triumph,
The shout of them that feast:
And they who, with their Leader
Have conquered in the fight,
For ever and for ever
Are clad in robes of white!

O holy, placid harp-notes
Of that eternal hymn!
O sacred, sweet refection,
And peace of Seraphim!
O thirst, for ever ardent,
Yet evermore content!
O true, peculiar vision
Of God cunctipotent!

Ye know the many mansions
For many a glorious name
And divers retributions
That divers merits claim:
For midst the constellations
That deck our earthly sky,
This star than that is brighter,—
And so it is on high.

Jerusalem the glorious!
The glory of the Elect!
O dear and future vision
That eager hearts expect:
Even now by faith I see thee
Even here thy walls discern:
To thee my thoughts are kindled,
And strive and pant and yearn:
Jerusalem the onely,
That look'st from heaven below,
In thee is all my glory;
In me is all my woe!
And though my body may not,
My spirit seeks thee fain,
Till flesh and earth return me
To earth and flesh again.
O none can tell thy bulwarks,
How gloriously they rise:
O none can tell thy capitals
Of beautiful device:
Thy loveliness oppresses
All human thought and heart:
And none, O peace, O Syon,
Can sing thee as thou art.
New mansion of new people,
Whom God's own love and light
Promote, increase, make holy,
Identify, unite.
Thou City of the Angels!
Thou City of the Lord!

Whose everlasting music
  Is the glorious decachord!
And there the band of Prophets
  United praise ascribes,
And there the twelvefold chorus
  Of Israel's ransomed tribes:
The lily-beds of virgins,
  The roses' martyr-glow,
The cohort of the Fathers
  Who kept the faith below!
And there the Sole-Begotten
  Is Lord in regal state;
He, Judah's mystic Lion,
  He, Lamb Immaculate.

O fields that know no sorrow!
  O state that fears no strife!
O princely bowers! O land of flowers!
  O realm and home of life!

John Mason Neale [1818–1866]

THE NEW JERUSALEM *

From "Song of Mary the Mother of Christ"

Jerusalem, my happy home,
  When shall I come to thee?
When shall my sorrows have an end?
  Thy joys when shall I see?

O happy harbor of the Saints!
  O sweet and pleasant soil!
In thee no sorrow may be found,
  No grief, no care, no toil.

There lust and lucre cannot dwell,
  There envy bears no sway;
There is no hunger, heat, nor cold,
  But pleasure every way.

* For the original of this poem see page 3826.

Thy walls are made of precious stones,
Thy bulwarks diamonds square;
Thy gates are of right orient pearl,
Exceeding rich and rare.

Thy turrets and thy pinnacles
With carbuncles do shine;
Thy very streets are paved with gold,
Surpassing clear and fine.

Ah, my sweet home, Jerusalem,
Would God I were in thee!
Would God my woes were at an end,
Thy joys that I might see!

Thy gardens and thy gallant walks
Continually are green;
There grow such sweet and pleasant flowers
As nowhere else are seen.

Quite through thy streets, with silver sound,
The flood of Life doth flow;
Upon whose banks on every side
The wood of Life doth grow.

There trees for evermore bear fruit,
And evermore do spring;
There evermore the angels sit,
And evermore do sing.

Our Lady sings Magnificat
With tones surpassing sweet;
And all the virgins bear their part,
Sitting about her feet.

Jerusalem, my happy home,
Would God I were in thee!
Would God my woes were at an end,
Thy joys that I might see!

Unknown

PEACE

My soul, there is a country
  Afar beyond the stars,
Where stands a wingèd sentry
  All skilful in the wars:
There, above noise and danger,
  Sweet Peace sits crowned with smiles,
And One born in a manger
  Commands the beauteous files.
He is thy gracious Friend,
  And—O my soul, awake!—
Did in pure love descend
  To die here for thy sake.
If thou canst get but thither,
  There grows the flower of Peace,
The Rose that cannot wither,
  Thy fortress, and thy ease.
Leave then thy foolish ranges;
  For none can thee secure
But One who never changes—
  Thy God, thy Life, thy Cure.

Henry Vaughan [1622–1695]

PARADISE

O Paradise, O Paradise,
  Who doth not crave for rest,
Who would not seek the happy land
  Where they that loved are blest?
    Where loyal hearts and true
      Stand ever in the light,
    All rapture through and through,
      In God's most holy sight.

O Paradise, O Paradise,
  The world is growing old;
Who would not be at rest and free
  Where love is never cold?

O Paradise, O Paradise,
Wherefore doth death delay?
Bright death, that is the welcome dawn
Of our eternal day.

O Paradise, O Paradise,
'Tis weary waiting here;
I long to be where Jesus is,
To feel, to see Him near.

O Paradise, O Paradise,
I want to sin no more,
I want to be as pure on earth
As on thy spotless shore.

O Paradise, O Paradise,
I greatly long to see
The special place my dearest Lord
Is destining for me.

O Paradise, O Paradise,
I feel 'twill not be long;
Patience! I almost think I hear
Faint fragments of thy song;
Where loyal hearts and true
Stand ever in the light,
All rapture through and through,
In God's most holy sight.

Frederick William Faber [1814–1863]

THE WORLD

I SAW Eternity the other night,
Like a great ring of pure and endless light,
All calm, as it was bright;
And round beneath it, Time in hours, days, years,
Driven by the spheres,
Like a vast shadow moved; in which the world
And all her train were hurled.

The doting lover in his quaintest strain
Did there complain;
Near him, his lute, his fancy, and his flights,
Wit's sour delights;
With gloves, and knots and silly snares of pleasure,
Yet his dear treasure
All scattered lay, while he his eyes did pour
Upon a flower.

The darksome statesman, hung with weights and woe,
Like a thick midnight-fog, moved there so slow,
He did nor stay, nor go;
Condemning thoughts—like sad eclipses—scowl
Upon his soul,
And clouds of crying witnesses without
Pursued him with one shout.
Yet digged the mole, and lest his ways be found,
Worked under ground,
Where he did clutch his prey; but one did see
That policy:
Churches and altars fed him; perjuries
Were gnats and flies;
It rained about him blood and tears, but he
Drank them as free.

The fearful miser on a heap of rust
Sate pining all his life there, did scarce trust
His own hands with the dust,
Yet would not place one piece above, but lives
In fear of thieves.
Thousands there were as frantic as himself,
And hugged each one his pelf;
The down-right epicure placed heaven in sense,
And scorned pretense;
While others, slipped into a wide excess,
Said little less;
The weaker sort slight, trival wares enslave,
Who think them brave;
And poor, despised Truth sate counting by
Their victory.

Yet some, who all this while did weep and sing,
And sing and weep, soared up into the ring;
But most would use no wing.
O fools—said I—thus to prefer dark night
Before true light!
To live in grots and caves, and hate the day
Because it shows the way;
The way, which from this dead and dark abode
Leads up to God;
A way where you might tread the sun, and be
More bright then he!
But as I did their madness so discuss,
One whispered thus,
"This ring the Bride-groom did for none provide,
But for His Bride."

Henry Vaughan [1622–1695]

THE WHITE ISLAND

In this world, the Isle of Dreams,
While we sit by sorrow's streams,
Tears and terror are our themes
Reciting:

But when once from hence we fly,
More and more approaching nigh
Unto young Eternity
Uniting:

In that whiter island, where
Things are evermore sincere;
Candor here, and luster there
Delighting:

There no monstrous fancies shall
Out of Hell an horror call,
To create (or cause at all)
Affrighting.

There in calm and cooling sleep
We our eyes shall never steep;
But eternal watch shall keep Attending

Pleasures such as shall pursue
Me immortalized, and you;
And fresh joys, as never too
Have ending.

Robert Herrick [1591–1674]

"THIS WORLD IS ALL A FLEETING SHOW"

This world is all a fleeting show,
For man's illusion given;
The smiles of joy, the tears of woe,
Deceitful shine, deceitful flow,—
There's nothing true but Heaven!

And false the light on glory's plume,
As fading hues of even;
And love, and hope, and beauty's bloom
Are blossoms gathered for the tomb,—
There's nothing bright but Heaven!

Poor wanderers of a stormy day,
From wave to wave we're driven,
And fancy's flash and reason's ray
Serve but to light the troubled way,—
There's nothing calm but Heaven!

Thomas Moore [1779–1852]

THE LAND O' THE LEAL

I'm wearin' awa', John,
Like snaw-wreaths in thaw, John,
I'm wearin' awa'
To the land o' the leal.

There's nae sorrow there, John,
There's neither cauld nor care, John,
The day is aye fair
In the land o' the leal.

Our bonnie bairn's there, John,
She was baith gude and fair, John;
And O! we grudged her sair
To the land o' the leal.
But sorrow's sel' wears past, John,
And joy's a-comin' fast, John,
The joy that's aye to last
In the land o' the leal.

Sae dear's that joy was bought, John,
Sae free the battle fought, John,
That sinfu' man e'er brought
To the land o' the leal.
O, dry your glistening e'e, John!
My saul langs to be free, John,
And angels beckon me
To the land o' the leal.

O, haud ye leal and true, John!
Your day it's wearin' through, John,
And I'll welcome you
To the land o' the leal.
Now fare-ye-weel, my ain John,
This warld's cares are vain, John,
We'll meet, and we'll be fain,
In the land o' the leal.

Carolina Nairne [1766–1845]

HEAVENWARD

Would you be young again?
So would not I—
One tear to memory given,
Onward I'd hie.

Life's dark flood forded o'er,
All but at rest on shore,
Say, would you plunge once more,
With home so nigh?

If you might, would you now
Retrace your way?
Wander through thorny wilds,
Faint and astray?
Night's gloomy watches fled,
Morning all beaming red,
Hope's smiles around us shed,
Heavenward—away.

Where are they gone, of yore
My best delight?
Dear and more dear, though now
Hidden from sight.
Where they rejoice to be,
There is the land for me;
Fly time—fly speedily,
Come life and light.

Carolina Nairne [1766–1845]

"REST IS NOT HERE"

What's this vain world to me?
Rest is not here;
False are the smiles I see,
The mirth I hear.
Where is youth's joyful glee?
Where all once dear to me?
Gone as the shadows flee—
Rest is not here.

Why did the morning shine
Blithely and fair?
Why did those tints so fine
Vanish in air?

Does not the vision say,
Faint lingering heart, away,
Why in this desert stay—
Dark land of care!

Where souls angelic soar,
Thither repair:
Let this vain world no more
Lull and ensnare.
That heaven I love so well
Still in my heart shall dwell;
All things around me tell
Rest is found there.

Carolina Nairne [1766–1845]

AT HOME IN HEAVEN

PART I

"For ever with the Lord!"
Amen! so let it be!
Life from the dead is in that word,
'Tis immortality.

Here in the body pent,
Absent from Him I roam,
Yet nightly pitch my moving tent
A day's march nearer home.

My Father's house on high,
Home of my soul! how near,
At times, to faith's foreseeing eye,
Thy golden gates appear!

Ah! then my spirit faints
To reach the land I love,
The bright inheritance of saints,
Jerusalem above!

Yet clouds will intervene,
And all my prospect flies;
Like Noah's dove, I flit between
Rough seas and stormy skies.

Anon the clouds depart,
The winds and waters cease;
While sweetly o'er my gladdened heart
Expands the bow of peace!

Beneath its glowing arch,
Along the hallowed ground,
I see cherubic armies march,
A camp of fire around.

I hear at morn and even,
At noon and midnight hour,
The choral harmonies of heaven
Earth's Babel-tongues o'erpower.

Then, then I feel that He,
(Remembered or forgot,)
The Lord, is never far from me,
Though I perceive Him not.

PART II

In darkness as in light,
Hidden alike from view,
I sleep, I wake, as in His sight
Who looks all nature through.

From the dim hour of birth,
Through every changing state
Of mortal pilgrimage on earth,
Till its appointed date;

All that I am, have been,
All that I yet may be,
He sees at once, as He hath seen,
And shall forever see.

How can I meet His eyes?
Mine on the cross I cast,
And own my life a Saviour's prize,
Mercy from first to last

"Forever with the Lord:"
Father, if 'tis Thy will,
The promise of that faithful word
Even here to me fulfil!

So, when my latest breath
Shall rend the veil in twain,
By death I shall escape from death,
And life eternal gain.

Knowing as I am known
How shall I love that word,
And oft repeat before the throne,
"For ever with the Lord!"

Then though the soul enjoy
Communion high and sweet,
While worms this body must destroy,
Both shall in glory meet.

The trump of final doom
Will speak the self-same word,
And heaven's voice thunder through the tomb,
"For ever with the Lord!"

The tomb shall echo deep
That death-awakening sound;
The saints shall hear it in their sleep
And answer from the ground.

Then upward as they fly,
That resurrection-word
Shall be their shout of victory,
"For ever with the Lord!"

That resurrection-word,
That shout of victory,
Once more,—"For ever with the Lord!"
Amen, so let it be.

James Montgomery [1771–1854]

PARADISE

Once in a dream I saw the flowers
  That bud and bloom in Paradise;
  More fair they are than waking eyes
Have seen in all this world of ours,
And faint the perfume-bearing rose,
  And faint the lily on its stem,
And faint the perfect violet,
  Compared with them.

I heard the songs of Paradise;
  Each bird sat singing in its place;
  A tender song so full of grace
It soared like incense to the skies.
Each bird sat singing to its mate
  Soft cooing notes among the trees:
The nightingale herself were cold
  To such as these.

I saw the fourfold River flow,
  And deep it was, with golden sand;
  It flowed between a mossy land
With murmured music grave and low.
It hath refreshment for all thirst,
  For fainting spirit strength and rest:
Earth holds not such a draught as this
  From east to west.

The Tree of Life stood budding there,
  Abundant with its twelvefold fruits;
  Eternal sap sustains its roots,
Its shadowing branches fill the air.
Its leaves are healing for the world,
  Its fruit the hungry world can feed,
Sweeter than honey to the taste
  And balm indeed.

I saw the Gate called Beautiful;
  And looked, but scarce could look within;
  I saw the golden streets begin,
And outskirts of the glassy pool.

Oh harps, oh crowns of plenteous stars,
Oh green palm branches, many-leaved—
Eye hath not seen, nor ear hath heard,
Nor heart conceived.

I hope to see these things again,
But not as once in dreams by night;
To see them with my very sight,
And touch and handle and attain:
To have all heaven beneath my feet
For narrow way that once they trod;
To have my part with all the saints,
And with my God.

Christina Georgina Rossetti [1830–1894]

"HEAVEN OVERARCHES EARTH AND SEA"

Heaven overarches earth and sea,
Earth-sadness and sea-bitterness.
Heaven overarches you and me:
A little while and we shall be—
Please God—where there is no more sea
Nor barren wilderness.

Heaven overarches you and me,
And all earth's gardens and her graves.
Look up with me, until we see
The day break and the shadows flee.
What though to-night wrecks you and me,
If so to-morrow saves?

Christina Georgina Rossetti [1830–1894]

THE SUNSET CITY

There's a city that lies in the Kingdom of Clouds,
In the glorious country on high,
Which an azure and silvery curtain enshrouds,
To screen it from mortal eye;

A city of temples and turrets of gold,
That gleam by a sapphire sea,
Like jewels more splendid than earth may behold,
Or are dreamed of by you and by me.

And about it are highlands of amber that reach
Far away till they melt in the gloom;
And waters that hem an immaculate beach
With fringes of luminous foam.

Aerial bridges of pearl there are,
And belfries of marvelous shapes,
And lighthouses lit by the evening star,
That sparkle on violet capes;

And hanging gardens that far away
Enchantedly float aloof;
Rainbow pavilions in avenues gay,
And banners of glorious woof!

When the Summer sunset's crimsoning fires
Are aglow in the western sky,
The pilgrim discovers the domes and spires
Of this wonderful city on high;

And gazing enrapt as the gathering shade
Creeps over the twilight lea,
Sees palace and pinnacle totter and fade,
And sink in the sapphire sea;

Till the vision loses by slow degrees
The magical splendor it wore;
The silvery curtain is drawn, and he sees
The beautiful city no more!

Henry Sylvester Cornwell [1831–1886]

GRADATIM

Heaven is not reached at a single bound;
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit round by round.

I count this thing to be grandly true:
That a noble deed is a step toward God,
Lifting the soul from the common clod
To a purer air and a broader view.

We rise by the things that are under feet;
By what we have mastered of good and gain;
By the pride deposed and the passion slain,
And the vanquished ills that we hourly meet.

We hope, we aspire, we resolve, we trust,
When the morning calls us to life and light,
But our hearts grow weary, and, ere the night,
Our lives are trailing the sordid dust.

We hope, we resolve, we aspire, we pray,
And we think that we mount the air on wings
Beyond the recall of sensual things,
While our feet still cling to the heavy clay.

Wings for the angels, but feet for men!
We may borrow the wings to find the way—
We may hope, and resolve, and aspire, and pray;
But our feet must rise, or we fall again.

Only in dreams is a ladder thrown
From the weary earth to the sapphire walls;
But the dreams depart, and the vision falls,
And the sleeper wakes on his pillow of stone.

Heaven is not reached at a single bound;
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit, round by round.

Josiah Gilbert Holland [1819–1881]

THE OTHER WORLD

It lies around us like a cloud—
The world we do not see;
Yet the sweet closing of an eye
May bring us there to be.

Its gentle breezes fan our cheeks
  Amid our worldly cares;
Its gentle voices whisper love,
  And mingle with our prayers.

Sweet hearts around us throb and beat,
  Sweet helping hands are stirred,
And palpitates the veil between
  With breathings almost heard.

The silence—awful, sweet, and calm
  They have no power to break;
For mortal words are not for them
  To utter or partake.

So thin, so soft, so sweet they glide,
  So near to press they seem,
They lull us gently to our rest,
  And melt into our dream.

And, in the hush of rest they bring,
  'Tis easy now to see
How lovely and how sweet a pass
  The hour of death may be!

To close the eye and close the ear,
  Wrapped in a trance of bliss,
And, gently drawn in loving arms,
  To swoon to that—from this.

Scarce knowing if we wake or sleep,
  Scarce asking where we are,
To feel all evil sink away,
  All sorrow and all care.

Sweet souls around us! watch us still,
  Press nearer to our side,
Into our thoughts, into our prayers,
  With gentle helping glide.

Let death between us be as naught,
A dried and vanished stream;
Your joy be the reality,
Our suffering life the dream.

Harriet Beecher Stowe [1811–1896]

MY AIN COUNTREE

I AM far frae my hame, an' I'm weary often whiles
For the longed-for hame-bringing an' my Father's welcome smiles;
I'll ne'er be fu' content until my een do see
The gowden gates o' heaven, an' my ain countree.

The earth is flecked wi' flowers, mony-tinted, fresh an' gay,
The birdies warble blithely, for my Father made them sae;
But these sights an' these soun's will as naething be to me,
When I hear the angels singing in my ain countree.

I've his gude word of promise, that some gladsome day the King
To his ain royal palace his banished hame will bring;
Wi' een an' wi' heart running over we shall see
"The King in his beauty," an' our ain countree.

My sins hae been mony an' my sorrows hae been sair,
But there they'll never vex me, nor be remembered mair;
His bluid has made me white, his hand shall wipe mine ee,
When he brings me hame at last to my ain countree.

Like a bairn to his mither, a wee birdie to its nest,
I wud fain be ganging noo unto my Saviour's breast;
For he gathers in his bosom witless, worthless lambs like me,
An' he carries them himsel' to his ain countree.

He's faithfu' that hath promised, he'll surely come again;
He'll keep his tryst wi' me, at what hour I dinna ken;
But he bids me still to watch, an' ready aye to be
To gang at ony moment to my ain countree.

So I'm watching aye an' singing o' my hame as I wait,
For the soun'ing o' his footsteps this side the gowden gate.
God gie his grace to ilka ane wha listens noo to me,
That we may a' gang in gladness to our ain countree.

Mary Lee Demarest [1838–1888]

HOME

THERE lies a little city in the hills;
White are its roofs, dim is each dwelling's door,
And peace with perfect rest its bosom fills.

There the pure mist, the pity of the sea,
Comes as a white, soft hand, and reaches o'er
And touches its still face most tenderly.

Unstirred and calm, amid our shifting years,
Lo! where it lies, far from the clash and roar,
With quiet distance blurred, as if through tears.

O heart that prayest so for God to send
Some loving messenger to go before
And lead the way to where thy longings end,

Be sure, be very sure, that soon will come
His kindest angel, and through that still door
Into the Infinite love will lead thee home.

Edward Rowland Sill [1841–1887]

CHARTLESS

I NEVER saw a moor,
I never saw the sea;
Yet know I how the heather looks,
And what a wave must be.

I never spoke with God,
Nor visited in heaven;
Yet certain am I of the spot
As if the chart were given.

Emily Dickinson [1830–1886]

"IT CANNOT BE"

It cannot be that He who made
This wondrous world for our delight,
Designed that all its charms should fade
And pass forever from our sight;
That all shall wither and decay,
And know on earth no life but this,
With only one finite survey
Of all its beauty and its bliss.

It cannot be that all the years
Of toil and care and grief we live
Shall find no recompense but tears,
No sweet return that earth can give;
That all that leads us to aspire,
And struggle onward to achieve,
And every unattained desire
Were given only to deceive.

It cannot be that, after all
The mighty conquests of the mind,
Our thoughts shall pass beyond recall
And leave no record here behind;
That all our dreams of love and fame,
And hopes that time has swept away,—
All that enthralled this mortal frame,—
Shall not return some other day.

It cannot be that all the ties
Of kindred souls and loving hearts
Are broken when this body dies,
And the immortal mind departs;
That no serener light shall break
At last upon our mortal eyes,
To guide us as our footsteps make
The pilgrimage to Paradise.

David Banks Sickels [1837–

A THANKSGIVING TO GOD FOR HIS HOUSE

LORD, Thou hast given me a cell
Wherein to dwell;
A little house, whose humble roof
Is weather-proof;
Under the spars of which I lie
Both soft and dry;
Where Thou, my chamber for to ward,
Hast set a guard
Of harmless thoughts, to watch and keep
Me, while I sleep.
Low is my porch, as is my fate;
Both void of state;
And yet the threshold of my door
Is worn by the poor,
Who thither come, and freely get
Good words, or meat.
Like as my parlor, so my hall
And kitchen's small;
A little buttery, and therein
A little bin,
Which keeps my little loaf of bread
Unchipped, unflead;
Some brittle sticks of thorn or briar
Make me a fire,
Close by whose living coal I sit,
And glow like it.
Lord, I confess too, when I dine,
The pulse is Thine,
And all those other bits that be
There placed by Thee:
The worts, the purslain, and the mess
Of water-cress;
Which of Thy kindness Thou hast sent;
And my content
Makes those, and my belovèd beet,
To be more sweet.
'Tis Thou that crown'st my glittering hearth
With guiltless mirth,

And giv'st me wassail bowls to drink,
Spiced to the brink.
Lord, 'tis Thy plenty-dropping hand
That soils my land,
And giv'st me, for my bushel sown,
Twice ten for one;
Thou mak'st my teeming hen to lay
Her egg each day;
Besides, my healthful ewes to bear
Me twins each year;
The while the conduits of my kine
Run cream, for wine:
All these, and better, Thou dost send
Me, to this end,—
That I should render, for my part,
A thankful heart;
Which, fired with incense, I resign,
As wholly Thine;
—But the acceptance, that must be,
My Christ, by Thee.

Robert Herrick [1591–1674]

THE SHEPHERD BOY SINGS IN THE VALLEY OF HUMILIATION

From "The Pilgrim's Progress"

He that is down needs fear no fall,
He that is low, no pride;
He that is humble ever shall
Have God to be his guide.

I am content with what I have,
Little be it or much:
And, Lord, contentment still I crave,
Because Thou savest such.

Fullness to such a burden is
That go on pilgrimage:
Here little, and hereafter bliss,
Is best from age to age.

John Bunyan [1628–1688]

THE PILGRIM

From "The Pilgrim's Progress"

WHO would true valor see,
Let him come hither!
One here will constant be,
Come wind, come weather;
There's no discouragement
Shall make him once relent
His first-avowed intent
To be a Pilgrim.

Whoso beset him round
With dismal stories,
Do but themselves confound;
His strength the more is.
No lion can him fright;
He'll with a giant fight;
But he will have a right
To be a Pilgrim.

Hobgoblin, nor foul fiend,
Can daunt his spirit;
He knows he at the end
Shall Life inherit:—
Then, fancies, fly away;
He'll not fear what men say;
He'll labor, night and day,
To be a Pilgrim.

John Bunyan [1628–1688]

"THE BIRD, LET LOOSE IN EASTERN SKIES"

THE bird, let loose in eastern skies,
When hastening fondly home,
Ne'er stoops to earth her wing, nor flies
Where idle warblers roam;

But high she shoots through air and light,
Above all low delay,
Where nothing earthly bounds her flight,
Nor shadow dims her way.

So grant me, God! from every care
And stain of passion free,
Aloft, through virtue's purer air,
To hold my course to Thee!
No sin to cloud,—no lure to stay
My soul, as home she springs;—
Thy sunshine on her joyful way,
Thy freedom in her wings!

Thomas Moore [1779–1852]

"HE LIVETH LONG WHO LIVETH WELL"

He liveth long who liveth well!
All other life is short and vain;
He liveth longest who can tell
Of living most for heavenly gain.

He liveth long who liveth well!
All else is being flung away;
He liveth longest who can tell
Of true things truly done each day.

Waste not thy being; back to Him
Who freely gave it, freely give;
Else is that being but a dream;
'Tis but to be, and not to live.

Be what thou seemest! live thy creed!
Hold up to earth the torch divine;
Be what thou prayest to be made;
Let the great Master's steps be thine.

Fill up each hour with what will last;
Buy up the moments as they go;
The life above, when this is past,
Is the ripe fruit of life below.

Sow truth, if thou the truth wouldst reap:
Who sows the false shall reap the vain;
Erect and sound thy conscience keep;
From hollow words and deeds refrain.

Sow love, and taste its fruitage pure;
Sow peace, and reap its harvests bright;
Sow sunbeams on the rock and moor,
And find a harvest-home of light.

Horatius Bonar [1808–1889]

THE MASTER'S TOUCH

In the still air the music lies unheard;
In the rough marble beauty hides unseen:
To wake the music and the beauty needs
The master's touch, the sculptor's chisel keen.

Great Master, touch us with thy skilful hand;
Let not the music that is in us die!
Great Sculptor, hew and polish us; nor let,
Hidden and lost, thy form within us lie!

Spare not the stroke! do with us as thou wilt!
Let there be naught unfinished, broken, marred;
Complete thy purpose, that we may become
Thy perfect image, O our God and Lord!

Horatius Bonar [1808–1889]

HOW WE LEARN

Great truths are dearly bought. The common truth,
Such as men give and take from day to day,
Comes in the common walks of easy life,
Blown by the careless wind across our way.

Bought in the market, at the current price,
Bred of the smile, the jest, perchance the bowl,
It tells no tale of daring or of worth,
Nor pierces even the surface of a soul.

Great truths are greatly won. Not found by chance,
Nor wafted on the breath of summer dream,
But grasped in the great struggle of the soul,
Hard buffeting with adverse wind and stream.

Not in the general mart, 'mid corn and wine,
Not in the merchandise of gold and gems,
Not in the world's gay halls of midnight mirth,
Not 'mid the blaze of regal diadems,

But in the day of conflict, fear, and grief,
When the strong hand of God, put forth in might,
Plows up the subsoil of the stagnant heart,
And brings the imprisoned truth-seed to the light.

Wrung from the troubled spirit in hard hours
Of weakness, solitude, perchance of pain,
Truth springs, like harvest, from the well-plowed field,
And the soul feels it has not wept in vain.

Horatius Bonar [1808–1889]

LOVE

Love bade me welcome; yet my soul drew back,
Guilty of dust and sin.
But quick-eyed Love, observing me grow slack
From my first entrance in,
Drew nearer to me, sweetly questioning
If I lack anything.

"A guest," I answered, "worthy to be here:"
Love said, "You shall be he."
"I, the unkind, ungrateful? Ah, my dear,
I cannot look on Thee."
Love took my hand and, smiling, did reply,
"Who made the eyes but I?"

"Truth, Lord; but I have marred them: let my shame Go where it doth deserve."
"And know you not," says Love, "Who bore the blame?"
"My dear, then I will serve."
"You must sit down," says Love, "and taste my meat."
So I did sit and eat.

George Herbert [1593–1633]

THE COLLAR

I STRUCK the board, and cried, "No more;
I will abroad.
What, shall I ever sigh and pine?
My lines and life are free; free as the road,
Loose as the wind, as large as store.
Shall I be still in suit?
Have I no harvest but a thorn
To let me blood and not restore
What I have lost with cordial fruit?
Sure there was wine,
Before my sighs did dry it; there was corn
Before my tears did drown it;
Is the year only lost to me?
Have I no bays to crown it,
No flowers, no garlands gay? all blasted,
All wasted?
Not so, my heart; but there is fruit,
And thou hast hands.
Recover all thy sigh-blown age
On double pleasures; leave thy cold dispute
Of what is fit and not; forsake thy cage,
Thy rope of sands
Which petty thoughts have made; and made to thee
Good cable, to enforce and draw,
And be thy law,
While thou didst wink and wouldst not see.
Away! take heed;
I will abroad.
Call in thy death's-head there, tie up thy fears;
He that forbears
To suit and serve his need
Deserves his load."
But as I raved and grew more fierce and wild
At every word,
Methought I heard one calling, "Child!"
And I replied, "My Lord!"

George Herbert [1593–1633]

VIRTUE

Sweet day, so cool, so calm, so bright!
The bridal of the earth and sky—
The dew shall weep thy fall to-night;
For thou must die.

Sweet rose, whose hue angry and brave
Bids the rash gazer wipe his eye,
Thy root is ever in its grave,
And thou must die.

Sweet spring, full of sweet days and roses,
A box where sweets compacted lie,
My music shows ye have your closes,
And all must die.

Only a sweet and virtuous soul,
Like seasoned timber, never gives;
But though the whole world turn to coal
Then chiefly lives.

George Herbert [1593–1633]

DISCIPLINE

Throw away Thy rod,
Throw away Thy wrath;
O my God,
Take the gentle path!

For my heart's desire
Unto Thine is bent:
I aspire
To a full consent.

Not a word or look
I affect to own,
But by book,
And Thy Book alone.

Though I fail, I weep;
Though I halt in pace,
Yet I creep
To the throne of grace.

Then let wrath remove;
Love will do the deed;
For with love
Stony hearts will bleed.

Love is swift of foot;
Love's a man of war,
And can shoot,
And can hit from far.

Who can 'scape his bow?
That which wrought on Thee,
Brought Thee low,
Needs must work on me.

Throw away Thy rod;
Though man frailties hath,
Thou art God:
Throw away Thy wrath.

George Herbert [1593–1633]

HOLY BAPTISM

Since, Lord, to Thee
A narrow way and little gate
Is all the passage, on my infancy
Thou didst lay hold, and antedate
My faith in me.

O, let me still
Write Thee "great God," and me "a child";
Let me be soft and supple to Thy will,
Small to myself, to others mild,
Behither ill.

Although by stealth
My flesh get on; yet let her sister,
My soul, bid nothing, but preserve her wealth:
The growth of flesh is but a blister;
Childhood is health.

George Herbert [1593–1633]

UNKINDNESS

Lord, make me coy and tender to offend:
In friendship first, I think, if that agree
Which I intend
Unto my friend's intent and end;
I would not use a friend as I use Thee.

If any touch my friend or his good name,
It is my honor and my love to free
His blasted fame
From the least spot or thought of blame;
I could not use a friend as I use Thee.

My friend may spit upon my curious floor.
Would he have gold? I lend it instantly;
But let the poor,
And Thee within them, starve at door;
I cannot use a friend as I use Thee.

When that my friend pretendeth to a place,
I quit my interest, and leave it free;
But when Thy grace
Sues for my heart, I Thee displace;
Nor would I use a friend as I use Thee.

Yet can a friend what Thou hast done fulfil?
O, write in brass, "My God upon a tree
His blood did spill,
Only to purchase my good-will";
Yet use I not my foes as I use Thee.

George Herbert [1593–1633]

PRAYER

AN ODE WHICH WAS PREFIXED TO A LITTLE PRAYER-BOOK GIVEN TO A YOUNG GENTLEWOMAN

Lo, here a little volume, but great book!
(Fear it not, sweet,
It is no hypocrite),
Much larger in itself than in its look.
A nest of new-born sweets,
Whose native fires, disdaining
To lie thus folded, and complaining
Of these ignoble sheets,
Affect more comely bands,
Fair one, from thy kind hands,
And confidently look
To find the rest
Of a rich binding in your breast!
It is, in one choice handful, heaven; and all
Heaven's royal host, encamped thus small
To prove that true, schools use to tell,
Ten thousand angels in one point can dwell.
It is love's great artillery,
Which here contracts itself, and comes to lie
Close-couched in your white bosom; and from thence,
As from a snowy fortress of defense,
Against the ghostly foe to take your part,
And fortify the hold of your chaste heart.
It is the armory of light;
Let constant use but keep it bright,
You'll find it yields
To holy hands and humble hearts
More swords and shields
Than sin hath snares, or hell hath darts.
Only be sure
The hands be pure
That hold these weapons; and the eyes
Those of turtles, chaste and true,
Wakeful and wise,
Here is a friend shall fight for you;

Hold but this book before your heart,—
Let prayer alone to play his part.
But, O! the heart
That studies this high art
Must be a sure house-keeper,
And yet no sleeper.
Dear soul, be strong;
Mercy will come ere long,
And bring her bosom fraught with blessings,—
Flowers of never-fading graces,
To make immortal dressings
For worthy souls, whose wise embraces
Store up themselves for Him Who is alone
The Spouse of virgins, and the Virgin's Son.
But if the noble Bridegroom, when He come,
Shall find the wandering heart from home,
Leaving her chaste abode
To gad abroad,
Amongst the gay mates of the god of flies
To take her pleasure, and to play
And keep the Devil's holiday;
To dance in the sunshine of some smiling,
But beguiling
Spheres of sweet and sugared lies,
Some slippery pair
Of false, perhaps, as fair,
Flattering, but forswearing, eyes;
Doubtless some other heart
Will get the start
Meanwhile, and, stepping in before,
Will take possession of that sacred store
Of hidden sweets, and holy joys—
Words which are not heard with ears
(These tumultuous shops of noise),
Effectual whispers, whose still voice
The soul itself more feels than hears;
Amorous languishments, luminous trances,
Sights which are not seen with eyes,
Spiritual and soul-piercing glances,
Whose pure and subtle lightning flies

Home to the heart, and sets the house on fire,
And melts it down in sweet desire;
Yet doth not stay
To ask the window's leave to pass that way;
Delicious deaths, soft exhalations
Of soul, dear and divine annihilations;
A thousand unknown rites
Of joys, and rarefied delights;
An hundred thousand loves and graces,
And many a mystic thing,
Which the divine embraces
Of the dear Spouse of spirits, with them will bring,
For which it is no shame
That dull mortality must not know a name.
Of all this store
Of blessings, and ten thousand more,
If, when He come,
He find the heart from home,
Doubtless He will unload
Himself some otherwhere,
And pour abroad
His precious sweets
On the fair soul whom first He meets.
O fair! O fortunate! O rich! O dear!
O happy and thrice-happy she,
Selected dove,
Whoe'er she be,
Whose early love
With wingèd vows
Makes haste to meet her morning Spouse,
And close with His immortal kisses!
Happy, indeed, who never misses
To improve that precious hour,
And every day
Seize her sweet prey,
All fresh and fragrant as He rises,
Dropping, with a balmy shower,
A delicious dew of spices.
O, let the blissful heart hold fast
Her heavenly armful; she shall taste

At once ten thousand paradises!
She shall have power
To rifle and deflower
The rich and roseal spring of those rare sweets
Which, with a swelling bosom, there she meets;
Boundless and infinite, bottomless treasures
Of pure inebriating pleasures;
Happy proof! she shall discover
What joy, what bliss,
How many heavens at once it is
To have her God become her lover.

Richard Crashaw [1613?–1649]

PROVIDENCE

Lo, the lilies of the field,
How their leaves instruction yield!
Hark to Nature's lesson given
By the blessed birds of heaven!
Every bush and tufted tree
Warbles sweet philosophy:
Mortal, fly from doubt and sorrow,
God provideth for the morrow.

Say, with richer crimson glows
The kingly mantle than the rose?
Say, have kings more wholesome fare
Than we citizens of air?
Barns nor hoarded grain have we,
Yet we carol merrily.
Mortal, fly from doubt and sorrow,
God provideth for the morrow.

One there lives, whose guardian eye
Guides our humble destiny;
One there lives, who, Lord of all,
Keeps our feathers lest they fall.
Pass we blithely then the time,
Fearless of the snare and lime,
Free from doubt and faithless sorrow:
God provideth for the morrow.

Reginald Heber [1783–1826]

THE BELOVED

Blow gently over my garden,
Wind of the Southern sea,
In the hour that my Love cometh
And calleth me!
My Love shall entreat me sweetly,
With voice like the wood-pigeon;
"I am here at the gate of thy garden,
Here in the dawn."

Then I shall rise up swiftly
All in the rose and gray,
And open the gate to my Lover
At dawning of day.
He hath crowns of pain on His forehead,
And wounds in His hands and feet;
But here mid the dews of my garden
His rest shall be sweet.

Then blow not out of your forests,
Wind of the icy North;
But Wind of the South that is healing,
Rise and come forth!
And shed your musk and your honey,
And spill your odors of spice,
For one who forsook for my garden
His Paradise!

Katherine Tynan Hinkson [1861–

MY LEGACY

They told me I was heir: I turned in haste,
And ran to seek my treasure,
And wondered, as I ran, how it was placed,—
If I should find a measure
Of gold, or if the titles of fair lands
And houses would be laid within my hands.

I journeyed many roads; I knocked at gates;
I spoke to each wayfarer
I met, and said, "A heritage awaits
Me. Art not thou the bearer

Of news? Some message sent to me whereby
I learn which way my new possessions lie?"

Some asked me in; naught lay beyond their door;
Some smiled, and would not tarry,
But said that men were just behind who bore
More gold than I could carry;
And so the morn, the noon, the day, were spent,
While empty-handed up and down I went.

At last one cried, whose face I could not see,
As through the mists he hasted:
"Poor child, what evil ones have hindered thee
Till this whole day is wasted?
Hath no man told thee that thou art joint heir
With one named Christ, who waits the goods to share?"

The one named Christ I sought for many days,
In many places vainly;
I heard men name his name in many ways;
I saw his temples plainly;
But they who named him most gave me no sign
To find him by, or prove the heirship mine.

And when at last I stood before his face,
I knew him by no token
Save subtle air of joy which filled the place;
Our greeting was not spoken;
In solemn silence I received my share,
Kneeling before my brother and "joint heir."

My share! No deed of house or spreading lands,
As I had dreamed; no measure
Heaped up with gold; my elder brother's hands
Had never held such treasure.
Foxes have holes, and birds in nests are fed:
My brother had not where to lay his head.

My share! The right like him to know all pain
Which hearts are made for knowing;
The right to find in loss the surest gain;
To reap my joy from sowing

In bitter tears; the right with him to keep
A watch by day and night with all who weep.

My share! To-day men call it grief and death;
I see the joy and life to-morrow;
I thank my Father with my every breath,
For this sweet legacy of sorrow;
And through my tears I call to each, "Joint heir
With Christ make haste to ask him for thy share."

Helen Hunt Jackson [1831–1885]

THE STARRY HOST

From "God and the Soul"

The countless stars, which to our human eye
Are fixed and steadfast, each in proper place,
Forever bound to changeless points in space,
Rush with our sun and planets through the sky,
And like a flock of birds still onward fly;
Returning never whence began their race,
They speed their ceaseless way with gleaming face
As though God bade them win Infinity.
Ah whither, whither is their forward flight
Through endless time and limitless expanse?
What power with unimaginable might
First hurled them forth to spin in tireless dance?
What beauty lures them on through primal night,
So that for them to be is to advance?

John Lancaster Spalding [1840–

THE CELESTIAL SURGEON

If I have faltered more or less
In my great task of happiness;
If I have moved among my race
And shown no glorious morning face;
If beams from happy human eyes
Have moved me not; if morning skies,
Books, and my food, and summer rain
Knocked on my sullen heart in vain,—

Lord, Thy most pointed pleasure take,
And stab my spirit broad awake;
Or, Lord, if too obdurate I,
Choose Thou, before that spirit die,
A piercing pain, a killing sin,
And to my dead heart run them in!

Robert Louis Stevenson [1850–1894]

THE WAY, THE TRUTH, AND THE LIFE

O THOU great Friend to all the sons of men,
Who once appeared in humblest guise below,
Sin to rebuke, to break the captive's chain,
And call thy brethren forth from want and woe,—

We look to thee! thy truth is still the Light
Which guides the nations, groping on their way,
Stumbling and falling in disastrous night,
Yet hoping ever for the perfect day.

Yes; thou art still the Life, thou art the Way
The holiest know; Light, Life, the Way of heaven!
And they who dearest hope and deepest pray,
Toil by the Light, Life, Way, which thou hast given.

Theodore Parker [1810–1860]

THE INNER LIGHT

Lo, if some pen should write upon your rafter
MENE and MENE in the folds of flame,
Think you could any memories thereafter
Wholly retrace the couplet as it came?

Lo, if some strange, intelligible thunder
Sang to the earth the secret of a star,
Scarce could ye catch, for terror and for wonder,
Shreds of the story that was pealed so far.

Scarcely I catch the words of His revealing,
Hardly I hear Him, dimly understand,
Only the Power that is within me pealing
Lives on my lips and beckons to my hand.

Whoso has felt the Spirit of the Highest
  Cannot confound nor doubt Him nor deny:
Yea, with one voice, O world, though thou deniest,
  Stand thou on that side, for on this am I.

Rather the earth shall doubt when her retrieving
  Pours in the rain and rushes from the sod,
Rather than he for whom the great conceiving
  Stirs in his soul to quicken into God.

Ay, though thou then shouldst strike from him his glory,
  Blind and tormented, maddened and alone,
Even on the cross would he maintain his story,
  Yes, and in hell would whisper, I have known.

Frederic William Henry Myers [1843–1901]

HEREDITY

Why bowest thou, O soul of mine,
  Crushed by ancestral sin?
Thou hast a noble heritage,
  That bids thee victory win.

The tainted past may bring forth flowers,
  As blossomed Aaron's rod;
No legacy of sin annuls
  Heredity from God.

Lydia Avery Coonley Ward [1845–

BRINGING OUR SHEAVES

The time for toil is past, and night has come,
  The last and saddest of the harvest eves;
Worn out with labor long and wearisome,
Drooping and faint, the reapers hasten home,
  Each laden with his sheaves.

Last of the laborers, Thy feet I gain,
  Lord of the harvest! and my spirit grieves
That I am burdened not so much with grain
As with a heaviness of heart and brain;
  Master, behold my sheaves!

Full well I know I have more tares than wheat,
Brambles and flowers, dry stalks and withered leaves;
Wherefore I blush and weep, as at thy feet
I kneel down reverently and repeat:
"Master, behold my sheaves!"

Few, light and worthless; yet their trifling weight
Through all my frame a weary aching leaves;
For long I struggled with my hapless fate,
And stayed and toiled till it was dark and late,
But these are all my sheaves.

And yet I gather strength and hope anew,
For well I know thy patient love perceives
Not what I did, but what I strove to do;
And though the full, ripe ears be sadly few,
Thou wilt accept my sheaves.

Elizabeth Akers [1832–1911]

TAKE HEART

All day the stormy wind has blown
From off the dark and rainy sea;
No bird has past the window flown,
The only song has been the moan
The wind made in the willow-tree.

This is the summer's burial-time:
She died when dropped the earliest leaves;
And, cold upon her rosy prime,
Fell direful autumn's frosty rime;
Yet I am not as one that grieves,—

For well I know o'er sunny seas
The bluebird waits for April skies;
And at the roots of forest trees
The May-flowers sleep in fragrant ease,
And violets hide their azure eyes.

O thou, by winds of grief o'erblown
Beside some golden summer's bier,—

Take heart! Thy birds are only flown,
Thy blossoms sleeping, tearful sown,
To greet thee in the immortal year!

Edna Dean Proctor [1838–

FORWARD

Dreamer, waiting for darkness with sorrowful, drooping eyes,
Linger not in the valley, bemoaning the day that is done!
Climb the hills of morning and welcome the rosy skies—
Never yet was the setting so fair as the rising sun!

Dear is the past; its treasures we hold in our hearts for aye;
Woe to the hand that would scatter one wreath of its garnered flowers;
But larger blessing and honor will come with the waking day—
Hail, then, To-morrow, nor tarry with Yesterday's ghostly hours!

Mark how the summers hasten through blossoming fields of June
To the purple lanes of the vintage and levels of golden corn;
"Splendors of life I lavish," runs nature's exultant rune,
"For myriads press to follow, and the rarest are yet unborn."

Think how eager the earth is, and every star that shines,
To circle the grander spaces about God's throne that be;
Never the least moon loiters nor the largest sun declines—
Forward they roll forever those glorious depths to see.

Dreamer, waiting for darkness with sorrowful, drooping eyes,
Summers and suns go gladly, and wherefore dost thou repine?

Climb the hills of morning and welcome the rosy skies—
The joy of the boundless future—nay, God himself is thine!

Edna Dean Proctor [1838–

"THE HARVEST WAITS"

God hath been patient long. In eons past
He plowed the waste of Chaos. He hath sown
The furrows with His worlds, and from His throne
Showered, like grain, planets upon the Vast.
What meed of glory hath He from the past?
Shall He not reap, who hears but prayer and groan?
The harvest waits. . . . He cometh to His own,—
He who shall scythe the starry host at last.
When the accumulated swarms of Death
Glut the rank worlds as rills are choked by leaves,
Then shall God flail the million orbs, as sheaves
Unfruitful gleaned; and, in His age sublime,
Winnow the gathered stars, and with a breath
Whirl the spurned chaff adown the void of Time!

Lloyd Mifflin [1846–

ONE GIFT I ASK

Through weary days and sleepless nights
I fast and pray;
And of my listening Lord I ask
The same alway—
That He will to His child impart
Pureness of heart.

The pure in heart God's face shall see.
And does not this
Include the whole ecstatic scale
Of promised bliss?
Can souls which His dear presence gain
More joy attain?

I need not plead with Him to give Me every grace
That makes the spirit beautiful;
For, if God's face
I am to see, He will bestow
All else, I know.

And so, through days of prayer and fast,
I only try
To win that purity of heart
Which, by and by,
The wondrous boon will gain for me,
God's face to see.

Virginia Bioren Harrison [18 –

MAGDALEN

Magdalen at Michael's gate
Tirlèd at the pin;
On Joseph's thorn sang the blackbird,
"Let her in! Let her in!"

"Hast thou seen the wounds?" said Michael,
"Know'st thou thy sin?"
"It is evening, evening," sang the blackbird,
"Let her in! Let her in!"

"Yes, I have seen the wounds,
And I know my sin."
"She knows it well, well, well," sang the blackbird,
"Let her in! Let her in!"

"Thou bringest no offerings," said Michael,
"Naught save sin."
And the blackbird sang, "She is sorry, sorry, sorry,
Let her in! Let her in!"

When he had sung himself to sleep,
And night did begin,
One came and opened Michael's gate,
And Magdalen went in.

Henry Kingsley [1830–1876]

GOD'S WILL

God meant me to be hungry,
So I should seek to find
Wisdom, and truth, and beauty,
To satisfy my mind.

God meant me to be lonely,
Lest I should wish to stay
In some green earthly Eden
Too long from heaven away.

God meant me to be weary,
That I should yearn to rest
This feeble, aching body
Deep in the earth's dark breast.

Mildred Howells [18

AFTER THE MARTYRDOM

They threw a stone, you threw a stone,
I threw a stone that day.
Although their sharpness bruised his flesh
He had no word to say.

But for the moan he did not make
To-day I make my moan;
And for the stone I threw at him
My heart must bear a stone.

Scharmel Iris [18

THE BURIAL OF MOSES

"And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-peor; but no man knoweth of his sepulcher unto this day."—Deut. xxxiv, 6.

By Nebo's lonely mountain,
On this side Jordan's wave,
In a vale in the land of Moab,
There lies a lonely grave;
But no man built that sepulcher,
And no man saw it e'er;
For the angels of God upturned the sod
And laid the dead man there.

That was the grandest funeral
That ever passed on earth;
Yet no man heard the trampling,
Or saw the train go forth:
Noiselessly as the daylight
Comes when the night is done,
And the crimson streak on ocean's cheek
Grows into the great sun;

Noiselessly as the spring-time
Her crown of verdure weaves,
And all the trees on all the hills
Unfold their thousand leaves:
So without sound of music
Or voice of them that wept,
Silently down from the mountain's crown
The great procession swept.

Perchance the bald old eagle
On gray Beth-peor's height
Out of his rocky eyrie
Looked on the wondrous sight;
Perchance the lion stalking
Still shuns that hallowed spot;
For beast and bird have seen and heard
That which man knoweth not.

But, when the warrior dieth,
His comrades of the war,
With arms reversed and muffled drums,
Follow the funeral car:
They show the banners taken;
They tell his battles won;
And after him lead his masterless steed,
While peals the minute-gun.

Amid the noblest of the land
Men lay the sage to rest,
And give the bard an honored place
With costly marble dressed,

In the great minster transept
Where lights like glories fall,
And the sweet choir sings, and the organ rings
Along the emblazoned wall.

This was the bravest warrior
That ever buckled sword;
This the most gifted poet
That ever breathed a word;
And never earth's philosopher
Traced with his golden pen
On the deathless page truths half so sage
As he wrote down for men.

And had he not high honor?—
The hillside for a pall!
To lie in state, while angels wait,
With stars for tapers tall!
And the dark rock-pines, like tossing plumes,
Over his bier to wave,
And God's own hand, in that lonely land,
To lay him in the grave!—

In that strange grave without a name,
Whence his uncoffined clay
Shall break again—O wondrous thought!—
Before the judgment-day,
And stand, with glory wrapped around,
On the hills he never trod
And speak of the strife that won our life
With the incarnate Son of God.

O lonely tomb in Moab's land!
O dark Beth-peor's hill!
Speak to these curious hearts of ours,
And teach them to be still:
God hath His mysteries of grace,
Ways that we cannot tell;
He hides them deep, like the secret sleep
Of him He loved so well.

Cecil Frances Alexander [1818–1895]

THE CROOKED FOOTPATH

From "The Professor at the Breakfast Table"

Ah, here it is! the sliding rail
That marks the old remembered spot,—
The gap that struck our schoolboy trail,—
The crooked path across the lot.

It left the road by school and church,
A penciled shadow, nothing more,
That parted from the silver birch
And ended at the farm-house door.

No line or compass traced its plan;
With frequent bends to left or right,
In aimless, wayward curves it ran
But always kept the door in sight.

The gabled porch, with woodbine green,—
The broken millstone at the sill,—
Though many a rood might stretch between
The truant child could see them still.

No rocks across the pathway lie,—
No fallen trunk is o'er it thrown,—
And yet it winds, we know not why,
And turns as if for tree or stone.

Perhaps some lover trod the way
With shaking knees and leaping heart,—
And so it often runs astray
With sinuous sweep or sudden start.

Or one, perchance, with clouded brain
From some unholy banquet reeled,—
And since, our devious steps maintain
His track across the trodden field.

Nay, deem not thus,—no earthborn will
Could ever trace a faultless line;
Our truest steps are human still,—
To walk unswerving were divine!

Truants from love, we dream of wrath;—
Oh, rather, let us trust the more!
Through all the wanderings of the path,
We still can see our Father's door!

Oliver Wendell Holmes [1809–1894]

ALLAH'S TENT

With fore-cloth smoothed by careful hands
The night's serene pavilion stands,
And many cressets hang on high
Against its arching canopy.

Peace to His children God hath sent,
We are at peace within His tent.
Who knows without these guarded doors
What wind across the desert roars?

Arthur Colton [1868–

ST. JOHN BAPTIST

I think he had not heard of the far towns;
Nor of the deeds of men, nor of kings' crowns;
Before the thought of God took hold of him,
As he was sitting dreaming in the calm
Of one first noon, upon the desert's rim,
Beneath the tall fair shadows of the palm,
All overcome with some strange inward balm.

He numbered not the changes of the year,
The days, the nights, and he forgot all fear
Of death: each day he thought there should have been
A shining ladder set for him to climb
Athwart some opening in the heavens, e'en
To God's eternity, and see, sublime—
His face whose shadow passing fills all time.

But he walked through the ancient wilderness.
O, there the prints of feet were numberless
And holy all about him! And quite plain
He saw each spot an angel silvershod
Had lit upon; where Jacob too had lain
The place seemed fresh,—and, bright and lately trod,
A long track showed where Enoch walked with God.

And often, while the sacred darkness trailed
Along the mountains smitten and unveiled
By rending lightnings,—over all the noise
Of thunders and the earth that quaked and bowed
From its foundations—he could hear the voice
Of great Elias prophesying loud
To Him whose face was covered by a cloud.

Arthur O'Shaughnessy [1844–1881]

FOR THE BAPTIST

The last and greatest Herald of Heaven's King,
Girt with rough skins, hies to the deserts wild,
Among that savage brood the woods forth bring,
Which he than man more harmless found and mild.
His food was locusts, and what there doth spring,
With honey that from virgin hives distilled;
Parched body, hollow eyes, some uncouth thing
Made him appear, long since from earth exiled.
There burst he forth: "All ye whose hopes rely
On God, with me amidst these deserts mourn,
Repent, repent, and from old errors turn!"
—Who listened to his voice, obeyed his cry?
Only the echoes, which he made relent,
Rung from their flinty caves, "Repent! Repent!"

William Drummond [1585–1649]

"THE SPRING IS LATE"

She stood alone amidst the April fields,—
Brown, sodden fields, all desolate and bare,—
"The spring is late," she said,—"the faithless spring,
That should have come to make the meadows fair.

"Their sweet South left too soon, among the trees
The birds, bewildered, flutter to and fro;
For them no green boughs wait,—their memories
Of last year's April had deceived them so.

"From 'neath a sheltering pine some tender buds
Looked out, and saw the hollows filled with snow;
On such a frozen world they closed their eyes;
When spring is cold, how can the blossoms blow?"

She watched the homeless birds, the slow, sad spring,
The barren fields, and shivering, naked trees:
"Thus God has dealt with me, his child," she said,—
"I wait my spring-time, and am cold like these.

"To them will come the fulness of their time;
Their spring, though late, will make the meadows fair;
Shall I, who wait like them, like them be blest?
I am His own,—doth not my Father care?"

Louise Chandler Moulton [1835–1908]

THE QUESTION

I saw the Son of God go by
Crowned with the crown of Thorn.
"Was It not finished, Lord?" I said,
"And all the anguish borne?"

He turned on me His awful eyes:
"Hast thou not understood?
Lo! Every soul is Calvary,
And every sin a Rood."

Rachel Annand Taylor [18

A DIVINE RAPTURE

E'en like two little bank-dividing brooks,
That wash the pebbles with their wanton streams,
And having ranged and searched a thousand nooks,
Meet both at length in silver-breasted Thames,
Where in a greater current they conjoin:
So I my Best-belovèd's am; so He is mine.

E'en so we met; and after long pursuit,
  E'en so we joined; we both became entire;
No need for either to renew a suit,
  For I was flax, and He was flames of fire:
    Our firm-united souls did more than twine;
So I my Best-belovèd's am; so He is mine.

If all those glittering Monarchs, that command
  The servile quarters of this earthly ball,
Should tender in exchange their shares of land,
  I would not change my fortunes for them all:
    Their wealth is but a counter to my coin:
The world's but theirs; but my Belovèd's mine.

Francis Quarles [1592–1644]

"IF I COULD SHUT THE GATE AGAINST MY THOUGHTS"

If I could shut the gate against my thoughts,
  And keep out sorrow from this room within,
Or memory could cancel all the notes
  Of my misdeeds, and I unthink my sin:
How free, how clear, how clean my soul should lie,
Discharged of such a loathsome company.

Or were there other rooms within my heart
  That did not to my conscience join so near,
Where I might lodge the thoughts of sin apart,
  That I might not their clamorous crying hear;
What peace, what joy, what ease should I possess,
Freed from their horrors that my soul oppress.

But, O my Saviour, who my refuge art,
  Let Thy dear mercies stand 'twixt them and me,
And be the wall to separate my heart
  So that I may at length repose me free;
That peace, and joy, and rest may be within,
And I remain divided from my sin.

John Daniel [fl. 1625]

HIS LITANY TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

In the hour of my distress,
When temptations me oppress,
And when I my sins confess,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When I lie within my bed,
Sick at heart and sick in head,
And with doubts discomforted,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the house doth sigh and weep,
And the world is drowned in sleep,
Yet mine eyes the watch do keep,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the artless doctor sees
No one hope, but of his fees,
And his skill runs on the lees,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When his potion and his pill,
His, or none, or little skill,
Meet for nothing, but to kill,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the passing-bell doth toll,
And the furies in a shoal
Come to fright a parting soul,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the tapers now burn blue,
And the comforters are few,
And that number more than true,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the priest his last hath prayed,
And I nod to what is said
'Cause my speech is now decayed,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When, God knows, I'm tossed about
Either with despair or doubt,
Yet, before the glass be out,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the tempter me pursu'th
With the sins of all my youth,
And half damns me with untruth,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the flames and hellish cries
Fright mine ears and fright mine eyes,
And all terrors me surprise,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the Judgment is revealed,
And that opened which was sealed,
When to Thee I have appealed,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

Robert Herrick [1591–1674]

TO KEEP A TRUE LENT

Is this a fast, to keep
The larder lean,
And clean
From fat of veals and sheep?

Is it to quit the dish
Of flesh, yet still
To fill
The platter high with fish?

Is it to fast an hour,
Or ragged to go,
Or show
A downcast look, and sour?

No; 'tis a fast to dole
Thy sheaf of wheat
And meat
Unto the hungry soul.

It is to fast from strife,
From old debate
And hate;
To circumcise thy life.

To show a heart grief-rent;
To starve thy sin,
Not bin;
And that's to keep thy Lent.

Robert Herrick [1591–1674]

THE FALLEN STAR

A STAR is gone! a star is gone!
There is a blank in Heaven;
One of the cherub choir has done
His airy course this even.

He sat upon the orb of fire
That hung for ages there,
And lent his music to the choir
That haunts the nightly air.

But when his thousand years are passed,
With a cherubic sigh
He vanished with his car at last,
For even cherubs die!

Hear how his angel-brothers mourn—
The minstrels of the spheres—
Each chiming sadly in his turn
And dropping splendid tears.

The planetary Sisters all
Join in the fatal song.
And weep this hapless brother's fall,
Who sang with them so long.

But deepest of the choral band
The Lunar Spirit sings,
And with a bass-according hand
Sweeps all her sullen strings.

From the deep chambers of the dome
Where sleepless Uriel lies,
His rude harmonic thunders come
Mingled with mighty sighs.

The thousand car-borne cherubim,
The wandering Eleven,
All join to chant the dirge of him
Who fell just now from Heaven.

George Darley [1795–1846]

"WE NEED NOT BID, FOR CLOISTERED CELL"

We need not bid, for cloistered cell,
Our neighbor and our work farewell,
Nor strive to wind ourselves too high
For sinful man beneath the sky:

The trivial round, the common task,
Would furnish all we ought to ask;
Room to deny ourselves; a road
To bring us, daily, nearer God.

Seek we no more; content with these
Let present Rapture, Comfort, Ease,
As Heaven shall bid them, come and go:—
The secret this of Rest below

John Keble [1792–1866]

"A CHILD MY CHOICE"

Let folly praise that fancy loves, I praise and love that Child
Whose heart no thought, whose tongue no word, whose hand no deed defiled.
I praise Him most, I love Him best, all praise and love is His,
While Him I love, in Him I live, and cannot live amiss.

Love's sweetest mark, laud's highest theme, man's most desired light,
To love Him life, to leave Him death, to live in Him delight.
He mine by gift, I His by debt, thus each to other due,
First friend He was, best friend He is, all times will try Him true.
Though young, yet wise, though small, yet strong; though man, yet God He is;
As wise He knows, as strong He can, as God He loves to bliss.
His knowledge rules, His strength defends, His love doth cherish all;
His birth our joy, His life our light, His death our end of thrall.
Alas! He weeps, He sighs, He pants, yet do His angels sing;
Out of His tears, His sighs and throbs, doth bud a joyful spring.
Almighty Babe, whose tender arms can force all foes to fly,
Correct my faults, protect my life, direct me when I die!

Robert Southwell [1561?–1595]

AN UPPER CHAMBER

I CAME into the City and none knew me;
None came forth, none shouted "He is here!"
Not a hand with laurel would bestrew me,
All the way by which I drew anear—
Night my banner, and my herald Fear.

But I knew where one so long had waited
In the low room at the stairway's height,
Trembling lest my foot should be belated,
Singing, sighing for the long hours' flight
Towards the moment of our dear delight.

I came into the City when you hailed me
Saviour, and again your chosen Lord:—
Not one guessing what it was that failed me,
While along the way as they adored
Thousands, thousands, shouted in accord.

But through all the joy I knew—I only—
How the hostel of my heart lay bare and cold,
Silent of its music, and how lonely!
Never, though you crown me with your gold,
Shall I find that little chamber as of old!

Frances Bannerman [18 –

THE SECOND CRUCIFIXION

Loud mockers in the roaring street
Say Christ is crucified again:
Twice pierced His gospel-bearing feet,
Twice broken His great heart in vain.

I hear, and to myself I smile,
For Christ talks with me all the while.

No angel now to roll the stone
From off His unawaking sleep,
In vain shall Mary watch alone,
In vain the soldiers vigil keep.

Yet while they deem my Lord is dead
My eyes are on His shining head.

Ah! never more shall Mary hear
That voice exceeding sweet and low
Within the garden calling clear:
Her Lord is gone, and she must go.

Yet all the while my Lord I meet
In every London lane and street.

Poor Lazarus shall wait in vain,
And Bartimæus still go blind;
The healing hem shall ne'er again
Be touched by suffering humankind.

Yet all the while I see them rest,
The poor and outcast, on His breast.

No more unto the stubborn heart
With gentle knocking shall He plead,
No more the mystic pity start,
For Christ twice dead is dead indeed.

So in the street I hear men say,
Yet Christ is with me all the day.

Richard Le Gallienne [1866–

THE VOICE OF CHRISTMAS

I CANNOT put the Presence by, of Him, the Crucified,
Who moves men's spirits with His Love as doth the moon the tide;
Again I see the Life He lived, the godlike Death He died.

Again I see upon the cross that great Soul-battle fought,
Into the texture of the world the tale of which is wrought
Until it hath become the woof of human deed and thought,—

And, joining with the cadenced bells that all the morning fill,
His cry of agony doth yet my inmost being thrill,
Like some fresh grief from yesterday that tears the heart-strings still.

I cannot put His Presence by, I meet Him everywhere;
I meet Him in the country town, the busy market-square;
The Mansion and the Tenement attest His Presence there.

Upon the funneled ships at sea He sets His shining feet;
The Distant Ends of Empire not in vain His Name repeat,—
And, like the presence of a rose, He makes the whole world sweet.

He comes to break the barriers down raised up by barren creeds;
About the globe from zone to zone like sunlight He proceeds;
He comes to give the World's starved heart the perfect love it needs,

The Christ Whose friends have played Him false, Whom
Dogmas have belied,
Still speaking to the hearts of men—though shamed and crucified,
The Master of the Centuries Who will not be denied!

Harry Kemp [1883–

TE MARTYRUM CANDIDATUS

Ah, see the fair chivalry come, the companions of Christ!
White Horsemen, who ride on white horses, the Knights of God!
They, for their Lord and their Lover who sacrificed
All, save the sweetness of treading where He first trod!

These through the darkness of death, the dominion of night,
Swept, and they woke in white places at morning tide:
They saw with their eyes, and sang for joy of the sight,
They saw with their eyes the Eyes of the Crucified.

Now, whithersoever He goeth, with Him they go:
White Horsemen, who ride on white horses, oh fair to see!
They ride, where the Rivers of Paradise flash and flow,
White Horsemen, with Christ their Captain: for ever He!

Lionel Johnson [1867–1902]

ON A SCULPTURED HEAD OF THE CHRIST

I saw it once where myriad works adorn
Encloistered walls as with a Cloth of Gold;
Then did I see, still fair in every fold,
Still jewel-strewn, the robe a king had worn.
I glimpsed a god, of antique glory born;
A boasted picture, and a carven gem,—
Soul-sick, the while, to view, unvexed of them,
That simple Christus with its crown of thorn!
The World is old; she hath seen many wars;
And states and kingdoms crowd her courts like grass;
Princes in pride she watches where they pass
Unnumbered and innumerable as the stars;

Then turns, a child with tired feet homeward set,
Back to the Cross, and lo! her lids are wet.

Mahlon Leonard Fisher [1874-

GOOD KING WENCESLAS

Good King Wenceslas looked out,
On the Feast of Stephen,
When the snow lay round about,
Deep, and crisp, and even:
Brightly shone the moon that night,
Though the frost was cruel,
When a poor man came in sight,
Gathering winter fuel.

"Hither, page, and stand by me,
If thou know'st it, telling,
Yonder peasant, who is he?
Where and what his dwelling?"
"Sire, he lives a good league hence,
Underneath the mountain;
Right against the forest fence,
By Saint Agnes' fountain."

"Bring me flesh, and bring me wine,
Bring me pine logs hither;
Thou and I will see him dine,
When we bear them thither."
Page and monarch forth they went,
Forth they went together;
Through the rude wind's wild lament,
And the bitter weather.

"Sire, the night is darker now,
And the wind blows stronger;
Fails my heart, I know not how,
I can go no longer."
"Mark my footsteps, good my page!
Tread thou in them boldly;
Thou shalt find the winter's rage
Freeze thy blood less coldly."

In his master's steps he trod,
Where the snow lay dinted;
Heat was in the very sod
Which the saint had printed.
Therefore, Christian men, be sure,
Wealth or rank possessing,
Ye who now will bless the poor,
Shall yourselves find blessing.

John Neal [1793–1876]

SIMON THE CYRENEAN

"And as they came out they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name; him they compelled to bear his cross."

This is the tale from first to last;—
Outside Jerusalem
I saw them lead a prisoner past
With thorns for diadem.
Broken and weak and driven fast
He fell at my garment's hem.

There stood no other stranger by
On me they laid his load.
The Cross whereon he was to die
I bore along the road,
I saw him nailed, I heard him cry
Forsaken of his God.

Now I am dead as well as he,
And, marvel strange to tell,
But him they nailed upon the tree
Is Lord of Heaven and Hell,
And judgeth who doth wickedly,
Rewardeth who doth well.

He has given to me the beacons four,
A Cross in the southern sky,

In token that his Cross I bore
In his extremity;
For one I never knew before
The day he came to die.

Lucy Lyttleton [1884–

THE WINGED WORSHIPPERS

Gay, guiltless pair,
What seek ye from the fields of Heaven?
Ye have no need of prayer,
Ye have no sins to be forgiven.

Why perch ye here,
Where mortals to their Maker bend?
Can your pure spirits fear
The God ye never could offend?

Ye never knew
The crimes for which we come to weep.
Penance is not for you,
Blessed wanderers of the upper deep.

To you 'tis given
To wake sweet Nature's untaught lays,
Beneath the arch of Heaven
To chirp away a life of praise.

Then spread each wing,
Far, far above, o'er lakes and lands,
And join the choirs that sing
In yon blue dome not reared with hands.

Or, if ye stay
To note the consecrated hour,
Teach me the airy way,
And let me try your envied power.

Above the crowd,
On upward wings could I but fly,
I'd bathe in yon bright cloud,
And seek the stars that gem the sky.

'Twere Heaven indeed
Through fields of trackless light to soar,
On nature's charms to feed,
And Nature's own great God adore.

Charles Sprague [1791–1875]

DE SHEEPFOL'

De massa ob de sheepfol',
Dat guards de sheepfol' bin,
Look out in de gloomerin' meadows,
Wha'r de long night rain begin—
So he call to de hirelin' shepa'd,
"Is my sheep, is dey all come in?—
My sheep, is dey all come in?"

Oh den, says de hirelin' shepa'd:
"Dey's some, dey's black and thin,
And some, dey's po' ol' wedda's,
Dat can't come home agin.
Dey's some black sheep an' ol' wedda's,
But de res', dey's all brung in.—
De res', dey's all brung in."

Den de massa ob de sheepfol',
Dat guards de sheepfol' bin,
Goes down in de gloomerin' meadows,
Wha'r de long night rain begin—
So he le' down de ba's ob de sheepfol',
Callin' sof', "Come in. Come in."
Callin' sof', "Come in. Come in."

Den up t'ro' de gloomerin' meadows,
T'ro' de col' night rain and win',
And up t'ro' de gloomerin' rain-paf',
Wha'r de sleet fa' pie'cin' thin,

De po' los' sheep ob de sheepfol',
Dey all comes gadderin' in.
De po' los' sheep ob de sheepfol',
Dey all comes gadderin' in.

Sarah Pratt McLean Greene [1856–

THE LOST SHEEP

("THE NINETY AND NINE")

THERE were ninety and nine that safely lay
In the shelter of the fold;
But one was out on the hills away,
Far off from the gates of gold,—
Away on the mountains wild and bare,
Away from the tender Shepherd's care.

"Lord, thou hast here thy ninety and nine:
Are they not enough for thee?"
But the Shepherd made answer: "'Tis of mine
Has wandered away from me;
And although the road be rough and steep
I go to the desert to find my sheep."

But none of the ransomed ever knew
How deep were the waters crossed,
Nor how dark was the night that the Lord passed through
Ere he found his sheep that was lost.
Out in the desert he heard its cry—
Sick and helpless, and ready to die.

"Lord, whence are those blood-drops all the way,
That mark out the mountain-track?"
"They were shed for one who had gone astray
Ere the Shepherd could bring him back."
"Lord, whence are thy hands so rent and torn?"
"They are pierced to-night by many a thorn."

But all through the mountains, thunder-riven,
And up from the rocky steep,
There rose a cry to the gate of heaven,
"Rejoice! I have found my sheep!"

And the angels echoed around the throne,
"Rejoice, for the Lord brings back his own!"

Elizabeth Cecilia Clephane [1830–1869]

LOST BUT FOUND

I WAS a wandering sheep,
I did not love the fold;
I did not love my Shepherd's voice,
I would not be controlled.
I was a wayward child,
I did not love my home,
I did not love my Father's voice,
I loved afar to roam.

The Shepherd sought his sheep;
The Father sought his child;
They followed me o'er vale and hill,
O'er deserts waste and wild.
They found me nigh to death,
Famished, and faint, and lone;
They bound me with the bands of love;
They saved the wandering one.

They spoke in tender love,
They raised my drooping head;
They gently closed my bleeding wounds,
My fainting soul they fed.
They washed my filth away,
They made me clean and fair;
They brought me to my home in peace,
The long-sought wanderer.

Jesus my Shepherd is,
'Twas he that loved my soul;
'Twas he that washed me in his blood,
'Twas he that made me whole;
'Twas he that sought the lost,
That found the wandering sheep;
'Twas he that brought me to the fold,
'Tis he that still doth keep.

I was a wandering sheep,
I would not be controlled;
But now I love my Shepherd's voice,
I love, I love the fold.
I was a wayward child,
I once preferred to roam;
But now I love my Father's voice,
I love, I love his home.

Horatius Bonar [1808–1889]

STAINS

The three ghosts on the lonesome road
Spake each to one another,
"Whence came that stain about your mouth
No lifted hand may cover?"
"From eating of forbidden fruit,
Brother, my brother."

The three ghosts on the sunless road
Spake each to one another,
"Whence came that red burn on your foot
No dust nor ash may cover?"
"I stamped a neighbor's hearth-flame out,
Brother, my brother."

The three ghosts on the windless road
Spake each to one another,
"Whence came that blood upon your hand
No other hand may cover?"
"From breaking of a woman's heart,
Brother, my brother."

"Yet on the earth clean men we walked,
Glutton and Thief and Lover;
White flesh and fair it hid our stains
That no man might discover."
"Naked the soul goes up to God,
Brother, my brother."

Theodosia Garrison [1874–

A HYMN TO GOD THE FATHER

WILT Thou forgive that sin where I begun,
Which was my sin, though it were done before?
Wilt Thou forgive that sin through which I run,
And do run still, though still I do deplore?
When Thou hast done, Thou hast not done;
For I have more.

Wilt Thou forgive that sin which I have won
Others to sin, and made my sin their door?
Wilt Thou forgive that sin which I did shun
A year or two, but wallowed in a score?
When Thou hast done, Thou hast not done;
For I have more.

I have a sin of fear, that when I've spun
My last thread, I shall perish on the shore;
But swear by Thyself that at my death Thy Son
Shall shine as He shines now and heretofore:
And having done that, Thou hast done;
I fear no more.

John Donne [1573–1631]

SHEEP AND LAMBS

ALL in the April evening,
April airs were abroad;
The sheep with their little lambs
Passed me by on the road.

The sheep with their little lambs
Passed me by on the road;
All in the April evening
I thought on the Lamb of God.

The lambs were weary, and crying
With a weak human cry,
I thought on the Lamb of God
Going meekly to die.

Up in the blue, blue mountains
  Dewy pastures are sweet:
Rest for the little bodies,
  Rest for the little feet.

But for the Lamb of God
  Up on the hill-top green,
Only a Cross of shame
  Two stark crosses between.

All in the April evening,
  April airs were abroad;
I saw the sheep with their lambs,
  And thought on the Lamb of God.

Katharine Tynan [1861–

"ALL'S WELL!"

Eight bells! Eight bells! their clear tone tells
  The midnight hour is here,
And as they cease, these words of peace
  Fall gently on my ear:
    "All's well! All's well!"

Fond thoughts fly far, where loved ones are,
  Though distant, ever near,
From those dear homes the echo comes,
  Our longing hearts to cheer:
    "All's well! All's well!"

Swift through the deep our course we keep,
  To shores unseen we steer,
No thought of ill our souls shall chill,
  Nor wind nor wave we fear:
    "All's well! All's well!"

Thus o'er life's sea our voyage may be
  A pathway lone and drear,
Through tempest loud and sorrow's cloud,
  Faith still shall whisper near:
    "All's well! All's well!"

And when for me, earth, sky, and sea
  Shall fade and disappear,

May this sweet note still downward float,
From some undying sphere:
"All's well! All's well!"

William Allen Butler [1825–1902]

LIVING WATERS

THERE are some hearts like wells, green-mossed and deep
As ever Summer saw;
And cool their water is,—yea, cool and sweet;—
But you must come to draw.
They hoard not, yet they rest in calm content,
And not unsought will give;
They can be quiet with their wealth unspent,
So self-contained they live.

And there are some like springs, that bubbling burst
To follow dusty ways,
And run with offered cup to quench his thirst
Where the tired traveller strays;
That never ask the meadows if they want
What is their joy to give;—
Unasked, their lives to other life they grant,
So self-bestowed they live!

And One is like the ocean, deep and wide,
Wherein all waters fall;
That girdles the broad earth, and draws the tide,
Feeding and bearing all;
That broods the mists, that sends the clouds abroad,
That takes, again to give;—
Even the great and loving heart of God,
Whereby all love doth live.

Caroline Spencer [18

ONE BY ONE

ONE by one the sands are flowing,
One by one the moments fall;
Some are coming, some are going;
Do not strive to grasp them all.

One by one thy duties wait thee—
Let thy whole strength go to each,
Let no future dreams elate thee,
Learn thou first what these can teach.

One by one (bright gifts from heaven)
Joys are sent thee here below;
Take them readily when given—
Ready, too, to let them go.

One by one thy griefs shall meet thee;
Do not fear an armèd band;
One will fade as others greet thee—
Shadows passing through the land.

Do not look at life's long sorrow;
See how small each moment's pain;
God will help thee for to-morrow,
So each day begin again.

Every hour that fleets so slowly
Has its task to do or bear;
Luminous the crown, and holy,
When each gem is set with care.

Do not linger with regretting,
Or for passing hours despond;
Nor, thy daily toil forgetting,
Look too eagerly beyond.

Hours are golden links, God's token,
Reaching heaven; but, one by one,
Take them, lest the chain be broken
Ere the pilgrimage be done.

Adelaide Anne Procter [1825–1864]

UNBELIEF

THERE is no unbelief;
Whoever plants a seed beneath the sod
And waits to see it push away the clod,
He trusts in God.

Whoever says when clouds are in the sky,
"Be patient, heart; light breaketh by and by,"
Trusts the Most High.

Whoever sees 'neath Winter's field of snow
The silent harvest of the future grow,
God's power must know.

Whoever lies down on his couch to sleep,
Content to lock each sense in slumber deep,
Knows God will keep.

Whoever says, "To-morrow," "The unknown,"
"The future," trusts the Power alone
He dares disown.

The heart that looks on when eyelids close,
And dares to live when life has woes,
God's comfort knows.

There is no unbelief;
And day by day, unconsciously,
The heart lives by that faith the lips deny,
God knoweth why!

Elizabeth York Case [18 –]

"THERE IS NO DEATH"

There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some other shore,
And bright in heaven's jeweled crown
They shine for evermore.

There is no death! The dust we tread
Shall change beneath the summer showers
To golden grain or mellow fruit
Or rainbow-tinted flowers.

The granite rocks disorganize
To feed the hungry moss they bear;
The forest leaves drink daily life
From out the viewless air.

There is no death! The leaves may fall,
The flowers may fade and pass away—
They only wait, through wintry hours,
The coming of the May.

There is no death! An angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread;
He bears our best loved things away,
And then we call them "dead."

He leaves our hearts all desolate—
He plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers;
Transplanted into bliss, they now
Adorn immortal bowers.

The bird-like voice, whose joyous tones
Made glad this scene of sin and strife,
Sings now an everlasting song,
Amid the tree of life.

Where'er He sees a smile too bright,
Or soul too pure for taint of vice,
He bears it to that world of light,
To dwell in Paradise.

Born into that undying life,
They leave us but to come again;
With joy we welcome them—the same
Except in sin and pain.

And ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread;
For all the boundless universe
Is life—there are no dead!

John Luckey McCreery [1835–1906]

THE FOOL'S PRAYER

The royal feast was done; the King
Sought some new sport to banish care,
And to his jester cried: "Sir Fool,
Kneel now, and make for us a prayer!"

The jester doffed his cap and bells,
And stood the mocking court before;
They could not see the bitter smile
Behind the painted grin he wore.

He bowed his head, and bent his knee
Upon the monarch's silken stool;
His pleading voice arose: "O Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!

"No pity, Lord, could change the heart
From red with wrong to white as wool;
The rod must heal the sin: but Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!

"'Tis not by guilt the onward sweep
Of truth and right, O Lord, we stay;
'Tis by our follies that so long
We hold the earth from heaven away.

"These clumsy feet, still in the mire,
Go crushing blossoms without end;
These hard, well-meaning hands we thrust
Among the heart-strings of a friend.

"The ill-timed truth we might have kept—
Who knows how sharp it pierced and stung?
The word we had not sense to say—
Who knows how grandly it had rung!

"Our faults no tenderness should ask,
The chastening stripes must cleanse them all;
But for our blunders—oh, in shame
Before the eyes of heaven we fall.

"Earth bears no balsam for mistakes;
Men crown the knave, and scourge the tool
That did his will; but Thou, O Lord,
Be merciful to me, a fool!"

The room was hushed; in silence rose
The King, and sought his gardens cool,
And walked apart, and murmured low,
"Be merciful to me, a fool!"

Edward Rowland Sill [1841–1887]

THE ECLIPSE

Whither, O whither didst Thou fly?
When did I grieve Thine holy eye?
When Thou didst mourn to see me lost,
And all Thy care and counsels crossed.
O do not grieve, where'er Thou art!
Thy grief is an undoing smart,
Which doth not only pain, but break
My heart, and makes me blush to speak.
Thy anger I could kiss, and will;
But O Thy grief, Thy grief, doth kill!

Henry Vaughan [1622–1695]

COMFORT

Speak low to me, my Saviour, low and sweet
From out the hallelujahs, sweet and low,
Lest I should fear and fall, and miss Thee so,
Who art not missed by any that entreat.
Speak to me as to Mary at Thy feet!
And if no precious gums my hands bestow,
Let my tears drop like amber, while I go
In reach of Thy divinest voice complete
In humanest affection—thus, in sooth,
To lose the sense of losing. As a child,
Whose song-bird seeks the wood for evermore,
Is sung to in its stead by mother's mouth,
Till, sinking on her breast, love-reconciled,
He sleeps the faster that he wept before.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning [1806–1861]

ST. AGNES' EVE

Deep on the convent-roof the snows
  Are sparkling to the moon:
My breath to heaven like vapor goes:
  May my soul follow soon!
The shadows of the convent-towers
  Slant down the snowy sward,
Still creeping with the creeping hours
  That lead me to my Lord:
Make Thou my spirit pure and clear
  As are the frosty skies,
Or this first snowdrop of the year
  That in my bosom lies.

As these white robes are soiled and dark,
  To yonder shining ground;
As this pale taper's earthly spark,
  To yonder argent round;
So shows my soul before the Lamb,
  My spirit before Thee;
So in mine earthly house I am,
  To that I hope to be.
Break up the heavens, O Lord! and far,
  Through all yon starlight keen,
Draw me, thy bride, a glittering star,
  In raiment white and clean.

He lifts me to the golden doors;
  The flashes come and go;
All heaven bursts her starry floors,
  And strows her lights below,
And deepens on and up! the gates
  Roll back, and far within
For me the Heavenly Bridegroom waits,
  To make me pure of sin.
The Sabbaths of Eternity,
  One Sabbath deep and wide—
A light upon the shining sea—
  The Bridegroom with his bride!

Alfred Tennyson [1809–1892]

HIS BANNER OVER ME

Surrounded by unnumbered foes,
Against my soul the battle goes!
Yet though I weary, sore distressed,
I know that I shall reach my rest:
I lift my tearful eyes above,—
His banner over me is love.

Its sword my spirit will not yield,
Though flesh may faint upon the field;
He waves before my fading sight
The branch of palm,—the crown of light;
I lift my brightening eyes above,—
His banner over me is love.

My cloud of battle-dust may dim,
His veil of splendor curtain him!
And in the midnight of my fear
I may not feel him standing near;
But, as I lift mine eyes above,
His banner over me is love.

Gerald Massey [1828–1907]

JESUS THE CARPENTER

"Isn't this Joseph's son?"—ay, it is He;
Joseph the carpenter—same trade as me—
I thought as I'd find it—I knew it was here—
But my sight's getting queer.

I don't know right where as His shed must ha' stood—
But often, as I've been a-planing my wood,
I've took off my hat, just with thinking of He
At the same work as me,

He warn't that set up that He couldn't stoop down
And work in the country for folks in the town;
And I'll warrant He felt a bit pride, like I've done,
At a good job begun.

The parson he knows that I'll not make too free,
But on Sunday I feels as pleased as can be,
When I wears my clean smock, and sits in a pew,
And has thoughts a few.

I think of as how not the parson hissen,
As is teacher and father and shepherd o' men,
Not he knows as much of the Lord in that shed,
Where He earned His own bread.

And when I goes home to my missus, says she,
"Are ye wanting your key?"
For she knows my queer ways, and my love for the shed,
(We've been forty years wed.)

So I comes right away by mysen, with the Book,
And I turns the old pages and has a good look
For the text as I've found, as tells me as He
Were the same trade as me.

Why don't I mark it? Ah, many says so,
But I think I'd as lief, with your leaves, let it go:
It do seem that nice when I fall on it sudden—
Unexpected, you know!

Catharine C. Liddell [1848-

"I SAW THEE"

"When thou wast under the fig-tree, I saw thee"

I saw thee when, as twilight fell,
And evening lit her fairest star,
Thy footsteps sought yon quiet dell,
The world's confusion left afar.

I saw thee when thou stood'st alone,
Where drooping branches thick o'erhung,
Thy still retreat to all unknown,
Hid in deep shadows darkly flung.

I saw thee when, as died each sound
Of bleating flock or woodland bird,
Kneeling, as if on holy ground,
Thy voice the listening silence heard.

I saw thy calm, uplifted eyes,
And marked the heaving of thy breast,
When rose to heaven thy heartfelt sighs
For purer life, for perfect rest.

I saw the light that o'er thy face
Stole with a soft, suffusing glow,
As if, within, celestial grace
Breathed the same bliss that angels know.

I saw—what thou didst not—above
Thy lowly head an open heaven;
And tokens of thy Father's love
With smiles to thy rapt spirit given.

I saw thee from that sacred spot
With firm and peaceful soul depart,
I, Jesus, saw thee,—doubt it not,—
And read the secrets of thy heart!

Ray Palmer [1808–1887]

THE VETERAN OF HEAVEN

O CAPTAIN of the wars, whence won Ye so great scars?
In what fight did Ye smite, and what manner was the foe?
Was it on a day of rout they compassed Thee about,
Or gat Ye these adornings when Ye wrought their overthrow?

"'Twas on a day of rout they girded Me about,
They wounded all My brow, and they smote Me through the side:
My hand held no sword when I met their armèd horde,
And the conqueror fell down, and the conquered bruised his pride."

What is this, unheard before, that the unarmed make war,
And the slain hath the gain, and the victor hath the rout?
What wars, then, are these, and what the enemies,
Strange Chief, with the scars of Thy conquest trenched about?

"The Prince I drave forth held the Mount of the North,
Girt with the guards of flame that roll around the pole.
I drave him with My wars from all his fortress-stars,
And the sea of death divided that My march might strike its goal.

"In the keep of Northern Guard, many a great demonian sword
Burns as it turns round the Mount occult, apart:
There is given power and place still for some certain days,
And his Name would turn the Sun's blood back upon its heart."

What is Thy Name? O show!—"My Name ye may not know;
'Tis a going forth with banners, and a baring of much swords:
But my titles that are high, are they not upon my thigh?
'King of Kings!' are the words, 'Lord of Lords';
It is written 'King of Kings, Lord of Lords.'"

Francis Thompson [1859?–1907]

LUCIFER IN STARLIGHT

On a starred night Prince Lucifer uprose.
Tired of his dark dominion swung the fiend
Above the rolling ball in cloud part screened,
Where sinners hugged their specter of repose.
Poor prey to his hot fit of pride were those.
And now upon his western wing he leaned,
Now his huge bulk o'er Afric's sands careened,
Now the black planet shadowed Arctic snows.
Soaring through wider zones that pricked his scars

With memory of the old revolt from Awe,
He reached a middle height, and at the stars,
Which are the brain of Heaven, he looked, and sank.
Around the ancient track marched, rank on rank,
The army of unalterable law.

George Meredith [1828–1909]

HORA CHRISTI

SWEET is the time for joyous folk
Of gifts and minstrelsy;
Yet I, O lowly-hearted One,
Crave but Thy company.
On lonesome road, beset with dread,
My questing lies afar.
I have no light, save in the east
The gleaming of Thy star.

In cloistered aisles they keep to-day
Thy feast, O living Lord!
With pomp of banner, pride of song,
And stately-sounding word.
Mute stand the kings of power and place,
While priests of holy mind
Dispense Thy blessed heritage
Of peace to all mankind.

I know a spot where budless twigs
Are bare above the snow,
And where sweet winter-loving birds
Flit softly to and fro;
There with the sun for altar-fire,
The earth for kneeling-place,
The gentle air for Chorister,
Will I adore Thy face.

Loud, underneath the great blue sky,
My heart shall pæan sing,
The gold and myrrh of meekest love
Mine only offering.

Bliss of Thy birth shall quicken me,
And for Thy pain and dole
Tears are but vain, so I will keep
The silence of the soul.

Alice Brown [1857–

CHRISTUS CONSOLATOR

Beside the dead I knelt for prayer,
And felt a presence as I prayed.
Lo! it was Jesus standing there.
He smiled: "Be not afraid!"

"Lord, thou hast conquered death we know;
Restore again to life," I said,
"This one who died an hour ago."
He smiled: "She is not dead!"

"Asleep then, as thyself did say;
Yet thou canst lift the lids that keep
Her prisoned eyes from ours away!"
He smiled: "She doth not sleep!"

"Nay then, though haply she do wake,
And look upon some fairer dawn,
Restore her to our hearts that ache!"
He smiled: "She is not gone!"

"Alas! too well we know our loss,
Nor hope again our joy to touch,
Until the stream of death we cross."
He smiled: "There is no such!"

"Yet our belovèd seem so far,
The while we yearn to feel them near,
Albeit with Thee we trust they are."
He smiled: "And I am here!"

"Dear Lord, how shall we know that they Still walk unseen with us and Thee,
Nor sleep, nor wander far away?"
He smiled: "Abide with me."

Rossiter Worthington Raymond [1846–

THAT HOLY THING

From "Paul Faber"

THEY all were looking for a king
To slay their foes and lift them high:
Thou cam'st, a little baby thing
That made a woman cry.

O Son of Man, to right my lot
Naught but Thy presence can avail;
Yet on the road Thy wheels are not,
Nor on the sea Thy sail!

My how or when Thou wilt not heed,
But come down Thine own secret stair,
That Thou mayst answer all my need—
Yea, every bygone prayer.

George Macdonald [1824–1905]

WHAT CHRIST SAID

I SAID, "Let me walk in the fields;"
He said, "Nay, walk in the town;"
I said, "There are no flowers there;"
He said, "No flowers, but a crown."

I said, "But the sky is black,
There is nothing but noise and din;"
But He wept as He sent me back—
"There is more," He said, "there is sin."

I said, "But the air is thick,
And fogs are veiling the sun;"
He answered, "Yet hearts are sick,
And souls in the dark undone."

I said, "I shall miss the light,
And friends will miss me, they say;"
He answered me, "Choose to-night
If I am to miss you or they."

I pleaded for time to be given;
He said, "Is it hard to decide?
It will not seem hard in heaven
To have followed the steps of your Guide."

I cast one look at the field,
Then set my face to the town;
He said, "My child, do you yield?
Will you leave the flowers for the crown?"

Then into His hand went mine.
And into my heart came He.
And I walk in a light divine
The path I had feared to see.

George Macdonald [1824–1905]

SAN LORENZO GIUSTINIANI'S MOTHER

"And we the shadows of the dream"—SHELLEY

I HAD not seen my son's dear face
(He chose the cloister by God's grace)
Since it had come to full flower-time.
I hardly guessed at its perfect prime,
That folded flower of his dear face.

Mine eyes were veiled by mists of tears
When on a day in many years
One of his Order came. I thrilled,
Facing, I thought, that face fulfilled.
I doubted, for my mists of tears.

His blessing be with me forever!
My hope and doubt were hard to sever.
—That altered face, those holy weeds.
I filled his wallet and kissed his beads,
And lost his echoing feet for ever.

If to my son my alms were given
I know not, and I wait for Heaven.
He did not plead for child of mine,
But for another Child divine,
And unto Him it was surely given.

There is One alone who cannot change;
Dreams are we, shadows, visions strange;
And all I give is given to One.
I might mistake my dearest son,
But never the Son who cannot change.

Alice Meynell [1853–

A BALLAD OF TREES AND THE MASTER

Into the woods my Master went,
Clean forspent, forspent.
Into the woods my Master came,
Forspent with love and shame.
But the olives they were not blind to Him;
The little gray leaves were kind to Him;
The thorn-tree had a mind to Him
When into the woods He came.

Out of the woods my Master went,
And He was well content.
Out of the woods my Master came,
Content with death and shame.
When Death and Shame would woo Him last,
From under the trees they drew Him last:
'Twas on a tree they slew Him—last
When out of the woods He came.

Sidney Lanier [1842–1881]

THE MYSTERY

He came and took me by the hand
Up to a red rose tree,
He kept His meaning to Himself
But gave a rose to me.

I did not pray Him to lay bare
The mystery to me;
Enough the rose was Heaven to smell,
And His own face to see.

Ralph Hodgson [18

SONGS OF PRAISE

DIES IRÆ *

Day of wrath, that day of burning,
Seer and Sibyl speak concerning,
All the world to ashes turning.

Oh, what fear shall it engender,
When the Judge shall come in splendor,
Strict to mark and just to render!

Trumpet, scattering sounds of wonder,
Rending sepulchers asunder,
Shall resistless summons thunder.

All aghast then Death shall shiver,
And great Nature's frame shall quiver,
When the graves their dead deliver.

Volume, from which nothing's blotted,
Evil done nor evil plotted,
Shall be brought and dooms allotted.

When shall sit the Judge unerring,
He'll unfold all here occurring,
Vengeance then no more deferring.

What shall I say, that time pending?
Ask what advocate's befriending,
When the just man needs defending?

Dreadful King, all power possessing,
Saving freely those confessing,
Save thou me, O Fount of Blessing!

* For the original of this poem see page 3819.

Think, O Jesus, for what reason,
Thou didst bear earth's spite and treason,
Nor me lose in that dread season!

Seeking me Thy worn feet hasted,
On the cross Thy soul death tasted:
Let such travail not be wasted!

Righteous Judge of retribution!
Make me gift of absolution
Ere that day of execution!

Culprit-like, I plead, heart-broken,
On my cheek shame's crimson token:
Let the pardoning word be spoken!

Thou, who Mary gav'st remission,
Heard'st the dying Thief's petition,
Cheer'st with hope my lost condition.

Though my prayers be void of merit,
What is needful, Thou confer it,
Lest I endless fire inherit.

Be there, Lord, my place decided
With Thy sheep, from goats divided,
Kindly to Thy right hand guided!

When the accursed away are driven,
To eternal burnings given,
Call me with the blessed to heaven!

I beseech Thee, prostrate lying,
Heart as ashes, contrite, sighing,
Care for me when I am dying!

Day of tears and late repentance,
Man shall rise to hear his sentence:
Him, the child of guilt and error,
Spare, Lord, in that hour of terror!

Translated from the Latin of Tommáso di Celano by Abraham Coles [1813–1891]

STABAT MATER DOLOROSA*

Stood the afflicted mother weeping,
Near the cross her station keeping
Whereon hung her Son and Lord;
Through whose spirit sympathizing,
Sorrowing and agonizing,
Also passed the cruel sword.

Oh! how mournful and distressèd
Was that favored and most blessèd
Mother of the only Son,
Trembling, grieving, bosom heaving,
While perceiving, scarce believing,
Pains of that Illustrious One!

Who the man, who, called a brother,
Would not weep, saw he Christ's mother
In such deep distress and wild?
Who could not sad tribute render
Witnessing that mother tender
Agonizing with her child?

For His people's sins atoning,
Him she saw in torments groaning,
Given to the scourger's rod;
Saw her darling offspring dying,
Desolate, forsaken, crying,
Yield His spirit up to God.

Make me feel thy sorrow's power,
That with thee I tears may shower,
Tender mother, fount of love!
Make my heart with love unceasing
Burn toward Christ the Lord, that pleasing
I may be to Him above.

Holy mother, this be granted,
That the slain one's wounds be planted
Firmly in my heart to bide.

* For the original of this poem see page 3821.

Of Him wounded, all astounded—
Depths unbounded for me sounded—
All the pangs with me divide.

Make me weep with thee in union;
With the Crucified, communion
In His grief and suffering give;
Near the cross, with tears unfailing,
I would join thee in thy wailing
Here as long as I shall live.

Maid of maidens, all excelling!
Be not bitter, me repelling;
Make thou me a mourner too;
Make me bear about Christ's dying,
Share His passion, shame defying;
All His wounds in me renew.

Wound for wound be there created;
With the cross intoxicated
For thy Son's dear sake, I pray—
May I, fired with pure affection,
Virgin, have through thee protection
In the solemn Judgment Day.

Let me by the cross be warded,
By the death of Christ be guarded,
Nourished by divine supplies.
When the body death hath riven,
Grant that to the soul be given
Glories bright of Paradise.

Translated from the Latin of Jacopone da Todi by Abraham Coles [1813–1891]

VENI, SANCTE SPIRITUS*

Come, Holy Ghost! thou fire divine!
From highest heaven on us shine!
Comforter, be Thy comfort mine!

* For the original of this poem see page 3822.

Come, Father of the poor, to earth;
Come, with Thy gifts of precious worth;
Come, Light of all of mortal birth!

Thou rich in comfort! Ever blest
The heart where Thou art constant guest,
Who giv'st the heavy-laden rest.

Come, Thou in whom our toil is sweet,
Our shadow in the noonday heat,
Before whom mourning flieth fleet.

Bright Sun of Grace! Thy sunshine dart
On all who cry to Thee apart,
And fill with gladness every heart.

Whate'er without Thy aid is wrought,
Or skilful deed, or wisest thought,
God counts it vain and merely naught.

O cleanse us that we sin no more,
O'er parchèd souls Thy waters pour;
Heal the sad heart that acheth sore.

Thy will be ours in all our ways;
O melt the frozen with Thy rays;
Call home the lost in error's maze.

And grant us, Lord, who cry to Thee,
And hold the Faith in unity,
Thy precious gifts of charity;

That we may live in holiness,
And find in death our happiness,
And dwell with Thee in lasting bliss!

Translated from the Latin of Robert II. of France by Catharine Winkworth [1827–1878]

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS *

CREATOR Spirit, by whose aid
The world's foundations first were laid,
Come visit every pious mind,
Come pour thy joys on human-kind;
From sin and sorrow set us free,
And make thy temples worthy thee.

O source of uncreated light,
The Father's promised Paraclete!
Thrice holy fount, thrice holy fire,
Our hearts with heavenly love inspire;
Come, and thy sacred unction bring,
To sanctify us while we sing.

Plenteous of grace, descend from high,
Rich in thy seven-fold energy!
Thou strength of His Almighty hand,
Whose power does heaven and earth command!
Proceeding Spirit, our defense,
Who dost the gifts of tongues dispense,
And crown'st thy gift with eloquence!

Refine and purge our earthly parts;
But, O, inflame and fire our hearts!
Our frailties help, our vice control,
Submit the senses to the soul;
And when rebellious they are grown,
Then lay thy hand and hold them down.

Chase from our minds the infernal foe,
And peace, the fruit of love, bestow;
And, lest our feet should step astray,
Protect and guide us in the way.

Make us eternal truths receive,
And practise all that we believe;
Give us thyself, that we may see
The Father, and the Son, by thee.

* For the original of this poem see page 3823.

Immortal honor, endless fame,
Attend the Almighty Father's name;
The Saviour Son be glorified,
Who for lost man's redemption died;
And equal adoration be,
Eternal Paraclete, to thee.

Translated from the Latin of St. Gregory the Great(?) by John Dryden [1631–1700]

STANZAS FROM "SONG TO DAVID"

Sublime—invention ever young,
Of vast conception, towering tongue
To God the eternal theme;
Notes from yon exaltations caught,
Unrivaled royalty of thought
O'er meaner strains supreme.

His muse, bright angel of his verse,
Gives balm for all the thorns that pierce,
For all the pangs that rage;
Blest light still gaining on the gloom,
The more than Michal of his bloom,
The Abishag of his age.

He sang of God—the mighty source
Of all things—the stupendous force
On which all strength depends;
From whose right arm, beneath whose eyes,
All period, power, and enterprise
Commences, reigns, and ends.

Tell them, I am, Jehovah said
To Moses; while earth heard in dread,
And, smitten to the heart,
At once above, beneath, around,
All Nature, without voice or sound,
Replied, O Lord, Thou art.

The world, the clustering spheres, He made;
The glorious light, the soothing shade,
  Dale, champaign, grove, and hill;
The multitudinous abyss,
Where Secrecy remains in bliss,
  And Wisdom hides her skill.

The pillars of the Lord are seven,
Which stand from earth to topmost heaven;
  His Wisdom drew the plan;
His Word accomplished the design,
From brightest gem to deepest mine;
  From Christ enthroned, to Man.

For Adoration all the ranks
Of Angels yield eternal thanks,
  And David in the midst;
With God's good poor, which, last and least
In man's esteem, Thou to Thy feast,
  O blessèd Bridegroom, bidd'st!

For Adoration, David's Psalms
Lift up the heart to deeds of alms;
  And he, who kneels and chants,
Prevails his passions to control,
Finds meat and medicine to the soul,
  Which for translation pants.

For Adoration, in the dome
Of Christ, the sparrows find a home,
  And on His olives perch:
The swallow also dwells with thee,
O man of God's humility,
  Within his Saviour's church.

Sweet is the dew that falls betimes,
And drops upon the leafy limes;
  Sweet, Hermon's fragrant air:
Sweet is the lily's silver bell,
And sweet the wakeful tapers' smell
  That watch for early prayer.

Sweet the young nurse, with love intense,
Which smiles o'er sleeping innocence;
  Sweet, when the lost arrive:
Sweet the musician's ardor beats,
While his vague mind's in quest of sweets,
  The choicest flowers to hive.

Strong is the horse upon his speed;
Strong in pursuit the rapid glede,
  Which makes at once his game:
Strong the tall ostrich on the ground;
Strong through the turbulent profound
  Shoots Xiphias to his aim.

Strong is the lion—like a coal
His eyeball,—like a bastion's mole
  His chest against the foes:
Strong the gier-eagle on his sail;
Strong against tide the enormous whale
  Emerges as he goes.

But stronger still, in earth and air,
And in the sea, the man of prayer,
  And far beneath the tide:
And in the seat to fate assigned,
Where ask is have, where seek is find,
  Where knock is open wide.

Precious the penitential tear;
And precious is the sigh sincere,
  Acceptable to God:
And precious are the winning flowers
In gladsome Israel's feast of bowers
  Bound on the hallowed sod.

Glorious the sun in mid career;
Glorious the assembled fires appear;
  Glorious the comet's train:
Glorious the trumpet and alarm;
Glorious the Almighty's stretched-out arm;
  Glorious the enraptured main;

Glorious the northern lights astream;
Glorious the song, when God's the theme;
  Glorious the thunder's roar:
Glorious Hosanna from the den;
Glorious the catholic Amen;
  Glorious the martyr's gore:

Glorious—more glorious—is the crown
Of Him that brought salvation down,
  By meekness called thy Son:
Thou that stupendous truth believed;—
And now the matchless deed's achieved,
  Determined, dared, and done!

Christopher Smart [1722–1771]

NOX NOCTI INDICAT SCIENTIAM

When I survey the bright
    Celestial sphere;
So rich with jewels hung, that night
  Doth like an Ethiop bride appear:

My soul her wings doth spread
    And heavenward flies,
The Almighty's mysteries to read
  In the large volumes of the skies.

For the bright firmament
    Shoots forth no flame
So silent, but is eloquent
  In speaking the Creator's name.

No unregarded star
    Contracts its light
Into so small a character,
  Removed far from our human sight,

But if we steadfast look
    We shall discern
In it, as in some holy book,
  How man may heavenly knowledge learn.

It tells the conqueror
That far-stretched power,
Which his proud dangers traffic for,
Is but the triumph of an hour;

That from the farthest North,
Some nation may,
Yet undiscovered, issue forth,
And o'er his new-got conquest sway:

Some nation yet shut in
With hills of ice
May be let out to scourge his sin,
Till they shall equal him in vice.

And then they likewise shall
Their ruin have;
For as yourselves your empires fall,
And every kingdom hath a grave.

Thus those celestial fires,
Though seeming mute,
The fallacy of our desires
And all the pride of life confute:—

For they have watched since first
The world had birth;
And found sin in itself accurst,
And nothing permanent on earth.

William Habington [1605–1654]

"THE SPACIOUS FIRMAMENT ON HIGH"

From "The Spectator," No. 465

The spacious firmament on high,
With all the blue ethereal sky,
And spangled heavens, a shining frame,
Their great Original proclaim.
The unwearied Sun, from day to day,
Does his Creator's power display;

And publishes to every land
The work of an Almighty hand.

Soon as the evening shades prevail,
The Moon takes up the wondrous tale;
And nightly to the listening Earth
Repeats the story of her birth:
Whilst all the stars that round her burn,
And all the planets in their turn,
Confirm the tidings as they roll
And spread the truth from pole to pole.

What though, in solemn silence, all
Move round the dark terrestrial ball?
What though nor real voice nor sound
Amidst their radiant orbs be found?
In Reason's ear they all rejoice,
And utter forth a glorious voice;
For ever singing as they shine,
"The Hand that made us is divine."

Joseph Addison [1672–1719]

UNIVERSAL PRAYER

DEO. OPT. MAX.

FATHER of all! in every age,
In every clime adored,
By saint, by savage, and by sage,
Jehovah, Jove, or Lord!

Thou Great First Cause, least understood,
Who all my sense confined
To know but this, that Thou art good,
And that myself am blind;

Yet gave me, in this dark estate,
To see the good from ill;
And, binding nature fast in fate,
Left free the human will.

What conscience dictates to be done,
Or warns me not to do,
This, teach me more than hell to shun,
That, more than heaven pursue.

What blessings Thy free bounty gives
Let me not cast away;
For God is paid when man receives,
To enjoy is to obey.

Yet not to earth's contracted span
Thy goodness let me bound,
Or think Thee Lord alone of man,
When thousand worlds are round:

Let not this weak, unknowing hand
Presume Thy bolts to throw
And deal damnation round the land
On each I judge Thy foe.

If I am right, Thy grace impart
Still in the right to stay;
If I am wrong, O, teach my heart
To find that better way!

Save me alike from foolish pride
And impious discontent
At aught Thy wisdom has denied,
Or aught Thy goodness lent.

Teach me to feel another's woe,
To hide the fault I see;
That mercy I to others show,
That mercy show to me.

Mean though I am, not wholly so,
Since quickened by Thy breath;
O, lead me, whereso'er I go,
Through this day's life or death!

This day be bread and peace my lot;
All else beneath the sun,
Thou know'st if best bestowed or not,
And let Thy will be done.

To Thee, whose temple is all space,
Whose altar earth, sea, skies,
One chorus let all Being raise,
All Nature's incense rise!

Alexander Pope [1688–1744]

"O GOD! OUR HELP IN AGES PAST"

O God! our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home!

Under the shadow of Thy Throne
Thy saints have dwelt secure;
Sufficient is Thine arm alone,
And our defense is sure.

Before the hills in order stood,
Or earth received her fame,
From everlasting Thou art God,
To endless years the same.

A thousand ages in Thy sight
Are like an evening gone;
Short as the watch that ends the night
Before the rising sun.

Time, like an ever-rolling stream,
Bears all its sons away;
They fly, forgotten, as a dream
Dies at the opening day.

O God! our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Be Thou our guide when troubles last,
And our eternal home!

Isaac Watts [1674–1748]

"JESUS, LOVER OF MY SOUL"

JESUS lover of my soul,
Let me to Thy bosom fly,
While the nearer waters roll,
While the tempest still is high!
Hide me, O my Saviour, hide,
Till the storm of life is past;
Safe into the haven guide,
Oh receive my soul at last!

Other refuge have I none,
Hangs my helpless soul on Thee;
Leave, ah! leave me not alone,
Still support and comfort me!
All my trust on Thee is stayed,
All my help from Thee I bring;
Cover my defenseless head
With the shadow of Thy wing.

Wilt Thou not regard my call?
Wilt Thou not accept my prayer??
Lo! I sink, I faint, I fall,—
Lo! on Thee I cast my care;
Reach me out Thy gracious hand,
While I of Thy strength receive!
Hoping against hope I stand,—
Dying, and behold I live!

Thou, O Christ, art all I want;
More than all in Thee I find:
Raise the fallen, cheer the faint,
Heal the sick, and lead the blind!
Just and holy is Thy Name;
I am all unrighteousness;
False and full of sin I am,
Thou art full of truth and grace.

Plenteous grace with Thee is found,—
Grace to cover all my sin;
Let the healing streams abound,
Make and keep me pure within:—

Thou of life the Fountain art,
Freely me let take of Thee;
Spring Thou up within my heart,
Rise to all eternity!

Charles Wesley [1707–1788]

"A CHARGE TO KEEP I HAVE"

A CHARGE to keep I have,
A God to glorify,
A never-dying soul to save,
And fit it for the sky.

From youth to hoary age,
My calling to fulfil,
Oh, may it all my powers engage
To do my Master's will!

Arm me with jealous care
As in Thy sight to live;
And oh, Thy servant, Lord, prepare
A strict account to give!

Help me to watch and pray,
And on Thyself rely,
Assured, if I my trust betray,
I shall forever die.

Charles Wesley [1707–1788]

CORONATION

ALL hail the power of Jesus' name!
Let angels prostrate fall;
Bring forth the royal diadem,
To crown Him Lord of all!

Let high-born seraphs tune the lyre,
And, as they tune it, fall
Before His face who tunes their choir,
And crown Him Lord of all!

Crown Him, ye morning stars of light,
Who fixed this floating ball;
Now hail the Strength of Israel's might,
And crown Him Lord of all!

Crown Him, ye martyrs of your God,
Who from His altar call;
Extol the stem of Jesse's rod,
And crown Him Lord of all!

Ye seed of Israel's chosen race,
Ye ransomed of the fall,
Hail Him who saves you by His grace,
And crown Him Lord of all!

Hail Him, ye heirs of David's line,
Whom David Lord did call,
The God incarnate, Man divine,
And crown Him Lord of all!

Sinners, whose love can ne'er forget
The wormwood and the gall,
Go spread your trophies at His feet,
And crown Him Lord of all!

Let every tribe and every tongue
That bound creation's call,
Now shout, in universal song,
The Crownèd Lord of all!

Edward Perronet [1721–1792]

"HOLY, HOLY, HOLY"

Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty!
Early in the morning our songs shall rise to Thee;
Holy, holy, holy! merciful and mighty!
God in Three Persons, Blessed Trinity!

Holy, holy, holy! all the saints adore Thee,
Casting down their golden crowns around the glassy sea,
Cherubim and seraphim falling down before Thee,
Who wert, and art, and evermore shalt be!

Holy, holy, holy! though the darkness hide Thee,
Though the eye of sinful man Thy glory may not see,
Only Thou art holy, there is none beside Thee,
Perfect in power, in love, and purity!

Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty!
All Thy works shall praise Thy name in earth and sky and sea;
Holy, holy, holy! merciful and mighty!
God in Three Persons, Blessed Trinity!

Reginald Heber [1783–1826]

"THE SON OF GOD GOES FORTH TO WAR"

The Son of God goes forth to war,
A kingly crown to gain;
His blood-red banner streams afar!
Who follows in His train?
Who best can drink his cup of woe,
Triumphant over pain,
Who patient bears his cross below,
He follows in His train!

Thy martyr first, whose eagle eye
Could pierce beyond the grave;
Who saw his Master in the sky,
And called on Him to save:
Like Him, with pardon on his tongue,
In midst of mortal pain,
He prayed for them that did the wrong!
Who follows in His train?

A glorious band, the chosen few,
On whom the Spirit came;
Twelve valiant saints, their hope they knew,
And mocked the cross and flame!
They met the tyrant's brandished steel,
The lion's gory mane:
They bowed their necks, the death to feel!
Who follows in their train?

A noble army—men and boys,
The matron and the maid,—
Around the Saviour's throne rejoice
In robes of light arrayed.
They climbed the steep ascent of Heaven,
Through peril, toil, and pain!
O God! to us may grace be given
To follow in their train!

Reginald Heber [1783–1826]

"FROM GREENLAND'S ICY MOUNTAINS"

From Greenland's icy mountains,
From India's coral strand;
Where Afric's sunny fountains
Roll down their golden sand:
From many an ancient river,
From many a palmy plain,
They call us to deliver
Their land from error's chain.

What though the spicy breezes
Blow soft o'er Ceylon's isle;
Though every prospect pleases,
And only man is vile:
In vain with lavish kindness
The gifts of God are strown;
The heathen, in his blindness,
Bows down to wood and stone.

Can we, whose souls are lighted
With wisdom from on high—
Can we, to men benighted,
The lamp of life deny?
Salvation! oh, salvation!
The joyful sound proclaim;
Till each remotest nation
Has learnt Messiah's Name.

Waft, waft, ye winds, His story,
And you, ye waters, roll,
Till, like a sea of glory,
It spreads from pole to pole;
Till o'er our ransomed nature,
The Lamb for sinners slain,
Redeemer, King, Creator,
In bliss returns to reign.

Reginald Heber [1783–1826]

LIGHT SHINING OUT OF DARKNESS

God moves in a mysterious way,
His wonders to perform;
He plants His footsteps in the sea,
And rides upon the storm.

Deep in unfathomable mines
Of never-failing skill
He treasures up His bright designs,
And works His sovereign will.

Ye fearful saints, fresh courage take;
The clouds ye so much dread
Are big with mercy, and shall break
In blessings on your head.

Judge not the Lord by feeble sense,
But trust Him for His grace;
Behind a frowning Providence
He hides a smiling face.

His purposes will ripen fast,
Unfolding every hour;
The bud may have a bitter taste,
But sweet will be the flower.

Blind unbelief is sure to err,
And scan His work in vain;
God is His own interpreter,
And He will make it plain.

William Cowper [1731–1800]

ROCK OF AGES

Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee!
Let the water and the blood,
From Thy riven side which flowed,
Be of sin the double cure—
Cleanse me from its guilt and power.

Not the labors of my hands
Can fulfil Thy law's demands;
Could my zeal no respite know,
Could my tears for ever flow,
All for sin could not atone—
Thou must save, and Thou alone.

Nothing in my hand I bring—
Simply to Thy Cross I cling;
Naked come to Thee for dress—
Helpless look to Thee for grace;
Foul, I to the Fountain fly—
Wash me, Saviour, or I die!

While I draw this fleeting breath,
When my eye-strings break in death,
When I soar to worlds unknown,
See Thee on Thy judgment-throne,
Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee!

Augustus Montague Toplady [1740–1778]

LOVE TO THE CHURCH

I love Thy kingdom, Lord,
The house of Thine abode,
The church our blest Redeemer saved
With His own precious blood.

I love Thy church, O God!
Her walls before Thee stand,
Dear as the apple of Thine eye,
And graven on Thy hand.

If e'er to bless Thy sons
My voice or hands deny,
These hands let useful skill forsake,
This voice in silence die.

For her my tears shall fall,
For her my prayers ascend;
To her my cares and toils be given
Till toils and cares shall end.

Beyond my highest joy
I prize her heavenly ways,
Her sweet communion, solemn vows,
Her hymns of love and praise.

Jesus, Thou Friend divine,
Our Saviour and our King,
Thy hand from every snare and foe
Shall great deliverance bring.

Sure as thy Truth shall last,
To Zion shall be given
The brightest glories earth can yield,
And brighter bliss of heaven.

From the Latin of St. Ambrose by Timothy Dwight [1752–1817]

GOOD TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY TO ALL PEOPLE

Angels from the realms of glory,
Wing your flight o'er all the earth;
Ye who sang creation's story
Now proclaim Messiah's birth;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the new-born King.

Shepherds, in the fields abiding,
Watching o'er your flocks by night,
God with man is now residing,
Yonder shines the infant-light;
Come and worship;
Worship Christ, the new-born King.

Sages, leave your contemplations,
Brighter visions beam afar;
Seek the great Desire of Nations;
Ye have seen His natal-star;
Come and worship;
Worship Christ, the new-born King.

Saints, before the altar bending,
Watching long in hope and fear
Suddenly, the Lord descending,
In His temple shall appear;
Come and worship;
Worship Christ, the new-born King.

Sinners, wrung with true repentance,
Doomed, for guilt, to endless pains,
Justice now revokes the sentence,
Mercy calls you—break your chains;
Come and worship;
Worship Christ, the new-born King.

James Montgomery [1771–1854]

CHRIST OUR EXAMPLE IN SUFFERING

Go to dark Gethsemane,
Ye that feel the tempter's power;
Your Redeemer's conflict see,
Watch with Him one bitter hour;
Turn not from His griefs away,
Learn of Jesus Christ to pray!

Follow to the judgment hall,
View the Lord of Life arraigned;
O the wormwood and the gall!
O the pangs His soul sustained!

Shun not suffering, shame, or loss,—
Learn of Him to bear the cross!

Calvary's mournful mountain climb;
There, adoring at His feet,
Mark that miracle of time,
God's own sacrifice complete!
"It is finished!" hear the cry;
Learn of Jesus Christ to die!

Early hasten to the tomb
Where they laid His breathless clay;
All is solitude and gloom;
Who hath taken Him away?
Christ is risen! He meets our eyes!
Saviour, teach us so to rise!

James Montgomery [1771–1854]

"JUST AS I AM"

Just as I am, without one plea
But that Thy blood was shed for me,
And that Thou bid'st me come to Thee,
O Lamb of God, I come!

Just as I am, and waiting not
To rid my soul of one dark blot,
To Thee, whose blood can cleanse each spot,
O Lamb of God, I come!

Just as I am, though tossed about,
With many a conflict, many a doubt,
Fightings and fears within, without,
O Lamb of God, I come!

Just as I am, poor, wretched, blind;
Sight, riches, healing of the mind,
Yea, all I need, in Thee to find,
O Lamb of God, I come!

Just as I am, Thou wilt receive,
Wilt welcome, pardon, cleanse, relieve;
Because Thy promise I believe,
O Lamb of God, I come!

Just as I am—Thy love unknown
Has broken every barrier down;
Now to be Thine, yea, Thine alone,
O Lamb of God, I come!

Just as I am, of that free love,
The breadth, length, depth, and height to prove,
Here for a season, then above,
O Lamb of God, I come!

Charlotte Elliott [1789–1871]

"BLEST BE THE TIE THAT BINDS"

Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in Jesus' love;
The fellowship of Christian minds
Is like to that above.

Before our Father's throne
We pour united prayers;
Our fears, our hopes, our aims, are one,
Our comforts, and our cares.

We share our mutual woes,
Our mutual burdens bear,
And often for each other flows
The sympathizing tear.

When we at death must part,
Not like the world's our pain;
But one in Christ, and one in heart,
We part to meet again.

From sorrow, toil, and pain,
And sin, we shall be free;
And perfect love and friendship reign
Throughout eternity.

John Fawcett [1740–1817]

"IN THE CROSS OF CHRIST I GLORY"

In the Cross of Christ I glory,
Towering o'er the wrecks of time,
All the light of sacred story
Gathers round its head sublime.

When the woes of life o'ertake me,
Hopes deceive, and fears annoy,
Never shall the Cross forsake me—
Lo! it grows with peace and joy.

When the sun of bliss is beaming
Light and love upon my way,
From the Cross the radiance streaming
Adds more luster to the day.

Bane and blessing, pain and pleasure,
By the Cross are sanctified;
Peace is there that knows no measure,
Joys, that through all time abide.

In the Cross of Christ I glory,
Towering o'er the wrecks of time,
All the light of sacred story
Gathers round its head sublime.

John Bowring [1792–1872]

"ABIDE WITH ME"

Abide with me! Fast falls the eventide;
The darkness deepens: Lord, with me abide!
When other helpers fail, and comforts flee,
Help of the helpless, O abide with me!

Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day;
Earth's joys grow dim; its glories pass away:
Change and decay in all around I see;
O Thou, who changest not, abide with me!

Not a brief glance, I beg, a passing word,
But, as Thou dwell'st with Thy disciples, Lord,
Familiar, condescending, patient, free,—
Come, not to sojourn, but abide, with me!

Come not in terrors, as the King of kings;
But kind and good, with healing in Thy wings:
Tears for all woes, a heart for every plea;
Come, Friend of sinners, and abide with me!

Thou on my head in early youth didst smile,
And, though rebellious and perverse meanwhile,
Thou hast not left me, oft as I left Thee:
On to the close, O Lord, abide with me!

I need Thy presence every passing hour.
What but Thy grace can foil the tempter's power?
Who like Thyself my guide and stay can be?
Through cloud and sunshine, O abide with me!

I fear no foe with Thee at hand to bless:
Ills have no weight, and tears no bitterness.
Where is death's sting, where, grave, thy victory?
I triumph still, if Thou abide with me.

Hold then Thy cross before my closing eyes;
Shine through the gloom, and point me to the skies:
Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows flee:
In life and death, O Lord, abide with me!

Henry Francis Lyte [1793–1847]

THE HOUR OF PEACEFUL REST

There is an hour of peaceful rest
To mourning wanderers given;
There is a joy for souls distressed,
A balm for every wounded breast,
'Tis found alone in heaven.

There is a soft, a downy bed,
Far from these shades of even—
A couch for weary mortals spread,
Where they may rest the aching head,
And find repose, in heaven.

There is a home for weary souls
By sin and sorrow driven;
When tossed on life's tempestuous shoals,
Where storms arise, and ocean rolls,
And all is drear but heaven.

There faith lifts up her cheerful eye,
To brighter prospects given;
And views the tempest passing by,
The evening shadows quickly fly,
And all serene in heaven.

There fragrant flowers immortal bloom,
And joys supreme are given;
There rays divine disperse the gloom:
Beyond the confines of the tomb
Appears the dawn of heaven.

William Bingham Tappan [1794–1849]

THE PILLAR OF THE CLOUD

Lead, kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom,
Lead Thou me on!
The night is dark, and I am far from home—
Lead Thou me on!
Keep Thou my feet; I do not ask to see
The distant scene,—one step enough for me.

I was not ever thus, nor prayed that Thou
Shouldst lead me on.
I loved to choose and see my path; but now
Lead Thou me on!
I loved the garish day, and, spite of fears,
Pride ruled my will: remember not past years.

So long Thy power hath blessed me, sure it still
Will lead me on,
O'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent, till
The night is gone;
And with the morn those angel faces smile
Which I have loved long since, and lost awhile.

John Henry Newman [1801–1890]

"NEARER TO THEE"

NEARER, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee!
E'en though it be a cross
That raiseth me;
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee!

Though like the wanderer,
The sun gone down,
Darkness be over me,
My rest a stone;
Yet in my dreams I'd be
Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee!

There let the way appear
Steps unto heaven;
All that Thou send'st to me
In mercy given;
Angels to beckon me
Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee!

Then, with my waking thoughts
Bright with Thy praise,
Out of my stony griefs
Bethel I'll raise;
So by my woes to be
Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee!

Or if on joyful wing
Cleaving the sky,
Sun, moon, and stars forgot,
Upward I fly,
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to Thee,
Nearer to Thee!

Sarah Flower Adams [1805–1848]

"A MIGHTY FORTRESS IS OUR GOD"*

A MIGHTY fortress is our God,
A bulwark never failing;
Our helper He amid the flood
Of mortal ills prevailing.
For still our ancient foe
Doth seek to work us woe;
His craft and power are great,
And, armed with cruel hate,
On earth is not his equal.

Did we in our own strength confide,
Our striving would be losing,—
Were not the right man on our side,
The man of God's own choosing.
Dost ask who that may be?
Christ Jesus, it is He,
Lord Sabaoth His name,
From age to age the same,
And He must win the battle.

And though this world, with devils filled,
Should threaten to undo us,
We will not fear, for God hath willed
His truth to triumph through us.
The Prince of Darkness grim,—
We tremble not for him;
His rage we can endure,
For lo! his doom is sure:
One little word shall fell him.

* For the original of this poem, see page 3831.

That word above all earthly powers,
No thanks to them, abideth;
The spirit and the gifts are ours
Through Him who with us sideth.
Let goods and kindred go,
This mortal life also;
The body they may kill,
God's truth abideth still,
His Kingdom is forever.

From the German of Martin Luther, by Frederick Henry Hedge [1805–1890]

PRAYER TO THE TRINITY

Lead us, heavenly Father, lead us
O'er the world's tempestuous sea;
Guard us, guide us, keep us, feed us,
For we have no help but Thee;
Yet possessing
Every blessing,
If our God our Father be.

Saviour, breathe forgiveness o'er us;
All our weakness Thou dost know;
Thou didst tread this earth before us,
Thou didst feel its keenest woe;
Lone and dreary,
Faint and weary,
Through the desert Thou didst go.

Spirit of our God, descending,
Fill our hearts with heavenly joy,
Love with every passion blending,
Pleasure that can never cloy:
Thus provided,
Pardoned, guided,
Nothing can our peace destroy.

James Edmeston [1791–1867]

IN SORROW

GENTLY, Lord, oh, gently lead us,
Pilgrims in this vale of tears,
Through the trials yet decreed us,
Till our last great change appears.
When temptation's darts assail us,
When in devious paths we stray,
Let Thy goodness never fail us,
Lead us in Thy perfect way.

In the hour of pain and anguish,
In the hour when death draws near,
Suffer not our hearts to languish,
Suffer not our souls to fear;
And, when mortal life is ended,
Bid us in Thine arms to rest,
Till, by angel bands attended,
We awake among the blest.

Thomas Hastings [1784–1872]

"JUST FOR TO-DAY"

LORD, for to-morrow and its needs,
I do not pray:
Keep me, my God, from stain of sin,
Just for to-day;
Let me no wrong or idle word
Unthinking say:
Set Thou a seal upon my lips,
Just for to-day.

Let me both diligently work,
And duly pray;
Let me be kind in word and deed,
Just for to-day;
Let me in season, Lord, be grave,
In season, gay;
Let me be faithful to Thy grace,
Just for to-day.

In pain and sorrow's cleansing fires,
Brief be my stay;
Oh, bid me if to-day I die,
Come home to-day;
So, for to-morrow and its needs,
I do not pray;
But keep me, guide me, love me, Lord,
Just for to-day.

Sybil F. Partridge [18 -]

LOVEST THOU ME?

HARK, my soul! it is the Lord;
'Tis thy Saviour, hear his word;
Jesus speaks, and speaks to thee;
"Say, poor sinner, lov'st thou me?

"I delivered thee when bound,
And, when wounded, healed thy wound;
Sought thee wandering, set thee right,
Turned thy darkness into light.

"Can a woman's tender care
Cease, towards the child she bare?
Yes, she may forgetful be,
Yet will I remember thee.

"Mine is an unchanging love,
Higher than the heights above;
Deeper than the depths beneath,
Free and faithful, strong as death.

"Thou shalt see my glory soon,
When the work of grace is done;
Partner of my throne shalt be;
Say, poor sinner, lov'st thou me?"

Lord, it is my chief complaint,
That my love is weak and faint;
Yet I love thee and adore,
Oh for grace to love thee more!

William Cowper [1731–1800]

THE VOICE FROM GALILEE

I HEARD the voice of Jesus say,
"Come unto Me and rest;
Lay down, thou weary one, lay down
Thy head upon My breast."
I came to Jesus as I was,
Weary, and worn, and sad,
I found in Him a resting-place,
And He has made me glad.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"Behold, I freely give
The living water,—thirsty one,
Stoop down, and drink, and live."
I came to Jesus and I drank
Of that life-giving stream;
My thirst was quenched, my soul revived,
And now I live in Him.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"I am this dark world's Light;
Look unto Me, thy morn shall rise,
And all thy day be bright."
I looked to Jesus, and I found
In Him, my Star, my Sun;
And in that Light of life I'll walk
Till traveling days be done.

Horatius Bonar [1808–1889]

FAITH

My faith looks up to Thee,
Thou Lamb of Calvary,
Saviour divine!
Now hear me while I pray,
Take all my guilt away,
O let me from this day
Be wholly Thine!

May Thy rich grace impart
Strength to my fainting heart,
My zeal inspire;
As Thou hast died for me,
O may my love for Thee
Pure, warm, and changeless be.—
A living fire!

While life's dark maze I tread,
And griefs around me spread,
Be Thou my guide;
Bid darkness turn to day,
Wipe sorrow's tears away,
Nor let me ever stray
From Thee aside.

When ends life's transient dream,
When death's cold, sullen stream
Shall o'er me roll;
Blest Saviour, then, in love,
Fear and distrust remove;
O bear me safe above,
A ransomed soul!

Ray Palmer [1808–1887]

HE STANDETH AT THE DOOR

In the silent midnight watches,
List—thy bosom door!
How it knocketh—knocketh—knocketh
Knocketh evermore!
Say not 'tis thy pulse's beating:
'Tis thy heart of sin;
'Tis thy Saviour knocks, and crieth,
"Rise, and let Me in!"

Death comes on with reckless footsteps,
To the hall and hut:
Think you Death will tarry, knocking,
Where the door is shut?

Jesus waiteth—waiteth—waiteth,
But the door is fast;
Grieved, away my Saviour goeth;
Death breaks in at last.

Then 'tis time to stand entreating
Christ to let thee in:
At the gate of Heaven beating,
Wailing for thy sin.
Nay!—alas, thou guilty creature!
Hast thou, then, forgot?
Jesus waited long to know thee;
Now He knows thee not.

Arthur Cleveland Coxe [1818–1896]

"THERE IS A GREEN HILL"

There is a green hill far away,
Without a city wall,
Where the dear Lord was crucified,
Who died to save us all.

We may not know, we cannot tell
What pains He had to bear,
But we believe it was for us
He hung and suffered there.

He died that we might be forgiven,
He died to make us good,
That we might go at last to heaven,
Saved by His precious blood.

There was no other good enough
To pay the price of sin;
He only could unlock the gate
Of heaven, and let us in.

O dearly, dearly has He loved,
And we must love Him too,
And trust in His redeeming blood,
And try His works to do.

Cecil Frances Alexander [1818–1895]

NEARER HOME

One sweetly solemn thought
  Comes to me o'er and o'er;
I am nearer home to-day
  Than I ever have been before;

Nearer my Father's house,
  Where the many mansions be;
Nearer the great white throne,
  Nearer the crystal sea;

Nearer the bound of life,
  Where we lay our burdens down;
Nearer leaving the cross!
  Nearer gaining the crown!

But lying darkly between,
  Winding down through the night,
Is the silent, unknown stream,
  That leads at last to the light.

Closer and closer my steps
  Come to the dread abysm:
Closer Death to my lips
  Presses the awful chrism.

Oh, if my mortal feet
  Have almost gained the brink;
If it be I am nearer home
  Even to-day than I think;

Father, perfect my trust;
  Let my spirit feel in death,
That her feet are firmly set
  On the rock of a living faith!

Phoebe Cary [1824–1871]

"ONWARD, CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS!"

ONWARD, Christian soldiers!
Marching as to war,
With the Cross of Jesus
Going on before.
Christ the Royal Master
Leads against the foe;
Forward into battle,
See, His banners go!
Onward, Christian soldiers!
Marching as to war,
With the Cross of Jesus
Going on before.

At the sign of triumph
Satan's host doth flee;
On, then, Christian soldiers,
On to victory!
Hell's foundations quiver
At the shout of praise;
Brothers, lift your voices,
Loud your anthems raise!

Like a mighty army
Moves the Church of God;
Brothers, we are treading
Where the Saints have trod;
We are not divided
All one body we,
One in hope and doctrine,
One in charity.

Crowns and thrones may perish,
Kingdoms rise and wane,
But the Church of Jesus
Constant will remain;
Gates of hell can never
'Gainst that Church prevail;
We have Christ's own promise,
And that cannot fail.

Onward, then, ye people!
Join our happy throng,
Blend with ours your voices
In the triumph song;
Glory, laud, and honor
Unto Christ the King,
This through countless ages
Men and angels sing.
Onward, Christian soldiers!
Marching as to war,
With the Cross of Jesus
Going on before.

Sabine Baring-Gould [1834–

EVENING

Softly now the light of day
Fades upon my sight away;
Free from care, from labor free,
Lord, I would commune with Thee:

Thou, whose all-pervading eye
Naught escapes, without, within,
Pardon each infirmity,
Open fault, and secret sin.

Soon, for me, the light of day
Shall for ever pass away;
Then, from sin and sorrow free,
Take me, Lord, to dwell with Thee:

Thou, who, sinless, yet hast known
All of man's infirmity;
Then, from Thine eternal throne,
Jesus, look with pitying eye.

George Washington Doane [1799–1859]

A DEDICATION

My new-cut ashlar takes the light
  Where crimson-blank the windows flare;
By my own work, before the night,
  Great Overseer, I make my prayer.

If there be good in that I wrought,
  Thy hand compelled it, Master, Thine;
Where I have failed to meet Thy thought
  I know, through Thee, the blame is mine.

One instant's toil to Thee denied
  Stands all Eternity's offence;
Of that I did with Thee to guide
  To Thee, through Thee, be excellence.

Who, lest all thought of Eden fade,
  Bringest Eden to the craftman's brain,
Godlike to muse o'er his own trade
  And manlike stand with God again.

The depth and dream of my desire,
  The bitter paths wherein I stray,
Thou knowest Who hast made the Fire,
  Thou knowest Who hast made the Clay.

One stone the more swings to her place
  In that dread Temple of Thy worth—
It is enough that through Thy grace
  I saw naught common on Thy earth.

Take not that vision from my ken;
  O, whatso'er may spoil or speed,
Help me to need no aid from men,
  That I may help such men as need!

Rudyard Kipling [1865–

APPENDIX

CONTAINING A FEW OF THE MORE FAMOUS POEMS IN OTHER LANGUAGES, OF WHICH TRANSLATIONS OR PARAPHRASES OCCUR IN THE FOREGOING PAGES

APPENDIX

DIES IRÆ *

DIES IRÆ, DIES ILLA, dies tribulationis et angustiæ, dies calamitatis et miseriæ, dies tenebrarum et caliginis, dies nebulæ et turbinis, dies tubæ et clangoris super civitates munitas et super angulos excelsos!—Sophonias i. 15, 16.

DIES iræ, dies illa!
Solvet sæclum in favillâ,
Teste David cum Sybillâ.

Quantus tremor est futurus,
Quando Judex est venturus,
Cuncta stricte discussurus!

Tuba mirum spargens sonum
Per sepulcra regionum,
Coget omnes ante thronum.

Mors stupebit, et natura,
Quum resurget creatura,
Judicanti responsura.

Liber scriptus proferetur,
In quo totum continetur,
Unde mundus judicetur.

Judex ergo cum sedebit,
Quidquid latet, apparebit:
Nil inultum remanebit.

Quid sum, miser! tunc dicturus,
Quem patronum rogaturus,
Quum vix justus sit securus?

Rex tremendæ majestatis,
Qui salvandos salvas gratis,
Salva me, fons pietatis!

* For a translation of this poem see page 3777.

Recordare, Jesu pie,
Quod sum causa tuæ viæ;
Ne me perdas illâ die!

Quærens me, sedisti lassus,
Redemisti, crucem passus:
Tantus labor non sit cassus!

Juste Judex ultionis,
Donum fac remissionis
Ante diem rationis!

Ingemisco tanquam reus,
Culpâ rubet vultus meus;
Supplicanti parce, Deus!

Qui Mariam absolvisti,
Et latronem exaudisti,
Mihi quoque spem dedisti.

Preces meæ non sunt dignæ,
Sed tu bonus fac benigne
Ne perenni cremer igne!

Inter oves locum præsta,
Et ab hædis me sequestra,
Statuens in parte dextrâ

Confutatis maledictis,
Flammis acribus addictis,
Voca me cum benedictis!

Oro supplex et acclinis,
Cor contritum quasi cinis,
Gere curam mei finis!

Lacrymosa dies illa,
Qua resurget ex favillâ
Judicandus homo reus;
Huic ergo parce, Deus!

Tommáso di Celano [1185?–1255?]

STABAT MATER DOLOROSA *

STABAT Mater dolorosa
Juxta crucem lacrymosa,
Dum pendebat filius;
Cujus animam gementem,
Contristatam et dolentem,
Pertransivit gladius.

O quam tristis et afflicta
Fuit illa benedicta
Mater unigeniti,
Quæ mœrebat et dolebat,
Pia mater, dum videbat
Nati pœnas inclyti!

Quis est homo qui non fleret,
Christi matrem si videret
In tanto supplicio?
Quis non posset contristari
Piam matrem contemplari
Dolentem cum filio?

Pro peccatis suæ gentis,
Vidit Jesum in tormentis,
Et flagellis subditum.
Vidit suum dulcem natum,
Morientem, desolatum,
Dum emisit spiritum.

Eia mater, fons amoris,
Me sentire vim doloris
Fac, ut tecum lugeam.
Fac ut ardeat cor meum
In amando Christum Deum,
Ut illi complaceam.

Sancta Mater, istud agas,
Crucifixi fige plagas
Cordi meo valide.

* For a translation of this poem see page 3779.

Tui nati vulnerati,
Tam dignati pro me pati,
Pœnas mecum divide.

Fac me vere tecum flere,
Crucifixo condolere,
Donec ego vixero;
Juxta crucem tecum stare,
Et tibi me sociare
In planctu desidero.

Virgo virginum præclara,
Mihi jam non sis amara;
Fac me tecum plangere;
Fac ut portem Christi mortem,
Passionis fac consortem,
Et plagas recolere.

Fac me plagis vulnerari,
Cruce hac inebriari,
Et cruore filii;
Inflammatus et accensus,
Per te, Virgo, sum defensus
In die judicii.

Fac me cruce custodiri,
Morte Christi præmuniri,
Confoveri gratia.
Quando corpus morietur,
Fac ut animæ donetur
Paradisi gloria.

Jacopone da Todi [? –1306]

VENI, SANCTE SPIRITUS *

Veni, Sancte Spiritus,
Et emitte cœlitus
Lucis tuæ radium.

* For a translation of this poem see page 3780.

Veni, pater pauperum,
Veni, dator munerum,
Veni, lumen cordium.

Consolator optime,
Dulcis hospes animæ,
Dulce refrigerium.

In labore requies,
In æstu temperies,
In fletu solatium.

O lux beatissima!
Reple cordis intima,
Tuorum fidelium.

Sine tuo numine,
Nihil est in homine,
Nihil est innoxium.

Lava quod est sordidum,
Riga quod est aridum,
Sana quod est saucium,

Flecte quod est rigidum,
Fove quod est frigidum,
Rege quod est devium.

Da tuis fidelibus,
In te confidentibus,
Sacrum septenarium;

Da virtutis meritum,
Da salutis exitum,
Da perenne gaudium!

Robert II. of France [971–1031]

VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS*

Veni, Creator Spiritus,
Mentes tuorum visita,
Imple superna gratia,
Quæ tu creasti pectora.

* For a translation of this poem see page 3782.

Qui diceris Paraclitus,
Altissimi donum Dei,
Fons vivus, ignis, caritas,
Et spiritalis unctio.

Tu septiformis munere,
Dextræ Dei tu digitus,
Tu rite promissum Patris,
Sermone ditans guttura.

Accende lumen sensibus,
Infunde amorem cordibus,
Infirma nostri corporis
Virtute firmans perpeti.

Hostem repellas longius,
Pacemque dones protinus:
Ductore sic te prævio
Vitemus omne noxium.

Per te sciamus da Patrem,
Noscamus atque Filium;
Te utriusque Spiritum
Credamus omni tempore.

Deo Patri sit gloria
Et Filio qui a mortuis
Surrexit, ac Paraclito,
In sæculorum sæcula.

St. Gregory the Great (?) [540?–604]

URBS SYON AUREA *

From "Hora Novissima"

Urbs Syon aurea, patria lactea, cive decora,
Omne cor obruis, omnibus obstruis et cor et ora.
Nescio, nescio, quæ jubilatio, lux tibi qualis,
Quam socialia gaudia, gloria quam specialis:
Laude studens ea tollere, mens mea victa fatiscit:
O bona gloria, vincor; in omnia laus tua vicit.

* For a paraphrase of this poem see page 3689.

Sunt Syon atria conjubilantia, martyre plena,
Cive micantia, Principe stantia, luce serena:
Est ibi pascua, mitibus afflua, præstita sanctis,
Regis ibi thronus, agminis et sonus est epulantis.
Gens duce splendida, concio candida vestibus albis
Sunt sine fletibus in Syon ædibus, ædibus almis;
Sunt sine crimine, sunt sine turbine, sunt sine lite
In Syon ædibus editioribus Israëlitae.
Urbs Syon inclyta, gloria debita glorificandis,
Tu bona visibus interioribus intima pandis:
Intima lumina, mentis acumina te speculantur,
Pectora flammea spe modo, postea forte lucrantur.
Urbs Syon unica, mansio mystica, condita cælo,
Nunc tibi gaudeo, nunc mihi lugeo, tristor, anhelo:
Te qui corpore non queo, pectore sæpe penetro,
Sed caro terrea, terraque carnea, mox cado retro.
Nemo retexere nemoque promere sustinet ore,
Quo tua mœnia, quo capitalia plena decore;
Opprimit omne cor ille tuus decor, o Syon, o pax,
Urbs sine tempore, nulla potest fore laus tibi mendax;
O sine luxibus, o sine luctibus, o sine lite
Splendida curia, florida patria, patria vitæ!

Urbs Syon inclyta, turris et edita littore tuto,
Te peto, te colo, te flagro, te volo, canto, saluto;
Nec meritis peto, nam meritis meto morte perire,
Nec reticens tego, quod meritis ego fillius iræ:
Vita quidem mea, vita nimis rea, mortua vita,
Quippe reatibus exitialibus obruta, trita.
Spe tamen ambulo, præmia postulo speque fideque,
Illa perennia postulo præmia nocte dieque.
Me Pater optimus atque piissimus ille creavit;
In lue pertulit, ex lue sustulit, a lue lavit.
Gratia cælica sustinet unica totius orbis
Parcere sordibus, interioribus unctio morbis;
Diluit omnia cælica gratia, fons David undans
Omnia diluit, omnibus affluit, omnia mundans:
O pia gratia, celsa palatia cernere præsta,
Ut videam bona, festaque consona, cælica festa.
O mea, spes mea, tu Syon aurea, clarior auro,

Agmine splendida, stans duce, florida perpete lauro,
O bona patria, num tua guadia teque videbo?
O bona patria, num tua præmia plena tenebo?
Dic mihi, flagito, verbaque reddito, dicque, Videbis:
Spem solidam gero; remne tenens ero? dic, Retinebis.
O sacer, o pius, o ter et amplius ille beatus,
Cui sua pars Deus: o miser, o reus, hâc viduatus.

Bernard of Cluny [1122?–1156?]

URBS BEATA HIERUSALEM *

Urbs beata Hierusalem,
Dicta Pacis Visio,
Quæ construitur in cœlis
Vivis ex lapidibus,
Et ab angelis ornata,
Ut sponsata comite.

Nova veniens e cœlo,
Nuptiali thalamo
Præparata, ut sponsata
Copuletur Domino;
Plateæ et muri ejus
Ex auro purissimo.

Portæ nitent margaritis,
Adytis patentibus;
Et virtute meritorum
Illuc introducitur
Omnis qui ob Christi Nomen
Hoc in mundo premitur.

Tunsionibus, pressuris
Expoliti lapides
Suis coaptantur locis
Per Manum Artificis;
Disponuntur permansuri
Sacris ædificiis.

* For a paraphrase of this poem see page 3693.

Gloria et honor Deo
Usquequo Altissimo,
Una Patri, Filioque,
Inclyto Paraclito,
Cui laus est et potestas
Per æterna sæcula.

Unknown

VIVAMUS, MEA LESBIA *

Vivamus, mea Lesbia, atque amemus,
Rumoresque senum severiorum
Omnes unius æstimemus assis.
Soles occidere et redire possunt:
Nobis, cum semel occidit brevis lux,
Nox est perpetua una dormienda.
Da mi basia mille, deinde centum,
Dein mille altera, dein secunda centum,
Deinde usque altera mille, deinde centum.
Dein, cum milia multa fecerimus,
Conturbabimus illa, ne sciamus,
Aut ne quis malus invidere possit,
Cum tantum sciet esse basiorum.

Gaius Valerius Catullus [87 B. C.?–54 B. C.?]

PERSICOS ODI †

Persicos odi,
Puer, apparatus;
Displicent nexæ
Philyrâ coronæ:
Mitte sectari,
Rosa quo locorum
Sera moretur.

Simplici myrto
Nihil allabores
Sedulus, curo:

* For a paraphrase of this poem see page 588.
† For a paraphrase of this poem see page 1987.

Neque te ministrum
Dedecet myrtus,
Neque me sub arctâ
Vite bibentem.

Quintus Horatius Flaccus [65 B. C.–8 B. C.]

INTEGER VITÆ *

Integer vitæ scelerisque purus
Non eget Mauris jaculis neque arcu
Nec venenatis gravida sagittis,
Fusce, pharetra;
Sive per Syrtis iter æstuosas
Sive facturus per inhospitalem
Caucasum, vel quæ loca fabulosus
Lambit Hydaspes.

Namque me silva lupus in Sabina,
Dum meam canto Lalagen et ultra
Terminum curis vagor expeditis,
Fugit inermem,
Quale portentum neque militaris
Daunias latis alit æsculetis
Nec Jubæ tellus generat, leonum
Arida nutrix.

Pone me pigris ubi nulla campis
Arbor æstiva recreatur aura,
Quod latus mundi nebulæ malusque
Juppiter urget;
Pone sub curru nimium propinqui
Solis, in terra domibus negata:
Dulce ridentem Lalagen amabo,
Dulce loquentem.

Quintus Horatius Flaccus [65 B. C.–8 B. C.]

* For a paraphrase of this poem see page 2912.

RECTIUS VIVES *

Rectius vives, Licini, neque altum
Semper urgendo neque, dum procellas
Cautus horrescis, nimium premendo
Litus iniquum.

Auream quisquis mediocritatem
Diligit, tutus caret obsoleti
Sordibus tecti, caret invidenda
Sobrius aula.

Sæpius ventis agitatur ingens
Pinus et celsæ graviore casu
Decidunt turres feriuntque summos
Fulgura montis.

Sperat infestis, metuit secundis
Alteram sortem bene præparatum
Pectus. Informis hiemes reducit
Juppiter, idem

Submovet; non, si male nunc, et olim
Sic erit; quondam cithara tacentem
Suscitat musam neque semper arcum
Tendit Apollo.

Rebus angustis animosus atque
Fortis appare; sapienter idem
Contrahes vento nimium secundo
Turgida vela.

Quintus Horatius Flaccus [65 B. C.–8 B. C.]

DE BREVITATE VITÆ †

(CARMEN AMŒBÆUM)

Gaudeamus igitur,
Juvenes dum sumus;

* For a paraphrase of this poem see page 2991.
† For a paraphrase of this poem see page 2895.

Post jucundam juventutem,
Post molestam senectutem
Nos habebit humus.

Ubi sunt, qui ante nos
In mundo fuere?
Vadite ad superos,
Transite ad inferos,
Ubi jam fuere.

Vita nostra brevis est,
Brevi finietur,
Venit mors velociter,
Rapit nos atrociter,
Nemini parcetur.

Vivat academia,
Vivant professores,
Vivat membrum quodlibet,
Vivant membra quaelibet,
Semper sint in flore!

Vivant omnes virgines,
Faciles, formosæ,
Vivant et mulieres,
Teneræ, amabiles,
Bonæ, laboriosæ!

Vivat et respublica
Et qui illam regit,
Vivat nostra civitas,
Mæcenatum caritas,
Quæ nos hic protegit!

Pereat tristitia,
Pereant osores,
Pereat diabolus,
Quivis antiburschius,
Atque irrisores.

Unknown

LAURIGER HORATIUS *

Lauriger Horatius,
Quàm dixisti verum;
Fugit Euro citius
Tempus edax rerum!
Ubi sunt, o pocula
Dulciora melle!
Rixæ, pax et oscula
Rubentis puellæ?

Crescit uva molliter
Et puella crescit,
Sed poeta turpiter
Sitiens canescit.
Quid juvat æternitas
Nominis, amare
Nisi terræ filias
Licet, et potare.

Unknown

EIN FESTE BURG †

Ein feste Burg ist unser Gott,
Ein gute Wehr und Waffen,
Er hilft uns frei aus aller Not,
Die uns jetzt hat betroffen.
Der alt böse Feind
Mit Ernst ers jetzt meint,
Gross Macht und viel List
Sein grausam Rüstung ist,
Auf Erd ist nicht seins Gleichen.

Mit unsrer Macht ist nichts getan,
Wir sind gar bald verloren;
Es streit für uns der rechte Mann,
Den Gott hat selbst erkoren.

* For a paraphrase of this poem see page 2896.
† For a translation of this poem see page 3806.

Fragst du, wer der ist!
Er heisst Jesus Christ,
Der Herr Zebaoth,
Und ist kein andrer Gott,
Das Feld muss er behalten.

Und wenn die Welt voll Teufel wär
Und wollt uns gar verschlingen,
So fürchten wir uns nicht so sehr,
Es soll uns doch gelingen.
Der Fürst dieser Welt,
Wie saur er sich stellt,
Tut er uns doch nicht;
Das macht, er ist gericht,
Ein Wörtlein kann ihn fällen.

Das Wort sie sollen lassen stan
Und kein Dank dazu haben.
Er ist bei uns wohl auf dem Plan
Mit seinem Geist und Gaben.
Nehmen sie den Leib,
Gut, Ehr, Kind und Weib,
Lass fahren dahin,
Sie habens kein Gewinn:
Das Reich muss uns doch bleiben.

Martin Luther [1483–1546]

LIED *

Ins stille Land!
Wer leitet uns hinüber?
Schon wölkt sich uns der Abendhimmel trüber,
Und immer trümmervoller wird der Strand.
Wer leitet uns mit sanfter Hand
Hinüber, ach! hinüber
Ins stille Land?

Ins stille Land!
Zu euch, ihr freien Räume
Für die Veredlung! Zarte Morgenträume

* For a paraphrase of this poem see page 3456.

Der schönen Seelen! künftgen Daseins Pfand.
Wer treu des Lebens Kampf bestand,
Trägt seiner Hoffnung Keime
Ins stille Land.

Ach Land! ach Land!
Für alle Sturmbedrohten
Der mildeste von unsers Schicksals Boten
Winkt uns, die Fackel umgewandt,
Und leitet uns mit sanfter Hand
Ins Land der grossen Toten,
Ins stille Land.

Johann Gaudenz von Salis-Seewis [1762–1834]

DIE WACHT AM RHEIN *

Es braust ein Ruf wie Donnerhall,
Wie Schwertgeklirr und Wogenprall:
"Zum Rhein, zum Rhein, zum deutschen Rhein!
Wer will des Stromes Hüter sein?"

Chorus—Lieb Vaterland, magst ruhig sein,
Fest steht und treu die Wacht am Rhein!

Durch Hunderttausend zuckt es schnell,
Und aller Augen blitzen hell.
Der deutsche Jüngling fromm und stark
Beschirmt die heil'ge Landesmark.

Er blickt hinauf in Himmelsau'n,
Wo Heldengeister niederschaun,
Und schwört mit stolzer Kampfeslust:
"Du, Rhein, bleibst deutsch wie meine Brust!

"Und ob mein Herz im Tode bricht,
Wirst du doch drum ein Welscher nicht.
Reich wie an Wasser deine Flut,
Ist Deutschland ja an Heldenblut.

* For a translation of this poem see page 2269.

"So lang ein Tropfen Blut noch glüht,
Noch eine Faust den Degen zieht,
Und noch ein Arm die Büchse spannt,
Betritt kein Feind hier deinen Strand."

Der Schwur erschallt, die Woge rinnt,
Die Fahnen flattern hoch im Wind:
Zum Rhein, zum Rhein, zum deutschen Rhein!
Wir alle wollen Hüter sein!

Max Schneckenburger [1819–1849]

DES DEUTSCHEN VATERLAND *

Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland?
Ist's Preussenland? ist's Schwabenland?
Ist's, wo am Rhein die Rebe blüht?
Ist's, wo am Belt die Möve zieht?
O nein! nein! nein!
Sein Vaterland muss grösser sein.

Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland?
Ist's Baierland? ist's Steierland?
Ist's, wo des Marsen Rind sich streckt?
Ist's, wo der Märker Eisen reckt?
O nein! nein! nein!
Sein Vaterland muss grösser sein.

Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland?
Ist's Pommerland, Westfalenland?
Ist's, wo der Sand der Dünen weht?
Ist's, wo die Donau brausend geht?
O nein! nein! nein!
Sein Vaterland muss grösser sein.

Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland?
So nenne mir das grosse Land!

* For a translation of this poem see page 2270.

Ist's Land der Schweitzer? ist's Tirol?
Das Land und Volk gefiel mir wohl;
Doch nein! nein! nein!
Sein Vaterland muss grösser sein.

Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland?
So nenne mir das grosse Land!
Gewiss es ist das Oesterreich,
An Ehren und an Siegen reich?
O nein! nein! nein!
Sein Vaterland muss grösser sein.

Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland?
So nenne mir das grosse Land!
So weit die deutsche Zunge klingt
Und Gott im Himmel Lieder singt,
Das soll es sein!
Das, wackrer Deutscher, nenne dein!

Das ist des Deutschen Vaterland,
Wo Eide schwört der Druck der Hand,
Wo Treue hell vom Auge blitzt
Und Liebe warm im Herzen sitzt—
Das soll es sein!
Das, wackrer Deutscher, nenne dein!

Das ist des Deutschen Vaterland,
Wo Zorn vertilgt den wälschen Tand,
Wo jeder Franzmann heisset Feind,
Wo jeder Deutsche heisset Freund—
Das soll es sein!
Das ganze Deutschland soll es sein!

Das ganze Deutschland soll es sein!
O Gott vom Himmel sieh' darein,
Und gieb uns rechten deutschen Muth,
Dass wir es lieben treu und gut.
Das soll es sein!
Das ganze Deutschland soll es sein!

Ernst Moritz Arndt [1769–1860]

LA MARSEILLAISE *

Allons, enfants de la Patrie,
Le jour de gloire est arrivé;
Contre nous de la tyrannie
L'étendard sanglant est levé,
Entendez-vous dans ces campagnes
Mugir ces féroces soldats?
Ils viennent jusque dans vos bras
Égorger nos fils, nos compagnes! . . .
Aux armes, citoyens! formez vos bataillons!
Marchons, marchons!
Qu'un sang impur abreuve nos sillons!

Que veut cette horde d'esclaves,
De traîtres, de rois conjurés?
Pour qui ces ignobles entraves,
Ces fers dès longtemps préparés?
Français, pour nous, ah! quel outrage!
Quels transports il doit exciter!
C'est nous qu'on ose méditer
De rendre à l'antique esclavage.

Quoi! ces cohortes étrangères
Feraient la loi dans nos foyers?
Quoi! ces phalanges mercenaires
Terrasseraient nos fiers guerriers?
Grand Dieu! par des mains enchaînées
Nos fronts sous le joug se ploieraient!
De vils despotes deviendraient
Les maîtres de nos destinées.

Tremblez, tyrans, et vous perfides,
L'opprobre de tous les partis,
Tremblez! vos projets parricides
Vont enfin recevoir leur prix!
Tout est soldat pour vous combattre.
S'ils tombent, nos jeunes héros,
La terre en produit de nouveaux
Contre vous tout prêts à se battre!

* For a paraphrase of this poem see page 2271.

Français, en guerriers magnanimes,
Portez ou retenez vos coups;
Épargnez ces tristes victimes
A regret s'armant contre nous.
Mais ces despotes sanguinaires,
Mais les complices de Bouillé,
Tous ces tigres qui sans pitié
Dechirent le sein de leurs mères! . . .

Nous entrerons dans la carrière
Quand nos aînés n'y seront plus;
Nous y trouverons leur poussière
Et la trace de leurs vertus!
Bien moins jaloux de leur survivre
Que de partager leur cercueil,
Nous aurons le sublime orgueil
De les venger ou de les suivre! . . .

Amour sacré de la Patrie,
Conduis, soutiens nos braves vengeurs:
Liberté, Liberté chérie,
Combats avex tes défenseurs!
Sous nos drapeaux que la Victoire
Accoure à tes mâles accents;
Que tes ennemis expirants
Voient ton triomphe et notre gloire! . . .
Aux armes, citoyens! formez vos bataillons!
Marchons, marchons!
Qu'un sang impur abreuve nos sillons!

Claude Joseph Rouget de Lisle [1760–1836]

BALLADE DES DAMES DU TEMPS JADIS *

Dictes-moy où, n'en quel pays,
Est Flora, la belle Romaine;
Archipiada, ne Thaïs,
Qui fut sa cousine germaine;

* For translations of this poem see pages 1783, 1784, 1785.

Echo, parlant quand bruyt on maine
Dessus riviere ou sus estan,
Qui beauté eut trop plus qu'humaine?
Mais où sont les neiges d'antan!

Où est la tres sage Heloïs,
Pour qui fut blessé et puis moyne
Pierre Esbaillart à Sainct-Denys
(Pour son amour eut cest essoyne)?
Semblablement, où est la royne
Qui commanda que Buridan
Fust jetté en ung sac en Seine? . . .
Mais où sont les neiges d'antan?

La royne Blanche comme ung lys,
Qui chantoit à voix de sereine;
Berthe au grand pied, Bietris, Allys;
Harembourges, qui tint le Mayne,
Et Jehanne, la bonne Lorraine,
Qu'Angloys bruslerent à Rouen;
Où sont-ils, Vierge souveraine? . . .
Mais où sont les neiges d'antan!

ENVOI

Prince, n'enquerez de sepmaine
Où elles sont, ne de cest an,
Que ce refrain ne vous remaine:
Mais où sont les neiges d'antan?

François Villon [1431–14?]

BALLADE DE FRÈRE LUBIN*

Pour courir en poste à la ville
Vingt fois, cent fois, ne sçai combien,
Pour faire quelque chose vile,
Frère Lubin le fera bien;
Mais d'avoir honneste entretien,
Ou mener vie salutaire,
C'est à faire à un bon chrestien,
Frère Lubin ne le peut faire.

* For a translation of this poem see page 1874.

Pour mettre (comme un homme habile)
Le bien d'autruy avec le sien,
Et vous laisser sans croix ne pile,
Frère Lubin le fera bien.
On a beau dire, je le tien,
Et le presser de satisfaire,
Jamais ne vous en rendra rien;
Frère Lubin ne le peut faire.

Pour desbaucher par un doux stile
Quelque fille de bon maintien,
Point ne faut de vieille subtile,
Frère Lubin le fera bien.
Il presche en theologien;
Mais pour boire de belle eau claire,
Faites la boire à vostre chien,
Frère Lubin ne le peut faire.

ENVOI

Pour faire plus tost mal que bien,
Frère Lubin le fera bien,
Et si c'est quelque bon affaire,
Frère Lubin ne le peut faire.

Clément Marot [1495–1544]

LE GRENIER *

Je viens revoir l'asile où ma jeunesse
De la misère a subi les leçons.
J'avais vingt ans, une folle maîtresse,
De francs amis et l'amour des chansons.
Bravant le monde et les sots et les sages,
Sans avenir, riche de mon printemps,
Leste et joyeux, je montais six étages.
Dans un grenier qu'on est bien à vingt ans!

C'est un grenier, point ne veux qu'on l'ignore.
Là fut mon lit, bien chétif et bien dur;
Là fut ma table; et je retrouve encore
Trois pieds d'un vers charbonnés sur le mur.

* For a translation of this poem see page 463.

Apparaissez, plaisirs de mon bel âge,
Que d'un coup d'aile a fustigés le temps,
Vingt fois pour vous j'ai mis ma montre en gage.
Dans un grenier qu'on est bien à vingt ans!

Lisette ici doit surtout apparaître,
Vive, jolie, avec un frais chapeau;
Déjà sa main à l'étroite fenêtre
Suspend son schal, en guise de rideau.
Sa robe aussi va parer ma couchette;
Respecte, Amour, ses plis longs et flottans.
J'ai su depuis qui payait sa toilette.
Dans un grenier qu'on est bien à vingt ans!

À table un jour, jour de grande richesse,
De mes amis les voix brillaient en chœur,
Quand jusqu'ici monte un cri d'allégresse:
À Marengo Bonaparte est vainqueur.
Le canon gronde; un autre chant commence·
Nous célébrons tant de faits éclatans.
Les rois jamais n'envahiront la France.
Dans un grenier qu'on est bien à vingt ans!

Quittons ce toit où ma raison s'enivre.
Oh! qu'ils sont loin ces jours si regrettés!
J'échangerais ce qu'il me reste à vivre
Contre un des mois qu'ici Dieu m'a comptés,
Pour rêver gloire, amour, plaisir, folie,
Pour dépenser sa vie en peu d'instans,
D'un long espoir pour la voir embellie.
Dans un grenier qu'on est bien à vingt ans!

Pierre-Jean de Béranger [1780–1857]

LE ROI D'YVETOT *

Il était un roi d'Yvetot
Peu connu dans l'histoire,
Se levant tard, se couchant tôt,
Dormant fort bien sans gloire,

* For a paraphrase of this poem see page 1848.

Et couronné par Jeanneton
D'un simple bonnet de coton,
Dit-on.
Oh! oh! oh! oh! ah! ah! ah! ah!
Quel bon petit roi c'était là!
La, la.

Il faisait ses quatre repas
Dans son palais de chaume,
Et sur un âne, pas à pas,
Parcourait son royaume.
Joyeux, simple et croyant le bien,
Pour toute garde il n'avait rien
Qu'un chien.

Il n'avait de goût onéreux
Qu'une soif un peu vive;
Mais, en rendant son peuple heureux,
Il faut bien qu'un roi vive.
Lui-même, à table et sans suppôt,
Sur chaque muid levait un pot
D'impôt.

Aux filles de bonnes maisons
Comme il avait su plaire,
Ses sujets avaient cent raisons
De le nommer leur père.
D'ailleurs il ne levait de ban
Que pour tirer, quatre fois l'an,
Au blanc.

Il n'agrandit point ses états,
Fut un voisin commode,
Et, modèle des potentats,
Prit le plaisir pour code.
Ce n'est que lorsqu'il expira
Que le peuple, qui l'enterra,
Pleura.

On conserve encor le portrait
De ce digne et bon prince:

C'est l'enseigne d'un cabaret
Fameux dans la province.
Les jours de fête, bien souvent,
La foule s'écrie en buvant
Devant:
Oh! oh! oh! oh! ah! ah! ah! ah!
Quel bon petit roi c'était là!
Là, la.

Pierre-Jean de Béranger [1780–1857]

FANTAISIE *

Il est un air pour qui je donnerais
Tout Rossini, tout Mozart, tout Weber,
Un air très vieux, languissant et funèbre,
Qui pour moi seul a des charmes secrets.

Or, chaque fois que je viens à l'entendre,
De deux cents ans mon âme rajeunit;
C'est sous Louis treize . . . et je crois voir s'étendre
Un coteau vert que le couchant jaunit.

Puis un château de brigue à coins de pierres,
Aux vitraux teints de rougeâtres couleurs,
Ceint de grands parcs, avec une rivière
Baignant ses pieds, qui coule entre les fleurs.

Puis une dame à sa haute fenêtre,
Blonde, aux yeux noirs, en ses habits anciens . . .
Que dans une autre existence, peut-être,
J'ai déjà vue! . . . et dont je me souviens.

Gérard de Nerval [1808–1855]

L'ART †

Oui, l'œuvre sort plus belle
D'une forme au travail
Rebelle,
Vers, marbre, onyx, email.

* For a translation of this poem see page 920.
† For a paraphrase of this poem see page 3140.

Point de contraintes fausses!
Mais que, pour marcher droit,
Tu chausses,
Muse, un cothurne étroit.

Fi du rhythme commode,
Comme un soulier trop grand,
Du mode
Que tout pied quitte et prend!

Statuaire, repousse
L'argile que pétrit
Le pouce
Quand flotte ailleurs l'esprit.

Lutte avec le carrare,
Avec le paros dur
Et rare,
Gardiens du contour pur;

Emprunte à Syracuse
Son bronze où fermement
S'accuse
Le trait fier et charmant;

D'une main délicate
Poursuis dans un filon
D'agate
Le profil d'Apollon.

Peintre, fuis l'aquarelle,
Et fixe la couleur
Trop frêle
Au four de l'émailleur.

Fais les sirènes bleues,
Tordant de cent façons
Leurs queues,
Les monstres des blasons;

Dans son nimbe trilobe
La Vierge et son Jésus,
Le globe
Avec la croix dessus.

Tout passe.—L'art robuste
Seul a l'éternité.
Le buste.
Survit à la cité.

Et la médaille austère
Que trouve un laboureur
Sous terre
Révèle un empereur.

Les dieux eux-mêmes meurent.
Mais les vers souverains
Demeurent
Plus fort que les airains.

Sculpte, lime, cisèle;
Que ton rêve flottant
Se scelle
Dans le bloc résistant!

Théophile Gautier [1811–1872]

CARCASSONNE *

Je me fais vieux, j'ai soixante ans;
J'ai travaillé toute ma vie
Sans avoir, durant ce temps,
Pu satisfaire mon envie.
Je vois bien qu'il n'est ici-bas
De bonheur complet pour personne.
Mon voeu ne s'accomplira pas:
Je n'ai jamais vu Carcassonne!

On voit la ville de là-haut
Derrière les montagnes bleues,
Mais, pour y parvenir, il faut,
Il faut faire cinq grandes lieues,
En faire autant pour revenir;
Ah, si la vendange était bonne!
Le raisin ne veut pas jaunir:
Je ne verrai pas Carcassonne!

* For a translation of this poem see page 438.

On dit qu'on y voit tous les jours,
Ni plus ni moins que les dimanches,
Des gens s'en aller sur les cours,
En habits neufs, en robes blanches.
On dit qu'on y voit des châteaux
Grands commes ceux de Babylone,
Un évêque et deux généraux!
Je ne connais pas Carcassonne!

Le vicaire a cent fois raison:
C'est des imprudents que nous sommes.
Il disait dans son oraison
Que l'ambition perd les hommes.
Si je pouvois trouver pourtant
Deux jours sur la fin de l'automne—
Mon Dieu, que je mourrais content
Après avoir vu Carcassonne!

Mon Dieu, mon Dieu, pardonnez-moi
Si ma prière vous offense;
On voit toujours plus haut que soi,
En vieillesse comme en enfance.
Ma femme, avec mon fils Aignan,
A voyagé jusqu'à Narbonne;
Mon filleul a vu Perpignan,
Et je n'ai pas vu Carcassonne!

Ainsi chantait près de Limoux
Un paysan courbé par l'âge.
Je lui dis: "Ami, levez-vous;
Nous allons faire le voyage."
Nous partîmes le lendemain,
Mais, que le Bon Dieu lui pardonne,
Il mourut à moitié chemin:
Il n'a jamais vu Carcassonne!

Gustave Nadaud [1820–1893]

HASSGESANG GEGEN ENGLAND *

Was schiert uns Russe und Franzos?
Schuss wider Schuss und Stoss um Stoss,
Wir lieben sie nicht,
Wir hassen sie nicht,
Wir schützen Weichsel und Wasgaupass,—
Wir haben nur einen einzigen Hass,
Wir lieben vereint, wir hassen vereint,
Wir haben nur einen einzigen Feind:—

Den ihr alle wisst, den ihr alle wisst,
Er sitzt geduckt hinter der grauen Flut,
Voll Neid, voll Wut, voll Schläue, voll List,
Durch Wasser getrennt, die sind dicker als Blut.
Wir wollen treten in ein Gericht,
Einen Schwur zu schwören, Gesicht in Gesicht.
Einen Schwur von Erz, den verbläst kein Wind,
Einen Schwur für Kind und für Kindeskind.
Vernehmt das Wort, sagt nach das Wort,
Es wälze sich durch ganz Deutschland fort:
Wir wollen nicht lassen von unserem Hass,
Wir haben alle nur einen Hass,
Wir lieben vereint, wir hassen vereint,
Wir haben alle nur einen Feind:
ENGLAND!

In der Bordkajüte, in Feiersaal,
Sassen Schiffsoffiziere beim Liebesmahl,—
Wie ein Säbelhieb, wie ein Segelschwung,
Einer riss grüssend empor den Trunk;
Knap hinknallend wie Ruderschlag
Drei Worte sprach er: "Auf den Tag!"

Wem galt das Glas?
Sie hatten alle nur einen Hass.
Wer war gemeint?
Sie hatten alle nur einen Feind:
ENGLAND!

* For a translation of this poem see page 2549.

Nimm du die Völker der Erde in Sold,
Baue Wälle aus Barren von Gold,
Bedecke die Meerflut mit Bug bei Bug,
Du rechnetest klug, doch nicht klug genug.
Was schiert uns Russe und Franzos?
Schuss wider Schuss, und Stoss um Stoss.
Wir kämpfen den Kampf mit Bronze und Stahl
Und schliessen Frieden irgend einmal,
Dich werden wir hassen mit langem Hass,
Wir werden nicht lassen von unserem Hass.
Hass zu Wasser und Hass zu Land,
Hass des Hauptes und Hass der Hand,
Hass der Hammer und Hass der Kronen,
Drosselnder Hass von siebzig Millionen,
Sie lieben vereint, sie hassen vereint,
Sie haben alle nur einen Feind:
ENGLAND!

Ernst Lissauer [1882–

INDEX OF AUTHORS

A

"A. E.," see RUSSELL, GEORGE WILLIAM.

ABBEY, HENRY
Born at Rondout, N. Y., July 11, 1842; died at Kingston, N. Y., June 7, 1911.
"What do we Plant" 1402

ABERCROMBIE, LASCELLES
An English writer, born in 1884, and now living in London.
"All Last Night" 674
Balkis 3215
Epilogue 513
Hope and Despair 3368

ADAM, JEAN
Born at Crawfordsdyke, Renfrewshire, Scotland, in 1710; died in the Glasgow almshouse, April 3, 1765.
The Sailor's Wife (?) 1217

ADAMS, CHARLES FOLLEN
Born at Dorchester, Mass., April 21, 1842; died at Boston, Mass., March 9, 1918.
Yaw, dot is so 2030

ADAMS, JAMES BARTON
Born in Jefferson County, Ohio, April 17, 1843; now living at Fort Vancouver, Washington.
At a Cowboy Dance 2187

ADAMS, SARAH FLOWER
Born at Great Harlow, Essex, England February 22, 1805; died in London, August 13, 1848.
"Mourners Came at Break of Day, The" 3514
"Nearer to Thee 3805

ADDISON, JOSEPH
Born at Milston, Wilts, England, May 1, 1672; died at Holland House, London, June 17, 1719.
"The Spacious Firmament on High" 3787

AIDÉ, CHARLES HAMILTON
An English poet and novelist, born in Paris, France, November 4, 1826; died in London, England, December 13, 1906.
Remember or Forget 987
"When We are Parted" 987

AIKEN, CONRAD
Born at Savannah, Ga., in 1889; now living at Cambridge, Mass.
"Music I Heard" 1129

AINSLIE, HEW
Born in Ayrshire, Scotland, April 5, 1792; came to America in 1822; died at Louisville, Ky., March 11, 1878.
The Ingle-side 3239
Willie and Helen 941

AKENSIDE, MARK
Born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, November 9, 1721; died in London, June 23, 1770.
Amoret 537
Nightingale, The 1549
Song, "The shape alone let others prize 537

AKERS, ELIZABETH [MRS. ELIZABETH AKERS ALLEN]
Born at Strong, Me., October 9, 1832; died at Tuckahoe, N. Y., August 7, 1911.
Bringing Our Sheaves 3731
Endurance 3382
Left Behind 1020
Little Feet 17
Lost Light 1010
Rock Me to Sleep 465
Sea-birds 1522
Snow 1390
Until Death 1116

AKINS, ZOË
Born at Humansville, Mo., October 30, 1886, and now living at St. Louis, Mo.
"I am the Wind" 680
Norah 1054
"This is My Hour" 1318

ALBEE, JOHN
Born at Bellingham, Mass., April 3, 1833; died at Chocorna, N. H., in March, 1915.
At the Grave of Champernowne 3597

ALCOTT, LOUISA MAY
Born at Germantown, Pa., November 29, 1832, and died in Boston, Mass., March 6, 1888.
Thoreau's Flute 3667

ALDEN, HENRY MILLS
Born at Mount Tabor, Vt., November 11, 1836; present address, Metuchen, N. J.
The Magic Mirror 2849

ALDINGTON, RICHARD
Born in Hampshire, England, July 8, 1892; now living in London.
After Two Years 581

ALDRICH, ANNE REEVE
Born in New York City, April 25, 1866; died there, June 22, 1892.
Fanny 344
Little Parable, A 3462
Suppose 1908

ALDRICH, JAMES
Born in Suffolk county, N. Y., July 10, 1810; died in New York City, in October, 1856.
A Death-bed 3548

ALDRICH, THOMAS BAILEY
Born at Portsmouth, N. H., November 11, 1836; died at Boston, Mass., March 19, 1907.
Baby Bell 28
"Enamored Architect of Airy Rhyme" 3083
Flight of the Goddess, The 3103
"Forever and a Day" 991
Hint from Herrick, A 3090
L'Eau Dormante 739
Nocturne 711
Ode on the Unveiling of the Shaw Memorial 3655
On an Intaglio Head of Minerva 1748
Palabras Cariñosas 711
Thalia 1750
Turkish Legend, A 2845
When the Sultan Goes to Ispahan 854
World's Way, The 1860

ALEXANDER, CECIL FRANCES
Born in County Wicklow, Ireland, in 1818; died at Londonderry, Ireland, October 12, 1895.
The Burial of Moses 3736
"There is a Green Hill" 3812

ALEXANDER, WILLIAM
Born at Derry, Ireland, April 13, 1824; died at Torquay, Devonshire, England, September 12, 1911.
Robert Burns 3595

ALFORD, HENRY
Born in London, England, October 7, 1810; died at Canterbury, England, January 12, 1871.
Gipsy Girl, The 344

ALLEN, ELIZABETH AKERS, see AKERS, ELIZABETH

ALLINGHAM, WILLIAM
Born at Ballyshannon, Donegal, Ireland, March 19, 1824; died at Hampstead, England, November 18, 1889.
Abbot of Inisfalen, The 2739
Fairies, The 241
Homeward Bound 1633
Lovely Mary Donnelly 554
Robin Redbreast 1561
Sailor, The 1625
Wishing 138

ALLSTON, WASHINGTON
Born at Waccamaw, S. C., November 5, 1779; died at Cambridge, Mass., July 9, 1843.
America to Great Britain 2223

ALMA-TADEMA, LAURENCE
An English writer, daughter of Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema; present address, Wittersham, Kent, England.
Playgrounds 130

ANDERSON, ALEXANDER
Born at Kirkconnel, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, April 30, 1845; died at Edinburgh, Scotland, July 11, 1909.
Cuddle Doon 95
"Jenny Wi' the Airn Teeth" 94
"Langsyne, when Life Was Bonnie" 447

ANDERSON, ARISTINE
An American writer; no biographical data available.
A Mosquito Triolet 2085

ANDERSON, MARGARET STEELE
An American writer living in Louisville, Ky.
The Breaking 351

ANNAN, ANNIE RANKIN
An American writer, living at Buffalo, N. Y.
Dandelion 1483

APPLETON, EVERARD JOHN
Born at Charleston, W. Va., March 24, 1872; now living at Cincinnati, Ohio.
The Fighting Failure 2942

ARENSBERG, WALTER CONRAD
An American writer, now living in New York City.
To Hasekawa 2908

ARNDT, ERNST MORITZ
Born at Schoritz, Sweden, December 26, 1769; died at Bonn, Germany, January 29, 1860.
Des Deutschen Vaterland 3834
The German Fatherland 2270

ARNOLD, [SIR] EDWIN
Born at Gravesend, England, June 10, 1832; died in London, March 24, 1904.
After Death in Arabia 3582
Almond Blossom 1466
In Memoriam 3648
She and He 3579
To a Pair of Egyptian Slippers 1762

ARNOLD, GEORGE
Born in New York City, June 24, 1834; died at Strawberry Farms, Monmouth County, N. J., November 9, 1865.
Alone by the Hearth 469
Golden Fish, The 736
In the Dark 3496
Jolly Old Pedagogue, The 1746
September 1371
Youth and Age 421

ARNOLD, MATTHEW
Born at Laleham, England, December 24, 1822; died at Liverpool, England, April 15, 1888.
Dover Beach ... 2595
Forsaken Merman, The ... 1021
Geist's Grave ... 1828
Growing Old ... 418
Last Word, The ... 2944
Longing ... 967
Memorial Verses ... 3680
Morality ... 3376
Philomela ... 1547
Quiet Work ... 1300
Requiescat ... 1098
Scholar-Gipsy, The ... 3305
Self-Dependence ... 2843
Separation ... 966
Shakespeare ... 3653
To Marguerite ... 966
Urania ... 639
Wish, A ... 3459

ASHBURTON, ROBERT OFFLEY [FIRST MARQUESS OF CREWE]
Born in London, England, January 12, 1858; and still living there.
A Harrow Grave in Flanders 2326

ASHBY-STERRY, JOSEPH
Born in London in 1838; died there in 1917.
King of the Cradle, The ... 22
Portrait, A ... 1758

ASHE, THOMAS
Born at Stockport, Cheshire, England, in 1836; died in London, December 18, 1889.
"Meet We No Angels, Pansie" ... 567
No and Yes ... 895

AUSTIN, ALFRED
Born at Headingley, Leeds, England, May 30, 1835; died at Ashford, England, June 2, 1913. Poet Laureate, 1896–1913.
Agatha ... 1046
Last Redoubt, The ... 2531
Mother-Song ... 90
To America ... 2226

AYTON, [SIR] ROBERT
Born at the castle of Kinaldie, near St. Andrews, Scotland, in 1570; died in London, England, February 28, 1638. The name is sometimes spelled Aytoun.
To His Forsaken Mistress ... 808
To an Inconstant ... 809

AYTOUN, WILLIAM EDMONSTOUNE
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, June 21, 1813; died at Blackhills, near Elgin, August 4, 1865.
The Execution of Montrose ... 2394
The Lay of the Levite ... 2023
The Old Scottish Cavalier ... 2734

B

BACON, FRANCIS [BARON VERULAM, VISCOUNT SAINT ALBANS
Born in London, England, January 22, 1561; died there, April 9, 1626.
The World ... 399

BACON, JOSEPHINE DODGE DASKAM
Born at Stamford, Conn., February 17, 1876; present address, Pleasantville, N. Y.
Motherhood ... 303
Omar for Ladies, An ... 1921

BAILLIE, JOANNA
Born in Lanarkshire, Scotland, September 11, 1762; died at Hampstead, England, February 23, 1851.
"Wake, Lady" ... 698

BAKER, GEORGE AUGUSTUS
An American writer, born in 1849, died in 1906.
"Thoughts on the Commandments" ... 806

BAKER, KARLE WILSON ("CHARLOTTE WILSON").
Born at Little Rock, Ark., October 13, 1878; now living at Nacogdoches, Texas.
Good Company ... 1301

BALLANTINE, JAMES
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1808; died there in December, 1877.
Castles in the Air ... 257
Creep afore ye Gang ... 256
Its Ain Drap o' Dew ... 2992
Muckle-mou'd Meg ... 782

BANGS, EDWARD
Born in Massachusetts about 1758; graduated from Harvard in 1777; afterwards a judge in Worcester county. Given as the author of "Yankee Doodle" on the authority of Edward Everett Hale.
Yankee Doodle ... 2198

BANGS, JOHN KENDRICK
Born at Yonkers, N. Y., May 27, 1862; now living at Ogunquit, Me.
Little Elf, The ... 248
Philosopher, A ... 2983

BANNERMAN, FRANCES
An English writer, living in London.
An Upper Chamber ... 3748

BANNING, KENDALL
Born in New York City, September 20, 1879; now living in Washington, D. C.
Once on a Time ... 517

BARBAULD, ANNA LETITIA
Born in Leicestershire, England, June 20, 1743; died near London, March 9, 1825.
Life ... 3491

BARHAM, RICHARD HARRIS
Born at Canterbury, England, December 6, 1788; died in London, June 17, 1845.
"As I Laye a-Thynkynge". 3359
Jackdaw of Rheims, The... 2140
Misadventures at Margate . 2120
"Not a Sou Had He Got".. 1933

BARING, MAURICE
An English writer, born in 1874, died in 1916.
Ballad..... 1138
The Dying Reservist..... 3474

BARING-GOULD, SABINE
Born at Exeter, England, January 28, 1834; and still living in Devonshire.
"Onward, Christian Soldiers"..... 3814

BARKER, ELSA
Born at Leicester, Vt., and now living in New York City.
"When I am Dead and Sister to the Dust..... 3506

BARLOW, JANE
Born at Clontarf, County Dublin, Ireland; died at Dublin, April 17, 1917.
Out of Hearing..... 3560

BARNARD, [LADY] ANNE
Born in Fifeshire, Scotland, December 8, 1750; died in London, May 6, 1825.
Auld Robin Gray..... 1009
"My Heart is a Lute"..... 620

BARNES, WILLIAM
Born at Rushay, Dorsetshire, England, in March, 1801; died at Came, Dorset, October 7, 1886.
Blackbird, The..... 1527
Blackmwore Maidens..... 336
"Girt Woak Tree that's in the Dell, The":..... 1404
Mater Dolorosa..... 301
Readèn ov a Headstwone... 3569
The Spring..... 1347

BARNFIELD, RICHARD
Born at Norbury, Shropshire, England, in June, 1574; died in Staffordshire, March 3, 1627.
Philomel..... 1546

BARR, MATTHIAS
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, December 6, 1831; now living in London.
"Moon, So Round and Yellow"..... 49
"Only a Baby Small"..... 3

BARRETT, EATON STANNARD
Born at Cork, Ireland, in 1786; died in Glamorganshire, March 20, 1820.
Woman..... 377

BARTON, BERNARD
Born at Carlisle, England, January 31, 1784; died at Woodbridge, February 19, 1840.
"Not Ours the Vows"..... 865

BASHFORD, HENRY HOWARTH
An English writer, born in 1880, now living in London.
Good Day, The..... 2983
Lullaby in Bethlehem..... 218
To Petronilla..... 343

BASHFORD, HERBERT
Born at Sioux City, Iowa, March 4, 1871; now living at Piedmont, Cal.
Alice..... 11
The Song of the Forest Ranger..... 1696

BATES, ARLO
Born at East Machias, Me., December 16, 1850; present address, Boston, Mass.
Cyclamen, The..... 668
Rose, A..... 745
Shadow Boat, A..... 437

BATES, KATHERINE LEE
Born at Falmouth, Mass., August 12, 1859; present address, Wellesley, Mass.
Changing Road, The..... 3427
Laddie..... 1831

BAYLY, THOMAS HAYNES
Born at Bath, England, October 13, 1797; died in London, April 22, 1839.
"Do You Remember"..... 788
I'd be a Butterfly..... 1712
Mistletoe Bough, The..... 2738
"Oh! Where do Fairies Hide Their Heads"..... 235

BEATTIE, JAMES
Born at Laurencekerk, Kincardine, Scotland, October 25, 1735; died at Aberdeen, August 18, 1803.
An Epitaph Intended for Himself..... 3518

BEATTY, PAKENHAM THOMAS
Born at Maranham, Brazil, June 23, 1855; now living at Dundalk, Ireland.
When Will Love Come..... 504

BEAUMONT, FRANCIS
Born at Grace-Dieu, Leicestershire, England, in 1584; died in London, March 6, 1616.
Indifferent, The..... 812
On the Tombs in Westminster..... 3517
True Beauty..... 811

BEDDOES, THOMAS LOVELL
Born at Clifton, England, July 20, 1803; died at Bâle, Switzerland, January 26, 1840.
Sailor's Song..... 1593

BEDINGFIELD, THOMAS
An English writer, "gentleman pensioner" to Queen Elizabeth; the date of his birth is unknown; he died in 1613.
The Lover's Choice..... 541

BEECHING, HENRY CHARLES
An English writer, born May 15, 1859, and now living in London.
Going Down Hill on a Bicycle 129

BEERS, ETHEL LYNN [ETHELINDA ELIOT]
Born at Goshen, N. Y., January 13, 1827; died at Orange, N. J., October 10, 1879.
The Picket-Guard 2491
Weighing the Baby 15

BEERS, HENRY AUGUSTIN
Born at Buffalo, N. Y., July 2, 1847, and now living at New Haven, Conn.
Biftek aux Champignons ... 1800

BEESLY, A. H.
A Canadian writer, concerning whom no biographical data are available.
André's Ride 2801

BEHN, APHRA
Born at Wye, England, in July, 1640; died in London, April 16, 1689.
Song, "Love in fantastic triumph sate" 824

BELL, JOHN JOY
Born at Glasgow, Scotland, May 7, 1871, and now living at Craigendoran, Dumbartonshire, Scotland.
On the Quay 1605

BELLOC, HILAIRE
An English writer, born July 27, 1870, and now living at King's Land, Shipley, Horsham, England.
The Frog 2081
The Night 3223
The South Country 2601

BENEDICT, HESTER A.
No biographical data available.
Good-night 1121

BENJAMIN, PARK
Born at Demerara, British Guiana, August 13, 1809; died in New York City, September 12, 1864.
The Old Sexton 3441

BENNETT, HENRY
Born at Cork, Ireland, in 1785; date of death unknown.
Saint Patrick 1966

BENNETT, HENRY HOLCOMB
Born at Chillicothe, Ohio, December 5, 1863, and still living there.
The Flag Goes By 2208

BENNETT, JOHN
Born at Chillicothe, Ohio, May 17, 1865; present address, Charleston, S. C.
"God Bless You, Dear, Today" 662
In a Rose Garden 661
The Song of the Spanish Main 2381

BENNETT, WILLIAM COX
Born at Greenwich, England, October 14, 1820; died at Blackheath, England, March 4, 1895.
Baby May 10
"Lullaby, O Lullaby" 83
Summer Invocation 1443
To a Cricket 1512
Wife's Song, A 1217

BENSON, ARTHUR CHRISTOPHER
Born at Canterbury, England, April 24, 1862; present address, Cambridge, England.
Knapweed 1491

BENSON, MARGARET
An English writer, now living at Horsted Keynes, Sussex.
Once on a Time 1507

BÉRANGER, PIERRE JEAN DE
Born in Paris, France, in 1780; died there, July 16, 1857.
Le Grenier 3839
Le Roi d'Yvetot 3840

BERKELEY, GEORGE [BISHOP OF CLOYNE]
Born March 12, 1685, at Dysert Castle, County of Kilkenny, Ireland; died at Oxford, England, January 14, 1753.
On the Prospect of Planting Arts and Learning in America 2565

BERNARD OF CLUNY
Born of English parentage at Morlaix, Brittany, about 1122; died about 1156. A Benedictine monk.
Urbs Syon Aurea 3824

BESANT, [SIR] WALTER
Born at Portsmouth, England, August 14, 1836; died at Hampstead, England, June 10, 1901.
To Daphne 568

BEST, CHARLES
An English writer, concerning whom nothing is known, except that he contributed two sonnets to Davison's "Poetical Rapsodie," published in 1602.
A Sonnet of the Moon 1253

BICKERSTAFFE, ISAAC
Born in Ireland about 1735; died, an exile in France, about 1812.
"There Was a Jolly Miller" 163

BINYON, LAURENCE
Born at Lancaster, England, August 10, 1869; present address, London.
Ferry Hinksey 992
Fourth of August, The 2546
Little Hands 20
"O World, be Nobler" 652

BIRD, ROBERT MONTGOMERY
An American writer born in 1867, and still living.
The Fairy Folk 245

BIRDSEYE, GEORGE
No biographical data available.
The Hindoo's Death 1899

BISHOP, SAMUEL
Born in London, England, September 21, 1731; died there, November 17, 1795.
To Mary 1225
Touchstone, The 826

BLACKMORE, RICHARD DODDRIDGE
Born at Longworth, Berkshire, England, June 7, 1825; died at Teddington, England, January 20, 1900.
"Yes" 1172

BLAKE, WILLIAM
Born in London, England, November 28, 1757; died there, August 12, 1827.
Cradle Song 81
Holy Thursday 174
Infant Joy 4
Lamb, The 48
Little Black Boy, The 156
Night 1321
Nurse's Song 151
Reeds of Innocence 126
Shepherd, The 153
Song, "My silks and fine array" 1001
Tiger, The 140
To Spring 1342
To the Muses 3096

BLAMIRE, SUSANNA
Born near Carlisle, England, in 1747; died at Carlisle, April 5, 1794.
The Siller Croun 943

BLANCHARD, SAMUEL LAMAN
Born at Great Yarmouth, England, May 15, 1804; suicided in London, February 15, 1845.
Nell Gwynne's Looking-glass 1766

BLAND, MRS. HUBERT, see NESBIT, EDITH.

BLANDEN, CHARLES GRANGER
Born at Marengo, Ill., January 19, 1857; now living in Chicago.
"John Anderson, My Jo" .. 3560
Song the Grass Sings, A 1488
The Songs I Sing 3085

BLIND, MATHILDE
Born at Mannheim, Germany, March 21, 1841, the daughter of a banker named Cohen, but took the name acquired by her mother by her second marriage; taken to London at the age of eight, and died there, November 26, 1896.
April Rain 1443

BLUNT, WILFRID SCAWEN
Born in Sussex, England, August 17, 1840, and still living there.
Gibraltar 2230
Old Squire, The 1638
Pleasures of Love, The 1261
To Manon 852
To One Who Would Make a Confession 1261

BOKER, GEORGE HENRY
Born at Philadelphia, Pa., October 6, 1823; died there in 1890.
Ballad of Sir John Franklin, A 2465
Black Regiment, The 2500
Dirge for a Soldier 2315
To England 2225

BONAR, HORATIUS
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, December 19, 1808; died there, July 31, 1889.
Be True 2932
"Beyond the Smiling and the Weeping" 3490
"He Liveth Long Who Liveth Well" 3716
How We Learn 3717
Lost but Found 3757
Master's Touch, The 3717
Voice from Galilee, The 3810

BOSTWICK, HELEN LOUISE BARRON
An American writer, born in 1826 at Charlestown, N. H.
Little Dandelion 128

BOURDILLON, FRANCIS WILLIAM
An English writer, born March 22, 1852, and now living near Midhurst, Sussex.
All's Well 2561
Aucassin and Nicolete 1768
Eurydice 911
"Night Has a Thousand Eyes, The" 863
"Where Runs the River" .. 2842

BOWEN, EDWARD ERNEST
Born at Woolaston, near Chepstow, England, March 30, 1836; died near Moux, France, April 8, 1901.
Forty Years On 421
Shemuel 3578

BOWEN, ROBERT ADGER
Born at Charleston, S. C., Dec. 30, 1868; present address, New York City.
Gloaming 1315

BOWLES, WILLIAM LISLE
Born at King's Sutton, Northamptonshire, England, September 24, 1762; died at Salisbury, England, in 1850.
Butterfly and the Bee, The. 116
Dover Cliffs 3257
Time and Grief 3352

BOWRING, [SIR] JOHN
Born at Exeter, England, October 17, 1792; died there, November 23, 1872.
"In the Cross of Christ I Glory 3802

BOYD, THOMAS
An Irish writer, born in 1867, and still living.
Love on the Mountain 648

BOYLE, SARAH ROBERTS
Born at Portsmouth, N. H., in 1812; died in New York City, in 1869.
The Voice of the Grass..... 1487

BRADLEY, MARY EMILY
Born at Easton, Md., in 1835; died at Washington, D. C., in 1898.
A Chrysalis..... 300

BRADLEY, WILLIAM ASPENWALL
Born at Hartford, Conn., February 8, 1878; now living at New Canaan, Conn.
To Little Rénee..... 6

BRAITHWAITE, WILLIAM STANLEY
Born at Boston, Mass., December 6, 1878; now living at Cambridge, Mass.
Sic Vita..... 1303

BRAINARD, JOHN GARDINER CALKINS
Born at New London, Conn., October 21, 1796; died there, September 26, 1828.
"I Saw Two Clouds at Morning"..... 1196

BRANCH, ANNA HEMPSTEAD
Born at New London, Conn., and still living there.
"Grieve Not, Ladies"..... 857
To a New York Shop-girl, Dressed for Sunday..... 3021
Warrior Maid, The..... 2821

BRANCH, MARY LYDIA BOLLES
Born at New London, Conn., June 13, 1840, and still living there.
The Petrified Fern..... 2859

BRENAN, JOSEPH
Born at Cork, Ireland, November 17, 1828, fled to America in 1849, and died at New Orleans, La., in 1857.
"Come to Me, Dearest"..... 982

BRETON, NICHOLAS
Born in London, England, about 1545; and died there about 1626.
A Cradle Song..... 1036
Phillida and Coridon..... 716

BRIDGES, MADELINE, see DE VERE MARY AINGE.

BRIDGES, ROBERT
An English writer, born October 23, 1844, and now living at Oxford.
"Awake, My Heart"..... 505
"My Delight and Thy Delight"..... 1158
Passer-by, A..... 1600
"So Sweet Love Seemed"..... 920
To the United States of America..... 2563
Triolet..... 1903
"When Death to Either Shall Come"..... 1168

BROME, ALEXANDER
Born in London in 1620, and died there, June 30, 1666.
Why I Love Her..... 606

BRONTË, EMILY JANE
Born in Yorkshire, England, in 1818; died there in 1848.
Last Lines..... 3486
Remembrance..... 1095
Song, "The linnet in the rocky dells"..... 1096
Stanzas, "Often rebuked, yet always back returning"..... 2928

BROOKE, RUPERT
Born at Rugby, England, August 3, 1887; died on the island of Scyros, April 23, 1915, while with the English expedition to the Dardanelles.
Busy Heart, The..... 1270
Dust..... 1137
Hill, The..... 1270
1914..... 2544
"Oh, Death Will Find Me"..... 1269
Song, "Oh! Love!" they said, "is King of Kings"..... 580
"There's Wisdom in Women"..... 1055
The Soldier 4846 !

BROOKE, STOPFORD AUGUSTUS
Born near Letterkenny, Ireland, November 14, 1832; died at Ewhurst, Surrey, England, March 18, 1916.
The Earth and Man..... 2909

BROOKS, CHARLES TIMOTHY
Born at Salem, Mass., June 20, 1813; died at Newport, R. I., June 14, 1883.
The Great Voices..... 2972

BROOKS, CHARLES WILLIAM SHIRLEY
Born in London, England, April 29, 1816; died there February 23, 1874. Mentioned as the author of the Lincoln poem in Spielmann's "History of Punch"—probably a slip of the pen.
Abraham Lincoln..... 3642

BROOKS, PHILLIPS
Born at Boston, Mass., December 13, 1835; died there, January 23, 1893.
"O Little Town of Bethlehem"..... 203

BROUGH, ROBERT BARNABAS
Born in London, England, April 10, 1828; died at Manchester, June 26, 1860.
The Marquis of Carabas... 1843

BROWN, ABBIE FARWELL
Born in Boston, Mass., and still living there.
Fairy Book, The..... 246
Friends..... 112

BROWN, ALICE
Born at Hampton Falls, N. H., December 5, 1857; now living in Boston.

Benedictine Garden, A.... 1451
Edwin Booth..... 3590
Farewell, A..... 929
Hora Christi..... 3772
Sunrise on Mansfield Mountain..... 1311
The West-Country Lover... 669

BROWN, JOSEPH BROWNLEE
Born at Charleston, S. C., in 1824; died at Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1888.
"Thalatta! Thalatta"..... 3499

BROWN, THOMAS EDWARD
Born at Douglas, Isle of Man, in 1830; died at Clifton, October 30, 1897.
Jessie..... 887
My Garden..... 1446
Salve..... 2999

BROWN, WILLIAM GOLDSMITH
Born at Whitingham, Vt., in 1812; died in Wisconsin in 1906.
A Hundred Years to Come. 3470
"Mother, Home, Heaven". 3244

BROWN, WILLIAM LAIRD, see LAIRD, WILLIAM.

BROWNE, FRANCIS FISHER
Born at South Halifax, Vermont, December 1, 1843; died at Chicago, Ill., May 11, 1913.
Vanquished..... 3609

BROWNE, [SIR] THOMAS
Born in London, England, October 19, 1605; died at Norwich, England, October 19, 1682.
"Love Who Will, for I'll Love None"..... 817

BROWNE, WILLIAM
Born at Tavistock, England, in 1591; died there, probably in March, 1643.
Complete Lover, The..... 528
Epitaph on the Countess Dowager of Pembroke... 3518
Memory..... 931
Rose, The..... 1498
Song, "Shall I tell you whom I love"..... 815
Welcome, A..... 527

BROWNELL, HENRY HOWARD
Born at Providence, R. I., February 6, 1820; died at East Hartford, Conn., October 31, 1872.
The Burial of the Dane... 1626

BROWNING, ELIZABETH BARRETT
Born at Durham, England, March 6, 1809; died at Florence, Italy, June 30, 1861.
Comfort..... 3766
Court Lady, A..... 3315
Cowper's Grave..... 3601
Cry of the Children, The... 283
Deserted Garden, The..... 1455
Grief..... 3353
Inclusions..... 872
Lady's "Yes," The..... 632
Lessons from the Gorse.... 1486
Mother and Poet..... 3555
Musical Instrument, A..... 1324
My Heart and I..... 1083
Pet Name, The..... 455
Portrait, A..... 338
Rosalind's Scroll..... 1085
Sea-mew, The..... 1563
Sleep, The..... 3412
Sonnets from "Sonnets from the Portuguese"..... 1276
Valediction, A..... 960
Weakest Thing, The..... 3385
Woman's Shortcomings, A.. 495

BROWNING, ROBERT
Born in London, England, May 7, 1812; died at Venice, Italy, December 12, 1889.
Abt Vogler..... 3135
Adam, Lilith, and Eve..... 848
Andrea del Sarto..... 839
Bishop Orders His Tomb at St. Praxed's Church, The 1862
Cavalier Tunes..... 2283
"De Gustibus—"..... 2611
Earl Mertoun's Song..... 1156
Epilogue from "Asolando". 3503
Evelyn Hope..... 1094
Flower's Name, The..... 964
Grammarian's Funeral, A.. 2871
Guardian-Angel, The..... 2620
Hervé Riel..... 2804
Home Thoughts, from Abroad..... 1353
How They Brought the Good News from Ghent to Aix..... 2732
Incident of the French Camp..... 2449
Last Ride Together, The... 877
Life in a Love..... 638
Light Woman, A..... 1029
Lost Leader, The..... 1836
Lost Mistress, The..... 848
Love Among the Ruins.... 1154
Love in a Life..... 637
Meeting at Night..... 1157
Memorabilia..... 3657
Muckle-mouth Meg..... 781
My Last Duchess..... 846
My Star..... 1321
"Never the Time and the Place"..... 885
One Way of Love..... 884
One Word More..... 1284
Parting at Morning..... 1157
Pied Piper of Hamelin, The, 192
Porphyria's Lover..... 1003
Prospice..... 3484
Rabbi Ben Ezra..... 411
Song, "Nay but you, who do not love her"..... 553
Song, "The moth's kiss first" 688
Song, "The year's at the spring"..... 1333
Song, "There's a woman like a dew-drop"..... 1156
Song, "You'll love me yet". 637
Song from Paracelsus..... 3102
Summum Bonum..... 689
Toccata of Galuppi's, A.... 3133
Two in the Campagna..... 882

Up at a Villa, Down in the City ... 1865
Woman's Last Word, A ... 876
Youth and Art ... 880

BRYANT, WILLIAM CULLEN
Born at Cummington, Mass., November 3, 1794; died in New York City, June 12, 1878.
Death of the Flowers, The ... 1505
Gladness of Nature, The ... 139
June ... 3457
"Oh Mother of a Mighty Race" ... 2203
Planting of the Apple-Tree, The ... 1411
Robert of Lincoln ... 1528
Seventy-six ... 2431
Snow-shower, The ... 1391
Song of Marion's Men ... 2432
Thanatopsis ... 3444
To a Waterfowl ... 1582
To a Fringed Gentian ... 1484

BUCHANAN, ROBERT WILLIAM
Born in Staffordshire, England, in 1841; died in London in 1901.
Ballad of Judas Iscariot, The ... 2791
Churchyard, The ... 3435
Langley Lane ... 3383
Spring Song in the City ... 1672
Tom Dunstan, or, The Politician ... 3018

BUCK, RICHARD HENRY
An American writer, born in 1869, at Philadelphia, Pa.
Kentucky Babe ... 91

BUCKINGHAM, DUKE OF, see SHEFFIELD, JOHN

BULWER-LYTTON, see LYTTON.

BUNNER, HENRY CUYLER
Born at Oswego, N. Y., August 3, 1855; died at Nutley, N. J., May 11, 1896.
Behold the Deeds ... 2189
Candor ... 787
Chaperon, The ... 1795
Da Capo ... 828
Pitcher of Mignonette, A ... 1796
"She Was a Beauty" ... 1765
Strong as Death ... 1080
Yes? ... 804

BUNYAN, JOHN
Born at Elstow, Bedfordshire, England, in November, 1628; died in London, August 31, 1688.
The Pilgrim ... 3715
The Shepherd Boy Sings in the Valley of Humiliation 3714

BURGESS, FRANK GELETT
Born at Boston, Mass., January 30, 1866, and still living there.
Nonsense Verses ... 2086
The Purple Cow ... 2085

BURNAND, [SIR] FRANCIS COWLEY
An English writer, born November 29, 1836; died in London in 1917.
His Heart Was True to Poll 2076

BURNETT, DANA
Born at Cincinnati, Ohio, July 3, 1888; now living in New York City.
Song, "Love's on the high-road" ... 627

BURNS, ROBERT
Born at Alloway, Scotland, January 25, 1759; died at Dumfries, Scotland, July 21, 1796.
Address to the Unco Guid, An ... 1869
Ae Fond Kiss ... 945
Auld Lang Syne ... 464
Bonnie Doon ... 1044
"Bonnie Wee Thing" ... 622
Bruce to His Men at Bannockburn ... 2350
Chloe ... 540
"Comin' through the Rye" 727
Cotter's Saturday Night, The ... 3246
"Day Returns, The" ... 945
Farewell, The ... 2275
"Flow Gently, Sweet Afton" ... 1425
"For a' That and a' That" .. 3034
"Green Grow the Rashes, O" ... 727
"Here's a Health to Them That's Awa'" ... 2275
Highland Mary ... 1071
I Love My Jean ... 947
John Anderson ... 1224
John Barleycorn ... 2000
Lament for Culloden ... 2420
Mary Morison ... 697
My Bonnie Mary ... 946
"My Heart's in the Highlands" ... 1669
My Nannie's Awa' ... 944
"My Wife's a Winsome Wee Thing" ... 1208
"O Mally's Meek, Mally's Sweet" ... 541
"O Saw Ye Bonnie Lesley" 331
"O Were My Love Yon Lilac Fair" ... 621
On a Henpecked Squire ... 1919
Prayer in the Prospect of Death, A ... 3455
Red, Red Rose, A ... 946
Song, "Again rejoicing Nature sees" ... 1341
Tam o'Shanter ... 2106
To a Mountain Daisy ... 1474
To a Mouse ... 1507
To Mary in Heaven ... 1072
Winter: a Dirge ... 1386

BURR, AMELIA JOSEPHINE
Born in New York City in 1878, now living at Englewood, N. J.
New Life ... 1349
Nocturne ... 1166
Perugia ... 2621
Poet Enlists, A ... 2564
Song of Living, A ... 3479

Surrender..... 1166
To Her—Unspoken..... 1029
Where Love Is..... 659

BURROUGHS, JOHN
Born at Roxbury, N. Y., April 3, 1837; now living at West Park, N. Y.
Waiting..... 3495

BURTON, RICHARD EUGENE
Born at Hartford, Conn., March 14, 1859; now living at Minneapolis, Minn.
Across the Fields to Anne.. 801
Black Sheep..... 3058
City of the Dead, The..... 3440
Love is Strong..... 507
Of Those Who Walk Alone. 382
Sealed Orders..... 3478

BURTON, [SIR] RICHARD FRANCIS
Born in Hertfordshire, England, March 19, 1821; died at Trieste, Austria, October 20, 1890.
The Kasidah (II and IX). . 2887

BUTLER, WILLIAM ALLEN
Born at Albany, N. Y., February 20 1825, died in New York City, in 1902.
"All's Well"..... 3760
"Nothing to Wear"..... 2154

BUTTS, MRS. MARY FRANCES
Born in Rhode Island in 1836, and still living.
Trot, Trot..... 84

BYERS, SAMUEL HAWKINS MARSHALL
Born at Pulaski, Pa., July 23, 1838; now living at Des Moines, Iowa.
Song of Sherman's March to the Sea..... 2512

BYNNER, WITTER
Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., August 10, 1881; now living at Windsor, Vt.
Mystic, The..... 680
Sentence..... 3553
Songs Ascending..... 579

BYRD, WILLIAM
Born in London, England, about 1538; died, probably at Stondon, England, July 4, 1623.
The Quiet Life..... 1654

BYROM, JOHN
Born at Broughton, England, February 29, 1692; died at Manchester, England, September 26, 1763.
Careless Content..... 2989
Epigrams..... 1918

BYRON, GEORGE GORDON [SIXTH LORD]
Born in London, England, January 22, 1788; died at Missolonghi, Greece, April 19, 1824.
Destruction of Sennacherib, The..... 2327
Epigram..... 1917
Eve of Waterloo, The..... 2450
Fare Thee Well..... 950
"Farewell! If Ever Fondest Prayer"..... 1002
First Kiss of Love, The.... 686
From the Turkish..... 1031
Isles of Greece, The..... 2625
"Maid of Athens, Ere We Part"..... 951
"Oh! Snatched Away in Beauty's Bloom"..... 1082
On This Day I Complete my Thirty-sixth Year..... 360
Prisoner of Chillon, The.... 3273
Sea, The..... 1586
"She Walks in Beauty"..... 383
Stanzas, "Could Love for Ever"..... 491
Stanzas for Music..... 355
Stanzas for Music..... 546
Stanzas Written on the Road between Florence and Pisa..... 354
To Woman..... 834
Venice..... 2618
Vision of Belshazzar, The.. 2328
"We'll Go no More a Roving"..... 866
"When We Two Parted"... 952

BYRON, MAY [MRS. GEORGE F.]
Born in Cheshire, England, in 1861, and now living in London.
The Adventurers..... 3012
The Fairy Thrall..... 243
The Pageant of Seamen.... 2827
The Storm-Child..... 20

C

CABLE, GEORGE WASHINGTON
Born at New Orleans, La., October 12, 1844; present address, Northampton, Mass.
The New Arrival..... 1928

CALVERLEY, CHARLES STUART
Born at Martley, Worcestershire, England, December 22, 1831; died in London, February 17, 1884.
Alphabet, The..... 2049
Ballad..... 1939
Companions..... 1736
Disaster..... 1929
Ode to Tobacco..... 1983

CAMPBELL, THOMAS
Born at Glasgow, Scotland, July 22, 1777; died at Boulogne, France, June 15, 1844.
Battle of the Baltic..... 2441
Beech Tree's Petition, The. 1410
Exile of Erin..... 2252
Glenara..... 2722
Hallowed Ground..... 3432
Hohenlinden..... 2440
Lord Ullin's Daughter..... 2723
Margaret and Dora..... 544
River of Life, The..... 407
Soldier's Dream, The..... 2281
Song, "Earl March looked on his dying child"..... 1077

Song, "How delicious is the winning" ... 490
Song to the Evening Star ... 1319
To the Rainbow ... 1444
"Ye Mariners of England" ... 2233

CAMPION, THOMAS
Born in Essex, England, date unknown; died in London, in February, 1619.
Advice to a Girl ... 810
Amarillis ... 524
Cherry-ripe ... 524
Her Sacred Bower ... 587
Integer Vitæ ... 2912
Jack and Joan ... 767
"Kind Are Her Answers" ... 591
"Love Me or Not" ... 589
Of Corinna's Singing ... 590
"Sleep, Angry Beauty" ... 694
Song, "O sweet delight" ... 1141
"There is None, O, None but You" ... 589
To Lesbia ... 588
Vobiscum Est Iope ... 850
"Were My Heart as Some Men's Are" ... 590

CANNING, GEORGE
Born in London, England, April 11, 1770; died at Chiswick, England, August 8, 1827.
The Friend of Humanity and the Knife-Grinder ... 1856

CANTON, WILLIAM
Born on the Island of Chusan, in the China Sea, October 27, 1845; present address, Berkhamsted, England.
Crow, The ... 1536
Laus Infantium ... 253
New Poet, A ... 269

CARBERY, ETHNA [MRS. SEUMAS MACMANUS]
An Irish writer, who died in 1902.
Hills o' My Heart ... 2267

CAREW, THOMAS
Born in London, England, about 1598; died there about 1639.
Disdain Returned ... 817
Ingrateful Beauty Threatened ... 816
Mediocrity in Love Rejected ... 598
Persuasions to Enjoy ... 597
Song, "Ask me no more where Jove bestows" ... 530
To My Inconstant Mistress ... 597

CAREY, HENRY
An English writer, born about 1700; died in London, October 4, 1743.
"God Save the King" ... 2231
Harry Carey's General Reply to the Libelling Gentry ... 1995
Maiden's Ideal of a Husband, A ... 722
Sally in Our Alley ... 769

CARLYLE, JANE BAILLIE WELSH
Born at Haddington, England, July 14, 1801; died London, April 21, 1866.
To a Swallow, Building Under Our Eaves ... 1573

CARLYLE, THOMAS
Born at Ecclefechan, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, December 4, 1795; died in London, England, February 4, 1881.
Adieu ... 954
Cui Bono ... 3377
To-day ... 2920

CARMAN, WILLIAM BLISS
Born at Fredericton, N. B., April 15, 1861; present address, New Canaan, Ct.
Autumn Garden, An ... 1452
Daisies ... 1478
Deserted Pasture, The ... 1438
Envoy from "Songs from Vagabondia" ... 2858
Hack and Hew ... 3139
Hem and Haw ... 1887
Joys of the Road, The ... 1694
"Lord of My Heart's Elation" ... 2852
Marian Drury ... 908
Mendicants, The ... 1692
"Over the Wintry Threshold" 1349
Sea Child, A ... 1041
Song, "Love, by that loosened hair" ... 577
Spring Song ... 1689
Vagabond Song, A ... 1689

CARNEGIE [SIR] JAMES [SIXTH EARL OF SOUTHESK]
Born at Kinnaird, Scotland, in 1827; died in 1905.
The Flitch of Dunmow ... 2176

CARNEY, JULIA FLETCHER
Born at Lancaster, Mass., April 6, 1823; died at Galesburg, Ill., in 1908.
Little Things ... 103

CARROLL, LEWIS [CHARLES LUTWIDGE DODGSON]
Born at Daresbury, England, January 27, 1832; died at Guildford, England, January 14, 1898.
Father William ... 1927
Gardener's Song, The ... 2060
Jabberwocky ... 2059
Walrus and the Carpenter ... 2062
Whiting and the Snail, The 1934

CARRUTH, WILLIAM HERBERT
Born at Osawatomie, Kansas, April 3, 1859; present address, Stanford University, Cal.
Each in His Own Tongue ... 2867

CARRYL, CHARLES EDWARD
Born in New York City, December 30, 1841, and still living there.
My Recollectest Thoughts ... 2071
Nautical Ballad, A ... 2079
Plaint of the Camel, The ... 2080
Robinson Crusoe ... 2184

CARRYL, GUY WETMORE
Born in New York City, March 4, 1873; died April 1, 1904.
Red Ridinghood 2077
The Sycophantic Fox and the Gullible Raven 1854
When the Great Gray Ships Come In 2543

CARTWRIGHT, WILLIAM
Born at Northway, Gloucestershire, England, in September, 1611; died at Oxford, England, November 29, 1643.
To Chloe 603

CARY, ALICE
Born near Cincinnati, O., April 20, 1820; died in N. Y. City, Feb. 12, 1871.
Dying Hymn 3492
Make Believe 690

CARY, PHŒBE
Born near Cincinnati, O., Sep. 4, 1824; died at Newport, R. I., July 31, 1871.
Legend of the Northland, A. 143
Lovers, The 2067
Nearer Home 3813
"When Lovely Woman" . . . 1923

CASE, ELIZABETH YORK
An American writer; no biographical data available.
Unbelief 3762

CATHER, WILLA SIBERT
Born at Winchester, Va., December 7, 1875; present address, New York City.
"Grandmither, Think not I Forget" 1033
L'Envoi 3429
Likeness, A 1794

CATULLUS, GAIUS VALERIUS
Born at Verona, Italy, about 87 B. C.; died about 54 B. C.
Vivamus, Mea Lesbia 3827

CAWEIN, MADISON JULIUS
Born at Louisville, Ky., March 23, 1865; died there December 7, 1914.
Ballad of Low-lie-Down 1699
Enchantment 1406
"Here is the Place Where Loveliness Keeps House" . 1302
Miracle of the Dawn, The . . 1308
Morning Serenade 700
Old Home, The 3233
To a Wind-Flower 1503

CAYLEY, GEORGE JOHN
Born in 1826; died in 1878.
An Epitaph 1919

CELANO, TOMMÁSO DI
A Franciscan monk, born at Celano, Italy, about 1185, and died about 1255.
Dies Iræ 3819

CHALKHILL, JOHN
An English writer, two of whose songs were included by Isaac Walton in "The Compleat Angler," published about 1648.
Angler, The 1665
Coridon's Song 1636

CHALMERS, PATRICK R.
An Irish-born writer, now living in London.
"Hold" 1832
The Road 760
The Visitor 247

CHAMBERS, ROBERT WILLIAM
Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., May 26, 1865, and still living in New York City.
The "Grey Horse Troop" . . 2291
The Recruit 1977

CHANNING, WILLIAM ELLERY
Born in Boston, Mass., November 29, 1818; died in 1901.
Edith 3217

CHAPMAN, ARTHUR
Born at Rockford, Ill., June 25, 1873, and now living at Denver, Colo.
Out Where the West Begins 2574

CHATTERTON, THOMAS
Born at Bristol, England, November 20, 1752; suicided in London, August 25, 1770.
The Minstrel's Song 1070

CHENEY, JOHN VANCE
Born at Groveland, N. Y., December 29, 1848; present address, San Diego, Cal.
The Happiest Heart 2994
The Man with the Hoe, a Reply 3043
The Way of It 1049

CHERRY, ANDREW
Born at Limerick, Ireland, January 11, 1762; died at Monmouth, England, February 12, 1812.
The Green Little Shamrock of Ireland 2264

CHESSON, MRS. W. H., see HOPPER, NORA.

CHESTERTON, GILBERT KEITH
Born in London, England, in 1874, and still living there.
Ballade of Suicide, A 1787
Christmas Carol, A 212
Feast of the Snow, The 214
House of Christmas, The . . . 213
Songs of Guthrum and Alfred, The 2823
To M. E. W. 3482

CHEW, BEVERLY
Born at Geneva, New York, March 5, 1850; now living in New York City.
"Old Books are Best" 1579

CHILD, LYDIA MARIA
Born at Medford, Mass., February 11, 1802; died at Wayland, Mass., October 20, 1880.
The World I am Passing Through..... 408

CHORLEY, HENRY FOTHERGILL
Born at Backley Hurst, Lancashire, England, December 15, 1808; died in London, February 16, 1872.
The Brave Old Oak..... 1403

CIBBER, COLLEY
Born in London, England, November 6, 1671; died there, December 12, 1757.
The Blind Boy..... 157

CLARE, JOHN
Born at Helpstone, England, July 13, 1793; died in the asylum at Northampton, May 20, 1864, having been insane since 1837.
My Early Home..... 3233

CLARKE, JAMES FREEMAN
Born at Hanover, N. H., April 4, 1810; died at Jamaica Plain, Mass., June 8, 1888.
Rabia..... 2953

CLARKE, JOSEPH IGNATIUS CONSTANTINE
Born at Kingstown, Ireland, July 31, 1846; came to the United States in 1868; present address, New York City.
The Fighting Race..... 2298

CLEAVELAND, C. L.
No biographical data available.
November..... 1384

CLEGHORN, SARAH NORCLIFFE
Born at Norfolk, Va., February 4, 1876; now living at Manchester, Vt.
Emilia..... 346
Hemlock Mountain..... 1436

CLEPHANE, ELIZABETH CECILIA
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1830; died at Melrose, in 1869.
The Lost Sheep..... 3756

CLERK, [SIR] JOHN
Born at Penicuik, Scotland, in 1684, died there, October 4, 1755.
"O Merry may the Maid Be" 772

CLIFFORD, ETHEL [MRS. FISHER WENTWORTH DILKE]
An English writer, now living in London.
The Dark Road..... 3559
The Harp of Sorrow..... 3360
The Last Hour..... 1295

CLOUD, VIRGINIA WOODWARD
Born at Baltimore, Md., and still living there.
Care..... 3373

CLOUGH, ARTHUR HUGH
Born at Liverpool, England, January 1, 1819; died at Florence, Italy, November 13, 1861.
Peschiera..... 2471
Qua Cursum Ventus..... 3033
"Say not the Struggle Naught Availeth"..... 2839
Sic Itur..... 3037
"Where Lies the Land"..... 3414

COATES, FLORENCE EARLE
Born in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1850, and still living there.
Angelus, The..... 3646
Death..... 3430
House of Pain, The..... 3386
Morning-glory, The..... 1494
Song, "I love and the world is mine"..... 1148

COCHRANE, ALFRED
An English writer, born in 1865, and now living at Newcastle-on-Tyne.
Eight-day Clock, The..... 1756
Omnia Vincit..... 744
To Anthea, Who May Command Him Anything..... 1755
Upon Lesbia—Arguing..... 1754

COCHRANE, FRANCES
No biographical data available.
Face to Face..... 915

COCKE, ZITELLA
Born in Perry County, Ala., in 1847; and now living at Boston, Mass.
Miss Nancy's Gown..... 1802
My Cross..... 3463

COE, ALICE ROLLITT
An American writer; no biographical data available.
The Turn of the Road..... 1124

COLE, TIMOTHY
Born in London, England, in 1852; came to America, 1857; now living at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
The Year's End..... 425

COLERIDGE, HARTLEY
Born at Clevedon, Somersetshire, England, September 19, 1796; died at Rydal, Westmoreland, England, January 6, 1849.
Early Death..... 3550
"Long Time a Child"..... 408
Multum Dilexit..... 3387
Solitary-Hearted, The..... 381
Song, "She is not fair to outward view"..... 548
Song, "Tis sweet to hear the merry lark"..... 1554
To a Friend..... 3015
To Shakespeare..... 3652
"Whither is Gone the Wisdom and the Power"..... 3096

COLERIDGE, MARY E.
An English writer, born in 1861, died August 25, 1907.
Gone..... 3005

COLERIDGE, SAMUEL TAYLOR
Born at Ottery Saint Mary, Devonshire, England, October 21, 1772; died in London, July 25, 1834.
Answer to a Child's Question . . . 141
Cologne . . . 1911
Dejection: An Ode . . . 3369
Epigram . . . 1915
Epigram . . . 1917
Epigram . . . 1918
Exchange, The . . . 726
Good Great Man, The . . . 2860
Hymn before Sunrise, in the Vale of Chamouni . . . 1430
"I Asked My Fair, One Happy Day" . . . 726
Kubla Khan . . . 3160
Love . . . 1173
Metrical Feet . . . 3111
Rime of the Ancient Mariner, The . . . 2747
Work Without Hope . . . 3373
Youth and Age . . . 403

COLERIDGE, SARA
Born at Greta Hall, near Keswick, England, December 22, 1802; died in London, May 3, 1852.
The Garden Year . . . 61

COLES, ABRAHAM
Born at Scotch Plains, N. J., in 1813, died at Monterey, Cal., in 1891.
Dies Iræ . . . 3777
Stabat Mater Dolorosa . . . 3779

COLLINS, JOHN
Born at Bath, England, about 1742; died at Birmingham, England, May 2, 1808.
Tomorrow . . . 402

COLLINS, MORTIMER
Born at Plymouth, England, June 29, 1827; died at Knowl Hill, Berkshire, England, July 28, 1876.
Ad Chloen, M. A. . . . 1899
If . . . 1944
Kate Temple's Song . . . 649
My Thrush . . . 1580
To F. C. . . . 1171

COLLINS, WILLIAM
Born at Chichester, England, December 25, 1721; died there, June 12, 1759.
Dirge in Cymbeline . . . 3431
"How Sleep the Brave" . . . 2194
Ode to Evening . . . 1273
The Passions . . . 3119

COLLYER, ROBERT
Born at Keighly, Yorkshire, England, December 8, 1823; came to America in 1850; died in New York City, November 30, 1912.
Saxon Grit . . . 2227

COLMAN, GEORGE, THE YOUNGER
Born in London, England, October 21, 1762; died there, October 26, 1836.
Gluggity Glug . . . 2112

COLTON, ARTHUR WILLIS
Born at Washington, Conn., May 22, 1868, and now living in New York City.
Allah's Tent . . . 3740
Phyllis and Corydon . . . 693
"Sometime it May Be" . . . 927

CONE, HELEN GRAY
Born in New York City, March 8, 1859, and still living there.
Ballad of Cassandra Brown, The . . . 1906
Chant of Love for England, A 2551
Common Street, The . . . 3021
Dandelions, The . . . 1483

COLUM, PADRAIC
Born in Ireland in 1881; now living in New York City.
Across the Door . . . 1145
Drover, A . . . 1698

CONGREVE, WILLIAM
Born at Bardsley, near Leeds, England, in February, 1670; died in London, January 19, 1729.
"False Though She Be" . . . 613
Pious Selinda . . . 721
Song, "See, see, she wakes!" 697

CONKLING, GRACE WALCOTT HAZARD [MRS. R. P.]
Born in New York City in 1878; now living at Northampton, Mass.
"The Little Rose is Dust, My Dear" . . . 1139
To a New-born Baby Girl . . . 5
The Wind's Way . . . 3374

CONNELL, F. NORREYS
An English writer; no biographical data available.
Requiem . . . 3500

CONSTABLE, HENRY
Born at Newark, England, in 1562; died at Liege, Belgium, October 9, 1613.
Damelus' Song of His Diaphenia . . . 522
Sonnets from "Diana" . . . 1245

CONSTABLE, THOMAS
Born at Craigcrook, near Edinburgh, Scotland, June 29, 1812; died at Edinburgh, May 26, 1881.
Old October . . . 1383

COOKE, PHILIP PENDLETON
Born at Martinsburgh, Va., October 26, 1816; died there, January 20, 1850.
Florence Vane . . . 1117

COOKE, ROSE TERRY
Born at West Hartford, Conn., February 17, 1827; died at Pittsfield, Mass., July 18, 1892.
Then . . . 666
Two Villages, The . . . 3442

COOLBRITH, INA DONNA
Born in Illinois in 1844, and now living at San Francisco.
"When the Grass shall cover Me" 1114

COOLIDGE, SUSAN, see WOOLSEY, SARAH CHAUNCEY.

COOPER, GEORGE
Born in New York City, in 1840.
Baby-land 55
October's Party 152

CORBET, RICHARD
Born at Ewell, Surrey, England, in 1582; died, Bishop of Norwich, at Norwich, July 28, 1635.
Farewell to the Fairies 244

CORNWALL, BARRY, see PROCTER, BRYAN WALLER.

CORNWELL, HENRY SYLVESTER
An American writer, born in 1831; died at New London, Conn., in 1886.
May 1362
The Sunset City 3706

CORTISSOZ, ELLEN MACKAY HUTCHINSON
An American writer, born in New York City, and still living there.
Harvest 1370
Pamela in Town 802
Quest, The 357

CORY, WILLIAM JOHNSON, see JOHNSON-CORY, WILLIAM.

COTTON, CHARLES
Born at Beresford, Staffordshire, England, April 28, 1630; died in London in February, 1687.
Les Amours 825
The Retirement 1641
The Winter Glass 1094
To Celia 609

COUSINS, JAMES H.
Born in Ulster, Ireland, in 1873, and now living in Dublin.
A Starling's Spring Rondel 1337

COWLEY, ABRAHAM
Born in London, England, in 1618; died at Chertsey, Surrey, England, July 28, 1667.
Drinking 1993
Epicure, The 1993
Grasshopper, The 1509
Wish, The 1655

COWPER, WILLIAM
Born at Great Berkhampstead, Hertfordshire, England, November 15, 1731; died at East Dereham, Norfolk, England, April 25, 1800.
Boadicea: An Ode 2348
Cricket, The 1511
Diverting History of John Gilpin, The 2093
Epitaph on a Hare 1823
Golden Mean, The 2091
Human Frailty 2861
Jackdaw, The 1540
Light Shining out of Darkness 3796
Lovest Thou Me 3809
Nightingale and the Glow-worm, The 179
On the Death of Mrs. Throckmorten's Bullfinch 1824
On the Loss of the "Royal George" 2435
On the Receipt of My Mother's Picture, out of Norfolk 3251
Poplar Field, The 1411
Riddle, A 685
Snail, The 1514
To a Young Lady 332
To Mary Unwin 1254
Verses Supposed to be Written by Alexander Selkirk . 3038

COXE, ARTHUR CLEVELAND
Born at Mendham, N. J. May 10, 1818; died in 1896.
He Standeth at the Door 3811

CRABBE, GEORGE
Born at Aldeburgh, Suffolk, England, December 24, 1754; died at Trowbridge, England, February 3, 1832.
Late Wisdom 403
Meeting 621

CRAIK, DINAH MARIA MULOCK
Born at Stoke-on-Trent, England, in 1826; died at Shortlands, Kent, England, October 12, 1887.
Four Years 1099
Green Things Growing 1461
In Our Boat 1597
Lettice 1208
Now and Afterwards 3572
"Philip, My King" 21
Plighted 1161
Too Late 1099

CRANCH, CHRISTOPHER PEARSE
Born at Alexandria, Va., March 8, 1813; died at Cambridge, Mass., January 20, 1892.
Gnosis 2975
I in Thee, and Thou in Me 2974
The Pines and the Sea 1590

CRANE, STEPHEN
Born at Newark, N. J., in 1870; died in England in 1900.
The Peaks 1433

CRAPSEY, ADELAIDE
Born at Rochester, N. Y., September 9, 1878; died at Saranac Lake, N. Y., October 8, 1914.
Dirge 1139
Rose Marie of the Angels 326
Song, "I make my shroud but no one knows" 3478
Vendor's Song 3109

CRASHAW, RICHARD
Born in London, England, about 1613; died in Italy in 1649.
Love's Horoscope 484
Prayer 3723
Wishes to His Supposed Mistress 820

CRAWFORD, LOUISA MACARTNEY
An English writer, whose one memorable poem was written about 1849.
Kathleen Mavourneen 979

CREWE, MARQUESS OF, see ASHBURTON, ROBERT OFFLEY.

CROLY, GEORGE
Born at Dublin, Ireland, in August, 1780; died in London, November 24, 1860.
Genius of Death, The 3408
Leonidas 2345

CROSBY, ERNEST HOWARD
Born in New York City, November 4, 1856; died January 3, 1907.
In the Garden 138

CROSS, MARION EVANS LEWES, see ELIOT, GEORGE.

CUNNINGHAM, ALLAN
Born at Blackwood, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, December 7, 1784; died in London, October 30, 1842.
Hame, Hame, Hame 3226
John Grumlie 2118
Spring of the Year, The 3561
"Sun Rises Bright in France, The" 3259
"Wet Sheet and a Flowing Sea, A" 1592

CUNNINGHAM, JOHN
Born at Dublin, Ireland, in 1729; died at Newcastle, England, September 18, 1773.
Kate of Aberdeen 538

CUNNINGHAME-GRAHAM, ROBERT
An English writer; date of birth unknown; died about 1707.
Cavalier's Song 619

CURRAN, JOHN PHILPOT
Born at Cork, Ireland, July 24, 1750; died in London, England, October 14, 1817.
Cushla Ma Chree 2263

CURRIE, LADY, see FANE, VIOLET.

CURTIS, GEORGE WILLIAM
Born at Providence, R. I., February 24, 1824; died on Staten Island, N. Y., August 31, 1892.
Ebb and Flow 2849
Egyptian Serenade 868

CUSTANCE, OLIVE, ELEANOR [LADY ALFRED DOUGLAS]
An English writer, born in 1874, and now living in Sussex.
Parting Hour, The 985
Twilight 1317

CUTTS, JOHN [BARON CUTTS OF GOWRAN, IRELAND]
Born in Sussex, England, in 1661; died at Dublin, Ireland, January 26, 1707.
Song, "Only tell her that I love" 613

D

DALLAS, MARY KYLE
Born at Philadelphia, Pa., in 1830; died in New York City in 1897.
"He'd Nothing but his Violin" 1202

DALY, THOMAS AUGUSTIN
Born at Philadelphia, Pa., May 28, 1871, and still living there.
Da Leetla Boy 306
The Peaceable Race 1976

DANA, RICHARD HENRY
Born at Cambridge, Mass., November 15, 1787; died in Boston, February 2, 1879.
The Little Beach Bird 1522

DANIEL, JOHN
An English writer, born about 1600.
"If I Could Shut the Gate against my Thoughts" . . . 3743

DANIEL, SAMUEL
Born near Taunton, Somerset, England, in 1562; died at Beckingham, Somerset, October 14, 1619.
Song, "Love is a sickness full of woes" 478
Sonnets from "To Delia" . . . 1239

DARLEY, GEORGE
Born at Dublin, Ireland, in 1795; died in London, November 23, 1846.
Fallen Star, The 3746
Flower of Beauty, The 628
"It is not Beauty I Demand" 547
Last Night 954
Serenade 703

DARMESTETER, MRS., see ROBINSON, A. M. F.

DAUBENY, CHARLES
Born at Bristol, England, in August, 1745; died at Salisbury, England, July 10, 1827.
Verses on a Cat 1822

D'AVENANT, [SIR] WILLIAM
Born at Oxford, England, in February, 1606; died in London, April 7, 1668.
Morning 695

DAVIDSON, JOHN
An English writer, born in 1857; committed suicide by drowning in 1909.
Butterflies 1032
Runnable Stag, A 1659
St. Michael's Mount 2596
Song, "Closes and courts and lanes" 2598

DAVIES, MARY CAROLINE
Born in a gold mining town in the Canadian Rockies; at present living in New York City.
The Dream-bearer 3058

DAVIES, WILLIAM H.
Born at Newport, Montana, April 20, 1870; now living in London, England.
Leisure 2998
Poor Kings 2998
Thunderstorms 3110
Truly Great 1644

DAVIS, FANNIE STEARNS [MRS. AUGUSTUS MCK. GIFFORD]
Born at Cleveland, Ohio, March 6, 1884; now living at Pittsfield, Mass.
The Forbidden Lure 1686
The Moods 3102

DAVIS, FRANCIS
An Irish writer, born in 1810, died in 1885.
Nanny 653

DAVIS, MARY EVELYN MOORE
Born at Talladega, Ala., in 1852; died at New Orleans, La., in 1909.
Counsel 3014

DAVIS, THOMAS OSBORNE
Born at Mallow, Ireland, October 14, 1814; died at Dublin, September 16, 1845.
Fontenoy 2417
My Land 2265
The Welcome 638

DAVISON, FRANCIS
Born in London, England, about 1575; date of death unknown.
"Are Women Fair" 1902
Dispraise of Love and Lovers' Follies 818
"How Can the Heart Forget Her" 599

DEKKER, THOMAS
Born in London, England, about 1570; died there about 1641.
"Golden Slumbers Kiss Your Eyes" 75
Happy Heart, The 2981

DE LA MARE, WALTER
Born at Charlton, Kent, England, April 25, 1873; now living in London.
Listeners, The 3219
Miss Lou 1790

DELAND, MARGARET WADE
Born at Allegheny, Pa., February 23, 1857; now living at Boston, Mass.
Affaire D'Amour 1048
Love and Death 3574

DEMAREST, MARY LEE
An American writer, born in 1857, died in 1888.
My Ain Countree 3710

DENISON, J. P.
An American writer, no biographical data available.
Wing Tee Wee 1803

DE TABLEY, LORD, see WARREN, JOHN BYRNE LEICESTER.

DE VERE, see also VERE.

DE VERE, [SIR] AUBREY
Born at Curragh Chase, County Limerick, Ireland, August 28, 1788; died there, July 5, 1846.
The Opening of the Tomb of Charlemagne 3597
Waterloo 2452

DE VERE, AUBREY THOMAS
Born at Curragh Chase, County Limerick, Ireland, January 10, 1814; died in 1902.
Ballad of Sarsfield, A 2410
Evening Melody 1315
"Flowers I Would Bring" 546
Human Life 416
Love's Spite 834
Serenade 701
Song, "Sing the old song" 866
Sorrow 3352

DE VERE, MARY AINGE [MADELINE S. BRIDGES]
Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1844 (?)
Friend and Lover 849
Poet and Lark 3089
"When the Most is Said" 3423

DIBDIN, CHARLES
Born at Southampton, England, March 15, 1745; died in London, July 25, 1814.
"Blow High! Blow Low" 943
Leadsman's Song, The 1632
Nongtongpaw 1850
Poor Jack 1597
Sailor's Consolation, The 2105
Tom Bowling 1628

DICKENS, CHARLES
Born at Landport, near Portsmouth, England, February 7, 1812; died at Gadshill, near Rochester, England, June 9, 1870.
The Ivy Green 1489

DICKINSON, CHARLES MONROE
Born at Lowville, N. Y., November 15, 1842; present address, Binghamton, N. Y.
The Children 250

DICKINSON, EMILY
Born at Amherst, Mass., December 10, 1830; died there, May 15, 1886.
Autumn 1381
Chartless 3711
Indian Summer 1373
The Waking Year 1332

DICKINSON, MARTHA GILBERT [MRS. ALEXANDER BIANCHI]
Born at Amherst, Mass., and still living there.
Heaven 1112

DILKE, MRS. FISHER WENTWORTH, see CLIFFORD, ETHEL.

DIMOND, WILLIAM
An English writer, born at Bath, about 1780; died in Paris in 1837.
The Mariner's Dream 1615

DOANE, GEORGE WASHINGTON
Born at Trenton, N. J., May 27, 1799; died at Burlington, N. J., April 27, 1859.
Evening 3815
Robin Redbreast 1561

DOBELL, SYDNEY THOMPSON
Born at Cranbrook, Kent, England, April 5, 1824; died at Nailsworth, Gloucester, England, August 22, 1874.
America 2225
Ballad of Keith of Ravelston, The 2736
Chanted Calendar, A 1462
How's My Boy 1612
Tommy's Dead 3542

DOBSON, AUSTIN
Born at Plymouth, England, January 18, 1840; now living in London.
Ars Victrix 3140
Ballad of Heroes, A 2304
Ballad of Imitation, The . . . 1883
Ballade of Prose and Rhyme, The 1770
Curé's Progress, The 1776
Dance of Death, The 3446
Dead Letter, A 1814
Dialogue from Plato, A 1773
Don Quixote 2950
"Fame is a Food that Dead Men Eat" 3013
Fancy from Fontanelle, A . . 3378
For a Copy of Theocritus . . . 3664
Garden Song, A 1449
Gentleman of the Old School, A 1777
"Good-night, Babette" 1771
Growing Gray 361
Henry Wadsworth Longfellow 3645
"In After Days" 3502
Kiss, A 1800
Ladies of St. James's, The . . 1775
Maltworm's Madrigal, The . 2015
Milkmaid, The 573
On a Fan 1781
Paradox of Time, The 423
Rondeau, The 3111
Song of Angiola in Heaven, A 3202
Song of the Four Seasons, A 797
To a Greek Girl 347
Urceus Exit 1782
Wanderer, The 868
"When I Saw You Last, Rose" 1782

DODGE, MARY MAPES
Born in New York City in 1838; died in 1905.
One and One 164
Two Mysteries, The 3570

DODGSON, CHARLES LUTWIDGE, see CARROLL, LEWIS.

DOLBEN, DIGBY MACKWORTH
An English poet, born in 1848, died in 1867.
The Shrine 395

DOLLIVER, CLARA
No biographical data available.
No Baby in the House 25

DOMETT, ALFRED
Born at Camberwell Grove, Surrey, England, May 20, 1811; died, November 12, 1887.
A Christmas Hymn 204
A Glee for Winter 1394

DONNE, JOHN
Born in London, England, in 1573; died there, March 31, 1631.
"Death, be not Proud" 3348
Good-morrow, The 1142
Hymn to God the Father, A 3759
Message, The 593
Song, "Go and catch a falling star" 592

DORR, JULIA CAROLINA RIPLEY
Born at Charleston, S. C., February 13, 1825; died at Rutland, Vt., January 18, 1913.
Outgrown 1017

DORSET, EARL OF, see SACKVILLE, CHARLES.

DOTY, WALTER G.
Born at Hornell, N. Y., September 13, 1876, and still living there.
The Best Firm 114

DOUDNEY, SARAH
Born at Portsmouth, England, January 15, 1843, and still living there.
The Lesson of the Water-Mill 2930

DOUGLAS, LADY ALFRED, see CUSTANCE, OLIVE.

DOUGLAS, WILLIAM OF FLEUGLAND
A Scotch writer; born about 1672; died in 1748.
Annie Laurie 550

DOWDEN, EDWARD
Born at Cork, Ireland, May 3, 1843; died April 4, 1913.
Love's Lord 2977
Windle-Straws 887

DOWLING, BARTHOLOMEW
Born at Listowel, County Kerry, Ireland, in 1823; came to America in 1857; died at San Francisco, Cal., in 1863.
The Revel 3566

DOWNING, ELLEN MARY PATRICK
Born at Cork, Ireland, March 19, 1828; died in a convent in 1869.
My Owen 1200

DOWSON, ERNEST
Born in Kent, England, August 2, 1867; died in London, February 23, 1900.
Ad Domnulam Suam 997
Amantium Iræ 660
Dregs 422
Garden of Shadow, The 508
Impenitentia Ultima 917
Lyric, "You would have understood me, had you waited" 1120
Non Sum Qualis Eram Bonæ, sub Regno Cynaræ 918
Quid non Speremus, Amantes 919
Sapientia Lunæ 2995
Villanelle of His Lady's Treasures 576
Vitæ Summa Brevis Spem Nos Vetat Incohare Longam 3404

DOYLE, [SIR] ARTHUR CONAN
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, May 22, 1859; now living in Sussex, England.
Cremona 2436
The Song of the Bow 2241

DOYLE, [SIR] FRANCIS HASTINGS CHARLES [SECOND BARONET]
Born at Nunappleton, Yorkshire, England, August 21, 1810; died in London, June 8, 1888.
The Loss of the "Birkenhead" 2472
The Private of the Buffs 2478

DRAKE, JOSEPH RODMAN
Born in New York City, August 7, 1795; died there, September 21, 1820.
The American Flag 2197

DRAYTON, MICHAEL
Born at Hartshill, Warwickshire, England, in 1563; died in London in 1631.
Agincourt 2361
Sonnets from "Idea" 1242
To His Coy Love 586
To the Virginian Voyage 2384

DRINKWATER, JOHN
An English writer, born June 1, 1882, and now living in Birmingham.
Birthright 3401
Prayer, A 2951
Sunrise on Rydal Water 1436

DRISCOLL, LOUISE
Born at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., January 15, 1875; now living at Catskill, N. Y.
The Highway 509

DRUMMOND, WILLIAM, OF HAWTHORNDEN
Born at Hawthornden, near Edinburgh, Scotland, December 13, 1585; died there, December 4, 1649.
"Alexis, Here She Stayed" 1252
Angels, The 207
Book of the World, The 1293
For the Baptist 3741
Of Phyllis 527
"Sleep, Silence' Child" 3220
Song, "Phœbus, arise" 1305
"Thrice Happy He" 1635
To the Nightingale 1548

DRUMMOND, WILLIAM HENRY
A Canadian writer, born in 1854, died in 1907.
Two Hundred Years Ago 2031
Wreck of the "Julie Plante" 2033

DRYDEN, JOHN
Born at the vicarage of Aldwinkle All Saints, Northamptonshire, England, August 9, 1631; died in London, May 1, 1700.
"Ah, How Sweet it is to Love" 485
Alexander's Feast, or, The Power of Music 3114
Epigram 1919
Song for St. Cecilia's Day, A 3112
Song to a Fair Young Lady, Going Out of the Town in the Spring 934
To the Pious Memory of the Accomplished Young Lady, Mrs. Anne Killigrew 3524
Under the Portrait of Milton 3647
Veni, Creator Spiritus 3782

DUFFERIN, COUNTESS OF, see SHERIDAN, HELEN SELINA.

DU MAURIER, GEORGE LOUIS PALMELLA BUSSON
Born in Paris, March 6, 1834; died in London, October 6, 1896.
"A Little Work" 2910
Vers Nonsensiques 2087

DUNBAR, PAUL LAURENCE
Born at Dayton, Ohio, June 27, 1872; died in Washington, February 9, 1906.
Angelina 2043
Compensation 3479

DUNSANY, LORD, see PLUNKETT, EDWARD, J. M. D.

DUNLOP, JOHN
Born at Carmyle, Lanarkshire, Scotland, in November, 1755; died at Port Glasgow, Scotland, September 4, 1820.
"Dinna Ask Me" 1163
The Year That's Awa' 2000

D'URFEY, THOMAS
Born at Exeter, England, in 1653; died in London, in 1723.
Chloe Divine 533

DWIGHT, TIMOTHY
Born at Northampton, Mass., May 14, 1752; died at New Haven, Conn., January 11, 1817.
Columbia 2202
Love to the Church 3797

DYER, [SIR] EDWARD
Born in Somersetshire, England, about 1550; died in London in 1607.
"My Mind to Me a Kingdom Is" 2987

E

EASTMAN, ELAINE GOODALE
Born at Mt. Washington, Mass., October 9, 1863; present address, Amherst, Mass.
Ashes of Roses 923
Goldenrod 1485

EASTMAN, MAX
Born at Canandaigua, N. Y., January 4, 1883, now living at Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y.
Diogenes 2997

EDEN, HELEN PARRY (MRS. DENIS)
An English writer now living in Oxfordshire.
The Poet and the Wood-louse 1791
To a Little Girl 267

EDMESTON, JAMES
Born at Wapping, England, September 10, 1791; died, January 7, 1867.
Prayer to the Trinity 3807

EDWARDS, RICHARD
Born in Somersetshire, England, about 1523; died, October 31, 1566.
Amantium Iræ 3031

EGAN, MAURICE FRANCIS
Born at Philadelphia, Pa., May 24, 1852; present address, Copenhagen, Denmark.
The Shamrock 1501

ELIOT, GEORGE [MARIAN EVANS LEWES CROSS]
Born at Arbury Farm, Chilvers Coton, Warwickshire, England, November 22, 1819; died in London, December 22, 1880.
I Am Lonely 323
"Oh, May I Join the Choir Invisible" 3485
Two Lovers 1204

ELLERTON, JOHN LODGE
Born at Liverpool, England, in 1801; died in London, January 3, 1873.
"Now the Laborer's Task is O'er" 3573

ELLIOTT, [SIR] GILBERT [THIRD BARONET OF MINTO]
Born at Minto House, Teviotdale, Scotland, in September, 1722; died at Marseilles, France, January 11, 1777.
Amynta 617

ELLIOTT, JANE
Born at Minto House, Teviotdale, Scotland, in 1727; died there, March 29, 1805.
A Lament for Flodden 2368

ELLIOTT, CHARLOTTE
An English hymn-writer, born March 17, 1789; died at Brighton, September 22, 1871.
"Just as I Am" 3800

ELLIOTT, EBENEZER
Born at Masborough, Yorkshire, England, March 17, 1781; died near Barnsley, England, December 1, 1849.
"Land Which No One Knows, The" 3576

ELLSWORTH, ERASTUS WOLCOTT
Born at South Windsor, Conn., November 27, 1822; died at East Windsor Hill, Conn., January 5, 1902.
The Mayflower 2389

EMERSON, RALPH WALDO
Born at Boston, Mass., May 25, 1803; died at Concord, Mass., April 27, 1882.
Bacchus 2964
Brahma 2964
Concord Hymn 2205
Duty 290
Each and All 2962
Eros 474
Fable 1909
Forbearance 3076
Give All to Love 502
Good-bye 2905
Humble-bee, The 1515
Problem, The 2966
Rhodora, The 1497
Song of Nature 1296
Terminus 410
Waldeinsamkeit 1398

EMMETT, DANIEL DECATUR
Born at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, in 1815; died there in 1904.
Dixie 2218

ENGLISH, THOMAS DUNN
Born at Philadelphia, Pa., June 29, 1819; died at Newark, N. J., in 1902.
Ben Bolt 470

ERSKINE, FRANCIS ROBERT ST. CLAIR [EARL OF ROSSLYN]
An English writer, born in 1833; died in 1890.
Bedtime 97

ERSKINE, WILLIAM
Born at Muthill, Perthshire, Scotland, in 1769; died, August 14, 1822.
Epigram 1916

ETHEREGE, [SIR] GEORGE
An English writer, born about 1635; died in 1691.
Song, "Ladies, though to your conquering eyes" .. 594
Song, "Ye happy swains, whose hearts are free" ... 808
To a Lady Asking How Long He Would Love Her ... 594

EVANS, FLORENCE WILKINSON, see WILKINSON, FLORENCE.

F

FABER, FREDERICK WILLIAM
Born at Calverley, Yorkshire, England, June 28, 1814; died, September 26, 1863.
Paradise 3695
Written in a Little Lady's Little Album 124

FAHY, FRANCIS A.
Born at Kinvara, County Galway, Ireland, September 29, 1854; present address, London, England.
Little Mary Cassidy 759
The Ould Plaid Shawl 758

FANE, JULIAN
An English writer, born in 1827, died in 1870.
Ad Matrem 396

FANE, VIOLET [MARY MONTGOMERIE, LADY CURRIE]
An English writer, at present living in Rome.
Afterwards 3469
"In Green Old Gardens" ... 1450

FANSHAWE, CATHERINE MARIA
Born at Shabden, Surrey, England, July 6, 1765; died at Putney Heath, England, April 17, 1834.
Fragment in Imitation of Wordsworth 1923

FANSHAWE, [SIR] RICHARD
Born at Ware Park, Hertfordshire, England, in June, 1608; died at Madrid, Spain, June 26, 1666.
A Rose 1500

FATHER PROUT, see MAHONY, FRANCIS SYLVESTER.

FAULKS, MRS. FREDERIC, see GARRISON, THEODOSIA.

FAWCETT, EDGAR
Born in New York City, May 26, 1847; died in London, England, in 1904.
Fireflies 1519
To an Oriole 1557
Wild Roses 1498

FAWCETT, JOHN
Born at Lidget Green, near Bradford, England, January 6, 1740; died in the parish of Halifax, England, July 25, 1817.
"Blest be the Tie that Binds" 3801

FERGUSON, JAMES
A Scotch writer; no biographical data available.
Auld Daddy Darkness 71

FERGUSON, [SIR] SAMUEL
Born at Belfast, Ireland, March 10, 1810; died at Howth, County of Dublin, Ireland, August 6, 1886.
The Forging of the Anchor. 1606
The Pretty Girl of Loch Dan 779

FERRIER, SUSAN EDMONSTONE
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, September 7, 1782; died there, November 5, 1854.
The Laird o' Cockpen 2113

FICKE, ARTHUR DAVISON
Born at Davenport, Iowa, November 10, 1883, and still living there.
The Oracle 266
The Three Sisters 1090
To the Harpies 3389

FIELD, EUGENE
Born at St. Louis, Mo., in 1850; died in Chicago in 1895.
Duel, The 173
Jes 'Fore Christmas 220
Little Boy Blue 298
Seein' Things 172
Sugar-Plum Tree, The 69
Wynken, Blynken, and Nod 68

FIELD, NATHANIEL
Born in the parish of St. Giles, Cripplegate, England, in 1587; died there in 1633.
Matin Song 694

FIELDING, HENRY
Born at Sharpham Park, Somersetshire, England, April 22, 1707; died in London, October 8, 1754.
"A-Hunting we will go" ... 1662

FIELDS, JAMES THOMAS
Born at Portsmouth, N. H., December 31, 1816; died at Boston, Mass., April 24, 1881.
Alarmed Skipper, The 2146
Captain's Daughter, The ... 178
Mabel, in New Hampshire .. 793
Owl-Critic, The 1881
Turtle and Flamingo, The .. 2058

FILSINGER, MRS. ERNEST B., see TEASDALE, SARA.

FINCH, ANNE [COUNTESS OF WINCHELSEA]
An English writer; date of birth unknown; died, August 20, 1720.
To Death 3407
To Sylvia 614

FINCH, FRANCIS MILES
Born at Ithaca, N. Y., June 9, 1827; died there in 1907.
The Blue and the Gray . . . 2308

FINK, WILLIAM W.
An Irish writer; no biographical data available.
Larrie O'Dee 1961

FINLEY, JOHN
An Irish writer, born in 1796, died in 1866.
Bachelor's Hall 1970

FISCHER, JACOB
No biographical data available.
The Lady Poverty 2934

FISHER, A. HUGH
Born in London, England, in 1867, and still living there.
Ceylon 2638

FISHER, MAHLON LEONARD
Born at Williamsport, Pa., in 1874, and still living there.
"As an Old Mercer" 1301
November 1385
On a Sculptured Head of the Christ 3751

FITZGERALD, EDWARD
Born near Woodbridge, Suffolk, England, March 31, 1809; died at Merton, Norfolk, England, June 14, 1883.
Because 788
Chivalry at a Discount 1724
The Meadows in Spring 1346
The Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám 2875

FLACCUS, QUINTUS HORATIUS
Born at Venusia, Apulia, December 8, 65 B. C.; died in Rome, November 27, 8 B. C.
Integer Vitæ 3828
Persicos Odi 3827
Rectius Vives 3829

FLAGG, WILSON
Born at Beverly, Mass., November 5, 1805; died at North Cambridge, Mass., May 6, 1884.
The O'Lincon Family 1530

FLECKER, JAMES ELROY
Born in London, England, November 5, 1884; died at Davos-Platz, Switzerland, January 3, 1915.
The Ballad of Camden Town 1058
The Queen's Song 3214
To a Poet a Thousand Years Hence 3101

FLETCHER, GILES
Born at Watford, Hertfordshire, England, about 1549; died in London, March 11, 1611.
Wooing Song 476

FLETCHER, JOHN
Born at Rye, Sussex, England, in December 1579; died in London, in August, 1625.
Aspatia's Song 1064
Drink To-day 1991
Love's Emblems 482
Melancholy 3349
Power of Love, The 482
Sleep 3220
"Take, O Take Those Lips Away" 683
What is Love 481
Women's Longing 1903

FOLLEN, MRS. ELIZA LEE [CABOT]
Born in Massachusetts in 1787; died in 1859.
The Moon 57

FORD, JOHN
Born at Islington, Devonshire, England, in April, 1586; died after 1639.
Fancies 3142

FOSS, SAM WALTER
Born at Candia, N. H., June 19, 1858; died at Somerville, Mass., February 26, 1911.
Calf-Path, The 1896
House by the Side of the Road, The 3040
Then Ag'in 1889

FOSTER, STEPHEN COLLINS
Born at Pittsburgh, Pa., July 4, 1826; died in New York City, January 13, 1864.
My Old Kentucky Home . . . 3227
The Old Folks at Home . . . 3228

FOWLER, [HON.] ELLEN THORNEYCROFT [MRS. A. L. FELKIN]
An English writer, born in 1875; now living at Ellham, Kent.
The Wisdom of Folly 2045

FOX-SMITH, CECILY
Born at Lymm, Cheshire, England, in 1882, and now living in London.
Hastings Mill 1591

FRASER, JOHN
Born at Tomnacloich, Inverness-shire, Scotland, in 1750; died in London, April 26, 1811.
The Maiden and the Lily . . . 1880

FRENEAU, PHILIP
Born in New York City, in 1752;

died near Freehold, N. J., December 18, 1832.
Song of Thyrsis..... 830
The Indian Burying-Ground 3438
The Wild Honeysuckle..... 1488

FRERE, JOHN HOOKHAM
Born in London, England, May 21, 1769; died at Pietá, Valetta, Malta (?), January 7, 1846.
The Boy and the Wolf..... 121

FROST, ROBERT
Born in San Francisco, Cal., March 26, 1875; now living at Franconia, N. H.
Storm Fear..... 1385
Mending Wall..... 3075
The Telephone..... 658
The Tuft of Flowers..... 3074

FULLER, MARGARET WITTER
Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1871, and still living there.
The Passion-Flower..... 1053

FURLONG, ALICE
Born in Ireland, in 1875, and now living in County Dublin.
My Share of the World..... 628

FURNESS, WILLIAM HENRY
Born at Boston, Mass., in 1802; died there in 1896.
Evening Hymn..... 2968

G

GALE, NORMAN
An English writer, born in 1862, and now living near Rugby.
Bartholomew..... 120
Content..... 1170
Country Faith, The..... 1644
Dawn and Dark..... 1328
Fairy Book, The..... 231
Pastoral, A..... 744
Second Coming, The..... 3054
Shaded Pool, The..... 677
Song, "This peach is pink with such a pink"..... 574
Song, "Wait but a little while"..... 1169
Voice, The..... 395

GALSWORTHY, JOHN
An English writer born in 1867; now living at Manaton, Devonshire, England.
Past..... 420

GARLAND, HAMLIN
Born at West Salem, Wis., September 16, 1860; now living at Chicago, Ill.
Do You Fear the Wind..... 1684
The Herald Crane..... 1535
The Toil of the Trail..... 1684

GARNETT, RICHARD
Born at Lichfield, England, in 1835; died in London in 1906.
Ballad of the Boat, The..... 3396
Epigram..... 1915
Epigram..... 1918
Fair Circassian, The..... 1903

GARRICK, DAVID
Born at Hereford, England, February 19, 1717; died in London, January 20, 1779.
Epigram..... 1918
Heart of Oak..... 2280

GARRISON, THEODOSIA PICKERING [MRS. FREDERICK FAULKS]
Born at Newark, N. J., November 26, 1874; now living in New York City.
Ballad of the Angel, The..... 1015
Stains..... 3758
The Wife..... 394

GARVIN, MARGARET ROOT
No biographical data available.
To Each His Own..... 3363

GASCOIGNE, GEORGE
Born in Westmoreland, England, about 1535; died at Stamford, England, October 7, 1577.
A Lover's Lullaby..... 715

GATES, ELLEN M. HUNTINGTON
Born at Torrington, Conn., in 1835; now living in New York City.
"I Shall Not Cry Return"..... 1081

GAUTIER, THÉOPHILE
Born at Tarbes, France, August 31, 1811; died in Paris, October 23, 1872.
L'Art..... 3482

GAY, JOHN
Born at Barnstable, England, in September, 1685; died in London, December 4, 1732.
Ballad, "'Twas when the seas were roaring"..... 1064
Black-eyed Susan..... 937
Elegy on a Lap Dog, An..... 1826
Epigrams..... 1916
Hare With Many Friends, The..... 1853
Lion and the Cub, The..... 1852
Song, "O ruddier than the cherry"..... 535

GIBSON, WILFRID WILSON
Born at Hexam, England, in 1878, and now living in London.
Marriage..... 1195
On Hampstead Heath..... 516
Tenants..... 3218
The Whisperers..... 3379

GILBERT, LADY, see MULHOLLAND ROSA.

GILBERT, [SIR] WILLIAM SCHWENCK
Born in London, England, November 18, 1836; drowned, May 29, 1911.
Captain Reece..... 2180
Ellen M'Jones Aberdeen..... 2073
To the Terrestrial Globe..... 2075
Yarn of the "Nancy Bell," The..... 2177

GILDER, JOSEPH B.
Born at Flushing, N. Y., June 29, 1858; present address, New York City.
The Parting of the Ways... 2217

GILDER, RICHARD WATSON
Born at Bordentown, N. J., February 8, 1844; died in New York City, November 18, 1909.
"Ah, Be not False"..... 349
"Call Me Not Dead"..... 3502
"Great Nature is an Army Gay"..... 1298
Midsummer Song, A..... 1366
"My Love for Thee"..... 1263
"O, Love is not a Summer Mood"..... 504
On the Life-mask of Abraham Lincoln..... 3642
Prelude from "The New Day"..... 1307
Song, "Because the rose must fade"..... 2841
Song of Early Autumn, A.. 1374
Sonnet, The..... 3107
Sonnet, "I know not if I love her overmuch"..... 1264
Sonnet, "I like her gentle hand that sometimes strays"..... 1264
Woman's Thought, A..... 912
"Woods that Bring the Sunset Near, The"..... 1400

GILFILLAN, ROBERT
Born at Dunfermline, Scotland, July 7, 1798; died at Leith, Scotland, December 4, 1850.
The Exile's Song..... 3258

GILLILAN, STRICKLAND W.
Born at Jackson, Ohio, Oct. 9, 1869; present address, Indianapolis, Ind.
Finnigin to Flannigan..... 1979

GILMAN, CHARLOTTE PERKINS STETSON
Born at Hartford, Conn., July 3, 1860; present address, New York City.
A Conservative..... 1890
Similar Cases..... 1891
Wedded Bliss..... 1898

GLASGOW, J. SCOTT
A Scotch-American writer, now living at Portland, Indiana.
The Pipes o' Gordon's Men. 2307

GLOVER, JEAN
Born at Kilmarnock, Ayrshire, Scotland, October 31, 1758; died at Letterkenny, County Donegal, Ireland, in 1801.
"Owre the Muir amang the Heather"..... 747

GLOVER, RICHARD
Born in London, England, in 1712; died there, November 25, 1785.
Admiral Hosier's Ghost.... 2415

GOING, CHARLES BUXTON
Born in Westchester county, N. Y., April 5, 1863; present address, New York City.
At the Top of the Road.... 3577
To Arcady..... 664

GOLDSMITH, OLIVER
Born at Pallas, County Longford, Ireland, November 10, 1728; died in London, April 4, 1774.
Deserted Village, The..... 3262
Elegy on Madame Blaize, An..... 2092
Elegy on the Death of a Mad Dog, An..... 2091
"When Lovely Woman Stoops to Folly"..... 1050

GOODALE, DORA READ
Born at Mt. Washington, Mass., October 29, 1866; now living at Redding, Conn.
Ripe Grain..... 3575

GOODCHILD, JOHN ARTHUR
Born at Ealing, Middlesex, England, February 26, 1851; now living at Bordighera, Italy.
The Firstborn..... 24

GORDON, ADAM LINDSAY
Born at Fayal, Azores, in 1833; shot himself at New Brighton, Australia, June 24, 1870.
How We Beat the Favorite. 3344

GORDON, ALEXANDER MACGREGOR ROSE, see ROSE, ALEXANDER MACGREGOR.

GORE-BOOTH, EVA
An English writer, now living in London.
The Little Waves of Breffny 2605

GORMAN, HERBERT S.
An American writer, no biographical data available.
The Satyrs and the Moon. 249

GOSSE, EDMUND WILLIAM
Born in London, England, September 21, 1849, and still living there.
Impression..... 1759
Labor and Love..... 2018
Missive, The..... 666

GOULD, GERALD LOUIS
An English poet, born in 1885; died in London, in June, 1916.
Lancelot and Guinevere.... 2813
Wanderlust..... 1679

GOULD, HANNAH FLAGG
Born at Lancaster, Mass., in 1789; died at Newburyport, Mass., September 5, 1865.
The Frost..... 1387

GRAHAM, JAMES [FIRST MARQUIS OF MONTROSE]
Born in Scotland in 1612; died May 21, 1650.
"I'll Never Love Thee More" 604

GRANVILLE, CHARLES
An English writer, no biographical data available.
Traveller's Hope 3478

GRAVES, ALFRED PERCEVAL
Born at Dublin, Ireland, July 22, 1846; now living at Wimbledon, England.
Father O'Flynn 1057
Irish Lullaby, An 88
Little Red Lark, The 713

GRAY, DAVID
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1837; died in New York State in 1888.
The Golden Wedding 1226

GRAY, THOMAS
Born in London, England, December 27, 1716; died at Cambridge, England, July 30, 1771.
Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard 3532
Ode on the Spring, An 1343
On a Distant Prospect of Eton College 2589
On the Death of a Favorite Cat, Drowned in a Tub of Gold Fishes 1821
Progress of Poesy, The 3091

GREENE, ALBERT GORTON
Born at Providence, R. I., February 10, 1802; died at Cleveland, Ohio, January 4, 1868.
Old Grimes 2131

GREENE, HOMER
Born at Ariel, Pa., January 10, 1853; now living at Honesdale, Pa.
My Daughter Louise 322
What My Lover Said 1149

GREENE, ROBERT
Born at Norwich, England, about 1560; died in London, September 3, 1592.
"Fair is my Love, for April's in Her Face" 520
Fawnia 583
Mæsia's Song 2979
Phyllis and Corydon 768
Samela 521
Sephestia's Lullaby 74
Shepherd's Wife's Song, The 1210

GREENE, SARAH PRATT MCLEAN
Born at Simsbury, Conn., July 3, 1856; now living at Lexington, Mass.
De Sheepfol' 3755

GREENWELL, DORA
Born at Greenwell Ford, Durham, England, December 6, 1821; died, March 29, 1882.
Home 1204

GREGORY, THE GREAT, SAINT
Born at Rome about 540; died there, March 12, 604, having been Pope from 590.
Veni, Creator Spiritus 3823

GRENFELL, JULIAN HENRY FRANCIS
A captain in the English army; died at Boulogne from wounds received in front of Ypres, May 26, 1915.
The Hills 1435

GRIFFIN, GERALD
Born at Limerick, Ireland, December 12, 1803; died at Cork, Ireland, June 12, 1840.
Eileen Aroon 549
Maiden Eyes 631
"Place in Thy Memory, A" 871

GRIFFITH, WILLIAM
Born at Memphis, Mo., February 15, 1876; now living in New York City.
Pierrette in Memory 3388

GUINEY, LOUISE IMOGEN
Born at Boston, Mass., in 1861, and now living at Oxford, England.
Kings, The 2049
Of Joan's Youth 1054
Song, "I try to knead and spin" 3361
Tryste Noël 209
Wild Ride, The 3475

GUITÉRMAN, ARTHUR
An American writer born in Vienna, Austria, November 20, 1871; now living in New York City.
Strictly Germ-proof 2035

GWYNN, STEPHEN LUCIUS
Born at Dublin, Ireland, February 13, 1864, and still living there.
Ireland 2266

GYLES, ALTHEA
No biographical data available.
Sympathy 923

H

HABINGTON, WILLIAM
Born at Hindlip, Worcestershire, England, in November, 1605; died there in 1654.
Castara 531
Nox Nocti Indicat Scientiam 3786
To Roses in the Bosom of Castara 600

HAGEDORN, HERMANN
Born in New York City, July 18, 1882, and still living there.
Early Morning at Bargis ... 1645
Song, "Song is so old" 674
Troop of the Guard, A 3062

HALE, EDWARD EVERETT
Born at Boston, Mass., April 3, 1822, died there in 1909.

Lamentable Ballad of the Bloody Brook, The..... 2406
New England's Chevy Chase 2426

HALL, SHARLOT M.
Born at Prosser Creek, Kan., Oct. 27, 1870, and now living at Dewey, Arizona.
The Last Camp-fire..... 3471
The Song of the Colorado.. 2571

HALLECK, FITZ-GREENE
Born at Guilford, Conn., July 8, 1790; died there, November 19, 1867.
Marco Bozzaris..... 2453
On the Death of Joseph Rodman Drake..... 3608

HALPINE, CHARLES GRAHAM
Born at Oldcastle, County Meath, Ireland, in November, 1829; died in New York City, August 3, 1868.
Irish Astronomy..... 1964
Janet's Hair..... 1112

HALSHAM, JOHN
An English writer; no biographical data available.
My Last Terrier..... 1827

HAMILTON, ELIZABETH
Born at Belfast, Ireland, July 21, 1758; died at Harrowgate, England, July 23, 1816.
My Ain Fireside..... 3238

HAMILTON, JOHN
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1761; died there, September 23, 1814.
I Love My Jean..... 947

HANRAHAN, AGNES I.
No biographical data available.
Rosies..... 925

HARDING, RUTH GUTHRIE
Born at Tunkhannock, Pa., August 20, 1882; now living at Paterson, N. J.
Returning..... 3482
The Call to a Scot..... 3261
Threnody..... 1080

HARDY, LIZZIE CLARK
No biographical data available.
"Some Time at Eve"..... 3468

HARDY, THOMAS
Born in Dorsetshire, England, June 2, 1840; and still living there.
"Let me Enjoy"..... 2841
Rain on a Grave..... 1133

HARINGTON, [SIR] JOHN
Born at Kelston, near Bath, England, in 1561; died there, November 20, 1612.
Epigram..... 1918

HARNEY, WILLIAM WALLACE
Born at Bloomington, Ind., June 20, 1831; now living at Miami, Florida,
Adonais..... 914

HARRIS, JOEL CHANDLER
Born at Eatonton, Ga., December 8, 1848; died at Atlanta, Ga., in 1908.
Revival Hymn..... 2037

HARRISON, VIRGINIA BIOREN
An American writer living at Bloomfield, N. J.
Music of the Dawn..... 1310
One Gift I Ask..... 3734

HARTE, FRANCIS BRET
Born at Albany, N. Y., August 25, 1839; removed to England in 1885; and died there, May 5, 1902.
Dickens in Camp..... 3606
Dow's Flat..... 2171
John Burns of Gettysburg.. 2504
Mrs. Judge Jenkins..... 1948
Mountain Heart's-ease, The 1494
Plain Language from Truthful James..... 2174
Reveille, The..... 2487
Second Review of the Grand Army, A..... 2513
Society upon the Stanislaus, The..... 2170
Songs without Sense..... 2065

HASTINGS, THOMAS
Born at Washington, Conn., October 15, 1784; died in New York City, May 15, 1872.
In Sorrow..... 3808

HAWKER, ROBERT STEPHEN
Born at Stoke Damerel, Devonshire, England, December 3, 1803; died at Plymouth, England, August 15, 1875.
Are they not all Ministering Spirits..... 631
The Song of the Western Men..... 2407

HAWLEY, CHARLES B.
Born at Brookfield, Conn., in 1858; now living in New York City.
My Little Love..... 989

HAWTHORNE, HILDEGARDE
Born in New York City, and still living there.
A Song..... 1164

HAY, JOHN
Born at Salem, Ind., October 8, 1838; died, July 1, 1905.
Jim Bludso of the Prairie Belle..... 3337
Little Breeches..... 3339
Stirrup Cup, The..... 3507
White Flag, The..... 796
Woman's Love, A..... 1038

HAYNE, PAUL HAMILTON
Born at Charleston, S. C., January 1, 1831; died, July 9, 1886.
Aspects of the Pines..... 1400
In Harbor..... 3493
"Little While I Fain Would Linger Yet, A"..... 895
Pre-existence..... 2857
Rose and Thorn, The..... 1028

HEATH, ELLA
No biographical data available.
Poetry 3086

HEBER, REGINALD
Born at Malpas, Cheshire, England, April 21, 1783; died at Trichinopoly, British India, April 2, 1826.
"Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning" . . . 210
"From Greenland's Icy Mountains" 3795
"Holy, Holy, Holy" 3793
"If Thou Wert by my Side, my Love" 1209
Providence 3726
"The Son of God Goes Forth to War" 3794

HEDGE, FREDERIC HENRY
Born at Cambridge, Mass., in 1805; died there in 1890.
"A Mighty Fortress is our God" 3806
Questionings 2970

HELBURN, THERESA
Born in New York City in 1888, and still living there.
Mother 396

HEMANS, FELICIA DOROTHEA
Born at Liverpool, England, September 25, 1793; died near Dublin, Ireland, May 16, 1835.
Casabianca 2439
Dirge 3551
England's Dead 2306
Graves of a Household, The 3561
"He Never Smiled Again" . . 2349
Hour of Death, The 3411
Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers 2387

HENDERSON, BARBARA [MRS. ARCHIBALD]
Born at Lincolnton, N. C., and now living at Chapel Hill, N. C.
A Chant of Hate against England 2549

HENDERSON, FLORENCE L.
No biographical data available.
The Garden That I Love . . . 3441

HENLEY, WILLIAM ERNEST
Born at Gloucester, England, August 23, 1849; died at Woking, England, June 11, 1903.
"As Like the Woman as You Can" 1900
Ballade of Ladies' Names . . 1761
Blackbird, The 1527
Culture in the Slums 1951
"England, My England" . . . 2239
Home 3229
"I Took a Hansom on To-day" 827
Inter Sodales 1986
Invictus 3500
"Late Lark Twitters from the Quiet Skies, A" 3501
"Or Ever the Knightly Years Were Gone" 655
Spirit of Wine, The 2013
Stanzas, "Where forlorn sunsets flare and fade" . . . 2862
Villon's Straight Tip to all Cross Coves 1857
"What is to Come" 3422
With Strawberries 1760

HENSLEY, SOPHIA ALMON
Born in Nova Scotia, May 31, 1866; now living in New York City.
"Because of You" 665

HEPBURN, THOMAS NICOLL, see SETOUN, GABRIEL.

HERBERT, GEORGE
Born at Montgomery Castle, Wales, April 3, 1593; died at Bemerton, near Salisbury, England, in February, 1633.
Collar, The 3719
Discipline 3720
Holy Baptism 3721
Life 2931
Love 3718
Pulley, The 370
Unkindness 3722
Virtue 3720

HERFORD, OLIVER
Born at Manchester, England, in December, 1863; now living in New York City.
Child's Natural History . . . 2082
The Elf and the Dormouse. 234

HERRICK, ROBERT
Born in London, England, in August, 1591; died at Dean Prior, Devonshire, England, in October, 1674.
Argument of His Book, The 3105
Bracelet, The: to Julia 596
Ceremonies for Christmas . . 223
Corinna's Going A-Maying . 1359
Delight in Disorder 378
His Litany to the Holy Spirit 3744
His Winding-sheet 3454
Night-piece, The: to Julia . . 695
"No Fault in Women" 1901
Primrose, The 1495
Rubies and Pearls 528
Ternarie of Littles, A 1723
Thanksgiving to God for His House, A 3713
To Ænone 595
To Anthea, Who may Command Him Anything 595
To Blossoms 1504
To Daffodills 1474
To Daisies, Not to Shut so Soon 1477
To Dianeme 816
To Electra 684
To Keep a True Lent 3745
To Meadows 1439
To Music, to Becalm His Fever 3123
To Primroses Filled with Morning Dew 1496

To the Rose: a Song. . . . 931
To the Virgins, to make Much of Time. . . . 328
To the Western Wind. . . . 596
To the Willow-tree. . . . 1406
To Violets. . . . 1501
Upon Julia's Clothes. . . . 529
White Island, The. . . . 3698

HEWITT, ETHEL M.
No biographical data available.
Wild Wishes. . . . 664

HEYWOOD, JOHN
Born in England about 1497; died at Malines, Belgium, about 1580.
A Praise of His Lady. . . . 378

HEYWOOD, THOMAS
Born in Lincolnshire, England, date unknown; died about 1650.
Matin-Song. . . . 696
Message, The. . . . 598
Valerius on Women. . . . 818

HIGGINSON, ELLA
Born at Council Grove, Kansas, in 1862; now living at Bellingham, Wash.
Four-Leaf Clover. . . . 1472
The Lamp in the West. . . . 3473

HIGGINSON, THOMAS WENTWORTH
Born at Cambridge, Mass., December 22, 1823; died there, May 9, 1911.
Ode to a Butterfly. . . . 1517

HILL, AARON
Born in London, England, February 10, 1685; died there in 1750.
A Strong Hand. . . . 1902

HILL, THOMAS
Born at New Brunswick, N. J., January 7, 1818; died at Waltham, Mass., November 2, 1891.
The Bobolink. . . . 1531

HINDS, SAMUEL
Born in Barbadoes in 1793; died in London, England, February 7, 1872.
Baby Sleeps. . . . 27

HINKSON, KATHERINE TYNAN, see TYNAN, KATHERINE.

HODGSON, RALPH
An English writer, born in Northumberland about forty years ago; now living in London.
Eve. . . . 2816
Mystery, The. . . . 3776
Stupidity Street. . . . 3061
"Time, You Old Gipsy Man". . . . 2817
Wood Song, A. . . . 1329

HOFFMAN, CHARLES FENNO
Born in New York City in 1806; died at Harrisburgh, Pa., June 7, 1884.
Monterey. . . . 2470
"Sparkling and Bright". . . . 2007

HOFFMANN, AUGUST HEINRICH
Born at Fallersleben, Hanover, Prussia, April 2, 1798; died near Hoxter, Prussia, January 20, 1874.
The Story of Augustus who would not have any Soup. . . . 122
The Story of Little Suck-a-Thumb. . . . 123

HOGG, JAMES
Born at Ettrick, Selkirkshire, Scotland, in 1770; died at Eltrive Lake, November 21, 1835. The "Ettrick Shepherd."
Boy's Song, A. . . . 128
Kilmeny. . . . 3151
"Love is Like a Dizziness". . . . 750
Moggy and Me. . . . 1227
"My Love She's but a Lassie Yet". . . . 543
Skylark, The. . . . 1566
"There's Gowd in the Breast". . . . 1142
When the Kye Comes Hame. . . . 775
Women Folk, The. . . . 749

HOLCROFT, THOMAS
Born in London, England, December 10, 1745; died there, March 23, 1809.
Gaffer Gray. . . . 1996

HOLLAND, JOSIAH GILBERT
Born at Belchertown, Mass., July 24, 1819; died in New York City, October 21, 1881.
Cradle Song. . . . 86
Daniel Gray. . . . 3327
Gradatim. . . . 3707
Lullaby. . . . 86

HOLMES, OLIVER WENDELL
Born at Cambridge, Mass., August 29, 1809; died there, October 7, 1894.
Ballad of the Oysterman, The. . . . 2139
Bill and Joe. . . . 3002
Boys, The. . . . 1745
Brother Jonathan's Lament for Sister Caroline. . . . 2485
Chambered Nautilus, The. . . . 2913
Contentment. . . . 1743
Crooked Footpath, The. . . . 3739
Deacon's Masterpiece, The. 1871
Dorothy Q. . . . 1738
Height of the Ridiculous, The. . . . 2138
La Grisette. . . . 909
Last Leaf, The. . . . 1741
My Aunt. . . . 1740
Old Ironsides. . . . 2456
Old Man Dreams, The. . . . 461
To an Insect. . . . 1512

HOOD, THOMAS
Born in London, England, May 23, 1799; died there, May 3, 1845.
Bridge of Sighs, The. . . . 3390
Death-bed, The. . . . 3546
Dream of Eugene Aram, The 2767
Epigram. . . . 1919
Fair Inez. . . . 959
Faithless Nelly Gray. . . . 2126

Faithless Sally Brown ... 2128
False Poets and True ... 3085
Flowers ... 1465
"I Remember, I Remember" 443
I'm Not a Single Man" ... 1713
No ... 2048
Ode to Autumn ... 1376
Parental Ode to My Son, A. 268
Please to Ring the Belle ... 2130
Queen Mab ... 237
Ruth ... 332
Serenade ... 704
Song, "A lake and a fairy boat" ... 630
Song of the Shirt, The ... 3393
To Minerva ... 2048
Water Lady, The ... 869

HOOD, THOMAS, THE YOUNGER
Born at Wanstead, Essex, England, January 19, 1835; died at Peckham Rye, Surrey, England, November 20, 1874.
Poets and Linnets ... 1938

HOOK, THEODORE EDWARD
Born in London, England, September 22, 1788; died at Fulham, England, August 24, 1841.
Cautionary Verses to Youth of Both Sexes ... 2021

HOOKER, WILLIAM BRIAN
Born in New York City, November 2, 1880, and now living at Farmington, Conn.
From Life ... 390
Portrait, A ... 393

HOOPER, ELLEN
An American writer of the first half of the nineteenth century, concerning whom no biographical data are available.
Beauty and Duty ... 2972
The Straight Road ... 2973

HOPE, LAURENCE [MRS. MALCOLM NICHOLSON]
Born at Stoke Bishop, Gloucestershire, England, April 9, 1865; died of poison, self-administered, at Madras, India, October 4, 1904.
Ashore ... 916
Bride, The ... 1198
Khrishna and His Flute ... 916
Masters, The ... 2947

HOPKINSON, JOSEPH
Born at Philadelphia, Pa., November 12, 1770; died there, January 15, 1842.
Hail Columbia ... 2200

HOPPER, NORA [MRS. WILFRID HUGH CHESSON]
Born at Exeter, England, January 2, 1871; died in London, April 14, 1906.
Dark Man, The ... 910
March ... 1351
Marriage Charm, A ... 1199

HORACE, see FLACCUS, QUINTUS HORATIUS.

HORNE, HERBERT P.
Born in London, England, in 1864; now living at Florence, Italy.
"If She be Made of White and Red" ... 570
Nancy Dawson ... 988

HORNE, RICHARD HENGIST
Born in London, England, January 1, 1803; died at Margate, England, March 13, 1884.
The Plow ... 1652

HOUGHTON, LORD, see MILNES, RICHARD MONCKTON.

HOUSMAN, ALFRED EDWARD
An English writer, born March 26, 1859, and now living at Cambridge.
"Along the Field as We Came by" ... 856
Blackbird, The ... 1526
"On Wenlock Edge" ... 1401
Power of Malt, The ... 2016
"When I was One-and-Twenty" ... 857

HOUSMAN, LAURENCE
An English writer, born July 18, 1867, and now living in London.
Comrades ... 3008
The Settlers ... 3536

HOVELL-THURLOW, EDWARD [SECOND BARON THURLOW]
Born in London, England, June 10, 1781; died at Brighton, England, June 4, 1829.
Heron, The ... 1540
May ... 1361
"When in the Woods I Wander all Alone" ... 1399

HOVEY, RICHARD
Born at Normal, Ill., in 1864; died in 1900.
Accident in Art ... 3112
At the Crossroads ... 3009
Barney McGee ... 1980
Chanson de Rosemonde ... 997
Envoy from "More Songs from Vagabondia" ... 3000
Hunting-Song ... 1662
Kavanagh, The ... 2017
Love in the Winds ... 1269
Sea Gipsy, The ... 1688
Stein Song, A ... 1048
Two Lovers, The ... 1044
Unmanifest Destiny ... 2209
Wander-lovers, The ... 1686
Word of the Lord from Havana, The ... 2535

HOWARD, HENRY [EARL OF SURREY]
Born in Norfolk, England, about 1517; beheaded on Tower Hill, London, January 21, 1547.
The Means to Attain Happy Life ... 2979

HOWARTH, ELLEN CLEMENTINE
Born at Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1827; died there in 1899.
"'Tis but a Little Faded Flower" 3363

HOWE, JULIA WARD
Born in New York City, May 27, 1819; died at Newport, R. I., October 17, 1910.
Battle-Hymn of the Republic 2206

HOWELLS, MILDRED
An American writer, living in New York City.
God's Will 3736
Moral in Sevres, A 1805

HOWELLS, WILLIAM DEAN
Born at Martin's Ferry, Ohio, March 1, 1837, and now living in New York City.
Song the Oriole Sings, The .. 1556
Thanksgiving, A 2933

HOWITT, MARY
Born at Coleford, Gloucestershire, England, March 12, 1799; died at Rome, January 30, 1888.
Broom Flower, The 1468
Buttercups and Daisies 117
Fairies of the Caldon-Low, The 238
Rose of May, The 1499
Spider and the Fly, The 176

HOWLAND, MARY WOOLSEY
An American writer, born in 1832, died in 1864.
In the Hospital 3463

HUEFFER, FORD MADOX
An English writer, born in 1873, and now living in London.
Children's Song 282
Wisdom 512

HUNT, JAMES HENRY LEIGH
Born at Southgate, near London, England, October 19, 1784; died at Putney, England, August 28, 1859.
Abou Ben Adhem 2909
Cupid Drowned 488
Dearest Poets, The 3085
Fairy Song 235
Glove and the Lions, The .. 833
Jaffar 3013
Jenny Kissed Me 687
Nun, The 624
Sneezing 2021
To the Grasshopper and the Cricket 1510

HUNTER, ANNE
Born in Scotland in 1742; died in London, England, January 7, 1821.
"My Mother Bids me Bind my Hair" 942

HUNTINGTON, HELEN [MRS. ARCHER HUNTINGTON]
An American writer, living in New York City.
The Wayfarer 2854

HUSTON, FRANCIS
No biographical data available.
Forty Years Ago 469

HUXLEY, THOMAS HENRY
Born at Ealing, near London, England, May 4, 1825; died at Eastbourne, England, June 28, 1895.
Tennyson 3636

I

INGALLS, JOHN JAMES
Born at Middleton, Mass., in 1833; died in 1900.
Opportunity 2921

INGELOW, JEAN
Born at Boston, Lincolnshire, England, March 17, 1820; died at Kensington, England, July 20, 1897.
Divided 968
High Tide on the Coast of Lincolnshire, The .. 3318
"Like a Laverock in the Lift" 1200
Long White Seam, The 1613
"One Morning, Oh! so Early" 1144
Singing-lesson, The 147
Song of the Old Love 1097
Songs of Seven 426

INGRAM, JOHN KELLS
Born in County Donegal, Ireland, in 1823; died in 1907.
The Memory of the Dead .. 2262

IRIS, SCHARMEL
No biographical data available.
After the Martyrdom 3736

IRONQUILL, see WARE, EUGENE F.

IRVING, WASHINGTON
Born in New York City, April 3, 1783; died at Sunnyside, near Tarrytown, N. Y., November 28, 1859.
A Certain Young Lady 731

IRWIN, WALLACE
Born at Oneida, N. Y., March 15, 1875, and now living in New York City.
From Romany to Rome 1683
Grain of Salt, A 2085

J

JACKSON, HELEN HUNT
Born at Amherst, Mass., October 18, 1831; died at San Francisco, Cal., August 12, 1885.
Coronation 2085
My Legacy 3727
Spinning 3467

JAGO, RICHARD
Born at Beaudesert, Warwickshire, England, October 1, 1715; died at Snitterfield, England, May 8, 1781.
Absence 942

JANVIER, MARGARET THOMSON ["MARGARET VANDEGRIFT"]
Born at New Orleans, La., in 1845, died at Norwood, Mass., in February, 1913.
Little Wild Baby 1035
The Sandman 72

JELLICOE, S. CHARLES
No biographical data available.
Advice to a Lover 1171

JEWETT, SOPHIE
Born at Moravia, N. Y., June 3, 1861; died at Wellesley, Mass., in 1909.
"If Spirits Walk" 1118

JOHNS, ORRICK G.
Born at St. Louis, Mo., June 2, 1887, and still living there.
The Sea-lands 958

JOHNSON, E. PAULINE
A Canadian writer of Indian descent, born in 1862; died, March 7, 1913.
The Song my Paddle Sings 1676

JOHNSON, LIONEL PIGOT
Born at Broadstairs, Kent, England, March 15, 1867; died in London, October 4, 1902.
By the Statue of King Charles at Charing Cross 3598
Comrades 3006
Friend, A 3001
Ireland 2253
Precept of Silence 3351
Te Martyrum Candidatus 3751
To the Dead of '98 2261

JOHNSON, ROBERT UNDERWOOD
Born at Washington, D. C., January 12, 1853; now living in New York City.
Dewey at Manila 2537
English Mother, An 2242
Irish Love-Song, An 741
Italian Rhapsody 2613
"Love Once was like an April Dawn" 508
Star Song 673
Ursula 576

JOHNSON, SAMUEL
Born at Lichfield, England, September 18, 1709; died in London, December 13, 1784.
Epigram 1916
On the Death of Mr. Robert Levet 3628

JOHNSON, SAMUEL
Born at Salem, Mass., October 10, 1822; died at North Andover, Mass., February 19, 1882.
Inspiration 2973

JOHNSON, WILLIAM SAMUEL
Born at Ellicottville, N. Y., in 1859; now living at Mamaroneck, N. Y.
Chiffons! 1788

JOHNSON-CORY, WILLIAM
Born at Torrington, Devonshire, England, January 9, 1823; died at Hampstead, England, June 11, 1892.
Amaturus 497
Heraclitus 3529
Invocation, An 3099
Mimnermus in Church 1767
"Oh, Earlier Shall the Rosebuds Blow" 3378

JOHNSTONE, HENRY [LORD JOHNSTONE]
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, February 5, 1844, and still living there.
The Fastidious Serpent 2070

JONES, THOMAS S., JR.
Born at Boonville, N. Y., November 6, 1882; now living at Utica, N. Y.
Ave atque Vale 3668
In the Fall o' Year 1131
Little Ghosts, The 436
Sometimes 436
To Song 3088

JONES, [SIR] WILLIAM
Born in London, England, September 28, 1746; died at Calcutta, India, April 27, 1794.
An Ode in Imitation of Alcæus 2236
"On Parent Knees" 21

JONSON, BEN
Born in London, England, about 1573; died there, August 6, 1637.
Epitaph on Elizabeth L. H. 3516
Epitaph on Salathiel Pavy 3516
Her Triumph 526
Kiss, The 682
Noble Nature, The 2836
On the Portrait of Shakespeare 3652
Queen Mab 233
Simplex Munditiis 377
Song, "O, do not wanton with those eyes" 592
Song: That Women are but Men's Shadows 811
Song: To Cynthia 1320
To Celia 591
To the Memory of My Beloved Master William Shakespeare 3650
Venus' Runaway 479
Verses over the Door at the Entrance into the Apollo Room at the Devil Tavern 1988

JORDAN, THOMAS
Born in London, England, about 1612; died there in 1685.
Coronemus nos Rosis antequam Marcescant 1992

JOYCE, JAMES
Born in Dublin, Ireland on February 2, 1882; now living in London.
"Bid Adieu to Girlish Days" 1170

K

KAUFFMAN, REGINALD WRIGHT
Born at Columbia, Pa., September 8, 1877, and still living there.
Call, The 509
Troia Fuit 441
Wastrel, The 440

KEATS, JOHN
Born in London, England, October 29, 1795; died at Rome, February 23, 1821.
Dove, The 3379
Eve of St. Agnes, The 3284
Fairy Song 237
Human Seasons, The 2
La Belle Dame sans Merci 1005
Last Sonnet 3489
Lines on the Mermaid Tavern 1989
Ode on a Grecian Urn 3163
Ode to a Nightingale 1552
Ode to Psyche 3164
On First Looking into Chapman's Homer 3082
On Melancholy 3349
On the Grasshopper and the Cricket 1510
On the Sea 1588
Stanzas "In a drear-nighted December" 3395
To Autumn 1375
To Fancy 3166
"To one Who has been Long in City Pent" 1653
To the Poets 3090
"When I Have Fears" 3488
"Where be you Going, You Devon Maid" 732

KEBLE, JOHN
Born at Fairfield, Gloucestershire, England, April 25, 1792; died at Bournemouth, Hampshire, England, March 27, 1866.
Effect of Example, The 2924
Holy Matrimony 1197
"We Need not Bid, for Cloistered Cell" 3747

KEMBLE, FRANCES ANNE
Born in London, England, November 27, 1809; died there, January 15, 1893.
Faith 2919
Lament of a Mocking-Bird 1544

KEMP, HARRY
Born in Ohio in 1883, and still living.
Conquerors, The 3068
Prayer, A 2939
Resurrection 3553
Voice of Christmas, The 3750

KENYON, JAMES BENJAMIN
Born at Frankfort, N. Y., April 26, 1858; now living in New York City.
The Play 2854

KENDALL, MAY
Born at Bridlington, Yorkshire, England, in 1861, and still living there.
Ballad, He said: "The shadows darken down" 1090

KEPPEL, CAROLINE
A Scotch writer, born in 1735; date of death unknown.
Robin Adair 979

KEY, FRANCIS SCOTT
Born in Frederick County, Md., August 9, 1780, died at Washington, D. C., January 11, 1843.
The Star-Spangled Banner 2196

KILMER, JOYCE
Born at New Brunswick, N. J., December 6, 1886, and now living in New York City.
Ballade of my Lady's Beauty 575
Gates and Doors 215
King's Ballad, The 1123
Trees 1407

KIMBALL, HARRIET MCEWEN
Born at Portsmouth, N. H., in November, 1834; and still living there.
White Azaleas 1467

KING, BEN [JAMIN FRANKLIN]
Born at St. Joseph, Mich., March 17, 1857; died at Bowling Green, Ky., April 7, 1894.
How Often 1950
If I Should Die To-night 1950

KING, GEORGIANA GODDARD
Born August 5, 1871, at West Columbia, W. Va.; now living at Bryn Mawr, Pa.
"A Man Called Dante, I Have Heard" 3084
Song, "Something calls and whispers" 1703

KING, HENRY
Born at Worminghall, Buckinghamshire, England, in January, 1592; died at Chichester, England, September 30, 1669.
A Contemplation upon Flowers 1466
Exequy, The 1228
On the Life of Man 2837

KINGSLEY, CHARLES
Born in Devonshire, England, June 12, 1819; died at Eversley, England, January 23, 1875.
Airly Beacon 1040
Dolcino to Margaret 1215
Farewell, A 125
Last Buccaneer, The 1630
Margaret to Dolcino 1215
Sands of Dee, The 1619
Sing Heigh-ho 735
Song, "Oh! that we two were Maying" 885
Three Fishers, The 1620
Tide River, The 1415
Young and Old 417

KINGSLEY, HENRY
Born at Barnack, Northamptonshire, England, in 1830; died, May 24, 1876.
Magdalen 3735

KINNEY, COATES
Born near Penn Yan, Yates County, N. Y., November 24, 1826; died in Ohio in 1904.
Rain on the Roof 458

KIPLING, RUDYARD
Born at Bombay, India, December 30, 1865; now living in Sussex, England.
Ballad of East and West, The 2830
Betrothed, The 860
Certain Maxims of Hafiz ... 1911
Commonplaces 1946
Conundrum of the Workshops, The 1884
Danny Deever 2293
Dedication, A 3816
Foreloper, The 1703
"Fuzzy-Wuzzy" 2533
General Summary 1919
Gipsy Trail, The 1677
Gunga Din 2294
Jane Smith 1926
Jam-pot, The 1939
L'Envoi 3504
Limerick, "There was a small boy of Quebec" 2090
Long Trail, The 1704
Mandalay 2638
Post that Fitted, The 2046
Recessional 2248
Sons of Martha, The 3072
Vampire, The 1045

KNOWLES, FREDERIC LAWRENCE
An American writer, born in 1869, died in 1905.
"If Love Were Jester at the Court of Death" 3474
Last Word, The 675
Laus Mortis 3487
Love Triumphant 1153
Memory, A 1152
On a Fly-leaf of Burns's Songs 3596
Song of Desire, A 1589
To Mother Nature 1299

KNOX, WILLIAM
Born at Firth, Roxburghshire, Scotland, August 17, 1789; died at Edinburgh, November 12, 1825.
"Oh, Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud" 3409

KOBBÉ, GUSTAV
Born in New York City, March 4, 1857; present address, Babylon, L. I.
From the Harbor Hill 1041
To a Little Girl 267

KYNASTON, [SIR] FRANCIS
Born at Oteley, Shropshire, England, in 1587; died in 1642.
To Cynthia on Concealment of her Beauty 529

L

LA CONTE, MARIE R.
An American writer of the middle-nineteenth century.
Somebody's Darling 2318

LAIGHTON, ALBERT
Born at Portsmouth, N. H., in 1829; died there in 1887.
Under the Leaves 1401

LAING, ALEXANDER
Born at Brechin, Forfarshire, Scotland, May 14, 1787; died there, October 14, 1857.
My ain Wife 1206

LAIRD, WILLIAM [PSEUD. OF WILLIAM LAIRD BROWN]
Born in Philadelphia, Pa., March 21, 1888; now living at Lansdowne, Pa.
A Very Old Song 1051

LAMAR, MIRABEAU BUONAPARTE
Born at Louisville, Ga., August 16, 1798; died at Richmond, Texas, December 19, 1859.
The Daughter of Mendoza . 569

LAMB, CHARLES
Born in London, England, February 10, 1775; died at Edmonton, England, December 27, 1834.
Anger 113
Hester 3547
Housekeeper, The 1514
Old Familiar Faces, The ... 453

LAMB, MARY ANN
Born in London, England, in 1764; died in 1847.
Anger 113
Choosing a Name 14

LANDOR, WALTER SAVAGE
Born at Warwick, England, January 30, 1775; died at Florence, Italy, September 17, 1864.
Advice 1710
"Around the Child" 356
Death 3491
Defiance 728
Epigrams 1916
"Fault is not Mine, The" .. 831
"I Strove with None" 3491
Late Leaves 406
Maid's Lament, The 1077
"Mother, I Cannot Mind My Wheel" 1040
Of Clementina 729
On Music 3131
One White Hair, The 362
Plays 1910
Resignation 2993
Rose Aylmer 622
Song, "Often I have heard it said" 686
Test, The 831
Time to be Wise 1709
To Age 406
To the Sister of Elia 3625

To Youth 354
Under the Lindens 1710
Verse, "Past ruined Ilion Helen lives" 3089
Years 407

LANG, ANDREW
Born at Selkirk, Scotland, March 31, 1844; died, London, Eng., July 20, 1912
Ballade of a Friar 1874
Ballade of Dead Ladies 1784
Ballade of Middle Age 363
Ballade of Summer 1769
Ballade of the Primitive Jest 1708
Homeric Unity 3083
Lost Love 849
Man and the Ascidian 1895
Odyssey, The 3083
Old Tune, An 920
Romance 1120
Scythe Song 1371
Villon's Ballade 1858

LANIER, SIDNEY
Born at Macon, Ga., February 3, 1842; died at Lynn, N. C., September 8, 1881.
Ballad of Trees and the Master, The 3776
Marshes of Glynn, The 1426
Song of the Chattahoochee . . 1423

LANIER, SIDNEY and CLIFFORD
The Power of Prayer 2038

LANIGAN, GEORGE THOMAS
Born on the St. Charles river, Canada, December 10, 1845; died at Philadelphia, Pa., February 5, 1886.
A Threnody 2069

LARCOM, LUCY
Born at Beverly, Mass., in 1824; died at Boston, April 17, 1893.
Brown Thrush, The 105
Hannah Binding Shoes 1624
Strip of Blue, A 1647

LATHROP, GEORGE PARSONS
Born at Oahu, Sandwich Islands, August 25, 1851; died in 1898.
Child's Wish Granted, The . 320
Keenan's Charge 2497

LAZARUS, EMMA
Born in New York City, July 22, 1849; died there in 1887.
The Crowing of the Red Cock 3254
The World's Justice 3255

LE GALLIENNE, RICHARD
Born at Liverpool, England, January 20, 1866; now living in New York City.
Old Man's Song, An 425
Passionate Reader to His Poet, The 3102
Second Crucifixion, The 3749
Song, "She's somewhere in the sunlight strong" 995
Song, "Take it, love" 510
Songs for Fragoletta 12
Spirit of Sadness 3362
What of the Darkness 3515
Wife from Fairyland, The . . 1130

LEA, FANNIE HEASLIP [MRS. HAMILTON POPE AGEE]
Born at New Orleans, La., October 30, 1884; now living at Honolulu, Hawaii.
The Dead Faith 3396

LEAR, EDWARD
Born in London, England, May 12, 1812; died at San Remo, Italy, in 1888.
Courtship of the Yonghy-Bonghy-Bô, The 2054
Jumblies, The 2050
Nonsense Verses 2057
Owl and the Pussy-cat, The 2052
Pobble Who Has no Toes, The 2053

LEARNED, WALTER
Born at New London, Conn., June 22, 1847; died there December 11, 1915.
Growing Old 742
In Explanation 743
On the Fly-leaf of a Book of Old Plays 1806
Prime of Life, The 805
Time's Revenge 743
To Critics 366

LECKY, WILLIAM EDWARD HARTPOLE
Born near Dublin, Ireland, March 26, 1838; died there October 22, 1903.
On an Old Song 3087

LEDOUX, LOUIS V.
Born in New York City, June 6, 1880, and still living there.
At Sunset 1144

LEE-HAMILTON, EUGENE JACOB
Born in London, England, January 6, 1845; died at the Bagni di Lucca, Italy, September 7, 1907.
Sonnets from "Mimma Bella" 323

LEHMANN, RUDOLPH CHAMBERS
Born near Sheffield, England, January 3, 1856; now living in Bucks, England.
Middle Age 363

LEIGH, HENRY SAMBROOKE
Born in London, England, March 29, 1837; died there, June 16, 1883.
Only Seven 1925
'Twas Ever Thus 1930
Twins, The 2068

LELAND, CHARLES GODFREY
Born at Philadelphia, Pa., August 15, 1824; died in 1903.
El Capitan-General 2026
Hans Breitmann's Party . . . 2152
The Legend of Heinz von Stein 2028

LETTS, WINIFRED, M.
An Irish writer, now living in Dublin.
The Spires of Oxford..... 2560

LEVER, CHARLES JAMES
Born at Dublin, Ireland, August 31, 1806; died at Triest, Austria-Hungary, June 1, 1872.
"The Pope He Leads a Happy Life"..... 2137
The Widow Malone..... 1973

LEWIS, MATTHEW GREGORY
Born in London, England, July 9, 1775; died at sea, of yellow fever, May 14, 1818.
Allan Water..... 1042

LIDDELL, CATHERINE C.
An English writer, born in 1848.
Jesus the Carpenter..... 3768

LINDSAY, NICHOLAS VACHEL
Born at Springfield, Ill., November 10, 1879, and still living there.
Eagle that is Forgotten, The 3587
General William Booth Enters into Heaven..... 3593
O. Henry..... 3610

LIPPMAN, JULIA MATHILDE
Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 27, 1864; now living in New York City.
Love and Life..... 924

LISSAUER, ERNST
A German writer, born in 1882, and still living.
Hassgesang gegen England. 3846

LITCHFIELD, GRACE DENIO
Born in New York City, November 19, 1849; present address, Washington, D. C.
My Other Me..... 436

LOCHORE, ROBERT
Born at Strathaven, Lanarkshire, Scotland, July 7, 1762; died at Glasgow, April 27, 1852.
Marriage and the Care O't. 748

LOCKER-LAMPSON, FREDERICK
Born at Greenwich, England, May 29, 1821; died at Rowfant, England, May 30, 1895.
At Her Window..... 708
Cuckoo, The..... 1537
Garden Lyric, A..... 1732
Love, Time, and Death.... 3458
Mrs. Smith..... 1733
My Mistress's Boots..... 1730
Nice Correspondent, A..... 1812
Rhyme of One, A..... 8
St. James's Street..... 2599
Skeleton in the Cupboard, The..... 1734
Terrible Infant, A..... 1736
To My Grandmother..... 1728
Widow's Mite, The..... 3554

LOCKHART, JOHN GIBSON
Born at Cambusnethan, Scotland, July 14, 1704; died at Abbotsford, November 25, 1854.
The Wandering Knight's Song..... 626

LODGE, THOMAS
Born, probably in London, England, about 1558; died there in 1625.
Rosalind's Madrigal..... 477

LOGAN, GEORGE B., Jr.
An American writer, no biographical data available.
Dawn..... 1328

LOGAN, JOHN
Born at Soutra, Fala, Midlothian, Scotland, in 1748; died in London, December 25, 1788.
The Braes of Yarrow..... 1065
To the Cuckoo..... 1536

LONGFELLOW, HENRY WADSWORTH
Born at Portland, Maine, February 27, 1807; died at Cambridge, Mass., March 24, 1882.
Arrow and the Song, The... 2923
Arsenal at Springfield, The. 3069
Ballad of the French Fleet, A 2421
Beleaguered City, The..... 2863
Belfry of Bruges, The..... 2627
Bridge, The..... 3356
Children's Hour, The..... 252
Christmas Bells..... 211
Day-break..... 3443
"Day is Done, The"..... 3355
Divina Commedia..... 3084
Endymion..... 500
Excelsior..... 2915
Fire of Drift-wood, The.... 3236
Flowers..... 1463
God's Acre..... 3439
Hymn to the Night..... 1327
Maidenhood..... 327
My Lost Youth..... 444
Nature..... 1301
Nuremberg..... 2632
Old Clock on the Stairs, The 3242
Paul Revere's Ride..... 2422
Psalm of Life, A..... 2914
Rainy Day, The..... 3350
Reaper and the Flowers, The 3418
Resignation..... 3510
Seaweed..... 3094
Serenade from "The Spanish Student"..... 705
Sir Humphrey Gilbert..... 2368
Skeleton in Armor, The.... 3323
Song, "Stay, stay at home, my heart, and rest"..... 3232
Song of the Silent Land.... 3456
Three Kings, The..... 216
Village Blacksmith, The.... 2916
Warden of the Cinque Ports, The..... 3770
Wreck of the Hesperus, The 2461

LOVELACE, RICHARD
Born in Kent, England, in 1618; died in London in 1658.
Rose, The..... 696

To Althea, from Prison.... 605
To Aramantha..... 533
To Lucasta, Going beyond the Seas..... 933
To Lucasta, Going to the Wars..... 933

LOVEMAN, ROBERT
Born at Cleveland, Ohio, April 11, 1864; present address, Dalton, Ga.
April Rain..... 1442

LOVER, SAMUEL
Born at Dublin, Ireland, February 24, 1797; died at St. Heliers, Jersey, July 6, 1868.
Ask and Have..... 754
Birth of St. Patrick, The... 1966
Father Land and Mother Tongue..... 3259
Father Molloy..... 1958
Low-backed Car, The..... 777
Paddy O'Rafther..... 1960
Rory O'More, or, Good Omens..... 753
Widow Machree..... 1974

LOW, BENJAMIN ROBBINS CURTIS,
Born at Fair Haven, Mass., June 22, 1880, and now living in New York City
To-day..... 663

LOWELL, AMY
Born in Brookline, Mass., February 9, 1874, and still living there.
Crowned..... 851
Patterns..... 1134

LOWELL, JAMES RUSSELL
Born at Cambridge, Mass., February 22, 1819; died there, August 12, 1891.
Aladdin..... 357
Auf Wiedersehen..... 990
Courtin', The..... 736
Debate in the Sennit, The.. 1840
Fatherland, The..... 3260
First Snow-fall, The..... 315
Hebe..... 852
Heritage, The..... 263
In the Twilight..... 450
June..... 1367
My Love..... 1213
Ode Recited at the Harvard Commemoration..... 2518
She Came and Went..... 314
To the Dandelion..... 1481
Washers of the Shroud, The 2488
What Mr. Robinson Thinks 1839
Without and Within..... 1764

LOWELL, MARIA WHITE
Born at Watertown, Mass., July 8, 1821; died at Cambridge, Mass., October 27, 1853.
The Morning-Glory..... 312

LOWELL, ROBERT TRAILL SPENCE
Born at Boston, Mass., October 8, 1816; died at Schenectady, N. Y., September 12, 1891.
The Relief of Lucknow..... 2475

LUCAS, EDWARD VERRALL
An English writer, born in 1868 and now living in London.
Clay..... 1768
Friends..... 3000
Mr. Coggs..... 162

LUCAS, ST. JOHN
An English writer; now living in London.
Pain..... 3353

LUCE, MORTON
Born at High Wycombe, Buckinghamshire, England, May 7, 1840; now living at Weston-Super-Mare, England.
Sonnets from "Thysia"..... 1273

LÜDERS, CHARLES HENRY
An American writer, born in 1858; died at Philadelphia, Pa., in 1891.
A Corsage Bouquet..... 1783
The Four Winds..... 1123

LULHAM, HABBERTON
No biographical data available.
Nested..... 1176

LUTHER, MARTIN
Born at Eisleben, Prussian Saxony, November 10, 1483; died there, February 18, 1546.
Ein Feste Burg..... 3831

LYLY, JOHN
Born in the Weald of Kent, England, about 1554; died in London in November, 1606.
Apollo's Song..... 520
Cupid and Campaspe..... 520

LYTE, HENRY FRANCIS
Born at Kelso, Scotland, June 1, 1793; died at Nice, France, November 20, 1847.
"Abide with Me"..... 3802

LYTLE, WILLIAM HAINES
Born at Cincinnati, Ohio, November 2, 1826; killed in the battle of Chickamauga, September 20, 1863.
Antony to Cleopatra..... 2346

LYTTELTON, LUCY (MRS. C. F. MASTERMAN)
An English writer, born in 1884, and now living in London.
Simon the Cyrenean..... 3753

LYTTLETON, GEORGE [FIRST BARON LYTTLETON]
Born at Hagley, Worcestershire, England, January 17, 1709; died there, August 22 1773.
"Tell me, my Heart, if This be Love"..... 535

LYTTON, EDWARD GEORGE EARLE LYTTON BULWER [FIRST BARON LYTTON]
Born in London, England, May 25,

1803; died at Torquay, Devonshire, England, January 18, 1873.
Night and Love..... 710

LYTTON, EDWARD ROBERT LYTTON BULWER [FIRST EARL OF LYTTON] [OWEN MEREDITH]
Born in London, Eng., Nov. 8, 1831; died in Paris, France, Nov. 24, 1891.
Aux Italiens..... 889
Chess-board, The..... 888
Portrait, The..... 1025
Since we Parted..... 641

M

MACAULAY, THOMAS BABINGTON [FIRST BARON MACAULAY]
Born in Leicestershire, Eng., Oct. 25, 1800; died in London, Dec. 28, 1859.
Armada, The..... 2370
Battle of Naseby, The..... 2392
Horatius at the Bridge..... 2329
Ivry..... 2374
Last Buccaneer, The..... 1631

MACCARTHY, DENIS ALOYSIUS
Born in County Tipperary, Ire., 1871; now living at East Cambridge, Mass.
"Ah, Sweet is Tipperary".. 2608

MACCARTHY, DENIS FLORENCE
Born at Dublin, Ireland, May 26, 1817; died at Blackrock, near Dublin, April 7, 1882.
Summer Longings..... 1363

MCCARTHY, JUSTIN HUNTLY
Born at Liverpool, England, in 1860; now living in London.
A Ballad of Dead Ladies.. 1785
If I Were King..... 1786

MCCREERY, JOHN LUCKEY
Born at Sweden, Monroe County, N. Y., December 21, 1835; died at Duluth, Minn., September 8, 1906.
"There is no Death"..... 3763

MACDERMOTT, MARTIN
Born at Dublin, Ire., April 8, 1823; died at Bristol, Eng., April 25, 1905.
"Girl of the Red Mouth".. 568

MACDONALD, GEORGE
Born at Huntly, West Aberdeenshire, Scotland, December 10, 1824; died at Ashtead, England, September 18, 1905.
Baby..... 4
Epigram..... 1917
Little White Lily..... 137
Sir Lark and King Sun: A Parable..... 180
That Holy Thing..... 3774
What Christ Said..... 3774
Wind and the Moon, The.. 133

MCGAFFEY, ERNEST
A Canadian poet, born in 1861, and now living at Victoria, British Columbia.
"I Fear no Power a Woman Wields"..... 1659

MCGEE, THOMAS D'ARCY
Born at Carlingford, County Louth, Ireland, April 13, 1825; came to America in 1842; murdered at Ottawa, Canada, April 7, 1888.
The Irish Wife..... 1207

MCGIFFERT, GERTRUDE HUNTINGTON
An American writer, now living in New York City.
A Maine Trail..... 1681

MCGROARTY, JOHN STEVEN
Born in Luzerne County, Pa., August 20, 1862; now living at Los Angeles, Cal.
"Blow, Bugles, Blow"..... 2316
The King's Highway..... 1685
The Port o' Heart's Desire. 1604

MACKAY, CHARLES
Born at Perth, Scotland, March 27, 1814; died in London, December 24, 1889.
Little and Great..... 2925
The Miller of the Dee..... 2982

MACKAY, ISABEL ECCLESTONE
An American writer, no biographical data available.
"When as a Lad"..... 356

MACKENZIE, H. C. COMPTON
Born at West Hartlepool, England, January 17, 1883; now living in London.
A Song of Parting..... 975

MACKINTOSH, NEWTON
Born January 9, 1858, and now living at Roxbury, Mass.
Lucy Lake..... 1926

MACLEOD, FIONA, see SHARP, WILLIAM.

MCLEOD, IRENE RUTHERFORD
An English writer, now living in London.
Song, "How do I love you" 580
"Where My Beloved Sleeping Lies"..... 924

MACMANUS, MRS. SEUMAS, see CARBERY, ETHNA.

MACMANUS, THEODORE F.
An American writer, no biographical data available.
Cave Sedem..... 2036

MCMASTER, GUY HUMPHREYS
Born at Clyde, N. Y., January 31, 1829; died at Bath, Steuben county, N. Y., September 13, 1887.
Carmen Bellicosum..... 2433

MAGINN, WILLIAM
Born at Cork, Ireland, July 10, 1793

died at Walton-on-Thames, England, August 21, 1842.
"I Give My Soldier Boy a Blade" 2287
The Irishman and the Lady 1962

MAHONY, FRANCIS SYLVESTER [FATHER PROUT]
Born at Cork, Ireland, in 1804; died at Paris, France, May 18, 1866.
The Bells of Shandon 2610
The Sabine Farmer's Serenade 1971

MAITLAND, DOLLIE, see RADFORD MRS. ERNEST.

MALONE, WALTER
Born in De Soto county, Miss., February 10, 1866; died at Memphis, Tenn., May 18, 1915.
Opportunity 2922

MANGAN, JAMES CLARENCE
Born at Dublin, Ireland, May 1, 1803; died in Meath Hospital, June 30, 1849.
Dark Rosaleen 2249
The Nameless One 3365

MANNING, FREDERIC
An English writer, now living at Edenham, Bourne, Lincolnshire.
Kore 1382

MANSFIELD, RICHARD
Born on the island of Helgoland, May 24, 1857; came to America at the age of seventeen; died in 1907.
The Eagle's Song 2207

MARKHAM, EDWIN
Born at Oregon City, Ore., April 23, 1852; now living at West New Brighton, Staten Island.
Invisible Bride, The 1132
Joy of the Morning 3100
Lincoln, the Man of the People 3639
The Man with the Hoe 3041
The Wharf of Dreams 3224

MARKS, MRS. L. S., see PEABODY, JOSEPHINE PRESTON.

MARLOWE, CHRISTOPHER
Born at Canterbury, England, in February 1564; killed in a street fight at Deptford, England, June 1, 1593.
The Passionate Shepherd to his Love 584

MAROT, CLÉMENT
Born at Cahors, France, in 1495; died at Turin, Italy, in 1544.
Ballade de Frère Lubin 3838

MARQUIS, DON (ROBERT PERRY)
Born at Walnut, Bureau County, Ill., July 29, 1878; now living in New York City.
A Little While 2911
The God-maker, Man 3065
The Name 2868

MARRYAT, FREDERICK
Born in London, England, July 10, 1792; died at Langham, Norfolk, England, August 9, 1848.
"The Captain Stood on the Carronade" 2125

MARSTON, PHILIP BOURKE
Born in London, England, August 13, 1850; died there, February 13, 1887.
After 898
After Summer 899
At the Last 1261
How My Songs of Her Began 1260
If You Were Here 981
Old Churchyard of Bonchurch, The 3436

MARTIN, ADA LOUISE
No biographical data available.
Sleep 3222

MARTIN, EDWARD SANDFORD
Born at Owasco, N. Y., January 2, 1856; now living in New York City.
A Girl of Pompeii 280
A Little Brother of the Rich 1859

MARVELL, ANDREW
Born at Winestead, in Holderness, Yorkshire, England, March 31, 1621; died in London, August 18, 1678.
Bermudas 2566
Garden, A 1448
Garden, The 1446
Horatian Ode upon Cromwell's Return from Ireland, An 2400
Nymph Complaining for the Death of Her Fawn 1817
Picture of Little T. C. in a Prospect of Flowers, The 273
To His Coy Mistress 607

MARZIALS, THÉOPHILE JULIUS HENRY
An English writer, born in 1850.
May Margaret 1145
Pastoral, A 1167
Tragedy, A 1040
Twickenham Ferry 761

MASEFIELD, JOHN
Born in Shropshire, England, in 1874; and now living in London.
August, 1914 2547
C. L. M. 397
Sea Fever 1590
Seekers, The 2863
Sonnets 3401

MASON, CAROLINE ATWATER
Born at Providence, R. I., July 10, 1853; now living at Beverly, Mass.
"En Voyage" 2993

MASSEY, GERALD
Born near Tring, England, May 29,

1828; died at South Norwood, England, October 29, 1907.
England 2240
His Banner Over Me 3768
"O, Lay Thy Hand in Mine, Dear" 1228
Our Wee White Rose 26
Parting 984

MASTERMAN, MRS. C. F., see LYTTELTON, LUCY.

MAXWELL, [SIR] WILLIAM STIRLING, see STIRLING-MAXWELL, SIR WILLIAM.

MAY, CURTIS
No biographical data available.
Tucking The Baby In 93

MAYNE, JOHN
Born at Dumfries, Scotland, March 26, 1759; died in London, England, March 14, 1836.
Hallowe'en 2028

MEREDITH, GEORGE
Born in Hampshire, England, in 1828; died in London, May 18, 1909.
Juggling Jerry 3312
Lines 1153
Love in the Valley 556
Lucifer in Starlight 3771
Marian 562
Question Whither, The 2860
Stanzas from "Modern Love" 1264

MEREDITH, OWEN, see LYTTON, EDWARD ROBERT LYTTON BULWER.

MEREDITH, WILLIAM TUCKER
An American writer, born in 1839, and now living in New York City,
Farragut 2507

MERIVALE, HERMAN CHARLES
Born at Dawlish, Devonshire, England, November 8, 1806; died in London, February 9, 1874.
"Ready, Ay, Ready" 2234

MERRICK, JAMES
Born at Reading, England, in 1720; died there in 1769.
The Chameleon 1875

MESSINGER, ROBERT HINCKLEY
Born at Boston, Mass., in 1811; died at Stamford, Conn., October 1, 1874.
Give Me the Old 2011

MEYNELL, [MRS.] ALICE CHRISTIANA [THOMPSON]
An English writer, born about 1853, and now living in London.
At Night 674
In Early Spring 1335
Lady Poverty, The 2934
"My Heart Shall be Thy Garden" 673
Renouncement 1263
San Lorenzo Giustiniani's Mother 3775
Shepherdess, The 393

MICKLE, WILLIAM JULIUS
Born at Langholm, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, September 28, 1735; died at Forest Hill, near Oxford, England, October 28, 1788.
The Sailor's Wife 1217

MIDDLETON, RICHARD
An English writer, born in 1882; committed suicide in Brussells in December, 1911.
Any Lover, Any Lass 578
Dream Song 236
For He Had Great Possessions 886
Lass that Died of Love, The 1052
Serenade 714
Song of the King's Minstrel, The 1056

MIDDLETON, THOMAS
Born, probably in London, England, about 1570; died at Newington Butts, England, in 1627.
Lips and Eyes 682

MIFFLIN, LLOYD
Born at Columbia, Pa., September 15, 1846, and still living there.
Flight, The 3575
"Harvest Waits, The" 3734
He Made the Night 1326
Sesostris 2847
Sovereigns, The 3105

MILLAY, EDNA ST. VINCENT
An American writer, born in 1892, and living at Camden, Me.
Ashes of Life 929
God's World 1302

MILLER, EMILY HUNTINGTON
Born at Brooklyn, Conn., October 22, 1833; died at St. Paul, Minn., November 2, 1913.
The Land of Heart's Desire 1206
The Wood-Dove's Note 1583

MILLER, JOAQUIN [CINCINNATUS HINER]
Born in Wabash District, Indiana, November 10, 1841; died at Oakland Heights, Cal., February 17, 1913.
Columbus 2366
Defence of the Alamo, The. 2458
Song, "There is many a love" 693
Tantalus—Texas 1007

MILLER, WILLIAM
Born at Glasgow, Scotland, in August, 1810; died there, August 20, 1872.
Willie Winkie 72

MILLIGAN, ALICE
Born at Omagh, Co. Tyrone, Ireland; and now living in Dublin.
Fainne Gael an Lae 2265

MILLIKIN, RICHARD ALFRED
Born at Castlemartyr, County Cork, Ireland, September 8, 1767; died at Cork, December 16, 1815.
The Groves of Blarney 2609

MILNES, RICHARD MONCKTON [FIRST BARON HOUGHTON]
Born in London, England, June 19, 1809; died at Vichy, France, August 11, 1885.
Brookside, The 1147
In Memoriam 3545
Palm-tree and the Pine, The 963
Shadows 837

MILTON, JOHN
Born in London, England, December 9, 1608; died there, November 8, 1674.
At a Solemn Music 3125
Epitaph on the Admirable Dramatic Poet, W. Shakespeare 3653
Il Penseroso 3147
L'Allegro 3143
Lycidas 3519
On His Blindness 2844
On the Late Massacre in Piedmont 2404
On the Morning of Christ's Nativity 223
Song: On May Morning 1358
Sonnet, "How soon hath Time, the subtle thief of youth" 359
Sonnet on His Having Arrived to the Age of Twenty-three 359
To the Nightingale 1551

MITCHELL, RUTH COMFORT (MRS. WILLIAM SANBORN YOUNG)
An American writer, born in San Francisco, and now living at Los Gatos, California.
The Night Court 3055

MITCHELL, S(ILAS) WEIR
Born in Philadelphia, February 15, 1829; died January 4, 1914.
Good-night 679

MITCHELL, WALTER
Born at Nantucket, Mass., January 22, 1826; died in New York City in 1908.
Tacking Ship Off Shore 1595

MONKHOUSE, WILLIAM COSMO
Born in London, England, March 18, 1840; died at Skegness, England, July 2, 1901.
Dead March, A 3540
Limerick 2089
Song of the Seasons, A 1331
To a New-born Child 9

MONRO, HAROLD
An English writer, born in 1879, and now living in London.
Dawn of Womanhood 390
"She Was Young and Blithe and Fair" 1051
Suburb 859
Youth in Arms 2555

MONROE, HARRIET
Born in 1860 at Chicago, Illinois, and still living there.
"I Love my Life, but not Too Well" 681
Mountain Song 3481
Now 2573
Shadow-Child, The 288

MONTGOMERY, JAMES
Born at Irvine, Ayrshire, Scotland, November 4, 1771; died, April 30, 1854.
At Home in Heaven 3702
Christ Our Example in Suffering 3799
Field Flower, A 1476
Good Tidings of Great Joy to all People 3798
Night 1325
Patriot's Pass-word, The 2353

MONTGOMERY, MARY, see FANE, VIOLET.

MONTROSE, MARQUIS of, see GRAHAM, JAMES.

MOODY, WILLIAM VAUGHN
Born at Spencer, Ind., July 8, 1869; died at Colorado Springs, Col., October 17, 1910.
An Ode in Time of Hesitation 2211
Gloucester Moors 2569
On a Soldier Fallen in the Philippines 2210
The Serf's Secret 667

MOORE, CHARLES LEONARD
Born at Philadelphia, Pa., March 16, 1854; and still living there.
"The Spring Returns" 1339

MOORE, CLEMENT CLARKE
Born in New York City, July 15, 1779; died at Newport, R. I., July 10, 1863.
A Visit from St. Nicholas 221

MOORE, THOMAS
Born at Dublin, Ireland, May 28, 1779; died at Bromham, near Devizes, England, February 25, 1852.
At the Mid Hour of Night 1079
"Believe Me, if all those Endearing Young Charms" . 624
"Bird, Let Loose in Eastern Skies, The" 3715

Canadian Boat-song 1426
Cupid Stung 488
Dear Fanny 730
Epigrams 1918
"Farewell! But Whenever" 3015
"Fill the Bumper Fair" 2002
Journey Onwards, The 3360
Light of Other Days, The .. 454
Love's Young Dream 864
Minstrel Boy, The 2302
My Birth-day 358
"Oh, Breathe Not His Name" 3609
"Peace to the Slumberers" 2302
"Row Gently Here" 700
"She is Far from the Land" 1078
Snake, The 831
Sweet Innisfallen 2607
"Take Back the Virgin Page" 623
Temple of Friendship, A ... 832
"This World is all a Fleeting Show" 3699
"Time I've Lost in Wooing, The" 729
"'Tis the Last Rose of Summer" 1505
To Fanny 1711
When I Loved You 832
"Wreathe the Bowl" 2003
"Young May Moon, The". 699

MORGAN, BESSIE

An American writer; no biographical data available.

"Spăcially Jim" 2183

MORRIS, CHARLES

Born, probably at Bell Bridge, near Carlisle, England, in 1745; died at Brockham, England, July 11, 1838.

"A Reason Fair to Fill my Glass" 1997

MORRIS, GEORGE POPE

Born at Philadelphia, Pa., October 10, 1802; died in New York City, July 6, 1864.

The Retort 2175
"Woodman, Spare that Tree" 1409

MORRIS, HARRISON SMITH

Born at Philadelphia, Pa., October 4, 1856, and still living there.

June 1369

MORRIS, [SIR] LEWIS

Born at Carmarthen, Wales, January 23, 1833; died at Penbyn, Wales, November 12, 1907.

The Surface and the Depths 499
To a Child of Fancy 340

MORRIS, WILLIAM

Born near London, England, March 24, 1834; died in London, Oct. 3, 1896.

March 1350
Nymph's Song to Hylas, The 894
Praise of My Lady 562
Shameful Death 2746
Singer's Prelude, The 3080
Song, "Fair is the night, and fair the day" 977
Voice of Toil, The 3017

MORSE, SIDNEY HENRY

No biographical data available.

The Way 2973

MORTON, DAVID

Born at Elkton, Ky., February 21, 1886; now living at Louisville, Ky.

Immortalis 3401

MOTHERWELL, WILLIAM

Born at Glasgow, Scotland, October 13, 1797; died there, November 1, 1835.

Cavalier's Song, The 2282
Jeanie Morrison 955
Last Verses 3496
"Sing on, Blithe Bird" 102

MOULTON, LOUISE CHANDLER

Born at Pomfret, Conn., April 10, 1835; died at Boston, Mass., in 1908.

Laus Veneris 913
Love's Resurrection Day ... 1112
Shadow Dance, The 854
Somebody's Child 345
"Spring is Late, The" 3741
Summer Wooing, A 1032
Tryst, A 1111
"Were but My Spirit Loosed Upon the Air" 1262

MUHLENBERG, WILLIAM AUGUSTUS

Born at Philadelphia, Pa., September 16, 1796; died in New York City, April 8, 1877.

"I Would not Live Alway". 3476

MULHOLLAND, ROSA [LADY GILBERT]

Born at Belfast, Ireland, and now living at Dublin.

Love and Death 1104

MUNBY, ARTHUR JOSEPH

Born in Yorkshire, England, in 1828; died near Ripley, Eng., Jan. 29, 1910.

Doris 1201

MURRAY, ADA FOSTER [MRS. HENRY MILLS ALDEN]

An American writer, now living in New York City.

Above Salerno 2616
Her Dwelling-place 1129
Old-fashioned Poet, An 3089
Prevision 1373
Unguarded 1455

MURRAY, KENTON FOSTER

An American writer, now living at Washington, D. C.

Challenge 320

MYERS, FREDERIC WILLIAM HENRY
Born at Keswick, England, February 6, 1843; died at Rome, January 17, 1901.
The Inner Light 3730

N

NADAUD, GUSTAVE
Born at Roubaix, France, February 20, 1820; died in 1893.
Carcassonne 3844

NAIRNE, CAROLINA OLIPHANT [BARONESS NAIRNE]
Born in Perthshire, Scotland, August 16, 1766; died there, October 26, 1845.
Auld House, The 3234
Caller Herrin' 1622
Heavenward 3700
Laird o' Cockpen, The 2013
Land o' the Leal, The 3699
Lass o' Gowrie, The 773
Lullaby 81
"Rest is not Here" 3701
Rowan Tree, The 3236

NASHE, THOMAS
Born at Lowestoft, England, in 1567; died in London in 1601.
Death's Summons 3453
Spring 1336

NASON, EMMA HUNTINGTON
Born at Hallowell, Me., August 6, 1845, and now living at Augusta, Me.
The Cricket's Story 145

NEAL, JOHN
Born at Falmouth, Mass., August 25, 1793; died there June 21, 1876.
Good King Wenceslas 3752

NEALE, JOHN MASON
An English writer, born about 1818; died in 1866.
Jerusalem 3689

NEELE, HENRY
Born in London, England, January 29, 1798; suicided there, February 7, 1828.
"Moan, Moan, Ye Dying Gales" 3351

NEIHARDT, JOHN GNEISENAU
Born near Sharpsburg, Ill., January 8, 1881; now living at Bancroft, Neb.
Battle Cry 2952
Child's Heritage, The 279
Envoi 3505
Outward 1599
Prayer for Pain 2940
When I Have Gone Weird Ways 3498

NERVAL, GÉRARD DE [GÉRARD LABRUNIE]
Born in Paris, May 21, 1808; suicided there, January 25, 1855.
Fantaisie 3842

NESBIT, EDITH [MRS. HUBERT BLAND]
Born in London, England, in 1858, and now living in Kent, England.
Baby Seed Song 135
Child's Song in Spring 135
Tragedy, A 1019

NEWBOLT, HENRY JOHN
Born at Bilston, England, June 6, 1862; now living in London.
Craven 2509
Drake's Drum 3607
Fighting Téméraire, The 2444
He Fell Among Thieves 2797
Messmates 1629
Moss-rose, The 3550
Only Son, The 2324

NEWMAN, JOHN HENRY
Born in London, England, February 21, 1801; died at Edgbaston, England, August 11, 1890.
The Pillar of the Cloud 3804

NICOLL, ROBERT
Born in the parish of Auchtergaven, Perthshire, Scotland, January 7, 1814; died near Edinburgh, December 7, 1837.
The Hero 3244
"We Are Brethren A'" 3035

NOEL, RODEN BERKELEY WRIOTHESLEY
An English writer, born in Kent, August 27, 1834; died at Mainz, Germany, May 26, 1894.
A Casual Song 1049
"I Flung Me Round Him" 3213

NOEL, THOMAS
Born at Kirby-Mallory, Leicestershire, England, May 11, 1799; died at Brighton, England, May 16, 1861.
Old Winter 1386

NORTON, CAROLINE ELIZABETH SARAH
Born in London, England, in 1808; died, June 15, 1877.
Bingen on the Rhine 2634
"I do not love Thee" 962
King of Denmark's Ride, The 1088
Love Not 871

NORTON, GRACE FALLOW
An American writer now living in Ulster Co., New York.
Little Gray Songs from St. Joseph's 3399
"Love is a Terrible Thing" 1014
O Sleep 3224
"O World, be not so Fair" 3483
"This is my Love for You" 681

NOYES, ALFRED
Born in Staffordshire, England, September 16, 1880; and now living at Rottingdean, Sussex.
Barrel-organ, The 3025
Edinburgh 2603

Highwayman, The 2809
"In the Cool of the Evening" 1316
Love's Rosary 999
Song of Sherwood, A 2591
Song, "I came to the door of the House of Love" 511
Unity 670
"When Spring Comes Back to England 1348

O

O'CONNER, MICHAEL
Born at Eastchester, N. Y., in 1837; died at Potomac Station, Va., December 28, 1862.
Reveille 2286

O'HARA, THEODORE
Born at Danville, Ky., in 1820; died near Guerryton, Ala., in 1867.
The Bivouac of the Dead ... 2310

O'KEEFE, ADELAIDE
An English writer, born in 1776, died about 1855.
The Butterfly 116

O'NEILL, MOIRA (Pseud. of MRS. NESTA HIGGINSON SKRINE)
Born at Cushendall, Co. Antrim, Ireland, and still living there.
Birds 1521
Corrymeela 2604
"Forgettin'" 800
Song of Glenann, A 2605

O'REILLY, JOHN BOYLE
Born at Dowth Castle, County Meath, Ireland, June 28, 1844; exiled to Australia, but escaped to the United States in 1869; died at Hull, Mass., August 10, 1890.
Forever 3571
Lure, The 1905
What is Good 2918
White Rose, A 657

O'SHAUGHNESSY, ARTHUR WILLIAM EDGAR
Born in London, England, March 14, 1844, died there, January 30, 1884.
Enchainment 1008
"If She but Knew" 978
Love Symphony, A 647
Ode, "We are the music-makers" 3128
St. John Baptist 3740
Song, "Has summer come without the rose" 897
Song, "I made another garden, yea" 896

O SHEEL, SHAEMAS
Born in New York City, September 19, 1886, and still living there.
"He Whom a Dream Hath Possessed" 2938
Lover Thinks of His Lady in the North, The 996
Mary's Baby 214
"They Went Forth to Battle but They always Fell" ... 2946

O'SULLIVAN, SEUMAS
Born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1878.
My Sorrow 3362
Praise 582

OLDMIXON, JOHN
Born at Oldmixon, near Bridgewater, England, in 1673; died in London, July 9, 1742.
"I lately Vowed, but 'twas in Haste" 826

OPDYCKE, JOHN BAKER ("OLIVER OPDYKE")
Born at Doylestown, Pa., February 28, 1878; now living in New York City.
My Road 657

OPPENHEIM, JAMES
Born at St. Paul, Minn., May 24, 1882; now living in New York City.
Immoral 2097
Reason, The 1164
Saturday Night 3024

ORR, PATRICK
No biographical data available.
Annie Shore and Johnnie Doon 1057

OSBORN, SELLECK
Born at Trumbull, Conn., in 1783; died at Philadelphia, Pa., October 1, 1826.
A Modest Wit 1845

OSGOOD, FRANCES SARGENT
Born at Boston, Mass., June 18, 1811; died at Hingham, Mass., May 12, 1850.
Calumny 2924

OSGOOD, KATE PUTNAM
Born at Freyburg, Me., in 1841.
Driving Home the Cows 2517

OTWAY, THOMAS
Born at Trotton, near Midhurst, Sussex, England, March 3, 1652; died in London, April 14, 1685.
The Enchantment 613

OUTRAM, GEORGE
Born at the Clyde ironworks, near Glasgow, Scotland, March 25, 1805; died at Rosemore, Scotland, September 15, 1856.
The Annuity 2132

OWEN MEREDITH, see LYTTON, EDWARD ROBERT LYTTON BULWER.

OXFORD, EARL OF, see VERE, EDWARD.

P

PACKARD, WINTHROP
Born at Boston, Mass., March 7, 1862, and still living there.
The Shoogy-Shoo 447

PAI TA-SHUN, see PETERSON, FREDERICK.

PAIN, BARRY
An English writer; now living in London.
The Poets at Tea 1953

PAINE, ALBERT BIGELOW
Born at New Bedford, Mass., July 10, 1861; now living at Redding, Conn.
The Hills of Rest 3577

PALGRAVE, FRANCIS TURNER
Born at Great Yarmouth, England, September 28, 1824; died at Oxford, October 24, 1897.
Crecy 2352
"God Save Elizabeth" 2373

PALMER, ALICE FREEMAN
Born at Colesville, N. Y., February 21, 1855; died at Cambridge, Mass., December 6, 1902.
Butterfly, The 1519
Hallowed Places 632
Spring Journey, A 1147

PALMER, JOHN WILLIAMSON
Born at Baltimore, Md., April 4, 1825; died there in 1906.
Fight at San Jacinto, The . . 2459
For Charlie's Sake 308
Maryland Battalion, The . . . 2429
Stonewall Jackson's Way . . . 2288

PALMER, RAY
Born at Little Compton, R. I., November 12, 1808; died at Newark, N. J., March 29, 1887.
Faith 3810
"I Saw Thee" 3769

PALMER, WILLIAM PITT
Born at Stockbridge, Mass., February 22, 1805; died at Brooklyn, N. Y., May 2, 1884.
The Smack in School 2136

PARKER, THEODORE
Born at Lexington, Mass., August 24, 1810; died at Florence, Italy, May 10, 1860.
The Higher Good 2069
The Way, the Truth, and the Life 3730

PARRISH, RANDALL
Born in Henry County, Illinois, June 10, 1858; now living at Kewanee, Illinois.
Your Lad, and My Lad 2563

PARSONS, THOMAS WILLIAM
Born at Boston, Mass. August 18, 1819; died at Scituate, Mass., September 3, 1892.
Dirge 2314
Her Epitaph 3545
Obituary 278
On a Bust of Dante 3604
Saint Peray 2005

PARTRIDGE, SYBIL F.
An English writer; now Sister Mary Xavier, a teacher in a conventual school at Liverpool.
"Just for To-day" 3808

PATMORE, COVENTRY KERSEY DIGHTON
Born at Woodford, Essex, England, July 23, 1823; died at Lymington, England, November 26, 1896.
Departure 974
Farewell, A 974
"If I were Dead" 296
Joyful Wisdom, The 2953
Married Lover, The 1212
Preludes from "The Angel in the House" 384
Toys, The 296

PAYNE, JOHN
An English writer, who died in 1800.
Kyrielle 2840
Rondeau Redoublé 542

PAYNE, JOHN HOWARD
Born in New York City, June 9, 1792; died at Tunis, April 10, 1852.
Home, Sweet Home 3226

PEABODY, JOSEPHINE PRESTON [MRS. L. S. MARKS]
Born in New York City in 1874, and now living at Cambridge, Mass.
Cradle Song 88
Singing Man, The 3045
Spinning in April 1357

PEACOCK, THOMAS LOVE
Born at Weymouth, England, October 18, 1785; died in London, January 23, 1866.
Castles in the Air 435
Grave of Love, The 865
"In the Days of Old" 489
Love and Age 790
Song. "Oh! say not woman's heart is bought" 489

PEALE, REMBRANDT
Born in Bucks county, Pa., February 22, 1778; died at Philadelphia, Pa., October 3, 1860.
"Don't be Sorrowful, Darling" 1220

PECK, HARRY THURSTON
Born at Stamford, Conn., November 24, 1856, died March 23, 1914.
Heliotrope 1124

PECK, SAMUEL MINTURN
Born at Tuskaloosa, Ala., November 4, 1854; and still living there.
Captain's Feather, The 2305
My Grandmother's Turkey-tail Fan 1804

PEELE, GEORGE
An English writer, born about 1558, died about 1597.
A Farewell to Arms 399

PERCIVAL, JAMES GATES
Born at Berlin, Conn., September 15, 1795; died at Hazel Green, Wis., May 2, 1856.
"It is Great for our Country to Die" 2303

PERCY, THOMAS
Born at Brignorth, England, April 13, 1729; died at Dromore, Ireland, September 30, 1811.
Friar of Orders Gray, The . . 2710
"O Nancy, Wilt Thou Go With Me" 618

PERCY, WILLIAM ALEXANDER
Born in Greenville, Miss., May 14, 1885, and still living there.
A Little Page's Song 115

PERRONET, EDWARD
Born in England in 1721; died at Canterbury, England, January 8, 1792.
Coronation 3792

PERRY, NORA
Born at Dudley, Mass., in 1832; died there in 1896.
Love-knot, The 798
Riding Down 799
"Some Day of Days" 658

PETERSON, FREDERICK
Born at Faribault, Minn., March 1, 1859; now living in New York City.
The Bridge 3257
Wild Geese 1582

PHILIPS, AMBROSE
An English writer, born about 1675; died in 1749.
To Charlotte Pulteney 273

PHILLPOTTS, EDEN
Born at Mount Aboo, India, November 4, 1862; now living at Torquay, England.
Man's Days 2910

PIATT, SARAH MORGAN BRYAN
Born at Lexington, Ky., August 11, 1836; now living at North Bend, Hamilton county, Ohio.
After Wings 119
Into the World and Out 27
Witch in the Glass, The 157

PICKTHALL, MARJORIE LOWRY CHRISTIE
Born in London, England, September 14, 1883, and still living there.
Child's Song of Christmas, A 219
Duna 3241
Lamp of Poor Souls, The . . 3552
Little Sister of the Prophet, The 3071
Lovers of Marchaid, The . . . 994
Mother in Egypt, A 3558

PIERPONT, JOHN
Born at Litchfield, Conn., April 6, 1785; died at Medford, Mass., August 27, 1866.
My Child 318
The Pilgrim Fathers 2390
Warren's Address at Bunker Hill 2428

PIKE, ALBERT
Born at Boston, Mass., December 29, 1809; died at Washington, D.C., April 2, 1891.
Dixie 2219

PINKNEY, EDWARD COATE
Born in London, England, October 1, 1802; brought to America at the age of nine; died at Baltimore, Md., April 11, 1828.
Health, A 387
Serenade 704
Song, "We break the glass, whose sacred wine" 905

PIOZZI, HESTER THRALE
Born at Bodvel, near Pwllheli, Carnarvonshire, Wales, January 16, 1741; died at Bath, England, May 2, 1821.
The Three Warnings 2102

PLUNKETT, EDWARD JOHN MORLTON DRAX [18th BARON DUNSANY]
Born at Dunsany Castle, County Meath, Ireland, July 24, 1878, and still living there.
Songs from an Evil Wood . . 2557

PLARR, VICTOR GUSTAVE
An English writer, born June 21, 1863, and now living in London.
Che Sara Sara 1170

POE, EDGAR ALLAN
Born at Boston, Mass., January 19, 1809; died at Baltimore, Md., October 7, 1849.
Annabel Lee 1105
Bells, The 3174
City in the Sea, The 3417
Conqueror Worm, The 3416
Eldorado 3397
For Annie 1107
Haunted Palace, The 3168
Israfel 3077
Raven, The 3170
To Helen 551
To One in Paradise 1105

POPE, ALEXANDER
Born in London, England, May 21, 1688; died at Twickenham, England, May 30, 1744.
Dying Christian to His Soul, The 3489
Elegy to the Memory of an Unfortunate Lady 3530
Epigrams 1916, 1918
Ode on Solitude 1635
On a Certain Lady at Court 380
Universal Prayer 3788

POULSSON, ANNE EMILIE
Born at Cedar Grove, N. J., September 8, 1853, now living at Hopkinton, Mass.
Baby's Breakfast 56
Bed-time Song 92
Breakfast Song, The 42
Lovable Child, The 99

POUND, EZRA
Born at Haley, Idaho, October 30, 1885; now living on London.
Ballad of the Goodly Fere 2814
Immorality, An 452

POWERS, HORATIO NELSON
Born at Amenia, Dutchess county, N. Y., April 30, 1826; died in 1890.
Chimney Swallows 1575
Our Sister 389

PRAED, WINTHROP MACKWORTH
Born in London, England, July 26, 1802; died there, July 15, 1839.
Belle of the Ball-room, The 1718
Letter of Advice, A 1809
Newly-Wedded, The 1195
Talented Man, The 1807
To —— 1714
To Helen 791
Vicar, The 1715

PRATT, ANNA MARIA
Born at Chelsea, Mass., and later a resident of Cleveland, Ohio.
A Mortifying Mistake 166

PRESCOTT, MARY NEWMARCH
Born at Calais, Me., August 2, 1849; died in 1888.
"In the Dark, in the Dew" .. 652

PRIEST, NANCY WOODBURY [WAKEFIELD]
An American writer, born in 1836, died in 1870.
"Over the River" 3509

PRINGLE, THOMAS
Born at Blaiklaw, Teviotdale, Roxburghshire, Scotland, January 5, 1789; died in London, England, December 5, 1834.
"Afar in the Desert" 1669

PRIOR, MATTHEW
Born, probably in East Dorset, England, July 21, 1664; died at Wimpole, Cambridgeshire, England, September 18, 1721.
Epigrams 1917
Female Phæton, The 1904
For My Own Monument 1861
Reasonable Affliction, A 1907
Remedy Worse than the Disease, The 1910
Song, "In vain you tell your parting lover" 937
Song, "The merchant to secure his treasure" 720
To a Child of Quality 276
To Chloe Jealous 766

PROCTER, ADELAIDE ANNE
Born in London, England, October 30, 1825; died there, February 3, 1864.
Doubting Heart, A 2865
Lost Chord, A 3398
One by One 3761
Woman's Question, A 1162

PROCTER, BRYAN WALLER [BARRY CORNWALL]
Born in London, England, November 21, 1787; died there, October 4, 1874.
Blood Horse, The 1520
Poet's Song to His Wife, The 1223
Sea, The 1592
"Softly Woo Away Her Breath" 3548
Song for the Seasons, A 1330
Stormy Petrel, The 1572

PROCTOR, EDNA DEAN
Born at Henniker, N. H., October 10, 1838; now living at Framingham, Mass.
Forward 3733
Heroes 2322
Take Heart 3732

PROUT, FATHER, see MAHONY, FRANCIS SYLVESTER.

Q

QUARLES, FRANCIS
Born at Ramford, Essex, England, May 8, 1592; died in London, September 8, 1644.
Divine Rapture, A 3742

QUILLER-COUCH, [SIR] ARTHUR THOMAS
Born in Cornwall, England, November 21, 1863, and still living there.
Chant Royal of High Virtue 2957
Sage Counsel 2082
Splendid Spur, The 2959

R

RADFORD, MRS. ERNEST [DOLLIE MAITLAND]
An English writer, born in 1858; and now living in London.
Plymouth Harbor 667

RALEIGH, [SIR] WALTER
Born at Hayes, Devonshire, England,

about 1552; beheaded in the Tower of London, October 29, 1618.
Conclusion, The 3453
His Pilgrimage 3451
Lie, The 3449
"Now What is Love" 475
Nymph's Reply to the Passionate Shepherd, The ... 585
"Wrong Not, Sweet Empress of My Heart" 586

RAMSAY, ALLAN
Born at Leadhills, parish of Crawford, Lanarkshire, Scotland, October 15, 1686; died at Edinburgh, January 7, 1758.
My Peggy 534
Lochaber no More 940
Song, "At setting day and rising morn" 940
Widow, The 2020

RAND, KENNETH
Born at Minneapolis, Minn., May 8, 1891; now living at New Haven, Conn.
The Lonely Road 893

RANDALL, JAMES RYDER
Born at Baltimore, Md., January 1, 1839; died at Augusta, Ga., in 1908.
My Maryland 2220

RANDOLPH, THOMAS
Born at Newnhamcum-Badby, Northamptonshire, England, June 15, 1605; died at Blatherwick, England, in March, 1635.
Devout Lover, A 531
Ode to Master Anthony Stafford, An 1649

RANDS, WILLIAM BRIGHTY
Born in London, England, December 24, 1823; died at East Dulwich, Surrey, England, April 23, 1882.
First Tooth, The 56
Peddler's Caravan, The ... 161
Reformation of Godfrey Gore, The 114
Wonderful World, The 126

RANKIN, JEREMIAH EAMES
Born at Thornton, N. H., January 2, 1828; died at Washington, D. C., in 1904.
The Babie 19
"The Word of God to Leyden Came" 2386

RAYMOND, ROSSITER WORTHINGTON
Born at Cincinnati, Ohio, April 27, 1840; now living in New York City.
Christus Consolator 3773

READ, THOMAS BUCHANAN
Born in Chester county, Pa., March 12, 1822; died in New York City, May 11, 1872.
Brave at Home, The 2318
Closing Scene, The 3419
Drifting 1609
Sheridan's Ride 2510

REALF, RICHARD
Born at Framfield, Sussex, England, June 14, 1834; came to the United States in 1854; killed himself at Oakland, Cal., October 28, 1878.
De Mortuis Nil Nisi Bonum. 3367
Indirection 2870
Old Man's Idyl, An 1222

REESE, LIZETTE WOODWORTH
Born in Baltimore county, Md., January 9, 1856, and still living at Baltimore.
After 1127
"Love Came back at Fall o' Dew" 1016
"Lydia is Gone this Many a Year" 1126
Road of Remembrance, The 449
Robert Louis Stevenson ... 3657
Tears 2855
That Day You Came 660
Wise 3387

RHYS, ERNEST
Born in London, England, July 17, 1859; and still living there.
Dagonet's Canzonet 545

RICE, CALE YOUNG
Born at Dixon, Ky., December 7, 1872; now living at Louisville, Ky.
Chanson of the Bells of Oseney 2818
Kinchinjunga 1434
New Dreams for Old 2851
On the Moor 307

RICE, WALLACE DE GROOT CECIL
Born at Hamilton, Canada, November 10, 1859; now living in Chicago, Ill.
Sweet Clover 1472

RICH, HIRAM
No biographical data available.
Jerry an' Me 1219

RICHARDS, LAURA ELIZABETH
Born at Boston, Mass., February 27, 1850; now living at Gardiner, Me.
Bird Song 1555
Difference, The 59
In Foreign Parts 2084
Nursery Song, A 165
Owl and the Eel and the Warming-pan, The 47
Prince Tatters 155

RIDDELL, HENRY SCOTT
Born at Sorbie, Dumfriesshire, Scotland, September 23, 1798; died at Teviothead, Scotland, July 30, 1870.
Scotland Yet 2268

RILEY, JAMES WHITCOMB
Born at Greenfield, Ind., in 1852; died at Indianapolis, Ind., July 22, 1916.
Life-Lesson, A 349

Little Orphant Annie . . . 169
Man in the Moon, The . . . 168
Old Swimmin' Hole, The . . . 468
Our Hired Girl . . . 171
Parting Guest, A . . . 3507
Raggedy Man, The . . . 166
When She Comes Home . . . 1000
"When the Frost is on the Punkin" . . . 1381

RIVES, AMÉLIE [PRINCESS TROUBETZKOY]
Born at Richmond, Va., August 23, 1863, and now living at Cobham, Albemarle county, Va.
My Laddie . . . 676

ROBERT II. OF FRANCE
Born at Orleans, France, in 971; died at Melun, France, in 1031.
Veni, Sancte Spiritus . . . 3822

ROBERTS, CHARLES GEORGE DOUGLAS
Born at Douglas, New Brunswick, January 10, 1860, and now living in New York City.
Afoot . . . 1682
April Adoration, An . . . 1354
Frosted Pane, The . . . 1388
Hawkbit, The . . . 1539
Recessional, The . . . 3480
When the Sleepy Man Comes . . . 70

ROBERTS, GEORGE EDWARD THEODORE
Born at Fredericton, N. B., in 1877, and still living there.
The Maid . . . 2834

ROBERTSON, HARRISON
Born at Murfreesboro, Tenn., January 16, 1856, and now living at Louisville, Ky.
Kentucky Philosophy . . . 2041
Two Triolets . . . 1783

ROBERTSON, W. GRAHAM
An English writer born in 1867; now living in London.
Glad Day . . . 139

ROBINSON, AGNES MARY FRANCES [MADAME DUCLAUX]
Born at Leamington, England, in 1857, and now living in Paris, France.
Ballad of Orleans, A . . . 2364
Dawn-Angels . . . 1309
Orchard at Avignon, An . . . 1414
Temple Garlands . . . 442
Twilight . . . 420

ROBINSON, CORINNE ROOSEVELT
Born in New York City, September 27, 1861, and still living there.
Life, a Question . . . 2908

ROBINSON, EDWIN ARLINGTON
Born at Head Tide, Me., December 22, 1869; now living at Gardiner, Me.
Field of Glory, The . . . 3067
Master, The . . . 3640
Miniver Cheevy . . . 1881
Old King Cole . . . 1797
Twilight Song . . . 3011

ROCHE, JAMES JEFFREY
Born at Mountmellick, Queen's County, Ireland, May 31, 1847; came to America in infancy; died at Genoa, Italy, in 1908.
Andromeda . . . 2253
Don't . . . 741
If . . . 740
Net of Law, The . . . 1911
V-a-s-e, The . . . 1886

ROCHESTER, EARL OF, see WILMOT, JOHN.

RODD, [SIR] JAMES RENNELL
An English writer, born November 9, 1858, and now living in Rome.
A Song of Autumn . . . 985

RODGER, ALEXANDER
Born at Mid-Calder, Midlothian, Scotland, July 16, 1784; died at Glasgow, September 26, 1846.
"Behave Yourself' Before Folk" . . . 751

ROGERS, ROBERT CAMERON
Born at Buffalo, N. Y., January 7, 1862; died, April 20, 1912, at Santa Barbara, Cal.
The Rosary . . . 1140

ROGERS, SAMUEL
Born at Stoke Newington, England, July 30, 1763; died in London, December 18, 1855.
On a Tear . . . 3380
Sleeping Beauty, The . . . 699
Wish, A . . . 1634

ROLLESTON, THOMAS WILLIAM
Born at Glasshouse, Shinrone, King's County, Ireland, in 1857; now living at Hampstead, England.
Dead at Clonmacnois, The . . . 2607
Night . . . 3469

ROMANES, GEORGE JOHN
Born at Kingston, Can., May 20, 1848; died at Oxford, Eng. May 23, 1894.
Simple Nature . . . 1658

ROONEY, JOHN JEROME
Born at Binghamton, N. Y., March 19, 1866; now living in New York City.
The Men Behind the Guns . . . 2297

ROSCOE, WILLIAM CALDWELL
Born at Liverpool, England, September 20, 1823; died at Richmond, Surrey, England, July 30, 1859.
For Ever . . . 990

ROSE, ALEXANDER MACGREGOR
Born at Tomantoul, South Banffshire, Scotland, August, 17, 1846; died at Montreal, Canada, May 10, 1898.
Hoch! der Kaiser . . . 1849

ROSS, ALEXANDER
Born in the parish of Kincardine O'Neil, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, April 13, 1699; died at Lochlee, Angus, Scotland, May 20, 1784.
"Wooed and Married and A'" 746

ROSSETER, PHILIP
An English writer, born about 1575; died in London, May 5, 1623.
All is Vanity 2838

ROSSETTI, CHRISTINA GEORGINA
Born in London, England, Dec. 5, 1830; died there, Dec. 20, 1894.
Better Resurrection, A 3461
Bourne, The 3415
City Mouse and the Country Mouse, The 44
Consider 1481
First Day, The 1223
"Heaven Overarches Earth and Sea" 3706
Holy Innocents 85
Meeting 1223
Next of Kin 3460
Paradise 3705
Remember 1224
Rest 1224
Song, "When I am dead, my dearest" 1102
Summer is Ended, The 3462
Three Seasons 452
Uphill 3415
"Who Has Seen the Wind" 130

ROSSETTI, DANTE GABRIEL
Born in London, England, May 12, 1828; died at Birchington, near Margate, England, April 10, 1882.
Ballad of Dead Ladies, The. 1783
Blessed Damozel, The 3198
Choice, The 3568
House of Life, The, sonnets from 1255
One Hope, The 3473
Song of the Bower, The 903
Sonnet, The 3107
Sunset Wings 3375
Superscription, A 435
Three Shadows 640
Vain Virtues 2866

ROSSLYN, EARL OF, see ERSKINE, F. R. St. C.

ROUGET DE LISLE, CLAUDE JOSEPH
Born at Montaigu, Lous-le-Saulnier, France, May 10, 1760; died at Choisy-le-Roi, near Paris, June 27, 1836.
La Marseillaise 3836
The Marseillaise 2271

ROWLANDS, RICHARD
An English writer, who died in 1620.
A Lullaby 78

RUSKIN, JOHN
Born in London, England, February 8, 1819; died at Brantwood, England, January 20, 1900.
"Awake! Awake" 3016

RUSSELL, GEORGE WILLIAM (A. E., pseud.)
An Irish poet born in 1867, and now living in Dublin.
Gates of Dreamland, The .. 3216
Refuge 1143
The Secret Love 627

RUSSELL, IRWIN
An American writer, born in 1853, died in 1879.
De Fust Banjo 2190
Nebuchadnezzar 2040

RYAN, ABRAM JOSEPH
Born at Norfolk, Va., August 15, 1839; died at Louisville, Ky., April 22, 1888.
Conquered Banner, The 2515
Rosary of My Tears, The .. 3381
Sentinel Songs 2322

RYAN, RICHARD
Born in London, England, in 1796; died in 1849.
"O, Saw Ye the Lass" 1159

S

SACKVILLE, CHARLES [SIXTH EARL OF DORSET AND MIDDLESEX]
An English writer, born January 24, 1638; died at Bath, England, January 29, 1706.
Song, "To all you ladies now at land" 935

SALIS-SEEWIS, JOHANN GAUDENZ VON
Born in the Grisons, Switzerland, December 26, 1762; died there, January 29, 1834.
Lied, "Ins stille Land" 3832

SANGSTER, MARGARET ELIZABETH
Born at New Rochelle, N. Y., February 22, 1838; died at Glen Ridge, N. J., June 4, 1912.
Are the Children at Home.. 311
The Building of the Nest .. 163
The Sin of Omission 2926

SANTAYANA, GEORGE
Born in Madrid, Spain, December 16, 1863; now living in England.
Before a Statue of Achilles . 3212
"O World" 2907
Rustic at the Play, The 2908
"What Riches Have You' . 2907

SARGENT, EPES
Born at Gloucester, Mass., September 27, 1813; died at Boston, December 31, 1880.
"Life on the Ocean Wave, A' 1594
Deeds of Kindness 119

SAWYER, FREDERICK WILLIAM
Born at Saco, Me., April 22, 1810; died at Boston, Mass., about 1875.
The Recognition 1935

SAXE, JOHN GODFREY
Born at Highgate, Vt., June 2, 1816; died at Albany, N. Y., March 31, 1887.
Blind Men and the Elephant, The. 1877
"Darling, Tell Me Yes". 650
"Do I Love Thee". 651
Early Rising. 2024
"Justine, You Love Me Not" 853
My Familiar. 2151
Puzzled Census Taker, The. 2148
Pyramus and Thisbe. 2147
To Lesbia. 690
To My Love. 690
Too Candid by Half. 1909
Woman's Will. 1910
"Wouldn't You Like to Know". 734

SCHAUFFLER, ROBERT HAVEN
Born at Brünn, Austria, April 8, 1879; now living at Greenbush, Mass.
"Scum o' the Earth". 3052

SCHNECKENBURGER, MAX
Born at Thalheim, Wurtemberg, Germany, February 17, 1819; died at Burgdorf, near Bern, Switzerland, May 3, 1849.
Die Wacht am Rhein. 3833
The Watch on the Rhine. 2268

SCOLLARD, CLINTON
Born at Clinton, N. Y., September 18, 1860, and still living there.
"As I Came Down from Lebanon". 2637
"Be Ye in Love with April-tide". 670
Cricket. 3101
Deeds of Valor at Santiago. 2540
If Only the Dreams Abide. 2850
King of Dreams, The. 2850
Sleeper, The. 3553
"There is a Pool on Garda" 2623
To William Sharp. 3654
Valor of Ben Milam, The. 2457

SCOTT, CLEMENT WILLIAM
An English writer, born in London, in 1841; died there in 1904.
Rus in Urbe. 656

SCOTT, DUNCAN CAMPBELL
Born at Ottawa, Canada, August 2, 1862, and still living there.
Off Rivière du Loup. 1601

SCOTT, FREDERICK GEORGE
Born at Montreal, Canada, in 1861, and now living at Quebec.
Van Elsen. 3574

SCOTT, [SIR] WALTER
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, August 15, 1771; died at Abbotsford, September 21, 1832.
Alice Brand. 2716
Bonnie Dundee. 2408
Border Ballad. 2278
Coronach. 2351
Jock of Hazeldean. 786
Lochinvar. 784
Lullaby of an Infant Chief 82
Pibroch of Donald Dhu. 2277
Proud Maisie. 1076
Rosabelle. 2715
Rover's Adieu, The. 948
"Soldier, Rest, Thy Warfare O'er". 2301
Song from "Rokeby". 2720

SCOTT, WILLIAM BELL
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, September 12, 1811; died at Penhill Castle, Ayrshire, Scotland, November 22, 1890.
Glenkindie. 2730
Love's Calendar. 1203

SEARS, EDMUND HAMILTON
Born at Sandisfield, Mass., in 1810; died at Weston, Mass., January 14, 1876.
Christmas Carols. 206

SEDLEY, [SIR] CHARLES
Born at Aylesford, Kent, England, about 1639; died in London, August 20, 1701.
Phyllis. 802
Song, "Love still has something of the sea". 486
To Celia. 610
To Chloris. 720

SEEGER, ALAN
Born in New York City, June 22, 1888; killed on the field of Belloy-en-Santerre, France, July 4, 1916.
"I Have a Rendezvous with Death". 2560
To —— In Church. 581

SELVA, SALOMON DE LA
A Nicaraguan poet, born in 1893, and now living in New York City.
Tropical Town. 3374

SERVICE, ROBERT WILLIAM
Born at Preston, England, January 16, 1874, and still living.
Carry On. 2941
The Law of the Yukon. 2575

SETOUN, GABRIEL [THOMAS NICOLL HEPBURN]
Born at West Wemyss, Fifeshire, Scotland, April 21, 1861; now living at Edinburgh.
Jack Frost. 151
Wind's Song, The. 131
World's Music, The. 127

SHAKESPEARE, WILLIAM
Born at Stratford-on-Avon, Warwickshire, England, in April, 1564; died there, April 23, 1616.
"Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind". 3039
"Crabbed Age and Youth" 717
Dirge from "Cymbeline". 3431
Fairy Songs. 231
"Hark, Hark, the Lark". 694

"It Was a Lover and His Lass" ... 717
"Jog on, Jog on" ... 2978
Love's Perjuries ... 479
Sea Dirge, A ... 3516
"Sigh no more, Ladies" ... 807
Silvia ... 519
Song from "Love's Labor Lost" ... 2019
Song, "O mistress mine" ... 930
Sonnets ... 1246
"Under the Greenwood Tree" ... 1636
"When Daffodils begin to Peer" ... 1337
"When that I Was and a Little Tiny Boy" ... 400

SHANLY, CHARLES DAWSON
Born at Dublin, Ireland, March 9, 1811; came to America in 1857; died at Arlington, Fla., August 15, 1875.
Civil War ... 2492
Kitty of Coleraine ... 750

SHARP, WILLIAM [FIONA MACLEOD]
Born at Paisley, England, September 12, 1855; died near Mount Etna, Sicily, December 14, 1905.
On a Nightingale in April ... 1548
The Mystic's Prayer ... 2854
The White Peace ... 2853

SHAW, JOHN
Born in Westmoreland, England, in 1559; died at Woking, Surrey, England, in September, 1625.
Song, "Who has robbed the ocean cave" ... 539

SHEFFIELD, JOHN [FIRST DUKE OF BUCKINGHAM]
Born in London, England, April 7, 1648; died there, February 24, 1721.
Song, "Come, Celia, let's agree at last" ... 612

SHELLEY, PERCY BYSSHE
Born at Field Place, near Horsham, Sussex, England, August 4, 1792; drowned in the Bay of Spezia, Italy, July 8, 1822.
Adonais ... 3612
Arethusa ... 1418
Autumn: a Dirge ... 1380
Chorus from "Hellas" ... 2623
Cloud, The ... 1440
Dirge for the Year ... 1396
Flight of Love, The ... 1001
From the Arabic ... 626
Good-night ... 703
Hymn of Apollo ... 1306
Hymn of Pan ... 3162
"I Fear Thy Kisses, Gentle Maiden" ... 688
Lines to an Indian Air ... 702
Love's Philosophy ... 688
Mutability ... 3377
Ode to the West Wind ... 1378
Ozymandias of Egypt ... 2844
Question, The ... 867
Song, "Rarely, rarely comest thou" ... 3364
Time Long Past ... 442
To ——, "One word is too often profaned" ... 625
To a Skylark ... 1569
To Jane: the Invitation ... 1667
To Night ... 1323
With a Guitar, to Jane ... 3126

SHENSTONE, WILLIAM
Born at Hales Owen, England, October 18, 1714; died there, February 11, 1763.
Written at an Inn at Henley 2988

SHEPHERD, NATHANIEL GRAHAM
Born in New York City in 1835; died there, May 23, 1869.
Roll-Call ... 2313

SHERIDAN, HELEN SELINA [LADY DUFFERIN, and COUNTESS OF GIFFORD]
Born in England in 1807; died in London, June 13, 1867.
Lament of the Irish Emigrant ... 1086
"Love Hath a Language" ... 496

SHERIDAN, RICHARD BRINSLEY BUTLER
Born at Dublin, Ireland, September 30, 1751; died in London, July 7, 1816.
Air, "I ne'er could any lustre see" ... 827
Epigrams ... 1916
"Let the Toast Pass" ... 1999
Song, "Had I a heart for falsehood framed" ... 620

SHIRLEY, JAMES
Born in London, England, September 18, 1596; died there, October 29, 1666.
Death's Final Conquest ... 3404
Death's Subtle Ways ... 3405

SHIVELL, PAUL
Born at Indianapolis, Ind., September 25, 1874; now living in the Stillwater valley, near Pleasant Hill, Ohio.
"In God's Eternal Studios" 2869

SHORTER, DORA SIGERSON
Born at Dublin, Ireland, and now living in London.
Mother's Prayer, The ... 304
Piper on the Hill, The ... 132
"Rose Will Fade, A" ... 1047

SIBLEY, CHARLES
A Scotch writer; no biographical data available.
The Plaidie ... 755

SICKELS, DAVID BANKS
Born in New York City, February 8, 1837, and now living at Paterson, N. J.
"It Cannot Be" ... 3712

SIDGWICK, HENRY
Born at Skipton, Yorkshire, England, May 31, 1838; died August 28, 1901.
Goethe and Frederika..... 1055

SIDNEY, [SIR] PHILIP
Born at Penshurst, Kent, England, November 29, 1554; died at Arnhem, Netherlands, October 7, 1586.
Astrophel and Stella, First Song from..... 518
Astrophel and Stella, Sonnets from..... 1235
"My True-love Hath My Heart"..... 1141
Philomela..... 1551
"Truth Doth Truth Deserve"..... 1212

SIGERSON, DORA, see SHORTER, DORA SIGERSON.

SIGERSON, GEORGE
Born at Dublin, Ireland, in 1839, and still living there.
"My Own Cáilin Donn"..... 1165

SIGOURNEY, LYDIA HUNTLY
Born at Norwich, Conn., September 1, 1791; died at Hartford, Conn., June 10, 1865.
Columbus..... 2365
Indian Names..... 2567

SILL, EDWARD ROWLAND
Born at Windsor, Conn., April 29, 1841; died at Cleveland, Ohio, February 27, 1887.
Baker's Duzzen uv Wize Sawz, A..... 1915
Fool's Prayer, The..... 3764
Future, The..... 2976
Home..... 3711
Lover's Song, The..... 571
Opportunity..... 2923

SILLERY, CHARLES DOYNE
Born at Athlone, Ireland, March 2, 1807; died at Edinburgh, Scotland, May 16, 1837.
"She Died in Beauty"..... 3548

SIMMS, WILLIAM GILMORE
Born at Charleston, S. C., April 17, 1806; died there, June 11, 1870.
Grape-Vine Swing, The..... 467
Song in March..... 1351

SIMPSON, HENRY
Born in London, England, October 22, 1868, and now living at Wimbledon, near London.
In February..... 574

SKELTON, JOHN
Born in Norfolk, England, about 1460; died in London in 1529.
To Mistress Margaret Hussey..... 329

SKIPSEY, JOSEPH
Born at Percy, Tynemouth, England, March 17, 1832; died at Gateshead, England, September 3, 1903.
Mother Wept..... 289

SKRINE, NESTA HIGGINSON (MRS. WALTER SKRINE), see O'NEILL, MOIRA

SMART, CHRISTOPHER
Born at Shipbourne, Kent, England, April 11, 1722; died in London, May 18, 1771.
Song to David..... 3783

SMEDLEY, MENELLA BUTE
An English writer born about 1825, died about 1875.
"Wind Me a Summer Crown"..... 3388

SMITH, ADA
No biographical data available.
In City Streets..... 1674

SMITH, ALEXANDER
Born at Kilmarnock, Scotland, December 31, 1830; died at Wardie, near Granton, Midlothian, Scotland, January 5, 1867.
Barbara..... 1100

SMITH, CHARLOTTE
Born in London, England, May 4, 1749; died at Tetford, near Farnham, Surrey, England, October 28, 1806.
The First Swallow..... 1573

SMITH, HORACE
Born in London, England, December 31, 1779; died at Tunbridge Wells, England, July 12, 1849.
Address to a Mummy..... 2116

SMITH, MARY LOUISE RILEY
Born at Rochester, N. Y., May 27, 1842, and now living in New York City.
Sometime..... 3513
Tired Mothers..... 321

SMITH, SAMUEL FRANCIS
Born at Boston, Mass., October 21, 1808; died at Newton Center, Mass., in 1895.
America..... 2195

SMITH, SYDNEY
Born at Woodford, Essex, England, June 3, 1771; died in London, February 22, 1845.
A Salad..... 1987

SOUTHESK, EARL OF, see CARNEGIE JAMES.

SOUTHEY, ROBERT
Born at Bristol, England, August 12, 1774; died at Greta Hall, near Keswick, England, March 21, 1843.
Battle of Blenheim, The..... 2410
Cataract of Lodore, The..... 1420

God's Judgment on a Wicked Bishop . . . 189
Holly-Tree, The . . . 1407
Inchcape Rock, The . . . 1617
"My Days Among the Dead are Passed" . . . 2920
Old Man's Comforts, The . . . 405
Well of St. Keyne, The . . . 2114

SOUTHWELL, ROBERT
Born in Norfolk, England, about 1561; hanged at Tyburn, February 21, 1595.
Burning Babe, The . . . 208
Child My Choice, A . . . 3747
Times Go by Turns . . . 2838

SPALDING, JOHN LANCASTER
Born at Lebanon, Ky., June 2, 1840; now living at Peoria, Ill.
The Starry Host . . . 3729

SPALDING, SUSAN MARR
Born at Bath, Me., and later a resident of Philadelphia, Pa.
Fate . . . 502

SPENCER, CAROLINE
No biographical data available.
Living Waters . . . 3761

SPENSER, EDMUND
Born in London, England, about 1552; died there, January 13, 1599.
Amoretti, Sonnets from . . . 1232
Epithalamion . . . 1183
Prothalamion . . . 1178
Sweet and Sour . . . 2837

SPINGARN, JOEL ELIAS
Born in New York City, May 17, 1875, now living in England.
Spring Passion . . . 1171

SPOFFORD, HARRIET PRESCOTT
Born at Calais, Me., April 3, 1835; now living at Newburyport, Mass.
Ballad, "In the summer even" . . . 1621
Hereafter . . . 1012
Only . . . 3
Sigh, A . . . 1011

SPRAGUE, CHARLES
Born at Boston, Mass., October 26, 1791; died there, January 22, 1875.
The Family Meeting . . . 3562
The Winged Worshippers . . . 3754

STANLEY, THOMAS
Born in Hertfordshire, England, in 1625; died in London, April 12, 1678.
A Deposition from Beauty . . . 608

STANTON, FRANK LEBBY
Born at Charleston, S. C., February 22, 1857; and now living at Atlanta, Ga.
A Plantation Ditty . . . 2043
"Wearyin' fer You" . . . 993

STARBUCK, VICTOR
Born at Chuluota, Florida, November 16, 1887; now living at Orlando, Florida.
Night for Adventures . . . 1701

STEAD, WILLIAM FORCE
An American writer, now living in England.
Sweet Wild April . . . 1355

STEDMAN, EDMUND CLARENCE
Born at Hartford, Conn., October 8, 1833; died in New York City in 1908.
Discoverer, The . . . 298
Doorstep, The . . . 794
Falstaff's Song . . . 2014
How Old Brown Took Harper's Ferry . . . 2479
Hymn of the West . . . 2204
Kearny at Seven Pines . . . 2493
Morgan . . . 2404
Pan in Wall Street . . . 1751
Toujours Amour . . . 793
"Voice of the Western Wind" . . . 446

STEPHEN, JAMES KENNETH
Born in London, England, in 1859; died there in 1892.
A Grievance . . . 1031
Sincere Flattery . . . 1951
Wordsworth . . . 1956

STEPHENS, JAMES
An Irish writer, now living in Dublin.
The Waste Places . . . 2819
The Watcher . . . 1089

STERLING, GEORGE
Born at Sag Harbor, N. Y., December 1, 1869; now living at Carmel, Cal.
Black Vulture, The . . . 1581
In Extremis . . . 3466
Master Mariner, The . . . 1799
Music at twilight . . . 3131
Swimmers, The . . . 3194
Three Sonnets on Oblivion . . . 2847

STEVENSON, BURTON EGBERT
Born at Chillicothe, Ohio, November 9, 1872, and still living there.
Henry Hudson's Quest . . . 2382

STEVENSON, ROBERT LOUIS
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, November 13, 1850; died at Vailima, near Apia, Samoa, December 4, 1894.
Celestial Surgeon, The . . . 3729
Christmas at Sea . . . 1602
Envoy . . . 3106
Foreign Lands . . . 160
Gardener, The . . . 160
Good and Bad Children . . . 100
Happy Thought . . . 98
In the Highlands . . . 1675
Lad that is Gone, A . . . 438
Land of Counterpane, The . . . 158
Land of Story-books, The . . . 159
My Bed is a Boat . . . 161
My Shadow . . . 158
Requiem . . . 3485
Romance . . . 654

"Trusty, Dusky, Vivid, True" 394
Vagabond, The 1674
Whole Duty of Children . . . 98

STICKNEY, JOSEPH TRUMBULL
Born at Geneva, Switzerland, June 20, 1874; died in Boston, Mass., October 11, 1904.
Driftwood 2906
"Love, I Marvel What You Are" 575

STILL, JOHN
Born at Grantham, England, about 1543; died, Bishop of Bath and Wells, at Wells, England, February 26, 1608.
"Jolly Good Ale and Old" . 1990

STIRLING-MAXWELL, [SIR] WILLIAM
Born at Kenmure, Scotland, March 8, 1818; died at Venice, Italy, January 15, 1878.
To Anne 692

STODDARD, CHARLES WARREN
Born at Rochester, N. Y., August 7, 1843; died at Monterey, Cal., April 24, 1909.
A Rhyme of Life 3499

STODDARD, RICHARD HENRY
Born at Hingham, Mass., July 2, 1825; died in New York City in 1903.
At Last 1215
Birds 1522
"Day and Night my Thoughts Incline" 2014
Dying Lover, The 1114
Flight of Youth, The 351
Sea, The 1619
Three Score and Ten 457

STODDART, THOMAS TOD
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, February 14, 1810; died at Kelso, Scotland, November 21, 1880.
The Angler's Invitation 1663

STORY, WILLIAM WETMORE
Born at Salem, Mass., February 19, 1819; died at Rome, Italy, October 5, 1895.
Io Victis 2945
Snowdrop 854
The Violet 1502

STOWE, HARRIET BEECHER
Born at Litchfield, Conn., June 14, 1811; died at Hartford, Conn., July 1, 1896.
The Other World 3708

STRINGER, ARTHUR
Born at London, Ontario, Canada, February 26, 1874; now living in New York City.
At the Comedy 926
Memories 1127

STRONG, [REV.] GEORGE AUGUSTUS
Born at Norwich, Conn., January 21, 1832; died at Cambridge, Mass., March 6, 1912.
The Modern Hiawatha 1950

SUCKLING, [SIR] JOHN
Born at Whitton, Middlesex, England, in February, 1609; suicided at Paris, France, in June 1642.
Ballad upon a Wedding, A . . 763
Constant Lover, The 818
Doubt of Martyrdom, A . . . 602
Song, "I prithee send me back my heart" 763
Song, "Why so pale and wan, fond lover" 820
"When, Dearest, I but Think of Thee" 601

SURREY, EARL OF, see HOWARD, HENRY.

SWAIN, CHARLES
Born at Manchester, England, January 4, 1801; died at Prestwich Park, near Manchester, September 22, 1874.
"Smile and never Heed Me" . 630
Song, "A violet in her lovely hair" 548
"Tripping Down the Field-path" 870

SWEENEY, (MRS.) MILDRED I. (MCNEAL)
An American writer, born in 1871, and still living.
Chavez 3600

SWIFT, JONATHAN
Born in Dublin, Ireland, November 30, 1667; died there, October 19, 1745.
Epigram 1917

SWINBURNE, ALGERNON CHARLES
Born in London, England, April 5, 1837; died, April 10, 1909.
At Parting 978
Ballad of Dreamland, A 499
Ballad of Life, A 642
"Before the Beginning of Years" 368
Child's Laughter, A 254
Étude Réaliste 16
Forsaken Garden, A 1459
Garden of Proserpine, The . 3424
Higher Pantheism in a Nutshell, The 1935
Hope and Fear 2844
In Memory of "Barry Cornwall" 3647
In Memory of Walter Savage Landor 3626
Itylus 1576
Leave-Taking, A 645
Love at Sea 1159
Lyric, A 646
Madonna Mia 565
Mary Beaton's Song 1160
Match, A 641
Nephelidia 1944
Oblation, The 903

On the Deaths of Thomas Carlyle and George Eliot 3596
Rococo 900
Rondel, "Kissing her hair" 1146
Rondel, "These many years" 902
Seven Years Old 255
Singing Lesson, A 3086
Stanzas, "I will go back to the great sweet mother" 1585
"When the Hounds of Spring" 1339

SYLVESTER, JOSHUA
Born in Kent, England, in 1563; died at Middleburg, Holland, September 28, 1618.
A Contented Mind 2980
"Were I as Base as is the Lowly Plain" 1253

SYMONDS, JOHN ADDINGTON
Born at Bristol, England, October 5, 1840; died at Rome, Italy, April 19, 1893.
Farewell 962
Gaudeamus Igitur 2895
Lauriger Horatius 2896
Love in Dreams 895
Night 1324
On a Picture by Poussin 1079
Sonnet, The 3108
Venice 2619

SYMONS, ARTHUR
Born in Wales, February 28, 1865; now living at Wittersham, Kent, England.
Emmy 1058
Fisher's Widow, The 1622
Last Memory, The 928
Modern Beauty 1004
Roundel of Rest, A 3423

T

TABB, JOHN BANISTER
Born in Virginia, March 22, 1845; died at Ellicott City, Md., in 1909.
Childhood 440
Evolution 2866
Foot Soldiers 59
Fraternity 3036
Overflow 1579
To a Wood-Violet 1503
White Jessamine, The 3549

TALBOT, ETHEL
No biographical data available.
Give Love To-day 1115

TANNAHILL, ROBERT
Born at Paisley, Scotland, June 3, 1774; drowned himself there, May 17, 1810.
"By Yon Burn Side" 1166
Jessie, the Flower o' Dunblane 544
"Loudoun's Bonnie Woods and Braes" 949
"Midges Dance Aboon the Burn, The" 1652

TAPPAN, WILLIAM BINGHAM
Born at Beverly, Mass., October 26, 1794; died at West Needham, Mass., June 18, 1849.
The Hour of Peaceful Rest 3803

TATE, NAHUM
Born at Dublin, Ireland, in 1652; died in London, England, August 12, 1715.
"While Shepherds Watched their Flocks by Night" 205

TAYLOR, ANN [MRS. ANN GILBERT]
Born in London, England, January 30, 1782; died at Nottingham, England, December 20, 1866.
Cow, The 47
Jane and Eliza 109
Meddlesome Matty 110
Pin, The 108

TAYLOR, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN
Born at Lowville, N. Y., July 19, 1819; died at Cleveland, Ohio, February 24, 1887.
The Isle of the Long Ago 417

TAYLOR, JAMES BAYARD
Born at Kenneth Square, Chester County, Pa., January 11, 1825; died in Berlin, Germany, December 19, 1878.
Bedouin Song 709
Nubia 2640
Promissory Note, The 1949
Song of the Camp, The 2285
Storm Song 1614
Story for a Child, A 175

TAYLOR, JANE
Born in London, England, September 23, 1783; died at Ongar, Essex, England, April 12, 1824.
Contented John 111
Dirty Jim 107
Good-night 82
"I Like Little Pussy" 102
Morning 116
Philosopher's Scales, The 1879
Star, The 41
Violet, The 106

TAYLOR, JEFFREYS
Born at Lavenham, Suffolk, England, October 30, 1792; died in London, October 8, 1853.
The Lion and the Mouse 120

TAYLOR, JOSEPH RUSSELL
Born at Circleville, Ohio, July 10, 1868, and now living at Columbus, Ohio.
"Blow Softly, Thrush" 1581
Breath on the Oat 2541
Dove's Nest 266

TAYLOR, RACHEL ANNAND
No biographical data available.
May-Music 1150
The Question 3742

TAYLOR, TOM
Born at Bishop-Wearmouth, near Sunderland, England, October 19, 1817; died at Wandsworth, England, July 12, 1880. See note under Brooks, Shirley.
Abraham Lincoln 3642

TAYLOR, VIOLA
No biographical data available.
Babylon 448

TEASDALE, SARA [MRS. ERNEST B. FILSINGER]
Born at St. Louis, Mo., August 8, 1884, and still living there.
"Child, Child" 512
Four Winds 850
"I Shall Not Care" 1017
Kiss, The 1194
Leaves 2856
Look, The 923
Mastery 2938
To Rose 272

TENNYSON, ALFRED [FIRST BARON TENNYSON]
Born at Somersby, Lincolnshire, England, August 7, 1809; died at Aldsworth House, near Haslemere, Surrey, England, October 6, 1892.
"Ask Me No More" 875
Beggar Maid, The 1143
"Break, Break, Break" 472
Brook's Song, The 1416
Bugle Song 635
Charge of the Light Brigade, The 2473
"Come Into the Garden, Maud" 706
Crossing the Bar 3504
Death of the Old Year, The 1395
Eagle, The 1539
Early Spring 1333
Farewell, A 3354
Flower, The 2927
Godiva 2593
Higher Pantheism, The 2852
"Home They Brought Her Warrior Dead" 1093
In Memoriam 2898
In the Children's Hospital 292
Lady Clara Vere de Vere 835
Lady Clare 2727
Lady of Shalott, The 3188
Letters, The 1177
Lilian 634
Locksley Hall 3295
Lotos-Eaters, The 3178
Lullaby from "The Princess" 83
Mariana 873
Minnie and Winnie 92
Morte d' Arthur 3181
"O Swallow, Swallow, Flying South" 963
Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington 3672
"Of Old Sat Freedom on the Heights" 2235
"Oh That 'twere Possible" 1092
Reconciliation, The 1168
"Revenge," The 2377
St. Agnes' Eve 3767
Sir Galahad 2724
Song, "It is the miller's daughter" 633
Song, "O let the solid ground" 497
Song of the Milkmaid 733
Song: the Owl 1557
Spring 1338
"Tears, Idle Tears" 454
Throstle, The 1578
Ulysses 3179
"Voice by the Cedar-tree, A" 552
"What Does Little Birdie Say" 150

TENNYSON, FREDERICK
Born at Louth, Ireland, June 5, 1807, died in London, England, February 26, 1898.
Blackbird, The 1523
Skylark, The 1567

THACKERAY, WILLIAM MAKEPEACE
Born at Calcutta, India, July 18, 1811; died in London, England, December 24, 1863.
Ad Ministram 1987
Age of Wisdom, The 838
At the Church Gate 792
Ballad of Bouillabaise, The 1726
Cane-bottomed Chair, The 3239
Credo, A 2022
Garret, The 463
Jolly Jack 1847
King of Brentford, The 1848
Little Billie 2140
Mahogany Tree, The 2008
Mr. Molony's Account of the Ball 1968
Ronsard to His Mistress 635
Sorrows of Werther 838
Tragic Story, A 2049
Willow-tree, The 1936

THAXTER, CELIA LEIGHTON
Born at Portsmouth, N. H., in 1835; died at the Isles of Shoals, August 28, 1894.
Compensation 1294
Little Gustava 154
Nikolina 153
Sandpiper, The 1562

THAYER, ERNEST LAWRENCE
An American writer; no biographical data available.
Casey at the Bat 2185

THAYER, WILLIAM ROSCOE
Born at Boston, Mass., January 16, 1859, and now living at Cambridge, Mass.
The Last Hunt 2799

THOM, WILLIAM
Born at Aberdeen, Scotland, about 1789; died at Hawkhill, Dundee, Scotland, February 29, 1848.
The Mitherless Bairn 283
"They Speak o' Wiles" 493

THOMAS, EDITH MATILDA
Born at Chatham, Medina county, Ohio, August 12, 1854; now living at West New Brighton, Staten Island.
Evoe . . . 3098
In the Lilac Rain . . . 3539
Moly . . . 1493
Mother England . . . 2230
Muses, The . . . 3097
Music . . . 3130
Patmos . . . 1303
Triumph of Forgotten Things, The . . . 449

THOMAS, FREDERICK WILLIAM
An American writer, a native of Rhode Island, born in 1811, died in 1864.
Song, "'Tis said that absence conquers love" . . . 983

THOMPSON, FRANCIS
Born at Preston, England, Dec. 18, 1859; died in London, Nov. 13, 1907.
Daisy . . . 341
Envoy . . . 3106
Ex Ore Infantium . . . 277
Hound of Heaven, The . . . 3204
May Burden, A . . . 1358
To a Snowflake . . . 1391
To Daisies . . . 1479
Veteran of Heaven, The . . . 3770

THOMPSON, JAMES MAURICE
Born at Fairfield, Ind., in 1844; died in 1901.
A Prelude . . . 3081

THOMPSON, JOHN REUBEN
Born at Richmond, Va., October 23, 1823; died in New York City, April 30, 1873.
Carcassonne [tr] . . . 438
Music in Camp . . . 2289

THOMPSON, WILL HENRY
Born at Calhoun, Ga., March 10, 1848; now living at Seattle, Wash.
The High Tide at Gettysburg . . . 2502

THOMSON, JAMES
Born at Ednam, Roxburghshire, Scotland, September 11, 1700; died near Richmond, England, August 27, 1748.
Rule, Britannia . . . 2232

THOMSON, JAMES
Born at Port Glasgow, Scotland, November 23, 1834; died in London, England, June 3, 1882.
E. B. B. . . . 3594
Gifts . . . 617
Requiem, A . . . 3551
Song, "Let my voice ring out and over the earth" . . . 616
Vine, The . . . 487
William Blake . . . 3589

THOREAU, HENRY DAVID
Born at Concord, Mass., July 12, 1817; died there, May 6, 1862.
Conscience . . . 2960
Great Adventure, The . . . 2037
Inspiration . . . 2961
My Prayer . . . 2961
Nature . . . 1295

THORLEY, WILFRID CHARLES
Born in London, England, in 1878, and still living there.
Buttercups . . . 1468

THORNBURY, GEORGE WALTER
Born in London, England, November 13, 1828; died there, June 11, 1876.
The Cavalier's Escape . . . 2742
The Court Historian . . . 1789
The Sally from Coventry . . . 2745
The Three Troopers . . . 2743

THORPE, ROSE HARTWICK
Born at Mishawaka, Ind., July 18, 1850, and now living at San Diego, Cal.
"Curfew Must Not Ring To-Night" . . . 3329

THRALE, HESTER, see PIOZZI, HESTER THRALE.

THURLOW, LORD, see HOVELL-THURLOW, EDWARD.

TICHBORNE, CHIDIOCK
Born at Southampton, England, about 1558; executed at London, for treason, September 20, 1586.
A Lament . . . 401

TICKELL, THOMAS
Born at Bridekirk, Cumberland, England, in 1686; died at Glasnevin, near Dublin, Ireland, April 23, 1740.
To the Earl of Warwick on the Death of Mr. Addison 3584

TICKNOR, FRANCIS ORRAY
Born in Baldwin county, Ga., in 1822; died near Columbus, Ga., in 1874.
Little Giffen . . . 2320
The Virginians of the Valley 2223

TILTON, THEODORE
Born in New York City, October 2, 1835; died there in 1907.
"Even This Shall Pass Away" . . . 2845

TIMROD, HENRY
Born at Charleston, S. C., December 8, 1829; died at Columbia, S. C., October 6, 1867.
Ode, "Sleep sweetly in your humble graves" . . . 2320
Serenade . . . 705
Sonnet, "Most men know love but as a part of life" 3036
Spring . . . 1344
Trifle, A . . . 654

TIPPLE, E. H.
An English writer, living in India.
Hot Weather in the Plains—India . . . 3230

TODHUNTER, JOHN
Born at Dublin, Ireland, December 30, 1839, and now living in London, England.
Maureen 647

TODI, JOCOPONE DA
Born at Todi, in the province of Perugia, Italy, about the middle of the thirteenth century; died in 1306.
Stabat Mater Dolorosa 3891

TONNA, MRS. "CHARLOTTE ELIZABETH"
An Irish writer born October 1, 1790; died July 12, 1846.
The Maiden City 2606

TOOKER, L. FRANK
Born at Port Jefferson, N. Y., December 18, 1855; now living in New York City.
"He Bringeth Them Unto Their Desired Haven" ... 3537

TOPLADY, AUGUSTUS MONTAGUE
Born at Farnham, Surrey, England, November 4, 1740; died in London, August 11, 1778.
Rock of Ages 3797

TORRENCE, FREDERIC RIDGELEY
Born at Xenia, Ohio, November 27, 1875, and now living in New York City.
Conclusion of the Whole Matter, The 2897
Evensong 893

TOWNE, CHARLES HANSON
Born at Louisville, Ky., February 2, 1877; now living in New York City.
Song, "I saw the day's white rapture" 892
The Quiet Singer 3665

TOWNSEND, MARY ASHLEY
Born at Lyons, N. Y., in 1832, and died in 1901.
Embryo 3079

TRAILL, HENRY DUFF
Born at Morden Hill, Blackheath, England, August 14, 1842; died in London, February 21, 1900.
After Dilettante Concetti ... 1942

TRENCH, HERBERT
Born at Avoncore, County Cork, Ireland, in November 1865, and now living at Richmond Hill, Surrey, England.
A Charge 2919
"I Heard a Soldier" 927

TROUBETZKOY, AMÉLIE RIVES, see RIVES, AMÉLIE.

TROWBRIDGE, JOHN TOWNSEND
Born at Ogden, Monroe county, N. Y., September 18, 1827; died at Arlington, Mass., February 12, 1916.
Cup, The 1645
Darius Green and His Flying-Machine 2163
Midsummer 1364
Midwinter 1393
Pewee, The 1558
Vagabonds, The 3340

TUCKER, ST. GEORGE
Born in the island of Bermuda, July 10, 1752; died at Warminster, Nelson county, Va., November 10, 1828.
"Days of My Youth" 352

TURNER, CHARLES TENNYSON
Born at Somersby, Lincolnshire, England, July 4, 1808; died at Cheltenham, England, April 25, 1879.
Letty's Globe 265
Mary Queen of Scots 3646

TURNER, ELIZABETH
An English writer for children, who died in 1846.
Politeness 98
Rebecca's After-Thought 100

TYNAN, [HINKSON] KATHARINE
Born at Condalkin, County Dublin, Ireland, in 1861, and now living at Clanberg, Shankill, County Dublin, Ireland.
Beloved, The 3727
Chanticleer 149
Dead Coach, The 3429
Desire, The 253
Footpath Way, The 1679
Little Ghost, The 302
Of an Orchard 1414
Quiet Nights, The 3222
Sheep and Lambs 3759
Turn o' the Year 1332

U

UNTERMEYER, LOUIS
Born in New York City, October 1, 1885; and still living there.
Caliban in the Coal-mines .. 3059
Folk-song 1050
Landscapes 3060
Only of Thee and Me 625
Prayer 2940
Reveillé 2562

UPSON, ARTHUR WHEELOCK
Born at Camden, N. Y., January 10, 1877; drowned in Lake Bermidji, Minn., February 12, 1908.
"Ex Libris" 3466
Failures 2950
Old Gardens 992
Song, "Flame at the core of the world" 1151
Vers la Vie 2856

UPTON, JAMES
Born at Winslow, Cheshire, England, December 10, 1670; died at Taunton, England, August 13, 1749.
The Lass of Richmond Hill. 615

USHER, JOHN
No biographical data available.
The Pipe of Tobacco 1984

V

VANDEGRIFT, MARGARET, see JANVIER, MARGARET THOMSON.

VAN DYKE, HENRY
Born at Germantown, Pa., November 10, 1852, and now living at Princeton, N. J.
Child in the Garden, The . . . 435
Four Things 2918
Lover's Envy, A 672
Maryland Yellow-throat The 1543
My April Lady 572
Valley of Vain Verses, The . . 2933

VAN RENSSELAER, MARIANA GRISWOLD
Born in New York City in 1851, and still living there.
Love's Prisoner 925

VAUGHAN, HENRY
Born at Newton-by-Usk, in the parish of Llansaintffraed, Brecknockshire, Wales, April 17, 1622; died there, April 23, 1695.
Eclipse, The 3766
Friends Departed 3508
Man 369
Peace 3695
Retreat, The 434
Song to Amoret, A 615
World, The 3696

VAUTOR, THOMAS
A household musician in the family of Anthony Beaumont, of Leicestershire, England, from about 1592 until his death, some time after 1620.
"Sweet Suffolk Owl" 1558

VAUX, THOMAS, [SECOND BARON VAUX OF HARROWDEN]
An English writer, born in 1510; died in London, in October, 1556.
On a Contented Mind" 2978

VENABLE, WILLIAM HENRY
Born in Warren County, Ohio, April 29, 1836; and now living at Cincinnati, Ohio.
My Catbird 1533

VERE, see also DE VERE.

VERE, EDWARD DE [SEVENTEENTH EARL OF OXFORD]
An English writer, born April 2, 1550; died at Newington, Middlesex, England, June 24, 1604.
A Renunciation 807

VERY, JONES
Born at Salem, Mass., August 28, 1813; died there, May 8, 1880.
Nature 1293
The Idler 2970
The Tree 1403

VIELÉ, HERMAN KNICKERBOCKER
Born in New York City, January 31, 1856; died there December 14, 1908.
The Good Inn 1700

VILLON, FRANÇOIS
Born in Paris in 1431; died about 1484.
Ballade des Dames du Temps Jadis 3837

W

WADDINGTON, SAMUEL
Born at Boston Spa, Yorkshire, England, November 9, 1844, and now living at London.
Mors et Vita 3422

WAKEFIELD, NANCY PRIEST, see PRIEST, NANCY WOODBURY.

WALLER, EDMUND
Born at Coleshill, Hertfordshire, England, March 3, 1606; died at Beaconsfield, England, October 21, 1687.
"Go, Lovely Rose" 930
Of the Last Verses in the Book 401
On a Girdle 531
On Her Coming to London . . 330
To Flavia 600

WALLER, JOHN FRANCIS
Born at Limerick, Ireland, in 1810; died at Bishop Stortford, England, January 19, 1894.
Kitty Neil 756

WALSH, WILLIAM
Born at Abberley, Worcestershire, England, in 1663; died in London, March 18, 1708.
Rivals 826

WALTON, IZAAK
Born in Staffordshire, England, August 9, 1593; died at Winchester, England, December 15, 1683.
The Angler's Wish 1664

WARD, ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS
Born at Boston, Mass., August 31, 1844; died there, January 28, 1911.
Afterwards 3512
Lost Colors, The 2464

WARD, LYDIA AVERY COONLEY
Born at Lynchburg, Va., January 31, 1845, and now living at Wyoming, N. Y.
Heredity 3731
To-day 2932

WARE, EUGENE, FITCH ("IRONQUILL")
Born at Hartford, Conn., May 29, 1841; died at Cascade, Colo., July 1, 1911.
The Aztec City 3211

WARNER, CHARLES DUDLEY
Born at Plainfield, Mass., September 12, 1829; died at Hartford, Conn., October 20, 1900.
Bookra 2854

WARREN, JOHN BYRNE LEICESTER [THIRD BARON DE TABLEY]
Born in Cheshire, England, April 26, 1835; died there November 22, 1895.
The Churchyard on the Sands 1067

WARTON, THOMAS
Born at Basingstoke, England, in 1728; died May 21, 1790.
Inscription in a Hermitage .. 1640

WASSON, DAVID ATWOOD
Born at West Brooksville, Me., May 4, 1823; died at West Medford, Mass., January 21, 1887.
Joy-Month 1579

WASTELL, SIMON
Born, probably at Wasdale, Cumberland, England, date unknown; died at Northampton, England, in January, 1632.
Man's Mortality 3405

WATERMAN, NIXON
Born at Newark, Ill., November 12, 1850; now living in Boston, Mass.
Recompense 2929
Rose to the Living, A 1890

WATSON, MINOR
No biographical data available.
Constancy 3475

WATSON, ROSAMUND MARRIOTT
Born in London, England, in 1863, died there December 29, 1911.
Ave atque Vale 353
Omnia Somnia 424
Requiescat 1122

WATSON, WILLIAM
Born at Burley-in-Wharfedale, Yorkshire, England, August 2, 1858; now living at London.
Dawn on the Headland 1308
Great Misgiving, The 3428
Invention 3100
Keyboard, The 3132
Lachrimæ Musarum 3659
Leavetaking 366
Song, "April, April" 1354
Song, "O, like a queen's her happy tread" 577
Sonnets from "Sonnets to Miranda" 1271
Woman with the Serpent's Tongue, The 1908
Wordsworth's Grave 3682

WATTS, ISAAC
Born at Southampton, England, July 17, 1674; died at Theobalds, Herts, England, November 25, 1748.
Cradle Hymn, A 79
"How Doth the Little Busy Bee" 104
"O God! Our Help in Ages Past" 3790
Sluggard, The 106

WATTS-DUNTON, WALTER THEODORE
Born at St. Ives, Huntingdonshire, England, October 12, 1832; died at Putney Hill, England, June 7, 1914.
Coleridge 3601
First Kiss, The 689
Sonnet's Voice, The 3106

WAUGH, EDWIN
Born at Rochdale, Lancashire, England, January 29, 1817; died at New Brighton, England, April 30, 1890.
The Dule's i' this Bonnet o' Mine" 757

WEATHERLY, FREDERIC EDWARD
Born at Portishead, Somersetshire, England, October 4, 1848, and now living in London.
The Dustman 73

WEBBE, CHARLES
An English writer, living in the latter half of the seventeenth century.
Against Indifference 615

WEBSTER, AUGUSTA
Born at Poole, Dorset, England, January 3, 1837; died at Kew, England, September 5, 1894.
The Pine 1408
The Violet and the Rose 1503

WEBSTER, JOHN
An English writer, born about 1580, and died about 1625.
A Dirge 3430
Song, "All the flowers of the spring" 3517

WELBY, AMELIA COPPUCK
Born at St. Michael's, Maryland, February 3, 1819; died in Louisville, Ky., May 3, 1852.
Twilight at Sea 1317

WELLS, CAROLYN
Born at Rahway, New Jersey, about 1868, and still living there.
Four Limericks 2088
The Poster-Girl 1941

WELSH, ROBERT GILBERT
Born in Glasgow, Scotland, but a resident of the United States since childhood, and now living in New York City.
Azrael 3414

WERNER, ALICE
Born at Trieste, Austria-Hungary, June 26, 1859, and now living in London.
A Song of Fleet Street 2597

WESLEY, CHARLES
Born at Epworth, Lincolnshire, England, December 28, 1707; died in London, March 29, 1788.
"A Charge to Keep I Have" 3792
"Jesus, Lover of My Soul". 3791

WEST, JOHN [FIRST EARL DE LA WARR]
Born in England, April 4, 1693; died in London, March 16, 1766.
Fair Hebe..... 721

WESTWOOD, THOMAS
Born at Enfield, England, November 26, 1814; died in Belgium, March 13, 1888.
Little Bell..... 259
Under My Window..... 258

WHEELER, EDWARD J.
Born in Cleveland, Ohio, March 11, 1859; now living in New York City.
Night's Mardi Gras..... 1328

WHEELOCK, JOHN HALL
Born at Far Rockaway, Long Island, N. Y., in 1886, and now living at Morristown, N. J.
Sunday Evening in the Common..... 3059

WHITE, GLEESON (JOSEPH WILLIAM GLEESON)
Born at Christ Church, England, in 1851; died in London in 1898.
A Primrose Dame..... 740

WHITE, HENRY KIRKE
Born at Nottingham, England, March 21, 1785; died at Cambridge, England, October 19, 1806.
The Early Primrose..... 1496

WHITE, HERVEY
Born at New London, Ia., November 26, 1866; now living in Chicago, Ill.
"I Saw the Clouds"..... 2984

WHITE, JOSEPH BLANCO
Born at Seville, Spain, July 11, 1775; died at Liverpool, England, May 20, 1841.
To Night..... 1324

WHITMAN, WALT
Born at West Hills, Long Island, N. Y., May 31, 1819; died at Camden, N. J., March 26, 1892.
"As Toilsome I Wandered Virginia's Woods..... 3004
Beasts, The..... 2996
"Darest Thou Now, O Soul" 3494
Last Invocation, The..... 3494
Mannahatta..... 2568
"O Captain! My Captain". 3629
Song for All Seas, All Ships,. 1584
To the Man-of-War Bird... 1542
"When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloomed"..... 3630

WHITNEY, ADELINE DUTTON TRAIN
Born in Boston, Mass., September 15, 1824; died at Milton, Mass., in 1906.
Equinoctial..... 367
Humpty Dumpty..... 2034

WHITNEY, HELEN HAY
An American writer, born in New York City and still living there.
Song, "We only ask for sunshine"..... 3386
To Diane..... 1128

WHITTAKER, FREDERICK
An American writer, born in 1838, died in 1917.
Custer's Last Charge..... 2529

WHITTIER, JOHN GREENLEAF
Born at Haverhill, Mass., December 17, 1807; died at Hampton Falls, N. H., September 7, 1892.
Barbara Frietchie..... 2494
Barefoot Boy, The..... 261
Bayard Taylor..... 3658
Brown of Ossawatomie..... 2484
Frost Spirit, The..... 1388
Henchman, The..... 553
Ichabod..... 1837
Maud Muller..... 905
My Playmate..... 972
Proem..... 3078
Skipper Ireson's Ride..... 2445
Telling the Bees..... 1109

WIDDEMER, MARGARET
Born at Doylestown, Pa., and now living in New York City.
Factories, The..... 3057
Greek Folk Song..... 3506

WILCOX, ELLA WHEELER
Born at Johnson Center, Wisconsin, in 1855; now living at Short Beach, Conn.
Interlude..... 3472
Midsummer..... 922
Solitude..... 2929

WILDE, OSCAR O'FLAHERTIE WILLS
Born at Dublin, Ireland, October 15, 1856; died in Paris, France, November 30, 1900.
Ave Imperatrix..... 2244
Ballad of Reading Gaol, The 2773
Endymion..... 1013
Requiescat..... 1119
Serenade..... 712
Theocritus..... 3664

WILDE, RICHARD HENRY
Born at Dublin, Ireland, September 24, 1789; brought to United States in 1797; died at New Orleans, La., September 10, 1847.
"My Life is Like the Summer Rose"..... 3358

WILKINSON, FLORENCE (MRS. WILFRID MUIR EVANS)
Born at Tarrytown, N. Y., and now living at Westport, Conn.
At the Salon 3373
Students 1792

WILLARD, EMMA HART
Born at Berlin, Conn., February 27, 1787; died at Troy, N. Y., April 15, 1870.
"Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" 1599

WILLIAMS, [SIR] CHARLES HANBURY
Born, probably at Pontypool, Monmouthshire, England, December 8, 1708; committed suicide, November 2, 1759.
"Come, Chloe, and Give me Sweet Kisses" 685

WILLIS, NATHANIEL PARKER
Born at Portland, Me., January 20, 1806; died at Idlewild, near Newburgh, N. Y., January 20, 1867.
"Chamber Scene" 348
Love in a Cottage 732
On the Picture of a "Child Tired of Play" 280
To Laura W—, Two Years Old 270
Unseen Spirits 1032

WILLSON, BYRON FORCEYTHE
Born at Little Genesee, Alleghany county, N. Y., April 10, 1837; died at Alfred, N. Y., February 2, 1867.
Old Sergeant, The 3332

WILMOT, JOHN [SECOND EARL OF ROCHESTER]
Born at Ditchley, Oxfordshire, England, April 10, 1647; died there, July 26, 1680.
Constancy 611
Epitaph on Charles II 1911
Love and Life 611
Song, "My dear mistress has a heart" 610
Song, "Too late, alas! I must confess" 612

WILSON, JOHN [CHRISTOPHER NORTH]
Born at Paisley, Scotland, May 18, 1785; died at Edinburgh, April 3, 1854.
Evening Cloud, The 1320

WILSON, ROBERT BURNS
Born in Washington county, Pa., October 30, 1850; now living at Frankfort, Ky.
Passing of March, The 1353
"Such is the Death the Soldier Dies" 2317

WINCHILSEA, COUNTESS OF, see FINCH, ANNE

WINKWORTH, CATHARINE
Born at London, England, September 13, 1827; died near Geneva, Switzerland, July 1, 1878.
Veni, Sancte Spiritus [tr] 3780

WINTER, WILLIAM
Born at Gloucester, Mass., July 15, 1836; died at New Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y., June 30, 1917.
Age 424
Queen, The 671
Refuge 921
Rubicon, The 3497

WISDOME, ROBERT
Born, probably in Oxfordshire, England, about 1500; died at Wilburton, England, in September, 1568.
A Religious Use of Tobacco 1983

WITHER, GEORGE
Born at Brentworth, Hampshire, England, June 11, 1588; died in London, May 2, 1667.
"I Loved a Lass" 718
Lover's Resolution, The 813
"Sleep, Baby, Sleep" 75
Stolen Kiss, A 683

WOLCOT, JOHN [PETER PINDAR]
Born at Dodbrooke, near Kingsbridge, Devonshire, England, May 9, 1738; died at Somers Town, England, January 14, 1819.
The Razor-Seller 2101
To a Kiss 686

WOLFE, CHARLES
Born at Blackhall, County Kildare, Ireland, December 14, 1791; died at the Cove of Cork, Ireland, February 21, 1823.
Burial of Sir John Moore after Corunna 2448
"Go, Forget Me" 953
To Mary 1082

WOODBERRY, GEORGE EDWARD
Born at Beverley, Mass., May 12, 1855; and still living there.
At Gibraltar 2229
Comrades 3005
"O, Inexpressible as Sweet" 668
Rose of Stars, The 506
Secret, The 505
Song of Eros 507
Sonnets Written in the Fall of 1914 2552
"When First I Saw Her" . . . 571
Wild Eden 3209

WOODS, MARGARET LOUISA
Born at Rugby, England in 1856, and now living at Oxford, England.
Genius Loci 3110
Young Windebank 2325

WOODS, WILLIAM HERVEY
Born in Green county, Ky., November 17, 1852, and now living at Baltimore, Md.
The Prayer of Beaten Men . 2944

WOODWORTH, SAMUEL
Born at Scituate, Mass., January 13,

1785; died in New York City, December 9, 1842.
Bucket, The..... 466
Needle, The..... 2120

WOOLSEY, SARAH CHAUNCEY [SUSAN COOLIDGE]
Born at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1845; died at Newport, R. I., in 1905.
Helen..... 1102
How the Leaves Came Down 142
When..... 3464

WOOLSON, CONSTANCE FENIMORE
Born at Claremont, N. H., in 1848; died at Venice, Italy, January 23, 1894.
Yellow Jessamine..... 1490

WORDSWORTH, DOROTHY [MRS. EDWARD QUILLINAN]
Born August 6, 1804; the second child of William Wordsworth; died at Rydal Mount, Westmoreland, England, July 9, 1847.
The Cottager to her Infant. 84

WORDSWORTH, WILLIAM
Born at Cockermouth, Cumberland, England, April 7, 1770; died at Rydal Mount, Westmoreland, England, April 23, 1850.
Character of the Happy Warrior, The..... 2935
Elegiac Stanzas..... 3587
England, 1802..... 2237
Expostulation and Reply... 1657
Green Linnet, The..... 1541
"I Wandered Lonely as a Cloud"..... 1473
Inner Vision, The..... 3087
"It is a Beauteous Evening, Calm and Free"..... 1314
Lines Composed a Few Miles above Tintern Abbey 2578
Lines Written in Early Spring..... 1334
Lucy..... 1073
Lucy Gray, or, Solitude.... 290
"O Nightingale, Thou Surely Art"..... 1545
Ode on the Intimations of Immortality from Recollections of Early Childhood..... 371
Ode to Duty..... 2955
On the Extinction of the Venetian Republic..... 2619
Pass of Kirkstone, The..... 2582
Perfect Woman..... 380
Rainbow, The..... 366
Reverie of Poor Susan, The. 281
"Scorn Not the Sonnet"... 3109
Small Celandine, The..... 1469
Solitary Reaper, The..... 333
Sonnet, "Earth has not anything to show more fair". 2597
Stepping Westward..... 398
"Surprised by Joy"..... 3566
Tables Turned, The..... 1611
Three Cottage Girls The... 334
To a Butterfly..... 1517
To a Child..... 125
To a Skylark..... 1565
To a Skylark..... 1566
To Hartley Coleridge..... 275
To Sleep..... 3221
To the Cuckoo..... 1538
To the Daisy..... 1478
To the Small Celandine.... 1470
Trosachs, The..... 1430
Two April Mornings, The.. 3564
We Are Seven..... 316
"Why Art Thou Silent"... 1254
"With Ships the Sea was Sprinkled"..... 1589
"World is too much with us, The"..... 1292
Written in March..... 1352
Yarrow Unvisited..... 2584
Yarrow Visited..... 2586

WOTTON, [SIR] HENRY
Born at Boston, Malherbe, Kent, England, in 1568; died at Eton, England, in December, 1639.
Character of a Happy Life, The..... 2986
Elizabeth of Bohemia..... 525

WRIGHT, WILLARD HUNTINGTON
Born at Charlottesville, Va., and now living in New York City.
Song against Women..... 829

WYATT, [SIR] THOMAS
Born in Kent, England, about 1503; died at Sherborne, Dorsetshire, England, October 10, 1542.
"Forget not Yet"..... 583

WYNDHAM [SIR] CHARLES [SECOND EARL OF EGREMONT]
Born in London, England, August 19, 1710; died there, August 21, 1763.
The Fair Thief..... 536

Y

YATES, EDMUND
Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, July 3, 1831; died in London, England, May 20, 1894.
All Saints'..... 1868

YBARRA, THOMAS RUSSELL
An American writer, born in 1880, and now living in New York City.
Lay of Ancient Rome..... 2044

YEATS, WILLIAM BUTLER
Born at Dublin, Ireland, June 13, 1865; and now living in London, England.
Ballad of Father Gilligan, The..... 2803
"Down by the Salley Gardens"..... 928
Fiddler of Dooney, The.... 1965
Into the Twilight..... 2855
Lake Isle of Innisfree, The.. 1634
"Never Give all the Heart" 511
Rose of the World, The.... 390
"When You are Old"..... 636

YOUNG, MRS. WILLIAM SANBORN, see MITCHELL, RUTH COMFORT.

INDEX OF FIRST LINES

A

	PAGE
A baby's feet, like seashells pink	16
A braver swell, a swifter sliding	971
A breathing sigh, a sigh for answer	969
A bright little maid of St. Thomas	2088
A canner, exceedingly canny	2088
A capital ship for an ocean trip	2079
A certain Pasha, dead five thousand years	2845
A cheer and salute for the Admiral, and here's to the Captain bold	2297
A charge to keep I have	3792
A chieftain, to the Highlands bound	2723
A child should always say what's true	98
A cloud lay cradled near the setting sun	1320
A cloud possessed the hollow field	2502
A country life is sweet	1653
"A cup for hope!" she said	452
A dappled sky, a world of meadows	969
A dillar, a dollar	32
A district school, not far away	2136
A farmer went trotting upon his gray mare	46
A fellow in a market-town	2101
A fire-mist and a planet	2867
A fleet with flags arrayed	2421
A flock of merry singing-birds were sporting in the grove	1530
A flock of sheep that leisurely pass by	3221
A flying word from here and there	3640
A fool and knave with different views	826
A fool there was and he made his prayer	1045
A garden is a lovesome thing, God wot	1446
A good sword and a trusty hand	2407
A happy bit hame this auld world would be	3035
A Hindoo died; a happy thing to do	1899
A hundred years from now, dear heart	661
A hut, and a tree	2997
A is an angel of blushing eighteen	2049
A jolly fat friar loved liquor good store	2112
A lady red upon the hill	1332
A lady there was of Antigua	2089
A lake and a fairy boat	630
A land of Dreams and Sleep—a poppied land	2640
A lark in the mesh of a tangled vine	2840
A late lark twitters in the quiet skies	3501
A laughing knot of village maids	677
A life on the ocean wave	1594
A lily in my garden grew	1880
A lion with the heat oppressed	120
A little Boy was set to keep	121
A little elbow leans upon your knee	321
A little fairy comes at night	237
A little more toward the light	361
A little Saint best fits a little Shrine	1723
A little sun, a little rain	2909
A little time for laughter	898

PAGE
A little while (my life is almost set!) ... 895
A little while the tears and laughter ... 2911
A little work, a little play ... 2910
A lively young turtle lived down by the banks ... 2058
A lovely young lady I mourn in my rhymes ... 1919
A man called Dante, I have heard ... 3084
A man of words and not of deeds ... 64
A man said unto his Angel ... 2949
A man should live in a garret aloof ... 3103
A melancholy little man was seated on the ground ... 2087
A mighty fortress is our God ... 3806
A mile behind is Gloucester town ... 2569
A mist was driving down the British Channel ... 3670
A monk, when his rites sacerdotal were o'er ... 1879
A nightingale made a mistake ... 147
A nightingale, that all day long ... 179
A pitcher of mignonette ... 1796
A place in thy memory, Dearest ... 871
A portly wood-louse, full of cares ... 1791
A pretty good firm is "Watch and Waite" ... 114
A pretty task, Miss S———, to ask ... 713
A public haunt they found her in ... 280
A queen lived in the South ... 545
A raven sat upon a tree ... 1854
A rose, as fair as ever saw the North ... 1498
A rose for a young head ... 1089
A rose to the living is more ... 1800
"A sail! a sail! oh, whence away" ... 3231
A sentinel angel, sitting high in glory ... 1038
A shady freshness, chafers whirring ... 970
A silly young cricket, accustomed to sing ... 118
A simple Child ... 316
A slumber did my spirit seal ... 1076
A soldier of the legion lay dying in Algiers ... 2634
A song of a boat ... 431
A song of hate is a song of Hell ... 2551
A song to the oak, the brave old oak ... 1403
A sonnet is a moment's monument ... 3107
A star is gone! a star is gone ... 3746
A steed, a steed of matchless speed ... 2282
A stone jug and a pewter mug ... 2017
A street there is in Paris famous ... 1726
A sudden wakin', a sudden weepin' ... 2910
A sunshiny shower ... 66
A supercilious nabob of the East ... 1845
A swarm of bees in May ... 65
A sweet disorder in the dress ... 378
"A temple to Friendship," said Laura, enchanted ... 832
A thousand miles from land are we ... 1572
A traveler on a dusty road ... 2925
A tutor who tooted the flute ... 2088
A viewless thing is the wind ... 507
A violet in her lovely hair ... 548
A voice by the cedar tree ... 552
A voice from the sea to the mountains ... 2972
A voice resounds like thunder-peal ... 2269
A was an Archer, who shot at a frog ... 60
A watch will tell the time of day ... 162
"A weary lot is thine, fair maid" ... 948
A well there is in the west country ... 2114
A wet sheet and a flowing sea ... 1592
A whisper woke the air ... 2924

PAGE
A white way is the wind's way 3374
A widow—she had only one 3554
A wind came up out of the sea 3443
A woman is a foreign land 387
A yellow moon in splendor drooping 970
Abide with me! Fast falls the eventide 3802
Abou Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase!) 2999
About Glenkindie and his men 2730
About the little chambers of my heart 3005
Above my head the shields are stained with rust 3552
Above the cloistral valley 3553
Above the pines the moon was slowly drifting 3606
Above yon sombre swell of land 1652
Accept, thou shrine of my dead saint 1228
Across the Eastern sky has glowed 3254
Across the fields of yesterday 436
Across the foaming river 3257
Across the grass I see her pass 573
Across the hills of Arcady 664
Across the narrow beach we flit 1562
Adieu, farewell, earth's bliss 3453
Ae fond kiss, and then we sever 945
Afar in the desert I love to ride 1669
Affection's charm no longer gilds 2065
After such years of dissension and strife 1919
After the May time and after the June time 922
Again I hear that creaking step 2151
Again rejoicing Nature sees 1341
Against the green flame of the hawthorn-tree 516
Ah, be not false, sweet Splendor 349
Ah, Chloris! that I now could sit 720
Ah, Clemence! when I saw thee last 909
Ah, did you once see Shelley plain 3657
Ah, drops of gold in whitening flame 1479
Ah, happy youths, ah, happy maid 1079
Ah, here it is! the sliding rail 3739
Ah, how sweet it is to love 485
Ah! marvel not if when I come to die 886
Ah me, dread friends of mine,—Love, Time, and Death 3458
Ah! my heart is weary waiting 1363
Ah, not because our Soldier died before his field was won 3648
Ah, see the fair chivalry come, the companions of Christ 3751
Ah, sweet is Tipperary in the springtime of the year 2608
"Ah, sweet Kitty Neil, rise up from the wheel" 756
Ah, sweet, thou little knowest how 704
Ah! there's the lily, marble pale 1499
Ah, wasteful woman, she that may 384
Ah! were she pitiful as she is fair 583
Ah, what avails the sceptered race 622
Ah, what is love? It is a pretty thing 1210
Ah, yes, I wrote the "Purple Cow" 2086
"Ahoy! and O-ho! and it's who's for the ferry" 761
Airly Beacon, Airly Beacon 1040
Airy, fairy Lilian 634
Alas, how soon the hours are over 1910
Alas! that man must see 3574
Alas, that my heart is a lute 620
Alas, the moon should ever beam 869
Alexis, here she stayed; among these pines 1252
Alike to her who Dines both Loud and Long 1922
All alone on the hillside 2291
All around him Patmos lies 1303

PAGE
All day I tell my rosary 999
All day long on the highway 509
All day the stormy wind has blown 3732
All French folk, wheresoe'er ye be 1786
All hail the power of Jesus' name 3792
All hail! thou noble land 2223
All in our marriage garden 26
All in the April evening 3759
All in the Downs the fleet was moored 937
All in the golden weather, forth let us ride to-day 1685
All in the leafy darkness, when sleep had passed me by 3373
All in the lilac-rain 3539
All June I bound the rose in sheaves 884
All last night I had quiet 674
All loved and lovely women dear to rhyme 3401
All moveless stand the ancient cedar-trees 3496
All my past life is mine no more 611
All Nature seems at work, Slugs leave their lair 3373
All night I watched awake for morning 1309
"All quiet along the Potomac," they say 2491
All Scottish legends did his fancy fashion 3595
All that he came to give 3001
All that I know 1321
All the bells of heaven may ring 254
All the breath and the bloom of the year in the bag of one bee 689
All the earth a hush of white 1166
All the flowers of the spring 3517
All thoughts, all passions, all delights 1173
All through the golden weather 985
All through the sultry hours of June 1580
All women born are so perverse 1903
Allons, enfants de la Patrie 3836
All's over, then: does truth sound bitter 848
Along a river-side, I know not where 2488
Along the garden ways just now 647
Along the field as we came by 856
Along the lane beside the mead 744
Aloof upon the day's immeasured dome 1581
Although I enter not 792
Am I sincere? I say I dote 1755
Amid the cloistered gloom of Aachen's aisle 3597
Amid the fairest things that grow 1129
Amid the chapel's chequered gloom 1124
Among his books he sits all day 1019
An ancient story I'll tell you anon 2707
An apple orchard smells like wine 3387
An Austrian army, awfully arrayed 2072
An empty sky, a world of heather 968
An evil Spirit (your Beauty) haunts me still 1243
An old lane, an old gate, an old house by a tree 3233
And all is well, though faith and form 2904
And all the songs that I might sing 2564
And are ye sure the news is true 1217
And did thy sapphire shallop slip 5
And is this—Yarrow?—This the Stream 2586
And thou hast walked about (how strange a story!) 2116
"And where have you been, my Mary" 238
"And where now, Bayard, will thy footsteps tend" 3658
"And ye sall walk in silk attire" 943
And yet I cannot reprehend the flight 1240
And yet I know past all doubting, truly 971
Angel, hast thou betrayed me? Long ago 2856

PAGE
Angels from the realms of glory 3798
Anger in its time and place 113
"Annan water's wading deep" 1062
Annie Shore, 'twas, sang last night 1057
April, April 1354
Aramantha, sweet and fair 533
"Are women fair?" Ay! wondrous fair to see too 1902
Arethusa arose 1418
Ariel to Miranda:—Take 3126
Around the child bend all the three 356
Around this lovely valley rise 1364
Art thou poor, yet hast thou golden slumbers 2981
As a fond mother, when the day is o'er 1301
As a naked man I go 2819
As a twig trembles, which a bird 314
As an old mercer in some sleepy town 1301
As an unperfect actor on the stage 1247
As, at a railway junction, men 3037
As beautiful Kitty one morning was tripping 755
As beneath the moon I walked 3379
As doctors give physic by way of prevention 1861
As father Adam first was fooled 1919
As I came down from Lebanon 2637
As I came round the harbor buoy 1613
As I in hoary winter's night 208
As I laye a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge, a-thynkynge 3359
As I look back upon your first embrace 1166
As I was going to St. Ives 64
As I was walking all alane 2680
As I was walking up the street 541
As I went down by Hastings Mill I lingered in my going 1591
As I went down the hill I heard 395
As I went through a garden gap 64
As I wer readèn ov a stwone 3569
As in smooth oil the razor best is whet 1915
As it fell upon a day 1546
As Joseph was a-waukin' 209
"As like the Woman as you can" 1900
As near Portobello lying 2415
As nestling at thy feet in peace I lay 2231
As one that for a weary space has lain 3083
As ships, becalmed at eve, that lay 3033
As slow our ship her foamy track 3360
As soft as silk, as white as milk 62
As the sin that was sweet in the sinning 1953
As through the land at eve we went 1168
As toilsome I wandered Virginia's woods 3004
As Tom and his wife were discoursing one day 1909
As Tommy Snooks and Bessy Brooks 37
As when the shadow of the sun's eclipse 2553
Ask if I love thee? Oh, smiles cannot tell 1215
Ask me no more; the moon may draw the sea 875
Ask me no more where Jove bestows 530
Ask me why I send you here 1495
Ask not the cause why sullen Spring 934
Ask nothing more of me, Sweet 903
At Cato's Head in Russell Street 1806
At Creçy by Somme in Ponthieu 2352
At dawn, when England's childish tongue 1483
At evening when the lamp is lit 159
At five o'clock he milks the cow 42
At Florés in the Azores Sir Richard Grenville lay 2377

	PAGE
At Haroun's court it chanced, upon a time	1860
At her fair hands how have I grace entreated	599
At least it was a life of swords	3006
At midnight, in his guarded tent	2453
At night when sick folk wakeful lie	3429
At Paris it was, at the Opera there	889
At setting day and rising morn	940
At sixteen years, she knew no care	1032
At the corner of Wood street, when daylight appears	281
At the gate of the West I stand	3052
At the king's gate the subtle noon	2985
At the last, tenderly	3494
At the mid hour of night, when stars are weeping, I fly	1079
At the midnight, in the silence of the sleep-time	3503
At the Midsummer, when the hay was down	1099
Attend, all ye who list to hear our noble England's praise	2370
Augustus was a chubby lad	122
Auld Daddy Darkness creeps frae his hole	71
Avenge, O Lord, thy slaughtered saints, whose bones	2404
Awake, Æolian lyre, awake	3091
Awake! awake! the stars are pale, the east is russet gray	3016
Awake, my heart, to be loved, awake, awake	505
Awake! the dawn is on the hills	700
Awake thee, my lady-love	703
Awake, ye nations, slumbering supine	2552
Away, away in the northland	143
Away! let naught to love displeasing	1221
Away with your fictions of flimsy romance	686
Ay, tear her tattered ensign down	2456
"Aye, squire," said Stevens, "they back him at evens"	3344
Azaleas—whitest of white	1467

B

Baa, baa, black sheep, have you any wool	36
Baby wants his breakfast	56
Bachelor's Hall! what a quare-lookin' place it is	1970
Back she came through the trembling dusk	1050
Back to the flower-town, side by side	3626
Backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight	465
Balkis was in her marble town	3215
Baloo, loo, lammy, now baloo, my dear	81
Balow, my babe, lie still and sleep	1037
Barber, barber, shave a pig	34
Bards of Passion and of Mirth	3090
Barney McGee, there's no end of good luck in you	1980
Bartholomew is very sweet	20
Be it not mine to steal the cultured flower	1658
Be kind and tender to the Frog	2081
Be still, my heart, and listen	916
Be ye in love with April-tide	670
Beat on the Tom-toms, scatter the flowers	1198
Beating Heart: we come again	708
Beauties, have ye seen this toy	479
Beautiful Evelyn Hope is dead	1094
Beauty calls and gives no warning	893
Beauty may be the path to highest good	2973
Beauty, sweet Love, is like the morning dew	1241
Because I had loved so deeply	3479
Because I have loved life, I shall have no sorrow to die	3479
Because the rose must fade	2841
Because the shadows deepened verily	1261

PAGE
Because you passed, and now are not 2304
Before I trust my fate to thee 1162
Before my light goes out forever, if God should give me choice of graces 917
Before the beginning of years 368
Before the solemn bronze Saint Gaudens made 2211
Before the urchin well could go 536
Before you kissed me, only winds of heaven 1194
Behave yoursel' before folk 751
Behind him lay the gray Azores 2366
Behind thy pasteboard, on thy battered hack 2950
Behold her, single in the field 333
Behold Pelides with his yellow hair 3212
Believe me, if all those endearing young charms 624
Ben Battle was a soldier bold 2126
Bend now thy body to the common weight 351
Beneath an Indian palm a girl 963
Beneath the shadow of dawn's aërial cope 2844
Beneath the softly falling snow 3427
Beneath the warrior's helm, behold 1748
Beneath these fruit-tree boughs that shed 1541
Beneath this stony roof reclined 1640
Beside the dead I knelt for prayer 3773
Best and Brightest, come away 1667
Better trust all, and be deceived 2919
Between the dark and the daylight 252
Between the sunset and the sea 1160
Beware the deadly Sitting habit 2036
Beyond the East the sunrise, beyond the West the sea 1679
Beyond the ferry water 992
Beyond the last horizon's rim 3577
Beyond the low marsh-meadows and the beach 1590
Beyond the smiling and the weeping 3490
Bid adieu, adieu, adieu 1170
Bid me to live, and I will live 595
Bird of the wilderness 1566
Birds are singing round my window 1522
Blessings on thee, little man 261
Blest be the tie that binds 3801
Blest pair of Sirens, pledges of Heaven's joy 3125
Blossom of the almond trees 1466
Blossom on the plum 1351
Blow, blow, thou winter wind 3039
Blow, bugles, blow, soft and sweet and low 2316
Blow gently over my garden 3727
Blow high, blow low! let tempest tear 942
Blow out, you bugles, over the rich Dead 2545
Blow softly, thrush, upon the hush 1581
Blow, wind, blow! and go, mill, go 37
Blown in the morning, thou shalt fade ere noon 1500
Blue gulf all around us 1626
Blue, pink and yellow houses, and, afar 3374
Blue sky, green fields, and lazy yellow sun 1171
Bobby Shaftoe's gone to sea 38
Bobolink! that in the meadow 1531
Bonnie wee thing! cannie wee thing 622
Bonny Kilmeny gaed up the glen 2151
Boon Nature to the woman bows 386
Boot, saddle, to horse, and away 2284
Booth led boldly with his big bass drum 3593
Bow down, my song, before her presence high 1274
Bowed by the weight of centuries, he leans 3041

PAGE
Brave as the firstborn flame upsprings the statue. 3373
Brave flowers—that I could gallant it like you. 1466
Break, break, break. 472
Breathless, we flung us on the windy hill. 1270
Bright be the skies that cover thee. 270
Bright Star of Beauty! on whose eyelids sit. 1243
Bright Star! would I were steadfast as thou art. 3489
Brightest and best of the Sons of the morning. 210
Bring me my dead. 3663
Bring me wine, but wine which never grew. 2964
Brothers in blood! They who this wrong began. 2562
Brow bender, eye peeper. 58
Brown's for Lalage, Jones for Lelia. 1761
Burly, dozing humble-bee. 1515
Bury me deep when I am dead. 1122
Bury the Great Duke. 3672
But do not let us quarrel any more. 839
"But, Lord," she said, "my shoulders still are strong". 3577
Buttercups and daisies. 117
By copse and hedgerow, waste and wall. 1491
By day my timid passions stand. 714
By every light, in every pose. 2869
By Nebo's lonely mountain. 3736
By orange grove and palm-tree, we walked the southern shore. . . . 1436
By scattered rocks and turbid waters shifting. 1494
By seven vineyards on one hill. 680
By the flow of the inland river. 2308
By the merest chance, in the twilight gloom. 1149
By the old Moulmein Pagoda, lookin' eastward to the sea. 2638
By the rosy cliffs of Devon, on a green hill's crest. 659
By the rude bridge that arched the flood. 2205
By the waters of Life we sat together. 1222
By this he knew she wept with waking eyes. 1264
By what word's power, the key of paths untrod. 1255
Bye, baby bunting. 36

C

Call for the Robin-redbreast and the wren. 3430
Call me not dead when I, indeed, have gone. 3502
"Call Rose Costara". 3055
Calm on the bosom of thy God. 3551
Calm was the day, and through the trembling air. 1178
Came, on a Sabbath morn, my sweet. 567
Can it be right to give what I can give. 1278
Canary-birds feed on sugar and seed. 2080
Care-charmer Sleep, son of the sable Night. 1242
"Cassez-vous, cassez-vous, cassez-vous". 2087
Catch her and hold her if you can. 728
Charm me asleep, and melt me so. 3123
Cheeks as soft as July peaches. 10
Chicken-skin, delicate, white. 1781
Child, child, love while you can. 512
Children, do you ever. 436
Children, you are very little. 100
Chloe, why wish you that your years. 603
Chloe's a nymph in flowery groves. 533
Christmas is here. 2008
City of mist and rain and blown gray spaces. 2603
Clasp her and hold her and love her. 1144
Clear air and grassy lea. 1645
Clear and cool, clear and cool. 1415

PAGE
Close his eyes; his work is done 2315
Closes and courts and lanes 2598
Clouds spout upon her 1133
Clubby! thou surely art, I ween 1822
Cold in the earth—and the deep snow piled above thee 1095
Columbia, Columbia, to glory arise 2202
"Come a little nearer, doctor,—thank you; let me take the cup" 3333
Come, all ye jolly shepherds 775
Come and see her as she stands 344
Come, bring with a noise 223
Come, Celia, let's agree at last 612
Come, cheer up, my lads! 'tis to glory we steer 2280
Come, Chloe, and give me sweet kisses 685
"Come, come," said Tom's father, "at your time of life" 1918
Come cuddle close in daddy's coat 245
Come, dear children, let us away 1021
Come, dear old comrade, you and I 3002
Come down at dawn from windless hills 1436
Come follow, heart upon your sleeve 1681
Come hither, Evan Cameron 2394
Come, Holy Ghost, thou fire divine 3780
Come in the evening, or come in the morning 638
Come into the garden, Maud 706
Come, let us plant the apple-tree 1411
Come, listen to another song 2734
Come, listen to me, you gallants so free 2692
Come listen to the story of brave Lathrop and his men 2406
Come little babe, come silly soul 1036
"Come, little cottage girl, you seem" 1954
Come live with me and be my Love 584
Come Micky and Molly and dainty Dolly 2176
Come, see the Dolphin's anchor forged! 'tis at a white heat now 1606
Come, Sleep, and with thy sweet deceiving 3220
Come Sleep! O Sleep, the certain knot of peace 1236
Come, spur away 1649
Come, stack arms, men! Pile on the rails 2288
Come thou, who art the wine and wit 3454
Come to me, dearest, I'm lonely without thee 982
Come to me in my dreams, and then 967
Come unto these yellow sands 233
Come walk with me along this willowed lane 1362
Come when the leaf comes, angle with me 1663
Come when you're called 99
Comes the lure of green things growing 1682
Comes the New Year; wailing, the north winds blow 1274
Comfort thee, O thou mourner, yet awhile 3625
Comin' through the craigs o' Kyle 747
Comin' through the rye, poor body 727
Comrades, leave me here a little, while as yet 'tis early morn 3295
Condemned to Hope's delusive mine 3628
Confide ye aye in Providence 2992
Conscience is instinct bred in the house 2960
"Corporal Green!" the orderly cried 2313
Could love for ever 491
Could ye come back to me, Douglas, Douglas 1099
Count each affliction, whether light or grave 3352
"Courage!" he said, and pointed toward the land 3178
Crabbed Age and Youth 717
Creator Spirit, by whose aid 3782
Creep awa', my bairnie, creep afore ye gang 256
Creep into thy narrow bed 2944

PAGE
Cricket, chirping in the autumn twilight ... 3101
Cupid and my Campaspe played ... 520
Cupid once upon a bed ... 488
Curled up and sitting on her feet ... 739
Curly locks! Curly locks ... 37
Cut your nails on Monday, cut them for news ... 67

D

Da spreeng ees com'; but oh, da joy ... 306
Damis, an author cold and weak ... 1917
Darest thou now, O soul ... 3494
Dark as the clouds of even ... 2500
Dark, deep and cold the current flows ... 3576
Daughter of her whose face, and lofty name ... 1271
Daughter, thou art come to die ... 1051
Dawn—and a magical stillness: on earth, quiescence profound ... 1308
Dawn drives the dreams away, yet some abide ... 424
Day and night my thoughts incline ... 2014
Day of my life! where can she get ... 1771
Day of wrath, that day of burning ... 3777
Days of my youth ... 352
De gray owl sing fum de chimbly top ... 2043
De massa ob de sheepfol' ... 3755
"De mortuis nil nisi bonum," when ... 3367
Dead! Is it possible! He, the bold rider ... 2529
Dead! One of them shot by the sea in the east ... 3555
Dear Alice! You'll laugh when you know it ... 1807
Dear and great Angel, wouldst thou only leave ... 2620
"Dear as remembered kisses after death" ... 3475
Dear Chloe, how blubbered is that pretty face ... 766
Dear chorister, who from those shadows sends ... 1548
Dear common flower, that grow'st beside the way ... 1481
Dear Erin, how sweetly thy green bosom rises ... 2263
Dear Italy! The sound of thy soft name ... 2613
Dear Lucy, you know what my wish is ... 1987
"Dear me! what signifies a pin" ... 108
Dear Mr. Editor: I wish to say ... 1931
Dear! of all happy in the hour, most blest ... 2545
Dear, they are praising your beauty ... 582
Dear! why should you command me to my rest ... 1244
Death, be not proud, though some have callèd thee ... 3348
Death stands above me, whispering low ... 3491
Deep on the convent-roof the snows ... 3767
Der Kaiser of dis Faterland ... 1849
Diaphenia like the daffadowndilly ... 522
Dictes-moy où, n'en quel pays ... 3837
Did ye hear of the Widow Malone ... 1973
Dies iræ, dies illa ... 3819
Dip down upon the northern shore ... 1338
Dismal and purposeless and gray ... 3353
Do I love thee? Ask the bee ... 651
Do not conceal those radiant eyes ... 529
Do ye hear the children weeping, O my brothers ... 283
Do you ask what the birds say? The Sparrow, the Dove ... 141
Do you fear the force of the wind ... 1684
Do you remember, my sweet, absent son ... 320
Do you remember when you heard ... 788
Does the road wind up-hill all the way? ... 3415
Dominic came riding down, sworded, straight and splendid ... 994
Don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt ... 470
Doth it not thrill thee, Poet ... 3102

PAGE
Doubt you to whom my muse these notes intendeth. 518
Down around the quay they lie, the ships that sail to sea. 1604
Down by the salley gardens my love and I did meet. 928
Down in a green and shady bed. 106
Down in the bleak December bay. 2389
Down the world with Marna. 1686
Down toward the deep-blue water, marching to throb of drum. . . 2563
Dow's Flat. That's its name. 2171
Drake he's in his hammock an' a thousand mile away. 3607
Draw back the cradle curtains, Kate. 22
Dreamer, waiting for darkness with sorrowful, drooping eyes. . . . 3733
Drink to me only with thine eyes. 591
Drink to-day, and drown all sorrow. 1991
Dull and hard the low wind creaks. 859

E

Each day, when the glow of sunset. 311
Each hath his drug for Sorrow. 3363
Earl March looked on his dying child. 1077
Earth has not anything to show more fair. 2597
Earth with its dark and dreadful ills. 3492
Eat thou and drink; to-morrow thou shalt die. 3568
Edith, the silent stars are coldly gleaming. 3217
E'en like two little bank-dividing brooks. 3742
Eight bells! Eight bells! their clear tone tells. 3760
Eight fingers. 59
Ein feste Burg ist unser Gott. 3831
Elizabeth, Lizzy, Betsy and Bess. 63
Emmy's exquisite youth and her virginal air. 1058
Enamored architect of airy rhyme. 3083
England, I stand on thy imperial ground. 2229
Enough! we're tired, my heart and I. 1083
Ere the long roll of the ages end. 2265
Ere the steamer bore him eastward, Sleary was engaged to marry. . 2046
Es braust ein Ruf wie Donnerhall. 3833
Escape me. 638
Eternal Spirit of the chainless Mind. 3273
Ethereal minstrel! pilgrim of the sky. 1566
Eve, with her basket, was. 2816
Even such is Time, that takes in trust. 3453
Evening red and morning gray. 66
Ever let the Fancy roam. 3166
Ev-er-y child who has the use. 2082
Every evening Baby goes. 84
Every week of every season out of English ports go forth. 2242

F

Fain would I change that note. 487
Faintly as tolls the evening chime. 1426
Fair are the flowers and the children, but their subtle suggestion is fairer. 2870
Fair cousin mine! the golden days. 1724
Fair Daffodils, we weep to see. 1474
Fair flower, that dost so comely grow. 1488
Fair Hebe I left, with a cautious design. 721
Fair is my Love, and cruel as she's fair. 1239
Fair is my love for April's in her face. 520
Fair is the night, and fair the day. 977
Fair pledges of a fruitful tree. 1504
Fair stood the wind for France. 2361

	PAGE
Fairest of the fairest, rival of the rose	793
False though she be to me and love	613
Fame is a food that dead men eat	3013
Fancies are but streams	3142
Far beyond the sky-line, where the steamers go	3230
Far fall the day when England's realm shall see	2552
Fare thee well! and if for ever	950
Farewell!—but whenever you welcome the hour	3015
Farewell! if ever fondest prayer	1002
Farewell, my Youth! for now we needs must part	353
Farewell, rewards and fairies	244
Farewell, thou busy world, and may	1641
Farewell to Lochaber, an' farewell my Jean	940
Far-fetched and dear-bought, as the proverb rehearses	3086
Farragut, Farragut	2507
Fast falls the snow, O lady mine	1171
Father and I went down to camp	2198
Father calls me William, sister calls me Will	220
Father, I will not ask for wealth or fame	2969
Father of all! in every age	3788
Fear death?—to feel the fog in my throat	3484
Fear no more the heat o' the sun	3431
Few, in the days of early youth	408
Fill the bowl with rosy wine	1993
Fill the bumper fair	2002
Finding Francesca full of tears, I said	278
First came the primrose	1462
First time he kissed me, he but only kissed	1282
Five-and-thirty black slaves	3132
Five years have passed; five summers with the length	2578
Flame at the core of the world	1151
Fleet Street! Fleet Street! Fleet Street in the morning	2597
Flour of England, fruit of Spain	62
Flow down, cold rivulet, to the sea	3354
Flow gently, sweet Afton, among thy green braes	1425
Flower of the medlar	1167
Flowers I would bring if flowers could make thee fairer	546
Flowers,—that have died upon my Sweet	3202
Follow a shadow, it still flies you	811
For a day and a night Love sang to us, played with us	978
For England, when with favoring gale	1632
"For ever with the Lord"	3702
For every evil under the sun	65
For her gait, if she be walking	528
For me the jasmine buds unfold	1148
For the sake of a weathered gray city set high on a hill	2621
For the sole edification	2022
For thee, O dear dear Country	3689
For want of a nail, the shoe was lost	66
Forget not yet the tried intent	583
Formed long ago, yet made today	63
Forty Viziers saw I go	1903
Forty years on, when afar and asunder	421
Four Seasons fill the measure of the year	2
Four things a man must learn to do	2918
Four winds blowing through the sky	850
Four years!—and didst thou stay above	1828
Fragoletta, blessed one	12
Free are the Muses, and where freedom is	2541
French and Russian they matter not	2549
Fresh Spring, the herald of love's mighty king	1234
Friends and loves we have none, nor wealth, nor blest abode	2863

PAGE
Friendship, like love, is but a name... 1853
Frisky as a lambkin... 99
From Greenland's icy mountains... 3795
From harmony, from heavenly harmony... 3112
From Stirling Castle we had seen... 2584
From the depth of the dreamy decline of the dawn through a notable nimbus of nebulous moonshine... 1944
From the Desert I come to thee... 709
From the forests and highlands... 3162
From the heart of the mighty mountains strong-souled for my fate
I came... 2571
From the madding crowd they stood apart... 1886
From their folded mates they wander far... 3058
Frown the Laird on the Lord: "So, red-handed I catch thee"... 781
Frowning, the mountain stronghold stood... 2464
Full fathom five my father lies... 3515
Full happy is the man who comes at last... 425
Full knee-deep lies the winter snow... 1395
Full many a glorious morning have I seen... 1248
Full many a project that never was hatched... 2034
Furl that Banner, for 'tis weary... 2515

G

Gae bring my guid auld harp ance mair... 2268
Gaily bedight... 3397
Gamarra is a dainty steed... 1520
Gather ye rosebuds, while ye may... 328
Gaudeamus igitur... 3829
Gay, guiltless pair... 3754
Gay little Dandelion... 136
Genteel in personage... 722
Gently, Lord, oh, gently lead us... 3808
Get up, get up for shame, the blooming morn... 1359
Girl of the red mouth... 568
Git yer little sage hens ready... 2187
Give a man a horse he can ride... 617
Give a rouse, then, in the Maytime... 2016
Give all to love... 502
"Give me a fillet, Love," quoth I... 924
Give me kisses! Do not stay... 690
Give me more love, or more disdain... 598
Give me my scallop-shell of quiet... 3451
Give me no mansions ivory white... 253
Give place, you ladies, and begone... 378
Give to me the life I love... 1674
"Give us a song," the soldiers cried... 2285
Glass antique, 'twixt thee and Nell... 1766
Glooms of the live-oaks, beautiful-braided and woven... 1426
Go and catch a falling star... 592
Go fetch to me a pint o' wine... 946
Go, for they call you, Shepherd, from the hill... 3305
Go, forget me! Why should sorrow... 953
Go from me. Yet I feel that I shall stand... 1277
Go, happy Rose, and, interwove... 931
Go, little book, and wish to all... 3106
Go, lovely Rose... 930
Go, patter to lubbers and swabs, do ye see... 1597
Go, songs, for ended is our brief, sweet play... 3106
Go, Soul, the Body's guest... 3449
Go to dark Gethsemane... 3799
Go to him, ah, go to him, and lift your eyes aglow to him... 1029

	PAGE
Go way, fiddle! folks is tired o' hearin' you a-squawkin'	2190
God be with thee, my beloved,—God be with thee	960
God bless the King—I mean the faith's defender	1918
"God bless the man who first invented sleep"	2024
God hath been patient long. In eons past	3734
God keep you safe, my little love	989
God made my lady lovely to behold	1260
God makes sech nights, all white an' still	736
God meant me to be hungry	3736
God moves in a mysterious way	3796
God of our fathers, known of old	2248
God prosper long our noble king	2695
God rest you, merry gentlemen	201
God rest you, rest you, rest you, Ireland's dead	2261
God save our gracious King	223
God spake three times and saved Van Elsen's soul	3574
God, though this life is but a wraith	2940
God, we don't like to complain	3059
God with His million cares	1328
Godfrey Gordon Gustavus Gare	114
God's lark at morning I would be	115
God's pity on poor kings	2998
Goethe in Weimar sleeps, and Greece	3680
Going my way of old	1195
Golden slumbers kiss your eyes	75
Gone are those three, those sisters rare	1090
Gone were but the winter cold	3561
Good-by, good-by to Summer	1561
Good-bye, proud world! I am going home	2995
Good is an Orchard, the Saint saith	1414
Good King Wenceslas looked out	3752
Good little boys should never say	98
"Good morrow, my lord!" in the sky alone	180
Good my King, in your garden close	1123
Good-night? ah! no; the hour is ill	703
Good-night, dear friend! I say good-night to thee	1121
Good-night. Good-night. Ah, good the night	679
Good-night! I have to say good-night	711
Good people all, of every sort	2091
Good people all, with one accord	2092
Goosey, goosey, gander	36
"Got any boys?" the Marshal said	2147
Grandmither, think not I forget, when I come back to town	1033
Grandmother's mother: her age, I guess	1738
Great God, I ask thee for no meaner pelf	2961
Great men have been among us; hands that penned	2238
Great nature is an army gay	1298
Great truths are dearly bought. The common truth	3717
Great, wide, beautiful, wonderful world	126
Green be the turf above thee	3608
Green little vaulter in the sunny grass	1510
Grow old along with me	411
Guvener B. is a sensible man	1839

H

Ha' we lost the goodliest fere o' all	2814
Hack and Hew were the sons of God	3139
Had I a heart for falsehood framed	620
Had I but plenty of money, money enough and to spare	1865
Had I the power	3214
Had we but world enough, and time	607

PAGE
Hail, beauteous stranger of the grove 1536
Hail! Columbia, happy land 2200
Hail, old October, bright and chill 1383
Hail to thee, blithe spirit 1569
Half a league, half a league 2473
Halfway up the Hemlock valley turnpike 346
Hame, hame, hame, O hame fain wad I be 3226
Hamelin Town's in Brunswick 192
Hans Breitmann gife a barty 2152
Happy boy, happy boy 2555
Happy insect, what can be 1509
Happy the man, whose wish and care 1635
Happy those early days, when I 434
Hark! ah, the nightingale 1547
Hark, hark! the lark at heaven's gate sings 694
Hark! I hear the tramp of thousands 2487
Hark, my soul! it is the Lord 3809
Hark you such sound as quivers? Kings will hear 1385
Has summer come without the rose 897
Has there any old fellow got mixed with the boys 1745
Hast thou a charm to stay the morning-star 1430
Hast thou named all the birds without a gun 3076
Hath this world, without me wrought 2970
Hats off 2208
Have dark Egyptians stolen thee away 323
Have little care that Life is brief 2858
Have you ever heard of the Sugar-Plum Tree 69
Have you heard of the wonderful one-hoss shay 1871
Have you heard the story that gossips tell 2504
Have you not heard the poets tell 28
Have you not noted, in some family 1256
He came all so still 201
He came and took me by the hand 3776
He came to call me back from death 911
He came to the desert of London town 3589
He clasps the crag with crooked hands 1539
He comes,—he comes,—the Frost Spirit comes! You may trace his footsteps now 1388
He did not wear his scarlet coat 2773
He found her by the ocean's moaning verge 1268
He gave us all a good-by cheerily 1629
He had been singing—but I had not heard his voice 3665
He has come the way of the fighting men and fought by the rules of the Game 2942
He is gone on the mountain 2351
He is the despots' Despot. All must bide 3446
He killed the noble Mudjokivis 1950
He lived in that past Georgian day 1777
He liveth long who liveth well 3716
He loves not well whose love is bold 671
He presented his bill 2085
He said: "The shadows darken down" 1090
He sang above the vineyards of the world 3045
He that is down needs fear no fall 3714
He that loves a rosy cheek 817
He that would thrive 65
He thought he saw an Elephant 2060
He took the great harp wearily 2823
He who died at Azan sends 3582
He who in his pocket hath no money 1917
He whom a dream hath possessed knoweth no more of doubting 2938
Head the ship for England 1633

	PAGE
Hear, O Self-Giver, infinite as good	1276
Hear the sledges with the bells	3174
Hear, ye ladies that despise	482
Hearken, the feet of the Destroyer tread	2553
Heart free, hand free	1303
Heart of my heart, my life, my light	676
Heart of my heart, the world is young	670
Hearts good and true	124
Hearts, like doors, will ope with ease	98
Heaven is lovelier than the stars	2906
Heaven is not reached at a single bound	3707
Heaven overarches earth and sea	3706
Hector Protector was dressed all in green	36
He'd nothing but his violin	1202
Heigh-ho! daisies and buttercups	429
Helen, thy beauty is to me	551
Helen's lips are drifting dust	1153
Hem and Haw were the sons of sin	1887
Hence, all you vain delights	3349
Hence, loathèd melancholy	3143
Hence, rude winter! crabbed old fellow	1394
Hence, vain deluding Joys	3147
Her arms across her breast she laid	1143
Her eyes are like forget-me-nots	267
Her eyes have seen the monoliths of kings	2847
Her eyes the glow-worm lend thee	695
Her face was very fair to see	389
Her hair was tawny with gold, her eyes with purple were dark	3315
Her lips were so near	743
Her suffering ended with the day	3548
Her talk was all of woodland things	1130
Her thoughts are like a flock of butterflies	390
Here, a sheer hulk, lies poor Tom Bowling	1628
Here doth Dionysia lie	307
Here I come creeping, creeping everywhere	1487
Here, in my snug little fire-lit chamber	460
Here in the country's heart	1644
Here in the marshland, past the battered bridge	2326
Here, in this sequestered close	1449
Here is the place: right over the hill	1109
Here is the place where Loveliness keeps house	1302
Here lie I, Martin Elginbrodde	1917
Here lies my wife; here let her lie	1919
Here lies our Sovereign Lord the King	1911
Here lies, whom hound did ne'er pursue	1823
Here poise, like flowers on flowers, the butterflies	3597
Here shall remain all tears for lovely things	3088
Here sits the Lord Mayor	58
Here sparrows build upon the trees	3233
"Here we stan' on the Constitution, by thunder"	1840
Here, where the world is quiet	3424
Here's a health to them that's awa'	2275
Here's a mellow cup of tea—golden tea	1955
Here's another day, dear	139
Here's the garden she walked across	964
Here's to the maiden of bashful fifteen	1999
Here's to the year that's awa'	2000
Hey, diddle, diddle	33
Hickory, dickory, dock	32
Hide, happy damask, from the stars	705
Hie upon Hielands	2714
Higgleby, piggleby, my black hen	35

PAGE
High grace, the dower of queens, and therewithal 1257
Hills o' my heart 2267
His golden locks Time hath to silver turned 399
His radiant fingers so adorning 1328
Ho, pretty page, with the dimpled chin 838
"Ho, sailor of the sea" 1612
"Ho! why dost thou shiver and shake" 1996
Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty 3793
Home comes a lad with the bonnie hair 2307
Home, home from the horizon far and clear 674
Home they brought her sailor son 1935
Home they brought her warrior dead 1093
How blest the maid whose heart—yet free 334
How dear to this heart are the scenes of my childhood 466
How delicious is the winning 490
How do I love thee? let me count the ways 1282
How do I love you 580
"How does the water" 1420
How doth the little busy bee 104
How falls it, oriole, thou hast come to fly 1557
How fond are men of rule and place 1852
How good to lie a little while 112
How green the earth, how blue the sky 3536
How happy is he born and taught 2986
How joyously the young sea-mew 1563
How many a thing which we cast to the ground 1267
How many kisses do I ask 692
How many paltry, foolish, painted things 1244
"How many pounds does the baby weigh" 15
How many summers, love 1223
How much the heart may bear, and yet not break 3382
How oft against the sunset sky or moon 1582
How often in the summer-tide 801
How sad if, by some strange new law 1908
How seldom, friend, a good great man inherits 2860
How shall I tell the measure of my love 1276
How sleep the brave, who sink to rest 2194
How slowly creeps the hand of Time 3435
How soon hath Time, the subtle thief of youth 359
How still this quiet cornfield is tonight 2547
How sweet is the shepherd's sweet lot 153
How sweet the harmonies of afternoon 1523
How sweetly on the autumn scene 1539
How the blithe lark runs up the golden stair 1567
How then shall man so order life that when his tale of years is told 2890
How vainly men themselves amaze 1446
Humpty Dumpty sat on a wall 64
Hush 1579
Hush! my dear, lie still and slumber 79
Hush your prayers, 'tis no saintly soul 3500

I

I ain't afeard uv snakes, or toads, or bugs, or worms, or mice 172
I am a woman—therefore I may not 912
I am an ancient Jest 1708
I am but clay in thy hands; but thou art the all-loving artist 2974
I am content, I do not care 2989
I am dying, Egypt, dying 2346
I am far frae my hame, an' I'm weary often whiles 3710
I am fevered with the sunset 1688

PAGE
I am gai. I am poet. I dvell. 2087
I am his Highness' dog at Kew. 1916
I am jealous; I am true. 628
I am just two and two, I am warm, I am cold. 685
I am monarch of all I survey. 3038
I am the key that parts the gates of Fame. 3430
I am the reality of things that seem. 3086
I am the torch, she saith, and what to me. 1004
I am the wind that wavers. 680
I arise from dreams of thee. 702
I ask not that my bed of death. 3459
I asked my fair, one happy day. 726
I beg you come to-night and dine. 1986
I bring fresh showers for the thirsting flowers. 1440
I bring you all my olden days. 663
I came into the city and none knew me. 3748
I came to the door of the House of Love. 511
I cannot change as others do. 611
I cannot eat but little meat. 1990
I cannot make him dead. 318
I cannot put the Presence by, of Him, the Crucified. 3750
I care not for these ladies. 524
I cast these lyric offerings at your feet. 1272
I change, and so do women too. 1919
I clink my castanet. 1337
I come from haunts of coot and hern. 1416
I come from woods enchanted. 236
I dare but sing of you in such a strain. 1271
I dare not ask a kiss. 684
I did but look and love awhile. 613
I do be thinking, lassie, of the old days now. 447
I do confess thou'rt smooth and fair. 808
I do not care for kisses. 'Tis a debt. 1262
I do not count the hours I spend. 1398
I do not love thee!—no—I do not love thee. 962
I do not own an inch of land. 1647
I do not pray for peace nor ease. 2940
I don't go much on religion. 3339
I dreamed that, as I wandered by the way. 867
I drew it from its china tomb. 1814
I drink of the ale of Southwark, I drink of the ale of Chepe. 2015
I dug, beneath the cypress shade. 865
I envy every flower that blows. 672
I envy not in any moods. 2899
I envy not the lark his song divine. 3100
I fear no power a woman wields. 1659
I fear thy kisses, gentle maiden. 688
I feel a poem in my heart to-night. 3079
I fill this cup to one made up. 387
I fled Him, down the nights and down the days. 3204
I flung me round him. 3213
I found in dreams a place of wind and flowers. 642
I gaed to spend a week in Fife. 2132
I gazed upon the glorious sky. 3457
I give my soldier boy a blade. 2287
I give thee treasures hour by hour. 666
I had a dove, and the sweet dove died. 2379
I had a little Doggy that used to sit and beg. 46
I had a little husband. 43
I had not seen my son's dear face. 3775
I hae seen great anes and sat in great ha's. 3238
"I hardly ever ope my lips," one cries. 1915

PAGE
I have a little kinsman ... 298
I have a little shadow that goes in and out with me ... 158
I have a mistress, for perfections rare ... 531
I have a name, a little name ... 455
I have a rendezvous with Death ... 2560
I have brought the wine ... 681
I have got a new-born sister ... 14
I have had playmates, I have had companions ... 453
I have left a basket of dates ... 3071
I have lived and I have loved ... 3221
"I have no name" ... 4
I have no wit, no words, no tears ... 3461
I have not where to lay my head ... 3481
I have praised many loved ones in my song ... 396
I have read, in some old, marvelous tale ... 2863
I have shut my little sister in from life and light ... 3057
I hear a whisper in the heated air ... 2638
I hear in my heart, I hear in its ominous pulses ... 3475
I hear you, little bird ... 3100
I heard a soldier sing some trifle ... 927
I heard a thousand blended notes ... 1334
I heard men saying, Leave hope and praying ... 3017
I heard the bells on Christmas Day ... 211
I heard the trailing garments of the night ... 1327
I heard the voice of Jesus say ... 3810
I held her hand, the pledge of bliss ... 831
I held it truth, with him who sings ... 2899
I hid my heart in a nest of roses ... 499
I hold you at last in my hand ... 1519
I hope there is a resurrection day ... 3553
I idle stand that I may find employ ... 2970
I in these flowery meads would be ... 1664
I intended an ode ... 1782
I journeyed, on a winter's day ... 1926
I keep walking around myself, mouth open with amazement ... 2997
I kneel not now to pray that thou ... 2939
I knew a much-loved mariner ... 3537
I knew his house by the poplar-trees ... 1054
I knew she lay above me ... 3549
I know a girl with teeth of pearl ... 734
I know a little garden-close ... 894
I know a place where the sun is like gold ... 1472
I know a secret, such a one ... 667
I know a thing that's most uncommon ... 380
I know, Justine, you speak me fair ... 853
I know not but in every leaf ... 3036
I know not if I love her overmuch ... 1264
I know not of what we pondered ... 1736
I know not why, but even to me ... 654
I know that these poor rags of womanhood ... 3469
"I know what you're going to say," she said ... 787
I know, where Hampshire fronts the Night ... 1832
I know you: solitary griefs ... 3351
I lately lived in quiet ease ... 750
I lately vowed, but 'twas in haste ... 826
I lay me down to sleep ... 3463
I lay upon the summer grass ... 266
I leaned out of window, I smelt the white clover ... 428
I left thee last, a child at heart ... 1085
I like a church; I like a cowl ... 2966
I like her gentle hand that sometimes strays ... 1264
I like little Pussy, her coat is so warm ... 102

PAGE
I like that ancient Saxon phrase, which calls . . . 3439
I like the hunting of the hare . . . 1638
I little know or care . . . 991
I looked and saw your eyes in the shadow of your hair . . . 640
I love my life, but not too well . . . 681
I love the old melodious lays . . . 3078
I love the stony pasture . . . 1438
I love thee when thy swelling buds appear . . . 1403
I love Thy Kingdom, Lord . . . 3797
I love to hear thine earnest voice . . . 1512
I loved a lass, a fair one . . . 718
I loved him not; and yet now he is gone . . . 1077
I loved thee long and dearly . . . 1117
I loved thee once; I'll love no more . . . 809
I made a posy, while the day ran by . . . 2931
I made another garden, yea . . . 896
I made the cross myself whose weight . . . 3462
I make my shroud but no one knows . . . 3478
I marvelled why a simple child . . . 1925
I met a child upon the moor . . . 307
I met a little Elf-man, once . . . 248
I met a traveler from an antique land . . . 2844
I met her on the Umbrian Hills . . . 2934
I met with Death in his country . . . 2559
I mind me in the days departed . . . 1455
I mourn "Patroclus," whilst I praise . . . 1827
I move amid your throng, I watch you hold . . . 1272
I must go down to the seas again, to the lovely sea and the sky . . . 1590
I must not grieve my Love, whose eyes would read . . . 1241
I must not think of thee; and, tired yet strong . . . 1263
I must not throw upon the floor . . . 104
I ne'er could any luster see . . . 827
"I never can do it," the little kite said . . . 115
I never gave a lock of hair away . . . 1280
I never prayed for Dryads, to haunt the woods again . . . 3099
I never reared a young gazelle . . . 1930
I never saw a moor . . . 3711
I never saw a Purple Cow . . . 2085
I pass my days among the quiet places . . . 632
I played with you, 'mid cowslips blowing . . . 790
I pray for peace; yet peace is but a prayer . . . 2553
I pray thee, leave, love me no more . . . 586
I prithee send me back my heart . . . 763
I read last night of the Grand Review . . . 2513
I recollect a nurse called Ann . . . 1736
I remember, I remember . . . 443
I reside at Table Mountain, and my name is Truthful James . . . 2170
I rose up when the battle was dead . . . 3008
I said, "Let me walk in the fields" . . . 3774
I said—Then, dearest, since 'tis so . . . 877
I said to Lettice, our sister Lettice . . . 1208
I sat beside the streamlet . . . 987
I sat with Doris, the shepherd maiden . . . 1201
I sat with Love upon a woodside well . . . 1258
I sat with one I love last night . . . 954
I saw Eternity the other night . . . 3696
I saw fair Chloris walk alone . . . 523
I saw him once before . . . 1741
I saw it once where myriad works adorn . . . 3751
I saw my Lady weep . . . 863
I saw old Autumn in the misty morn . . . 1376
I saw, one sultry night above a swamp . . . 1519

PAGE
I saw the clouds among the hills 2084
I saw the Conquerors riding by 3068
I saw the day's white rapture 892
I saw the Son of God go by 3742
I saw the spires of Oxford 2560
I saw the twinkle of white feet 852
I saw thee when, as twilight fell 3769
I saw two clouds at morning 1196
I saw with open eyes 3061
I say it under the rose 1750
I see her in the festal warmth to-night 576
I see thee pine like her in golden story 3601
I sent for Ratcliffe; was so ill 1910
I sent my love two roses,—one 796
I sent a charm upon your hurrying breath 1199
I shall not cry Return! Return! 1081
I shall not see the faces of my friends 3474
I shot an arrow into the air 2923
I sing no longer of the skies 1056
I sing of brooks, of blossoms, birds, and bowers 3105
I sing the hymn of the conquered, who fell in the Battle of Life 2945
I sleep and rest, my heart makes moan 430
I slept, and dreamed that life was beauty 2972
I slept in an old homestead by the sea 1575
I sometimes think that never lasts so long 1922
I spied beside the garden bed 138
I sprang to the stirrup, and Joris, and he 2732
I stand upon the summit of my years 3499
I stood in Venice on the Bridge of Sighs 2618
I stood on the bridge at midnight 3356
I strove with none; for none was worth my strife 3491
I struck the board, and cried "No more" 3719
I studied my tables over and over, and backward and forward, too 166
I take my chaperon to the play 1795
I tell thee, Dick, where I have been 763
I tell you, hopeless grief is passionless 3353
I that tremble at your feet 666
I think he had not heard of the far towns 3740
I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contained 2996
I think it is over, over 3493
I think that I am drawing to an end 1953
I think that I shall never see 1407
I think thou waitest, Love, beyond the gate 893
I thought once how Theocritus had sung 1276
I took a hansom on today 827
I took her dainty eyes, as well 576
I traveled among unknown men 1074
I try to knead and spin, but my life is low the while 3361
I wadna gi'e my ain wife 1206
I waited for the train at Coventry 2593
I walk down the garden paths 1134
I walked beside the evening sea 2849
I walked with Maisie long years back 1058
I wandered by the brookside 1147
I wandered lonely as a cloud 1473
I was a wandering sheep 3757
I was asking for something specific and perfect for my city 2568
I was in Margate last July, I walked upon the pier 2120
I was thy neighbor once, thou rugged Pile 3587
I watch beside you in your silent room 1274

PAGE
I weep for Adonais—he is dead. . . . 3612
I weigh not fortune's frown or smile. . . . 2980
I went back an old-time lane. . . . 1131
I went out to the farthest meadow. . . . 1014
I went to her who loveth me no more. . . . 1008
I went to turn the grass once after one. . . . 3074
I who am dead a thousand years. . . . 3101
I will arise and go now, and go to Innisfree. . . . 1634
I will go back to the great sweet mother. . . . 1585
I will make you brooches and toys for your delight. . . . 654
I will not break the tryst, my dear. . . . 1111
I will not have the mad Clytie. . . . 1465
I will paint her as I see her. . . . 338
I will reach far down in the pit of sorrow. . . . 2854
I wish, because the sweetness of your passing. . . . 664
I wish I could remember the first day. . . . 1259
I wish I lived in a caravan. . . . 161
I wish I was in de land ob cotton. . . . 2218
I wish I were where Helen lies. . . . 1060
I wish that my Room had a Floor. . . . 2086
I wonder, by my troth, what thou and I. . . . 1142
I wonder do you feel to-day. . . . 882
I wonder in what Isle of Bliss. . . . 1785
I would not give my Irish wife. . . . 1207
I would not have a god come in. . . . 2938
I would not live alway—live alway below. . . . 3476
"I would," says Fox, "a tax devise". . . . 1916
I would that all men my hard case might know. . . . 2189
I would unto my fair restore. . . . 1054
I write. He sits beside my chair. . . . 269
I wrote some lines once on a time. . . . 2138
I wus mighty good-lookin' when I wus young. . . . 2183
I'd a dream tonight. . . . 301
I'd be a Butterfly born in a bower. . . . 1712
I'd rather have Fingers than Toes. . . . 2086
I'd "read" three hours. Both notes and text. . . . 1773
If a man who turnips cries. . . . 1916
If all the world and love were young. . . . 585
If all the world were apple-pie. . . . 33
If any record of our names. . . . 3000
If aught of oaten stop, or pastoral song. . . . 1313
If doughty deeds my lady please. . . . 619
If, dumb too long, the drooping Muse hath stayed. . . . 3584
If ever there lived a Yankee lad. . . . 2163
If I could choose my paradise. . . . 895
If I could come again to that dear place. . . . 3402
If I could shut the gate against my thoughts. . . . 3743
If I had as much money as I could spend. . . . 32
If I had chosen thee, thou shouldst have been. . . . 851
If I had never known your face at all. . . . 1273
If I had thought thou couldst have died. . . . 1082
If I have faltered more or less. . . . 3729
"If I may trust your love," she cried. . . . 1007
If I shall ever win the home in heaven. . . . 3327
If I should die, think only this of me. . . . 2546
If I should die to-night. . . . 1950
If I was drawn here from a distant place. . . . 581
If I were dead, and, in my place. . . . 615
"If I were dead," you'd sometimes say, Poor Child. . . . 296
If I were told that I must die to-morrow. . . . 3464
If "ifs" and "ands". . . . 65
If it be pleasant to look on, stalled in the packed serai. . . . 1911

PAGE
If life be as a flame that death doth kill ... 3499
If life were never bitter ... 1044
If love be life, I long to die ... 818
If Love were jester at the court of Death ... 3474
If love were what the rose is ... 641
If my face could only promise that its color would remain ... 915
If only in dreams may man be fully blest ... 689
If rest is sweet at shut of day ... 3423
If rightly tuneful bards decide ... 537
If she be made of white and red ... 570
If she but knew that I am weeping ... 978
If spirits walk, love, when the night climbs slow ... 1118
If the quick spirits in your eye ... 597
If the red slayer think he slays ... 2964
If the sudden tidings came ... 3255
If the things of earth must pass ... 2850
If there be graveyards in the heart ... 662
If they hint, O Musician, the piece that you played ... 1883
If thou hast squandered years to grave a gem ... 2919
If thou must love me, let it be for naught ... 1280
If thou shouldst bid thy friend farewell ... 3014
If thou survive my well-contented day ... 1248
If thou wert by my side, my love ... 1209
If to be absent were to be ... 933
If, wandering in a wizard's car ... 791
If wishes were horses ... 64
If with light head erect I sing ... 2961
If women could be fair, and yet not fond ... 807
If you be that May Margaret ... 1145
If you become a nun, dear ... 624
If you had lived in that more stately time ... 1271
Il est un air pour qui je donnerais ... 3842
Il était un roi d'Yvetot ... 3840
Il existe une espinstere à Tours ... 2087
I'll sing you a good old song ... 1721
I'll sing you a song, not very long ... 2076
I'll tell you a story ... 31
I'll tell you a story that's not in Tom Moore ... 2130
I'll tell you how the leaves came down ... 142
I'm a gay tra, la, la ... 2066
I'm going softly all my years in wisdom if in pain ... 448
"I'm growing old, I've sixty years" ... 438
I'm sittin' on the stile, Mary ... 1086
I'm wearin' awa', John ... 3699
In a church which is furnished with mullion and gable ... 1868
In a coign of the cliff between lowland and highland ... 1459
In a drear-nighted December ... 3395
In a quiet watered land, a land of roses ... 2607
In a valley, centuries ago ... 2859
In after days, when grasses high ... 3502
In all the land, range up, range down ... 3383
In an old book at even as I read ... 3466
In Clementina's artless mien ... 729
In days when George the Third was King ... 1802
In every line a supple beauty ... 1794
In far forests' leafy twilight, now is stealing gray dawn's shy light ... 1310
In form and feature, face and limb ... 2068
In going to my naked bed, as one that would have slept ... 3031
In good King Charles's golden days ... 1835
In good looks I am not a star ... 2090
In green old gardens, hidden away ... 1450

PAGE
In Heaven a spirit doth dwell ... 3077
In his old gusty garden of the North ... 3657
In Köln, a town of monks and bones ... 1911
In London was young Beichan born ... 2666
In marble walls as white as milk ... 63
In May, when sea-winds pierced our solitudes ... 1497
In our old shipwrecked days there was an hour ... 1266
In petticoat of green ... 527
In praise of little children I will say ... 253
In Scarlet town, where I was born ... 2704
In simpler verse than triolets ... 3089
In slumbers of midnight the sailor-boy lay ... 1615
In spite of all the learned have said ... 3438
In summer I am very glad ... 130
In summer, when the grass is thick, if mother has the time ... 231
In sunny girlhood's vernal life ... 1758
In tangled wreaths, in clustered gleaming stars ... 1490
In tattered old slippers that toast at the bars ... 3239
In that new world toward which our feet are set ... 1294
In the ancient town of Bruges ... 2627
In the cool of the evening, when the low sweet whispers waken ... 1316
In the Cross of Christ I glory ... 3802
In the dark, in the dew ... 652
In the dark womb where I began ... 397
In the days of old ... 489
In the down-hill of life, when I find I'm declining ... 402
In the garden of death, where the singers whose names are deathless ... 3647
In the greenest of our valleys ... 3168
In the highlands, in the country places ... 1675
In the hour of my distress ... 3744
In the light of the moon, by the side of the water ... 322
In the lonesome latter years ... 1946
In the market-place of Bruges stands the belfry old and brown ... 2629
In the merry month of May ... 716
In the night ... 1433
In the silent midnight watches ... 3811
In the still air the music lies unheard ... 3717
In the summer even ... 1621
In the valley of the Pegnitz, where across broad meadow-lands ... 2632
In the wild autumn weather, when the rain was on the sea ... 1104
In the years about twenty ... 741
In their ragged regimentals ... 2433
In these drear wastes of sea-born land, these wilds where none may dwell but He ... 2887
In these restrained and careful times ... 1759
In this secluded shrine ... 1503
In this world, the Isle of Dreams ... 3698
In Tilbury Town did old King Cole ... 1797
In vain you tell your parting lover ... 937
In Xanadu did Kubla Khan ... 3160
Indeed this very love which is my boast ... 1279
Ins stille Land ... 3832
Integer vitæ scelerisque purus ... 3828
Into a ward of the whitewashed walls ... 2318
Into the Devil tavern ... 2743
Into the Silent Land ... 3456
Into the woods my Master went ... 3776
Into the world he looked with sweet surprise ... 27
Into these Loves, who but for Passion looks ... 1242
Ireland, oh Ireland! center of my longings ... 2266
"Is it a sail?" she asked ... 1041

PAGE
Is it true, then, my girl, that you meant it 804
Is the noise of grief in the palace over the river 3558
"Is there anybody there?" said the traveller 3219
Is there, for honest Poverty 3034
Is there no voice in the world to come crying 2851
Is this a fast, to keep 3745
Is this a time to be cloudy and sad 139
Is this Sir Philip Sidney, this loud clown 3610
"Isn't this Joseph's son?"—ay, it is He 3768
It came upon the midnight clear 206
It cannot be that He who made 3712
It ended, and the morrow brought the task 1265
It fell about the Lammas tide 2356
It fell about the Martinmas 2688
It is a beauteous evening, calm and free 1314
It is a place where poets crowned may feel the heart's decaying 3601
It is an ancient Mariner 2747
It is creation's morning 2573
It is not Beauty I demand 547
It is not, Celia, in our power 594
It is not growing like a tree 2836
It is not raining rain for me 1442
It is not to be thought of that the flood 2238
It is the miller's daughter 633
It is time to be old 410
It isn't the thing you do, dear 2926
It keeps eternal whisperings around 1588
It lies around us like a cloud 3708
It lies not on the sunlit hill 2853
It little profits that an idle king 3179
It once might have been, once only 880
It owned not a color that vanity dons 1804
It shifts and shifts from form to form 2868
It was a' for our rightfu' king 2274
It was a friar of orders gray 2710
It was a heavenly time of life 357
It was a lordling's daughter, the fairest one of three 725
It was a lover and his lass 717
It was a merry time 181
It was a summer evening 2410
It was a tall young oyster-man lived by the river-side 2139
It was eight bells ringing 2444
It was intill a pleasant time 2643
It was many and many a year ago 1105
It was not like your great and gracious ways 974
It was nothing but a rose I gave her 1011
It was six men of Indostan 1877
It was the autumn of the year 1020
It was the calm and silent night 204
It was the charming month of May 540
It was the schooner Hesperus 2461
It was the time when lilies blow 2727
It's a lonely road through bogland to the lake at Carrowmore 3216
It's easy to fight when everything's right 2941
It's rare to see the morning breeze 3239
It's we two, it's we two, it's we two for aye 1200
I've found my bonny babe a nest 88
I've heard them lilting at our ewe-milking 2368
I've never traveled for more'n a day 1605
I've oft been asked by prosing souls 1997
I've plucked the berry from the bush, the brown nut from the tree 102
I've wandered east, I've wandered west 955

PAGE
I've wandered to the village, Tom, I've sat beneath the tree . . . 469
I've watched you now a full half-hour . . . 1517

J

Jack and Jill went up the hill . . . 39
Jack and Joan they think no ill . . . 767
Jack Sprat could eat no fat . . . 37
Jaffàr, the Barmecide, the good Vizier . . . 3013
January brings the snow . . . 61
Je me fais vieux, j'ai soixante ans . . . 3844
Je viens revoir l'asile où ma jeunesse . . . 3839
Jenny kissed me when we met . . . 687
Jerusalem, my happy home . . . 3693
Jest a-wearyin' for you . . . 993
Jesus lover of my soul . . . 3791
Jim Bowker, he said, ef he'd had a fair show . . . 1889
Jog on, jog on the foot-path way . . . 2978
John Anderson my jo, John . . . 1224
"John Anderson, my jo, John" . . . 3560
John Brown and Jeanne at Fontainebleau . . . 1792
John Brown in Kansas settled, like a steadfast Yankee farmer . . . 2479
John Brown of Ossawatomie spake on his dying day . . . 2484
John Bull for pastime took a prance . . . 1850
John Gilpin was a citizen . . . 2093
John Grumlie swore by the light o' the moon . . . 2118
John-a-dreams and Harum-Scarum . . . 1699
Johnny shall have a new bonnet . . . 44
Joseph, mild and noble, bent above the straw . . . 214
Joy is the blossom, sorrow is the fruit . . . 1916
Just a picture of Somebody's child . . . 345
Just as I am, without one plea . . . 3800
Just as I thought I was growing old . . . 805
Just for a handful of silver he left us . . . 1836
Just where the Treasury's marble front . . . 1751

K

Kaclyevo's slope still felt . . . 2531
Kathleen Mavoureen! the gray dawn is breaking . . . 979
Kentish Sir Byng stood for his King . . . 2283
Kind are her answers . . . 591
King Charles, and who'll do him right now . . . 2284
King Francis was a hearty king, and loved a royal sport . . . 833
Kiss me softly and speak to me low . . . 690
Kiss me, though you make believe . . . 691
Kissing her hair, I sat against her feet . . . 1146
Know, Celia, since thou art so proud . . . 816

L

Labor and love! there are no other laws . . . 2918
Ladies, though to your conquering eyes . . . 594
Lady Clara Vere de Vere . . . 835
Lady, very fair are you . . . 1899
Langsyne, when life was bonnie . . . 447
Lars Porsena of Clusium . . . 2329
Last night, ah, yesternight, betwixt her lips and mine . . . 918
Last night, among his fellow roughs . . . 2478
Last night, in snowy gown and glove . . . 926
Last year I trod these fields with Di . . . 1733

	PAGE
Late tired with woe, even ready for to pine	1237
Laugh, and the world laughs with you	2929
Laurel-crowned Horatius	2896
Lauriger Horatius	3831
Lay a garland on my hearse	1064
Lay me to rest in some fair spot	3478
Lay me to sleep in sheltering flame	2854
Lead, kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom	3804
Lead us, heavenly Father, lead us	3807
Lear and Cordelia! 'twas an ancient tale	2225
"Leave all—and follow, follow"	1686
Leaves have their time to fall	3411
Lend me thy fillet, Love	571
Let folly praise that fancy loves, I praise and love that child	3747
Let me enjoy the earth no less	2841
Let me not to the marriage of true minds	1251
Let my voice ring out and over the earth	616
Let others sing of Knights and Paladines	1242
Let that which is to come be as it may	3403
Let the farmer praise his grounds	2010
Let the toper regale in his tankard of ale	1984
Let them come, come never so proudly	2373
Let time and chance combine, combine	954
Let us begin and carry up this corpse	2871
Let us drink and be merry, dance, joke and rejoice	1992
Let us go hence, my songs; she will not hear	645
Let us live then, and be glad	2895
Let's contend no more, Love	876
Life? and worth living	2908
Life! I know not what thou art	3491
Life is a jest, and all things show it	1916
Life is not dear or gay	1052
Life of Ages, richly poured	2973
Like a blind spinner in the sun	3467
Like apple-blossoms, white and red	568
Like as a ship, that through the ocean wide	1233
Like as the damask rose you see	3405
Like as the waves make towards the pebbled shore	1249
Like some lone miser, dear, behold me stand	1275
Like the ghost of a dear friend dead	442
Like the violet, which alone	531
Like thee I once have stemmed the sea of life	3518
Like to Diana in her summer weed	521
Like to the falling of a star	2837
Linger not long. Home is not home without thee	1216
Listen, my children, and you shall hear	2422
Listen to the water-mill	2930
Lithe and long as the serpent train	467
Little baby, lay your head	82
Little Bo-peep has lost her sheep	39
Little boy blue, come blow up your horn	34
Little brown brother, oh! little brown brother	135
Little children, never give	101
Little drops of water	103
Little Gustava sits in the sun	154
Little I ask; my wants are few	1743
Little inmate, full of mirth	1511
Little Jack Horner sat in the corner	33
Little Jesus, wast Thou shy	277
Little lady of my heart	997
Little Lamb, who made thee	48
Little Miss Muffet	34

PAGE
Little Nanny Etticoat . . . 63
Little one, come to my knee . . . 175
Little Orphant Annie's come to our house to stay . . . 169
Little Polly Flinders . . . 34
Little Prince Tatters has lost his cap . . . 155
Little Robin Redbreast sat upon a tree . . . 45
Little Sister Rose-Marie . . . 326
Little snatch of ancient song . . . 3087
Little thinks, in the field, yon red-cloaked clown . . . 2962
Little White Lily . . . 137
Lives in winter . . . 63
Lo! Death has reared himself a throne . . . 3417
Lo! here a little volume, but great book . . . 3723
Lo, if some pen should write upon your rafter . . . 3730
Lo, the lilies of the field . . . 3726
Lo! 'tis a gala night . . . 3416
Lo, what wonders the day hath brought . . . 1390
Lo, when the Lord made North and South . . . 385
Lo! where the rosy-bosomed Hours . . . 1343
Long by the willow-trees . . . 1936
Long from the lists of love I stood aloof . . . 744
Long legs, crooked thighs . . . 63
Long long ago, when all the glittering earth . . . 3401
Long time a child, and still a child, when years . . . 408
Look at me with thy large brown eyes . . . 21
Look, Delia, how we esteem the half-blown rose . . . 1240
Look how the lark soars upward and is gone . . . 3085
Look how the pale Queen of the silent night . . . 1253
Look in my face; my name is Might-have-been . . . 435
Look in my face. My name is Used-to-was . . . 1643
Look—on the topmost branches of the world . . . 3059
Look out upon the stars, my love . . . 704
Lord, for the erring thought . . . 2933
Lord, for to-morrow and its needs . . . 3808
Lord Gabriel, wilt thou not rejoice . . . 88
Lord, make me coy and tender to offend . . . 3722
Lord, not for light in darkness do we pray . . . 2951
Lord of my heart's elation . . . 2852
Lord Rameses of Egypt sighed . . . 3401
Lord, Thou hast given me a cell . . . 3713
Lords, Knights, and squires, the numerous band . . . 276
Loud mockers in the roaring street . . . 3749
"Loudoun's bonnie woods and braes" . . . 949
Love bade me welcome; yet my soul drew back . . . 3718
Love, brave Virtue's younger brother . . . 484
Love, by that loosened hair . . . 577
Love came back at fall o' dew . . . 1016
Love comes back to his vacant dwelling . . . 868
Love comes laughing up the valleys . . . 509
Love ere he bleeds, an eagle in high skies . . . 1267
Love for such a cherry lip . . . 682
Love has been sung a thousand ways . . . 579
Love has gone and left me, and the days are all alike . . . 929
Love hath a language for all years . . . 496
Love hath his poppy-wreath . . . 895
Love heeds no more the sighing of the wind . . . 508
Love, I marvel what you are . . . 575
Love in fantastic triumph sate . . . 824
Love in my bosom like a bee . . . 477
Love in thy youth, fair maid, be wise . . . 609
Love is a little golden fish . . . 736
Love is a sickness full of woes . . . 478

PAGE
Love is and was my lord and king 2904
Love is the blossom where there blows 476
Love me or not, love her I must or die 589
Love not, love not, ye hapless sons of clay 871
Love not me for comely grace 601
Love once was like an April dawn 508
Love still a boy and oft a wanton is 1237
Love still has something of the sea 486
Love took my life and thrilled it 499
Love, when all the years are silent, vanished quite and laid to rest 1012
Love who will, for I'll love none 817
Love within the lover's breast 1153
"Love your neighbor as yourself" 806
Love's on the highroad 627
Loving in truth, and fain in verse my love to show 1235
Low, like another's, lies the laureled head 3659
Lowly the soul that waits 1831
Lullaby! O lullaby 83
"Lured," little one? Nay, you've but heard 1176
Lydia is gone this many a year 1126

M

Macphairson Clonglocketty Angus M'Clan 2073
Magdalen at Michael's gate 3735
Maid of Athens, ere we part 951
Maiden! with the meek brown eyes 327
Make me no vows of constancy, dear friend 1116
Make me over, Mother April 1689
Make three fourths of a cross 62
"Make way for Liberty!" he cried 2353
Many a long, long year ago 2146
Many are the wand-bearers 3098
Many love music but for music's sake 3131
March, march, Ettrick and Teviotdale 2278
March winds and April showers 66
Margaret's beauteous—Grecian arts 544
Marian Drury, Marian Drury 998
Marina's gone, and now sit I 931
Mark where the pressing wind shoots javelin-like 1268
Marry Monday, marry for wealth 67
Martial, the things that do attain 2979
Mary had a little lamb 40
Mary! I want a lyre with other strings 1254
Master of human destinies am I 2921
Maud Muller all that summer day 1948
Maud Muller on a summer's day 905
Maxwelton braes are bonnie 550
May I find a woman fair 811
May! queen of blossoms 1361
Meadows with yellow cowslips all aglow 1583
Men call you fair, and you do credit it 1235
Men, dying, make their wills, but wives 1910
Men say the sullen instrument 450
Merrily swinging on brier and weed 1528
Merry are the bells, and merry would they ring 45
Merry it is in the good greenwood 2716
Merry Margaret 329
Methought I heard a butterfly 116
'Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam 3226
Midnight past! Not a sound of aught 1025

	PAGE
Mild offspring of a dark and sullen sire	1496
Milton! thou shouldst be living at this hour	2237
Mimi, do you remember	1800
Mine are the night and morning	1296
Mine be a cot beside the hill	1634
Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord	2206
Mine to the core of the heart, my beauty	1161
Miniver Cheevy, child of scorn	1888
Minnie and Winnie slept in a shell	92
Miss Flora McFlimsey, of Madison Square	2154
Mr. Finney had a turnip	2071
Mistress Mary, quite contrary	31
Moan, moan, ye dying gales	3357
Monday's child is fair of face	67
Monsieur the Curé down the street	1776
Moon in heaven's garden, among the clouds that wander	1357
Moon, so round and yellow	49
More love or more disdain I crave	615
More than half beaten, but fearless	2952
More than most fair, full of the living fire	1232
Mortality, behold and fear	3517
Most glorious Lord of Life! that on this day	1234
Most Holy Night, that still dost keep	3223
Most men know love but as a part of life	3036
Most sweet it is with unuplifted eyes	3087
Most worthy of praise were the virtuous ways	2077
Mother and maid and soldier, hearing best	393
Mother, I cannot mind my wheel	1040
Mother wept and father sighed	289
Mountain gorses, ever golden	1486
Mowers, weary and brown, and blithe	1371
Much have I traveled in the realms of gold	3082
Music I heard with you was more than music	1129
Mussoorie and Chakrata Hill	1435
My aunt! my dear unmarried aunt	1740
My bed is like a little boat	161
"My birth-day"—what a different sound	358
My child came to me with the equinox	20
My coachman, in the moonlight there	1764
My counterpane is soft as silk	219
My country, 'tis of thee	2195
My Damon was the first to wake	621
My Daphne's hair is twisted gold	520
My day and night are in my lady's hand	542
My days among the Dead are passed	2920
My dear and only Love, I pray	604
My dear mistress has a heart	610
My dear, the time has come to say	975
My delight and thy delight	1158
My faint spirit was sitting in the light	626
My fairest child, I have no song to give you	125
My faith looks up to Thee	3810
My Feet they haul me 'round the House	2086
My good blade carves the casques of men	2724
My grandsire sailed three years from home	1799
My hair is gray, but not with years	3274
My heart aches, and a drowsy numbness pains	1552
My heart is chilled and my pulse is slow	1010
My heart is like a fountain true	77
My heart leaps up when I behold	366
My heart shall be thy garden. Come, my own	673
My heart the Anvil where my thoughts do beat	1244

PAGE
My heart's in the Highlands, my heart is not here. 1669
My hero is na decked wi' gowd. 3244
My lady seems of ivory. 562
My lady walks her morning round. 553
My Lady Wind, my Lady Wind. 124
My Lady's birthday crowns the growing year. 574
My Lady's presence makes the Roses red. 1245
My Lesbia, I will not deny. 1754
My letters! all dead paper, mute and white. 1282
My life is like the summer rose. 3358
My little dears, who learn to read, pray early learn to shun. 2021
My little love, do you remember. 888
My little Mädchen found one day. 300
My little Son, who looked from thoughtful eyes. 296
My little soul I never saw. 3400
My Lord would make a cross for me. 3463
My love and I, the other day. 831
My Love bound me with a kiss. 684
My love comes down from the mountain. 648
My Love dwelt in a Northern land. 1121
My love for thee doth march like armèd men. 1263
My love gave me a passion-flower. 1053
My love he built me a bonnie bower. 1063
My love in her attire doth show her wit. 522
My love lies in the gates of foam. 1067
My love she's but a lassie yet. 543
My loved, my honored, much-respected friend. 3246
My mind has thunderstorms. 3110
My mind to me a kingdom is. 2987
My mistress' eyes are nothing like the sun. 1251
My mother bids me bind my hair. 942
My mother bore me in the southern wild. 156
"My mother says I must not pass". 157
My new-cut ashlar takes the light 3816
My ornaments are arms. 626
My Peggy is a young thing. 534
My poet, thou canst touch on all the notes. 1280
My prime of youth is but a frost of cares. 401
My recollectest thoughts are those. 2071
My sheep I neglected, I broke my sheep-crook. 617
My short and happy day is done. 3507
My silks and fine array. 1001
My songs to sell, good sir. 3109
My sorrow that I am not by the little dun. 3362
My soul, there is a country. 3695
My soul today. 1609
My spotless love hovers, with purest wings. 1239
My sweetest Lesbia, let us live and love. 588
My temples throb, my pulses boil. 2048
My tent stands in a garden. 1452
My thoughts by night are often filled. 435
My true-love hath my heart, and I have his. 1141
My walls outside must have some flowers. 1644
Myrtilla, tonight. 1783
Mysterious night! Spread wide thy silvery plume. 1324
Mysterious Night! when our first parent knew. 1324

N

Nae shoon to hide her tiny taes. 19
Nancy Dawson, Nancy Dawson. 988
Nature, in thy largess, grant. 1299

	PAGE
Nature reads not our labels, "great" and "small"	3043
Nay, be you pardoner or cheat	1858
Nay but you, who do not love her	553
Nay, tell me now in what strange air	1784
Nay, why should I fear Death	3487
Nay, you wrong her, my friend, she's not fickle; her love she has simply outgrown	1017
Nearer, my God, to Thee	3805
Needles and pins, needles and pins	65
Needy knife-grinder! whither are you going	1856
Never give all the heart, for love	511
Never love unless you can	810
Never mind how the pedagogue proses	1711
Never more will I protest	812
Never sings a city-robin on the gray-stone window-ledges	3482
Never the nightingale	1139
Never the time and the place	885
Nevermore	3065
Nigh to a grave that was newly made	3441
Night is the time for rest	1325
Night is the true democracy. When day	1328
Nightingale I never heard	1533
Nightingales warble about it	505
No baby in the house, I know	25
No coward soul is mine	3486
No fault in women to refuse	1901
No longer mourn for me when I am dead	1249
No matter how the chances are	1219
No more, my Dear, no more these counsels try	1237
No need to hush the children for her sake	3560
No, no! go not to Lethe, neither twist	3349
No slightest golden rhyme he wrote	3090
No stir in the air, no stir in the sea	1617
No sun—no moon	2048
No truer word, save God's, was ever spoken	1916
Nobles and heralds, by your leave	1917
Nor force nor fraud shall sunder us! oh ye	2225
Not a drum was heard, not a funeral note	2448
Not a sou had he got—not a guinea or note	1933
Not as all other women are	1213
Not by the ball or brand	3609
Not, Celia, that I juster am	610
Not far from old Kinvara, in the merry month of May	758
Not far from Paris, in fair Fontainebleau	3646
Not I myself know all my love for thee	1257
Not on the neck of prince or hound	2959
"Not ours," say some, "the thought of Death to dread"	3428
Not ours the vows of such as plight	865
Not she with traitorous kiss her Saviour stung	377
"Not to be tuneless in old age"	3645
Not with slow, funereal sound	3655
Not yet, dear love, not yet: the sun is high	985
Now ain't they utterly too-too	1952
Now along the solemn heights	3480
Now are the winds about us in their glee	1351
Now fades the last long streak of snow	1338
"Now for a brisk and cheerful fight"	2459
Now gentle sleep hath closèd up those eyes	683
Now glory to the Lord of Hosts, from whom all glories are	2374
Now, God be thanked Who has matched us with His hour	2544
Now in her green mantle blithe Nature arrays	944
Now in thy splendor go before us	2546

PAGE
Now is the night, foreshadowed of our fears 3590
Now many are the stately ships that northward steam away 7996
Now one and all you Roses 1329
Now ponder well, you parents dear 185
Now poor Tom Dunstan's cold 3018
Now that we've done our best and worst, and parted 1270
Now the bright morning-star, day's harbinger 1358
Now the joys of the road are chiefly these 1694
Now the laborer's task is o'er 3573
Now the lusty spring is seen 482
Now the rite is duly done 1195
Now the Widow McGee 1961
Now what is Love, I pray thee, tell 475
"Now where are ye goin', ses I, "wid the shawl" 760

O

O! a wonderful stream is the River Time 417
O bitter wind toward the sunset blowing 2324
O blithe New-comer! I have heard 1538
O Brignall banks are wild and fair 2720
O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done 3629
O Captain of the wars, whence won Ye so great scars 3770
"O come and be my mate!" said the Eagle to the Hen 1898
"O crikey, Bill!" she ses to me, she ses 1951
O days and hours, your work is this 2903
O death, when thou shalt come to me 1080
O, dinna ask me gin I lo'e ye 1163
O, do not wanton with those eyes 592
O don't be sorrowful, darling 1220
O earth, lie heavily upon her eyes 1260
O faint, delicious, spring-time violet 1502
O, Falmouth is a fine town with ships in the bay 3229
O, father's gone to market-town, he was up before the day 1366
O for some honest lover's ghost 602
O Friend! I know not which way I must look 2237
O gentle, gentle summer rain 1443
O God! our help in ages past 3790
O Goddess! hear these tuneless numbers, wrung 3164
O happy Sleep! thou bear'st upon thy breast 3222
O happy Thames that didst my Stella bear 1238
O hush thee, my babie, thy sire was a knight 82
O, inexpressible as sweet 668
O, it is great for our country to die, where ranks are contending 2303
O joys of love and joys of fame 1295
O King of Terrors, whose unbounded sway 3407
O, lay thy hand in mine, dear 1228
O leave this barren spot to me 1410
O lend to me, sweet nightingale 569
O, let the solid ground 497
O, like a queen's her happy tread 577
O listen, listen, ladies gay 2715
O little self, within whose smallness lies 3402
O little town of Bethlehem 203
O living will that shalt endure 2905
O lonesome sea-gull, floating far 1522
O, look at the moon 57
O Love, if you were here 981
O, love is not a summer mood 594
O Love, whose patient pilgrim feet 1226
"O Mary, go and call the cattle home" 1619
O melancholy Bird, a winter's day 1540

PAGE
O Mary, at thy window be ... 697
O merry may the maid be ... 772
O mistress mine, where are you roaming ... 930
O moon, O hide thy golden light ... 3483
O my dark Rosaleen ... 2249
O, my luve's like a red, red rose ... 946
O, Nancy, wilt thou go with me ... 618
O nature! I do not aspire ... 1295
O, never say that I was false of heart ... 1251
O nightingale that on yon bloomy spray ... 1551
O nightingale! thou surely art ... 1545
O, Paddy dear, and did ye hear the news that's goin' round ... 2249
O Paradise, O Paradise ... 3695
O Queen, awake to thy renown ... 384
O reader! hast thou ever stood to see ... 1407
O rowan tree, O rowan tree, thou'lt aye be dear to me ... 3236
O ruddier than the cherry ... 535
O sairly may I rue the day ... 749
O saw ye bonny Lesley ... 331
O saw ye not fair Ines ... 959
O, saw ye the lass wi' the bonnie blue een ... 1159
O say, can you see, by the dawn's early light ... 2196
O say what is that thing called Light ... 157
O ship incoming from the sea ... 1601
O singer of Persephone ... 3664
O singer of the field and fold ... 3664
O spring, I know thee! Seek for sweet surprise ... 1335
O still, white face of perfect peace ... 3575
O Swallow, Swallow, flying, flying South ... 963
O swan of slenderness ... 713
O sweet delight, O more than human bliss ... 1141
O sweet wild April ... 1355
O swift forerunners, rosy with the race ... 1311
O tell me, little children, have you seen her ... 153
O that joy so soon should waste ... 682
O that the chemist's magic art ... 3380
O that the pines which crown yon steep ... 1315
O that those lips had language! Life has passed ... 3251
O that 'twere possible ... 1092
O the gallant fisher's life ... 1665
O the green things growing, the green things growing ... 1461
O the Raggedy man! He works fer Pa ... 166
O Thou great Friend to all the sons of men ... 3730
O Thou unknown Almighty Cause ... 3455
O thou! whose fancies from afar are brought ... 275
O Thou, whose glorious orbs on high ... 2204
O Thou with dewy locks, who lookest down ... 1342
O Time, who know'st a lenient hand to lay ... 3352
O Twilight, Twilight! evermore to hear ... 3131
O waly, waly up the bank ... 1042
O well I love the Spring ... 1217
"O well is me, my gay gos-hawk" ... 2671
O were my Love yon lilac fair ... 621
"O wha will shoe my bonny foot" ... 2660
O what a plague is love ... 722
O what can ail thee, Knight-at-arms ... 1005
"O where hae ye been, Lord Randal, my son" ... 2681
O white priest of Eternity, around ... 1434
O, whither sail you, Sir John Franklin ... 2465
O wild West Wind, thou breath of Autumn's being ... 1378
O will ye choose to hear the news ... 1968
O winds that blow across the sea ... 131

PAGE
O world, be nobler, for her sake 652
O world, I cannot hold thee close enough 1302
O world, thou choosest not the better part 2907
O, yet we trust that somehow good 2900
O, you plant the pain in my heart with your wistful eyes 647
O, young Lochinvar is come out of the west 784
Och, when we lived in ould Glenaun 2605
October gave a party 152
Of a' the airts the wind can blaw 947
Of a' the festivals we hear 2028
Of Adam's first wife, Lilith, it is told 1258
Of all the birds from East to West 149
Of all the girls that are so smart 769
Of all the rides since the birth of time 2445
Of all the ships upon the blue 2180
Of all the torments, all the cares 826
Of all the thoughts of God that are 3412
Of all the wimming doubly blest 2085
Of deepest blue of summer skies 11
Of Heaven and Hell I have no power to sing 3080
Of my ould loves, of their ould ways 1127
Of Nelson and the North 2441
Of old sat Freedom on the heights 2235
Of old the Muses sat on high 3097
Of priests we can offer a charming variety 1957
Of this fair volume which we World do name 1293
Of worthy Captain Lovewell I purpose now to sing 2412
Off with your hat! along the street 1843
Oft has it been my lot to mark 1875
Oft have I seen at some cathedral door 3084
Oft have I walked these woodland paths 1401
Oft I had heard of Lucy Gray 290
Oft in the after days, when thou and I 396
Oft in the stilly night 454
Often I have heard it said 686
Often I think of the beautiful town 444
Often rebuked, yet always back returning 2928
Oh, a dainty plant is the Ivy green 1489
Oh, bless the law that veils the Future's face 325
Oh, breathe not his name! let it sleep in the shade 3609
Oh, days of beauty standing veiled apart 1373
Oh! Death will find me, long before I tire 1269
Oh, did you see him riding down 799
Oh, earlier shall the rosebuds blow 3378
Oh, East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet 2830
Oh, England is a pleasant place for them that's rich and high 1630
Oh, for an hour when the day is breaking 653
Oh for one hour of youthful joy 461
Oh Galuppi, Baldassare, this is very sad to find 3133
Oh grieve not, ladies, if at night 857
Oh, hark the pulses of the night 1164
Oh, hark to the brown thrush! hear how he sings 1579
Oh, heard ye yon pibroch sound sad in the gale 2722
Oh, if the world were mine, Love 740
Oh, if you love her 1171
Oh, it's twenty gallant gentlemen 2799
Oh! leave the past to bury its own dead 1261
Oh, loosen the snood that you wear, Janette 1112
Oh! lose the winter from thine heart, the darkness from thine eyes 1150
"Oh, love is fair, and love is rare," my dear one she said 1055

PAGE
"Oh! Love!" they said, "is King of Kings" 580
Oh, lovely Mary Donnelly, it's you I love the best 554
Oh, masters, you who rule the world 2947
Oh may I join the choir invisible 3485
Oh mother of a mighty race 2203
Oh, my laddie, my laddie 676
Oh, Peterkin Pout and Gregory Grout, 165
"Oh! rise up, Willy Reilly, and come alone with me" 2678
Oh! rosy as the lining of a shell 324
Oh! say not woman's heart is bought 489
Oh! say you so, bold sailor 1535
Oh seek me not within a tomb 3505
Oh sing unto my roundelay 1070
Oh! snatched away in beauty's bloom 1082
Oh, talk not to me of a name great in story 354
Oh, that last day in Lucknow fort 2475
Oh! that we two were Maying 885
Oh, the auld house, the auld house 3234
Oh the Broom, the yellow Broom 1468
Oh! the days are gone, when Beauty bright 864
Oh, the littles that remain 1127
Oh! the old swimmin'-hole! whare the crick so still and deep 468
Oh, the Roman was a rogue 2044
Oh, the sweet contentment 1636
Oh, there are those, a sordid clan 279
Oh, 'tis little Mary Cassidy's the cause of all my misery 759
"Oh, 'tis time I should talk to your mother" 754
Oh, to be in England 1353
Oh, to come home once more, when the dusk is falling 297
Oh, to feel the fresh breeze blowing 1696
Oh wha are sae happy as me an' my Moggy 1227
Oh, whar shill we go w'en de great day comes 2037
Oh, what a set of vagabundos 2404
"Oh, what hae ye brought us hame now, my brave lord" 782
Oh, what know they of harbors 667
Oh where! and oh where! is your Highland laddie gone 2276
Oh! where do fairies hide their heads 235
Oh, where do you come from 48
Oh, where will be the birds that sing 3470
Oh, wherefore come ye forth, in triumph from the North 2392
Oh! who is that poor foreigner that lately came to town 939
Oh, who will follow old Ben Milam into San Antonio 2457
Oh, who would stay indoor, indoor 1662
Oh, why left I my hame 3258
Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud 3409
Oh, wilt thou have my hand, dear, to lie along in thine 872
Oh, Wing Tee Wee 1803
Oh ye wha are sae guid yoursel' 1869
Old Birch, who taught the village school 2175
Old Books are best! With what delight 1759
Old England's sons are English yet 2234
Old Grimes is dead; that good old man 2131
Old King Cole was a merry old soul 36
Old Mother Hubbard 51
Old Mother Twichett had but one eye 63
Old Sorrow I shall meet again 440
Old wine to drink 2011
Old Winter sad, in snowy clad 1386
On a day, alack the day 479
On a starred night Prince Lucifer uprose 3771
On either side the river lie 3188
On gossamer nights when the moon is low 243

	PAGE
On his death-bed poor Lubin lies	1907
On Linden, when the sun was low	2440
On long, serene midsummer days	1498
On parent knees, a naked new-born child	21
On Richmond Hill there lives a lass	616
On the banks of Allan Water	1042
On the Coast of Coromandel	2054
On the eighth of March it was, some people say	1966
On the Sabbath-day	1100
On the sea and at the Hogue, sixteen hundred ninety-two	2804
On these white cliffs, that calm above the flood	3257
On wan dark night on Lac St. Pierre	2033
On Wenlock Edge the wood's in trouble	1401
Once did she hold the gorgeous East in fee	2619
Once in a dream I saw the flowers	3705
Once in a golden hour	2927
Once in Persia, reigned a King	2845
Once more the Heavenly Power	1333
Once on a time I used to dream	1507
Once on a time, once on a time	517
Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered, weak and weary	3170
Once, when I was little, as the summer night was falling	440
One by one, like leaves from a tree	2856
One by one the sands are flowing	3761
One cup for my self-hood	1956
One day, I mind me, now that she is dead	325
One day I wrote her name upon the strand	1235
One day, it thundered and lightened	848
One day, mamma said, "Conrad dear"	123
One day, through the primeval wood	1896
One for her Club and her own Latch-key fights	1921
One honest John Tomkins, a hedger and ditcher	111
One lesson, Nature, let me learn of thee	1300
One little minute more, Maud	650
One misty, moisty morning	33
One more unfortunate	3390
One morning, oh! so early, my belovèd, my belovèd	1144
One night came on a hurricane	2105
One night came Winter noiselessly and leaned	1388
One night I lay asleep in Africa	2854
One other bitter drop to drink	3497
One pale November day	1048
One sweetly solemn thought	3813
One, two	58
One ugly trick has often spoiled	110
One, who is not, we see: but one, whom we see not, is	1935
One word is too often profaned	625
Only a baby small	3
Only a touch; and nothing more	649
Only of thee and me the night wind sings	625
Only tell her that I love	613
Only to find Forever, blest	1112
Onward, Christian soldiers	3814
Open the old cigar-box, get me a Cuba stout	860
Or ever the knightly years were gone	655
Orphan hours, the year is dead	1396
O'Ryan was a man of might	1964
Others abide our question. Thou art free	3653
Oui, l'œuvre sort plus belle	3842
Our band is few, but true and tried	2432
Our bugles sang truce, for the night-cloud had lowered	2281
Our camp-fires shone bright on the mountains	2512

PAGE
Our doctor had called in another, I never had seen him before 292
Our Father Land! and wouldst thou know 3259
Our hired girl, she's 'Lizabuth Ann 171
Our youth began with tears and sighs 363
Our youth is like a rustic at the play 2908
Out from the harbor of Amsterdam 2382
Out I came from the dancing-place 916
Out in the south, when the day is done 2381
Out of the clover and blue-eyed grass 2517
Out of the dusk a shadow 2866
Out of the focal and foremost fire 2320
Out of the hills of Habersham 1423
Out of the night that covers me 3500
Out rode from his wild, dark castle 2028
Out upon it, I have loved 819
Out where the handclasp's a little stronger 2574
Out-worn heart, in a time out-worn 2855
Ov all the birds upon the wing 1527
Over a pipe the Angel of Conversation 1986
Over here in England I'm helpin' wi' the hay 2604
Over hill, over dale 231
Over his keys the musing organist 1367
Over the grass we stepped unto it 968
Over the mountains 494
Over the plains where Persian hosts 668
Over the river, on the hill 3442
Over the river they beckon to me 3509
Over the seas our galleys went 3192
Over the shoulders and slopes of the dune 1478
Over the turret, shut in his ironclad tower 2509
Over the wintry threshold 1349

P

Pack, clouds, away, and welcome, day 696
Paddy, in want of a dinner one day 1960
Paddy McCabe was dying one day 1958
Pallid with too much longing 913
Pansies, lilies, kingcups, daisies 1470
Pass, thou wild light 366
Passing I saw her as she stood beside 344
"Passion o' me!" cried Sir Richard Tyrone 2745
Past ruined Ilion Helen lives 3089
Peace, Shepherd, peace! What boots it singing on 3110
Peace to the slumberers 2302
Pease-pudding hot 33
Perhaps it is no matter that you died 2908
Persicos odi 3827
Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater 31
Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers 37
Phillis kept sheep along the Western plains 768
Phillis took a red rose from the tangles of her hair 693
Philosopher, whom dost thou most affect 1915
Phoebus, arise 1305
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu 2277
Pierrette has gone, but it was not 3388
Pious Selinda goes to prayers 731
Piped the blackbird on the beechwood spray 259
Piping down the valleys wild 126
Pitch here the tent, while the old horse grazes 3312
Play me a march, low-toned and slow—a march for the silent tread 3540
Poets are singing the whole world over 656

PAGE
Poor lone Hannah ... 1624
Poor Lucy Lake was overgrown ... 1926
Poor soul, the centre of my sinful earth ... 1252
Pour courir en poste a la ville ... 3838
Pour, varlet, pour the water ... 1953
Preach wisdom unto him who understands ... 1170
Prithee tell me, Dimple-Chin ... 793
Proud Maisie is in the wood ... 1076
Proud of you, fond of you, clinging so near to you ... 1200
Pussy-cat, pussy-cat, where have you been ... 35

Q

Queen and huntress, chaste and fair ... 1320
Quoth Rab to Kate, my sonsy dear ... 748

R

Rabia, sick upon her bed ... 2953
Rain before seven ... 66
Rain on the face of the sea ... 1946
Rainbow at night ... 66
Rarely, rarely comest thou ... 3364
"Read out the names!" and Burke sat back ... 2298
Receive, dear friend, the truths I teach ... 2991
Rectius vives, Licini, neque altum ... 3829
Remarkable truly, is Art ... 2086
Remember me when I am gone away ... 1260
Ride a cock-horse to Banbury Cross ... 36
"Rifleman, shoot me a fancy shot" ... 2492
Right on our flank the crimson sun went down ... 2472
Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky ... 2902
Ring-ting! I wish I were a Primrose ... 138
Rise, Lady Mistress, rise ... 694
"Rise up, rise up, Lord Douglas," she says ... 2653
Rock of Ages, cleft for me ... 3797
Rock-a-bye, baby, thy cradle is green ... 38
Rockaby, lullaby, bees in the clover ... 86
Rocked in the cradle of the deep ... 1599
Roll forth, my song, like the rushing river ... 3365
Roll on, thou ball, roll on ... 2075
Room after room ... 637
Room for a Soldier! lay him in the clover ... 2314
Rose kissed me to-day ... 1800
Rose o' the World, she came to my bed ... 910
Rose, when I remember you ... 272
Roses are beauty, but I never see ... 3402
Round among the quiet graves ... 1112
Round the cape of a sudden came the sea ... 1157
Row gently here ... 700
Rub-a-dub-dub ... 31
Run, shepherds, run where Bethlehem blest appears ... 207

S

Sad is our youth, for it is ever going ... 416
Said God, "You sisters, ere you go" ... 3368
Said the Raggedy Man, on a hot afternoon ... 168
Said the Wind to the Moon: "I will blow you out" ... 133
St. Agnes' Eve—Ah, bitter chill it was ... 3284
St. James's Street, of classic fame ... 2599
St. Michael's Mount, the tidal isle ... 2596

PAGE
St. Patrick was a gentleman 1966
St. Stephen's cloistered hall was proud 2365
Sally Salter, she was a young teacher who taught 2067
Sang the sunrise on an amber morn 1354
Santa Ana came storming, as a storm might come 2458
Sargon is dust, Semiramis a clod 2848
Sarsfield went out the Dutch to rout 2410
Say, is it day, is it dusk in thy bower 903
Say not the struggle naught availeth 2839
Say over again, and yet once over again 1281
Scar not earth's breast that I may have 3471
Scorn not the sonnet; Critic, you have frowned 3109
Scots who hae wi' Wallace bled 2350
Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness 1375
Seated one day at the Organ 3398
See a pin and pick it up 66
See, children, the Fur-bear-ing Seal 2083
See, from this counterfeit of him 3604
See how the flowers, as at parade 1448
See, see, she wakes! Sabina wakes 697
See the chariot at hand here of Love 526
See with what simplicity 273
Seldom "cant" 99
Send home my long-strayed eyes to me 593
Serene, I fold my hands and wait 3495
Set in the stormy Northern sea 2244
Set your face to the sea, fond lover 921
Seven weeks of sea, and twice seven days of storm 2230
Seven white roses on one tree 255
Sez Corporal Madden to Private McFadden 1977
Shall I compare thee to a Summer's day 1246
Shall I (like a hermit) dwell 814
Shall I say that what heaven gave 3553
Shall I tell you whom I love 815
Shall I, wasting in despair 813
Shall we meet no more, my love, at the binding of the sheaves 914
Shame upon you, Robin 733
She can be as wise as we 562
She died in beauty,—like a rose 3548
She dwelt among the untrodden ways 1074
She has a primrose at her breast 740
"She has beauty, but you must keep your heart cool" 730
She has gone,—she has left us in passion and pride 2485
She has laughed as softly as if she sighed 495
She is a rich and rare land 2265
She is a winsome wee thing 1208
She is all so slight 581
"She is dead!" they said to him. "Come away" 3579
She is far from the land where her young hero sleeps 1078
She is not fair to outward view 548
She is not old, she is not young 1908
She kissed me on the forehead 887
She loved the Autumn, I the Spring 3362
She made a little shadow-hidden grave 3396
She passed away like morning dew 3550
She rose from her untroubled sleep 348
She sang of lovers met to play 1049
She sat and wept beside His feet; the weight 3387
She sees her image in the glass 856
She smiles and smiles, and will not sigh 639
She stood alone amidst the April fields 3741
She stood breast high among the corn 332

PAGE
She that denies me I would have 818
She that I pursue, still flies me 825
She walks in beauty, like the night 383
She walks, the lady of my delight 393
She wanders in the April woods 1046
She was a beauty in the days 1765
She was a phantom of delight 380
She was a queen of noble Nature's crowning 381
She was only a woman, famished for loving 1040
She was young and blithe and fair 1051
Shed no tear! O, shed no tear 237
Shemuel, the Bethlehemite 3578
Sherwood in the twilight, is Robin Hood awake 2591
She's loveliest of the festal throng 1028
She's somewhere in the sunlight strong 995
Shock's fate I mourn; poor Shock is now no more 1826
Short and sweet, and we've come to the end of it 828
Should auld acquaintance be forgot 464
Shout for the mighty men 2345
Shut not so soon; the dull-eyed night 1477
Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more 807
Silence instead of thy sweet song, my bird 1544
Silvery the olives on Ravello's steeps 2616
Silvia, let us from the crowd retire 614
Simple Simon met a pieman 42
Since, Lord, to Thee 3721
Since there's no help, come, let us kiss and part 1245
Since we parted yester eve 641
Sing a song of sixpence 41
Sing a song of Spring-time 1331
Sing again the song you sung 868
Sing lullaby, as women do 715
Sing me a song of a lad that is gone 438
Sing me a sweet, low song of night 1164
Sing the old song, amid the sounds dispersing 866
Sing we for love and idleness 452
Sir, I admit your general rule 1917
Sir Lancelot beside the mere 2813
Sister, awake! close not your eyes 1361
Six little mice sat down to spin 38
'Skeeters am a hummin' on de honeysuckle vine 91
Skies to the West are stained with madder 1315
Slayer of winter, art thou here again 1350
Sleep, angry beauty, sleep and fear not me 694
Sleep, baby, sleep! what ails my dear 75
Sleep, little Baby, sleep 85
Sleep, my baby, while I sing 92
Sleep on, and dream of Heaven awhile 699
Sleep, Silence' child, sweet father of soft rest 3220
Sleep, sleep, beauty bright 81
Sleep softly . . . eagle forgotten . . . under the stone 3587
Sleep sweetly in your humble graves 2321
Slowly by God's hand unfurled 2968
Slowly England's sun was setting o'er the hilltops far away 3329
Small service is true service while it lasts 125
Small traveler from an unseen shore 9
Sneeze on a Monday, you sneeze for danger 67
Snow and stars, the same as ever 424
So all day long the noise of battle rolled 3181
"So careful of the type?" but no 2901
So fair, so dear, so warm upon my bosom 24
So fallen! so lost! the light withdrawn 1837

PAGE
So far as our story approaches the end. . . . 1029
So hath he fallen, the Endymion of the air. . . . 3600
So here hath been dawning. . . . 2920
So many worlds, so much to do. . . . 2902
So nigh is grandeur to our dust. . . . 290
So oft as I here beauty do behold. . . . 1233
So sang I in the springtime of my years. . . . 1275
So sweet love seemed that April morn. . . . 920
So that soldierly legend is still on its journey. . . . 2493
So, we'll go no more a roving. . . . 866
Soft child of love, thou balmy bliss. . . . 686
Soft, gray buds on the willow. . . . 1158
Soft little hands that stray and clutch. . . . 20
Soft on the sunset sky. . . . 923
Softly now the light of day. . . . 3815
Softly, O midnight Hours. . . . 701
Softly woo away her breath. . . . 3548
Soldier, rest! thy warfare o'er. . . . 2301
Sole Lord of Lords and very King of Kings. . . . 2847
Solomon Grundy. . . . 45
Sombre and rich, the skies. . . . 3598
Some asked me where the rubies grew. . . . 528
Some day, some day of days, threading the street. . . . 658
Some find Love late, some find him soon. . . . 504
Some must delve when the dawn is nigh. . . . 2850
Some reckon their age by years. . . . 3381
Some say that kissing's a sin. . . . 692
Some talk of Alexander, and some of Hercules. . . . 2280
Some ten or twenty times a day. . . . 1874
Some winter night, shut snugly in. . . . 635
Some years ago, ere Time and Taste. . . . 1715
Something calls and whispers, along the city street. . . . 1703
Something there is that doesn't love a wall. . . . 3075
Something to live for came to the place. . . . 3
Sometime at eve when the tide is low. . . . 3468
Sometime it may be you and I. . . . 927
Sometime, when all life's lessons have been learned. . . . 3513
Sometimes when fragrant summer dusk. . . . 1701
Sometimes wind and sometimes rain. . . . 282
Somewhat back from the village street. . . . 3242
Somewhere beneath the sun. . . . 497
"Somewhere," he mused, "its dear enchantments wait". . . . 1206
Somewhere lost in the haze. . . . 2557
Son of the ocean isle. . . . 2306
Song is so old. . . . 674
Soon as the day begins to waste. . . . 774
Sorrow has a harp of seven strings. . . . 3360
Souls of Poets dead and gone. . . . 1989
Southrons, hear your country call you. . . . 2219
Southward with fleet of ice. . . . 2368
Spake full well, in language quaint and olden. . . . 1463
Sparkling and bright in liquid light. . . . 2007
Speak low to me, my Saviour, low and sweet. . . . 3766
"Speak! speak! thou fearful guest". . . . 3323
Spirit of Twilight, through your folded wings. . . . 1317
Spirit that moves the sap in spring. . . . 3081
Spring comes laughing down the valley. . . . 1349
Spring, the sweet Spring, is the year's pleasant king. . . . 1336
Spring, with that nameless pathos in the air. . . . 1344
Spruce Macaronis, and pretty to see. . . . 2429
Squire Adam had two wives, they say. . . . 575
Stabat mater dolorosa. . . . 3821

PAGE
Stand here by my side and turn, I pray . . . 1391
Stand! the ground's you own, my braves . . . 2428
Star that bringest home the bee . . . 1319
Stars of the summer night . . . 705
Stars trembling o'er us and sunset before us . . . 1597
Stay, stay at home, my heart, and rest . . . 3232
Stella! since thou so right a Princess art . . . 1238
Stern Daughter of the Voice of God . . . 2955
Still on the tower stood the vane . . . 1177
Still to be neat, still to be dressed . . . 377
Stop!—not to me, at this bitter departing . . . 966
Stood the afflicted mother weeping . . . 3779
Strange fits of passion have I known . . . 1073
Strange wares are handled on the wharves of sleep . . . 3224
Streets of the roaring town . . . 2210
Strephon kissed me in the spring . . . 923
Strew on her roses, roses . . . 1098
Strong Son of God, immortal Love . . . 2898
Sublime—invention ever young . . . 3783
Such is the death the soldier dies . . . 2317
Such special sweetness was about . . . 660
Suddenly, out of dark and leafy ways . . . 3218
"Summer is coming, summer is coming" . . . 1578
Sunset and evening star . . . 3504
Superintindint wuz Flannigan . . . 1979
Suppose the little cowslip . . . 119
Suppose you sereeve? or go cheap-jack . . . 1857
Sure maybe ye've heard the storm-thrush . . . 1521
Surprised by joy—impatient as the Wind . . . 3566
Surrounded by unnumbered foes . . . 3768
Swallow, my sister, O sister swallow . . . 1576
Swans sing before they die—'twere no bad thing . . . 1917
Sweet and low, sweet and low . . . 83
Sweet are the thoughts that savor of content . . . 2979
Sweet Auburn! loveliest village of the plain . . . 3262
Sweet, be not proud of those two eyes . . . 816
Sweet day, so cool, so calm, so bright . . . 3720
Sweet have I known the blossoms of the morning . . . 665
Sweet in her green dell the flower of beauty slumbers . . . 628
Sweet Innisfallen, fare thee well . . . 2607
Sweet is the rose, but grows upon a brier . . . 2837
Sweet is the time for joyous folk . . . 3772
Sweet is the voice that calls . . . 1371
Sweet love has twined his fingers in my hair . . . 925
Sweet Nea!—for your lovely sake . . . 788
Sweet Robin, I have heard them say . . . 1561
Sweet, serene, sky-like flower . . . 696
Sweet sixteen is shy and cold . . . 742
Sweet stream, that winds through yonder glade . . . 332
Sweet Suffolk owl, so trimly dight . . . 1558
Sweet, sweet, sweet . . . 1370
Sweet western wind, whose luck it is . . . 596
Swiftly walk o'er the western wave . . . 1323
"Sylvia, hush!" I said, "Come here" . . . 266

T

Take back the Virgin Page . . . 623
Take hand and part with laughter . . . 900
Take it, love . . . 510
Take me upon thy breast . . . 3224
Take, O take those lips away . . . 683

	PAGE
Take your meals, my little man	103
Tall, sombre, grim, against the morning sky	1400
Teach me the secret of thy loveliness	1503
Tears, idle tears, I know not what they mean	454
Tell me, dearest, what is love	481
Tell me not, in mournful numbers	2914
Tell me not, Sweet, I am unkind	933
Tell me now in what hidden way is	1783
Tell me what is that only thing	1903
Tender-handed stroke a nettle	1902
Thank Heaven! the crisis	1107
Thank you, pretty cow, that made	47
That gusty spring, each afternoon	1203
That man's a fool who tries by art and skill	1910
That time of year thou may'st in me behold	1249
That which her slender waist confined	531
That's my last Duchess painted on the wall	846
The Abbot of Inisfalen	2739
"The Ancestor remote of Man"	1895
The angels in high places	3414
The Antiseptic Baby and the Prophylactic Pup	2035
The apple trees are hung with gold	1013
The April rain, the April rain	1443
The Assyrian came down like the wolf on the fold	2327
The auld wife sat at her ivied door	1939
The autumn seems to cry for thee	1102
The baby wept	27
The bairnies cuddle doon at nicht	95
The bark that held the prince went down	2349
The bells of Oseney	2818
The bird, let loose in eastern skies	3715
The blessed damozel leaned out	3198
The blessed Poster-girl leaned out	1941
The blush is on the flower, and the bloom is on the tree	1165
The boats go out and the boats come in	1622
The bonnie, bonnie bairn who sits poking in the ase	257
The boy stood on the burning deck	2439
The braggart March stood in the season's door	1353
The breaking waves dashed high	2387
The bride cam' out o' the byre	746
The bubbling brook doth leap when I come by	1293
The butterfly, an idle thing	116
The Captain stood on the Carronade—"First lieutenant," said he	2125
The carrier cannot sing today the ballads	3332
The chain I gave was fair to view	1031
The characters of great and small	1734
The Christ-child lay on Mary's lap	212
The churchyard leans to the sea with its dead	3436
The city mouse lives in a house	44
The clear cool note of the cuckoo which has ousted the legitimate nest holder	1951
The clocks are chiming in my heart	420
The clouds are scudding across the moon	1614
The Cock is crowing	1352
The color gladdens all your heart	923
The common street climbed up against the sky	3021
The conference-meeting through at last	794
The cosy fire is bright and gay	1953
The countless stars, which to our human eye	3729
The cup I sing is a cup of gold	1645
The curfew tolls the knell of parting day	3532
The cynics say that every rose	2045

PAGE
The dames of France are fond and free 986
The dark-fringed eyelids slowly close 93
The dawn is lonely for the sun 997
The day is cold, and dark, and dreary 3350
The day is done, and the darkness 3355
The day returns, my bosom burns 945
The days are cold, the nights are long 84
The days grow shorter, the nights grow longer 3472
The days of Bute and Grafton's fame 1756
The deep seclusion of this forest path 1406
The despot's heel is on thy shore 2220
The dew is on the heather 2305
The dews are heavy on my brow 2066
The door was shut, as doors should be 151
The dule's i' this bonnet o' mine 757
The dusky night rides down the sky 1662
The elm lets fall its leaves before the frost 1408
The endless mime goes on; new faces come 2854
The face of all the world is changed, I think 1278
The fair Pamela came to town 802
The fault is not mine if I loved you too much 831
The ferries fly like shuttles in a loom 1318
The fiddles were playing and playing 1145
The fire is out, and spent the warmth thereof 422
The flower that smiles today 3377
The forward youth that would appear 2400
The fountains mingle with the river 688
The fray began at the middle gate 2364
The Frost looked forth, one still clear night 1387
The frugal snail, with forecast of repose 1514
The gallows in my garden, people say 1787
The garden beds I wandered by 1890
The Garden that I love is full of light 3441
The gardener does not love to talk 160
The gay belles of fashion may boast of excelling 2120
The gifts that to our breasts we fold 2929
The gingham dog and the calico cat 173
The girt woak tree that's in the dell 1404
The glories of our blood and state 3404
The glow and the glory are plighted 1812
The God of Music dwelleth out of doors 3130
The good Lord gave, the Lord has taken from me 304
The gorse is yellow on the heath 1573
The grand road from the mountain goes shining to the sea 2605
The grass that is under me now 1114
The gray sea and the long black land 1157
The great guns of England, they listen mile on mile 2558
The Great Sword Bearer only knows just when He'll wound my heart,—not I 2897
The Grenadiers of Austria are proper men and tall 2436
The grief that is but feigning 2933
The groves of Blarney, they look so charming 2609
The gull shall whistle in his wake, the blind wave break in fire 1703
The handful here, that once was Mary's earth 3545
The high and mighty lord of Glendare 145
The hills are white, but not with snow 1414
The hours I spent with thee, dear heart 1140
The Indian weed now withered quite 1983
The isles of Greece! the isles of Greece 2625
The Jackdaw sat on the Cardinal's chair 2141
The Jam-pot—tender thought 1939
The King sits in Dunfermline toun 2685

PAGE
The King was on his throne 2328
The knightliest of the knightly race 2223
The ladies of St. James's 1775
The Lady Poverty was fair 2934
The Laird o' Cockpen, he's proud and he's great 2113
The lark is up to meet the sun 116
The lark now leaves his watery nest 695
The last and greatest Herald of Heaven's King 3741
The leaves are falling; so am I 406
The lights of Saturday night beat golden, golden over the pillared street 3024
The lilies lie in my lady's bower 1955
The linnet in the rocky dells 1096
The lion and the unicorn 37
The lion is the beast to fight 2082
The lioness whelped and the sturdy cub 2207
The listening Dryads hushed the woods 1558
The little Dreams of maidenhood 394
The little gate was reached at last 990
The little rose is dust, my dear 1139
The little toy dog is covered with dust 298
The loppèd tree in time may grow again 2838
The lovely lass o' Inverness 2420
The lover of child Margery 1041
The lover of her body said 1044
The low-voiced girls that go 1132
The Magic Mirror makes not nor unmakes 2849
The magpies in Picardy 2556
The maid who binds her warrior's sash 2318
The man of life upright 2912
The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year 1505
The merchant, to secure his treasure 720
The midges dance aboon the burn 1652
The Minstrel Boy to the war has gone 2302
The mistletoe hung in the castle hall 2837
The Mistress of the Roses 1455
The Monk Arnulphus uncorked his ink 1789
The Moods have laid their hands across my hair 3102
The more we live, more brief appear 407
The morning is cheery, my boys, arouse 2286
The morns are meeker than they were 1381
The morn's my constant mistress 3142
The moth's kiss, first 688
The mountain and the squirrel 1909
The mourners came at break of day 3514
The muffled drum's sad roll has beat 2310
The murmur of the mourning ghost 2736
The Muse, disgusted at an age and clime 2565
The nests are in the hedgerows 340
The net of law is spread so wide 1911
The night has a thousand eyes 863
The night is late, the house is still 308
The night throbs on; O, let me pray, dear lad 303
The Night walked down the sky 1152
The night was dark, though sometimes a faint star 1307
The night was thick and hazy 2184
The night when last I saw my lad 800
The Nightingale, as soon as April bringeth 1551
The nightingale has a lyre of gold 1527
The north wind doth blow 35
The Northern Star sailed over the bar 1621
The old mayor climbed the belfry tower 3318

PAGE
The old priest Peter Gilligan. . . . 2803
The old rude church, with bare, bald tower, is here. . . . 3682
The old wind stirs the hawthorne tree. . . . 449
The outlook wasn't brilliant for the Mudville nine that day. . . . 2185
The owl and the eel and the warming-pan. . . . 47
The Owl and the Pussy-cat went to sea. . . . 2052
The Ox he openeth wide the Doore. . . . 209
The Pilgrim Fathers—where are they. . . . 2390
The pines were dark on Ramoth hill. . . . 972
The Pobble who has no toes. . . . 2053
The poetry of earth is never dead. . . . 1510
The poor benighted Hindoo. . . . 2089
The Pope he leads a happy life. . . . 2137
The poplars are felled; farewell to the shade. . . . 1411
The primrwose in the sheäde do blow. . . . 336
The Queen of Hearts. . . . 39
The rain set early in to-night. . . . 1003
The rain was over, and the brilliant air. . . . 3060
The red rose whispers of passion. . . . 657
The reivers they stole Fair Annie. . . . 2656
The rich man's son inherits lands. . . . 263
The rising moon has hid the stars. . . . 500
The robin and the red-breast. . . . 101
The robin sings of willow-buds. . . . 1555
The Rose in the garden slipped her bud. . . . 3378
The roses in my garden. . . . 1138
The rosy clouds float overhead. . . . 72
The royal feast was done; the King. . . . 3764
The ruddy poppies bend and bow. . . . 1128
The sacred Kepe of Ilion is rent. . . . 3083
The Saviour came, with trembling lips. . . . 3054
The sea hath many thousand sands. . . . 483
The sea is calm to-night. . . . 2595
The sea! the sea! the open sea. . . . 1592
The sense of the world is short. . . . 474
The shades of eve had crossed the glen. . . . 779
The shades of night were falling fast. . . . 2915
The shadows gather round me, while you are in the sun. . . . 3460
The shadows lay along Broadway. . . . 1032
The shape alone let others prize. . . . 537
The sheets were frozen hard, and they cut the naked hand. . . . 1602
The silver birch is a dainty lady. . . . 135
The silver moon's enamored beam. . . . 538
The sleepless Hours who watch me as I lie. . . . 1306
The snow had begun in the gloaming. . . . 315
The Son of God goes forth to war. . . . 3794
The song of the sea-adventurers, that never were known to fame. 2827
The songs I sing at morning. . . . 3085
The Sonnet is a fruit which long hath slept. . . . 3108
The Sonnet is a world, where feelings caught. . . . 3109
The Sons of Mary seldom bother. . . . 3072
The soul of man is larger than the sky. . . . 3652
The South wind brings wet weather. . . . 66
The sovereign beauty which I do admire. . . . 1232
The spacious firmament on high. . . . 3787
The speckled sky is dim with snow. . . . 1393
The Spirit of Wine. . . . 2013
The splendor falls on castle walls. . . . 635
The Spring returns! What matters then that War. . . . 1339
The stars began to peep. . . . 302
The stream was smooth as glass, we said, "Arise and let's away". 3396
The summer and autumn had been so wet. . . . 189

PAGE
The sun descending in the West . . . 1321
The sun had set . . . 2497
The sun has gane down o'er the lofty Benlomond . . . 544
The sun of life has crossed the line . . . 367
The sun rises bright in France . . . 3259
The sun shines bright in the old Kentucky home . . . 3227
The sun, the moon, the stars, the seas, the hills and the plains . . . 2852
The sun was shining on the sea . . . 2062
The thirsty earth soaks up the rain . . . 1993
The three ghosts on the lonesome road . . . 3758
The time for toil is past, the night has come . . . 3731
The time I've lost in wooing . . . 729
The tree of deepest root is found . . . 2103
The turtle on yon withered bough . . . 830
The twilight hours, like birds, flew by . . . 1317
The violet in the wood, that's sweet to-day . . . 1503
The violet is much too shy . . . 1488
The voice that breathed o'er Eden . . . 1197
The wanton troopers riding by . . . 1817
The warm sun is failing; the bleak wind is wailing . . . 1380
The waves about Iona dirge . . . 3654
The weather-leech of the topsail shivers . . . 1595
The western wind is blowing fair . . . 712
The white goat Amaryllis . . . 247
The white moth to the closing vine . . . 1677
The white-rose garland at her feet . . . 3594
The white rose tree that spend its musk . . . 992
The widow can bake, and the widow can brew . . . 2020
The wind from out the west is blowing . . . 1400
The wind is awake, pretty leaves, pretty leaves . . . 1049
The wind was a torrent of darkness among the gusty trees . . . 2809
The wind went wooing the rose . . . 1032
The winding road lies white and bare . . . 1679
The window has Four little Panes . . . 2086
The winds that once the Argo bore . . . 2323
The winds were yelling, the waves were swelling . . . 1631
The wine of Love is music . . . 487
The wintry west extends his blast . . . 1386
The wisdom of the world said unto me . . . 2995
The wisest of the wise . . . 362
The wish, that of the living whole . . . 2900
The word of God to Leyden came . . . 2386
The world goes up and the world goes down . . . 1215
The world is great: the birds all fly from me . . . 323
The world is so full of a number of things . . . 98
The world is too much with us; late and soon . . . 1292
The world was wide when I was young . . . 441
The World's a bubble, and the life of Man . . . 399
The world's a very happy place . . . 127
The world's great age begins anew . . . 2623
The year's at the spring . . . 1333
The yellow moon is a dancing phantom . . . 1548
The young girl questions, "Whether were it better" . . . 512
The young May moon is beaming, love . . . 699
"Thee, Mary, with this ring I wed" . . . 1225
Their mouths have drunken the eternal wine . . . 2848
Them ez wants, must choose . . . 1915
Then, lady, at last thou art sick of my sighing . . . 669
Then let the chill Sirocco blow . . . 1994
There are gains for all our losses . . . 351
There are hermit souls that live withdrawn . . . 3040
There are some hearts like wells, green-mossed and deep . . . 3761

PAGE
There be none of Beauty's daughters ... 546
There came a ghost to Marg'ret's door ... 2676
There came an ancient man and slow ... 3261
There came to port, last Sunday night ... 1928
There came to the beach a poor exile of Erin ... 2252
There dwelt a miller, hale and bold ... 2982
There fared a mother driven forth ... 213
There hath come an host to see Thee ... 218
There in the fane a beauteous creature stands ... 377
There is a bird that comes and sings ... 1556
There is a bird, who by his coat ... 1540
There is a clouded city, gone to rest ... 3211
There is a flower, a little flower ... 1476
There is a flower, the lesser Celandine ... 1469
There is a garden enclosed ... 3209
There is a garden in her face ... 524
There is a green hill far away ... 3812
There is a jewel which no Indian mines ... 2980
There is a lady sweet and kind ... 523
There is a pity in forgotten things ... 449
There is a pleasure in the pathless woods ... 1586
There is a pool on Garda ... 2623
There is a Reaper, whose name is Death ... 3418
There is a river clear and fair ... 1923
There is a shrine whose golden gate ... 395
There is a sound that's dear to me ... 2023
There is a temple in my heart ... 442
There is an air for which I would disown ... 920
There is an hour of peaceful rest ... 3803
There is heard a hymn when the panes are dim ... 214
There is many a love in the land, my love ... 693
There is no death! the stars go down ... 3763
There is no flock, however watched and tended ... 3510
There is no God, as I was taught in youth ... 3403
There is no light in any path of Heaven ... 3559
There is no mood, no heart-throb fugitive ... 3108
There is no unbelief ... 3762
There is no vacant chair. The loving meet ... 3512
There is no wrath in the stars ... 2557
There is none, O none but you ... 589
There is something in the autumn that is native to my blood ... 1689
There lies a little city in the hills ... 3711
There! little girl, don't cry ... 349
There lived a sage in days of yore ... 2049
There lived a wife at Usher's Well ... 2650
There must be fairy miners ... 1468
There once was a wood, and a very thick wood ... 56
There she sits in her Island-home ... 2240
There sits a bird on every tree ... 735
There sits a piper on the hill ... 132
There they are, my fifty men and women ... 1284
There was a captain-general who ruled in Vera Cruz ... 2026
There was a crooked man, and he went a crooked mile ... 34
There was a gentle hostler ... 215
There was a girl in our town ... 62
There was a jolly miller once lived on the river Dee ... 163
There was a King in Brentford ... 1848
There was a knicht riding frae the east ... 2683
There was a lady lived at Leith ... 1962
There was a little girl, who had a little curl ... 113
There was a little man ... 32
There was a man of our town ... 34

PAGE
There was a rover from a western shore 2230
There was a small boy of Quebec 2090
There was a snake that dwelt in Skye 2070
There was a sound of revelry by night 2450
There was a time when meadow, grove, and stream 371
There was a young fellow named Tait 2088
There was a young girl of Lahore 2089
There was a young lady of Niger 2089
There was a young lady of Wilts 2089
There was a young man so benighted 2090
There was a youth, and a well-beloved youth 2705
There was an Old Man in a boat 2058
There was an Old Man in a tree 2057
There was an old man of Nantucket 2090
There was an old man of Tarentum 2089
There was an Old Man who said "Hush" 2058
There was an Old Man with a beard 2057
There was an Old Man with a poker 2058
There was an old woman, and what do you think 32
There was an old woman lived under a hill 35
There was an old woman who lived in a shoe 31
There was once a little animal 1891
There was one little Jim 107
There was twa sisters in a bower 2648
There were four of us about the bed 2746
There were ninety and nine that safely lay 3756
There were three kings into the east 2000
There were three ravens sat on a tree 2680
There were three sailors of Bristol city 2140
There were three young women of Birmingham 2089
There were two blackbirds sitting on a hill 35
There were two little girls, neither handsome nor plain 109
There's a barrel-organ caroling across a golden street 3025
There's a certain young lady 731
There's a city that lies in the Kingdom of Clouds 3706
There's a dear little plant that grows in our isle 2264
There's a grass-grown road from the valley 1080
There's a merry brown thrush sitting up in the tree 105
There's a road to heaven, a road to hell 657
There's a rosie-show in Derry 925
There's a whisper down the field where the year has shot her yield 1704
There's a woman like a dewdrop, she's so purer than the purest 1156
There's gowd in the breast of the primrose pale 1142
There's nae lark loves the lift, my dear 646
There's naught but care on every han' 727
There's no dew left on the daisies and clover 426
There's not a joy the world can give like that it takes away 355
There's not a nook within this solemn Pass 1430
There's trampling of hoofs in the busy street 3062
These are the best of him 3596
These are the days when birds come back 1373
These hearts were woven of human joys and cares 2545
These many years since we began to be 902
They all were looking for a king 3774
They are all gone into the world of light 3508
They are not long, the weeping and the laughter 3404
They bade me to my spinning 2821
They bear no laurels on their sunless brows 2950
They chained her fair young body to the cold and cruel stone 2253
They do me wrong who say I come no more 2922
They do neither plight nor wed 3440
They find the way, who linger where 2973

PAGE
They grew in beauty, side by side 3561
They made the chamber sweet with flowers and leaves 1259
They may talk of love in a cottage 732
They nearly strike me dumb 1730
They seemed, to those who saw them meet 837
They shot young Windebank just here 2325
They sit at home and they dream and dally 3012
They speak o' wiles in woman's smiles 493
They stood above the world 1172
They stood on the bridge at midnight 1950
They that wash on Monday 65
They threw a stone, you threw a stone 3736
They told me, Heraclitus, they told me you were dead 3529
They told me I was heir: I turned in haste 3727
They went forth to battle, but they always fell 2946
They went to sea in a sieve, they did 2050
They who create rob death of half its stings 3105
They'll come again to the apple tree 163
Think thou and act; tomorrow thou shalt die 3505
Thirty days hath September 61
Thirty white horses upon a red hill 63
This ae nighte, this ae nighte 2652
This bronze doth keep the very form and mold 3642
This, children, is the famed Mon-goos 2083
This figure, that thou here seest put 3652
This house, where once a lawyer dwelt 1916
This I beheld, or dreamed it in a dream 2923
This is Mab, the Mistress-Fairy 233
This is my faith, and my mind's heritage 2554
This is the Arsenal. From floor to ceiling 3069
This is the height of our deserts 2909
This is the house that Jack built 49
This is the law of the Yukon, and ever she makes it plain 2575
This is the month, and this the happy morn 223
This is the ship of pearl, which, poets feign 2913
This is the tale from first to last 3753
This is the time when bit by bit 1332
This is the Yak, so neg-li-gee 2083
This kiss upon your fan I press 1783
This little child so white, so calm 320
This little pig went to market 58
This peach is pink with such a pink 574
This Relative of mine 1728
This tragical tale, which, they say, is a true one 2148
This was the woman; what now of the man 1265
This was your butterfly, you see 119
This world is all a fleeting show 3699
Thomas a Tattamus took two T's 63
Those we love truly never die 3571
Thou art to all lost love the best 1406
Thou blossom bright with autumn dew 1484
Thou dreamer with the million moods 1589
Thou goest; to what distant place 962
Thou happy, happy elf 268
Thou hast lived in pain and woe 3551
Thou lingering star, with lessening ray 1072
Thou little bird, thou dweller by the sea 1522
Thou lovely and belovèd, thou my love 1256
Thou must be true thyself 2932
Thou spark of life that wavest wings of gold 1517
Thou still unravished bride of quietness 3163
Thou that hast a daughter 1625

PAGE
Thou too hast traveled, little fluttering thing 1573
Thou wast all that to me, love 1105
Thou who hast slept all night upon the storm 1542
Thou who, when fears attack 1983
Thou wilt not look on me 929
Thou youngest Virgin-daughter of the skies 3524
Though I met her in the summer when one's heart lies round at ease 1906
Though love repine, and reason chafe 2959
Though singing but the shy and sweet 1170
Though when I loved thee thou wert fair 608
Though, when other maids stand by 630
Thought is deeper than all speech 2975
Three fishers went sailing away to the West 1620
Three Kings came riding from far away 216
Three little words, you often see 60
Three Poets, in three distant ages born 3647
Three score o' nobles rade to the King's ha' 783
Three wise men of Gotham 35
Three words fall sweetly on my soul 3244
Three years she grew in sun and shower 1075
Thrice at the huts of Fontenoy the English column failed 2417
Thrice happy he, who by some shady grove 1635
Thrice with her lips she touched my lips 990
Through all the wind-blown aisles of May 1451
Through meadow-ways as I did tread 1358
Through the fierce fever I nursed him, and then he said 1035
Through the night, through the night 1619
Through the shine, through the rain 3011
Through the silver mist 1363
Through this our city of delight 1788
Through weary days and sleepless nights 3734
Throw away Thy rod 3720
Thunder of riotous hoofs over the quaking sod 2834
Thus Kitty, beautiful and young 1904
Thus piteously Love closed what he begat 1268
Thus spake the Lord 2535
Thus will I have the woman of my dream 391
Thy braes were bonnie, Yarrow stream 1065
Thy sorrow, and the sorrow of the sea 2253
Thy voice is on the rolling air 2905
Tiger! Tiger! burning bright 140
Till dawn the Winds' insuperable throng 3466
Till Eve was brought to Adam, he 387
Time goes, you say? Ah, no! 423
Time, you old gipsy man 2817
Timely blossom, Infant fair 273
Tiny slippers of gold and green 1762
Tired of play! Tired of play 280
'Tis a dull sight 1346
'Tis all the way to Toe-town 59
'Tis bedtime; say your hymn, and bid "Good-night" 97
'Tis but a little faded flower 3363
'Tis highly rational, we can't dispute 1918
'Tis not her birth, her friends, nor yet her treasure 606
'Tis not your beauty can engage 600
'Tis right for her to sleep between 3545
'Tis said that absence conquers love 983
'Tis sweet to hear of heroes dead 2937
'Tis sweet to hear the merry lark 1554
'Tis the last rose of summer 1505
'Tis the voice of a sluggard; I heard him complain 106
'Tis time this heart should be unmoved 360

PAGE
To all you ladies now at land ... 935
To bear, to nurse, to rear ... 431
To draw no envy, Shakespeare, on thy name ... 3650
To eastward ringing, to westward winging, o'er mapless miles of sea ... 2543
To fair Fidele's grassy tomb ... 3436
To grass, or leaf, or fruit, or wall ... 1514
To him who in the love of Nature holds ... 3444
To kiss a fan ... 1783
To live in hell, and heaven to behold ... 1246
To live within a cave—it is most good ... 2999
To make this condiment, your poet begs ... 1987
To market, to market, to buy a fat pig ... 38
To me, fair friend, you never can be old ... 1250
To meath of the pastures ... 1698
To one who has been long in city pent ... 1653
To put new shingles on old roofs ... 1859
To sea, to sea! The calm is o'er ... 1593
To take things as they be ... 2983
To the Lords of Convention 'twas Claver'se who spoke ... 2408
To thee, fair freedom, I retire ... 2988
To what new fates, my country, far ... 2209
To write as your sweet mother does ... 1710
To-day a rude brief recitative ... 1584
To-day I have grown taller from walking with the trees ... 1301
To-day I saw the shop-girl go ... 3021
Toll for the brave ... 2435
Tommy's tears, and Mary's fears ... 65
To-night retired, the queen of heaven ... 1549
To-night, this sunset spreads two golden wings ... 3375
Too fair, I may not call thee mine ... 984
Too late, alas! I must confess ... 612
T'other day, as I was twining ... 488
Trample! trample! went the roan ... 2742
Traveler, pluck a stem of Moly ... 1493
Tread lightly, she is near ... 1119
Treason doth never prosper; what's the reason ... 1918
Tripping down the field-path ... 870
Triumphal arch, that fill'st the sky ... 1444
Trochee trips from long to short ... 3111
True Thomas lay on Huntlie bank ... 2641
Trusty, dusty, vivid, true ... 394
'Twas a Jacqueminot rose ... 745
'Twas a jolly old pedagogue, long ago ... 1746
'Twas at the royal feast for Persia won ... 3114
'Twas brillig, and the slithy toves ... 2059
'Twas ever thus from childhood's hour ... 1929
'Twas in the prime of summer time ... 2767
'Twas on a Holy Thursday, their innocent faces clean ... 174
'Twas on a lofty vase's side ... 1821
'Twas on a Monday morning ... 2273
'Twas on a simmer's afternoon ... 773
'Twas on a windy night ... 1971
'Twas on the shores that round our coast ... 2177
'Twas the body of Judas Iscariot ... 2791
'Twas the dead of the night. By the pine knot's red light ... 2426
'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house ... 221
'Twas the very verge of May ... 2537
'Twas when the seas were roaring ... 1064
Twilight, a timid fawn, went glimmering by ... 1143
Twin songs there are, of joyance, or of pain ... 1273
Twinkle, twinkle, little star ...

PAGE
Two armies covered hill and plain ... 2289
Two birds within one nest ... 1204
Two hands upon the breast ... 3572
Two honder year ago de worl' is purty slow ... 2031
Two legs sat upon three legs ... 64
Two little feet, so small that both may nestle ... 17
Two little girls are better than one ... 164
Two lovers by a moss-grown spring ... 1204
Two shall be born, the whole wide world apart ... 502
Two souls diverse out of our human sight ... 3596
Two springs she saw,—two radiant Tuscan springs ... 324
Two voices are there: one is of the deep ... 1956
Tut! Bah! We take as another case ... 1954
Tying her bonnet under her chin ... 798

U

Un marin naufrage (de Doncastre) ... 2087
Under a spreading chestnut tree ... 2916
Under a toadstool crept a wee Elf ... 234
Under dusky laurel leaf ... 3506
Under green apple boughs ... 565
Under my keel another boat ... 437
Under my window, under my window ... 258
Under the greenwood tree ... 1636
Under the lindens lately sat ... 1710
Under the wide and starry sky ... 3485
Under yonder beech-tree single on the green-sward ... 556
Underneath the growing grass ... 3415
Underneath this sable hearse ... 3518
Unlike are we, unlike, O princely Heart ... 1277
Unmindful of my low desert ... 3222
Unto the Prison House of Pain none willingly repair ... 3386
Untrammelled Giant of the West ... 2217
Up from the meadows rich with corn ... 2494
Up from the South, at break of day ... 2510
Up into the cherry tree ... 160
Up! quit thy bower! late wears the hour ... 698
Up the airy mountain ... 241
Up to her chamber window ... 711
Up! up! my friend, and quit your books ... 1657
Up with me! up with me into the clouds ... 1565
Upon a cloud among the stars we stood ... 3575
Upon a showery night and still ... 1483
Upon ane stormy Sunday ... 755
Upon my lap my sovereign sits ... 78
Upon my mantel-piece they stand ... 1805
Upon the road to Romany ... 1683
Urbs beata Hierusalem ... 3826
Urbs Syon aurea, patria lactea, cive decora ... 3824

V

Vanity, saith the preacher, vanity ... 1862
Vast Chaos, of eld, was God's dominion ... 1326
Veni, Creator Spiritus ... 3823
Veni, Sancte Spiritus ... 3822
Venice, thou Siren of sea-cities, wrought ... 2619
Venus has lit her silver lamp ... 3473
Verse, a breeze 'mid blossoms straying ... 403
Victorious men of earth, no more ... 3405
Vital spark of heavenly flame ... 3489

PAGE
Vivamus, mea Lesbia, atque amemus ... 3827
Voice of summer, keen and shrill ... 1512
Voice of the western wind ... 446

W

Wait but a little while ... 1169
Wake! For the Sun who scattered into flight ... 2875
Walking to-day in your garden, O gracious lady ... 3550
Wall, no! I can't tell whar he lives ... 3337
Wander, oh, wander, maiden sweet ... 1055
War shook the land where Levi dwelt ... 3067
Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland ... 3834
Was it worth while to paint so fair ... 1494
Was schiert uns Russe und Franzos ... 3846
Watch thou and fear; to-morrow thou shalt die ... 3569
Watchman, watchman, what of the night ... 2561
Way down upon de Suwanee Ribber ... 3228
We are all here ... 3562
We are as mendicants who wait ... 1692
"We are but clay," the preacher saith ... 1768
We are in love's land to-day ... 1159
We are the fallen, who, with helpless faces ... 2944
We are the music-makers ... 3128
We are two travelers, Roger and I ... 3340
We are very slightly changed ... 1919
We bear sealed orders o'er Life's weltered sea ... 3478
We break the glass, whose sacred wine ... 905
We cannot kindle when we will ... 3376
We have loitered and laughed in the flowery croft ... 1732
We heard it calling, clear and low ... 1537
We journeyed through broad woodland ways ... 1147
We know not what it is, dear, this sleep so deep and still ... 3570
We know not yet what life shall be ... 3422
We meet 'neath the sounding rafter ... 3566
We met but in one giddy dance ... 1714
We need not bid, for cloistered cell ... 3747
We only asked for sunshine ... 3386
We pledged our hearts, my love and I ... 726
We sat within the farm-house old ... 3236
We scatter seeds with careless hand ... 2924
We see them not—we cannot hear ... 631
We, sighing, said, "Our Pan is dead" ... 3667
We the Fairies; blithe and antic ... 235
We walked along, while bright and red ... 3564
We watched her breathing through the night ... 3546
We were crowded in the cabin ... 178
We were eight fishers of the western sea ... 3194
We were not many, we who stood ... 2470
We wreathed about our darling's head ... 312
Weak and irresolute is man ... 2861
Weak-winged is song ... 2518
Weary of myself, and sick of asking ... 2843
Wee, modest, crimson-tippèd flower ... 1474
Wee, sleekit, cow'rin', tim'rous beastie ... 1507
Wee Willie Winkie rins through the town ... 72
Weel, gin ye speir, I'm no inclined ... 1955
Weep not, my wanton, smile upon my knee ... 74
Weep with me, all you that read ... 3516
Weighing the steadfastness and state ... 369
Welcome all who lead or follow ... 1988
Welcome, maids of honor ... 1501

	PAGE
Welcome, old friend! These many years	406
Welcome, welcome, do I sing	527
Well! If the Bard was weather-wise, who made	3369
Well met, pretty nymph, says a jolly young swain	771
Well then, I now do plainly see	1655
We'll meet beside the dusky glen, on yon burn side	1166
We'll not weep for summer over	899
Were but my spirit loosed upon the air	1262
Were I as base as is the lowly plain	1253
Were I to name, out of the times gone by	3085
Were my heart as some men's are, thy errors would not move me	590
Werther had a love for Charlotte	838
West wind, blow from your prairie nest	1676
We've fought with many men acrost the seas	2533
We've trod the maze of error round	403
Wha'll buy my caller herrin'	1622
"Wharefore sou'd ye talk o' love	941
What a moment, what a doubt	2021
What a plague is this o'mine	94
"What are the bugles blowin' for?" said Files-on-Parade	2293
"What bait do you use," said a saint to the devil	1905
What beckoning ghost along the moonlight shade	3530
What can I give thee back, O liberal	1278
What care if the day	1700
What conscience, say, is it in thee	595
What constitutes a state	2236
What delightful hosts are they	3507
What do we plant when we plant the tree	1402
What does little birdie say	150
What essences from Idumean palm	325
What have I done for you	2239
What have I gained by the toil of the trail	1684
What heart could have thought you	1391
What heroes from the woodland sprung	2431
What is a sonnet? 'Tis the pearly shell	3107
What is an epigram? a dwarfish whole	1915
What is death? 'Tis to be free	3408
What is Hope? A smiling rainbow	3377
What is it to grow old	418
What is the little one thinking about	86
"What is the real good"	2918
What is the sorriest thing that enters Hell	2866
What is the voice I hear	2226
What is this life if, full of care	2998
What is to come we know not. But we know	3422
What magic halo rings thy head	1768
What may we take into the vast Forever	2976
What needs my Shakespeare for his honored bones	3653
What of the bow	2241
What of the darkness? Is it very fair	3515
What painter has not with a careless smutch	3112
What pleasure have great princes	1654
What riches have you that you deem me poor	2907
"What? rise again with all one's bones"	1918
What shall we do for Love these days	513
What soul would bargain for a cure that brings	1266
What sudden bugle calls us in the night	2562
What voice did on my spirit fall	2471
What was he doing, the great god Pan	3124
What, what, what	2069
What would it mean for you and me	1308
"What, you are stepping westward?"—Yea	398

PAGE
What's hallowed ground? Has earth a clod . . . 3432
What' s love, when the most is said? The flash of the lightning fleet . . . 3423
What's she, so late from Penshurst come . . . 330
What's this dull town to me . . . 979
What's this vain world to me . . . 3701
When a' other bairnies are hushed to their hame . . . 283
When all is done and said . . . 2978
When all the world is young, lad . . . 417
When and how shall I earliest meet her . . . 649
When André rode to Pont-du-lac . . . 2801
When April rains make flowers bloom . . . 1501
When, as a lad, at break of day . . . 356
When as the chill Sirocco blows . . . 1989
When banners are waving, and lances are pushing . . . 2279
When Britain first, at Heaven's command . . . 2232
When cats run home and light is come . . . 1557
When, Celia, must my old day set . . . 609
When chapman billies leave the street . . . 2106
When daffodils begin to peer . . . 1337
When daisies pied, and violets blue . . . 2019
When de fiddle gits to singin' out a al' Vahginny reel . . . 2043
When, dearest, I but think of thee . . . 601
When Death to either shall come . . . 1168
When Delia on the plain appears . . . 535
When descends on the Atlantic . . . 3094
When do I see thee most, belovèd one . . . 1255
When doctrines meet with general approbation . . . 1918
When down the stair at morning . . . 572
When Earth's last picture is painted, and the tubes are twisted and dried . . . 3504
When Eve upon the first of men . . . 1918
When falls the soldier brave . . . 2322
When fierce political debate . . . 1847
When first I saw her, at the stroke . . . 571
When first I saw sweet Peggy . . . 777
When first the bride and bridegroom wed . . . 1215
When Freedom, from her mountain height . . . 2197
When, full of warm and eager love . . . 854
When God at first made Man . . . 370
When good King Arthur ruled this land . . . 46
When I am dead and over me bright April . . . 1017
When I am dead and sister to the dust . . . 3506
When I am dead, my dearest . . . 1102
When I am living in the midlands . . . 2601
When I am old, and think of the old days . . . 928
When I am standing on a mountain crest . . . 1269
When I behold that beauty's wonderment . . . 1233
When I beneath the cold red earth am sleeping . . . 3496
When I consider how my light is spent . . . 2844
When I consider Life and its few years . . . 2855
When I ha'e a saxpence under my thoom . . . 2009
When I have borne in memory what has tamed . . . 2238
When I have fears that I may cease to be . . . 3488
When I have finished with this episode . . . 3498
When I have folded up this tent . . . 675
When I lived in Singapore . . . 2084
When I loved you, I can't but allow . . . 832
When I play on my fiddle in Dooney . . . 1965
When I saw you last, Rose . . . 1782
When I survey the bright . . . 3786
When I was a bachelor . . . 43

PAGE
When I was a beggarly boy ... 357
When I was a little lad ... 3241
When I was just as far as I could walk ... 658
When I was one-and-twenty ... 857
When I was seventeen I heard ... 366
When I was sick and lay a-bed ... 158
When I was ten and she fifteen ... 743
When I was young the twilight seemed too long ... 420
When icicles hang by the wall ... 2019
When, in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes ... 1247
When in the chronicle of wasted time ... 1250
When in the woods I wander all alone ... 1399
When Jessie comes with her soft breast ... 887
When late in summer the streams run yellow ... 1374
When leaves turn outward to the light ... 3089
When Letty had scarce passed her third glad year ... 265
When like the early rose ... 549
When lilacs last in the dooryard bloomed ... 3630
When little Fred ... 99
When love in the faint heart trembles ... 507
When Love, our great Immortal ... 506
When Love with unconfinèd wings ... 605
When lovely woman stoops to folly ... 1050
When lovely woman wants a favor ... 1923
When maidens such as Hester die ... 3547
When May bedecks the naked trees ... 1543
When men shall find thy flower, thy glory pass ... 1240
When Molly smiles beneath her cow ... 725
When mother takes the Fairy Book ... 246
When music, heavenly maid, was young ... 3119
When my beloved sleeping lies ... 924
When our two souls stand up erect and strong ... 1281
When Psyche's friend becomes her lover ... 849
When she comes home again! A thousand ways ... 1000
When smoke stood up from Ludlow ... 1526
When sparrows build, and the leaves break forth ... 1097
When Spring comes back to England ... 1348
When Spring comes laughing ... 797
When stars are in the quiet skies ... 710
When strawberry pottles are common and cheap ... 1769
When sunset flows into golden glows ... 673
When that I was and a little tiny boy ... 400
When that my days were fewer ... 363
When the British warrior queen ... 2348
When the bubble moon is young ... 1369
When the flush of a new-born sun fell first on Eden's green and gold 1884
When the frost is on the punkin' and the fodder's in the shock ... 1381
When the golden sun he knelt ... 2983
When the grass shall cover me ... 1114
When the hounds of spring are on winter's traces ... 1339
When the humid shadows hover ... 458
When the lamp is shattered ... 1001
When the lessons and tasks are all ended ... 250
When the merry lark doth gild ... 1330
When the lean, gray grasses ... 1115
When the Norn Mother saw the Whirlwind Hour ... 3639
When the pods went pop on the broom, green broom ... 1659
When the sheep are in the fauld, and the kye at hame ... 1009
When the Sleepy Man comes with the dust on his eyes ... 70
When the Sultan Shah-Zaman ... 854
When the time comes for me to die ... 3469

PAGE
When the toys are growing weary ... 73
When the voices of children are heard on the green ... 151
When the ways are heavy with mire and rut ... 1770
When the wayside tangles blaze ... 1485
When the white flame in us is gone ... 1137
When the wind works against us in the dark ... 1385
When the young hand of Darnley locked in hers ... 3646
When thin-strewn memory I look through ... 1700
When this, our rose, is faded ... 660
When thistle-blows do lightly float ... 1384
When thou must home to shades of underground ... 850
When thou, poor Excommunicate ... 597
When to any saint I pray ... 2005
When to her lute Corinna sings ... 590
When to the garden of untroubled thought ... 435
When to the sessions of sweet silent thought ... 1247
When vain desire at last and vain regret ... 3473
When we are parted let me lie ... 987
When we for age could neither read nor write ... 401
When we have thrown off this old suit ... 2860
When we two parted ... 952
When we were idlers with the loitering rills ... 3015
When weight of all the garnered years ... 2977
When wintry weather's all a-done ... 1347
When you are old and gray, and full of sleep ... 636
Whenas in silks my Julia goes ... 529
Whence not unmoved I see the nations form ... 2554
Where are the friends that I knew in my Maying ... 3005
Where are the loves that we loved before ... 3429
Where are the swallows fled ... 2865
Where are they gone, and do you know ... 436
Where art thou gone, light-ankled youth ... 354
Where be you going, you Devon maid ... 732
Where did you come from, baby dear ... 4
Where forlorn sunsets flare and fade ... 2862
Where Foyle his swelling waters rolls northward to the main ... 2606
Where is the true man's fatherland ... 3260
Where lies the land to which the ship would go ... 3414
Where runs the river? Who can say ... 2842
Where she her sacred bower adorns ... 587
Where the bee sucks, there suck I ... 233
Where the pools are bright and deep ... 128
Where the quiet-colored end of evening smiles ... 1154
Where the remote Bermudas ride ... 2566
Where the thistle lifts a purple crown ... 341
Where weary folk toil, black with smoke ... 3058
Where'er there's a thistle to feed a linnet ... 1938
Where's he that died o' Wednesday ... 2014
Whether men do laugh or weep ... 2838
Whether on Ida's shady brow ... 3096
Which I wish to remark ... 2174
Which is the German's fatherland ... 2270
Which is the way to Babyland ... 55
Which is the weakest thing of all ... 3385
Whichever way the wind doth blow ... 2993
While sauntering through the crowded street ... 2857
While shepherds watched their flocks by night ... 205
Whilst Adam slept, Eve from his side arose ... 1918
White little hands ... 90
Whither away, O Sailor! say ... 1599
Whither is gone the wisdom and the power ... 3096
Whither, midst falling dew ... 1582

PAGE
Whither, O splendid ship, thy white sails crowding . . . 1600
Whither, O whither didst thou fly . . . 3766
Who cries that the days of daring are those that are faded far . . . 2540
Who doth desire that chaste his wife should be . . . 1212
Who dreamed that beauty passes like a dream . . . 390
Who drives the horses of the sun . . . 2994
Who fears to speak of Ninety-Eight . . . 2262
Who has robbed the ocean cave . . . 539
Who has seen the wind . . . 130
"Who is it knocking in the night" . . . 1015
Who is she here that now I see . . . 6
Who is Silvia? What is she . . . 519
Who is the happy Warrior? Who is he . . . 2935
Who killed Cock Robin . . . 53
Who killed Kildare? Who dared Kildare to kill . . . 1917
Who lives in suit of armor pent . . . 2957
Who reach their threescore years and ten . . . 457
Who remains in London . . . 1672
"Who says that the Irish are fighters be birth" . . . 1976
"Who stuffed the white owl?" No one spoke in the shop . . . 1881
Who wins his love shall lose her . . . 849
Who would true valor see . . . 3715
Whoe'er she be . . . 820
Whose furthest footstep never strayed . . . 3000
Why are her eyes so bright, so bright . . . 578
Why art thou silent? Is thy love a plant . . . 1254
Why bowest thou, O soul of mine . . . 3731
Why do the wheels go whirring round . . . 288
Why do ye weep, sweet babes? Can tears . . . 1496
"Why do you wear your hair like a man" . . . 1942
"Why does your brand sae drop wi' blude" . . . 2682
Why fear to-morrow, timid heart . . . 2932
Why have the mighty lived—why have they died . . . 2452
Why, having won her, do I woo . . . 1212
Why I tie about thy wrist . . . 596
Why, if 'tis dancing you would be . . . 2016
Why is there in the least touch of her hands . . . 919
Why, lovely charmer, tell me why . . . 614
Why should I sing of women . . . 829
Why so pale and wan, fond lover . . . 820
"Why weep ye by the tide, ladie" . . . 786
Why, why repine, my pensive friend . . . 2093
"Why, William, on that old gray stone" . . . 1656
Widow Machree, it's no wonder you frown . . . 1974
"Will you walk a little faster?" said a whiting to a snail . . . 1934
"Will you walk into my parlor?" said the Spider to the Fly . . . 176
"Willy's rare, and Willy's fair" . . . 1061
Wilt Thou forgive that sin where I begun . . . 3759
"Wind me a summer crown," she said . . . 3388
Wind of the North . . . 1123
With all my will, but much against my heart . . . 974
With an honest old friend and a merry old song . . . 1995
With blackest moss the flower-pots . . . 873
With breath of thyme and bees that hum . . . 347
With cassock black, baret and book . . . 3399
With death doomed to grapple . . . 1917
With deep affection and recollection . . . 2610
With fingers weary and worn . . . 3393
With fore-cloth smoothed by careful hands . . . 3740
With how sad steps, O Moon, thou climb'st the skies . . . 1236
With leaden foot Time creeps along . . . 942
With lifted feet, hands still . . . 129

PAGE
With little here to do or see ... 1478
With pensive eyes the little room I view ... 463
With rakish eye and plenished crop ... 1536
With ships the sea was sprinkled far and nigh ... 1589
With strawberries we filled a tray ... 1760
Within his sober realm of leafless trees ... 3419
Within the mind strong fancies work ... 2582
Within the wood behind the hill ... 249
Within what weeks the melilot ... 1472
Woman! experience might have told me ... 834
Women there are on earth, most sweet and high ... 382
Woodman, spare that tree ... 1409
Word was brought to the Danish King ... 1088
Words, for alas my trade is words, a barren burst of rhyme ... 3482
Worn with the battle of Stamford town ... 2227
Would I were on the sea-lands ... 958
Would that the structure brave, the manifold music I build ... 3135
Would Wisdom for herself be wooed ... 2953
Would you be young again ... 3700
Wouldst thou hear what man can say ... 3516
Wreathe no more lilies in my hair ... 3462
Wreathe the bowl ... 2003
Wrong not, sweet empress of my heart ... 586
Wynken, Blynken, and Nod one night ... 68

Y

Yaw, dot is so! Yaw, dot is so ... 2030
Ye are young, ye are young ... 425
Ye banks and braes and streams around ... 1071
Ye banks and braes o' bonnie Doon ... 1044
Ye blushing virgins happy are ... 600
Ye distant spires, ye antique towers ... 2589
Ye happy swains, whose hearts are free ... 808
Ye have been fresh and green ... 1439
"Ye have robbed," said he, "ye have slaughtered and made an end" ... 2797
Ye Highlands and ye Lawlands ... 2276
Ye learnèd sisters, which have oftentimes ... 1183
Ye little birds, that sit and sing ... 598
Ye mariners of England ... 2233
Ye Nymphs! if e'er your eyes were red ... 1824
Ye say, they all have passed away ... 2567
Ye sons of freedom, wake to glory ... 2271
Yea, she hath passed hereby, and blessed the sheaves ... 1382
Years, many parti-colored years ... 407
Years, years ago, ere yet my dreams ... 1718
"Yes," I answered you last night ... 632
Yes; I write verses now and then ... 1709
Yes: in the sea of life enisled ... 966
Yes; when the ways oppose ... 3140
Yesterday it blew alway ... 343
Yesterday, Rebecca Mason ... 100
Yet love, mere love, is beautiful indeed ... 1279
Yet once more, O ye Laurels, and once more ... 3519
Yon silvery billows breaking on the beach ... 3106
Yonder in the heather there's a bed for sleeping ... 1674
You and I have found the secret way ... 627
"You are old, Father William," the young man cried ... 405
"You are old, Father William," the young man said ... 1927
You ask me "Why I like him." Nay ... 3000
You beat your pate, and fancy wit will come ... 1916

PAGE
You bells in the steeple, ring, ring out your changes. 427
You bid me try, Blue Eyes, to write. 3111
You brave heroic minds. 2384
You came to me bearing bright roses. 851
You, Damon, covet to possess. 541
You, Dinah! Come and set me whar de ribber-roads does meet. . 2038
You found the green before the Spring was sweet. 3668
You from Givenchy, since no years can harden. 2326
You know, we French stormed Ratisbon. 2449
You lay a wreathe on murdered Lincoln's bier. 3642
You may give over plow, boys. 3542
You may talk o' gin an' beer. 2204
You meaner beauties of the night. 525
You, Nebuchadnezzah, whoa, sah. 2040
You never bade me hope, 'tis true. 631
You promise heavens free from strife. 1767
You sleep upon your mother's breast. 8
You spotted snakes with double tongue. 232
You take a town you cannot keep. 834
You taught me ways of gracefulness and fashions of address. 267
You tell me you're promised a lover. 1809
You to the left and I to the right. 3009
You were always a dreamer, Rose—red Rose. 1047
You who with birch or laurel. 3389
You Wi'yum, come 'ere, suh, dis minute. Wut dat you got under dat box. 2041
You would have understood me, had you waited. 1120
You'll love me yet!—and I can tarry. 736
Young Ben he was a nice young man. 2128
Young Rory O'More courted Kathleen Bawn. 753
Your eyes were made for laughter. 741
Your ghost will walk, you lover of trees. 2611
Your hands lie open in the long fresh grass. 1256
Youth hath many charms. 421

INDEX OF TITLES

A

PAGE

Abbot of Inisfalen, The, William Allingham 2739
"Abide With Me"....H. F. Lyte 3802
Abou Ben Adhem..Leigh Hunt 2999
Above Salerno....A. F. Murray 2616
Abraham Lincoln...Tom Taylor 3642
Absence.....Richard Jago 942
Abt Vogler....Robert Browning 3135
Accident in Art...Richard Hovey 3112
Across the Door..Padraic Colum 1145
"Across the Fields to Anne" Richard Burton 801
Ad Chloen, M. A., Mortimer Collins 1899
Ad Domnulam Suam Ernest Dowson 997
Ad Matrem.....Julian Fane 396
Ad Ministram.....Thackeray 1987
Adam, Lilith, and Eve Robert Browning 848
Address to a Mummy Horace Smith 2116
Address to the Unco Guid, or the Rigidly Righteous Robert Burns 1869
Adieu.....Thomas Carlyle 954
Admiral Hosier's Ghost Richard Glover 2415
Adonais, "I weep for Adonais—he is dead".....Shelley 3612
Adonais, "Shall we meet no more, my love, at the binding of the sheaves".....W. W. Harney 914
Adventurers, The....May Byron 3012
Advice.....W. S. Landor 1710
Advice to a Girl.....Campion 810
Advice to a Lover, "Oh, if you love her".....S. C. Jellicoe 1171
Advice to a Lover, "The sea hath many thousand sands" Unknown 483
"Ae Fond Kiss"...Robert Burns 945
"Afar in the Desert"....Pringle 1669
Affaire d'Amour...M. W. Deland 1048
Afoot.....C. G. D. Roberts 1682
After, "A little time for laughter".....P. B. Marston 898
After, "Oh, the littles that remain".....L. W. Reese 1127
After Death in Arabia....Arnold 3582
After Dilletante Concetti..Traill 1942
After Summer....P. B. Marston 899
After the Martyrdom Scharmel Iris 3736
After Two Years....Aldington 581
After Wings.....S. M. B. Piatt 119
Afterward.....E. S. P. Ward 3512
Afterwards.....Violet Fane 3469
Against Indifference.....Webbe 615
Agatha.....Alfred Austin 1046
Age.....William Winter 424

PAGE

Age of Wisdom, The..Thackeray 838
Agincourt.....Michael Drayton 2361
"Ah, be not False"..R. W. Gilder 349
"Ah, how Sweet it is to Love" John Dryden 485
"Ah, Sweet is Tipperary" D. A. McCarthy 2608
"A-Hunting We Will Go" Henry Fielding 1662
Air, "I ne'er could any luster see" R. B. Sheridan 827
Airly Beacon...Charles Kingsley 1040
Aladdin.....J. R. Lowell 357
Alarmed Skipper, The J. T. Fields 2146
Alexander's Feast, John Dryden 3114
"Alexis, Here She Stayed". William Drummond 1252
Alice..... Herbert Bashford 11
Alice Brand.....Walter Scott 2716
All is Vanity.....Philip Rosseter 2838
"All Last Night"..Abercrombie 674
All Saints'.....Edmund Yates 1868
Allah's Tent.....Arthur Colton 3740
Allan Water.....M. G. Lewis 1042
All's Well.....F. W. Bourdillon 2561
"All's Well".....W. A. Butler 3760
Almond Blossom..Edwin Arnold 1466
Alone by the Hearth....Arnold 460
"Along the Field as we Came by".....A. E. Housman 856
Alphabet, The...C. S. Calverley 2049
Amantium Iræ, "In going to my naked bed, as one that would have slept"..Richard Edwards 3031
Amantium Iræ, "When this, our rose, is faded..Ernest Dowson 660
Amarillis.....Thomas Campion 524
Amaturus, William Johnson-Cory 497
America, "My country, 'tis of thee".....S. F. Smith 2195
America, "Nor force nor fraud shall sunder us," Sydney Dobell 2225
America to Great Britain..Allston 2223
American Flag, The, J. R. Drake 2107
Amoret.....Mark Akenside 537
Amoretti, Sonnets III, VIII, XXIV, XXXIV, LV, LXVIII, LXX, LXXV, LXXIX Edmund Spenser 1232
Amynta.....Gilbert Elliot 617
Andrea del Sarto.....Browning 839
André's Ride.....A. H. Beesly 2801
Andromeda.....J. J. Roche 2253
Angel in the House, The, Preludes from...Coventry Patmore 384
Angelina.....P. L. Dunbar 2043
Angels, The, William Drummond 207
Angelus, The.....F. E. Coates 3646
Anger...Charles and Mary Lamb 113
Angler, The.....John Chalkhill 1665
Angler's Invitation, The, Stoddart 1663

PAGE

Angler's Wish, The, Isaac Walton 1664
Annabel Lee.....E. A. Poe 1105
Annan Water.....Unknown 1062
Annie Laurie...William Douglas 550
Annie Shore and Johnnie Doon
Orr 1057
Annuity, The....George Outram 2132
Answer to a Child's Question
S. T. Coleridge 141
Ant and the Cricket, The
Unknown 118
Antony to Cleopatra.W. H. Lytle 2346
Any Lover, Any Lass, Middleton 578
Apollo's Song from "Midas" Lyly 520
April Adoration, An....Roberts 1354
April Rain, "It is not raining rain for me"...Robert Loveman 1442
April Rain, "The April rain, the April rain"....Mathilde Blind 1443
"Are the Children at Home"
Margaret Sangster 311
Are They not all Ministering Spirits.....R. S. Hawker 631
"Are Women Fair".....Davison 1902
Arethusa.....P. B. Shelley 1418
Argument of His Book, The
Robert Herrick 3105
Armada, The, T. B. Macaulay 2370
"Around the Child."W. S. Landor 356
Arrow and the Song, The
H. W. Longfellow 2923
Ars Victrix.....Austin Dobson 3140
Arsenal at Springfield, The
H. W. Longfellow 3069
Art.....Théophile Gautier 3482
"As an Old Mercer" M. L. Fisher 1301
"As I Came Down from Lebanon".....Clinton Scollard 2637
"As I Laye a-Thynkynge"
R. H. Barham 3359
"As Like the Woman as You Can".....W. E. Henley 1900
"As Toilsome I Wandered Virginia's Woods" Walt Whitman 3004
Ashes of Life.....Millay 929
Ashes of Roses...E. G. Eastman 923
Ashore.....Laurence Hope 916
Ask and Have.....Samuel Lover 754
"Ask Me no More"...Tennyson 875
Aspatia's Song from "The Maid's Tragedy.....John Fletcher 1064
Aspects of the Pines, P. H. Hayne 1400
Astrophel and Stella, Sonnets I, XXXI, XXXIX, LXII, LXIV, LXXIII, CIII, CVII
Philip Sidney 1235
At a Cowboy Dance....Adams 2187
At a Solemn Music, John Milton 3125
At Gibraltar...G. E. Woodberry 2229
At Her Window
Frederick Locker-Lampson 708
At Home in Heaven
James Montgomery 3702
At Last.....R. H. Stoddard 1215
At Night.....Alice Meynell 674
At Parting.....A. C. Swinburne 978
At Sunset.....Louis V. Ledoux 1144
At the Church Gate..Thackeray 792
At the Comedy, Arthur Stringer 926
At the Crossroads, Richard Hovey 3009
At the Grave of Champernowne
John Albee 3597

PAGE

At the Last.....P. B. Marston 1261
"At the Mid Hour of Night"
Thomas Moore 1079
At the Salon.....Wilkinson 3373
At the Top of the Road
Charles Buxton 3577
Aucassin and Nicolete
F. W. Bourdillon 1768
Auf Wiedersehen...J. R. Lowell 990
August, 1914.....Masefield 2547
Auld Daddy Darkness
James Ferguson 71
Auld House, The.Carolina Nairne 3234
Auld Lang Syne....Robert Burns 464
Auld Robin Gray, Anne Barnard 1009
Autumn.....Emily Dickinson 1381
Autumn: a Dirge...P. B. Shelley 1380
Autumn Garden, An
Bliss Carman 1452
Aux Italiens.....Bulwer Lytton 889
Ave Atque Vale, "Farewell, my Youth! for now we needs must part".....R. M. Watson 353
Ave Atque Vale, "You found the green before the Spring was sweet".....T. S. Jones, Jr. 3668
Ave Imperatrix.....Oscar Wilde 2244
"Awake! Awake!" John Ruskin 3016
"Awake, My Heart"....Bridges 505
Azrael.....R. G. Welsh 3414
Aztec City, The....Eugene Ware 3211

B

Babes in the Woods...Unknown 185
Babie, The.....J. E. Rankin 19
Baby.....George Macdonald 4
Baby at Play.....Unknown 58
Baby Bell.....T. B. Aldrich 28
Baby-land.....George Cooper 55
Baby May.....W. C. Bennett 10
Baby Seed Song....Edith Nesbit 135
"Baby Sleeps"....Samuel Hinds 27
Babylon.....Viola Taylor 448
Baby's Breakfast.....Poulsson 56
Bacchus.....R. W. Emerson 2964
Bachelor's Hall.....John Finley 1970
Bailiff's Daughter of Islington, The.....Unknown 2705
Baker's Duzzen uv Wize Sawz, A
E. R. Still 1915
Balkis.....Abercrombie 3215
Ballad, "He said: 'The shadows darken down'"..May Kendall 1090
Ballad, "In the summer even"
H. P. Spofford 1621
Ballad, "The auld wife sat at her ivied door"....S. C. Calverley 1939
Ballad: "The roses in my garden"
Maurice Baring 1138
Ballad, "'Twas when the seas were roaring".....John Gay 1064
Ballad of Bouillabaise, The
W. M. Thackeray 1726
Ballad of Cassandra Brown, The
H. G. Cone 1906
Ballad of Camden Town, The
James Elroy Flecker 1058
Ballad of Dead Ladies, A
J. H. McCarthy 1785
Ballad of Dead Ladies, The
D. G. Rossetti 1783

PAGE

Ballad of Dreamland, A
A. C. Swinburne 499
Ballad of East and West, The
Rudyard Kipling 2830
Ballad of Father Gilligan, The
W. B. Yeats 2803
Ballad of Heroes, A . . . Dobson 2304
Ballad of Imitation, The, Dobson 1883
Ballad of Judas Iscariot, The
Robert Buchanan 2791
Ballad of Keith of Ravelston, The
Sydney Dobell 2736
Ballad of Life, A . . . . Swinburne 642
Ballad of Low-Lie-Down Cawein 1699
Ballad of Orleans, A . . . Robinson 2364
Ballad of Prose and Rhyme, The
Austin Dobson 1770
Ballad of Reading Gaol, The
Oscar Wilde 2773
Ballad of Sarsfield, A . . . De Vere 2410
Ballad of Sir John Franklin, A
G. H. Boker 2465
Ballad of the Angel, The, Garrison 1015
Ballad of the Boat, The, Garnett 3396
Ballad of the French Fleet, A
H. W. Longfellow 2421
Ballad of the Goodly Fere
Ezra Pound 2814
Ballad of the Oysterman, The
O. W. Holmes 2139
Ballad of Trees and the Master
Sidney Lanier 3776
Ballad Upon a Wedding, A
John Suckling 763
Ballade de Frère Lubin . . . Marot 3838
Ballade des Dames du Temps Jadis . . . . . François Villon 3837
Ballade of a Friar, Andrew Lang 1874
Ballade of Dead Ladies . . . . Lang 1874
Ballade of Ladies' Names
W. E. Henley 1761
Ballade of Middle Age . . . . Lang 363
Ballade of My Lady's Beauty
Joyce Kilmer 575
Ballade of Suicide, A Chesterton 1787
Ballade of Summer, Andrew Lang 1769
Ballade of the Primitive Jest
Andrew Lang 1708
Barbara . . . . . Alexander Smith 1100
Barbara Allen's Cruelty, Unknown 2704
Barbara Frietchie . . . . . Whittier 2494
Barefoot Boy, The . . . . . Whittier 261
Barney McGee . . . Richard Hovey 1980
Barrel-Organ, The, Alfred Noyes 3025
Bartholomew . . . . . Norman Gale 20
Battle Cry . . . . . J. G. Neihardt 2952
Battle-hymn of the Republic
J. W. Howe 2206
Battle of Blenheim, The, Southey 2410
Battle of Naseby, The, Macaulay 2392
Battle of Otterburn, The
Unknown 2356
Battle of the Baltic . . . Campbell 2441
Bayard Taylor . . . J. G. Whittier 3658
Be True . . . . . Horatius Bonar 2932
"Be Ye in Love with April-Tide"
Clinton Scollard 670
Beasts, The . . . . . Walt Whitman 2996
Beauty and Duty, Ellen Hooper 2972
Because . . . . . Edward Fitzgerald 788
"Because of You," S. A. Henley 665
Bedouin Song . . . . Bayard Taylor 709

PAGE

Bedtime . . . . F. R. St. C. Erskine 97
Bed-time Song . . . . . Poulsson 92
Beech Tree's Petition, The
Thomas Campbell 1410
Before a Statue of Achilles
George Santayana 3212
"Before the Beginning of Years"
A. C. Swinburne 368
Beggar Maid, The . . . . Tennyson 1143
"Behave Yourself before Folk"
Alexander Rodger 751
Behold the Deeds H. C. Bunner 2189
Beleaguered City, The
H. W. Longfellow 2863
Belfry of Bruges, The
H. W. Longfellow 2627
"Believe Me, if all Those Endearing Young Charms"
Thomas Moore 624
Belle of the Ball-Room, The
W. M. Praed 1718
Bells, The . . . . . E. A. Poe 3174
Bells of Shandon, The
F. S. Mahony 2610
Beloved, The . . . . . Tynan 3727
Ben Bolt . . . . . T. D. English 470
Benedictine Garden, A
Alice Brown 1451
Bermudas . . . . . Andrew Marvell 2566
Best Firm, The . . . . . W. G. Doty 114
Betrothed, The Rudyard Kipling 860
Better Resurrection, A . . . Rossetti 3461
"Beyond the Smiling and the Weeping" . . . . Horatius Bonar 3490
"Bid Adieu to Girlish Days"
James Joyce 1170
Biftek aux Champignons . . . Beers 1800
Bill and Joe . . . . . O. W. Holmes 3002
Bingen on the Rhine . . . . Norton 2634
"Bird, Let Loose in Eastern Skies, The . . . . Thomas Moore 3715
Bird Song . . . . Laura E. Richards 1555
Birds . . . . . Moira O'Neill 1521
Birds . . . . . R. H. Stoddard 1522
Birth-bond, The . . . . D. G. Rosetti 1256
Birth of St. Patrick, The . . Lover 1966
Birthright . . . . . John Drinkwater 3401
Bishop Orders His Tomb at Saint Praxed's Church, The
Robert Browning 1862
Bivouac of the Dead, O'Hara 2310
Black Regiment, The G. H. Boker 2500
Black Sheep . . . . Richard Burton 3058
Black Vulture, The . . . . . Sterling 1581
Blackbird, The, "How sweet the harmonies of afternoon"
Frederick Tennyson 1523
Blackbird, The, "Ov al the birds upon the wing" . . . . . Barnes 1527
Blackbird, The, "The nightingale has a lyre of gold" . . . Henley 1527
Blackbird, The, "When smoke stood up from Ludlow"
A. E. Housman 1528
Black-eyed Susan . . . . John Gay 937
Blackmwore Maidens . . . . Barnes 336
Blessed Damosel, The, Rossetti 3198
"Blest be the Tie that Binds"
John Fawcett 3801
Blind Boy, The . . . . Colley Cibber 157
Blind Men and the Elephant, The . . . . . J. G. Saxe 1877

	PAGE
Blood Horse, The...B. W. Procter	1520
"Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind"...William Shakespeare	3039
"Blow, Bugles, Blow," McGroarty	2316
"Blow High! Blow Low," Dibdin	942
"Blow Softly, Thrush"...Taylor	1581
Blue and the Gray, The...Finch	2308
Blue Bells of Scotland, The Unknown	2276
Boadicea: An Ode.....Cowper	2348
Bobolink, The.....Thomas Hill	1531
Body's Beauty....D. G. Rossetti	1258
Bonnie Doon.....Robert Burns	1044
Bonnie Dundee.....Walter Scott	2408
Bonnie George Campbell Unknown	2714
"Bonnie Wee Thing"....Burns	622
Bonny Earl of Murray, The Unknown	2276
Book of the World, The William Drummond	1293
Bookra.....C. D. Warner	2854
Boot and Saddle....R. Browning	2284
Border Ballad.....Walter Scott	2278
Bourne, The.....C. G. Rossetti	3415
Boy and the Wolf, The....Frere	121
Boys, The.....O. W. Holmes	1745
Boy's Song, A.....James Hogg	128
Bracelet: To Julia, The, Herrick	596
Braes of Yarrow, The.....Logan	1065
Brahma.....R. W. Emerson	2964
Brave at Home, The, T. B. Read	2318
Brave Old Oak, The....Chorley	1403
"Break, Break, Break," Tennyson	472
Breakfast Song, The..Poulsson	42
Breaking, The, M. S. Anderson	351
Breath on the Oat..J. R. Taylor	2541
Bride, The.....Laurence Hope	1198
Bridge, The...H. W. Longfellow	3356
Bridge, The..Frederick Peterson	3257
Bridge of Sighs, The.....Hood	3390
"Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning".....Heber	210
Bringing Our Sheaves.....Akers	3731
British Grenadiers, The, Unknown	2280
Brook's Song, The....Tennyson	1416
Brookside, The....R. M. Milnes	1147
Broom Flower, The.....Howitt	1468
Brother Jonathan's Lament for Sister Caroline..O. W. Holmes	2485
Brown of Ossawatomie, Whittier	2484
Brown Thrush, The....Larcom	105
Bruce to His Men at Bannockburn.....Robert Burns	2350
Bucket, The..Samuel Woodworth	467
Bugle Song from "The Princess" Alfred Tennyson	635
Building of the Nest, The Margaret Sangster	163
Burial of Moses, The, Alexander	3736
Burial of Sir John More after Corunna, The...Charles Wolfe	2448
Burial of the Dane, The H. H. Brownell	1626
Burning Babe, The....Southwell	208
Busy Heart, The.....Brooke	1270
Buttercups.....Wilfrid Thorley	1468
Buttercups and Daisies..Howitt	117
Butterflies.....John Davidson	1032
Butterfly, The.....O'Keefe	116
Butterfly, The....A. F. Palmer	1519
Butterfly and the Bee, The W. L. Bowles	116
By the Statue of King Charles at Charing Cross..Lionel Johnson	3598
"By Yon Burn Side," Tannahill	1166

C

C. L. M.....John Masefield	397
Calf-Path, The.....S. W. Foss	1896
Caliban in the Coal Mines Louis Untermeyer	3059
Call, The.....R. W. Kauffman	509
"Call Me Not Dead"....Gilder	3502
Call to a Scot, The....Harding	3261
Caller Herrin'...Carolina Nairne	1622
Calumny.....F. S. Osgood	2924
Canadian Boat-Song.....Moore	1426
Candor.....H. C. Bunner	787
Cane-bottomed Chair, The W. M. Thackeray	3239
Captain Reece.....W. S. Gilbert	2180
"Captain Stood on the Carronade, The"..Frederick Marryat	2125
Captain's Daughter, The, Fields	178
Captain's Feather, The....Peck	2305
Carcassonne, "I'm growing old, I've sixty years"...Thompson	438
Carcassonne, "Je me fais vieux, j'ai soixante ans"....Nadaud	3844
Care.....V. W. Cloud	3373
Careless Content...John Byrom	2989
Carmen Bellicosum...McMaster	2433
Carol, A, "He came all so still" Unknown	201
Carry On.....R. W. Service	2941
Casabianca.....F. D. Hemans	2439
Casey at the Bat...E. L. Thayer	2185
Castara.....William Habington	531
Castles in the Air, "My thoughts by night are often filled" T. L. Peacock	435
Castles in the Air, "The bonnie, bonnie bairn who sits poking in the ase"..James Ballantine	257
Casual Song, A....Roden Noel	1049
Cataract of Lodore, The, Southey	1420
Cautionary Verses to Youth of Both Sexes.....T. E. Hook	2021
Cavalier Tunes..Robert Browning	2283
Cavalier's Escape, The Walter Thornbury	2742
Cavalier's Song Robert Cunninghame-Graham	619
Cavalier's Song, The, Motherwell	2282
Cave Sedem.....MacManus	2c36
Celestial Surgeon, The, Stevenson	3729
Ceremonies for Christmas Robert Herrick	223
Certain Maxims of Hafiz, Kipling	1911
Certain Young Lady, A..Irving	731
Ceylon.....A. H. Fisher	2638
Challenge.....K. F. Murray	320
"Chamber Scene"...N. P. Willis	348
Chambered Nautilus, The O. W. Holmes	2913
Chameleon, The..James Merrick	1875
Changing Road, The, K. L. Bates	3427
Chanson de Rosemonde..Hovey	997

PAGE

Chanson of the Bells of Oseney
Cale Young Rice 2818
Chant of Hate against England, A
Barbara Henderson 2549
Chant of Love for England, A
Helen Gray Cone 2551
Chant Royal of High Virtue
A. T. Quiller-Couch 2957
Chanted Calendar, A Dobell 1462
Chanticleer Katharine Tynan 149
Chaperon, The H. C. Bunner 1795
Character of a Happy Life, The
Henry Wotton 2986
Character of the Happy Warrior
William Wordsworth 2935
Charge, A Herbert Trench 2919
Charge of the Light Brigade, The
Alfred Tennyson 2473
"Charge to Keep I Have, A"
Charles Wesley 3792
"Charlie is My Darling"
Unknown 2273
Chartless Emily Dickinson 3711
Chavez Mildred McN. Sweeney 3600
Che Sara Sara Victor Plarr 1170
Cherry-Ripe Thomas Campion 524
Chess-board, The, Bulwer Lytton 888
Chevy-Chase Unknown 2695
Chiffons W. S. Johnson 1788
"Child, Child," Teasdale 512
Child in the Garden, The,
Henry Van Dyke 435
"Child My Choice, A," Southwell 3747
Childhood J. B. Tabb 440
Children, The C. M. Dickinson 250
Children's Hour, The, Longfellow 252
Children's Song Hueffer 282
Child's Heritage, The Neihardt 279
Child's Laughter, A, Swinburne 254
Child's Natural History, Herford 2082
Child's Song in Spring Nesbit 135
Child's Song of Christmas, A
Marjorie L. C. Pickthall 219
Child's Wish Granted, The
G. P. Lathrop 320
Chimney Swallows, H. N. Powers 1575
Chivalry at a Discount,
Edward Fitzgerald 1724
Chloe Robert Burns 540
Chloe Divine Thomas D'Urfey 533
Chloris in the Snow Unknown 523
Choice, The D. G. Rossetti 3568
Choosing a Name Mary Lamb 14
Chorus from "Hellas" Shelley 2623
Christ Our Example in Suffering
James Montgomery 3799
Christmas at Sea, R. L. Stevenson 1602
Christmas Bells, H. W. Longfellow 211
Christmas Carol, "As Joseph was a-waukin'" Unknown 209
Christmas Carol, A, "The Christ-child lay on Mary's lap,"
G. K. Chesterton 212
Christmas Carols, "It came upon the midnight clear" Sears 206
Christmas Hymn, A Domett 204
Christus Consolator Raymond 3773
Chrysalis, A Mary E. Bradley 300
Churchyard, The Buchanan 3435
Churchyard on the Sands, The Lord de Tabley 1067
City in the Sea, The E. A. Poe 3417

PAGE

City Mouse and the Garden Mouse, The, C. G. Rossetti 44
City of the Dead, The Burton 3440
Civil War C. D. Shanly 2492
Clay E. V. Lucas 1768
Closing Scene, The T. B. Read 3419
Cloud, The P. B. Shelley 1440
Coleridge, Theodore Watts-Dunton 3601
Collar, The George Herbert 3719
Cologne S. T. Coleridge 1911
Columbia Timothy Dwight 2202
Columbus, "Behind him lay the gray Azores" Joaquin Miller 2366
Columbus, "St. Stephen's cloistered hall was proud"
L. H. Sigourney 2365
"Come, Chloe, and Give me Sweet Kisses" C. H. Williams 685
"Come into the Garden, Maud"
Alfred Tennyson 706
"Come to Me, Dearest," Brenan 982
Comfort E. B. Browning 3766
"Comin' Through the Rye"
Robert Burns 727
Commemoration Ode J. R. Lowell 2518
Common Street, The H. G. Cone 3021
Commonplaces Rudyard Kipling 1946
Companions C. S. Calverley 1736
Compensation P. L. Dunbar 3479
Compensation Celia Thaxter 1294
Complete Lover, The Browne 528
Comrades, "At least, it was a life of swords" Lionel Johnson 3006
Comrades, "I rose up when the battle was dead" Housman 3008
Comrades, "Where are the friends that I knew in my Maying"
G. E. Woodberry 3005
Conclusion, The Walter Raleigh 3453
Conclusion of the Whole Matter, The F. R. Torrence 2897
Concord Hymn R. W. Emerson 2205
Conquered Banner, The Ryan 2515
Conqueror Worm, The, E. A. Poe 3416
Conquerors, The Harry Kemp 3068
Conscience H. D. Thoreau 2960
Conservative, A C. P. S. Gilman 1890
Constancy, "'Dear as remembered kisses after death'"
Minor Watson 3475
Constancy, "I cannot change as others do" John Wilmot 611
Constant Lover, The Suckling 818
Constant Swain and Virtuous Maid, The Unknown 774
Contemplation upon Flowers, A
Henry King 1466
Content Norman Gale 1170
Contented John Jane Taylor 111
Contented Mind, A Sylvester 2980
Contentions Unknown 725
Contentment O. W. Holmes 1743
Conundrum of the Workshops, The Rudyard Kipling 1884
Coridon's Song John Chalkhill 1636
Corinna's Going a-Maying
Robert Herrick 1359
Coronach Walter Scott 2351
Coronation, "All hail the power of Jesus' name" Perronet 3792
Coronation, "At the King's gate the subtle noon" Jackson 2985

PAGE

Coronemus nos Rosis Antequam Marcescant...Thomas Jordan 1992
Corrymeela.....Moira O'Neill 2604
Corsage Bouquet, A.....Lüders 1783
Cottager to her Infant, The Dorothy Wordsworth 84
Cotter's Saturday Night, The Robert Burns 3246
Counsel.....Mary E. Davis 3014
Country Faith, The Norman Gale 1644
Country Wedding, The Unknown 771
Court Historian, The, Thornbury 1789
Court Lady, A..E. B. Browning 3315
Courtin', The.....J. R. Lowell 736
Courtship, Merry Marriage, and Picnic Dinner of Cock Robin and Jenny Wren, The Unknown 181
Courtship of the Yonghy-Bonghy-Bò, The.....Edward Lear 2054
Cow, The.....Ann Taylor 47
Cowper's Grave, E. B. Browning 3601
"Crabbèd Age and Youth" William Shakespeare 717
Cradle Hymn, A, "Hush! my dear, lie still and slumber" Isaac Watts 79
Cradle Song.....J. P. Peabody 88
Cradle Song, A, "Come little babe, come silly soul"..Breton 1036
Cradle Song, "Sleep, sleep, beauty bright," William Blake 81
Cradle Song, "What is the little one thinking about," Holland 86
Craven.....Henry Newbolt 2509
Crecy.....F. T. Palgrave 2352
Credo, A.....W. M. Thackeray 2022
Creep afore ye Gang, Ballantine 256
Cremona.....A. C. Doyle 2436
Cricket.....Clinton Scollard 3101
Cricket, The....William Cowper 1511
Cricket's Story, The.....Nason 145
Crooked Footpath, The, Holmes 3739
Crossing the Bar.....Tennyson 3504
Crow, The.....William Canton 1536
Crowing of the Red Cock, The Emma Lazarus 3254
Crowned.....Amy Lowell 851
Cruiskeen Lawn, The..Unknown 2010
Crust of Bread, The...Unknown 104
Cry of the Children, The E. B. Browning 283
Cuckoo, The, F. Locker-Lampson 1537
Cuddle Doon, Alexander Anderson 95
Cui Bono.....Thomas Carlyle 3377
Culture in the Slums....Henley 1951
Cup, The.....J. T. Trowbridge 1645
Cupid and Campaspe..John Lyly 520
Cupid Drowned.....Leigh Hunt 488
Cupid Stung.....Thomas Moore 488
Curé's Progress, The....Dobson 1776
"Curfew Must Not Ring To-night".....R. H. Thorpe 3329
Cushla Ma Chree..J. P. Curran 2263
Custer's Last Charge, Whittaker 2529
Cyclamen, The.....Arlo Bates 668

D

Da Capo.....H. C. Bunner 828
Dagonet's Canzonet.....Rhys 545
Daisies.....Bliss Carman 1478
Daisy.....Francis Thompson 341
Damelus' Song of His Diaphenia Henry Constable 522
Dance of Death, The....Dobson 3446
Dandelion.....A. R. Annan 1483
Dandelions, The.....H. G. Cone 1483
Daniel Gray.....J. G. Holland 3327
Danny Deever..Rudyard Kipling 2293
"Darest Thou now O Soul" Walt Whitman 3494
Darius Green and His Flying-machine.....J. T. Trowbridge 2163
Dark Glass, The..D. G. Rossetti 1257
Dark Man, The....Nora Hopper 910
Dark Road, The..Ethel Clifford 3559
Dark Rosaleen...J. C. Mangan 2249
"Darling, Tell me Yes"....Saxe 650
Daughter of Mendoza, The M. B. Lamar 569
Dawn.....Geo. B. Logan, Jr. 1328
Dawn and Dark...Norman Gale 1328
Dawn-angels, W. M. F. Robinson 1309
Dawn of Womanhood...Monro 390
Dawn on the Headland, Watson 1308
"Day and Night My Thoughts Incline".....R. H. Stoddard 2014
"Day is Done, The," Longfellow 3355
"Day Returns, The".....Burns 945
Daybreak....H. W. Longfellow 3443
"Days of my Youth"...Tucker 352
Days of the Month....Unknown 61
De Brevitate Vitæ....Unknown 3829
"De Gustibus—"...R. Browning 2611
"De Mortuis Nil Nisi Bonum" Richard Realf 3367
Deacon's Masterpiece, The O. W. Holmes 1871
Dead, The.....Rupert Brooke 2545
Dead at Clonmacnois, The T. W. Rolleston 2607
Dead Coach, The.....Tynan 3429
Dead Faith, The.....F. H. Lea 3396
Dead Letter, A...Austin Dobson 1814
Dead March, A.....Monkhouse 3540
Dear Fanny....Thomas Moore 730
Dearest Poets, The..Leigh Hunt 3085
Death, "Death stands above me, whispering low," W. S. Landor 3491
Death, "I am the Key that parts the gates of Fame"....Coates 3430
Death and Burial of Cock Robin, The.....Unknown 53
"Death, Be not Proud," Donne 3348
Death-bed, A....James Aldrich 3548
Death-bed, The...Thomas Hood 3546
Death of the Flowers, The W. C. Bryant 1505
Death of the Old Year, The Alfred Tennyson 1395
Death's Final Conquest, Shirley 3404
Death's Subtle Ways.....Shirley 3405
Death's Summons.....Nashe 3453
Debate in the Sennit, The Lowell 1840
Dedication, A..Rudyard Kipling 3816
Deeds of Kindness.....Sargent 119
Deeds of Valor at Santiago Clinton Scollard 2540
Defence of the Alamo, The, Miller 2458
Defiance.....W. S. Landor 728
Dejection: An Ode S. T. Coleridge 3369
Delight in Disorder.....Herrick 378
Departure.....Coventry Patmore 974

	PAGE
Deposition from Beauty, A Thomas Stanley	608
Deserted Garden, The, Browning	1455
Deserted Pasture, The, Carman	1438
Deserted Village, The, Goldsmith	3262
Deservings Unknown	2909
Desire, The Katharine Tynan	253
Destruction of Sennacherib, The Lord Byron	2327
Deutschen Vaterland, Des, Arndt	3834
Devout Lover, A Randolph	531
Dewey at Manila, R. U. Johnson	2537
Dialogue from Plato, A, Dobson	1773
Diana, Sonnets IX, LXII Henry Constable	1245
Dickens in Camp Bret Harte	3666
Dies Iræ, "Day of wrath, that day of burning" A. Coles	3777
Dies Iræ, "Dies iræ dies illa" Tommáso di Celano	3819
Difference, The L. E. Richards	59
"Dinna Ask Me" John Dunlop	1163
Diogenes Max Eastman	2997
Dirge Adelaide Crapsey	1139
Dirge, A, "Call for the robin-redbreast and the wren" John Webster	3430
Dirge, "Calm on the Bosom of thy God" F. D. Hemans	3551
Dirge, "Fear no more the heat o' the sun" William Shakespeare	3431
Dirge for a Soldier G. H. Boker	2315
Dirge for One Who Fell in Battle T. W. Parsons	2314
Dirge for the Year P. B. Shelley	1396
Dirge in Cymbeline Collins	3431
Dirty Jim Jane Taylor	107
Disaster C. S. Calverley	1929
Discipline George Herbert	3720
Discoverer, The E. C. Stedman	298
Disdain Returned Carew	817
Dispraise of Love, and Lovers' Follies Francis Davison	818
Diverting History of John Gilpin, The William Cowper	2093
Divided Jean Ingelow	968
Divina Commedia H. W. Longfellow	3084
Divine Rapture, A Quarles	3742
Dixie, "I wish I was in de land ob cotton" D. D. Emmett	2218
Dixie, "Southrons, hear your country call you," Albert Pike	2219
"Do I Love Thee" J. G. Saxe	651
Do you Fear the Wind Garland	1684
"Do You Remember," T. Bayly	788
Dolcino to Margaret Kingsley	1215
Don Quixote Austin Dobson	2950
Don't J. J. Roche	741
"Don't be Sorrowful, Darling" Rembrandt Peale	1220
Doorstep, The E. C. Stedman	794
Doris A. J. Munby	1201
Dorothy Q O. W. Holmes	1738
Doubt of Martyrdom, A John Suckling	602
Doubting Heart, A A. A. Procter	2865
Douglas Tragedy, The, Unknown	2653
Dove, The John Keats	3379
Dover Beach Matthew Arnold	2595
Dover Cliffs W. L. Bowles	3257
Dove's Nest J. R. Taylor	266
"Down by the Salley Gardens" W. B. Yeats	928
Dow's Flat Bret Harte	2171
Drake's Drum Henry Newbolt	3607
Dream of Eugene Aram, The Thomas Hood	2767
Dream Song Middleton	236
Dream-bearer, The M. C. Davies	3058
Dregs Ernest Dowson	422
Drifting T. B. Read	1609
Driftwood Trumbull Stickney	2906
Drink To-day John Fletcher	1091
Drinking Abraham Cowley	1003
Driving Home the Cows Osgood	2517
Drover, A Padraic Colum	1698
Duel, The Eugene Field	173
"Dule's i' this Bonnet o' Mine, The" Edwin Waugh	757
Duna Marjorie L. C. Pickthall	3241
Dust Rupert Brooke	1137
Dust Dethroned, The Sterling	2848
Dustman, The F. E. Weatherly	73
Duty R. W. Emerson	290
Dying Christian to His Soul, The Alexander Pope	3489
Dying Hymn Alice Cary	3492
Dying Lover, The R. H. Stoddard	1114
Dying Reservist, The Baring	3474

E

E. B. B. James Thomson	3594
Each and All R. W. Emerson	2062
Each in His Own Tongue, Carruth	2867
Eagle, The Alfred Tennyson	1539
Eagle that is Forgotten, The Vachel Lindsay	3587
Eagle's Song, The Mansfield	2207
Earl Mar's Daughter Unknown	2643
Earl Mertoun's Song from "The Blot in the 'Scutcheon" Robert Browning	1156
Early Death Hartley Coleridge	3550
Early Morning at Bargis Hermann Hagedorn	1645
Early Rising J. G. Saxe	2024
Early Spring Alfred Tennyson	1333
Earth and Man, The Brooke	2909
Ebb and Flow G. W. Curtis	2849
Eclipse, The Henry Vaughan	3766
Edinburgh Alfred Noyes	2603
Edith W. E. Channing	3217
Edom o' Gordon Unknown	2688
Edward, Edward Unknown	2682
Edwin Booth Alice Brown	3590
Effect of Example, The Keble	2924
Egyptian Serenade Curtis	868
Eight-Day Clock, The, Cochrane	1756
Eileen Aroon Gerald Griffin	549
Ein Feste Burg Martin Luther	3831
El Capitan-General C. G. Leland	2026
Eldorado E. A. Poe	3397
Elegiac Stanzas Wordsworth	3587
Elegy on a Lap-Dog, An Gay	1826
Elegy on That Glory of Her Sex, Mrs. Mary Blaize, An Oliver Goldsmith	2092
Elegy on the Death of a Mad Dog, An Oliver Goldsmith	2091
Elegy to the Memory of an Unfortunate Lady Pope	3530

PAGE

Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard...Thomas Gray 3532
Elf and the Dormouse, The Oliver Herford 234
Elizabeth of Bohemia...Wotton 525
Ellen M'Jones Aberdeen, Gilbert 2073
Embryo...M. A. Townsend 3079
Emilia...S. N. Cleghorn 346
Emmy...Arthur Symons 1058
"En Voyage"...C. A. Mason 2993
"Enamored Architect of Airy Rhyme"...T. B. Aldrich 3083
Enchainment...O'Shaughnessy 1008
Enchantment...Madison Cawein 1406
Enchantment, The...Otway 613
Endurance...Elizabeth Akers 3382
Endymion, "The apple trees are hung with gold"...Oscar Wilde 1013
Endymion, "The rising moon has hid the stars"...Longfellow 500
England...Gerald Massey 2240
England, 1802...Wordsworth 2237
"England, My England," Henley 2239
England's Dead...F. D. Hemans 2306
English Mother, An...Johnson 2242
Envoi...J. G. Neihardt 3505
Envoy, "Go little book, and wish to all"...R. L. Stevenson 3106
Envoy, "Go, songs, for ended is our brief, sweet play" Francis Thompson 3106
Envoy, "Have little care that Life is brief"...Bliss Carman 2858
Envoy, "If any record of our names"...Richard Hovey 2856
Envoy, "Whose furthest footstep never strayed." Richard Hovey 1993
Epicure, The...Abraham Cowley 1993
Epigrams...S. T. Coleridge, et al. 1915, 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919
Epitaph on Salathiel Pavey Ben Jonson 3516
Eve...Ralph Hodgson 2816
Eve of St. Agnes, The...Keats 3284
Eve of Waterloo, The...Byron 2450
Evelyn Hope...Robert Browning 1094
"Even This Shall Pass Away" Theodore Tilton 2845
Epilogue...Abercrombie 513
Epilogue from "Asolando" Robert Browning 3503
Epitaph, An...G. J. Cayley 1919
Epitaph Intended for Himself, An...James Beattie 3518
Epitaph of Dionysia...Unknown 307
Epitaph on a Hare...Cowper 1823
Epitaph on Charles II...Wilmot 1911
Epitaph on the Admirable Dramatic Poet, W. Shakespeare, An...John Milton 3653
Epitaph on the Countess Dowager of Pembroke...Browne 3518
Epitaphs...Ben Jonson 3516
Epithalamion...Edmund Spenser 1183
Equinoctial...A. D. T. Whitney 367
Eros...R. W. Emerson 474
Étude Réaliste, A. C. Swinburne 16
Eurydice...F. W. Bourdillon 911
Evening...G. W. Doane 3815
Evening Cloud, The...Wilson 1320
Evening Hymn...W. H. Furness 2968
Evening Melody...A. T. de Vere 1315

PAGE

Evensong...J. Ridgeley Torrence 893
Evoe...Edith M. Thomas 3098
Evolution...J. B. Tabb, 2866
"Ex Libris"...Arthur Upson 3466
Ex Ore Infantium Francis Thompson 277
Excelsior...H. W. Longfellow 2915
Exchange, The...S. T. Coleridge 726
Execution of Montrose, The W. E. Aytoun 2394
Exequy, The...Henry King 1228
Exile of Erin...Thomas Campbell 2252
Exile's Song, The...Gilfillan 3258
Expostulation and Reply William Wordsworth 1657
Exultation...Jean Ingelow 426

F

Fable...R. W. Emerson 1909
Face to Face...Frances Cochrane 915
Factories, The Margaret Widdemer 3057
Failures...Arthur Upson 2950
Fainne Gael an Lae...Milligan 2265
Fair Annie...Unknown 2656
Fair Circassian, The...Garnett 1903
Fair Hebe...John West 721
Fair Ines...Thomas Hood 959
"Fair is my Love for April's in her Face"...Robert Greene 520
Fair Thief, The...Wyndham 536
Fairies, The...Allingham 241
Fairies of the Caldon-Low, The Mary Howitt 238
Fairy Book, The...A. F. Brown 246
Fairy Book, The...Norman Gale 231
Fairy Folk, The...Robert Bird 245
Fairy Song, "Shed no tear! O, shed no tear"...John Keats 237
Fairy Song, "We the Fairies, blithe and antic"...Leigh Hunt 235
Fairy Songs, "Over hill, over dale," "You spotted snakes with double tongue," "Come unto these yellow sands," "Where the bee sucks, there suck I"...William Shakespeare 231
Fairy Thrall, The...Mary Byron 243
Faith, "Better trust all and be deceived"...F. A. Kemble 2919
Faith, "My faith looks up to Thee"...Ray Palmer 3810
Faithless Nelly Gray...Hood 2126
Faithless Sally Brown...Hood 2128
Fallen Star, The,...George Darley 3746
False Poets and True...Hood 3085
"False though She Be," Congreve 613
Falstaff's Song...E. C. Stedman 2014
"Fame is a Food that Dead Men Eat"...Austin Dobson 3013
Family Meeting, The...Sprague 3562
Fancies...John Ford 3142
Fancy from Fontanelle, A Austin Dobson 3378
Fanny...A. R. Aldrich 344
Fantaisie...Gérard de Nerval 3842
"Fare Thee Well"...Lord Byron 950
Farewell, A...Alice Brown 929
Farewell, A, "Flow down, cold rivulet, to the sea,"Tennyson 3354

PAGE

Farewell, A, "My fairest child, I have no song to give you" Charles Kingsley 125
Farewell, "Thou goest, to what distant place" J. A. Symonds 962
Farewell, A, "With all my will, but much against my heart" Coventry Patmore 974
Farewell, The, "It was a' for our rightfu' King" Robert Burns 2274
"Farewell, but Whenever" Thomas Moore 3015
"Farewell! if ever Fondest Prayer" Lord Byron 1002
Farewell to Arms, A Peele 399
Farewell to the Fairies Corbet 244
"Farmer went Trotting, A" Unknown 46
Farragut W. T. Meredith 2507
Fastidious Serpent, The Henry Johnstone 2070
Fate S. M. Spaulding 502
Father Land and Mother Tongue Samuel Lover 3259
Father Molloy Samuel Lover 1958
Father O'Flynn A. P. Graves 1957
Father William Lewis Carroll 1927
Fatherland, The J. R. Lowell 3260
"Fault is not Mine, The," Landor 831
Fawnia Robert Greene 583
Feast of the Snow, The Chesterton 214
Female Phaeton, The Prior 1904
Ferry Hinksey Laurence Binyon 992
Fiddler of Dooney, The Yeats 1965
Field Flower, A J. Montgomery 1476
Field of Glory, The E. A. Robinson 3067
Fight at San Jacinto, The Palmer 2459
Fighting Failure, The Appleton 2942
Fighting Race, The Clarke 2298
Fighting Téméraire, The Henry Newbolt 2444
"Fill the Bumper Fair." Moore 2002
Fine Old English Gentleman, The Unknown 1721
Finnigin to Flannigan Gillilan 1979
Fire of Drift-wood, The H. W. Longfellow 3236
Fireflies Edgar Fawcett 1519
First Day, The C. G. Rossetti 1259
First Kiss, The Watts-Dunton 689
First Kiss of Love, The Byron 686
First Snow-fall, The Lowell 315
First Song from "Astrophel and Stella" Philip Sidney 518
First Swallow, The Smith 1573
First Tooth, The W. B. Rands 56
Firstborn, The J. A. Goodchild 24
Fisher's Widow, The Symons 1622
Flag Goes By, The, H. H. Bennett 2208
Flight, The Lloyd Mifflin 3575
Flight of Love, The, P. B. Shelley 1001
Flight of the Goddess, The T. B. Aldrich 3103
Flight of Youth, The Stoddard 351
Flitch of Dunmow, The James Carnegie 2176
Florence Vane P. P. Cooke 1117
"Flow Gently, Sweet Afton" Robert Burns 1425
Flower, The Alfred Tennyson 2927

PAGE

Flower of Beauty, The Darley 628
Flowers, "I will not have the mad Clytie" Thomas Hood 1465
Flowers, "Spake full well, in language quaint and olden" H. W. Longfellow 1463
Flowers I would Bring," de Vere 546
Flower's Name, The Browning 964
Folk-song Untermeyer 1050
Follow a shadow, it still flies you Ben Jonson 811
Fontenoy T. O. Davis 2417
Fool's Prayer, The E. R. Sill 3764
Foot Soldiers John B. Tabb 59
Footpath Way, The Tynan 1679
For a Copy of Theocritus, Dobson 3664
"For a' That and a' That." Burns 3034
For Annie E. A. Poe 1107
"For Charlie's Sake" Palmer 308
For Ever W. C. Roscoe 990
For He Had Great Possessions Richard Middleton 886
For My Own Monument Prior 1861
For the Baptist William Drummond 3741
Forbearance R. W. Emerson 3076
Forbidden Lure, The, F. S. Davis 1686
Foreign Land, The Palmore 387
Foreign Lands R. L. Stevenson 160
Foreloper, The, Rudyard Kipling 1703
Forever J. B. O'Reilly 3571
"Forever and a Day" Aldrich 991
Forget not Yet Thomas Wyatt 583
"Forgettin'" Moira O'Neill 800
Forging of the Anchor, Ferguson 1606
Forsaken Unknown 1042
Forsaken Garden, A, Swinburne 1459
Forsaken Merman, The Arnold 1021
Forty Years Ago Huston 469
Forty Years on Edward Bowen 421
Forward E. D. Proctor 3733
Four-Leaf Clover Higginson 1472
Four Limericks Carolyn Wells 2088
Four Things Henry Van Dyke 2918
Four Winds Sara Teasdale 850
Four Winds, The C. H. Lüders 1123
Four Years D. M. M. Craik 1099
Fourth of August, The, Binyon 2546
Fragment in Imitation of Wordsworth C. M. Fanshawe 1923
Fraternity J. B. Tabb 3036
Friar of Orders Gray, The Thomas Percy 2710
Friend, A Lionel Johnson 3001
Friend and Lover M. A. de Vere 849
Friend of Humanity and the Knife-grinder, The Canning 1856
Friends A. B. Brown 112
Friends E. V. Lucas 3000
Friends Departed Vaughan 3508
Frog, The Hilaire Belloc 2081
"From Greenland's Icy Mountains" Reginald Heber 3795
From Life Brian Hooker 390
From Romany to Rome Irwin 1683
From the Arabic P. B. Shelley 626
From the Harbor Hill Kobbé 1041
From the Turkish Lord Byron 1031
Frost, The H. F. Gould 1387
Frost Spirit, The J. G. Whittier 1388
Frosted Pane, The Roberts 1388
Fust Banjo, De Irwin Russell 2190

	PAGE
Future, The...E. R. Sill	2976
"Fuzzy Wuzzy"...Kipling	2533

G

Gaffer Gray...Thomas Holcroft	1996
Garden, A, "See how the flowers, as at parade". Andrew Marvell	1448
Garden, The, "How vainly men themselves amaze"...Marvell	1446
Garden Lyric, A, Locker-Lampson	1732
Garden of Prosperine, The A. C. Swinburne	3424
Garden of Shadow, The. Dowson	508
Garden Song, A...Austin Dobson	1449
Garden That I Love, The F. L. Henderson	3441
Garden Year, The, Sara Coleridge	61
Gardener, The. R. L. Stevenson	160
Gardener's Song, The...Carroll	2060
Garret, The...W. M. Thackeray	463
Gates and Doors...Joyce Kilmer	215
Gates of Dreamland, The G. W. Russell	3216
Gaudeamus Igitur, J. A. Symonds	2895
Gay Gos-Hawk, The. Unknown	2671
Geese...Oliver Herford	2082
Geist's Grave...Mathew Arnold	1828
General Summary...Kipling	1919
General William Booth Enters into Heaven...Lindsay	3593
Genius Loci...Margaret Woods	3110
Genius of Death, The...Croly	3408
Gentleman of the Old School, A Austin Dobson	1777
German Fatherland, The, Arndt	2270
Gibraltar...W. S. Blunt	2230
Gifts...James Thomson	617
Gipsy Girl, The...Henry Alford	344
Gipsy Trail, The...Kipling	1677
Girl I Left behind Me, The Unknown	986
Girl of Pompeii, A, E. S. Martin	280
"Girl of the Red Mouth" Martin MacDermott	568
"Girt Woak Tree that's in the Dell, The"...William Barnes	1404
Give a Rouse...Robert Browning	2284
"Give all to Love"...Emerson	502
Give Love To-day. Ethel Talbot	1115
"Give Me Ale"...Unknown	1989
Give me the Old R. H. Messinger	2011
Giving in Marriage...Ingelow	431
Glad Day...Robertson	139
Gladness of Nature, The W. C. Bryant	139
Glee for Winter, A...Domett	1394
Glenara...Thomas Campbell	2722
Glenkindie...W. B. Scott	2730
Glenlogie...Unknown	783
Gloaming...R. A. Bowen	1315
Gloucester Moors. W. V. Moody	2569
Glove and the Lions, The, Hunt	833
Gluggity, Glug...George Colman	2112
Gnosis...C. P. Cranch	2075
"Go, Forget Me". Charles Wolfe	953
"Go, Lovely Rose"...Waller	930
"God Bless You, Dear, To-day" John Bennett	662
God-Maker, Man, The Don Marquis	3065
"God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen"...Unknown	201
"God Save Elizabeth"...Palgrave	2373
God Save the King Henry Carey(?)	2231
Godiva...Alfred Tennyson	2593
God's-Acre...H. W. Longfellow	3439
God's Judgment on a Wicked Bishop...Robert Southey	189
God's Will...Mildred Howells	3736
God's World...E. St. V. Millay	1502
Goethe and Frederika, Sidgwick	1053
Going down Hill on a Bicycle H. C. Beeching	129
Golden Fish, The...Arnold	736
Golden Mean, The...Cowper	2991
"Golden Slumbers Kiss Your Eyes"...Thomas Dekker	75
Golden Wedding, The...Gray	1226
Goldenrod...E. G. Eastman	1485
Gone...Mary E. Coleridge	3005
Good and Bad Children R. L. Stevenson	100
Good-Bye...R. W. Emerson	2905
Good Company...K. W. Baker	1301
Good Day, The,...Bashford	2083
Good Great Man, The. Coleridge	2860
Good Inn, The,...H. K. Vielé	1700
Good King Wenceslas John Neal	3752
Good Morrow, The John Donne	1142
Good-night...S. Weir Mitchell	679
Good-night, "Good-night? Ah! no; the hour is ill"...Shelley	703
Good-night, "Good-night, dear friend! I say good-night to thee"...H. A. Benedict	1121
Good-night, "Little baby, lay your head"...Jane Taylor	82
"Good-night, Babette."Dobson	1771
Good Tidings of Great Joy to all People...James Montgomery	3798
Gradatim...J. G. Holland	3707
Grain of Salt, A. Wallace Irwin	2085
Grammar in Rhyme. Unknown	60
Grammarian's Funeral, A Robert Browning	2871
"Grandmither, Think not I Forget"...W. S. Cather	1033
Grape-vine Swing, The, W. G. Simms	467
Grasshopper, The...Cowley	1509
Grave of Love, The...Peacock	865
Graves of a Household, The F. D. Hemans	3561
Great Adventure, The, Thoreau	2037
Great Misgiving, The...Watson	3428
"Great Nature in an Army Gay" R. W. Gilder	1298
Great Voices, The. C. T. Brooks	2972
Greek Folk Song...Widdemer	3506
"Green Grow the Rashes, O" Robert Burns	727
Green Linnet, The, Wordsworth	1541
Green Little Shamrock of Ireland, The...Andrew Cherry	2264
Green Things Growing...Craik	1461
Grenier, Le...de Béranger	3839
"Grey Horse Troop," The R. W. Chambers	2291
Grief...E. B. Browning	3353
Grievance, A...J. K. Stephen	1931
"Grieve not, Ladies"...Branch	857

	PAGE
Groves of Blarney, The R. A. Millikin	2609
Growing Gray....Austin Dobson	361
Growing Old. "Sweet sixteen is shy and cold"..Walter Learned	742
Growing Old, "What is it to grow old"...Matthew Arnold	418
Guardian-Angel, The Robert Browning	2620
Gunga Din.....Rudyard Kipling	2294

H

Hack and Hew.....Bliss Carman	3139
Hail! Columbia.....Hopkinson	2200
Hallowed Ground.....Campbell	3432
Hallowed Places.....Palmer	632
Hallowe'en.....John Mayne	2028
"Hame, Hame, Hame" Allan Cunningham	3226
Hannah Binding Shoes..Larcom	1624
Hans Breitmann's Party.Leland	2152
Happiest Heart, The....Cheney	2904
Happy Heart, The.....Dekker	2981
Happy Thought, R. L. Stevenson	98
Hare with many Friends, The John Gay	1853
"Hark, Hark! the Lark" William Shakespeare	694
Harp of Sorrow, The...Clifford	3360
Harrow Grave in Flanders, A Robert Offley Ashburton	2326
Harry Carey's General Reply to the Libelling Gentry who are Angry at His Welfare...Carey	1905
Harvest.....E. M. H. Cortissoz	1370
"Harvest Waits, The"..Mifflin	3734
Hassgesang Gegen England Ernest Lissauer	3846
Hastings Mill.....Fox-Smith	1501
Haunted Palace, The..E. A. Poe	3168
Hawkbit, The..C. G. D. Roberts	1539
"He Bringeth Them Unto Their Desired Haven" L. Frank Tooker	3537
He Fell Among Thieves, Newbolt	2797
"He Liveth Long who Liveth Well".....Horatius Bonar	3716
He Made the Night, Lloyd Mifflin	1326
"He Never Smiled Again" F. D. Hemans	2349
He Standeth at the Door..Coxe	3811
"He Whom a Dream Hath Possessed".....OSheel	2938
Health, A.....E. C. Pinkney	387
"Heart of my Heart"..Unknown	676
Heart of Oak....David Garrick	2280
Heart's Content.....Unknown	3231
Heart's Hope.....D. G. Rossetti	1255
Heaven.....M. G. Dickinson	1112
"Heaven Overarches Earth and Sea".....C. G. Rossetti	3706
Heavenward....Carolina Nairne	3700
Hebe.....J. R. Lowell	852
"He'd Nothing but His Violin" Mary K. Dallas	1202
Height of the Ridiculous, The O. W. Holmes	2138
Helen.....S. C. Woolsey	1102
Helen of Kirconnel....Unknown	1060
Heliotrope.....H. T. Peck	1124
Hem and Haw....Bliss Carman	1887
Hemlock Mountain....Cleghorn	1436
Henchman, The...J. G. Whittier	553
Henry Hudson's Quest, Stevenson	2382
Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Austin Dobson	3645
Her Dwelling-Place.....Murray	1129
Her Epitaph.....T. W. Parsons	3545
Her Gifts.....D. G. Rossetti	1257
Her Sacred Bower.....Campion	587
Her Triumph.....Ben Jonson	526
Heraclitus.....Johnson-Cary	3529
Herald Crane, The....Garland	1535
"Here is the Place where Loveliness Keeps House"....Cawein	1302
Hereafter.....H. P. Spofford	1012
Heredity.....L. A. C. Ward	3731
"Here's a Health to Them That's Awa'".....Robert Burns	2275
Heritage, The.....J. R. Lowell	263
Hero, The.....Robert Nicoll	3244
Heroes.....E. D. Proctor	2322
Heron, The...E. Howell-Thurlow	1540
Hervé Riel.....Robert Browning	2804
Hester.....Charles Lamb	3547
High Tide at Gettysburg, The W. H. Thompson	2502
High Tide on the Coast of Lincolnshire, The...Jean Ingelow	3318
Higher Good, The.....Parker	2969
Higher Pantheism, The Alfred Tennyson	2852
Higher Pantheism in a Nutshell, The.....A. C. Swinburne	1935
Highland Mary....Robert Burns	1071
Highway, The...Louise Driscoll	509
Highwayman, The.Alfred Noyes	2809
Hill, The.....Rupert Brooke	1270
Hills, The.....Julian Grenfell	1435
"Hills o' my Heart"...Carbery	2267
Hills of Rest, The..A. B. Paine	3577
Hindoo's Death, The, Birdseye	1899
Hint from Herrick, A, T. B. Aldrich	3090
His Banner Over Me....Massey	3768
His Further Resolution Unknown	814
His Heart was True to Poll F. C. Burnand	2076
His Litany to the Holy Spirit Robert Herrick	3744
His Pilgrimage....Walter Raleigh	3451
His Winding-sheet.....Herrick	3454
Hoch! der Kaiser....A. M. Rose	1849
Hohenlinden...Thomas Campbell	2440
"Hold".....P. R. Chalmers	1832
Holly-Tree, The, Robert Southey	1407
Holy Baptism....George Herbert	3721
"Holy, Holy, Holy".....Heber	3793
Holy Innocents, Christina Rossetti	85
Holy Matrimony....John Keble	1107
Holy Thursday...William Blake	174
Home, "O, Falmouth is a fine town with ships in the bay" W. E. Henley	3229
Home, "One rubber plant can never make a home" Unknown	2087
Home, "There lies a little city in the hills".....E. R. Sill	3711
Home, "Two birds within one nest".....Dora Greenwell	1204
Home, Sweet Home..J. H. Payne	3226
"Home They Brought Her Warrior Dead"...Alfred Tennyson	1093

PAGE

Home Thoughts, from Aboard. Robert Browning 1353
Homeric Unity. . . . Andrew Lang 3083
Homeward Bound. . . . Allingham 1633
Honor and Desert. . . . . Patmore 384
Hope and Despair. . Abercrombie 3368
Hope and Fear. A. C. Swinburne 2844
Hora Christi. . . . . Alice Brown 3772
Horatian Ode Upon Cromwell's Return from Ireland, An Andrew Marvell 2400
Horatius at the Bridge. Macaulay 2329
Hot Weather in the Plains—India E. H. Tipple 3230
Hound of Heaven, The Francis Thompson 3204
Hour of Death, The. . . . Hemans 3411
Hour of Peaceful Rest, The W. B. Tappan 3803
House by the Side of the Road, The. . . . . S. W. Foss 3040
House of Christmas, The G. K. Chesterton 213
House of Life, The, Sonnets IV, V, XV, XIX, XXVI, XXXI, XXXIV, XLIX, LXXVIII D. G. Rossetti 1255
House of Pain, The. . F. E. Coates 3386
House that Jack Built, The Unknown 49
Housekeeper, The. . Charles Lamb 1514
"How Can the Heart Forget Her". . . . . Francis Davison 599
"How doth the little busy Bee" Isaac Watts 104
How My Songs of Her Began P. B. Marston 1260
How Often. . . . . Ben King 1950
How Old Brown Took Harper's Ferry. . . . . E. C. Stedman 2479
"How Sleep the Brave." Collins 2194
How the Leaves Came Down Susan Coolidge 142
How the Little Kite Learned to Fly. . . . . Unknown 115
"How They Brought the Good News from Ghent to Aix" Robert Browning 2732
How We Beat the Favorite A. L. Gordon 3344
How We Learn. . Horatius Bonar 3717
"How's My Boy." Sydney Dobell 1612
Human Frailty. William Cowper 2861
Human Life. . . . . A. T. de Vere 416
Human Seasons, The. . . . . Keats 2
Humble-Bee, The, R. W. Emerson 1515
Humpty Dumpty. . . . . Whitney 2034
Hundred Years to Come, A W. G. Brown 3470
Hunting Song. . . . Richard Hovey 1662
Hymn before Sunrise in the Vale of Chamouni. S. T. Coleridge 1430
Hymn of Apollo. . . P. B. Shelley 1306
Hymn of Pan. . . . . P. B. Shelley 3162
Hymn of the West. E. C. Stedman 2204
Hymn to God the Father, A John Donne 3759
Hymn to the Night. . . Longfellow 1327

I

"I am Lonely". . . . George Eliot 323
"I am the Wind". . . . Zoë Akins 680
"I Asked my Fair, One Happy Day". . . . . S. T. Coleridge 726
"I do not Love Thee". . . Norton 962
"I Fear no Power a Woman Wields". . . . . McGaffey 1659
"I Fear Thy Kisses, Gentle Maiden". . . . . P. B. Shelley 688
"I Flung Me Round Him" Roden Noel 3213
"I Give My Soldier Boy a Blade". . . . . William Maginn 2287
"I had a Little Doggy" Unknown 46
"I had a Little Husband" Unknown 43
"I Have a Rendezvous with Death". . . . . Alan Seeger 2560
"I Heard a Soldier". . . . Trench 927
I in Thee and Thou in Me, Cranch 2974
"I Lately Vowed, but 'twas in Haste". . . . . John Oldmixon 826
"I Like little Pussy" Jane Taylor 102
"I Love, and the World is Mine" Florence Earle Coates 1148
I Love My Jean. Burns-Hamilton 947
"I Love My Life, But Not Too Well". . . . . Harriet Monroe 681
"I Loved a Lass". George Wither 718
"I Remember, I Remember" Thomas Hood 443
"I Saw My Lady Weep" Unknown 863
"I Saw the Clouds" Hervey White 2984
"I Saw Thee". . . . . Ray Palmer 3769
"I Saw Two Clouds at Morning" J. G. C. Brainard 1196
I Shall Not Care. . . . . Teasdale 1017
"I Shall Not Cry Return". Gates 1081
"I Strove With None". . Landor 3491
"I Took a Hansom on Today" W. E. Henley 827
"I Wandered Lonely as a Cloud" William Wordsworth 1473
"I Would not live Alway," W. A. Muhlenberg 3476
Ichabod. . . . . J. G. Whittier 1837
"I'd be a Butterfly." T. H. Bayly 1712
Idea, Sonnets I, IV, XX, XXXVII, XL, XLII, LXI Michael Drayton 1242
Idler, The. . . . . Jones Very 2970
If, "If life were never bitter" Mortimer Collins 1944
If, "Oh, if the world were mine, Love". . . . . J. J. Roche 740
"If I Could Shut the Gate Against My Thoughts." Daniel 3743
"If I Should Die". Rupert Brooke 2546
"If I Should Die Tonight." King 1950
"If I Were Dead". . . . . Patmore 296
If I Were King. . . . . McCarthy 1786
"If Love Were Jester at the Court of Death" F. L. Knowles 3474
If Only the Dreams Abide Clinton Scollard 2850
"If She be made of White and Red". . . . . H. P. Horne 570
"If She but Knew" Arthur O'Shaughnessy 978
"If Spirits Walk." Sophie Jewett 1118
"If Thou Wert by my Side, my Love". . . . . Reginald Heber 1209
"If You were Here". . . . Marston 981

PAGE

Il Penseroso....John Milton 3147
"I'll Never Love Thee More"
James Graham 604
"I'm not a Single Man,".Hood 1713
Immoral.....James Oppenheim 2997
Immorality, An....Ezra Pound 452
Immortalis.....David Morton 3401
Impenitentia Ultima....Dowson 917
Impression.....Edmund Gosse 1759
In a Rose Garden.John Bennett 661
"In After Days"..Austin Dobson 3502
In City Streets.....Ada Smith 1674
In Early Spring. Alice Meynell 1335
In Explanation..Walter Learned 743
In Extremis.....George Sterling 3466
In February.....Henry Simpson 574
In Foreign Parts .L. E. Richards 2084
"In God's Eternal Studios"
Paul Shivell 2869
"In Green Old Gardens," Fane 1450
In Harbor.....P. H. Payne 3493
In Memoriam, "Ah, not because our Soldier died before his field was won".....Edwin Arnold 3648
In Memoriam. "'Tis right for her to sleep between"....Milnes 3545
In Memoriam, Parts I, XXVII LIV, LV, LVI, LXXIII, CVI, CXVII, CXXVI CXXVII, CXXX, CXXXI
Alfred Tennyson 2898
In Memory of "Barry Cornwall"
A. C. Swinburne 3647
In Memory of Walter Savage Landor.....A. C. Swinburne 3626
In Our Boat....D. M. M. Craik 1597
In Sorrow.....Thomas Hastings 3808
In the Children's Hospital
Alfred Tennyson 292
"In the Cool of the Evening"
Alfred Noyes 1316
"In the Cross of Christ I Glory"
John Bowring 3802
In the Dark.....George Arnold 3496
"In the Dark, in the Dew"
Mary N. Prescott 652
"In the Days of Old"...Peacock 489
In the Fall o' Year, T. S. Jones, Jr. 1131
In the Garden.....Ernest Crosby 138
In the Highlands..R. L. Stevenson 1675
In the Hospital. M. W. Howland 3463
In the Lilac-Rain
Edith M. Thomas 3539
In the Twilight...J. R. Lowell 450
Inchcape Rock, The....Southey 1617
Incident of the French Camp
Robert Browning 2449
Inclusions.....E. B. Browning 872
Indian Burying ground, The
Philip Freneau 3438
Indian Names..L. H. Sigourney 2567
Indian Summer.....Dickinson 1373
Indifferent, The.....Beaumont 812
Indirection.....Richard Realf 2870
Infant Joy.....William Blake 4
Ingle-side, The....Hew Ainslee 3239
Ingrateful Beauty Threatened
Thomas Carew 816
Inner Light, The.F. W. H. Myers 3730
Inner Vision, The...Wordsworth 3087
Inscription in a Hermitage
Thomas Warton 1640

PAGE

Inspiration, "If with light head erect I sing"...H. D. Thoreau 2961
Inspiration, "Life of Ages, richly poured"....Samuel Johnson 2973
Integer Vitæ, "Integer vitæ scelerisque purus".....Horace 3828
Integer Vitæ, "The man of life upright"....Thomas Campion 2912
Inter Sodales.....W. E. Henley 1986
Interlude...Ella Wheeler Wilcox 3472
Into the Twilight...W. B. Yeats 2855
Into the World and Out...Piatt 27
Invention.....William Watson 3100
Invictus.....W. E. Henley 3500
Invisible Bride, The..Markham 1132
Invitation, An.....Unknown 1986
Invocation, An....Johnson-Cory 3099
Io Victis.....W. W. Story 2945
Ireland, "Ireland, oh Ireland! center of my longings," Gwynne 2266
Ireland, "Thy sorrow, and the sorrow of the sea"....Johnson 2253
Irish Astronomy..C. G. Halpine 1964
Irish Love-Song, An...Johnson 741
Irish Lullaby, An...A. P. Graves 88
Irish Molly O.....Unknown 939
Irish Wife, The..T. D' A. McGee 1207
Irishman and the Lady, The
William Maginn 1962
Isle of the Long Ago, The, Taylor 417
Isles of Greece, The..Lord Byron 2625
Israfel.....E. A. Poe 3077
"It Cannot Be"...D. B. Sickles 3712
"It is a Beautious Evening, Calm and Free".....Wordsworth 1314
"It is Great for Our Country to Die".....J. G. Percival 2303
"It is not Beauty I Demand"
George Darley 547
"It Was a Lover and His Lass"
William Shakespeare 717
Italian Rhapsody..R. U. Johnson 2613
"Its Ain Drap o' Dew"
James Ballantine 2992
Itylus.....A. C. Swinburne 1576
Ivry.....T. B. Macaulay 2374
Ivy Green, The..Charles Dickens 1489

J

Jabberwocky.....Lewis Carroll 2059
Jack and Jill.....Unknown 39
Jack and Joan. Thomas Campion 767
Jack Frost.....Gabriel Setoun 151
Jackdaw, The...William Cowper 1540
Jackdaw of Rheims, The, Barham 2141
Jaffár.....Leigh Hunt 3013
Jam-pot, The..Rudyard Kipling 1939
Jane and Eliza.....Ann Taylor 109
Jane Smith....Rudyard Kipling 1926
Janette's Hair....C. G. Halpine 1112
Jeanie Morrison.....Motherwell 955
"Jenny Kissed Me"..Leigh Hunt 687
"Jenny wi' the Airn Teeth"
Alexander Anderson 94
Jerry an' Me.....Hiram Rich 1219
Jerusalem....John Mason Neale 3689
Jessie.....T. E. Brown 887
Jessie, the Flower o' Dunblane
Robert Tannahill 544
Jest 'fore Christmas.....Field 220
"Jesus, Lover of My Soul"
Charles Wesley 3791

	PAGE
Jesus the Carpenter...Liddell	3768
Jim Bludso of the Prairie Belle John Hay	3337
Jock of Hazeldean...Walter Scott	786
"Jog on, Jog on"...Shakespeare	2978
John Anderson....Robert Burns	1224
"John Anderson, My Jo" C. G. Blanden	3560
John Barleycorn...Robert Burns	2000
John Burns of Gettysburg.Harte	2504
John Grumlie.....Cunningham	2118
"Johnny Shall Have a New Bonnet."....Unknown	44
"Jolly Good Ale and Old," Still	1990
Jolly Jack....W. M. Thackeray	1847
Jolly Old Pedagogue, The George Arnold	1746
Journey Onwards, The...Moore	3360
Joy of the Morning...Markham	3100
Joy-Month.....D. A. Wasson	1579
Joyful Wisdom, The....Patmore	2953
Joys of the Road, The..Carman	1694
Juggling Jerry..George Meredith	3312
Jumblies, The.....Edward Lear	2050
June, "I gazed upon the glorious sky".....W. C. Bryant	3457
June, "Over his keys the musing organist".....J. R. Lowell	1367
June, "When the bubble moon is young".....H. S. Morris	1369
"Just as I Am"..Charlotte Elliott	3800
"Just for To-day"...Partridge	3808
"Justine, You Love Me Not" J. G. Saxe	853

K

Kasidah, The, Parts II and IX Sir Richard Burton	2887
Kate of Aberdeen..Cunningham	538
Kate Temple's Song....Collins	649
Kathleen Mavourneen..Crawford	979
Kavanagh, The..Richard Hovey	2017
Kearny at Seven Pines, Stedman	2493
Keenan's Charge..G. P. Lathrop	2497
Kentucky Babe.....R. H. Buck	91
Kentucky Philosophy. Robertson	2041
Key-board, The.....Watson	3132
Khristna and His Flute....Hope	916
Kilmeny.....James Hogg	3151
Kinchinjunga.....C. Y. Rice	1434
"Kind are Her Answers" Thomas Campion	591
Kindness to Animals..Unknown	101
King John and the Abbot of Canterbury.....Unknown	2707
King of Brentford, The W. M. Thackeray	1848
King of Denmark's Ride, The Caroline Norton	1088
King of Dreams, The...Scollard	2850
King of the Cradle, The Joseph Ashby-Sterry	22
Kings, The.....L. I. Guiney	2949
King's Ballad, The, Joyce Kilmer	1123
King's Highway, The J. S. McGroarty	1685
Kiss, A.....Austin Dobson	1800
Kiss, The.....Ben Jonson	682
Kiss, The.....Sara Teasdale	1194
Kissing's no Sin.....Unknown	692
Kitty Neil.....J. F. Waller	756
Kitty of Coleraine....Unknown	755
Knapweed.....A. C. Benson	1491
Kore.....Frederic Manning	1382
Kubla Khan.....S. T. Coleridge	3160
Kyrielle.....John Payne	2840

L

La Belle Dame sans Merci. Keats	1005
La Grisette.....O. W. Holmes	909
Labor and Love..Edmund Gosse	2918
Lachrimæ Musarum....Watson	3659
Lad that is Gone, A..Stevenson	438
Laddie.....K. L. Bates	1831
Ladies of St. James's, The, Dobson	1775
Lady Anne Bothwell's Lament Unknown	1037
Lady Clara Vere de Vere Alfred Tennyson	835
Lady Clare.....Alfred Tennyson	2727
Lady of Shalott, The..Tennyson	3188
Lady Poverty, The, "I met her on the Umbrian Hills." Fischer	2934
Lady Poverty, The, "The Lady Poverty was fair"....Meynell	2934
Lady's "Yes," The....Browning	632
Laird o' Cockpen, The Nairne-Ferrier	2113
Lake Isle of Innisfree, The, Yeats	1634
L'Allegro.....John Milton	3143
Lamb, The.....William Blake	48
Lament, A...Chidiock Tichborne	401
Lament for Culloden.....Burns	2420
Lament for Flodden, A....Elliot	2368
Lament of a Mocking-Bird Fanny Kemble	1544
Lament of the Border Widow, The.....Unknown	1063
Lament of the Irish Emigrant H. S. Sheridan	1086
Lamentable Ballad of the Bloody Brook, The.....E. E. Hale	2406
Lamp in the West, The Ella Higginson	3473
Lamp of Poor Souls, The Marjorie L. C. Pickthall	3552
Lancelot and Guinevere, Gould	2813
Land o' the Leal, The....Nairne	3699
Land of Counterpane, The R. L. Stevenson	158
Land of Heart's Desire, The E. H. Miller	1206
Land of Story-books, The R. L. Stevenson	159
"Land Which no one Knows, The".....Ebenezer Elliott	3576
Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers F. D. Hemans	2387
Landscapes.....Untermeyer	3060
Langley Lane..Robert Buchanan	3383
"Langsyne, when Life was Bonnie".....Alexander Anderson	447
Larrie O'Dee.....W. W. Fink	1961
Lass o' Gowrie, The.....Nairne	773
Lass of Lochroyan, The Unknown	2660
Lass of Richmond Hill, The James Upton	616
Lass that died of love, The, Richard Middleton	1052
Last Buccaneer, The, "Oh, England is a pleasant place for them that's rich and high" Charles Kingsley	1630

PAGE

Last Buccaneer, The, "The winds were yelling, the waves were swelling." T. B. Macaulay 1631
Last Camp-fire, The. S. M. Hall 3471
Last Hour, The. . . Ethel Clifford 1295
Last Hunt, The. . . W. R. Thayer 2799
Last Invocation, The, Whitman 3494
Last Leaf, The. . . . O. W. Holmes 1741
Last Lines. . . . . Emily Brontë 3486
Last Memory, The. . . . . Symons 928
Last Night. . . . . George Darley 954
Last Redoubt, The. . . . . Austin 2531
Last Ride Together, The Robert Browning 877
Last Sonnet. . . . . John Keats 3489
Last Verses. . . . . Motherwell 3496
Last Word, The, "Creep into thy narrow bed". . Matthew Arnold 2944
Last Word, The, "When I have folded up this tent," Knowles 675
"Late Lark Twitters from the Quiet Skies, A," W. E. Henley 3501
Late Leaves. . . . . W. S. Landor 406
Late Wisdom. . . . . George Crabbe 403
Lauriger Horatius, "Laurel-crowned Horatius". . Symonds 2896
Lauriger Horatius, "Lauriger Horatius". . . . . Unknown 3831
Laus Infantium. . William Canton 253
Laus Mortis. . . . . F. L. Knowles 3487
Laus Veneris. . . . . L. C. Moulton 913
Law of the Yukon, The, Service 2575
Lay of Ancient Rome. . . . Ybarra 2044
Lay of the Levite, The. . Aytoun 2023
Leadsman's Song, The, Dibdin 1632
L'Eau Dormante. . T. B. Aldrich 739
Leave-Taking, A. . . . Swinburne 645
Leaves. . . . . Sara Teasdale 2856
Leavetaking. . . . William Watson 366
Leetla Boy, Da. . . . . T. A. Daly 306
Left Behind. . . . . Elizabeth Akers 1020
Legend of Heinz von Stein, The C. G. Leland 2028
Legend of the Northland. . Cary 143
Leisure. . . . . W. H. Davies 2998
L'Envoi, "When Earth's last picture is painted, and the tubes are twisted and dried" Rudyard Kipling 3504
L'Envoi, "Where are the loves that we loved before," Cather 3429
Leonidas. . . . . George Croly 2345
Les Amours. . . . . Charles Cotton 825
Lesson of the Water-Mill, The Sarah Doudney 2930
Lessons from the Gorse E. B. Browning 1486
"Let Me Enjoy," Thomas Hardy 2841
"Let the Toast Pass". . Sheridan 1999
Letter of Advice, A. . . . . Praed 1809
Letters, The. . . . Alfred Tennyson 1177
Lettice. . . . . D. M. M. Craik 1208
Letty's Globe. . . . . C. T. Turner 265
Lie, The. . . . . Walter Raleigh 3449
Lied, "Ins stille Land". . Seewis 3832
Life, "I made a posy, while the day ran by". . . George Herbert 2931
Life, "Life! I know not what thou art". . . . . A. L. Barbauld 3491
Life, "When I consider Life and its few years". . . . L. W. Reese 2855
Life, a Question. C. R. Robinson 2908

PAGE

Life in a Love. . Robert Browning 638
Life-Lesson, A. . . . . J. W. Riley 349
"Life on the Ocean Wave, A" Epes Sargent 1594
Light of Other Days, The, Moore 454
Light Shining out of Darkness William Cowper 3796
Light Woman, A. . . . . Browning 1029
"Like a Laverock in the Lift" Jean Ingelow 1200
Likeness, A. . . . . W. S. Cather 1794
Lilian. . . . . Alfred Tennyson 634
Lincoln, the Man of the People Edwin Markham 3639
Lines, "Love within the lover's breast. . . . . George Meredith 1153
Lines Composed a Few Miles Above Tintern Abbey, on Re-visiting the Banks of the Wye, During a Tour, July 13, 1798 William Wordsworth 2578
Lines on The Mermaid Tavern John Keats 1989
Lines to an Indian Air. . Shelley 702
Lines Written in Early Spring William Wordsworth 1334
Lion and the Cub, The. . . . Gay 1852
Lion and the Mouse, The, Taylor 120
Lips and Eyes. . . . . Middleton 682
Listeners, The, Walter de la Mare 3219
Little and Great, Charles Mackay 2925
Little Beach-Bird, The. . . . Dana 1522
Little Bell. . . . Thomas Westwood 259
Little Billee. . . W. M. Thackeray 2140
Little Black Boy, The. . . . . Blake 156
Little Bo-Peep. . . . . Unknown 39
Little Boy Blue. . . Eugene Field 298
Little Breeches. . . . . John Hay 3339
Little Brother of the Rich, A E. S. Martin 1859
Little Dandelion, H. B. Bostwick 136
Little Elf, The. . . . . J. K. Bangs 248
Little Feet. . . . Elizabeth Akers 17
Little Fred. . . . . Unknown 99
Little Gentleman, The, Unknown 103
Little Ghost, The. . . . . Tynan 302
Little Ghosts, The, T. Jones, Jr. 436
Little Giffen. . . . . F. O. Ticknor 2320
Little Gray Songs from St. Joseph's . . . . . G. F. Norton 3309
Little Gustava. . . . . Celia Thaxter 154
Little Hands. . . Laurence Binyon 20
Little Mary Cassidy. . . . . Fahy 758
Little Orphant Annie. . . . Riley 169
Little Page's Song, A. . . . Percy 115
Little Parable, A. . A. R. Aldrich 3462
Little Raindrops. . . . . Unknown 48
Little Red Lark, The. . . . Graves 713
"Little Rose is Dust, my Dear, The". . . . . G. H. Conkling 1139
Little Sister of the Prophet, The Marjorie L. C. Pickthall 3071
Little Things. . . . . J. F. Carney 103
Little Waves of Breffny, The Eva Gore-Booth 2605
Little While, A. . . . . Marquis 2911
"Little While I Fain would Linger Yet, A". . . . . P. H. Hayne 895
Little White Lily. . . . Macdonald 137
Little Wild Baby. M. T. Janvier 1035
"Little Work, A". . . du Maurier 2910
Living Waters, Caroline Spencer 3761

PAGE

Lochaber no More. Allan Ramsay 940
Lochinvar. . . . . Walter Scott 784
Locksley Hall. . Alfred Tennyson 3295
Lonely Road, The. . . . . Rand 893
"Long Time a Child". . Coleridge 408
Long Trail, The, Rudyard Kipling 1704
Long White Seam, The, Ingelow 1613
Longing. . . . . Matthew Arnold 967
Longing for Home. . . . . Ingelow 431
Look, The. . . . . Sara Teasdale 923
"Lord of My Heart's Elation"
Bliss Carman 2852
Lord Randal. . . . . Unknown 2681
Lord Ullin's Daughter. Campbell 2723
Loss of the Birkenhead, The
F. H. Doyle 2472
Lost but Found. Horatius Bonar 3577
Lost Chord, A. . . . . A. A. Procter 3398
Lost Colors, The. . E. S. P. Ward 2464
Lost Leader, The. . . . . Browning 1836
Lost Light. . . . . Elizabeth Akers 1010
Lost Love. . . . . Andrew Lang 849
Lost Mistress, The. . . . Browning 848
Lost Sheep, The, E. C. Clephane 3756
Lotos-Eaters, The. . . . . Tennyson 3178
"Loudoun's Bonnie Woods and Braes". . . . . Robert Tannahill 949
Lovable Child, The, . . . Poulsson 99
Love, "All thoughts, all passions, all delights". . Coleridge 1173
Love, "I leaned out of window"
Jean Ingelow 428
Love, "Love bade me welcome; yet my soul drew back"
George Herbert 3718
Love Among the Ruins
Robert Browning 1154
Love and Age. . . . T. L. Peacock 790
Love and Death, "Alas! that men must see". . . . . Deland 3574
Love and Death, "In the wild autumn weather, when the rain was on the sea. . . . Mulholland 1104
Love and Life, "All my past life is mine no more." John Wilmot 611
Love and Life, "'Give me a fillet, Love,' quoth I"
Julie M. Lippman 924
Love at Sea. . . . A. C. Swinburne 1159
"Love Came Back at Fall o' Dew". . . . . L. W. Reese 1016
"Love Hath a Language"
H. S. Sheridan 496
"Love, I Marvel What You Are"
Joseph Trumball Stickney 575
Love in a Cottage. . . N. P. Willis 732
Love in a Life. Robert Browning 637
Love in Dreams. . J. A. Symonds 895
Love in the Valley. . . Meredith 556
Love in the Winds. Richard Hovey 1269
"Love in thy Youth, Fair Maid"
Unknown 609
"Love is a Terrible Thing"
G. F. Norton 1014
"Love is Like a Dizziness." Hogg 750
Love is Strong. . Richard Burton 507
Love-Knot, The. . . . Nora Perry 798
"Love Me or Not". . . . Campion 588
Love Not. . . . . Caroline Norton 871
"Love not me for Comely Grace"
Unknown 601
Love on the Mountain. . . . Boyd 648

PAGE

"Love once was like an April Dawn". . . . . R. U. Johnson 508
Love Symphony, A
Arthur O'Shaughnessy 647
Love, Time and Death
Frederick Locker-Lampson 3458
Love to the Church. . . . Dwight 3797
Love Triumphant. . F. L. Knowles 1153
"Love who Will, for I'll Love None". . . . . Thomas Browne 817
"Love Will Find out the Way"
Unknown 494
Lovely Mary Donnelly
William Allingham 554
Lover thinks of His Lady in the North, The. . . Shaemas OSheel 996
Lovers, The. . . . . Phœbe Cary 2067
Lover's Choice, The,
Thomas Bedingfield 541
Lover's Envy, A. . . . Van Dyke 672
Lover's Lullaby, A. . . Gascoigne 715
Lovers of Marchaid, The
Marjorie L. C. Pickthall 994
Lover's Resolution, The, Wither 813
Lover's Song, The. . . . . E. R. Sill 571
Love's Calendar. . . . W. B. Scott 1203
Love's Emblems. . . John Fletcher 482
Love's Horoscope. . . . . Crashaw 484
Love's Lord. . . Edward Dowden 2977
Love's Perjuries. . . . Shakespeare 479
Love's Philosophy. . P. B. Shelley 688
Love's Prisoner. . Van Rensselaer 925
Love's Resurrection Day
L. C. Moulton 1112
Love's Rosary. . . . Alfred Noyes 999
Love's Spite. . . . . A. T. de Vere 834
Love's Young Dream. . . Moore 864
Lovesight. . . . . D. G. Rossetti 1255
Lovest Thou Me
William Cowper 3809
Lovewell's Fight. . . . Unknown 2412
Low-Backed Car, The. . . . Lover 777
Lucifer in Starlight. . . . Meredith 3771
Lucy. . . . . William Wordsworth 1073
Lucy Gray. . William Wordsworth 290
Lucy Lake. . Newton Mackintosh 1926
Lullaby, "Baloo, loo, lammy, now baloo, my dear". . Nairne 81
Lullaby, A, "Upon my lap my sovereign sits". . . . . Rowlands 78
Lullaby, "Rockaby, lullaby, bees in the clover". . . J. G. Holland 86
Lullaby, "Sweet and low, sweet and low". . . Alfred Tennyson 83
Lullaby in Bethlehem Bashford 218
"Lullaby, O Lullaby". . Bennett 83
Lullaby of an Infant Chief. Scott 82
Lure, The. . . . . J. B. O'Reilly 1905
Lycidas. . . . . John Milton 3519
"Lydia is Gone this Many a Year". . . . . L. W. Reese 1126
Lyke-Wake Dirge, A. Unknown 2652
Lyric, A, "There's nae lark loves the lift, my dear". . Swinburne 646
Lyric, "You would have understood me, had you waited"
Ernest Dowson 1120

M

Mabel, in New Hampshire. Fields 793
Madonna Mia, A. C. Swinburne 565

	PAGE
Madrigal, "My Love in her attire doth show her wit"..Unknown	522
Mæsia's Song from "Farewell to Folly".....Robert Greene	2979
Magdalen.....Henry Kingsley	3735
Magic Mirror, The..H. M. Alden	2849
Magpies in Picardy....Unknown	2556
Mahogany Tree, The, Thackeray	2008
Maid, The.....Theodore Roberts	2834
"Maid of Athens, ere we Part" Lord Byron	951
Maiden and the Lily, The, Fraser	1880
Maiden City, The.....Tonna	2606
Maiden Eyes.....Gerald Griffin	631
Maidenhood, H. W. Longfellow	327
Maiden's Idea of a Husband, A Henry Carey	722
Maid's Lament, The.....Landor	1077
Maine Trail, A, G. H. McGiffert	1681
Make Believe.....Alice Cary	691
Maltworm's Madrigal, The Austin Dobson	2015
Man.....Henry Vaughan	369
Man and the Ascidian.....Lang	1895
"Man Called Dante, I Have Heard, A".....G. G. King	3084
Man in the Moon, The....Riley	168
Man with the Hoe, The Edwin Markham	3041
Man With the Hoe, a Reply, The J. V. Cheney	3043
Mandalay.....Rudyard Kipling	2638
Mannahatta.....Walt Whitman	2568
Man's Days.....Eden Phillpotts	2910
Man's Mortality. Simon Wastell	3405
March, "Blossom on the plum" Nora Hopper	1351
March, "Slayer of winter, art thou here again".....Morris	1350
Marching Along. Robert Browning	2283
Marco Bozzaris.....Halleck	2453
Margaret and Dora....Campbell	544
Margaret to Dolcino...Kingsley	1215
Marian.....George Meredith	562
Marian Drury.....Bliss Carman	998
Mariana.....Alfred Tennyson	873
Mariner's Dream, The, Dimond	1615
Marquis of Carabas, The, Brough	1843
Marriage.....W. W. Gibson	1195
Marriage and the Care o't Robert Lochore	748
Marriage Charm, A, Nora Hopper	1199
Married Lover, The....Patmore	1212
Marseillaise, La, "Allons, enfants de la Patrie"..Rouget de Lisle	3836
Marseillaise, The, "Ye sons of freedom, wake to glory," after Rouget de Lisle	2271
Marshes of Glynn, The..Lanier	1426
Mary Beaton's Song from "Chastelard," A. C. Swinburne	1160
Mary Morison.....Robert Burns	697
Mary Queen of Scots...Turner	3646
Maryland Battalion, The, J. W. Palmer	2429
Maryland Yellow-throat, The Henry Van Dyke	1543
Mary's Baby.....O Sheel	214
Mary's Lamb.....Unknown	40
Master, The.....E. A. Robinson	3640
Master Mariner, The..Sterling	1709
Masters, The....Laurence Hope	2947
Master's Touch, The.....Bonar	3717
Mastery.....Sara Teasdale	2938
Match, A.....A. C. Swinburne	641
Mater Dolorosa.....Barnes	301
Maternity.....Ingelow	429
Matin Song, "Pack, clouds, away, and welcome, day"..Heywood	696
Matin Song, "Rise, Lady Mistress, rise"....Nathaniel Field	694
Maud Muller.....J. G. Whittier	905
Maureen.....John Todhunter	647
May, "Come walk with me along this willowed lane." Cornwell	1362
May, "May! queen of blossoms" Edward Hovell-Thurlow	1361
May Burden, A.....Thompson	1358
May Margaret. T. J. H. Marzials	1145
May-Music.....R. A. Taylor	1150
Mayflower, The..E. W. Ellsworth	2389
Meadows in Spring, The Edward Fitzgerald	1346
Means to Attain a Happy Life, The.....Henry Howard	2979
Meddlesome Matty..Ann Taylor	110
Mediocrity in Love Rejected Thomas Carew	598
"Meet we no Angels, Pansie" Thomas Ashe	567
Meeting, "My Damon was the first to wake"...George Crabbe	621
Meeting, "They made the chamber sweet with flowers and leaves".....Christina Rossetti	1259
Meeting at Night.....Browning	1157
Melancholy.....John Fletcher	3349
Memorabilia...Robert Browning	3657
Memorial Verses. Matthew Arnold	3680
Memories.....Arthur Stringer	1127
Memory, "Marina's gone, and now sit I"...William Browne	931
Memory, A, "The Night walked down the sky"..F. L. Knowles	1152
Memory of the Dead, The J. K. Ingram	2262
Men Behind the Guns, The J. J. Rooney	2297
Mendicants, The..Bliss Carman	1692
Mending Wall.....Robert Frost	3075
"Merry Are the Bells." Unknown	45
Message, The, "Send home my long-strayed eyes to me" John Donne	593
Message, The, "Ye little birds that sit and sing"...Heywood	598
Messmates.....Henry Newbolt	1629
Metrical Feet....S. T. Coleridge	3111
Middle Age.....R. C. Lehmann	363
"Midges Dance aboon the Burn, The".....Robert Tannahill	1652
Mid-rapture.....D. G. Rossetti	1256
Midsummer, "After the May time and after the June time" E. W. Wilcox	922
Midsummer, "Around this lovely valley rise"..J. T. Trowbridge	1364
Midsummer Song, A.....Gilder	1366
Midwinter.....J. T. Trowbridge	1303
"Mighty Fortress is Our God, A".....F. H. Hedge	3806
Milkmaid, The...Austin Dobson	573
Miller of the Dee, The..Mackay	2982

PAGE

Mimma Bella, Sonnets I, II, IV, VI, VIII, XX
Eugene Lee-Hamilton 323
Mimnermus in Church
William Johnson-Cory 1767
Miniver Cheevy . . E. A. Robinson 1888
Minnie and Winnie
Alfred Tennyson 92
Minstrel-Boy, The . . . . . Moore 2302
Minstrel's Song from "Ælla"
Thomas Chatterton 1070
Miracle of the Dawn, The
Madison Cawein 1308
Misadventures at Margate
R. H. Barham 2120
Miss Lou . . . Walter de la Mare 1790
Miss Nancy's Gown . . . . . Cocke 1802
Missive, The . . . . . Edmund Gosse 666
Mr. Coggs . . . . . E. V. Lucas 162
Mr. Finney's Turnip . . Unknown 2071
Mr. Molony's Account of the Ball . . . . . W. M. Thackeray 1968
Mistletoe Bough, The . . . . Bayly 2738
Mrs. Judge Jenkins . . Bret Harte 1948
Mrs. Smith . . F. Locker-Lampson 1733
Mitherless Bairn, The . . . . . Thom 283
"Moan, Moan, Ye Dying Gales"
Henry Neele 3351
Modern Beauty . . Arthur Symons 1004
Modern Hiawatha, The, Strong 1950
Modern Love, Stanzas I, II, III, XIV, XVI, XXVI, XLI, XLIX, L . . . . George Meredith 1264
Modest Wit, A, . . . Selleck Osborn 1845
Moggy and Me . . . . James Hogg 1227
Moly . . . . . E. M. Thomas 1493
Mon-goos, The . . . . Oliver Herford 2083
Monterey . . . . . C. F. Hoffman 2470
Moods, The . . . . . F. S. Davis 3102
Moon, The . . . . . E. L. Follen 57
"Moon, so Round and Yellow"
Matthias Barr 49
Moral in Sevres, A . . . . . Howells 1805
Morality . . . . . Matthew Arnold 3376
More Limericks
Rudyard Kipling, et al. 2089
Morgan . . . . . E. C. Stedman 2404
Morning . . . . William D'Avenant 695
Morning . . . . . Jane Taylor 116
Morning Serenade . . . . . Cawein 700
Morning-glory, The, "Was it worth while to paint so fair"
F. E. Coates 1494
Morning-glory, The, "We wreathed about our darling's head" . . . . . Maria Lowell 312
Mors et Vita
Samuel Waddington 3422
Morte D'Arthur . . . . . Tennyson 3181
Mortifying Mistake, A . . . . . Pratt 166
Mosquito Triolet, A . . Anderson 2085
Moss-rose, The . . . Henry Newbolt 3550
Mother . . . . . Teresa Helburn 396
Mother and Poet . . . . . Browning 3555
Mother England . . E. M. Thomas 2230
Mother Goose's Melodies
Unknown 31
"Mother, Home, Heaven"
W. G. Brown 3244
"Mother, I Cannot Mind my Wheel" . . . . . W. S. Landor 1040
Mother in Egypt, A . . . . Pickthall 3558

PAGE

Mother Song, from "Prince Lucifer" . . . . . Alfred Austin 90
Mother Wept . . . . . Skipsey 289
Motherhood . . . . . J. D. Bacon 303
Mother's Prayer, The . . . . Shorter 304
Mother's Song . . . . . Unknown 77
Mountain Heart's-Ease, The
Bret Harte 1494
Mountain Song Harriet Monroe 3481
"Mourners Came at Break of Day, The" . . . . . S. F. Adams 3514
Muckle-Mou'd Meg, Ballantine 782
Muckle' Mouth Meg, Browning 781
"Multum Dilexit" . . . Coleridge 3387
Muses, The . . . . . E. M. Thomas 3097
Music, "The God of Music dwelleth out of doors." Thomas 3130
Music at Twilight . . . . . Sterling 3131
"Music I Heard" . . . . . Aiken 1129
Music in Camp . . J. R. Thompson 2289
Music of the Dawn . . . . Harrison 1310
Musical Instrument, A
E. B. Browning 3124
Mutability . . . . . P. B. Shelley 3377
My Ain Countree . . . . . Demarest 3710
My Ain Fireside . . . . . Hamilton 3238
My Ain Wife . . . Alexander Laing 1206
My April Lady. Henry Van Dyke 572
My Aunt . . . . . O. W. Holmes 1740
My Bed is a Boat
R. L. Stevenson 161
My Birthday . . . Thomas Moore 358
My Bonnie Mary . Robert Burns 946
My Catbird . . . . W. H. Venable 1533
My Child . . . . . John Pierpont 318
My Cross . . . . . Zitella Cocke 3463
My Daughter Louise . . . . . Greene 322
"My Days Among the Dead are Passed" . . . . . Robert Southey 2920
"My Delight and Thy Delight"
Robert Bridges 1158
My Early Home . . . . John Clare 3233
My Familiar . . . . . J. G. Saxe 2151
My Garden . . . . . T. E. Brown 1446
My Grandmother's Turkey-Tail Fan . . . . . S. M. Peck 1804
My Heart and I. E. B. Browning 1083
"My Heart is a Lute." Barnard 620
"My Heart Shall be Thy Garden" . . . . . Atice Meynell 673
"My Heart's in the Highlands"
Robert Burns 1669
My Laddie . . . . . Amélie Rives 676
My Lady Wind . . . . . Unknown 124
My Land . . . . . T. O. Davis 2265
My Last Duchess . . . . Browning 846
My Last Terrier. John Halsham 1827
My Legacy . . . H. H. Jackson 3727
"My Life is Like the Summer Rose" . . . . . R. H. Wilde 3358
My Little Love . . . C. B. Hawley 989
My Lost Youth. H. W. Longfellow 444
My Love, "Not as all other women are" . . . . J. R. Lowell 1213
"My Love for Thee" . . . . Gilder 1263
"My Love She's but a Lassie Yet" . . . . . James Hogg 543
My Maryland . . . . J. R. Randall 2220
"My Mind to me a Kingdom Is"
Edward Dyer 2987
My Mistress' Boots
Frederick Locker-Lampson 1730

PAGE

"My Mother Bids me Bind my Hair"...Anne Hunter 942
"My Nannie's Awa'"...Burns 944
My Old Kentucky Home. Foster 3227
My Other Me. Grace D. Litchfield 436
My Owen...E. M. P. Downing 1200
"My Own Cáilin Donn." Sigerson 1165
My Peggy...Allan Ramsey 534
My Playmate...J. G. Whittier 972
My Prayer...H. D. Thoreau 2961
My Queen...Unknown 649
My Recollectest Thoughts
C. E. Carryl 2071
My Road...Oliver Opdyke 657
My Shadow...R. L. Stevenson 158
My Share of the World..Furlong 628
My Sorrow...O'Sullivan 3362
My Star...Robert Browning 1321
My Thrush...Mortimer Collins 1580
"My True-love Hath my Heart"
Philip Sidney 1141
My Wife's a Winsome Wee Thing
Robert Burns 1208
Mystery, The...Ralph Hodgson 3776
Mystic, The...Witter Bynner 680
Mystic's Prayer, The
William Sharp 2854

N

Name, The...Don Marquis 2868
Nameless One, The...Mangan 3365
Nancy Dawson...H. P. Horne 988
Nanny...Francis Davis 653
Nature...H. W. Longfellow 1301
Nature, "O nature! I do not aspire"...H. D. Thoreau 1295
Nature, "The bubbling brook doth leap when I come by"
Jones Very 1293
Nautical Ballad, A..C. E. Carryl 2079
Nearer Home...Phœbe Cary 3813
"Nearer to Thee"..S. F. Adams 3805
Nearest the Dearest...Patmore 387
Nebuchadnezzar...Irwin Russell 2040
Needle, The.Samuel Woodworth 2120
Nell Gwynne's Looking-Glass
Laman Blanchard 1766
Nephelidia...A. C. Swinburne 1944
Nested...Habberton Lulham 1176
Net of Law, The...J. J. Roche 1911
"Never Give all the Heart"
W. B. Yeats 511
"Never the Time and the Place"
Robert Browning 885
New Arrival, The..G. W. Cable 1928
New Dreams for Old
Cale Young Rice 2851
New England's Chevy Chase
E. E. Hale 2426
New Jerusalem, The..Unknown 3693
New Life...A. J. Burr 1349
New Poet, A...William Canton 269
Newly-Wedded, The...Praed 1195
Next of Kin...C. G. Rossetti 3460
Nice Correspondent, A
Frederick Locker-Lampson 1812
Night, "Mysterious night! Spread wide thy silvery plume"
J. A. Symonds 1324
Night, "Night is the time for rest"...James Montgomery 1325

PAGE

Night, "The sun descending in the West"...William Blake 1321
Night, "When the time comes for me to die"..T. W. Rolleston 3469
Night, The...Hilaire Belloc 3223
Night and Love..Bulwer Lytton 710
Night Court, The..R. C. Mitchell 3055
Night for Adventures..Starbuck 1701
"Night Has a Thousand Eyes, The"...F. W. Bourdillon 863
Night of Gods, The...Sterling 2848
Night-Piece: to Julia, The
Robert Herrick 695
Nightingale, The...Akenside 1549
Nightingale and Glow-worm, The
William Cowper 179
Night's Mardi Gras E. J. Wheeler 1328
Nikolina...Celia Thaxter 153
1914...Rupert Brooke 2544
Ninety and Nine, The, Clephane 3756
No...Thomas Hood 2048
No and Yes...Thomas Ashe 895
No Baby in the House.Dolliver 25
"No Fault in Women." Herrick 1901
Noble Nature, The..Ben Jonson 2836
Nocturne...T. B. Aldrich 711
Nocturne...A. J. Burr 1166
Non Sum Qualis Eram Bonæ sub Regno Cynaræ..Ernest Dowson 918
Nongtongpaw...Charles Dibdin 1850
Nonsense Verses, "The Window has Four little Panes," Burgess 2086
Nonsense Verses, "There was an old man with a beard"...Lear 2057
Norah...Zoë Akins 1054
Northern Star, The..Unknown 1621
"Not a Sou Had He Got"
R. H. Barham 1933
"Not Ours the Vows,"..Barton 865
"Nothing to Wear"...Butler 2154
November...C. L. Cleaveland 1384
November...M. L. Fisher 1385
Now...Harriet Monroe 2573
Now and Afterwards...Craik 3572
"Now the Laborer's Task is O'er...J. L. Ellerton 3573
"Now, What is Love"...Ralcigh 475
Nox Nocti Indicat Scientiam
William Habington 3786
Nubia...Bayard Taylor 2640
Nun, The...Leigh Hunt 624
Nuremberg...H. W. Longfellow 2632
Nursery Song, A..L. E. Richards 165
Nurse's Song...William Blake 151
Nymph Complaining for the Death of her Fawn, The Andrew Marvell 1817
Nymph's Reply to the Passionate Shepherd, The, Walter Raleigh 585
Nymph's Song, The..Roden Noel 3213
Nymph's Song to Hylas, The
William Morris 894

O

"O Captain! My Captain"
Walt Whitman 3629
"O God! Our Help in Ages Past"
Isaac Watts 3790
O Henry...Vachel Lindsay 3610
"O, Inexpressible as Sweet"
G. E Woodberry 668

PAGE

"O, Lay Thy Hand in Mine, Dear"....Gerald Massey 1228
"O Little Town of Bethlehem" Phillips Brooks 203
"O, Love is not a Summer Mood" R. W. Gilder 504
"O Mally's Meek, Mally's Sweet"....Robert Burns 541
"O Merry May the Maid be" John Clerk 772
"O Nancy! Wilt thou go with Me"....Thomas Percy 618
"O Nightingale! thou surely art" William Wordsworth 1545
"O, Saw Ye Bonnie Lesley" Robert Burns 331
"O, Saw Ye the Lass"...Ryan 1159
O Sleep...Grace Fallow Norton 3224
"O Swallow, Swallow, Flying South"....Alfred Tennyson 963
"O Were My Love Yon Lilac Fair"....Robert Burns 621
"O World"...George Santayana 2907
"O World, be Nobler"..Binyon 652
"O World, Be not so Fair" Grace Fallow Norton 3483
Obituary....T. W. Parsons 278
Oblation, The..A. C. Swinburne 903
Oblivion....George Sterling 2847
October's Party...George Cooper 152
Ode, "Sleep sweetly in your humble graves....Henry Timrod 2321
Ode, "We are the music-makers" Arthur O'Shaughnessy 3128
Ode in Imitation of Alcæus William Jones 2236
Ode in Time of Hesitation, An W. V. Moody 2211
Ode on a Grecian Urn....Keats 3163
Ode on Solitude, Alexander Pope 1635
Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington..Alfred Tennyson 3672
Ode on the Intimations of Immortality from Recollections of early Childhood. Wordsworth 371
Ode on the Spring, An....Gray 1343
Ode on the Unveiling of the Shaw Memorial on Boston Common, May 31, 1897, An T. B. Aldrich 3655
Ode Recited at the Harvard Commemoration..J. R. Lowell 2518
Ode to a Butterfly....Higginson 1517
Ode to a Nightingale....Keats 1552
Ode to Autumn...Thomas Hood 1376
Ode to Duty....Wordsworth 2955
Ode to Evening. William Collins 1313
Ode to Master Anthony Stafford, An....Thomas Randolph 1649
Ode to Psyche....John Keats 3164
Ode to the West Wind..Shelley 1378
Ode to Tobacco..C. S. Calverley 1983
Odyssey, The....Andrew Lang 3083
Of an Orchard, Katharine Tynan 1414
Of Clementina....W. S. Landor 729
Of Corinna's Singing...Campion 590
Of Joan's Youth....Guiney 1054
"Of Old Sat Freedom on the Heights"....Alfred Tennyson 2235
Of Phyllis...William Drummond 527
Of the Last Verses in the Book Edmund Waller 401

PAGE

Of Those who Walk Alone Richard Burton 382
Off Riviere du Loup, D. C. Scott 1601
"Oh, Breathe not His Name" Thomas Moore 3609
"Oh, Death will Find Me" Rupert Brooke 1269
"Oh, Earlier Shall the Rosebuds Blow"....Johnson-Cory 3378
"Oh May I Join the Choir Invisible....George Eliot 3485
"Oh Mother of a Mighty Race" W. C. Bryant 2203
"Oh! Snatched Away in Beauty's Bloom"....Lord Byron 1082
"Oh, that 'twere Possible" Alfred Tennyson 1092
"Oh! Where do Fairies hide their Heads"....T. H. Bayly 235
"Oh, Why should the Spirit of Mortal be Proud"....Knox 3409
"Old Books are Best"...Chew 1759
Old Churchyard of Bonchurch, The....P. B. Marston 3436
Old Clock on the Stairs, The H. W. Longfellow 3242
Old Familiar Faces, The, Lamb 453
Old-fashioned Poet, An, Murray 3089
Old Folks at Home..S. C. Foster 3228
Old Gardens....Arthur Upson 992
Old Grimes....A. G. Greene 2131
Old Home, The, Madison Cawein 3233
Old Ironsides....O. W. Holmes 2456
Old King Cole..E. A. Robinson 1797
Old Man Dreams, The, Holmes 461
Old Man's Comforts, The Robert Southery 405
Old Man's Idyl, An....Realf 1222
Old Man's Song, An, Le Gallienne 425
Old Mother Hubbard..Unknown 51
Old October...Thomas Constable 1383
Old Scottish Cavalier, The W. E. Aytoun 2734
Old Sergeant, The..B. F. Willson 3332
Old Sexton, The, Park Benjamin 3441
Old Squire, The...W. S. Blunt 1638
Old Superstitions....Unknown 66
Old Swimmin'-Hole, The, Riley 468
Old Tune, An....Andrew Lang 920
Old Winter....Thomas Noel 1386
O'Lincon Family, The....Flagg 1530
Omar for Ladies, An J. D. Bacon 1921
Omnia Somnia....R. M. Watson 424
Omnia Vincit...Alfred Cochrane 744
On a Bust of Dante....Parsons 3604
On a Certain Lady at Court Alexander Pope 380
On a Contented Mind....Vaux 2978
On a Distant Prospect of Eton College....Thomas Gray 2589
On a Fan....Austin Dobson 1781
On a Fly-leaf of Burns's Songs F. L. Knowles 3596
On a Girdle....Edmund Waller 531
On a Henpecked Squire...Burns 1919
On a Nightingale in April. Sharp 1548
On a Picture by Poussin. Symonds 1079
On a Sculptured Head of the Christ....M. L. Fisher 3751
On a Soldier fallen in the Philippines....W. V. Moody 2210

PAGE
On a Tear.....Samuel Rogers 3380
On an Intaglio Head of Minerva
T. B. Aldrich 1748
On an Old Song..W. E. H. Lecky 3087
On Elizabeth L. H...Ben Jonson 3516
On First Looking into Chapman's Homer.....John Keats 3082
On Hampstead Heath..Gibson 516
On her Coming to London
Edmund Waller 330
On His Blindness...John Milton 2844
On Melancholy.....John Keats 3349
On Music.....W. S. Landor 3131
"On Parent Knees".....Jones 21
On Salathiel Pavy...Ben Jonson 3516
On the Death of a Favorite Cat, Drowned in a Tub of Gold Fishes.....Thomas Gray 1821
On the Death of Joseph Rodman Drake.....Fils-Greene Halleck 3608
On the Death of Mr. Robert Levet.....Samuel Johnson 3628
On the Death of Mrs. Throckmorton's Bullfinch. W. Cowper 1824
On the Deaths of Thomas Carlyle and George Eliot...Swinburne 3596
On the Extinction of the Venetian Republic
William Wordsworth 2619
On the Fly-Leaf of a Book of Old Plays.....Waller Learned 1806
On the Grasshopper and Cricket
John Keats 1510
On the Late Massacre in Piedmont.....John Milton 2404
On the Life-mask of Abraham Lincoln.....R. W. Gilder 3642
On the Life of Man..Henry King 2837
On the Loss of the "Royal George".....William Cowper 2435
On the Moor.....C. Y. Rice 307
On the Morning of Christ's Nativity.....John Milton 223
On the Picture of a "Child Tired of Play".....N. P. Willis 280
On the Portrait of Shakespeare
Ben Jonson 3652
On the Prospect of Planting Arts and Learning in America
George Berkeley 2565
On the Quay.....J. J. Bell 1605
On the Receipt of My Mother's Picture out of Norfolk. Cowper 3251
On the Sea.....John Keats 1588
On the Tombs in Westminster
Francis Beaumont 3517
On this Day I Complete my Thirty-sixth Year. Lord Byron 360
"On Wenlock Edge." Housman 1401
Once on a Time.....Banning 517
Once on a Time.....Benson 1507
One and One.....M. M. Dodge 164
One by One.....A. A. Procter 3761
One Gift I Ask...V. B. Harrison 3734
One Hope, The..D. G. Rossetti 3473
"One Morning, Oh! so Early"
Jean Ingelow 1144
One Way of Love.....Browning 884
One White Hair, The
W. S. Landor 362
One Word More.....Browning 1284
Only.....H. P. Spofford 3
"Only a Baby Small".....Barr 3
Only of Thee and Me. Untermeyer 625
Only Seven.....H. S. Leigh 1925
Only Son, The...Henry Newbolt 2324
"Onward, Christian Soldiers"
S. Baring-Gould 3814
Opening of the Tomb of Charlemagne, The...Aubrey De Vere 3597
Opportunity, "Master of human destinies am I"...J. J. Ingalls 2921
Opportunity, "They do me wrong who say I come no more".....Walter Malone 2922
Opportunity, "This I beheld, or dreamed it in a dream"....Sill 2923
"Or ever the Knightly Years were Gone"....W. E. Henley 655
Oracle, The.....A. D. Ficke 266
Orchard at Avignon, An
A. M. F. Robinson 1414
"Other World, The. H. B. Stowe 3708
Ould Plaid Shawl, The....Fahy 758
Our Hired Girl.....J. W. Riley 171
Our Sister.....H. N. Powers 389
Our Wee White Rose....Massey 26
Out of Hearing....Jane Barlow 3560
Out Where the West Begins
Arthur Chapman 2574
Outgrown.....J. C. R. Dorr 1017
Outward.....J. G. Neihardt 1599
"Over the River"..N. W. Priest 3509
"Over the Wintry Threshold"
Bliss Carman 1349
Overflow.....J. B. Tabb 1579
"Owl and the Eel and the Warming-Pan, The"..L. E. Richards 47
Owl and the Pussy-Cat, The. Lear 2052
Owl-Critic, The.....J. T. Fields 1881
"Owre the Moor Amang the Heather".....Jean Glover 747
Ozymandias of Egypt....Shelley 2844

P

Paddy O'Rafther..Samuel Lover 1960
Pageant of Seamen, The
May Byron 2827
Pain.....St. John Lucas 3353
Palabras Cariñosas. T. B. Aldrich 711
Palm-tree and the Pine, The
R. M. Milnes 963
Pamela in Town.....Cortissoz 802
Pan in Wall Street. E. C. Stedman 1751
Paradise, "O Paradise, O Paradise".....F. W. Faber 3695
Paradise, "Once in a dream I saw the flowers"...C. G. Rossetti 3705
Paradox of Time, The...Dobson 423
Parental Ode to My Son, A
Thomas Hood 268
Parting, "Too fair, I may not call thee mine"...Gerald Massey 984
Parting at Morning....Browning 1157
Parting Guest, A..J. W. Riley 3507
Parting Hour, The, Olive Custance 985
Parting of the Ways, The, Gilder 2217
Pass of Kirkstone, The
William Wordsworth 2582
Passer-by, A.....Robert Bridges 1600
Passing of March, The, Wilson 1353
Passionate Reader to His Poet, The.....Richard Le Gallienne 3102

	PAGE
Passionate Shepherd to his Love, The....Christopher Marlowe	584
Passion-Flower, The Margaret Fuller	1053
Passions, The..William Collins	3119
Past.....John Galsworthy	420
Pastoral, A, "Along the lane beside the mead"..Norman Gale	744
Pastoral, A, "Flower of the Medlar".....Théophile Marzials	1167
Patmos.....Edith M. Thomas	1303
Patriot's Pass-Word, The James Montgomery	2353
Patterns.....Amy Lowell	1134
Paul Revere's Ride...Longfellow	2422
Peace.....Rupert Brooke	2544
Peace.....Henry Vaughan	3695
"Peace to the Slumberers" Thomas Moore	2302
Peaceable Race, The..T. A. Daly	1976
Peaks, The.....Stephen Crane	1433
Peddler's Caravan, The..Rands	161
Perfect Woman.....Wordsworth	380
Persicos Odi.....Horace	3827
Persuasions to Enjoy.....Carew	597
Perugia.....A. J. Burr	2621
Peschiera.....A. H. Clough	2471
Pet Name, The, E. B. Browning	455
Petrified Fern, The, M. B. Branch	2859
Pewee, The....J. T. Trowbridge	1558
"Philip, My King," D. M. Craik	21
Phillida and Coridon.....Breton	716
"Phillida Flouts Me"..Unknown	722
Phillis and Corydon, "Phillis kept sheep along the western plains".....Robert Greene	768
Philomel.....Richard Barnefield	1546
Philomela, "Hark! ah, the nightingale".....Matthew Arnold	1547
Philomela, "The nightingale, as soon as April bringeth." Sidney	1551
Philosopher, A....J. K. Bangs	2083
Philosopher's Scales, The, Taylor	1879
Phyllis and Corydon, "Phyllis took a red rose from the tangles of her hair.....Arthur Colton	693
Pibroch of Donald Dhu....Scott	2277
Picket-Guard, The...E. L. Beers	2491
Picture of Little T. C. in a Prospect of Flowers, The, Marvell	273
Pied Piper of Hamelin, The Robert Browning	192
Pierrette in Memory....Griffith	3388
Pilgrim, The.....John Bunyan	3715
Pilgrim Fathers, The...Pierpont	2390
Pillar of the Cloud, The, Newman	3804
Pin, The.....Ann Taylor	108
Pine, The.....Augusta Webster	1408
Pines and the Sea, The, Cranch	1590
Pious Selinda..William Congreve	721
Pipe of Tobacco, The....Usher	1984
Piper on the Hill, The, Shorter	132
Pipes o' Gordon's Men, The J. S. Glasgow	2307
Pitcher of Mignonette, A H. C. Bunner	1796
"Place in Thy Memory, A" Gerald Griffin	871
Plaidie, The.....Charles Sibley	755
Plain Language from Truthful James.....Bret Harte	2174
Plaint of the Camel, The, Carryl	2080
Plantation Ditty, A....Stanton	2043
Planting of the Apple-Tree, The W. C. Bryant	1411
Play, The.....J. B. Kenyon	2854
Playgrounds...L. Alma-Tadema	130
Plays.....W. S. Landor	1910
"Please to Ring the Belle." Hood	2130
Pleasures of Love, The,....Blunt	1262
Plighted.....D. M. M. Craik	1161
Plow, The.....R. H. Horne	1652
Plymouth Harbor Dollie Radford	667
Pobble Who Has No Toes, The Edward Lear	2053
Poet and Lark...M. A. de Vere	3089
Poet and the Wood-louse, The Helen Parry Eden	1791
Poet Enlists, A.....A. J. Burr	2564
Poetry.....Ella Heath	3086
Poets and Linnets....Tom Hood	1938
Poets at Tea, The...Barry Pain	1953
Poet's Song to His Wife, The B. W. Procter	1223
Politeness.....Elizabeth Turner	98
Poor Jack.....Charles Dibdin	1597
Poor Kings.....W. H. Davies	2998
"Pope He Leads a Happy Life, The".....Charles Lever	2137
Poplar Field, The.....Cowper	1411
Porphyria's Lover.....Browning	1003
Port o' Heart's Desire, The J. S. McGroarty	1604
Portrait, A, "I will paint her as I see her".....E. B. Browning	338
Portrait, A, "In sunny girlhood's vernal life"...J. Ashby-Sterry	1758
Portrait, A, "Mother and maid and soldier, bearing best" Brian Hooker	393
Portrait, The, "Midnight past! Not a sound of aught" Bulwer Lytton	1025
Post that Fitted, The...Kipling	2046
Poster-Girl, The, Carolyn Wells	1941
Power of Love, The, John Fletcher	482
Power of Malt, The....Housman	2016
Power of Prayer, The Clifford and Sidney Lanier	2038
Praise.....Seumas O'Sullivan	582
Praise of his Lady, A...Heywood	378
Praise of My Lady.....Morris	562
Prayer, "Lo, here a little volume, but great book".....Crashaw	3723
Prayer.....Louis Untermeyer	2940
Prayer, A.....John Drinkwater	2051
Prayer, A.....Harry Kemp	2039
Prayer for Pain.....Neihardt	2040
Prayer in the Prospect of Death, A.....Robert Burns	3455
Prayer of the Beaten Men, The W. H. Woods	2944
Prayer to the Trinity..Edmeston	3807
Precept of Silence, The Lionel Johnson	3351
Pre-Existence.....P. H. Hayne	2857
Prelude, A...Maurice Thompson	3081
Prelude to "The New Day" R. W. Gilder	1307
Preludes, from "The Angel in the House".....Coventry Patmore	384
Pretty Girl of Loch Dan, The Samuel Ferguson	779

	PAGE
Prevision.....A. F. Murray	1373
Prime of Life, The, Walter Learned	805
Primrose, The....Robert Herrick	1495
Primrose Dame, A, Gleason White	740
Prince Tatters. Laura E. Richards	155
Prisoner of Chillon, The, Byron	3273
Private of the Buffs, The, Doyle	2478
Problem, The...R. W. Emerson	2966
Proem.....J. G. Whittier	3078
Progress of Poesy, The....Gray	3091
Promissory Note, The....Taylor	1946
Prospice.....Robert Browning	3484
Prothalamion..Edmund Spenser	1178
Proud Maisie.....Walter Scott	1076
Proverbs.....Unknown	64
Providence.....Reginald Heber	3726
Psalm of Life, A....Longfellow	2914
Pulley, The.....George Herbert	370
Purple Cow, The, Gelett Burgess	2085
Puzzled Census Taker, The, Saxe	2147
Pyramus and Thisbe..J. G. Saxe	2148

Q

Qua Cursum Ventus....Clough	3033
Queen, The.....William Winter	671
Queen Mab, "A little fairy comes at night".....Thomas Hood	237
Queen Mab, "This is Mab, the Mistress-Fairy"..Ben Jonson	233
Queen of Hearts, The..Unknown	39
Queen's Song, The....Flecker	3214
Quest, The, E. M. H. Cortissoz	357
Question, The.....P. B. Shelley	867
Question, The....R. A. Taylor	3742
Question Whither, The George Meredith	2860
Questionings.....F. H. Hedge	2970
Quid non Speremus, Amantes Ernest Dowson	919
Quiet Life, The...William Byrd	1654
Quiet Nights, The.....Tynan	3222
Quiet Singer, The, C. F. Towne	3665
Quiet Work.....Matthew Arnold	1300

R

Rabbi Ben Ezra.....Browning	411
Rabia.....J. F. Clark	2953
Raggedy Man, The..J. W. Riley	166
Rain on a Grave. Thomas Hardy	1133
Rain on the Roof. Coates Kinney	458
Rainbow, The.....Wordsworth	366
Rainy Day, The.....Longfellow	3350
Raven, The.....E. A. Poe	3170
Razor-Seller, The...John Wolcot	2101
Readin ov a Head-Stwone William Barnes	3569
"Ready, Ay, Ready"..Merivale	2234
Reaper and the Flowers, The H. W. Longfellow	3418
Reason, The..James Oppenheim	1164
"Reason Fair to Fill My Glass, A".....Charles Morris	1907
Reasonable Affliction, A...Prior	1907
Rebecca's After-thought, Turner	100
Recessional....Rudyard Kipling	2248
Recessional, The, C. G. D. Roberts	3480
Recognition, The..F. W. Sawyer	1935
Recompense.....Waterman	2929
Reconciliation, The...Tennyson	1168
Recruit, The....R. W. Chambers	1977

	PAGE
Rectius Vives.....Horace	3829
Red, Red Rose, A...Robert Burns	946
Red Riding Hood..G. W. Carryl	2077
Reeds of Innocence.....Blake	126
Reformation of Godfrey Gore, The.....W. B. Rands	114
Refuge.....G. W. Russell	1143
Refuge.....William Winter	921
Relief of Lucknow, The....Lowell	2475
Religious Use of Tobacco, A Robert Wisdome	1983
Remedy Worse than the Disease, The.....Matthew Prior	1910
Remember....Christina Rossetti	1260
Remember or Forget.....Aidé	987
Remembrance.....Emily Brontë	1095
Renouncement....Alice Meynell	1263
Renunciation, A...Edward Vere	807
Requiem, "Hush your prayers, 'tis no saintly soul"...Connell	3500
Requiem, A, "Thou hast lived in pain and woe." James Thomson	3551
Requiem, "Under the wide and starry sky"...R. L. Stevenson	3485
Requiescat, "Bury me deep when I am dead"....R. M. Watson	1122
Requiescat, "Strew on her roses, roses".....Matthew Arnold	1098
Requiescat, "Tread lightly, she is near".....Oscar Wilde	1119
Resignation, "There is no flock, however watched and tended" H. W. Longfellow	3510
Resignation, "Why, why repine, my pensive friend"...Landor	2093
Rest.....Christina Rossetti	1260
"Rest is not Here".....Nairne	3701
Resurrection.....Harry Kemp	3553
Retirement, The..Charles Cotton	1641
Retort, The.....G. P. Morris	2175
Retreat, The....Henry Vaughan	434
Returning.....R. G. Harding	3482
Reveillé.....Michael O'Connor	2286
Reveillé.....Louis Untermeyer	2562
Reveillé, The.....Bret Harte	2487
Revel, The, Bartholomew Dowling	3566
"Revenge," The.....Tennyson	2377
Reverie of Poor Susan, The William Wordsworth	281
Revival Hymn.....J. C. Harris	2037
Rhodora, The...R. W. Emerson	1497
Rhyme of Life, A, C. W. Stoddard	3499
Rhyme of One, A Frederick Locker-Lampson	8
Riddle, A.....William Cowper	685
Riddles.....Unknown	62
Riddles Wisely Expounded Unknown	2683
Riding Down.....Nora Perry	799
Rime of the Ancient Mariner, The.....S. T. Coleridge	2747
Ripe Grain.....D. R. Goodale	3575
Risposta.....Unknown	2980
Rivals.....William Walsh	826
River of Life, The.....Campbell	407
Road, The.....Chalmers	760
Road of Remembrance, The L. W. Reese	449
Robert Burns, William Alexander	3595
Robert Louis Stevenson...Reese	3657
Robert of Lincoln..W. C. Bryant	1528
Robin Adair....Caroline Keppel	979

PAGE

Robin Hood and Allen-a-Dale
Unknown 2692
Robin Redbreast, "Good-by, good-by to Summer"
William Allingham 1561
Robin Redbreast, "Little Robin Redbreast sat upon a tree"
Unknown 45
Robin Redbreast, "Sweet Robin, I have heard them say." Doane 1561
Robinson Crusoe...C. E. Carryl 2184
Rock me to Sleep
Elizabeth Akers 465
Rock of Ages....A. N. Toplady 3797
"Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep".....E. H. Willard 1599
Rococo.....A. C. Swinburne 900
Roi d'Yvetot, Le....de Béranger 3840
Roll-Call.....N. G. Shepherd 2313
Romance, "I will make you brooches and toys for your delight".....R. L. Stevenson 654
Romance, "My Love dwelt in a northern land"..Andrew Lang 1120
Romance, "You bells in the steeple".....Ingelow 427
Rondeau, The....Austin Dobson 3110
Rondeau Redoublé..John Payne 542
Rondel, "Kissing her hair, I sat against her feet"..Swinburne 1146
Rondel, "These many years since we began to be"...Swinburne 902
Ronsard to His Mistress
W. M. Thackeray 635
Rory O'More; or, Good Omens
Samuel Lover 753
Rosabelle.....Walter Scott 2715
Rosalind's Madrigal.....Lodge 477
Rosalind's Scroll..E. B. Browning 1085
Rosary, The.....R. C. Rogers 1140
Rosary of My Tears, The, Ryan 3381
Rose, A, "Bloom in the morning, thou shalt fade ere noon"
Richard Fanshawe 1500
Rose, A, "'Twas a Jacqueminot rose".....Arlo Bates 745
Rose, The, "A rose, as fair as ever saw the north".....Browne 1498
Rose, The, "Sweet, serene, sky-like flower"..Richard Lovelace 696
Rose and Thorn, The....Hayne 1028
Rose Aylmer.....W. S. Landor 622
Rose of May, The..Mary Howitt 1499
Rose of Stars, The....Woodberry 506
Rose of the World, The, "Lo, when the Lord made North and South"..Coventry Patmore 385
Rose of the World, The, "Who dreamed that beauty passes like a dream"....W. B. Yeats 390
Rose to the Living, A, Waterman 1800
"Rose Will Fade, A".....Shorter 1047
Rosies.....A. J. Hanrahan 925
Rose-Marie of the Angels
Adelaide Crapsey 326
Roundel of Rest, A.....Symons 3423
Rover's Adieu, The, Walter Scott 948
"Row Gently Here".....Moore 700
Rowan Tree, The.....Nairne 3236
Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám, The.....Edward Fitzgerald 2875
Rubicon, The...William Winter 3497

PAGE

Rubies and Pearls: Robert Herrick 528
Rule, Britannia, James Thomson 2232
Rule for Birds' Nesters, A
Unknown 101
Rules of Behavior.....Unknown 98
Runnable Stag, A.....Davidson 1659
Rus in Urbe.....Clement Scott 656
Rustic at the Play, The
George Santayana 2908
Ruth.....Thomas Hood 332

S

Sabine Farmer's Serenade, The
F. S. Mahony 1971
Sacrifice.....R. W. Emerson 2059
Safety.....Rupert Brooke 2545
Sage Counse
A. T. Quiller-Couch 2082
Sailor, The..William Allingham 1625
Sailor's Consolation, The, Dibdin 2105
Sailor's Song.....T. L. Beddoes 1593
Sailor's Wife, The..W. J. Mickle 1217
St. Agnes' Eve. Alfred Tennyson 3767
St. James's Street
Frederick Locker-Lampson 2599
St. John Baptist..O'Shaughnessy 3740
St. Michael's Mount..Davidson 2596
Saint Patrick....Henry Bennett 1966
Saint Peray.....T. W. Parsons 2005
Salad, A.....Sydney Smith 1987
Sally from Coventry, The
Walter Thornbury 2745
Sally in Our Alley..Henry Carey 769
Salve.....T. E. Brown 2990
Samela.....Robert Greene 521
San Lorenzo Giustiniani's Mother.....Alice Meynell 3775
Sandman, The..Margaret Janvier 72
Sandpiper, The....Celia Thaxter 1562
Sands of Dee, The....Kingsley 1619
Sapientia Lunæ..Ernest Dowson 2995
Saturday Night.....Oppenheim 3024
Satyrs and the Moon, The
Herbert Gorman 249
Saxon Grit.....Robert Collyer 2227
"Say not the Struggle Naught Availeth".....A. H. Clough 2839
Scholar-Gipsy, The.....Arnold 3305
"Scorn not the Sonnet"
William Wordsworth 3109
Scotland Yet.....H. S. Riddell 2268
"Scum o' the Earth", Schauffler 3052
Scythe Song.....Andrew Lang 1371
Sea, The, "The sea! the sea! the open sea".....B. W. Procter 1592
Sea, The, "There is a pleasure in the pathless woods"...Byron 1586
Sea, The, "Through the night, through the night."..Stoddard 1619
Sea-Birds.....Elizabeth Akers 1522
Sea Child, A.....Bliss Carman 1041
Sea Dirge, A.....Shakespeare 3516
Sea Fever.....John Masefield 1590
Sea Gipsy, The...Richard Hovey 1688
Sea-mew, The...E. B. Browning 1563
Sea-lands, The.....Orrick Johns 958
Seal, A.....Oliver Herford 2083
Sealed Orders....Richard Burton 3478
Seaweed.....H. W. Longfellow 3094
Second Coming, The
Norman Gale 3054

PAGE

Second Crucifixion, The
Richard Le Gallienne 3749
Second Review of the Grand Army, A. . . . . Bret Harte 2513
Secret, The. . . . . G. E. Woodberry 505
Secret Love, The. . . . . Russell 627
Seein' Things. . . . . Eugene Field 172
Seekers, The. . . . John Masefield 2863
Self-Dependence. Matthew Arnold 2843
Sentence. . . . . Witter Bynner 3553
Sentinel Songs. . . . . A. J. Ryan 2322
Separation. . . . . Matthew Arnold 966
Sephestia's Lullaby, from "Menaphon". . . . . Robert Greene 74
September. . . . . George Arnold 1371
Serenade, "Ah, sweet, thou little knowest how". . Thomas Hood 704
Serenade, "Awake thee, my lady-love". . . . . George Darley 703
Serenade, "By day my timid passions stand". . . . . Middleton 714
Serenade, "Hide, happy damask, from the stars". Henry Timrod 705
Serenade, "Look out upon the stars, my love". . E. C. Pinkney 704
Serenade, "Softly, O midnight hours". . . . . A. T. de Vere 701
Serenade, "Stars of the Summer night". . . . H. W. Longfellow 705
Serenade, "The western wind is blowing fair". . . . Oscar Wilde 712
Serf's Secret, The, W. V. Moody 667
Sesotris. . . . . Lloyd Mifflin 2847
Settlers, The. Laurence Housman 3536
Seven times Five—Widowhood
Jean Ingelow 430
Seven times Four—Maternity
Jean Ingelow 429
Seven times One—Exultation
Jean Ingelow 426
Seven times Seven—Longing for Home. . . . . Jean Ingelow 431
Seven times Six—Giving in Marriage. . . . . Jean Ingelow 431
Seven times Three—Love
Jean Ingelow 428
Seven times Two—Romance
Jean Ingelow 427
Seven Years Old. . . . . Swinburne 255
Seventy-Six. . . . . W. C. Bryant 2431
Shaded Pool, The. . Norman Gale 677
Shadow Boat, A. . . . . Arlo Bates 437
Shadow-Child, The
Harriet Monroe 288
Shadow Dance, The. . . . Moulton 856
Shadows. . . . . R. M. Milnes 837
Shakespeare. . . . Matthew Arnold 3653
Shameful Death. William Morris 2746
Shamrock, The. . . . . M. F. Egan 1501
She and He. . . . . Edwin Arnold 3579
She Came and Went. . . . . Lowell 314
"She Died in Beauty". . . . Sillery 3548
"She is Far from the Land"
Thomas Moore 1078
"She Walks in Beauty". . . Byron 383
"She was a Beauty". . . . Bunner 1765
"She was Young and Blithe and Fair". . . . . Harold Monro 1051
Sheep and Lambs. . . . . Tynan 3759
Sheepfol', De
S. P. McL. Greene 3755
Shemuel. . . . . Edward Bowen 3578

PAGE

Shepherd, The. . . William Blake 153
Shepherd Boy Sings in the Valley of Humiliation, The. . . Bunyan 3714
Shepherdess, The, Alice Meynell 393
Shepherd's Wife's Song, The
Robert Greene 1210
Sheridan's Ride. . . . . T. B. Read 2510
Sherwood, A Song of
Alfred Noyes 2591
Shoogy-Shoo, The. . . . . Packard 447
Shrine, The. . . . . D. M. Dolben 395
Sic Itur. . . . . A. H. Clough 3037
Sic Vita. . . . . W. S. Braithwaite 1303
Siege of Belgrade, The, Unknown 2072
Sigh, A. . . . . H. P. Spofford 1011
"Sigh no More, Ladies"
William Shakespeare 807
Silent Noon. . . . . D. G. Rossetti 1256
Siller Croun, The. . . . . Blamire 943
Silvia. . . . . William Shakespeare 519
Similar Cases. . . . C. P. S. Gilman 1891
Simon the Cyrenean
Lucy Lyttelton 3753
Simple Nature. . . G. J. Romanes 1658
Simple Simon. . . . . Unknown 42
Simplex Munditiis. . . Ben Jonson 377
Sin of Omission, The. . Sangster 2926
Since We Parted. . Bulwer Lytton 641
Sincere Flattery. . J. K. Stephen 1951
"Sing a Song of Sixpence"
Unknown 41
"Sing Heigh-Ho". . . . . Kingsley 735
"Sing on, Blithe Bird"
William Motherwell 102
Singer's Prelude, The. . . . Morris 3080
Singing Lesson, A, "Far-fetched and dear bought, as the proverb rehearses". . . . . Swinburne 3086
Singing Lesson, The "A nightingale made a mistake." Ingelow 147
Singing Man, The. . . . Peabody 3045
Sir Galahad. . . . Alfred Tennyson 2724
Sir Humphrey Gilbert
H. W. Longfellow 2368
Sir Lark and King Sun: A Parable
George Macdonald 180
Sir Patrick Spens. . . . . Unknown 2685
"Sister, Awake". . . . . Unknown 1361
Skeleton in Armor, The
H. W. Longfellow 3323
Skeleton in the Cupboard, The
Frederick Locker-Lampson 1734
Skipper Ireson's Ride. . . Whittier 2445
Skylark, The, "Bird of the wilderness". . . . . James Hogg 1566
Skylark, The, "How the blithe lark runs up the golden stair"
Frederick Tennyson 1567
Sleep, "Come, Sleep, and with thy sweet deceiving." Fletcher 3220
Sleep, "O happy Sleep! thou bear'st upon thy breast"
A. L. Martin 3222
Sleep, The. . . . . E. B. Browning 3412
"Sleep, Angry Beauty," Campion 694
"Sleep, Baby, Sleep". . . . Wither 75
"Sleep, Silence' Child"
William Drummond 3220
Sleeper, The. . . . Clinton Scollard 3553
Sleeping Beauty, The. . . . Rogers 699
Sluggard, The. . . . . Isaac Watts 106
Smack in School, The. . . . Palmer 2136

PAGE

Small Celandine, The
William Wordsworth 1469
"Smile and Never Heed Me"
Charles Swain 630
Snail, The....William Cowper 1514
Snake, The....Thomas Moore 831
Sneezing....Leigh Hunt 2021
Snow....Elizabeth Akers 1390
Snow-Shower, The, W. C. Bryant 1391
Snowdrop....W. W. Story 854
"So Sweet Love Seemed"
Robert Bridges 920
Society upon the Stanislaus, The
Bret Harte 2170
"Softly Woo Away Her Breath"
B. W. Procter 3548
Soldier, The....Rupert Brooke 2546
"Soldier, Rest! Thy Warfare O'er"....Walter Scott 2301
Soldier's Dream, The, Campbell 2281
Solitary-Hearted, The
Hartley Coleridge 381
Solitary Reaper, The
William Wordsworth 333
Solitude....Ella Wheeler Wilcox 2929
Solomon Grundy....Unknown 45
"Some Day of Days"....Perry 658
"Some Time at Eve"....Hardy 3468
Somebody's Child. L. C. Moulton 345
Somebody's Darling....La Conte 2318
Sometime....M. R. Smith 3513
"Sometime It May be"....Colton 927
Sometimes....T. S. Jones, Jr. 436
"Son of God Goes Forth to War, The"....Reginald Heber 3794
Song, "A lake and a fairy boat"
Thomas Hood 630
Song, "A violet in her lovely hair"....Charles Swain 548
Song, "Again rejoicing Nature sees"....Robert Burns 1341
Song, "All the flowers of the spring"....John Webster 3517
Song, "April, April"....Watson 1354
Song, "Ask me no more where Jove bestows....Thomas Carew 530
Song, "At setting day and rising morn"....Allan Ramsay 940
Song, "Because the rose must fade"....R. W. Gilder 2841
Song, "Closes and courts and lanes"....John Davidson 2598
Song, "Come, Celia, let's agree at last"....John Sheffield 612
Song, "Earl March looked on his dying child." Thomas Campbell 1077
Song, "Fain would I change that note"....Unknown 487
Song, "Fair is the night, and fair the day"....William Morris 977
Song, "Flame at the core of the world"....Arthur Upson 1151
Song, "For me the jasmine buds unfold"....F. E. Coates 1148
Song, "Go and catch a falling star"....John Donne 592
Song, "Had I a heart for falsehood framed"....R. B. Sheridan 620
Song, "Has summer come without the rose." O'Shaughnessy 897
Song, "How delicious is the winning"....Thomas Campbell 490

PAGE

Song, "How do I love you"
Irene R. McLeod 580
Song, "I came to the door of the House of Love"....Alfred Noyes 511
Song, "I made another garden, Yea"....Arthur O'Shaughnessy 896
Song: "I make my shroud but no one knows"....Crapsey 3478
Song, "I prithee send me back my heart"....John Suckling 763
Song, "I saw the day's white rapture"....C. H. Towne 892
Song, "I try to knead and spin"
L. I. Guiney 3361
Song, "In vain you tell your parting lover"....Matthew Prior 937
Song, "It is the miller's daughter"....Alfred Tennyson 633
Song, "Ladies, though to your conquering eyes"....Etherege 594
Song, "Let my voice ring out and over the earth"....Thomson 616
Song, "Love, by that loosened hair"....Bliss Carman 577
Song, "Love in fantastic triumph sate"....Aphra Behn 824
Song, "Love is a sickness full of woes"....Samuel Daniel 478
Song, "Love still has something of the sea"....Charles Sedley 486
Song, "Love's on the highroad"
Dana Burnett 627
Song, A, "My dear mistress has a heart"....John Wilmot 610
Song, "My Love bound me with a kiss"....Unknown 684
Song, "My silks and fine array"
William Blake 1001
Song, "Nay but you who do not love her"....Robert Browning 553
Song, "O Brignall banks are wild and fair"....Walter Scott 2720
Song, "O, do not wanton with those eyes"....Ben Jonson 592
Song, "O, let the solid ground"
Alfred Tennyson 497
Song, "O, like a queen's her happy tread"....William Watson 577
Song, "O mistress mine, where are you roaming," Shakespeare 930
Song, "O ruddier than the cherry"....John Gay 535
Song, "O sweet delight, O more than human bliss"....Campion 1141
Song, "Often I have heard it said"....W. S. Landor 686
Song, "Oh! Love," they said, "is King of Kings"....Brooke 580
Song, "Oh! say not woman's heart is bought"....Peacock 489
Song, "Oh! that we two were Maying"....Charles Kingsley 885
Song, "Only tell her that I love"
John Cutts 613
Song, "Over the sea our galleys went"....Robert Browning 3192
Song, "Phœbus, arise"
William Drummond 1305
Song, "Rarely, rarely comest thou"....P. B. Shelley 3364
Song, "See, see, she wakes! Sabina wakes"....Congreve 697

PAGE

Song, "Shall I tell you whom I love"..... William Browne 815
Song, "She is not fair to outward view"..... Hartley Coleridge 548
Song, "She's somewhere in the sunlight strong"..Le Gallienne 995
Song, "Sing me a sweet, low song of night"..... Hawthorne 1164
Song, "Sing the old song, amid the sounds dispersing." de Vere 866
Song, "Something calls and whispers"..... G. G. King 1703
Song, "Song is so old." Hagedorn 674
Song, "Stay, stay at home, my heart, and rest"... Longfellow 3232
Song, "Take it, love" Richard Le Gallienne 510
Song, "The linnet in the rocky dells"..... Emily Brontë 1096
Song, "The merchant to secure his treasure"...Matthew Prior 720
Song, "The moth's kiss, first" Robert Browning 688
Song, "The peach is pink with such a pink"....Norman Gale 574
Song, "The shape alone let others prize"..... Mark Akenside 537
Song, "The year's at the spring" Robert Browning 1333
Song, "There is many a love in the land, my love"....Miller 693
Song, "There's a woman like a dewdrop"....Robert Browning 1156
Song, "'Tis said that absence conquers love." F. W. Thomas 983
Song, "'Tis sweet to hear the merry lark..... H. Coleridge 1554
Song, "To all you ladies now at land"..... Charles Sackville 935
Song, "Too late, alas! I must confess"..... John Wilmot 612
Song, "Wait but a little while" Norman Gale 1169
Song, "We break the glass whose sacred wine"...E. C. Pinkney 905
Song, "We only ask for sunshine"..... H. H. Whitney 3386
Song, "When daisies pied, and violets blue..... Shakespeare 2019
Song, "When I am dead, my dearest"....Christina Rossetti 1102
Song, "When icicles hang by the wall"....William Shakespeare 2019
Song, "Who has robbed the ocean cave"..... John Shaw 539
Song, "Why so pale and wan, fond lover"....John Suckling 820
Song, "Ye happy swains, whose hearts are free." George Etherege 808
Song, "You'll love me yet!—and I can tarry"..... Browning 637
Song Against Women....Wright 829
Song for All Seas, All Ships Walt Whitman 1584
Song for St. Cecilia's Day, A John Dryden 3112
Song for the Seasons....Procter 1330
Song in March....W. G. Simms 1351
Song My Paddle Sings, The E. Pauline Johnson 1676
Song of Angiola in Heaven Austin Dobson 3202

PAGE

Song of Autumn, A, Rennell Rodd 985
Song of Desire, A...F. L. Knowles 1589
Song of Early Autumn, A, Gilder 1374
Song of Eros from "Agathon" G. E. Woodberry 507
Song of Fleet Street, A..Werner 2597
Song of Glenann, A Moira O'Neill 2605
Song of Living, A..... Burr 3479
Song of Marion's Men..Bryant 2432
Song of Nature. R. W. Emerson 1296
Song of Parting, A Compton Mackenzie 975
Song of Sherman's March to the Sea..... S. H. M. Byers 2512
Song of the Bow, The....Doyle 2241
Song of the Bower, The D. G. Rossetti 903
Song of the Camp, The...Taylor 2285
Song of the Chattahoochee, The Sidney Lanier 1423
Song of the Colorado, The..Hall 2571
Song of the Forest Ranger, The Herbert Bashford 1696
Song of the Four Seasons, A Austin Dobson 797
Song of the King's Minstrel, The Richard Middleton 1056
Song of the Milkmaid from "Queen Mary"....Tennyson 733
Song of the Old Love....Jean Ingelow 1097
Song of the Seasons, A Cosmo Monkhouse 1331
Song of the Shirt, The....Hood 3393
Song of the Silent Land H. W. Longfellow 3456
Song of the Spanish Main, The John Bennett 2381
Song of the Western Men, The R. S. Hawker 2407
Song of Thyrsis.....Freneau 830
Song of Twilight, A...Unknown 297
Song: On May Morning, Milton 1358
Song, that Women are but Men's Shadows.....Ben Jonson 811
Song the Grass Sings, A, Charles G. Blanden 1488
Song the Oriole Sings, The W. D. Howells 1556
Song: the Owl. Alfred Tennyson 1557
Song to a Fair Young Lady, Going out of Town in the Spring John Dryden 934
Song to Amoret, A.....Vaughan 615
Song to Cynthia....Ben Jonson 1320
Song to David.....Smart 3783
Song to the Evening Star Thomas Campbell 1319
Songs Ascending.....Bynner 579
Songs for Fragoletta. Le Gallienne 12
Songs from an Evil Wood Lord Dunsany 2557
The Songs I Sing....Blanden 3085
Songs of Guthrum and Alfred, The..... G. K. Chesterton 2823
Songs of Seven....Jean Ingelow 426
Songs Without Sense. Bret Harte 2065
Sonnet, "Most men know love but as a part of life." Timrod 3036
Sonnet, The, "The Sonnet is a fruit which long hath slept" J. A. Symonds 3108

PAGE

Sonnet, The, "A sonnet is a moment's monument"...Rossetti 3107
Sonnet, The, "What is a sonnet? 'Tis a pearly shell"....Gilder 3107
Sonnet Composed Upon Westminster Bridge....Wordsworth 2597
Sonnet of the Moon, A.....Best 1253
Sonnet on Chillon..Lord Byron 3273
Sonnet, on his having arrived to the age of twenty-three. Milton 359
Sonnets I, II, IV, VI, VIII, XX, from "Mimma Bella"
Eugene Lee-Hamilton 323
Sonnets.....John Masefield 3401
Sonnets XVIII, XXIII, XXIX, XXX, XXXII, XXXIII, LX, LXXI, LXXIII, CIV, CVI, CIX, CXVI, CXXX, CXLVI
William Shakespeare 1246
Sonnets after the Italian, Gilder 1264
Sonnets from the Portuguese, Sonnets I, III, VI, VII, VIII, IX, X, XII, XIV, XVII, XVIII, XXI, XXII, XXVIII, XXXVIII, XLIII
E. B. Browning 1276
Sonnets to Miranda, Sonnets I, II, III, V, VI, VIII...Watson 1271
Sonnet's Voice, The
Theodore Watts-Dunton 3106
Sonnets Written in the Fall of 1914.....Woodberry 2552
Sons of Martha, The, Kipling 3072
Sorrow.....A. T. de Vere 3352
Sorrows of Werther..Thackeray 838
South Country, The....Belloc 2601
Sovereigns, The...Lloyd Mifflin 3105
"Spăcially Jim."..Bessie Morgan 2183
"Spacious Firmament on High, The".....Joseph Addison 3787
"Sparkling and Bright." Hoffman 2007
Spider and the Fly, The. Howitt 176
Spinning.....H. H. Jackson 3467
Spinning in April..J. P. Peabody 1357
Spires of Oxford, The.....Letts 2560
Spirit of Sadness..Le Gallienne 3362
Spirit of Wine, The, W. E. Henley 2013
Splendid Spur, The,
A. T. Quiller-Couch 2959
Spring, "Dip down upon the northern shore"....Tennyson 1338
Spring, "Spring, the sweet Spring, is the year's pleasant king"
Thomas Nashe 1336
Spring, "Spring, with that nameless pathos in the air." Timrod 1344
Spring, The....William Barnes 1347
"Spring is Late, The"..Moulton 3741
Spring Journey, A, A. F. Palmer 1147
Spring Lilt, A.....Unknown 1363
Spring of the Year, The
Allan Cunningham 3561
Spring Passion...J. E. Spingarn 1171
"Spring Returns, The"..Moore 1339
Spring Song.....Bliss Carman 1689
Spring Song in the City
Robert Buchanan 1672
Stabet Mater Dolorosa..da Todi 3821
Stabet Mater Dolorosa, "Stood the afflicted mother weeping"
Abraham Coles 3779
Stains.....Theodosia Garrison 3758

PAGE

Stanzas, "Could Love for ever"
Lord Byron 491
Stanzas, "In a drear-nighted December".....John Keats 3395
Stanzas, "Often rebuked, yet always back returning."..Brontë 2928
Stanzas, "Where forlorn sunsets flare and fade"..W. E. Henley 2862
Stanzas for Music, "There be none of Beauty's daughters"
Lord Byron 546
Stanzas for Music, "There's not a joy the world can give like that it takes away,"...Byron 355
Stanzas from "The Triumph of Time".....A. C. Swinburne 1585
Stanzas written on the Road between Florence and Pisa
Lord Byron 354
Star, The.....Jane Taylor 41
Star Song.....R. U. Johnson 673
Starling's Spring Rondel, A
James Cousins 1337
Star-Spangled Banner, The, Key 2196
Starry Host, The, J. L. Spalding 3729
Stein Song, A....Richard Hovey 1948
Stepping Westward..Wordsworth 398
Stirrup Cup, The.....John Hay 3507
Stolen Kiss, A.....George Wither 683
Stonewall Jackson's Way. Palmer 2288
Storm-Child, The....May Byron 20
Storm Fear.....Robert Frost 1385
Storm Song.....Bayard Taylor 1614
Stormy Petrel, The, B. W. Procter 1572
Story for a Child, A
Bayard Taylor 175
Story of Augustus who would not have any Soup, The, Hoffmann 122
Story of little Suck-a-Thumb, The.....Heinrich Hoffman 123
Straight Road, The. Ellen Hooper 2973
Strictly Germ-proof, Guiterman 2035
Strip of Blue, A..Lucy Larcom 1647
Strong as Death...H. C. Bunner 1080
Strong Hand, A....Aaron Hill 1902
Students .....Wilkinson 1792
Stupidity Street.....Hodgson 3061
Suburb.....Harold Monro 859
"Such is the Death the Soldier Dies".....R. B. Wilson 2317
Sugar-Plum Tree, The
Eugene Field 69
Summer Invocation.....Bennett 1443
Summer is Ended, The, Rossetti 3462
Summer Longings....MacCarthy 1363
Summer Wooing, A....Moulton 1032
Summum Bonum.....Browning 689
"Sun Rises Bright in France, The".....Allan Cunningham 3259
Sunday Evening in the Common
John Hall Wheelock 3059
Sunrise on Mansfield Mountain
Alice Brown 1311
Sunrise on Rydal Water
John Drinkwater 1436
Sunset City, The, H. S. Cornwell 3706
Sunset Wings.....D. G. Rossetti 3375
Superscription, A, D. G. Rossetti 435
Suppose.....A. R. Aldrich 1908
Surface and the Depths, The
Lewis Morris 499
"Surprised by Joy." Wordsworth 3566

	PAGE
Surrender.....A. J. Burr	1166
Sweet and Sour. Edmund Spenser	2837
Sweet Clover.....Wallace Rice	1472
Sweet Innisfallen. Thomas Moore	2607
"Sweet Suffolk Owl"....Vautor	1558
Sweet Wild April....W. F. Stead	1355
Sweet William and May Margaret.....Unknown	2676
Swimmers, The...George Sterling	3194
Sycophantic Fox and the Gullible Raven, The.....G. W. Carryl	1854
Sympathy.....Althea Gyles	923

T

Tables Turned, The, William Wordsworth	1611
Tacking Ship off Shore, Mitchell	1595
"Take Back the Virgin Page" Thomas Moore	623
Take Heart.....E. D. Proctor	3732
"Take, O Take Those Lips Away"...Shakespeare-Fletcher	683
Talented Man, The, W. M. Praed	1807
Tam O'Shanter....Robert Burns	2106
Tantalus—Texas. Joaquin Miller	1007
Te Matyrum Candidatus Lionel Johnson	3751
Tears.....L. W. Reese	2855
"Tears, Idle Tears"..Tennyson	454
Telephone, The....Robert Frost	658
"Tell me, my Heart, if this be Love".....George Lyttleton	535
Telling the Bees..J. G. Whittier	1109
Temple Garlands.....Robinson	442
Temple to Friendship....Moore	832
Tenants.....W. W. Gibson	3218
Tennyson.....T. H. Huxley	3663
Terminus.....R. W. Emerson	410
Ternarie of Littles, A Robert Herrick	1723
Terrible Infant, A Frederick Locker-Lampson	1736
Test, The.....W. S. Landor	831
"Thalatta! Thalatta"....Brown	3499
Thalia.....T. B. Aldrich	1750
Thanatopsis.....W. C. Bryant	3444
Thanksgiving, A, W. D. Howells	2933
Thanksgiving to God for His House, A.....Robert Herrick	3713
That Day You Came.....Reese	660
That Holy Thing....Macdonald	3774
Then.....R. T. Cooke	666
Then Ag'in.....S. W. Foss	1889
Theocritus.....Oscar Wilde	3664
"There is a Green Hill" C. F. Alexander	3812
"There is a Lady Sweet and Kind".....Unknown	523
"There is a Pool on Garda" Clinton Scollard	2623
"There is no Death"..McCreery	3763
"There is None, O None but You".....Thomas Campion	589
"There was a Jolly Miller" Isaac Bickerstaff	163
"There was a little Girl" Unknown	113
"There's Gowd in the Breast" James Hogg	1142
There's Wisdom in Women Rupert Brooke	1055
"They Speak o' Wiles" William Thom	493
"They Went forth to Battle but They Always Fell"....O Sheel	2946
"This is my Hour"..Zoë Akins	1318
"This is my Love for You" Grace Fallow Norton	65
"This World is all a Fleeting Show".....Thomas Moore	3699
Thomas the Rhymer..Unknown	2641
Thoreau's Flute Louisa M. Alcott	3667
Thoughts on the Commandments.....G. A. Baker	806
Three Cottage Girls, The William Wordsworth	334
Three Fishers, The.....Kingsley	1620
Three Kings, The....Longfellow	216
Three Ravens, The....Unknown	2680
Three Seasons.....C. G. Rossetti	452
Three Shadows, D. G. Rossetti	640
Three Sisters, The..A. D. Ficke	1090
Three Sonnets on Oblivion George Sterling	2847
Three Troopers, The, Thornbury	2743
Three Warnings, The....Piozzi	2102
Threescore and Ten..Stoddard	457
Threnody.....Ruth G. Harding	1080
Threnody, A.....G. T. Lanigan	2069
"Thrice Happy He." Drummond	1635
Throstle, The, Alfred Tennyson	1578
Thunderstorms....W. H. Davies	3110
Thysia, Sonnets II, III, VII, XVI, XXIII, XXXVI, XXXVII, XLV, Morton Luce	1273
Tide River, The.....Kingsley	1415
Tiger, The.....William Blake	140
Time and Grief....W. L. Bowles	3352
"Time I've Lost in Wooing, The".....Thomas Moore	729
Time long Past....P. B. Shelley	442
Time to be Wise...W. S. Landor	1709
"Time, You Old Gipsy Man" Ralph Hodgson	2817
Times go by Turns....Southwell	2838
Time's Revenge..Walter Learned	743
Tired Mothers...May R. Smith	321
"'Tis But a Little Faded Flower.....E. C. Howarth	3363
"'Tis the Last Rose of Summer" Thomas Moore	1505
To ——, "One word is too often profaned".....P. B. Shelley	625
To ——, "We met but in one giddy dance"...W. M. Praed	1714
To a Butterfly.....Wordsworth	1517
To a Child.....Wordsworth	125
To a Child of Fancy....Morris	340
To a Child of Quality.....Prior	276
To a Cricket.....W. C. Bennett	1512
To a Friend....Hartley Coleridge	3015
To a Greek Girl...Austin Dobson	347
To a Kiss.....John Wolcot	686
To a Lady Asking Him How Long he Would Love Her George Etherege	594
To a Little Girl....Helen Eden	267
To a Little Girl...Gustav Kobbé	267
To a Mountain Daisy....Burns	1474
To a Mouse.....Robert Burns	1507
To a New-born Baby Girl Grace Hazard Conkling	5

	PAGE
To a New Born Child Cosmo Monkhouse	9
To a New York Shop-Girl Dressed for Sunday Branch	3021
To a Pair of Egyptian Slippers Edwin Arnold	1762
To a Poet a Thousand Years Hence J. E. Flecker	3101
To a Skylark, "Ethereal minstrel! pilgrim of the sky" William Wordsworth	1566
To a Skylark, "Hail to thee, blithe spirit" P. B. Shelley	1569
To a Skylark, "Up with me! up with me into the clouds" William Wordsworth	1565
To a Snow-flake Thompson	1391
To a Swallow Building under our Eaves J. W. Carlyle	1573
To a Waterfowl W. C. Bryant	1582
To a Wind-Flower Cawein	1503
To a Wood-Violet J. B. Tabb	1503
To a Young Lady Cowper	332
To Ænone Robert Herrick	595
To Age W. S. Landor	406
To Althea, from Prison Lovelace	605
To Amarantha that She would Dishevel Her Hair Lovelace	533
To America Alfred Austin	2226
To an Early Primrose White	1496
To an Inconstant Robert Ayton	809
To an Insect O. W. Holmes	1512
To an Oriole Edgar Fawcett	1557
To Anne William Maxwell	692
To Anthea, who may Command Him Anything. Robert Herrick	595
To Anthea, who may Command Him Anything (New Style) Alfred Cochrane	1755
To Arcady C. B. Going	664
To Autumn John Keats	1375
To Blossoms Robert Herrick	1504
To Celia, "Drink to me only with thine eyes" Ben Jonson	591
To Celia, "Not Celia, that I juster am" Charles Sedley	610
To Celia, "When, Celia, must my old day set Charles Cotton	609
To Charlotte Pulteney Philips	273
To Chloe William Cartwright	603
To Chloe Jealous Matthew Prior	766
To Chloris Charles Sedley	720
To Critics Walter Learned	366
To Cynthia on Concealment of her Beauty Francis Kynaston	529
To Daffodils Robert Herrick	1474
To Daisies Francis Thompson	1479
To Daisies, not to Shut so Soon Robert Herrick	1477
To Daphne Walter Besant	568
To Death Anne Finch	3407
To Delia, Sonnets VI, XII, XXX, XXXVI, XXXIX, XLV, XLVI, L, LI. Samuel Daniel	1239
To Diane H. H. Whitney	1128
To Dianeme Robert Herrick	816
To Each His Own, M. R. Garvin	3363
To Electra Robert Herrick	684
To England H. G. Boker	2225
To F. C. Mortimer Collins	1171
To Fancy John Keats	3166
To Fanny Thomas Moore	1711
To Flavia Edmund Waller	600
To Hartley Coleridge William Wordsworth	275
To Hasekawa Arensberg	2908
To Helen, "Helen, thy beauty is to me" E. A. Poe	551
To Helen, "If wandering in a wizard's car" W. M. Praed	791
To Her—Unspoken. A. J. Burr	1029
To His Coy Love Drayton	586
To His Coy Mistress Marvell	607
To His Forsaken Mistress. Ayton	808
To —— in Church Seeger	581
To Jane: the Invitation, Shelley	1667
To Keep a True Lent Herrick	3745
To Laura W——, two Years Old N. P. Willis	270
To Lesbia, "Give me kisses! Do not stay" J. G. Saxe	690
To Lesbia, "My sweetest Lesbia, let us live and love." Campion	588
To Little Renee W. A. Bradley	6
To Lucasta, Going beyond the Seas Richard Lovelace	933
To Lucasta, Going to the Wars Richard Lovelace	933
To M. E. W. G. K. Chesterton	3482
To Manon W. S. Blunt	851
To Marguerite Matthew Arnold	966
To Mary, "If I had thought thou couldst have died" Wolfe	1082
To Mary, "Thee, Mary, with this ring I wed" Bishop	1225
To Mary in Heaven Burns	1072
To Mary Unwin. William Cowper	1254
To Meadows Robert Herrick	1439
To Minerva Thomas Hood	2048
To Mistress Margaret Hussey John Skelton	329
To Mother Nature. F. L. Knowles	1299
To Music, to Becalm His Fever Robert Herrick	3123
To My Grandmother Frederick Locker-Lampson	1728
To My Inconstant Mistress Thomas Carew	597
To My Love J. G. Saxe	690
To Night, "Mysterious Night! when our first parent knew" J. B. White	1324
To Night, "Swiftly walk o'er the western wave" P. B. Shelley	1323
To One in Paradise E. A. Poe	1105
"To One Who Has Been Long in City Pent" John Keats	1653
To One Who Would Make a Confession W. S. Blunt	1261
To Petronilla H. H. Bashford	343
To Primroses Filled with Morning Dew Robert Herrick	1496
To Rose Sara Teasdale	272
To Roses in the Bosom of Castara William Habington	600
To Silvia Anne Finch	614
To Shakespeare S. T. Coleridge	3652
To Sleep William Wordsworth	3221
To Song T. S. Jones, Jr.	3088
To Spring William Blake	1342
To the Cuckoo. "Hail, beauteous stranger of the grove." Logan	1536

PAGE

To the Cuckoo, "O blithe Newcomer! I have heard" William Wordsworth 1538
To the Daisy . . . . . Wordsworth 1478
To the Dandelion . . J. R. Lowell 1481
To the Dead of '98 . . . . . Johnson 2261
To the Earl of Warwick, on the Death of Mr. Addison. Tickell 3584
To the Fringed Gentian. Bryant 1484
To the Grasshopper and the Cricket . . . . . Leigh Hunt 1510
To the Harpies . . . . A. D. Ficke 3389
To the Man-of-War Bird Walt Whitman 1542
To the Memory of My Beloved Master William Shakespeare Ben Jonson 3650
To the Muses . . . . William Blake 3096
To the Nightingale, "Dear Chorister, who from those shadows sends" . . . Drummond 1548
To the Nightingale, "O nightingale, that on yon bloomy spray" . . . . . John Milton 1551
To the Pious Memory of the Accomplished Young Lady, Mrs. Anne Killigrew . . . John Dryden 3524
To the Poets . . . . . John Keats 3090
To the Rainbow . . . . . Campbell 1444
To the Rose: a Song . . . . Herrick 931
To the Sister of Elia . . . . Landor 3625
To the Small Celandine William Wordsworth 1470
To the Terrestrial Globe . . Gilbert 2075
To the United States of America, Bridges 2562
To the Virginian Voyage Michael Drayton 2384
To the Virgins, to make much of Time . . . . . Robert Herrick 328
To the Western Wind . . . . Herrick 596
To the Willow-Tree . . . . . Herrick 1406
To Violets . . . . . Robert Herrick 1501
To William Sharp . . . . . Scollard 3654
To Woman . . . . . Lord Byron 834
To Youth . . . . . W. S. Landor 354
Toccata of Galuppi, A Robert Browning 3133
To-day, "So here hath been dawning" . . . . . Thomas Carlyle 2920
To-day . . . . . B. R. C. Low 663
To-day, "Why fear to-morrow, timid heart" . . . L. A. C. Ward 2932
Todlin' Hame . . . . . Unknown 2009
Toil of the Trail, The . . . . Garland 1684
Tom Bowling . . . . Charles Dibdin 1628
Tom Dunstan . . Robert Buchanan 3018
Tom o' Bedlam . . . . . Unknown 3142
Tom Thumb's Alphabet Unknown 60
Tommy's Dead . . . Sydney Dobell 3542
To-morrow . . . . . John Collins 402
Too Candid by Half . . . . . Saxe 1909
Too Late . . . . . D. M. M. Craik 1099
Touch-stone, The, Samuel Bishop 826
Toujours Amour. C. E. Stedman 793
Toys, The . . . . . Coventry Patmore 296
Tragedy, A, "Among his books he sits all day," Edith Nesbit 1019
Tragedy, A, "She was only a woman, famished for loving" Théophile Marzials 1040

PAGE

Tragic Story, A . . . . . Thackeray 2049
Traveller's Hope Charles Granville 3478
Tree, The . . . . . Jones Very 1403
Trees . . . . . Joyce Kilmer 1407
Tribute, The . . Coventry Patmore 386
Trifle, A . . . . . Henry Timrod 654
Triolet, "All women born are so perverse" . . . . . Robert Bridges 1903
"Tripping Down the Field-Path" . . . . . Charles Swain 870
Triumph of Forgotten Things, The . . . . . Edith M. Thomas 449
Triumph of Time, The, Stanzas from . . . . . A. C. Swinburne 1585
Toia Fuit . . . . . R. W. Kauffman 441
Troop of the Guard, A. Hagedorn 3062
Tropical Town . . . . . de la Selva 3374
Trosachs, The . . . . . Wordsworth 1430
Trot, Trot . . . . . Mary F. Butts 84
True Beauty. Francis Beaumont 811
Truly Great . . . . . W. H. Davies 1644
"Trusty, Dusky, Vivid, True" R. L. Stevenson 394
"Truth Doth Truth Deserve" Philip Sidney 1212
Tryst, A . . . . . L. C. Moulton 1111
Tryste Noël . . . . . L. I. Guiney 209
Tucking the Baby in . Curtis May 93
Tuft of Flowers, The Robert Frost 3074
Turkish Legend, A, T. B. Aldrich 2845
Turn o' the Year . . . . . Tynan 1332
Turn of the Road, The . A. R. Coe 1158
Turtle and Flamingo, The, Fields 2058
Twa Corbies, The . . . . . Unknown 2680
Twa Sisters, The . . . . . Unknown 2648
'Twas Ever Thus . . . H. S. Leigh 1930
Twenty Years Ago . . . . . Huston 469
Twickenham Ferry Théophile Marzials 761
Twilight, "Spirit of Twilight through your folded wings" Olive Custance 1317
Twilight, "When I was young the twilight seemed too long" A. M. F. Robinson 420
Twilight at Sea . . . . . Welby 1317
Twilight Song . . . E. A. Robinson 3011
Twins, The . . . . . H. S. Leigh 2068
Two April Mornings, The William Wordsworth 3564
Two Hundred Years Ago W. H. Drummond 2031
Two in the Campagna. Browning 882
Two Lovers, The, "The lover of her body said," Richard Hovey 1044
Two Lovers, "Two lovers by a moss-grown spring" . . . . . Eliot 1204
Two Mysteries, The . . . . . Dodge 3570
Two Triolets. Harrison Robertson 1783
Two Villages, The, R. T. Cooke 3442

U

Ulysses . . . . . Alfred Tennyson 3179
Unbelief . . . . . E. Y. Case 3762
Under My Window . . . . Westwood 258
"Under the Greenwood Tree" William Shakespeare 1636
Under the Leaves . . . . . Leighton 1401
Under the Lindens . W. S. Landor 1710

PAGE

Unity.....Alfred Noyes 670
Universal Prayer.....Pope 3788
Unkindness.....George Herbert 3722
Unmanifest Destiny.....Hovey 2209
Unseen Spirits.....N. P. Willis 1032
Unthrift.....Coventry Patmore 384
Until Death.....Elizabeth Akers 1116
Up at a Villa—Down in the City
Robert Browning 1865
Up-hill.....C. G. Rossetti 3415
Upon Julia's Clothes.....Herrick 529
Upon Lesbia—Arguing. Cochrane 1754
Upper Chamber, An, Bannerman 3748
Urania.....Matthew Arnold 639
Urbs Beata Hierusalem Unknown 3826
Urbs Syon Aurea
Bernard of Cluny 3824
Urceus Exit.....Austin Dobson 1782
Ursula.....R. U. Johnson 576
Useful Plow, The,.....Unknown 1653

V

V. D. F.....Unknown 2326
Vagabond, The, R. L. Stevenson 1674
Vagabond Song, A.....Carman 1689
Vagabonds, The,.....Trowbridge 3340
Vain Virtues.....D. G. Rossetti 2866
Valediction, A...E. B. Browning 960
Valerius on Women...Heywood 818
Valley of Vain Verses, The
Henry Van Dyke 2933
Valor of Ben Milam, The
Clinton Scollard 2457
Vampire, The, Rudyard Kipling 1045
Van Elsen.....F. G. Scott 3574
Vanquished.....F. F. Browne 3609
V-a-s-e, The.....J. J. Roche 1886
Vendor's Song, Adelaide Crapsey 3109
Veni, Creator Spiritus, "Creator Spirit, by whose aid." Dryden 3782
Veni, Creator Spiritus, "Veni, Creator Spiritus"
St. Gregory the Great (?) 3823
Veni, Sancte Spiritus, "Come, Holy Ghost! thou fire divine"
Catharine Winkworth 3780
Veni, Sancte Spiritus, "Veni, Sancte Spiritus"
Robert II of France 3822
Venice, "I stood in Venice, on the Bridge of Sighs"
Lord Byron 2618
Venice, "Venice, thou Siren of sea-cities, wrought"
J. A. Symonds 2619
Venus' Runaway....Ben Jonson 479
Vers la Vie.....Arthur Upson 2856
Vers Nonsensiques...du Maurier 2087
Verse, "Past ruined Ilion Helen lives".....W. S. Landor 3089
Verses, "I am monarch of all I survey".....William Cowper 3038
Verses on a Cat. Charles Daubeny 1822
Verses Placed Over the Door at the Entrance into the Apollo Room at the Devil Tavern
Ben Jonson 1988
Very Old Song, A.....Laird 1051
Veteran of Heaven, The
Francis Thompson 3770
Vicar, The.....W. M. Praed 1715

PAGE

Vicar of Bray, The....Unknown 1835
Village Blacksmith, The
H. W. Longfellow 2916
Villanelle of His Lady's Treasures
Ernest Dowson 576
Villon's Ballade...Andrew Lang 1858
Villon's Straight Tip to all Cross Coves.....W. E. Henley 1857
Vine, The.....James Thomson 487
Violet, The, "Down in a green and shady bed." Jane Taylor 106
Violet, The, "O faint, delicious, spring-time violet".....Story 1502
Violet and the Rose, The
Augusta Webster 1503
Virginians of the Valley, The
F. O. Ticknor 2223
Virtue.....George Herbert 3720
Vision of Belshazzar, The, Byron 2328
Visit from St. Nicholas, A
C. C. Moore 221
Visitor, The.....Chalmers 247
Vitæ Summa Brevis Spem Nos Vetat Incohare Longam
Ernest Dowson 3404
Vivamus, Mea Lesbia...Catullus 3827
Vixi.....Unknown 3221
Vobiscum est Iope.....Campion 850
Voice, The.....Norman Gale 395
"Voice by the Cedar Tree, A"
Alfred Tennyson 552
Voice from Galilee, The, Bonar 3810
Voice of Christmas, The
Harry Kemp 3750
Voice of the Grass, The, Boyle 1487
"Voice of the Western Wind"
E. C. Stedman 446
Voice of Toil, The.....Morris 3017

W

Wacht am Rhein, Die
Max Schneckenburger 3833
Waiting.....John Burroughs 3405
Wake, Lady.....Joanna Baillie 698
Waking Year, The....Dickinson 1332
Waldeinsamkeit. R. W. Emerson 1398
Walrus and the Carpenter, The
Lewis Carroll 2062
Wanderer, The...Austin Dobson 868
Wander-Lovers, The.....Hovey 1686
Wandering Knight's Song, The
J. G. Lockhart 626
Wanderlust.....Gerald Gould 1679
Warden of the Cinque Ports, The
H. W. Longfellow 3770
Warren's Address. John Pierpont 2428
Warrior Maid, The, A. H. Branch 2821
Washers of the Shroud, The
J. R. Lowell 2488
Waste Places, The
James Stephens 2819
Wastrel, The, R. W. Kauffman 440
Watch on the Rhine, The
Max Schneckenburger 2269
Watcher, The...James Stephens 1089
Water Lady, The, Thomas Hood 869
Waterloo.....Aubrey De Vere 2452
Way, The.....S. H. Moore 2973
Way of It, The....J. V. Cheney 1049
Way, the Truth, and the Life, The.....Theodore Parker 3730

	PAGE
Under the Portrait of Milton John Dryden	3647
Unguarded A. F. Murray	1455
Wayfarer, The Huntington	2854
"We Are Brethren A'," Nicoll	3035
"We are Seven" Wordsworth	316
"We need not Bid, for Cloistered Cell" John Keble	3747
Weakest Thing, The, Browning	3385
Wearin' o' the Green, The Unknown	2249
Wearyin' fer You Stanton	993
Weather Wisdom Unknown	66
Wedded Bliss C. P. S. Gilman	1898
Weighing the Baby, E. L. Beers	15
Welcome, A, "Welcome, welcome, do I sing" Browne	527
Welcome, The, "Come in the evening, or come in the morning" T. O. Davis	638
"We'll go no more a Roving" Lord Byron	866
Well of St. Keyne, The, Southey	2014
"Were but my Spirit Loosed upon the Air," L. C. Moulton	1262
"Were I as Base as is the Lowly Plain" Joshua Sylvester	1253
"Were My Heart as Some Men's Are" Thomas Campion	590
West-Country Lover, The Alice Brown	669
"Wet Sheet and a Flowing Sea, A" Allan Cunningham	1592
Wharf of Dreams, The, Edwin Markham	3224
What Christ Said Macdonald	3774
"What do we Plant" Abbey	1402
"What does little Birdie say" Alfred Tennyson	150
What is Good J. B. O'Reilly	2918
What is Love John Fletcher	481
"What is to Come" Henley	3422
What Mr. Robinson Thinks J. R. Lowell	1839
What My Lover Said Greene	1149
What of the Darkness Richard Le Gallienne	3515
"What Riches Have You" George Santayana	2907
When S. C. Woolsey	3464
"When as a Lad." Isabel Mackay	356
"When Banners are Waving" Unknown	2279
"When Daffodils begin to Peer" William Shakespeare	1337
"When, Dearest, I but Think of Thee" John Suckling	601
"When Death to Either shall Come" Robert Bridges	1168
"When First I saw Her" G. E. Woodberry	571
"When Good King Arthur Ruled this Land" Unknown	46
"When I am Dead and Sister to the Dust" Elsa Barker	3506
"When I Have Fears" Keats	3488
When I Have Gone Weird Ways J. G. Neihardt	3498
"When I Loved You" Moore	832
"When I Saw You Last, Rose" Austin Dobson	1782
"When I was a Bachelor" Unknown	43
"When I was One-and-Twenty" A. E. Housman	857
"When in the Woods I Wander all Alone" E. Hovell-Thurlow	1399
"When Lilacs Last in the Door-yard Bloomed." Walt Whitman	3630
"When Lovely Woman." Cary	1923
"When Lovely Woman Stoops to Folly" Oliver Goldsmith	1050
"When Molly Smiles" Unknown	725
"When My Beloved Sleeping Lies" McLeod	924
When She Comes Home. Riley	1000
"When Spring Comes Back to England" Alfred Noyes	1348
"When that I was and a Little Tiny Boy" Shakespeare	400
"When the Frost is on the Punkin" J. W. Riley	1381
"When the Grass Shall Cover Me" Ina Coolbrith	1114
When the Great Gray Ships Come In G. W. Carryl	2543
"When the Hounds of Spring" A. C. Swinburne	1339
When the Kye Comes Hame James Hogg	775
"When the Most is Said" M. A. de Vere	3423
When the Sleepy Man Comes C. G. D. Roberts	70
When the Sultan goes to Ispahan T. B. Aldrich	854
"When We are Parted" Hamilton Aidé	987
"When We Two Parted." Byron	952
When will Love Come Beatty	504
"When You are Old" Yeats	636
"Where be You Going, You Devon Maid" John Keats	732
"Where Lies the Land." Clough	3414
Where Love Is Amelia Burr	659
"Where Runs the River" F. W. Bourdillon	2842
"While Shepherds watched their Flocks by Night," Nahum Tate	205
Whisperers, The, W. W. Gibson	3379
White Azaleas. H. McE. Kimball	1467
White Flag, The John Hay	796
White Island, The Herrick	3698
White Jessamine, The Tabb	3549
White Peace, The. William Sharp	2853
White Rose, A, J. B. O'Reilly	657
"Whither is Gone the Wisdom and the Power" Coleridge	3096
Whiting and the Snail, The Lewis Carroll	1934
"Who has Seen the Wind" Christina Rossetti	130
Whole Duty of Children R. L. Stevenson	98
"Why Art Thou Silent" William Wordsworth	1254
Why I Love Her Brome	606
'Why, Lovely Charmer" Unknown	614
Widow, The Allan Ramsay	2020
Widow Machree Samuel Lover	1974
Widow Malone, The Lever	1973

PAGE
Widowhood . . . . . Ingelow 430
Widow's Mite, The
Frederick Locker-Lampson 3554
Wife, The . . . . . Garrison 394
Wife from Fairyland, The
Richard Le Gallienne 1130
Wife of Usher's Well, The
Unknown 2650
Wife to Her Husband, The
Unknown 1216
Wife's Song, A . . . W. C. Bennett 1217
Wild Eden . . . . . G. E. Woodberry 3209
Wild Geese . . Frederick Peterson 1582
Wild Honeysuckle, The
Philip Freneau 1488
Wild Ride, The . . . . L. I. Guiney 3475
Wild Roses . . . . . Edgar Fawcett 1498
Wild Wishes . . . . . E. M. Hewitt 664
William Blake . . . James Thomson 3589
Willie and Helen . . . Hew Ainslie 941
Willie Winkie . . . . William Miller 72
Willow-tree, The . . . . . Thackeray 1936
Willowwood . . . . . D. G. Rossetti 1258
Willy Drowned in Yarrow
Unknown 1061
Willy Reilly . . . . . Unknown 2678
Wind and the Moon, The
George Macdonald 133
"Wind Me a Summer Crown"
Smedley 3388
Windle-Straws . . . . . Dowden 887
Wind's Song, The,
Gabriel Setoun 131
Wind's Way, The . . . . Conkling 3374
Wing Tee Wee . . . J. P. Denison 1803
Winged Worshippers, The
Charles Sprague 3754
Winifreda . . . . . Unknown 1221
Winter: a Dirge . . . Robert Burns 1386
Winter Glass, The . . . . . Cotton 1994
Winter Wish, A . . . . . Messinger 2011
Wisdom . . . . . F. M. Hueffer 512
Wise . . . . . L. W. Reese 3387
Wisdom of Folly, The . . . . Fowler 2045
Wish, A, "I ask not that my bed of death" . . . . . Matthew Arnold 3459 Wish, A, "Mine be a cot beside the hill" . . . . . Samuel Rogers 1634 Wish, The, "Well, then, I now do plainly see" . . Abraham Cowley 1655
Wishes to His Supposed Mistress
Richard Crashaw 820
Wishing . . . . . William Allingham 138
Witch in the Glass, The . . . Piatt 157
With a Guitar, to Jane . . Shelley 3126
"With Ships the Sea Was Sprinkled" . . . . . Wordsworth 1589
"With Strawberries" . . . . Henley 1760
Without and Within. J. R. Lowell 1764
Woman, "Not she with traitorous kiss her Saviour stung." Barrett 377 Woman, "There in the fane a beauteous creature stands"
Calidasa 377
Woman with the Serpent's
Tongue, The. William Watson 1908
Woman's Last Word, A
Robert Browning 876
Woman's Love, A . . . . John Hay 1038
Woman's Question, A . . . . Procter 1162
Woman's Shortcomings, A
E. B. Browning 495

PAGE
Woman's Thought, A . . . . Gilder 912
Woman's Will, "Men, dying, make their wills, but wives"
J. G. Saxe 1910
Woman's Will, "That man's a fool who tries by art and skill"
Unknown 1910
Women Folk, The . . . James Hogg 749
Women's Longing . . John Fletcher 1903
Wonderful World, The, Rands 126
Wood Song, A . . . . . Hodgson 1329
Wood-Dove's Note, The, Miller 1583
"Woodman, Spare that Tree"
G. P. Morris 1409
"Woods that Bring the Sunset
Near, The . . . . . R. W. Gilder 1400
"Wooed and Married and A'"
Alexander Ross 746
Wooing Song, from "Christ's Victory" . . . . . Giles Fletcher 476
"Word of God to Leyden Came,
The" . . . . . J. E. Rankin 2386
Word of the Lord from Havana,
The . . . . . Richard Hovey 2535
Wordsworth . . . . . J. K. Stephen 1956
Wordsworth's Grave . . . . Watson 3682
Work without Hope
S. T. Coleridge 3373
World, The, "I saw Eternity the other night" . . Henry Vaughan 3696 World, The, "The World's a bubble, and the life of Man"
Lord Bacon 399
World I am Passing through, The
Lydia M. Child 408
"World is too Much with Us,
The" . . . . William Wordsworth 1292
World's Justice, The . . . . Lazarus 3255
World's Music, The . . . . . Setoun 127
World's Way, The, T. B. Aldrich 1860
"Wouldn't You Like to Know"
J. G. Saxe 734
"Wreathe the Bowl" . . . . Moore 2003
Wreck of the Hesperus, The
H. W. Longfellow 2461
Wreck of the "Julie Plante"
W. H. Drummond 2033
Written at an Inn at Henley
William Shenstone 2988
Written in a little Lady's little
Album . . . . . F. W. Faber 124
Written in March . . . Wordsworth 1352
Written on a Looking-Glass
Unknown 1919
"Wrong Not, Sweet Empress of my Heart" . . . . Walter Raleigh 586
Wynken, Blynken, and Nod
Eugene Field 68

Y

Yak, The . . . . . Oliver Herford 2083
Yankee Doodle . Edward Bangs(?) 2198
Yarn of the "Nancy Bell," The
W. S. Gilbert 2177
Yarrow Unvisited . . . Wordsworth 2584
Yarrow Visited . . . . . Wordsworth 2586
"Yaw, Dot is So" C. F. Adams 2030
"Ye Mariners of England"
Thomas Campbell 2233
Year that's Awa', The, Dunlop 2000
Years . . . . . W. S. Landor 407

	PAGE
Year's End, The, Timothy Cole	425
Yellow Jessamine. C. F. Woolson	1490
"Yes" ..... R. D. Blackmore	1172
Yes ..... H. C. Bunner	804
Young and Old, Charles Kingsley	417
Young Beichan and Susie Pye Unknown	2666
"Young May Moon, The" Thomas Moore	699
Young Windebank ..... Woods	2325
Your Lad, and my Lad.. Parrish	2563
Youth and Age, "Verse, a breeze 'mid blossoms straying" S. T. Coleridge	403
Youth and Age, "Youth hath many charms" George Arnold	421
Youth and Art ..... Browning	880
Youth in Arms ..... Monro	2555

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
0 013 979 271 3